PROLOGIS.

Heere bigynnij þe epystle of saynt Jerom preeft of alle þe bokes of Goddis storye.

Capitulum I.

Broþer Ambrose, to me bi litel ȝiftis perfitli berynge, habrouȝt wiþ and riȝt swete lettres, þe whiche han shewid soþfastnes of now proued feiþ, fro þe bigynnyng of frenshipes, and newe þingis of olde frenship. Verrei forþoþe þat frenship is, and þurȝ þe glew of Crist cowplid, þe which not profit of famylier þing, not prefens oonli of bodies, not grasping and trecherous flateryng, but þe drede of God and þe studies of Goddis scripturys ioynen. We han redde in olde stories, sum men to han vyrounde prouynces, to han gon to new puplis, to han passid þe see, þat hem whom þei han knowun of bokis, myȝten seen verreli present. So Pictagorax to þe filosofers of Memphis, Io Plato to Egipte, and to Archite Tarentyne, and þilk brynk of Itali, þe which sum tyme was feid Grete Grece, ful traeilouſli ȝede; þat he þat in Athenys was a maister and myȝti, and whos doctrine þe stodies of Achademy perfitli fowneden, wolde be maad a pilgrym and a disciple, more wilnyng oþer mennus þingis shamfastli to lernen, þan his owne vnshamfastli 'to prece forþ. Afterward whil he pursueþ fleyng letters as in al þe world, takun of see þeues and fold, also to a ful cruel tiraunt pered, led cheytif, boundun, and þral. Neuerþelater for he was a filosofre, he was more þan his bier. To Tite Lyuy, wellynge wiþ þe mylk welle of faire speche, we han red, summe noble men to han comen fro þe vtmost costis of Spayne and of Fraunſe; and whom Rome drew not to his ſiȝt, 'o mannus fame fulli ledde. Þat age hadde a myracle vnherd, and to alle worldis to ben ofte worshipid, þat þei, gon in so greet a cite, oþer þing wold sechen wiþ ouþe þe cite. Apolony, or þat deuynour, 'or as þe comunte spekiþ, a filosofer, as Pictagorax disciplis tellen, ȝede into Perſes, passid Kaukasoun, Albanus, Scitus, and Maſfegetos, ȝede þurȝ þe molt plenteuows kyngdomes of Inde; and at þe end, þe brodeſt flode of Philon passid, come to Bragmanon, þat Hiearch fittyng in þe golden trone, and drynkyng of þe welle of Tantali, among fewe disciplis techynge of kynde, of maners, of courſe of daies and of sterres, he myȝt heren; fro þens bi Elamytas, Babiloyns, Caldeos, Medos, Affyrios, Parthos, Syros, Phenices, Arabes, Palestyns, turned aȝen to Alisawndre, ȝede to Ethiop, þat he myȝt se þe maiftres of þe studies, and þe molt famows borde of 'þe sonne in grauel. Þat man fonde ouer al þat he miȝte lerne, and þat euermore profitynge, euermore he myȝt be maad better þan hym ſilf. Vpon þis 'Philoſtratus wrote molt fullich in eiȝt volumes.

Capitulum II.

What shal I speke of men of þe world? ſiþ þe apostle Poul, þe vefsel of eleccoun and þe maiſter of Gentilis, þe which of conscience of ſo greet a geſt in hym ſilf ſpak ſeiyng, "wheþer ſechen ȝe expertyment of hym þat ſpekiþ in me Crift," after Damask and Arabe enuyround, ȝede vp to Jerufalem, þat he myȝt ſe Peter, and dwelte wiþ hym fiſtene daies; bi þis forþoþe mysterie of ſeuene and eiȝt þe prechour of Gentilis to comyng was to be enformyd; and eftſones aftir fourtene ȝeer, takun to hym Barnaba and Tyto, expownede wiþ þe apostlis þe euangeli, leſt perauenture in veyn he ſhulde renne, or hadde ronnen. Þe dede of þe quyk vois haþ I not what of hidde inward worchyng, and into þe eris of þe disciple fro þe mouȝt of þe autour þe vois ouerȝotun ſtrengerli ſownep. Wherfor and Eſchyneus, whan he was exylid into Rodi, and was redde þilk orisoun of Demostens, þat aȝens hym he hadde, wondryng alle men and preſyng, ſiȝyng ſeip, "what if þilk beeſt ȝe hadden herd tellinge his owne wordis!"

Capitulum III.

Ne þis Y feye, þat þere be eny þing in me fiche, þat oþer þou myȝtift of me here, or woldift lerne; but wheþer wiþ þi feruour and studie of lernyng, alſo wiþ ouȝt vs, ſhulde be proued bi hem ſilf, a wit able to be tauȝt and wiþ ouȝt techer is preſable. Not what þou fyndift, but what þou fechift, we taken heed. Neshe wax and liȝt to formen, ȝhe, if þe hondis of þe crafti man and of þe fourmer cefen, neuerþeles wiþ ynne þoruȝ vertu is al what 'euere may be. Poul þe apostle at þe feet of Gamaliel glorieþ hym ſilf to haue lernyd þe lawe of Moyſes and þe prophetis, þat he, armed wiþ ſpiryтуal daartis, aftyrward myȝte ſeie triftily, "forþoþe þe armes of our kniȝthode ben not fleiſhli, but myȝti þoruȝ God to þe diſtruccoun of holdis, þat we be deſtruyinge þouȝtis, and al heiȝnes reiſyng eit ſilf aȝens þe kunningyng of God, and chatuyng al vndirſtondyng for to obeishe to Crift, and redi to vndirȝoken al inobeiſhaunce." To Tymothe tauȝt in holi lettres fro childhode he wryteþ, and enorteþ þe studie of leſſoun, leſt he leue of þe grace, þe which is ȝouun to hym bi imposicoun of þe preſtis hond. To Tite he comaundide, among oþer vertues of a biþop, whom in ſhort fermoun he depeyntid, þat kunningyng alſo he leue not of scripturis, "holdynge," he ſeip, "þat fermoun, þe which is aftir doctrine trewe fermoun, þat he be myȝti to myche ſtyre in holſum doctryne, and þe wiþſeieris to wiþſtonde."

Capitulum IIII.

Holi forþoþe cherlhed to hym ſilf alone profiteþ; and as myche as he edifieþ of deſert of liȝt þe chirche of Crift, ſo myche he noieþ if to þe deſtruyers he wiþſtonde not.

Malachie þe prophete, ȝhe, bi Malachye þe Lord, askiþ prestis þe lawe; in so myche þe offis of þe preste is, askid, to answeren 'of þe lawe. And in Deutronomy we reden, "aske þi fadre, and he shal telle þee; þi prestis, and þei shal seie to þee." In þe psalm forsoþe þe hundryd and eiȝtetene, "þi iustifiyngis were to me chauntable in þe place of my pilgrimage." And in þe descripcoun of þe riȝtwisman, whan Dauid comparyfownede hym to a tree of liff þat is in paradise, among oþer vertues þis he brouȝt forþ, "in þe lawe of þe Lord þe wil of hym, and in his lawe he shal benk dai and nyȝt." Daniel in þe ende of þe most holi vissioun seiþ riȝtwise men to shyne as sterrys, and vndirstonders, þat is, tauȝt men, as þe fermament. Pou feest how myche þei ben atwyn, riȝtwise chirlechede and tauȝt ryȝtwisnesse. Oþer men to sterres, oþer men to heuene ben comparisoned; al be it þat, aftir þe trewþe of Ebrew tung, eiper may be vndurstondun of lerned men. Pus we reden anentis hem, "þiilk forsoþe þat weren tauȝt shulen shyne as þe ihynnyng of þe firmament, and þoo þat techen many men to rightwisnes as sterres into perpetuel eternytees." Whi is Poul seid þe vessel of eleccoun? forsoþe for þe vessel of þe lawe, and of holi scripture he was þe almery. Þe Faryfeus ben stonyed in þe doctryne of þe Lord, and wondren in Petre and Joon, how þei kunnen þe lawe, siþ lettres þei lerneden not. What euer forsoþe to oþer men exercisice and ech dai þenkynge in þe lawe was wont to ȝyuen, þat to hem þe Holi Gost tolde, and after þat it is writin, "þei weren Goddis tauȝt men," þat is, able men to liȝtli be tauȝt of God. Twelue zeer þe Saueour hadde fulfillid, and in þe temple sittynge, aþkyng of questiouns of þe lawe more techeþ, whil he prudentli demaundeþ. But perauenture we seyn chirl Petre, and cherl Joon, of whom eiper myȝt seyn, "and if I be vnwise in word, neuerþelater not in kunnyngh." Chirl Jon fissher is vntauȝt; and whens þat vois, Y prey, "In þe first was þe word, and þe word was anentys God, and God was þe word?" Logos in Grece many þingis signifieþ, for whi and word it is, and resoun, and noumbre, and chesoun of eech þing, bi þe which alle þingis ben þat ben; þe which echoon we vndurstonden riȝtli in Crist.

Capitulum V.

Thes þingis tauȝte Plato knewe not; þes þingis Demosteynes þe fayre speker wiste not; "I shal lese," he seiþ, "þe wisdom of wise men, and þe prudence of prudent men Y shal reprouen." Verreye wisdom shal spil þe fals wisdom, and al be it þat þe foli of prechynge be in þe cros, neuerþelater Poul spekiþ wisdom among perfit men; wisdom forsoþe not of þis world, þe which is destryued, ne of princes of þis world; but he spekiþ wisdom of God in mysterie hid, þat God before ordeynede before worldis. Þe wisdom of God Crist is;

"Crist forsoþe is þe vertu of God and þe wisdom of God." Þis wisdom is in mysterie hid, and of þe which þe title of þe nynþe salm is bifore notid, "for þe hid þingis of þe fone," in þe whiche ben alle þe tresoures of wisdom and of þe kunnyngh of God hid; and 'he þat was in mysterie hid, is bifore ordeyned bifore þe worldis; 'bifore ordeyned forsoþe and bifore figuryd in lawe and prophetis. Wherfore and prophetis weren clepid feers, for þei seien hym, whom oþer men seien not. "Abraham lawȝ þe day of hym, and he was glad." Heuenes weren openyd to Ezechiel, þe which weren closid to þe synful puple. "Opene," seiþ Dauid, "myn eiȝen, and I shal biholde þe merueilis of þi lawe." Þe lawe forsoþe is spiritual, and nede it is openyng, þat it be vndirstondun, and wiþ opyn face we biholden þe glorie of God. Þe book in þe Apocalipis is shewid feelid wiþ seuene feelis, which if pou ȝyue to a man kunnyngh letteres þat he rede, he shal answere þee, I may not, it is forsoþe feelid. How feel to dai weneng hem to han knowun letteres, holden þe feelid book, and mown not openen, but if he vnlowke, þat haþ þe keye of Dauid, "þe which openeþ and no man closiþ, closiþ and no man openeþ." In þe Dedis of þe Apostlis þe holi geldyng, ȝhe, þe holi man, so forsoþ hym nemneþ holi writ, whan he shulde rede Ifaye þe prophete, is askid of Philip, "wenest þou, wheþer þou vndirstondist þingis þat þou redeſt?" and he answeride, "how may I, but ony man had tauȝte me." I þat among speke of my filf, am not holier þan his geldyng, ne more studious, þe which from Ethiope, þat is, fro þe vttermoþ cooſtis of þe world, come to þe temple, forsoþe þe kyngis halle, and was so greet a louer of Goddis kunnyngh and lawe, þat in a chare wold reden holy letters; and ȝit whan he shulde hold þe boke, and þe wordis of þe Lord shulde confeyue in his þenkyngh, wiþ tunge shulde turne, wiþ lippis shulde speke, vnkwene hym whom in þe book unwitynge he worshypide. Philip com and shewide hym Jhesu, þe which closed satte pryue in þe lettere. O meruelous vertu of þe doctour! þe same our billeuede þe geldyng, is baptisid, feiȝful and holi, and a maister is maad of a disciple; more fonde in þe desert welle of þe chirche, þan in þe goldun temple of þe synagoge. Pes þingis of me shortli ben fulli writun.

Capitulum VI.

Forsoþe þe epistles streytnes suffryd not lenger þis to ben outstrayed, þat þow myȝtest vnderstonde þee not mown entre in holi scriptures wiþ outen a forgoer and shewynge þe stye. I holde my pees of gramariens and retorikis, filoferis, geometrers, logiſtians, musiſtians, astronomers, astrologerys, fisſtians, whos sciens is ynewȝ, or ful profitable, to deedli men, and in þre partis it is diuidid, in doctrine, resoun, and vſe. I shal com to þe leſſe craftys, and which not oonly wiþ tung, but wiþ honde ben mynystrid; erþe tiliyers, masouns, smyþes of metallis, and hewers of trees, also wulle graþers and fullers, and oþer þat forgen dyuerse purtynauncis to howlis, and fowle little werkis, mowe not be, wiþ outen a techer, þat þat þei coueyten. Lechis bihoten þat þat is of lechis, forgers treten forgeable þingis; þe craft oneli of scripturys is þe which alle challengen to hem pasemel. "We writhen pasemel poyet fawes, of tauȝt and of untauȝt." Þis craft of scripturys þe olde chaterynge damme, þis þe dotid olde man, þis þe sofistre ful of wordis, þis alle presumen, to-teren, techen or þei lernen. Oþer, wiþ þe brow born down, weiyng greet wordis, among ȝong wymmen philosofien of holi lettres. Oþer lernen of wymmen þat is shame þat þat þei techen men; and wheþer þis be litle, wiþ a maner liȝtnes of wordis, ȝee and hardynes, shewen out to oþer, þat þei vndurstonden not. I holde my pees of liȝk to me, þe which þouȝ perauenture comen after seculer lettris to holi scripturis, and wiþ a feir sermoun deliten þe eeris of þe puple, what euere þei seiyn, þei wenent it be þe lawe of God, ne þei dedeynen to know what þe prophetis, what þe apostlis feleden; but to her owne cense shapen vncouenable witnesse, as þouȝ it were greet, and not vicyous maner of seiying, to deprave sentensis, and to drawe at þer wil holi writ repugnyng. As þouȝ we had not red þe bokys drawun out of Omere, and of Virgile, and not so also and Maronem we mowe seyn cristen wiþ outen Crift, for he wroot, "Now turneþ aȝen and þe mayden, turnun aȝen Saturnus rewmes, nowe þe newe kynrede is sent down fro þe heiȝe heuene," and þe fadre spekinge to þe sone, "sone, my strengþes, my greet power aloon;" and after, þe wordis of þe Sauour in þe cros, "fiche þingis he ȝaue hauyngre mynde, and fichid he dwelt." Childishe ben þes þingis, and like to þe pleyn of childeren pleynge in þe ferclie, to teche þat þou knowist not; ȝhe, and þat I speke wiþ indignacoun, foli is þat not forsoþe to knowe þat þou knowist not.

Capitulum VII.

It is leueful to se, þat 'þe storie of Genesis 'be ful knowin, in þe which of þe creature of þe world, of þe bigynnyng of mankynde, of þe deuyſioun of þe erþe, of þe confusioun of tungis and of folkis, and of descendyng of þe folk of Ebrew vnto Egyp, and vnto þe goyng out is writun. Exodus is open wiþ þe ten plagis, wiþ þe ten heftis, wiþ mystik, and wiþ Goddis preceptis. Prest is þe book of Leuy, in þe which alle sacrificyes, ȝhe, and almost alle filablis, and þe cloþis of Aron, and þe hole ordre of Leuy, enspiren heuenli sacramentis. Numeri forsoþe, wheþer þei conteynen not þe 'mysteries of al þe hole craft of nouembrarie, and of prophecie of Balaam, and of þe two and fourti mansiouns þurȝ wildernes? Deutronomy forsoþe þe secounde lawe, and þe prefiguracoun of þe lawe of þe euangelie, haþ he not so þilk þingis, þat ben raþer, þat neuereþeles alle þingis ben newe of þe olde? Hider to Moyfes, 'hider to Pentateuchon, þat is, þe fyue bokis, wiþ þe which fyue wordis þe apostle glorieþ hym silf wilne to speke in þe chirche. Job, þe sawmpler of pacience, þe which wheþir not mysteries wiþ his word knytteþ? In proos he bigynneþ, in verse he goþ forþe, in word a fote, þat is, in meke word, he is endid; and he determyneþ alle þe lawes of dialatik, in proposicoun, assumpcoun, confirmacioun, conclusioun. Ech wordis in it ben ful of wittis; and, þat I holde my pees of oþer, þe resurreccoun of bodies so profecieþ, þat no man of þat, opere more open, or more flyly, myȝt wryte. "I wote," he seiþ, "þat my forbier lyueþ, and in þe last dai Y am to aryse fro þe erþe; and eftsones I shal be enuyround wiþ my fel, and in my flehs Y shal se God, my Sauour, whom Y my silf am to se, and myn eiȝen ben to biholden, and noon opere. Þis is myn hope put vp into my bosum." Y shal com to Jhesu of Naue, þe which beriþ þe figure of þe Lord, not oonli in gestis, but also in name. He passiþ Jordan, þe rewmes of enemyes turneþ vpsedoun, he deuydeþ þe erþe to þe purple ouercomer, and bi alle cytees, villagis, hillis, and flodis, rennyng watres, and þe nyȝ coostis he discriuede of þe chirche, and of þe heuenli Jerusalēm þe spiritual rewmes. In þe book of Juges how feel princes of þe puple, so feel figurys þere ben. Ruth Moabites fulfilliþ þe prophecie of Ysaie seiynge, "Lord, sende out þe lomb, þe lordshiper of erþe, fro þe stoon of desert to þe mownt of þe dowȝter of Syon." Samuel shewiþ þe old lawe don awey in Heli deed, and in þe flaȝter of Saul. Forsoþe in Sadok and Dauid ben witnessid þe sacramentis of þe new preþthod, and of new empyre. Malachym, þat is, þe brid and þe ferþe book of Kynges, discryueþ þe rewme of Juda, and þe rewme of Israel, fro Salomon to Jecony, and fro Jeroboam, sone of Nabath, vnto Osee, þe which was led into Asyries. If þow biholdist þe storye, þe wordis ben symple; if in þe lettres þow biholdist þe preuey witt, þe fewnesse of þe chirche, and þe batails of eretikis aȝens þe chirche, ben told. Þe twelue prophetis, togidre artid into þe narewnes of o volym, myche opere þan sowneþ in þe lettore before figuren. Osee often nemneþ Effraym, Samary, Joseph, Jezrael, and þe fornycary wijf, and þe sonis of fornycacoun, and þe auowtres closid in þe bed of þe husbond to setten myche tyme wydow, and vndir þe mornyng cloþ of þe husbond to abide þe comyng aȝen to hir. Joel, þe sone of Phatuel, discryueþ þe lond of þe twelue lynagis waſtid þurȝ þe wort worm, bruk, loculfe, þurȝ rust wastynge; and after þe outturnyng of þe raþer puple, þe Holi Gost shed out vpon þe seruauntis of God and hond maydenes, þat is, vpon an hundred and twenty names of bileuers, and þe funne shynynge like a reynbow held outh in þe comune etyng place of Syon, þe whiche hundred and twenti, fro oon vnto fyftene, arawe and bi encrees aryfyng, maken oute þe noumbre of þe fyftene grees, þe whiche in þe Sawter ben mystili conteyned. Amos, s/hepherd and cherl, and wel knowyng þe beries of bussis, may not be openyd in fewe wordes. Who forsoþe worpili may shew out þe þre and foure wickidnessis of Damask, of Gaze, of Tyrr, of Ydume, of þe sones of Amon, and of Moab, and, in þe seuenþ and eiȝte degré, of Juda and of Israel? Þis spekiþ to be fatt kien, þat ben in þe mownt of Samarie, and witnessiþ þe more hows and þe lesse to fallen. He feþ þe maker of þe locust, and þe Lord stondyng vpon þe dawbed wal and þe adamauntyn, and þe appell croke drawynge tourmentis to synful men, and hunger in þe erþe, not hunger of bred, ne brist of water, but of heryng of þe word of God. Abdias, þat is as myche to seie as þe seruaunt of þe Lord, ful þundreþ aȝens Edom, and þe blodi and erþli broþer; also þe euermore enemye of þe broþer Jacob, he smytþ wiþ a goostli dart. Jonas, þe moost fayre culuer, in his shipbreche bifore figuryng þe passioun of þe Lord, clepiþ aȝen þe world to penaunce, and, vndir name of Nynyue, telliþ helþe to Gentils. Micheas of Moraschym, þe wiþeire of Crist, telliþ þe waſtynge of a dowȝter of a priue þef, and he settiþ bisegyng aȝens hire, for she smote þe cheke bone of þe iuge of Israel. Naum, coumfortour of þe world, blameþ þe citee of blodis, and after his turnyng awey spekiþ, "Loo, vpon þe hillis þe fete of þe euangelynge and tellyng pees." Abacuc, a strong wristeler and a sharp, stondiþ vpon his waard, and fisched a weie of grees vpon þe strengþe, þat Crijt in cros he biholde, and seie, "þe glorie of hym coueride heuenes, and of hys preisying ful is þe erþe; his shynyngh shal be as liȝt, and hornes in his hondis, þere his strengþe is hid." Sophonyas, þe wayter and þe knower of þe priuetees of þe Lord, heriþ a cry fro þe ȝaat of fiffhes, and ȝellynge fro þe secound, and contricoun fro little hillis; he telliþ also þe crie of weilynge to be dwellers of Pile; for al þe puple of Chanaan helde his pees togidre, and echon ben disparpulid, þat weren inlappid wiþ filuer. Aggeus, solempne and glad, þe whiche fewe in teres þat he repe in ioy, edifieþ þe temple diſtruyed, and lediþ in God þe fadre spekinge, "ȝit and a litle while and Y shal moue to gider heuene and erþe, þe see and þe drye, and I shal moue al folk, and þe desyred shal com to al folk." Zachary, mynde of his Lord, manyfold in profesie, Jhefus cloþid wiþ fowle clothes, and þe stoon of seuene eȝen, and þe goldun candilstik wiþ as feel lanternes as eȝen, and two olyues fro þe left syde of þe lawmpe he biholdiþ, and fro þe riȝt fide; þat after þe reed horſis specked whiþ, and scatered plowes of fowre horſis of Effraym, and þe hors of Jerusalem, he prophecie þe pore kyng, and preche þe kyng fittyng vpon þe colt, fone of þe she affe vſed to ȝok. Malachi, apertlich and in þe ende of alle prophetis, of þe castyng out of Israel and þe clepyng of Gentilis seþ, "Wil is not to me in ȝow, seþ þe Lord of oostis, and ȝift shal I not take of ȝoure honde; fro þe funne aryfyng vnto þe goyng down greet is my name in Gentilis, and a clene offryng is sacrificed, and offrid to my name in alle places." Ysaie, Jereme, Ezechiel, and Danyel, who may oþer vndirſtond or expown? Of whom þe firſt is not feyn to me to weuen prophecie, but euangelie. þe ſecounde knytiþ þe note ȝerde, and þe pot a fier fro þe face of þe norþ, and þe leparde ſpuylide his colours, and þe foure fold abice in dyuerſe metres. þe þrid haþ bigynnyngis and ende wiþ so feel derknessis enuolued, þat, as anentis þe Ebewis, þilk partis wiþ þe bigynnyng of Genesis ſhulde not be rad bifore þretti wynter. þe ferþe forſoþe, þe which and þe laſte among þe foure prophetis, knower of tymes, a louer of ſtories of al þe world, eer bifore telliþ þe ſtoon before kit of þe hil wiþ outen hondis, and al rewmes ſhuertyng, wiþ a clere ſermoun. Dauid, oure Symphonydes, Pyndarie, and Alcheus, Flaccus, and Catullus, and Serenus, precheþ Crist wiþ þe harp, and in þe ten 'cordid ſawtri arereþ vp þe arifer fro helle. Salomon, þe peſible and þe ful loued of þe Lord, mendip maneres, tecþiþ kynde, ioyneþ Crist and þe chirche, and þe fwete bryde ſong ſingiþ of þe holi brydalis. Hester, in figure of þe chirche, delyueriþ þe puple fro peril, and, Aman, þat is as myche to fey as wyckidnes, flawn, she ſendip partis of þe feest, and a solempne day into þe after geten. Perlipomynon, þat is, þe book of þe olde instrument, recapitulatour, word bregger, is ſuche and so myche, þat who ſo euere wiþ outen it wole prowldi take to hym kunnynge of ſcriptures, ſcorne he hym ſilf; forſoþe be alle names 'o rewe, and ioynters of wordis, outlaſt ſtories in þe boke of Kyngis ben towched, and queſtions vnnoumbrable of þe euangelye ben maad open. Esdras and Neemy, helper, þat is to fey, and coumfortour fro þe Lord, ben artyd in o volume, enſtoren þe temple, þe walles of þe citee maken out, and al þat congregacoun of þe puple aȝengoyng into her cuntry, and þe discripcoun of prestis, of deknes, of Israel, and of men takun fro heþenes to þe ryte of Jewis, and þe deuydid werkis of walles and of toures bi ſingular meynes, bryngen forþ oper byng in þe rynde, and in þe mergh oþer bing wiþholden. Seeft þow me for þe loue of ſcripturys rauyſhid to haue paſſid þe maner of a piſtle, and ȝit not haue fillid þat I wolde? We han herd oonlich, what we mowe know, what coueyten, and forſoþe þat we mowe fey, "my foule coueytide to desire þi justyfyngis in al tyme." Forþermore þat of Socrates is fulſyllid in vs, "þis oonli Y knowe þat Y knowe not." I shal towche and ſhortly þe newe testament. Mathew, Mark, Luke, and Joon, þe foure hors plowes of þe Lord, and þe verrey cherubyn, þat is to fey, plente of kunnyngh, þoruȝ out al þe bodi ben iȝed, ſparklis shynen out, liȝtes hidir and þidir rennen, han riȝt feet and ſtreychyng into heiȝe, rigges feþered, and holden hem to gidre ouer al fleynge, and to hem siluen ben þurȝ out pleitid, and as a wheel wiþ ynne a wheel ben turned, and gon whidre euer þe breeþ of þe Holi Gooſt hem perfity lediþ. Poul þe apostle writiþ to feuene chirches; þe eiȝt forſoþe to Ebreyis of summe men out of þe noumbre is put. Tymothe he enfourmep, and Tite; Philomon he preieþ for þe seruaunt fugitife, vpon þe whiche I wene beter to be ſtil, þan to few þingis write. Þe Actes of þe Apoftlis forſoþe nakid ſtorye ſemen to ſownen, and to weuen þe childhood of þe waxyng chirche; and for we knownen þe wryter of hem Luke to ben a phisician, whos preyſyng is in þe euangelie, we taken hede þere wiþ alle his wordis to ben medecyn of þe langwifſyng foule. James, Petre, Joon, Jude, feuene epiftis maden as wel miſtik as redi, and ſhort togidre, and long; ſhort in wordis, long in ſentencis, þat he be ſeldom, þat not wexeþ blynd in þe redyng of hem. Þe Apocalips of Joon ſo fele haþ ſacramentis, how fele wordis. Little Y haue ſeid, and for þe defert of þe volym, al þe preyſyng is þe lower; in euery wordis manyfold vnderſtondyngis ſitten hid. I prey þee, dere broþer, among þeſe þingis to lyuen, þeſe þingis to þenken, noon obre þingis to knowun, and no þing ellis to fechen. Semeþ it not to þee now here in erþis a dwellyng place of heuenli kyngdom? I wole not, þat þou be offendid in holi ſcripturis þurȝ ſymplices, and as þurȝ foulnes of wordis, þe whiche, or þurȝ þe vice of þe vndoers, or of verrey purpose, ben ſo ſpokun, þat þe liȝtloker þei myȝten enfourme a churliſhe cumpany; and þat in oon and þe fame ſentence oper wife þe tauȝt, obre wife þe vntauȝt myȝten fele. I am not ſo luſtſum and dul, þat I ſhulde bihote þes þingis me to know, and þe fruytis of hem to gadere in þe erþe, whos rotis ben ficchid in heuene; but I knowelech to wiln, but I professe me to enforſe, I profer me to þe ſitter; forſakynge mayſter Y bihote a leder, "to þe aſker me ȝyueþ, to þe knocker me openeþ, þe ſeker fyndiþ;" lerne we in erþis whos nyng to vs dwelliþ in heuene. I ſhal take þee wiþ met hondis aȝens obre, and þat I heelde out ſum what vncouenably þat be of þe bolnyng of Ermagore, what euer þou ſhulde ſeek wiþ þee, I ſhal enforle to kunne.

Capitulum VIII.

Thou haſt here þe mooſt louyd broþer of þee Eusebi, þe which dowblid to me þe grace of þi lettres, tellynge þe honeſtee of þi maners, þe diſpisyng of þe world, þe feiþ of frenſhip, þe loue of Crift; for prudence and fayrmes of ſpeche alſo wiþ outer hym þilke epiftle tolde before. Hye, Y prey þee, and þe corde of þe boot dwellyng in þe ſee raper kut of, þan vnbynd; no man to renounſe þe world, wel may ſelle þingis þat he haþ diſpifid for to ſelle. What euer into þi coſtagis of þin þow takeſt, cownte it for wynnyng; in olde maner it is ſeid, to an auerowſe man lackiþ, as wel þat þat he haþ, as þat þat he haþ not; to hym þat bileueþ al þe world of richeſſis is, forſoþe, an vnfeiþful man, ȝhe, nediþ an half peny. So lyue we, as no þing hauynge and alle þingis holdynge in poſſeſſioun; lyuelod and cloþing ben richeſſis of criſten men. If þow haſt in þi power þi þing, felle; if þow haſt not, caſt a wey; to hym þat takiþ a wey þi coote, þe mantil is to be laſt.

And but þow euermore makyng aȝen moru fro moru, and drawyng day fro day, fleȝli fote bi fote þow fille þi little poſſeſſiouns, haþ not Crift wheroſ his pore men he fede? Al he haþ ȝyuen to God, þat offride hym ſilf.
Þe apoftlis oonli forſoken þe boot and þe nettis; þe widwe putte two mytis into þe treſorye of God, and it is put biſore þe richeſſis of Creſſi. Liȝtli he diſpifiþ alle þingis, þe whiche hym ſilf euermore þenkiþ to be to dien.

Capitulum IX.

I haue takun deſired epiftis of my man Desiderie, þe which, þurȝ a maner biſore kunnyng of þingis þat ben to com, wiþ Danyel is fallen þe name of hym, preiynge, þat I ſhulde take to þe erys of ourne þe fyue bokis of Moyses tranſlatid fro Ebrewe ſpeche into Latyn tung. Certeyn a perylous werk, open to þe berkyngis of backbyters, þat ſeyn me to forgen new þingis for olde into þe stranglyng of þe ſeuenti interpretours, ſo wit as wyn prouing; ſiþ Y ful oft haue wiþneſſid me to offre in þe tabernacle of God for a liȝt porcoun þingis þat I may, ne þe richeſſis of an obre man to be defowlid wiþ þe porenes of obre. Þe which þing þat I ſhulde dore don, me ſtrydyde þe ſtudie of Orygen, þe which to olde tranſlacoun mengide þe tranſlacoun of Theodoſioun, wiþ aftericho, þat is, wiþ þe ſigne of a 'ſterre, whan he makid clere þe þingis þat weren to little, and wiþ obelo, þat is, wiþ ſigne of an arow, whan he any waſt þing diſtroieþ and ſcrapiþ a wey, al his werk markyng; and mooſt þo þingis þe whiche þe autoryte of þe apoftlis and of þe euangeliftis openyde; in þe which many þingis we reden of þe olde testament, þe whiche ben not had in oure bokis; as is þat, "fro Egipt I clepid my fone;" and, "for he ſhal be clepid Nazare;" and, "men thal ſeen, in whom þei han pungid;" and, "flodis thal flowe of his womb quyk watress;" and, "þingis þat neþer eiȝe ſeiȝ, ne eere herde, ne in to þe herte of man ſtiede, þat God greiþid to hem þat hym louen;" and many obre þingis, þe whiche defyren propre ordre. Afke we banne hem, where þes þingis ben wrytun; and whanne þei mown not feye, of þe bokis of Ebrewe bryngwe forþe. Þe firſt witnes is in Oſee, þe ſecounde in Yſaye, þe þrid in Zacharye, þe ferþe in Prouerbis, þe fifte as wel in Yſaye; þe whiche many men vñknowyng folwen þe deceyuyngis of scripturys, whos autor is vñknowun, and ſetten before, Spanylſhe ſonges vpon deed men, or of norefles vpon þer children, autentik bokis. Þe cause of þe errour is not myn to expown. Jewis seyn, þat it is don wiþ wise counsel, left Ptholome herier of o God, also as anentis þe Ebewis shulde of take dowble Godhede; þe whiche moost þerfor þei diden, for he was knownen to falle into þe techyng of Plato. Wherfore wher euere holi wrytt witnessiþ ony holi þing of þe Fadre, and þe Sone, and þe Holy Gooft, or obre wyse þei vndiden, or algatis helden þer pees, þat þei myȝten do aseþ to þe kyng, and þat þei opened not þe priuete of þe billeue. And I not who, þe first auctour, þurȝ his lesyng maad out feuenti sellis at Alysfawndre, in þe whiche þei deuydide þe same þingis shulde wryte; siþ Arefteus, of þe same Ptholome chefe counseylour, and keper of bokis, and myche tyme astir Josaphus, not suche þinge tolden, but wryten hem, gadrid to gider in o chirche, to han spokin togider, and not to haue prophecied. It is anoþer to be a prophet, and an oper to ben an vndoer of langage; þere þe spiryt seiþ before þingis þat ben to comen, here teching and plente of wordis, þingis þat he vndurstondiþ tranlateþ. But peraumentre Tullyus is to be wenyd enblowid wiþ þe spirit of retorik, to haue translatid þe boke þat is seid Economyk of Zenofontes, and þe boke þat is seid þe Pictagore of Plato, and þe boke þat is seid Prothesifontes of Demostynes; oþer þe Holi Gost wenye witnesſis of þe same bokis obre wise bi þe feuenti vndoers of tungis, obre wise bi þe apostlis, þat þat þei helden þer pees, þes han liȝid to ben writun. What þanne? dampne we þe olde? nay, but after þe studies of þe råþer men, in þe hous of þe Lord we traueilen þat þat we may. Þei han undon scripturis before þe coming of Crist; and þat þat þei wisten not, þei han spokin wiþ doutous sentence, we after þe passioun and þe resurreccoun of hym not oonli profesie, but stoyre wrytun. Obre weys forsoþe þingis seen, oþer wise þingis herd ben told; þat we beter vndirstonden, beter we tellen. Here þan, þou enemye, herkyn, þow backbiter; I dampe not, I reprehende not þe feuenti, but truſtly I putte before þe apostlis to alle þo; bi þe mowþe of þese to me Crist sowneþ, whom before þe prophetis amonge spiritual ȝiftis Y rede sett, amonge þe which þe vndoers of tungis holden fulli þe last degré. Wherto art þou tourmentid wiþ enuy? what sterist þow vnwise mennus willis aȝens me? if where Y feme to þee erre in þe translating, aske þe Ebewis, conseil þe maystryss of dyuerse citees; þat þei han of Crist, bi bokis han not. It is anoþer, if þe witnesſis vsurped of þe apostlis after proueden aȝen hem feluen, and þe Latyn faumplers ben more amendid þan Grekis, Grekis þan Ebews. But þes aȝenus be enuyows. Now, ful dere Desidery, I preye þee, for þat þou hast maad me to vndergon so greet werk, and to take þe bigynnyng of Genefis, helpe þow wiþ preiers, þat I mowe þurȝ þe same spiryt, þurȝ which þe bokis ben wrytun, translaten hem into Latyn sermoun.

'Here endiþ þe Prologis.

GENESIS.

Here bigynneþ Genesis.

Capitulum I.

- i In þe firste made God of nouȝt heuene and erþe.
- ii þe erþe forsoþe was veyn wiþ ynne and void, and derknessis weren vpon þe face of þe see; and þe spiryt of God was born vpon þe watrys.
- iii And God feide, Be maad liȝt; and maad is liȝt.
- iv And God sawȝ liȝt þat it was good, and deuydid liȝt fro derknessis;
- v and clepide liȝt, day, and derknessis, nyȝt. And maad is 'euen and moru, o day.
- vi feide forsoþe God, Be maad a firmament in þe myddel of watres, and dyuyde it watres fro watrys.
- vii And God made þe firmament, and dyuydid watris þat weren vndre þe firmament fro þes þat weren aboue þe fermament; and it is maad so.
- viii And God clepide þe firmament, heuene. And maad is euen and moru, þe secounde day.
- ix God forsoþe feide, Gadrid be watris, þe whiche ben vndre heuene, in to o place, and apere þe drie; and maad it is so.
- x And God clepiþ þe drie, erþe; and gaderyngis of watris he clepide, sees. And God faiȝ þat it was good;
- xi and faiȝ, Burion þe erþe grene erþe and makyng feed, and appletre makyng fruyt after his kynd, whos feed ben in hym filf, vpon þe erþe; and maad it is so.
- xii And þe erþe brouȝte forþe grene erþe and makyng feed aftre his kynde, and tree makyng fruyt, and echon hauyng feed after his special kynde. And God faiȝ þat it were good.
- xiii And maad is euen and moru, þe þrid day.
- xiv God forsoþe feide, Be þer maad liȝt ȝyuers in þe firmament of heuene, and deuyde þei dai and nyȝt; and þe þei into signes, and tymes, and daies, and ȝeers;
- xv and liȝtne þei in þe firmament of heuene, and liȝtne þei þe erþe; and maad it is so.
- xvi And God made two greet liȝt ȝyuerys, þe more liȝt ȝyuer þat it were before to þe day, and þe leſſe liȝt ȝyuer þat it were before to þe nyȝt, and sterres.
- xvii And he putte hem in þe firmament of heuene, þat þei shulden ȝyue liȝt vpon þe erþe,
- xviii and þat þei were before to þe day and to þe nyȝt, and shulde deuyde liȝt and derknessis. And God faiȝ þat it wer good.
- xix And maad is euen and moru, þe ferþe day.
- xx God also feide, Watres bryng þei forþe þe crepyng kynd of þe lyuyng soule, and þe fleeinge kynde vpon þe erþ, vndre þe firmament of heuene.
- xi And God made of nouȝt greet whallis, and al soule lyuyng and mouable, whom watres brouȝten forþ into þer special kyndes, and al fleynge þing after his kynd. And God faiȝ þat it was good;

xxii and blifide to hem, seiyng, Growiþ, and beþ ȝe multipliyed, and fulfilliþ þe watres of þe see, and þe briddis be multiplied vpon þe erþe.

xxiii And maad is euen and moru, þe fyueþ day.

xxiv God forþoþe seide, Bryng forþe þe erþe soule lyuyng in his kynde, iumentis, and crepyng þingis, and beestis of þe erþe, after þer special kyndis; and so it is maad.

xxv And God made beestis of þe erþe aftir þer special kyndes, iumentis, and al þe crepyng þing of þe erþe in his kynde. And God faiȝ þat it was good;

xxvi and seiþ, Make we man to þe ymage and oure likenesse, and bifore be he to þe fishis of þe see, and to þe volatils of heuene, and to þe beestis of þe erþe, and to al creature, and to al þe crepyng þing þat moueþ in þe erþe.

xxvii And God made of nouȝt man to þe ymage and his likenes; to þe ymage of God he made hym; maal and femaal he made hem of nouȝt.

xxviii And God blifid to hem, and seiþ, Growe ȝe, and be ȝe multiplied, and fulfills ȝe þe erþe, and fogette ȝe it, and haue ȝe lordship to þe fishis of þe see, and to þe volatilis of heuene, and to alle þingis hauyng soule þat mouen vpon þe erþe.

xxix And God feyde, se! Y haue ȝouun to ȝow al erbe brynginge forþe seed vpon þe erþe, and alle trees þat han in hym sifl seed of þer kynde, þat þei ben to ȝow vnto mete;

xxx and to alle þingis hauyng soule of þe erþe, and to al foule of heuene, and to alle þingis þat mouen in þe erþe, and in þe which is soule ȝyuyng lijf, þat þei haue for to eet; and maad it is so.

xxxi And God faiȝ alle þingis þat he made, and þei weren ful good. And made it is euen and moru, þe sixte day.

i Therfor parfite ben heuene and erþe, and al þe anowrnyng of hem.

ii And God fulfillide in þe seuenþe day his werk þat he made; and he restide þe seuenþe day fro al werk þat he hadde fulfillid;

iii and he blifide to þe seuenþe day, and he halwide it; for in it he had sesyd fro al his werk þat God shapide þat he shulde make.

iv þes ben þe generacions of heuene and erþe, whan þei ben fourmed, in þe day þat þe Lord God made heuene and erþe, v and ech bushe of þe feeld or it were growun in þe erþe, and al erbe of regiouen bifore þat it buriownde. Þe Lord God forþoþe had not reyned vpon þe erþe, and was noo man þat myȝte worche þe erþe;

vi but a welle ascendide fro þe erþe, watering al þe ouermost of þe erþe.

vii ȝe Lord God þanne fourmede man of þe flyme of þe erþe, and spiride in to þe face of hym an entre of breþ of lijf; and maad is man into a soule ȝyuyng lijf.

viii Forþoþe þe Lord God had plawntid paradise of delice fro bigynnyng, in þe which he sette man whom he had fourmed.

ix And ȝe Lord God brouȝte forþe of þe erþe eche tree fayre in liȝt, and swete to ete; also þe tree of lijf in þe mydle of paradys, and a tree of kunnyng of good and of yuel.

x And a flood ȝede out of þe place of delice to watre paradis, þe which fro þens is deuydid in foure hedis;

xi name of þe toon Phison, he is þat goþ abowt al þe erþe of Eulath, where growiþ gold, xii and þe gold of þat erþe is best; and þer is foundun bdelyum, and þe stoon onychynus;

xiii and name to þe secounde flood Gyon, he is þat goþ abowt al þe erþe of Ethiope;

xiv and name forþoþe of þe þrid flood Tigrys, he goþ aȝens Affyrios; þe ferþe forþoþe flood, he is Eufrates.

xv Panne ȝe Lord God toke man, and putte hym in paradis of delice, þat he shulde worche and kepe it.

xvi And he commaundide to hym, seiyng, Of ech tree of paradis ete;

xvii of þe tree forþoþe of kunnyng of good and of yuel ete þow not; in what euer day þoþeli þow etist þere of, wiþ deþ þow shalt die.

xviii ȝe Lord God forþoþe seide, It is not good man to be alone; make we to hym help like hym.

xix Fourmed þanne of þe moist erþe alle þingis of þe erþe hauyng soule, and al volatile of heuene, ȝe Lord God brouȝte hem to Adam, þat he shulde se what he shulde clepe hem; al þing forþoþe of soule lyuyng þat Adam clepid, þat is þe name of it.

xx And Adam clepide alle þingis hauyng soule, and al volatile of heuene, and alle beestis of þe erþe, bi her names. To Adam forþoþe was not foundun an helper like hym.

xxi Panne send ynne ȝe Lord God slep into Adam, and whan he was asleep, he toke oon of his ribbis, and fulfillide flehs for it.

xxii And þe Lord God edifiede þe rib, þe which he toke of Adam, into a woman, and brouȝte hir to Adam.

xxiii And Adam seide, Pis now boon of my bonys, and flehs of my flehs; pis shal be clepid mannus dede, for shé is takun of a man.

xxiv Wherfor a man shal forsake his fadre and modre, and shal draw to hys wijf, and two shal be in o flehs.

xxv Eiper forþoþe was nakid, Adam, þat is, and his wijf, and þei shameden noȝt.

Capitulum III.

i But and þe edder was feller þan ony lifers of þe erþe, þe which made ȝe Lord God. ȝe which seide to ȝe woman, Whi comaundide God to ȝow, þat ȝe shulden not ete of ech tree of paradis?

ii To whom answeryde þe woman, Of þe fruyt of trees þat ben in paradis we eten;

iii of þe fruyt forþoþe of þe tree þat is in þe mydil of paradis, commaundide us God, þat we shulden not eten, and þat we shulden not towche it, leſt perauenture we dien.

iv Forþoþe þe eddre feide to þe woman, þurȝ deþ ȝe þhal not die;

v God forþoþe wote, þat in what euer day ȝe eten þerof, ȝoure eiȝen shul be openyd, and ȝe þhal ben as Goddis, knowyng good and yuel.

vi Þanne þe woman saiȝ þat þe tree were good, and swete for to ete, and fayre to þe eiȝen and delitable in þe siȝt; and she toke of þe fruyt of it, and ete, and ȝaued to hire man, þe which ete.

vii And þe eiȝen of boþ ben openyd; and whanne þei knewen hem silf to be nakid, þei soweden to gidre leeues of a fige tree, and maden hem brechis.

viii And whanne þei herden þe voys of þe Lord God goynge in paradis at þe shynynge after myd dai, Adam hid hym and his wif fro þe face of þe Lord God in þe myddel of þe tree of paradis.

ix And þe Lord God clepide Adam, and feide to hym, Where art þow?

x þe which feide, þi voys I herde in paradis, and I dredde, þere þurȝ þat I was nakid, and hidde me.

xi To whom feide þe Lord, Who forþoþe shewide þee þat þow was nakid, but þat þow ete of þe tree of þe which Y had comaundid þee þat þow shuldist not ete?

xii And Adam feide, þe woman whom þow ȝaued me fellow, ȝaued to me of þe tree, and I ete.

xiii And þe Lord feide to þe woman, Whi didst þow þat? þe which answeryde, þe eddre bigilide me, and Y ete.

xiv And þe Lord God feide vnto þe serpent, For þow haſt do þis, þow shalt be cursid among alle þe soule hauers and beestis of þe erþe; vpon þi breeſt þow shalt gon, and erþe þow shalt ete alle daies of þi lijf;

xv enemyte I shal put bitwix þee and þe woman, and þi feed and þe feed of hire; she shal treed þin hede and þow shalt aspie to hyre heel.

xvi To þe woman forþoþe God feide, I shal multiply þi myſes and þi conceyungis; in forwe þow shalt bere, children; and þow shalt be vndre power of þi man, and he shal haue lordship of þee.

xvii To Adam forþoþe he feide, For þow haſt herd þe voys of þi wif, and þow haſt etun of þe tree, of þe which I comaundide þee þat þow shuldist not etun, cursid is þe erþe in þi werk; in traueyls þow shalt ete of it alle þe daies of þi lijf;

xviii It shal burown to þee þornes and brembles, and þow shalt ete erbis of þe erþe;

xix in þe swoot of þi chere, 'or face, þou shalt ete þi brede, to þe tyme þow turne aȝen into þe erþe of þe which þow art take; for powdre þow art, and into powdre þow shalt turne.

xx And Adam clepide þe name of his wif Eue, þurȝ þat þe was moder of alle þingis lyuynge.

xi ƿe Lord God forþoþe made to Adam and his wif leþer cootis, and cloþide hem; xxii and seide, se! Adam is maad as oon of vs, knowyng good and yuel; now þan, leſt perauenture he putte out his hond, and take also of þe tree of lijf, and ete, and lyue euermore.

xxiii And þe Lord God sente hym out of paradis of delyte, þat he myȝte wyrk þe erþe, of þe which he was takun.

xxiv And he þrewe out Adam, and he sette cherubyn before paradis of delite, and a flawmynge fwerd and pleaunt to þe weye of þe tree of lijf to be kept.

Capitulum III.

i Adam forþoþe knewe Eue his wif, þe which conceyued, and bare Caym, seiyng, I haue had a man bi God.

ii And eft soons she bare his broþer Abel. Forþoþe Abel was a sheepherd of sheep, and Caym an erþe tilyer.

iii And don it is after many dayes, þat Caym shulde offre of þe fruytis of þe erþe ȝiftis to þe Lord;

iv Abel forþoþe offride of þe first gotun of his flok, and of þe fatnes of hem. And þe Lord bishelde to Abel and to his ȝiftis;

v to Caym forþoþe and to þe ȝiftis of hym he bishelde not. And Caym was greethi wroþ, and þerwip felle his chere.

vi And þe Lord feide to hym, Whi art þow wroþ, and whi þerwip falliȝ þi face?

vii Shalt þow not reſeyue wel, if þou wel doſt; ellis forþoþe euel, anoon in þe ȝatis þi synnes shal ben at þee? but vndre þee shal be þe appetite of hym, and þow shalt haue lordship of hym.

viii And Caym feide to Abel his broþer, Go we out. Whanne þei weren in þe feeld, aroos þere wiþ Caym aȝens his broþer Abel, and flowe him.

ix And þe Lord feide to Caym, Where is Abel þi broþer? þe which answeryde, I wote neuere; wheþer am I þe keper of my broþer?

x And he feide to hym, What haſt þow don? þe vois of þe blood of þi broþer criȝ to me fro þe erþe.

xi Now þan þow shalt be cursid vpon þe erþe, þe which openyde his mowþe, and toke þe blood of þi broþer of þin honde.

xii Whanne þow worshif þe erþe, it shal not ȝiue þee his fruytis; vagaunt and fer fugitif þow shalt be vpon þe erþe alle þe daies of þi lijf.

xiii And Caym feide to þe Lord, More is my wickidnes þan þat I deserue forȝeuenes;

xiv se! þow caſtis me out to day fro þe face of þe erþe; and fro þi face I shal be hid, and I shal be vagaunt and fer fugitif in þe erþe; al þanne þat shal fynd me shal fle me.

xv And þe Lord seide to hym, It shal not be do fo, but al þat shal fle Caym shal seuene fold be punysshid. And þe Lord sette a signe in Caym, þat ech þat fonde hym shulde not fle hym.

xvi And Caym, passid out fro þe face of þe Lord, dwellide fer fugitif in þe erþe, at þe eest plage of Eden.

xvii Caym forsoþe knewe his wif, þe which forsoþe confeyued, and bare Enok; and he bilden a citee, and callide þe name of it after þe name of his sone Enok.

xviii Forsoþe Enok gate Yrad, and Yrad gate Manyael, and Manyael gate Mathusael, and Mathusael gate Lameth;

xix þe which toke two wyues, þe name of þe toon Ada, and name of 'þe toþer Sella.

xx And Ada gate Jabel, þat was fadre of dwellers in tentis and of sheeþerdis; xxx Saray forsoþe was bareyn, and had no fre children.

 xxxi And also Thare toke Abram, his sone, and Loth, þe sone of Aran, þe sone of hys sone, and Saray, his sony wif, þe wif of Abraam, his sone, and he ledde hem out fro Vr of Caldeis, þat þei myȝten go into þe lond of Chanaan; and þei comen vnto Aran, and dwelliden þere.
 xxxii And þe daies of Thare ben maad of two hundred and fyue ȝeir, and deed he is in Aran.

Capitulum XII.

i The Lord forsoþe seide to Abram, Go out fro þi lond, and fro þi kynreden, and fro þe hows of þi fadir, and com in to þe lond þat I shal shew to þee;
 ii and I shal make þee in to a greet folk of kynde, and I shal blis to þee, and I shal magnyfie þi name, and þow shalt be blisfid;
 iii and I shal blis to þoo þat blissen þee, and I shal curse to þoo þat curfen þee; and in þee shal be blisfyd alle cosynages of þe erþe.
 iv And so Abraam ȝede out, as þe Lord comaundide to hym, and Loth ȝede wiþ hym. Of feuenti and fyue ȝeers was Abram whan he shulde go fro Aran.

v And he toke Saray, his wif, and Loth, þe sone of his broþer, and al þe substaunce þat þei hadden, and þe lyues þat þei maden in Aran; and þei ȝeden out þat þei myȝten gon in to þe lond of Chanaan. And whan þei weren comen into it, vi Abram passide þurȝ þe lond vnto þe place of Sichim, and vnto þe noble valeye. Chananeus forsoþe was banne in þe lond.
vii þe Lord forsoþe apperyde to Abram, and feide to hym, I shal ȝyue to þi seed þis lond. Þe which bילדide þere an auter to þe Lord, þe which had apperyd to hym, and he inwardly callide þere þe name of him.
viii And fro þens ouerpaffynge to þe mownt þat was aȝens þe est of Betel, and strauȝte þere his tabernacle, hauynge Betel fro þe west, and fro þe est Hay. And he edefiede þere an auter to þe Lord, and inwardli clepide þe name of hym.
ix And Abram ȝede goynge, and ferþermore passyng to þe west.
x Forsoþe hungur was maad in þe lond; and Abram descendide into Egipt, þat he myȝte pilgrimage þere; forsoþe hungir wex greet in þe lond.
xi And whan he was nyȝe þat he shulde go into Egipt, he feide to Saray, his wif, I knew þat a fayr woman þow art, xii and þat whan Egipciens shulen se þee, þei ben to seyn, þe wif of hym she is, and þei shal flee me, and þee þei shal reserue.
xiii Seie þanne, I preye þee, þat þow art my fistre, þat it be to me wel for þee, and my sowle lyue for þe grace of þee.
xiv And so whan Abram was gon into Egipt, Egipciens fawen þe woman þat she was ful fayre; xv and þe princis tolden to Pharao, and preyfeden hir anentys hym; and þe woman was takun into þe hows of Pharao.
xvi Abram forsoþe þei wel vseden for hir; and þere weren to hym sheep, and oxen, and he assis, and seruauntis, and meynes, and she assis, and camelis.
xvii þe Lord forsoþe scourgide Pharao wiþ mooft plagis and þe hows of hym, for Saray, Abrams wif.
xviii And Pharao clepide Abram, and feide to hym, What forsoþe is þis þat to me þow hast don? why shewide þow not to me þat she was þi wif?
xix for what cause seidist þow hir to be þi sister, þat to me I shulde take hir into a wif?
xx Now þanne se! þi wif, and take hir and go. And Pharao comaundide vpon Abram two men, and þei conveyden hym, and þe wif of him, and al þat he had.

Capitulum XIII.

i Abram þanne ascendide fro Egipt, he, and his wif and al þat he had, and Loth wiþ hym, to þe fowþ plaag.

ii He was forsoþe ful riche in possessioun of siluer and of gold.
iii And he was turnyd aȝen bi þe weye þat he come fro þe fowþ in Betel, vnto þe place in þe which biforhond he had ficchid a tabernacle, bytwix Betel and Hay, iv in þe place of þe auter þat he made bifore, and he inwardli clepide þere þe name of þe Lord.
v But and of Loth, þe which was wiþ Abram, weren flockis of sheep, and droues, and tabernacis;
vi and þe lond myȝte not refeyue hem, þat þei dwelliden to giderys; forsoþe þe substaunce of hem was myche, and þei myȝten not dwel comounli.
vii Wherfor and þere was strijf maad bitwix þe shepherdis of þe flockis of Abram and of Loth. þat forsoþe tyme Chananeus and Ferefeus dwelliden in þat lond.
viii Seide þanne Abram to Loth, I biseche, be þere not strijf bitwix þee and me, and bitwix my shepherdis and þi shepherdis; briþeren forsoþe we ben.
ix Se! al þe lond is bifore þee, I preye, go awey fro me; if þow to þe left side goft, Y shal hold þe riȝt side; if þow þe riȝt side chelift, Y shal go to þe left.
x And so Loth, his eyen heued vp, sawe al þe regioun abowt of Jordan, þe which al was watered, bifore þe Lord shulde ouerturne Sodom and Gomor, as paradis of þe Lord, and as Egipt to comers into Segor.
xi And Loth ches to hym þe regioun abowt Jordan, and ȝede fro þe est; and þei ben eiþer diuydid fro his broþer.
xii Abram dwelte in þe londe of Chanaan; and Loth forsoþe abode in þe borow townes þat weren abowte Jordan, and dwellid in Sodomys.
xiii Men forsoþe of Sodom weren þe werst men, and synners before þe Lord mych.
xiv And þe Lord seide to Abram, aftir þat Loth was dyuydyd fro hym, Heue vp þin eyen euen ryȝt, and fe fro þe place in þe which þow art now, to þe norþ and fowþ, to þe est and west;
xv al þe lond þat þow biholdist, I shal ȝyue to þee and to þi seed, for to euermore.
xvi And I shal make þi seed as powdir of þe erþe; if eny men myȝten nowmbre þe powdre of þe erþe, and þi seed he shal mow nowmbre.
xvii Aryfe þanne and ouergo þe lond in lengþe and in brede, for I am to ȝyue it to þee.
xviii Abram þanne, mouynge his tabernacle, com and dwellide biside þe valey of Mambre, þe which is in Ebron, and bילדide þere an auter to þe Lord.

Capitulum XIII.

i And it was don in þat tyme, þat Amraphel, þe kyng of Sennaer, and Aryoth, þe kyng of Ponty, and Chodorlaomor, þe kyng of Elemytarum, and Thadal, kyng of folc of kynd, ii ȝeden into a batail aȝens Bara, þe kyng of Sodom, and aȝens Bersa, þe kyng of Gomor, and aȝens Sennaar, þe kyng of Adame, and aȝens Sebamar, þe kyng of Soboym, and aȝens þe kyng of Bale, þat is, of Segor.

 iii Alle þes comen to gidre into þe wodi valey, þe which now is þe see of salt.
 iv Forsoþe twelue ȝeer þei serueden to Chodorlaomor, and þe prettenþe ȝeer þei ȝede awey fro hym.
 v Perfor þe fourtenþe ȝeer com Chodorlaomor, and þe kyngis þat weren wiþ hym, and smytyn Raphaym in Astaroth, Carnaym, and Zuzym wiþ hem, and Emim in Sabe Chariathaim,
 vi and Chorreos in þe hillis Seher, vnto þe feedly placis of Pharam, þat is in wildernes.
 vii And þei weren turned aȝen, and comen vnto þe welle of Mesphat; it is of Cades. And þei smyten al þe regiouf of Amalechitis, and Amorre, þe whiche dwellid in Afason of Thamar.
 viii And þe kyng of Sodom, and þe kyng of Gomorre, and þe kyng of Adame, and þe kyng of Soboym, also and þe kyng of Bale, þat is of Segor, ȝeden out, and þei dressiden aȝens hem lheltrun in þe wodi valey, ix þat is, aȝens Chodorlaomor, kyng of Elamytarum, and Thadal, kyng of folk of kynde, and Amraphel, þe kyng of Sennaar, and Arioþ, þe kyng of Ponty; four kynges aȝens fyue.
 x Þe wodi valei forsoþe had manye pyttis of gluwy cley; and so þe kyng of Sodom and of Gomor turneden backis and fallen þere; and þo þat laftan floweren to þe hil.
 xi Forsoþe þei token al þe substaunce of Sodom and of Gomor, and alle þingis þat parteyneden to mete, and ȝeden awey;
 xii also and Loþ, þe fone of þe broþer of Abram, þe which dwellid in Sodom, and þe substaunce of hym.
 xiii And lo! oon þat ascapide, toolde to Abram Ebrew, þe which dwellid in valey of Mambre of Amorey, broþer of Escol, and broþer of Aner; þes forsoþe hadden couenauntid bond of pees wiþ Abram.
 xiv Þe which whanne Abram had herd, 'þat is, Loþ his broþer takun, he noumbride þre hundrid ten and eiȝt men of his own howshold redi, and he pursuede hem vnto Dan.
 xv And, his felows dyuydide, he felle vpon hem in þe nyȝt, and he smoot hem, and he pursuede hem vnto Saba, and Phenyssem, þe which is at þe left side of Damask.
 xvi And he brouȝte aȝen al þe substaunce, and Loþ his broþer wiþ þe substaunce of hym, and wymmen and puple.
 xvii Forsoþe þe kyng of Sodom ȝede out into þe aȝengoyng of hym, after þat he was aȝen turned fro þe flawȝtir of Chodorlaomor, and of þe kyngis þat weren wiþ hym, in þe valey of Sabe, þe which is þe valey of þe kyng.

xviii And forsoþe Melchisadech, þe kyng of Salem, bryngynge forþ breed and wyne, forsoþe he was þe prest of þe heiȝest God, xix blifside to hym, and feide, Blifſid be Abram to þe heye God, þe which maad of nouȝt heuene and erþe, xx and þe heye God be blifſid, whom defendyng, þe enemyes ben takun in þin hondis. And he ȝaue hym dymes of alle þingis.
 xxi Forsoþe þe kyng of Sodom feide to Abram, ȝyue me þe fowlis; obre þingis take to þee.
 xxii Þe which answereide hym, I heue vp myn hond to þe Lord, þe heye God, welder of heuene and erþe, xxiii þat fro a þreed of þe weeft vnto a garter of an hoos
 I shal not take of alle þingis þat ben þin, leſt þow seye, I haue maad Abram ryche;
 xxiv out take þes þingis þat ȝong men han etun, and þe partyse of men þat camen wiþ me, Aner, Eschol, and Mambr; þes shulen take þere partyes.

Capitulum XV.

i So þes þingis past ouer, þe word of þe Lord was maad to Abram bi a visioun, feiyng, Abram, wolt þow not dred, I am þi defendour, and þi meed is ful greet.
 ii And Abram feide, Lord God, what shal þow ȝyue me? I shal go wiþouten fre children, and þe fone of þe proctour of myn hows, þis Damask of Elyzar, shal be myn eyre.
 iii And Abram addide, To me forsoþe þow hast not ȝouun seed, and, lo! þe seruaunt of myn howshold shal be myn eyre.
 iv And anoon þe word of God was maad to hym, feiyng, Þis shal not be þin eire, but he þat shal gon out of þi womb, hym þow shalt make þin eire.
 v And he ledde hym out, and feide to hym, Biholde heuene, and noumbre þe sterrys, if þow mayſt. And he feide to hym, So shal be þi seed.
 vi Abram leuede to God, and it was alowid to hym to ryȝtwifnes.
 vii And he feide to hym, I þe Lord, þat out lad þee fro Vr of Caldeis, þat I shulde ȝyue to þee þis lond, and þow shuldifft haue it.
 viii And he feide, Lord God, wheroſt may I knowe þat I am to haue it?
 ix And þe Lord answereide, Take, he feip, to þee a kow of þre ȝeer, and a ſhe gehet of þre ȝeer, and a weþir of þre ȝeer, and a turtur, and a culuer.
 x Þe which, takynge alle þes þingis, dyuydide hem by þe mydil, and putte eipir partis aȝens hemſilf, eiper to obre; þe briddis forsoþe he dyuydide not.
 xi And fowlis descendiden vpon þe careyns, and Abram 'droue hem awey.
 xii And whanne þe funne was goon down, feer felle vpon Abram, and greet grifynes and derk affaileden
 hym.

xiii And it was seid to him, Bifore knowyngē know þow, þat þi seed is to be a pilgrym in þe lond not his,
 and men shulen fuget hem to þraldom, and men shulen ouer traueile hem fowre hundrid wynter; xiv neþeles I shal deme þe folk of kynde to whom þei ben to ferue; and after þes þingis þei shulen gon out wiþ a greet substaunce.
 xv Pow forsoþe shalt go to þi fadres in pees, biried also in god eld.
 xvi Þe ferþe forsoþe generacioun þei shulen turne aȝen hidir, ne ȝit forsoþe ben not fulfillid þe shrewidnes of þe Amoreis, vnto þe tyme þat is now.
 xvii Panne whan þe sunne is gon down, þere was maad a derk clowd, and a furneys smekyng aperye, and a lawmpe of fijr, paffynge bitwix þo dyuyſiouns. xviii In þat day þe Lord couenauntide wiþ Abram a bond of pees, feiynge, To þi seed I shal ȝyue þis lond, fro þe flood of Egipt vnto þe greet flood of Eufraten;
 xix Cyneos, and Cynyseos, and Sephmonios, xx and Etheos, and Pharifeos, Raphaim forsoþe, xxi and Amorreos, and Chananeos, and Gergefeos, and Gebeseos.

Capitulum XVI.

i For Saray, þe wif of Abram, had not geet to hym fre children; but hauynge an hand mayden Egipcian, Agar bi name,
 ii seyde to hir howlbond, Loo! þe Lord haþ closid me, þat Y may not bere; go into myn hand maydyn, if perauenture at þe leste of hir I take children. And whanne he assentide to hir preiying, iii he toke Agar þe Egipcian, hir hand mayden, aftir ten ȝeer þat þei bigunnen to dwelle in þe londe of Chanaan, and she ȝaue hir a wif to hir husbond.
 iv þe which ȝede into hir; and she seyngē hir silf þat she had confeyued, dispiside hir ladi.
 v And Saray feide to Abram, Vneuenli þow dost aȝens me; I haue ȝyuu myn hand mayden into þi bofum, þe which seyngē þat she haþ confeyued, haþ me to despit; þe Lord deme bitwix me and þee.
 vi To whom answerynge Abram, Lo! he seiþ, þin hand maydyn is in þin hond; vse hir as it is leueful. Panne Saray ouertraueilynge hir, she ȝede into flyȝt.
 vii And whanne þe aungel of þe Lord hadde foundun hir biside þe welle of water in wildernes, þe which is in þe weye of Sur in desert, viii he seide to hir, Agar, þe hand mayden of Saray, whens comyst þow, and whilþir goſt þow?
 ix þe which answereide, Fro þe face of Saray my ladi I flee. And þe aungel of þe Lord seide to hir, Turne aȝen to þi ladi, and be meke vndir þe hondis of hir.
 x And eft, Multipliynge, he seiþ, I shal multiplie þi feed, and it shal not be nowmbrid for þe multitude.
 xi And heraftward, Loo! he seiþ, þow haſt confeyued, and þow shalt bere a sone, and þow shalt cleep þe name of hym Ysmael, þerþurȝ þat þe Lord haþ herd þin affliccioun;

 xii þis shal be a feers man; þe hoond of hym aȝens alle, and þe hoond of alle aȝens hym; and 'forn aȝens alle his briþeren he shal ficche tabernaclis.
 xiii Agar forsoþe clepide þe name of þe Lord þat spak to hir, Pow God þat saw me; and she seide, Forsoþe here I haue seen þe hyndirmore of þiilk þat saw me.
 xiv þe forþe nemnyde þat pytte, þe pytte of hym lyuynge and seyngē me; þiilk is bytwix Cades and Barad.
 xv And Agar bare to Abram a sone, þe which clepide þe name of hym Ismael.
 xvi Of eiȝti and fixe wynter was Abram, whanne Agar bare to hym Ismael.

Capitulum XVII.

i After forsoþe þat he bigan to be of nynti and nyne ȝeer, þe Lord aperide to hym, and seide to hym, I God Almyȝti; goo biforn me, and be þow perfite;
 ii I shal sett my couenaunt of pees bitwix me and þee;
 and I shal multiplye þee ful hugeli.
 iii And Abram felle down al redi in to þe face.
 iv And God seide to hym, I am, and I shal sett my couenaunt wiþ þee, and þow shalt be fader of many folk of kynde;
 v and þi name shal no more be clepid Abram, but þow shalt be clepid Abraham, for I haue ordeyned þee fadir of many folk of kynde;
 vi and I shal make þee grow moost hugeli, and I shall sett þee in folk of kynde, and kyngis shal gon out of þee;
 vii and I shal stabe my couenaunt bitwixe me and þee, and bitwix þi feed after þee, in þi kynredis, wiþ euerlaftyng boond of pees, þat I be þi God, and of þi feed after þee;
 viii and I shal ȝyue to þee and to þi feed aftyr þee þe loond of þi pilgrimage, al þe loond of Chanaan, into euerlaftyng possessioun, and I shal be þe God of hem.
 ix Eftstones God seide to Abraham, And þow þanne shalt kepe my couenaunt, and þi feed aftyr þee, in her kinredis.
 x þis is my couenaunt, þat ȝe shulen kepe bitwix me and ȝow, and þi feed after þee; ech maal of ȝow shal be circumcidid,
 xi and ȝe shulen circumside þe flehs of þe ferþermore parti of ȝoure ȝeerde, þat it be in tokne of bond of pees bitwix me and ȝow.
 xii A child of eiȝt dayes shal be circumcidid in ȝow, ech maal in ȝoure kinredis, as wel þe freman of ȝoure howhold as þe bowȝt man shal be circumcidid, and who so euer were of ȝoure lynage; xiii and my couenaunt shal be in ȝoure flehs into euerlaftyng boond of pees.

xiiii Pe maal whos flehs of þe vttermore parti of his ȝerde were not circumfisid, þat soule shal be don a wey fro his puple; for he hap maad my couenaunt wast. xv And God seide to Abraham, Saray, þi wif, þou shalt not clepe Saray, but Sara; xvi and I shal blis to hir, and `of hir I shal ȝyue to þee a fone, to whom I am to blis, and he shal be into naciouns, and kyngis of puplis shal grow of hym.
xvii And Abraham fel into his face, and lowȝ in his herte, seiyng, Wenyst þow, wheþir a fone shal be born to a man of an hundrid wynter, and Sara nynti winter shal bere?
xviii And he seide to þe Lord, Wolde God Ysmael lyue bifore þee.
xix And þe Lord seide to Abraham, Sara, þi wif, shal bere to þee a fone, and þow shalt sleep þe name of hym Ysaac, and I shal ordeyne my couenaunt to hym into euerlastyng boond of pees, and to his seed after
hym;
xx and vpon Ismael I haue herd þee, loo! I shal blis to hym, and I shal encrees, and I shal multiplie hym greetli; twelue dukis he shal gendre, and I shal make hym into a greet folk of kynde.
xxi But my couenaunt I shal maak stonde to Ysaac, whom Sara shal bere to þee þis tyme in þe toþer ȝeer.
xxii And whan þe sermoun of þe speker wiþ hym was endid, God stide vp fro Abraham. xxiii Abraham forsoþe toke Ysmael, his fone, and alle þe fre men of his hows, and alle whom he had bowȝt, alle þe malis of alle men of his hows, and he circumfiside þe flehs of þe vttermor parti of þer ȝerde, anoon in þat day, as God had comaundid hym.
xxiv Abraham was of nynti and nyne ȝeer whan he circumfiside þe flehs of þe vttermore parti of his ȝerde,
xxv and Ismael, his fone, had fulfillid þrittene ȝeer in tyme of his circumfisioun.
xxvi And þe same day was Abraham circumfisid, and Ysmael his fone, xxvii and alle men of hys hows, as wel fre men as bowȝt and aliens, togideris weren circumfisid.

Capitulum XVIII.

i The Lord forsoþe aperide to hym in þe valey of Mambre, fittyng in þe dore of his tabernacle, in þat heet of þe day.
ii And whan he had areride vp þe eyen, þre men stondyng nyȝ hym aperiden to hym. Whom whan he had seen, he ranne into þe aȝen comyng of hem fro þe dore of his tabernacle, and he lowtide into þe erþe, iii and seide, Lord, if I haue foundun grace in þin eyen, ouerpasse þow not þi seruaunt, iv but I shal bringe to a litil mesure of water, and ȝoure fete be wayshid, and reste þow vnder a tree;

v and I shal fett a morsel of breed, and ȝoure herte be coumfertid; aftyrward ȝe shulen passe forþe; and perfor forsoþe ȝe boweden down to ȝoure seruant. Pe whiche seiden, Do as þow hast spokun.
vi Abraham hyede into þe tabernacle, to Sara, and seide to hir, Hye, and mynge togidre þre half buyfshelis of clene flowre; and make louues bakun vndur ayshen.
vii He forsoþe ranne to þe droue, and toke þens a calf moost tendre and best, and ȝaue a child, þe which hyede, and seþede it;
viii and toke butter, and mylk, and þe calf þe which he had soþun, and sette bifore hem; he forsoþe stode bïside hem vndir þe tre.
ix And whanne þei hadden etun, þei seiden to hym, Where is Sara þi wif? He answeride, Loo! in hir tabernacle she is.
x To whom he seide, Turnyng aȝen I shal com to þee þis tyme, þe liȝt ledere; and Sara, þi wif, shal haue a fone. Pe which þing herd, Sara lowȝ bihynde þe dore of þe tabernacle.
xi Forsoþe þei weren boþe oold, and of greet age, and to Sara fluxis of blood hadden laft to be maad.
xii Pe which lowȝ priueli, seiyng, After þat I am bicom oold, and my lord is an olde man, shal I ȝyue bysynes to lust?
xiii Pe Lord forsoþe seide to Abraham, Whi lowȝ Sara, þi wif, seiyng, wheþer I an oold woman am verreily to bere child?
xiv wheþer eny þing is to God hard? Aftir þe sawe bitwix vs I shal turne aȝen to þee þis fame tyme, þe liȝt leder; and Sara shal haue a fone. xv Sara denyede, seiyng, I lowȝ not, þurȝ drede afeerd.
Pe Lord forsoþe, It is not, he seide, so, but þow lowȝ.
xvi Panne whanne þe men were ryfun þens, þei dressid her eyen aȝens Sodom; and Abraham ȝede wiþ, ledynge forþ hem.
xvii And þe Lord seide, Wheþer I mow hide fro Abraham þingis þat Y am to do, xviii siþ he is to be into a greet folk of kynde and moost strong, and alle naciouns of þe erþe ben to be blissid in
hym?
xix I woot forsoþe þat he is to comaunde his lones, and to his hows aftir hym, þat þei kepen þe wey of þe Lord, and þat þei do ryȝtwisnes, and dom, þat þe Lord bryng to for Abraham alle þingis þat he hap spokun to
hym.
xx And so þe Lord seide, Pe cry of Sodom and Gomor is multiplied, and þe synne of hem is myche agredgyd; xi I shal go down, and se wheþer þe cry þat is comen to me þei han fulfillid in dede, or it is not so þat I wyte.
xxii And þei turneden hem silf þens, and ȝeden awey to Sodom. Abraham forsoþe ȝit stode bifore þe Lord, xxiii and neijyng seip, Wheþer þow shalt leſe þe riȝtwis wiþ þe wickyd?

xxiiii if þere ben fifti riȝtwis in þe citee, shulen þei peryshe to gidere, and shalt þow not spare to þat place for fifti riȝtwis, if þei shulen be in it?

xxv Be it fer fro þee þat þow do þis þing, and sle þe ryȝtwis wiþ þe wickid, and þe riȝtwis be maad as þe wickid; þis is not þin þat demyſt al þe erþe; þow shalt not do þat dom.

xxvi And þe Lord seide to hym, If Y shal fynde in Sodom fifti riȝtwis in þe myddil of þe cytee, I shal forȝue to al þe place for hem.

xxvii Abraham anſweride and seiþ, For oons I bigan, I shal speke to þe Lord my God, whan Y am powder and afke;

xxviii what if þere weren bi fyue leſſe þan fifti ryȝtwis, shalt þow do awey al þe cite for fyue and fourti? And he seiþ, I shal not do awey, if I shal fynde þere fyue and fourti.

xxix And eftsonys he spake to hym, If forſoþe fourti weren foundun þere, what shalt þow do? He seiþ, I shal not smyte for fourti.

xxx Y bifeche þee, he seiþ, ne indeyne þow, Lord, if I speke; what if þere weren foundun þretti? He anſweryde, I shal not do, if I shal fynde þretti.

xxxi For onus, he seiþ, I bigan, I shal speke to my Lord; what if þere weren foundun twenti? He feyde, I shal not fle for twenti.

xxxii I bifeche, he seiþ, Lord, be þow not wrooþ, if ȝit oons I speke; what if þere be foundun ten? He feide, I shal not do awey for ten.

xxxiii Be Lord ȝede aweie, after þat he had ceſſid to speke to Abraham, and he was turnyd aȝen into his place.

Capitulum XIX.

i And two aungels comen to Sodom at euen, fittyng Loth in þe ȝatis of þe cyte. Þe whiche, whanne he had feen hem, roos, and ȝede to mete wiþ hem, and honowride bowide into þe erþe, ii and feide, I prey ȝow, fyres, bowiþ down into þe hows of ȝoure child, and dwelliþ þere; wayshiþ ȝoure fete, and erly ȝe shal go forþ into ȝoure weye. Þe whiche feiden, Nay, but in þe street we shulen dwel.

iii He myche conſtreynde hem, þat þei shulden turne to hym. And hem goon into his hows, he made a feest, ſeþede þerf breed, and þei eten.

iv Forſoþe before þat þei shulden go to leggen, men of þe cytee fetten abowt his hows, fro child to oold man, al þe puple to gider;

v and þei clepeden Loth, and feiden to hym, Where ben þe men þat comen in to þee at nyȝt? lede hem out hidir, þat we knownen hem.

vi Loth gon oute to hem bihynde þe rigge, and tyndynge to þe dore, seiþ, vii Wole ȝe not, I preye, my briþeren, wole ȝe not þis yuel don.

viii I haue two douȝtren, þe whiche ȝit knewen not man; I shal lete hem out to ȝow, and mys vſiþ hem as it shal like to ȝow, so þat ȝe don no þing of yuel to þes men, for þei ben comun ynne vndur þe shadew of my roof.

ix And þei feiden, Go aȝen þider. And eftsonys, Pow art comen in, þei feiden, as a comelyng; wheþer þat þow deme? þee þi ſilf þanne more þan þes we shulen ouertraueyl. And foors þei maden to Loth moost hidowfly. Now nyȝt it was þat þei shulden vp breke þe ȝatis;

x and lo! þe men putten to hoonde, and brouȝten into hem Loth, and closeden þe dore.

xi And hem þat weren wiþ out þei smyten wiþ blyndnes, fro þe leest vnto þe moost; so þat þe dore þei myȝten not fynde.

xii And þei feiden to Loth, Haſt þow here eny man of þin, fone in lawe, or fones, or douȝtres; alle þat ben þin lede out of þis citee, xiii we shulen do awey þis place, þerþurȝ þat þe cry of hem is ful encresid biſore þe Lord, þe which fende vs þat we leſen hem.

xiv And so Loth gon out, spake to his sonys in lawe, þe whiche weren to take his douȝteres, and he feide, Risiþ, and gop out fro þis place, for þe Lord shal do aweie þis cite. And he was seen to hem as pleiȝinge to speke.

xv And whanne was morutyme, þe aungels conſtreyned hym, feiȝnge, Aryſe, and take þi wiff, and þi two dowȝtrys, þat þow haſt, left and þow wiþ periſhe in þe wickidnes of þe cytee.

xvi And hym denyng, þei token þe honde of hym, and þe honde of þe wiff, and of þe two dowȝtren of hym; ber þurȝ þat þe Lord wolde spare to hym.

xvii And þei ledden hym out, and puttiden hym out of þe cyte. Þere þei speken to hym, feiȝnge, Saue þi soule; wole þow not bihold bihynde þi bak, and stonde þow not in al þe regioum about, but in þe hille make þee saf, left and þow wiþ periſhe.

xviii And Loth to hem feide, My lord, I bifeche, xix for þi ſeruaunt haſt foundun grace biſore þee, and þow haſt magnyfied grace and þi mercy, þat þow haſt don wiþ me, þat þow ſauedist my soule; I may not in þe hil be ſauyd, left perauenture yuel take me, and die; xx þere is a cite here nyȝt a little, to which Y may fle, and I shal be saf in it; wheþer it is not litel? and my soule shal lyue in it.

xi And he feide to hym, Lo! in þat I haue take þi preieris, þat I ſubuerde not þe citee for þe which þow haſt ſpokun;

xxii hye, and be þow maad saf þere, for I shal not now do eny þing to þe tyme þat þow be gon yn þidir. Perfore þe name of þat citee is clepid Segor.

xxiii Be funne is gon out vpon þe erþe, and Loth is gon in to Segor.

xxiii Panne þe Lord reynede vpon Sodom and Gomor brenstoon and fier, fro þe Lord fro heuene, xxv and he subuertide þes citees, and al þe regiou about, alle dwellerys of citees, and alle growynge þingis of þe erþe.
 xxvi And þe wif of hym, biholdynge bihynde her, was turned into an ymage of salt.
 xxvii Abraham forsoþe aryfynge eerly, where he stode bifornhond wiþ þe Lord, xxviii bihelde Sodom and Gomor, and al þe erþe of þat regiou; and saw a multitude of sparkis steiynge vp fro þe erþe, as smook of a furneys.
 xxix Whan forsoþe God had subuertid þe citees of þat regiou, he recordide of Abraham, and dylueride Loth fro þe subuersioun of citees in whiche he had dwel lid.
 xxx And Loth stiede vp fro Segor, and dwel lid in þe hil, and hys two dowȝtris wiþ hym, forsoþe he dredde to dwel in Segor; and he dwel lid in a spelunc, `or a den, he and his two dowȝters wiþ hym.
 xxxi And þe more feide vnto þe lesse, Our fadir is old, and noon of þe men is left in þe lond, þat myȝten gon into vs, after þe maner of al londe; xxxii come, and make we hym drunkun wiþ wyne, and slepe we wiþ hym, þat we mown kepe þe feed of oure fadir.
 xxxiii And so þei ȝauen to her fadir to drynk wyne þat nyȝt, and þe more was gon yn, and slept wiþ þe fadir; and he felide noþer whan þe dowȝter ley down, ne whan she aroos.
 xxxiv And þe toper day þe more feide to þe laffe, Lo!
 ȝistiday I slept wiþ my fadir, ȝyue we hym to drynk wyne also bis nyȝt, and þow shalt slepe wiþ hym, þat we fauen þe feed of oure fadir.
 xxxv And þei ȝauen also þat nyȝt to her fadir wyne for to drynk, and þe lesse gon ynne slept wiþ hym; and noþer þan forsoþe he felide whan he lay bi hir, or whan she aroos.
 xxxvi Panne conseuyeden þe two dowȝtris of Loth of her fader.
 xxxvii And þe more bare a sone, and clepide þe name of hym Moab; he is þe fadir of Moabytes vnto þe day þat is now.
 xxxviii And þe lesse bare a sone, and clepid þe name of hym Amon, þat is, þe sone of my puple; he is þe fadir of Amonytes ȝit to þis day.

Capitulum XX.

i Abraham þens gon into þe sowþ londe, dwellide bitwix Cades and Sur, and he was pilgrym in Gererys; ii and he feide of Sara, his wif, My fistyr she is. Panne fende Abymalech, þe kyng of Gerere, and toke hyr.
 iii God forsoþe com to Abymalech bi sweuyn in þe niȝt, and feide to hym, Lo! þow shalt die, for þe wif þat þow hast takun, for she haþ a man.

iv Abimalech forsoþe had not towchid hir, and seiþ, Lord, wheþer an vnkunnynge folk of kynde and a ryȝtwys þow shalt flee?
 v Seide he not to me, my fistir she is, and she seiþ, my broþer he is? In symplenes of myn herte, and cleñnes of myn hondis I dide þis.
 vi And þe Lord seide to hym, I knowe þat þurȝ symplenes of herte þow didist, and þerfor Y kepte þee, þat þow shuldist not synne in me, and I suffryde not þat þow shuldist towche hyr; vii now þanne ȝelde þe wif to hir man, for a prophet he is; and he shal preie for þee, and þow shalt lyue; if soþeli þow wolt not ȝeldyn, wite þow þat þurȝ deep þow shalt die, þow and alle þat ben þin.
 viii And anon of þe nyȝt ryfynge, Abymalech clepide alle his seruauntis, and spake alle þes wordis in þe eeris of hem; and alle men dredden hem greetli.
 ix Abymalech forsoþe clepide also Abraham, and feide to hym, What haſt þow don to vs? what han we synned in þee, for þow haſt brouȝt ynne vpon me and vpon my rewme a greet synne? þingis þat þow shuldist not do þow haſt don to vs.
 x And eftsonys askyng feiþ, What haſt þow seen þat þat þow shuldist don?
 xi Abraham answeyde, I þouȝte wiþ my silf, seiyng, perauenture þe drede of God is not in þis place, and þei shal fle me for my wif.
 xii ellis forsoþe and verreili my sister she is, þe dowȝter of my fadir, and not þe dowȝter of my modir; and I toke her into a wyif;
 xiii and siþ God led me out fro þe hows of my fadir, I feide to hir, þis mercy þow shalt do wiþ me in al place to which we shulen go to; þow shalt sey, þat þi broþer Y am.
 xiv Panne Abymalech toke sheep, and oxen, and seruauntis, and handmaydens, and ȝaue to Abraham;
 xv and seiþ, Pe lond is bifore ȝow; where euer it shal plese to þee, dwel.
 xvi And to Sara he feide, Lo! a þowsynd pens of siluer I haue ȝouun to þi broþer; þis shal be to þee into veyl of eyen to alle þat ben wiþ þee; and whidir euer þow shalt gon, haue mynde þee otaken.
 xvii Abraham forsoþe preiynge, God helide Abymalech, and wif, and hand maydenes of hym, and beren child;
 xviii God forsoþe had cloſid al þe womb of þe hows of Abymalech, for Sara, Abrahams wif.

Capitulum XXI.

i God forsoþe viſitide Sara, as he had bihiȝt, and fulfillide þat þat he spak.
 ii And she conseuyede, and bare a sone in hir elde, in þe tyme þat God bifore feide to hir.
 iii And Abraham clepide þe name of his sone, whom gat to hym Sara, Ysaac.

ivii And he circumcidide hym þe eiȝte day, as God had comaundid hym,
v whan he was of an hundrid wynter; þis forsoþe age of þe fadir Ysaac was born.
vi And Sara seide, Þe Lord haþ lawyng maad to me, and who so euer shal here haþ wiþ lawe to me.
vii And eft she seiþ, Who to heren shulde leue Abraham, þat Sara shulde ȝyue a child to sowlk, whom she bare to hym now oold?
viii ȝanne þe child growide and was don awey fro fowkyng; and Abraham made a greet feest, in þe day of þe wanyng of hym.
ix And whan Sara had seen þe sone of Agar Egipcian pleyng wiþ Ysaac, his sone, x she seide to Abraham, Brow out þis hand mayden, and þe sone of hir; þe sone of þe hand mayden shal not be eyre wiþ my sone Ysaac.
xi Hard toke þat Abraham for his sone;
xii to whom God seide, Sharp be it not seen to þee vpon þe child, and vpon þi hand mayden; alle þingis þat Sara shal seye to þee, here þe voys of hir, for in Ysaac haþ be clepid feed to þee; xiii but and þe sone of þe handmaydyn I shal make into a greet folk of kynde, for þi feed he is.
xivii And so Abraham aroos erly, and takynge breed, and a botel of water, leide to þe shuldur of hym, and bitoke þe childe, and lefte hir; þe which, whanne he `was gon awey, erride in þe wildernes of Bersabee.
xv And whan þe water in þe botel was doon, she þrew awey þe child vndir a tree, xvi þat þere was, and ȝede a wey, and she set forn aȝens `a fer, as myche as a bow may cast; she seide forsoþe, I haþ not se dyinge þe child, and sittyng aȝens, heuede vp hir voys, and wepte.
xvii And þe Lord herde þe vois of þe child, and þe aungel of þe Lord clepide Agar fro heuene, seyng, Agar, what doft þow? wole þow not drede; God forsoþe haþ herd þe vois of þe child, fro þe place in which he is.
xviii Aryse, and take þe child, and holde þe honde of hym; for into a greet folk I shal make hym.
xix And God openede þe eyen of hir, þe whiche leyng þe pit of water, ȝede, and fillide þe botel, and ȝaue þe child to drynk;
xx and was wiþ hym, þe whiche wex, and dwellid in wildernes, and he was maad a ȝong sheter, xxi and dwellid in þe desert of Pharan; and his modir toke to hym a wif of þe lond of Egipt.
xxii Þe fame tyme seide Abymalech, and Phicol, þe prince of his oost, to Abraham, God is wiþ þee in alle þingis þat þow doſt;
xxiii ȝanne swere by God þat þow noye not to me, ne to myn aftir comers, and to my lynage; but after þe mercy þat I haue do to þee, do þow to me, and to þe loond in which þow haſt dwellid comelyng. xxviiii And Abraham seide, I shal swere.

xxv And he blamyde Abymalech for þe pit of water, þe which þurȝ force token a wey þe feruauntis of hym.
xxvi And Abymalec answerid, I wiste not who dide þis bing, but and þow shewedist not to me, and I herde not forto to day.
xxvii And so Abraham toke sheep, and oxen, and ȝaue to Abymalech, and boþe þei smyten a boond of pees.
xxviii And Abrahame ordeynede seuene she lambis of þe flock afyde.
xxix To whom sayde Abymalech, What to hem wilne þes feuen she lambis, þe which þow haſt maad stooned afyde?
xxx And he, Seuen, he seiþ, she lambis þow shalt take of myn honde, þat þei be into witnes to me, for I deluyde þis pit.
xxxi Perfore þis place was clepid Bersabee, for þere eiþir swore,
xxxii and ȝeden in couenaunt of pees for þe pitt of oþe.
Abymalech forsoþe aroos, and Phicol, þe prince of his chualrye, and turneden aȝen into þe loond of Palestynes.
xxxiii Abraham forsoþe plauntide a wode in Bersabee, and inwardli clepide þere þe name of euerlaſtyng God;
xxxiv and was a tilier of þe erþe of Palestynes many dayes.

Capitulum XXII.

i Aftyr þat þes þingis weren doon, God temptide Abraham, and seide to hym, Abraham! Abraham! He answeride, I am nyȝ.
ii He seide to hym, Tak þin oonli gotun sone, whom þow louest, Ysaac, and go into þe loond of vifioun, and bere offre hym into sacrifice al brent, vpon oon of þe hillis whiche I shal shewe to þee.
iii ȝanne Abraham on þe nyȝt wiþ ryfynge, diȝte his asse, ledynge wiþ hym two ȝong men, and Ysaac his sone; and whanne he had hewid his wode into brent sacrifice, he ȝede to þe place which comaundide hym God.
ivii And þe þrid day, þe eyen heued vp, he fawe a place `a feer;
v and seide to his children, Abydiþ here wiþ þe asse, I and þe child vnto þidir goyng, aftir þat we han onowryd, we shulen com aȝen to ȝow.
vi And he toke þe wode of þe sacrifice, and putte vpon Ysaac, his sone; he forsoþe bare in his hondis fier, and a swerd. And whanne þei two ȝeden to gideris, vii seide Ysaac to his fadir, My fadir! And he answeride, What wilt þow, sone? Lo! he seiþ, fier and wode, where is þe sacrifice of þat þat shal be brent?
viii Abraham seide, God shal puruey to hym, my sone, þe sacrifice of þat þat shal be brent.
ix ȝanne þei ȝeden togider, and comen to þe place whom God shewide to hym, in þe which he bildide an auter, and aboue made þe wode; and whan he had boundun Ysaac, his sone, he putte hym in þe auter, vpon þe heep of wode.

 x And he strawȝte his honde, and toke þe fwerd, þat he myȝt offre his sone.
 xi And loo! þe aungel of þe Lord fro heuene cryede, seiyng, Abraham! Abraham! Þe whiche answeride, I am nyȝ.
 xii And he feide to hym, Strecche þow not þin hond out vpon þe child, and do not eny þing to hym; now I haue knowun þat þow dredist God, and þow haft not sparid to þin one gotten sone for me.
 xiii Abraham heued vp his eyen, and sawe bihynd his bak a weþer amoneȝ þornes, tyed bi þe hornes, whom takynge to offryd brent sacrifice for þe sone.
 xiv And he clepide þe name of þe place, Þe Lord seeþ; wherfor ȝit þis day it is seid, In þe hil þe Lord shal se.
 xv And þe aungel of þe Lord clepide Abraham eftsonys fro heuene, xvi seiyng, Bi my sylf I swore, seip þe Lord, for þow haft do þis þing, and þow haft not sparid to þin oon gotten sone for me, xvii I shal blis to bee, and I shal multiply þi seed as sterriȝ of heuene, and as grauel þat is in þe brenk of þe see; þi seed shal weeld þe ȝatis of his enemyes;
 xviii and al folk of þe erþe shal be bleſſid in þi seed, for þow haft obeishid to my vois.
 xix And Abraham turnyd aȝen to his children, and ȝede to Bersabee togider, and he dwellide þere.
 xx And so þes þingis don, it was told to Abraham, þat Melcha forsoþe had getun sones to Nachor, his brother;
 xxi Hus, þe fyrt getun, and Buz, þe broþir of hym, and Chamuel, þe fadir of Sirus, xxii and Cased, and Azan, and Pheldas, and Jedlaphat, and Batuel, xxiii of whom Rabecca was born; þes eiȝt gat Melcha to Nachor, þe brother of Abraham.
 xxiv þe fecundarie wijf forsoþe of hym, Roma bi name, bare Thabee, and Gaon, and Thaas, and Maacha.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And Sara lyuyde an hundred and seuen and twenti ȝeer, ii and she was deed in þe citee of Arbee, þat is Ebron, in þe loond of Chanaan; and Abraham cam, þat he myȝte weyl and wepe hir.
 iii And whanne he was rysun fro þe office of þe deed cors, he spake to þe sonys of Heth, seiyng, iv A comelyng and a pilgrime I am anentis ȝow; ȝyue ȝe to me ryȝt of a biryng place wiþ ȝow, þat I mow biry ynne my deed.
 v And þe sones of Heth answeriden, seiyng, vi Lord, here vs; þe prince of God þow art anentis vs; in oure chofun berielis birye þi deed, and no man shal mow wern þee, but in þe monument of hym þow byrye þi deed.

vii And Abraham aroos, and lowtide þe puple of þe erþe, þe sones, þat is, of Heth.

viii And he feide to hem, If it plese to ȝoure soule þat I byrye my deed, here ȝe me, and preye ȝe for me anentis Ephron, þe sone of Seor, ix þat he ȝyue to me þe dowble spelunk, 'or caue, þat he hab in þe vttermore party of his feeld; for þe worþ of money take he it to me bifore ȝow into possellioun of a sepulcre.

x Ephron forsoþe dwellid in þe myddil of þe sones of Heth. And Ephron awsweryde to Abraham, alle men herynge þe which ȝede into þe ȝaat of þe cite of hym, seiyng, xi My lord, so shal it not be, but þow more herkyn þat I speke; þe feeld I take to þee, and þe spelunk þat is in yt, present þe sonys of my puple; birye þi deed.

xii Abraham lowtide bifore þe Lord, and þe puple of þe loond, xiii and spake to Ephron, stondyng aboue þe folk of hym, I biseche, þat þow here me; I shal ȝyue money for þe feeld, take it, and so Y shal birye my deed in þe feeld.

xiv And Ephron awsweryde, xv My lord, here me, þe erþe þat þow askist is worþ foure hundryd sicles of filuer, ȝis is þe prysis bitwix me and þee, but what is þat? birye þi deed.

xvi Pe which whanne Abraham had herd, he peyfide þe money þat Ephron had askyd, herynge þe sonys of Heth, foure hundrid sicles of filuer, and of preued comune money.

xvii And þe feeld sumtyme of Ephron, in þe which was þe dowble spelunk, biholdyng to Mambre, as wel it as þe spelunk and alle þe trees of it, in alle þe termes of it bi enuyroun, xviii is confermyd to Abraham into possellioun, seyng þe sones of Heth and alle þat entreden þe ȝate of þe cite of hym.

xix And so Abraham byriede his wijf Sara in þe dowble spelunk of þe feeld, þe which bihelde Mambre; þat is Ebron in þe londe of Chanaan.

xx And þe feeld is confermed, and þe pit þat was in it, to Abraham, into possellioun of a monument, of þe sones of Heth.

Capitulum XXIII.

i Forsoþe Abraham was oold, and of manye daies, and þe Lord in alle þingis had blifid to hym.

ii And he feide to þe elder feruaunt of his hows, þat was bifore in rulyng to alle þingis þat he had, Put þin hoond vndir myn hip, iii þat I adiure þee bi þe Lord God of heuene and of erþe, þat þow take not wijf to my sone of þe dowȝtris of Chananeys, among þe whiche I duelle;

ivii but go to þe loond and to my cognacioun, and fro þens take a wif to my fone Ysaac.
v Pe feruaunt answeride, If þe womman wole not com wiþ me into þis loond, wheþer I shal lede aȝen þi fone to þe place, of þe which þow were goon out?
vi Abraham seide, Be war, left ony tyme þow lede aȝen þider my fone;
vii þe Lord God of heuene þat toke me fro þe hows of my fadir, and fro þe loond of my birþ, þe which haþ spokun to me, and swore, seiyng, To þi seed I shal ȝyue þis loond, he shal fend his aungel before þee, and fro þens þow shalt taak a wif to my fone;
viii and if þe woman wole not folow þee, þow shalt not 'be holden to þe oþ; neuerþelater my fone ne lede þow aȝen þidir.
ix Panne þe feruaunt putte his hoond vndir þe hip of Abraham, his lord, and swore to hym vpon þis word.
x And he tok ten camelis of þe flok of his lord, and ȝede, berynge wiþ hym of alle þe goodis of hym; and goon he ȝede to Melopotany, to þe citee of Nachor.
xi And whan he had maad þe camelis resten out of þe wallid town, bisydys a pit of watre, at euen, þat tyme þat womman ben wont to goon out to draw water, seide, xii Lord God of my lord Abraham, Y preye, to day aȝen-com to me, and do mercy wiþ my lord Abraham.
xiii Loo! I stound nyȝ þe welle of water, and þe dowȝtres of þe dwellers of þis citee shal goon out to draw watyr;
xiv þanne þe mayden child, to whom I shal seye, Bouwe down þi water pot þat I drynke, and she shal answere, Drynke, but and to þi camels I shal ȝyue drynk, she is whom þow haft bifore ordeyned to þi feruaunt Ysaac; and bi þis I shal vndurstond þat þow shalt do mercy wiþ my lord Abraham.
xv Ne ȝit fully wiþ ynne hym silf he had fulfillid þe wordis, and loo! Rebecca ȝede out, þe dowȝter of Batuel, fone of Melche, wif of Nachor, broþer of Abraham, hauyng a water pot in hir shulder; xvi a ful sembly damysel, and moost fayr mayden, and vñknowun to man. She descendide forsoþe to þe welle, and had fulfilld hir water pot, and was turned aȝen.
xvii And þe feruaunt ȝede aȝens hir, and seide, ȝyue to me a litle of water to drynk of þi water pot.
xviii þe which answeride, Drynk, my lord. And anon she putte down þe water pot vpon hir arm, and ȝaue drynk to hym.
xix And whanne he had drunkun, she addide to, But and to þi camelis I shal draw water, to þe tyme þei han drunkun.
xx And she, heldyng out þe water pot into þe water trowis, and rennde aȝen to þe pit, for to draw water, and drawun she ȝaue to alle þe camelis.
xxi He forsoþe biheelde her stilli, wilnyng to wite wheþer þe Lord had maad his weye welsom, or noon.

xxii Panne after þat þe camelis hadden drunkun, þe man brouȝte forþ goldun eer ryngis, peifyng two sicles, and as feel arm ferclis, peis of ten siclys.
xxiii And he seide to hir, Whos dowȝter art þow? shewe þow to me, is þere in þe hows of þi fadir place to dwelle?
xxiv þe which answeride, Þe dowȝter of Batuel Y am, fone of Nachor, whom Melcha bar to hym.
xxv And she addide, seiyng, Of chaf forsoþe and of hey myche þere is at vs, and a large place to dwelle.
xxvi þe man bowide hym silf, and onouryde þe Lord, seiyng, xxvii Blissid be þe Lord God of my lord Abraham, þe which haþ not takun awey mercy and his soþefastnes fro my lord, and in riȝt wei haþ fulli lad me into þe hows of þe broþir of my lord.
xxviii And so þe damysel rennde, and tolde in þe hows of hir modir alle þingis þat she hadde herd.
xxix Rebecca forsoþe hadde a broþir, Laban bi name, þe which hiyng ȝede out to þe man, where he was wiþ outen.
xxx And whan he had seen þe eer ryngis and þe arm ferclis in þe hondis of his sister, and he hadde herd alle þe wordis of hir tellyng, þes þingis þe man spak to me, he com to þe man, þat stode bisidis þe camelis, and nyȝ þe welle of water, xxxi and seide to hym, Go ynne, þow blissid of þe Lord; whi stondist þow wiþ oute? Y haue greiþid þe hows, and þe place to þi camelis.
xxxii And he ladde hym into þe hows of herbergrye, and unfadelynge dischargide þe camelis, and ȝaue to hem chaf, and hey, and water for þe camelis fete to be wayshun, and mennys whiche comen wiþ hym.
xxxiii And þere was sett brede in his siȝt, þe which seiþ, Y shal not eet, to þe tyme Y speke my wordis. He answeride to hym, Spek.
xxxiv And he, Pe feruaunt, he seiþ, Y am of Abraham, xxxv and þe Lord haþ blissid to my lord ful myche, and he is magnyfied; and he haþ ȝouun to hym sheep, and oxen, siluer, and gold, feruauntis, and hand maydens, camelis, and assis.
xxxvi And Sara, þe wif of my lord, haþ born a fone to my lord in his eeld, and he haþ ȝyuun to hym al þat he had.
xxxvii And my lord haþ adiurid me, seiyng, Pow shalt not take to my fone a wif of þe dowȝtres of Chananeis, in whos loond Y dwel, xxxviii but þow shalt go to þe hows of my fadir, and of my cognacyoun þow shalt take a wif to my fone.
xxxix I forsoþe answeride to my lord, What if þe womman wole not go wiþ me?
xl Pe Lord, he seiþ, in whos siȝt Y goo, shal fende his aungel wiþ þee, and shal make redi þi weye; and þow shalt take a wif to my fone of my kynredun, and of þe hows of my fadir.

xli Pow shalt be ynnocent fro my curse, whan pow shalt com to my nyȝ kyn, and þei ȝyue not to þee.
xlii I com þanne to day to þe welle of water, and seyde, þe Lord God of my lord Abraham, if þow haſt maad redy my weye, in þe which now Y go, xliii loo! I ſtonde byſides þe welle of þe water, and þe maydyn þat ſhal goon out to draw watre here of me, ȝyue to me a lytil of water to drynke of þi watre pot, xliii and the feye to me, And þow drynke, and Y ſhal draw water to þi camelis, the is þe womman þat þe Lord haþ maad redi to þe fone of my lord.
xlv While þes þingis Y turnede ſtilly wiþ my ſilf, Rebecca aperide, comyng wiþ þe water pot þat the bare in hir ſhuldir; and the deſcendide to þe welle, and drowe water. And Y ſeide to hir, ȝyf to me a litil to drynk; xlivi þe which hiyngē dide down hir water pot fro hir ſhulder, and feide to me, And þow drynk, and to þi camelis Y ſhal ȝyue drink; and I drank, and the wateryde þe camelis.
xlvii And I aſkide hir, and feide, Whos dowȝter art þow? þe which anſweryde, þe dowȝter of Batuel Y am, fone of Nachor, whom bare to hym Melcha. And ſo I hengide eer ryngis to honoure þe face of hir, and arm ſerclis I putte in þe hondis of hir, xlviii and bowid I honowride þe Lord, bliſſyng to þe Lord God of my lord Abraham, þe which haþ ful lad me þe ryȝt weye, þat I ſhulde take þe dowȝter of þe broþer of my lord to þe fone of hym.
xlix Wherfor if ȝe doon mercy and ſoþenes wiþ my lord, ſhewiþ to me; if forſoþe oþer þing pleſiþ, and þat feie ȝee, þat Y go to þe ryȝt or to þe left.
l Laban and Batuel anſweryden, Fro þe Lord þe word is goon out; we mown not out of þe plesyng of hym ony þing oþir ſpeke wiþ þee.
li Loo! Rebecca is bifore þee; taak hir, and go, and be the þe wif of þe fone of þi lord, as þe Lord haþ fpokun.
lii þe which whan þe child of Abraham hadde herd, fallynge down in þe erþe honowrede þe Lord.
liii And vefſels of ſiluer, and of gold, and cloþis brouȝt forþ, ȝauē hem to Rebecca for ȝifte, and to þe briþeren of hir and to þe modir he offride ȝiftis.
liii And þe feest bigun, þei etynge to gideris and drynkyng e dwellden þere. þe child forſoþe ryſyngē eerly, ſpak, Lat me, þat Y go to my lord.
lv þe briþeren of hir and þe modir anſweryden, þe mayde child at þe leeft dwelle ten dayes anentis vs, and aftirward ſche ſhal go.
lvii Wiln ȝe not, he ſeip, me aȝen-holde, for þe Lord haþ maad redi my weie; late ȝe me, þat Y go to my lord.
lviii And þei ſeiden, Clepe we þe maydyn child, and aſke we þe wil of hir.
lviii And whan the clepid was comun, þei aſkiden, Wolt þow wiþ þis man go? She ſeide, I ſhal go.

lix Panne þei leten hir, and Delbora, hir noryſhe, and þe feruaunt of Abraham, and þe wiþfolweris of hyr, lx inwardli preyngē weelsom þingis of her liſtyr, and feiyngē, Oure liſtir þou art, growe þow into þowſand þowſandis, and welden þi ſeed þe ȝatis of þin enemyes.
lxii Panne Rebecca and þe damyſels of hir, þe camelis ſteied vp, foleweden þe man, þe which hiyngē turnede aȝen to his lord.
lxii þat tyme Yſaac ȝede bi þe weye þat lediþ to þe pit, whos name is of hym lyuynge and feiyngē; forſoþe he dwellide in þe ſowþ loond.
lxiii And he was goon out to biþenk in þe feeld, þe day now goon doun; and whan he had houun vp þe eyen, he ſawȝ camelis comyngē afer.
lxiv And Rebecca, Yſaac biholdyd, deſcendide of þe camel, lxv and ſeip to þe child, Who is þis man þat comeþ bi þe feeld in aȝen comyng to vs? And he ſeide to hir, He is my lord. And the anoon, takynge a mantel, coueride hir.
lxvi And þe feruaunt alle þingis þat he had doon tolde to his lord Yſaac; lxvii þe which led hir wiþ ynne into þe tabernacle of Sara, his modir, and toke hir to wif; and in ſo mych he louede hir, þat þe forowe þat of þe deb of þe moder felle it ſwagid.

Capitulum XXV.

i Abraham forſoþe toke anoþer wif, Cethura by name, ii þe which bare to hym Zamram, and Jexam, and Madan, and Madiān, and Jesboth, and Sue.
iii And Jexam gat Saba, and Dadan. þe fones of Dadan weren Affurym, and Latufim, Laomym.
iv And forſoþe of Madiān was ſprungun Ephā, and Epher, and Enoch, and Abida, and Eldaa; alle þes þe fonys of Cethure.
v And Abraham ȝauē alle þat he had to Yſaac;
vi to þe fonys forſoþe of þe fecoundarye wyues he ȝauē ȝiftis; and he ſeueryde hem fro Yſaac, his fone, ȝit while he lyuede, to þe eſt plague.
vii And þe dayes of þe lijf of Abraham weren an hundryd and ſeuenti and fyue ȝeir;
viii and failynge he was deed in a good elde, and of greet age, and ful of dayes, and he was gaderyd to his puple.
ix And Yſaac and Yſmael, his fonys, biryeden hym in þe dowble ſpelunk, þe which is ſet in þe feeld of Ephron, fone of Seor Ethei, forn aȝens Mambre, þat he bouȝte of þe fones of Heth; þere he was byried and Sara his wif.
x And after þe obite of hym God bliſſide to Yſaac, his fone, which dwel lid biſidis þe pit of hym lyuynge and feiyngē bi name.

xii þes ben þe generaciouns of Yſmael, þe sone of Abrahe, whom bare to hym Agar þe Egipcian, þe seruaunt of Sare;
 xiii and þes þe names of þe sones of hym, in names and in his generaciouns. Þe first gotun of Yſmael, Nabaioth, þanne after Sedar, and Abdæel, and Mabsan,
 xiv and Mafma, and Duma, and Massa, xv and Adad, and Thema, and Ychur, and Naphir, and Cedma.
 xvi þes ben þe sones of Yſmael, and þes þe names, bi castelis and towns of hem, þe twelue princis of his lynages.
 xvii And þe ȝeers of þe lijf of Yſmael ben maad an hundrid and feuene and þritt, and faylynge died, and was put to his puple.
 xviii He dwellid forsoþe fro Euila to Sur, which biholdiþ Egipt hem comyng ynne to þe Affryres; bifore alle his briþeren he died.
 xix And þes ben þe generaciouns of Yſaac, þe sone of Abraham. Abraham gat Yſaac, xx þe which, whan he was of fourti ȝeer, took a wif, Rebecca, þe dowȝter of Batuel, of Syre of Mesopotany, þe sister of Laban.
 xxi And Yſaac preyede þe Lord for his wif, þer þurȝ þat she was bareyn; þe which herde hym, and ȝaue conceyuyng to Rebecca.
 xxii But þe litil children in þe womb of hir weren hurtlid to gidere; þe which feide, If þus it was to com to me, what nede was to conseylue? And she ȝede to counfeil þe Lord,
 xxiii þe which answerynge, seiþ, Two folk ben in þi wombe, and two puplis of þi wombe shulen be dyuydid, and a puple a puple þhal ouercom, and þe moor þhal serue to þe leſſe.
 xxiv Now tyme of beryng was comen, and loo!
 twynlingis in þe wombe of hir weren foundun.
 xxv He þat firſt was goon out was brown, and al in maner of a lkyn rowȝ; and þe name of hym was clepid Esau.
 xxvi Anoon aftir þe toþer goyng out, helde wiþ his hoond þe forper parti of his broþer foot; and þerfor she clepide him Jacob. Sixti ȝere was Yſaac whanne þe children weren born.
 xxvii þe whiche wexen, Esau was maad a fleiȝ man of huntyng, and a man erþe tilier; Jacob forsoþe a symple man dwelte in tabernaclis.
 xxviii Isaac louede Esau, þere þurȝ þat he ete of þe huntingis of him; and Rebecca louede Jacob.
 xxix Jacob forsoþe hadde soþun potage; to whom whan Esau was comen wery fro þe felde, xxx seiþ, ȝif to me of þis brown seþing, for Y am ful wery; for þe which caufe þe name of hym was clepyd Edom.
 xxxi To whom feide Jacob, Sel me þe ryȝtis of þi fyrf getyng.

xxxii He answeride, Loo! I dye, what þhal profyt to me þe ryȝtis of my firſt getyng?
 xxxiii Jacob feide, þanne fweer to me. þanne Esau swoor, and foold þe ryȝtis of his firſt getyng.
 xxxiv And so breed takun and þe fowl of potage, etc, and dronk, and ȝede forþ, fettynge at nouȝt þat he hadde foold þe ryȝtis of his firſte getyng.

Capitulum XXVI.

i Hungur forsoþe sproong vpon þe erþe, after þilk bareynte þat felle in þe daies of Abraham, ȝede Yſaac to Abymalech, þe king of Palestynes, in Gerera.
 ii And þe Lord apperde to hym, and seiþ, Defend þow not down into Egipt, but rest þow in þe loond þat I þhal feye to þee,
 iii and be pilgrym in it; and I þhal be wiþ þee, and I þhal blis to þee; to þee forsoþe and to þi feed Y þhal ȝyue alle þes regyouns, fulfillynge þe oþ þat Y bihiȝt to Abraham, þi fader.
 iv And Y þhal multiplie þi feed as sterrys of heuen, and Y þhal ȝyue to þin aftir comers alle þes regiouns, and alle folkis of þe erþe shulen be blissid in þi feed, v þerþurȝ þat Abraham obeishid to my voys, and wolde kepe myn heefis and maundementis, and wolde holde my ceremonyes and lawis.
 vi And so Yſaac dwelte in Gerarys.
 vii Which, whan he was aſkid of þe men of þilk place vpon his wif, answereide, My ſister ſhe is; forſoþe he dredde to knowlechen þat ſhe was to hym fellowſhipte þurȝ mariage, letyng leſt perauenture þei ſhulden flee hym for þe fairnes of hir.
 viii And whan many dayes weren paſſid, and þere dwellyd, þe kyng Abymalech of Palestynes biholdyng þurȝ a wyndow, fawȝ hym pleynge wiþ Rebecca, his wiþ.
 ix And hym clepid seiþ, It is clere þat ſhe is þi wif; whi haſt þow lyed hir to be þi firſt? He answeryd, I dredde, leſt Y ſhulde dye for hir.
 x And Abymalech feide, Whi haſt þow put blame to vs? Sum man of þe puple myȝte haue ley wiþ þi wif, and þow haddiſt ynbrouȝt vpon vs a greet synne. And he comaundide to alle þe puple, feiynge, xi Who towchiþ þe wif of þis man, wiþ deþ he þhal die.
 xii Ifaac forſoþe ſowide in þat loond, and he fonde þat ȝeer þe hundryd foold; and God bliſſide to hym.
 xiii And þe man fel ryche, and he ȝede profyngē and vndurgrowynge to þe tyme þat he was maad hugeli greet.
 xiv And he hadde poſſeſſions of ſheep, and of droues, and of meyne mych. For þat Palestynes noiynge to
 hym, xv ſtoppiden alle þe pittis þe whiche þe ſeruauntis of his fader Abraham þat tyme hadden doluun, fulfillynge wiþ erþe,

xvi in so myche þat hym sifl Abymalech feide to Ysaac, Goo awey fro vs, for greetli þow art maad myȝtyer þan we.

xvii And he goynge þens, þat he come to þe rennyng watir of Gerare, and dwelle þere, xviii eftsones he deluyde oþer pittis, þe whiche þe seruauntis of his fader Abraham delueden, and whom, hym deed, sumtyme Philistiens stoppiden; and he clepide hem þe same names, in þe whiche þe fader hadde clepid before.

xix þe deluyden in þe rennyng watir, and þei fonden quyk watir.

xx But and þere was stryf of þe sheepherdis of Gerare aȝenus þe sheepherdis of Isaac, seyng, Oure is þe water; wherfor þe name of þe pit of þat þat felle he clepide chalange.

xxi And þei delueden anoþir, and for þiilk forsoþe þei stryuen, and he clepide it enmytese.

xxii Fro þens goon he deluyde anoþer pit, for which þei stryuen not, and so he clepide þe name of it breedë, seyng, Now God haþ sprad vs a brood, and he haþ maad growe vpon þe erpe.

xxiii Forsoþe fro þat place he steiȝ vp into Bersabe, xxiv where þe Lord aperyde to hym in þat nyȝt, seyng, I am þe God of Abraham, þi fader; nil þou not drede, for I am wiþ þee, and I shal blisse to þee, and I shal multiplie þi feed for my seruaunt Abraham.

xxv And so he bildide þere an auter to þe Lord; and inwardli clepid þe name of þe Lord, strawȝte out a tabernacle, and comaundide his seruauntis þat þei shulden delue pittis.

xxvi To þe which place whan þei weren comen fro Geraris, Abymalech and Ochoȝat, frendis of hym, and Phichol, þe duyk of knyȝtis, xxvii Ysaac spak to hem, What ben ȝe comen to me, a man whom ȝe hatiden, and puttiden awey fro ȝow?

xxviii Whiche answeriden, We han se þe Lord to be wiþ þee, and þerfor we feiden, Be þere an oþ bitwix vs, and maak we to gider boond of pees, xxix þat þow do not to vs eny þing of yuel, and as we towchiden no þing of þin, ne han doon þat shulde harm þee, but wiþ pees we han laft þee encreeffid wiþ þe blisfyng of þe Lord.

xxx Panne he made hem a feest; and aftir meet and dynke, xxxi aryfynge eerli, þei fweren to hem siluen to gidere; and Ysaac peesibli laft hem into her place.

xxxii Loo! forsoþe in þat day comen þe seruauntis of Ysaac, tellynge to hym of þe pit þat þei delueden, and seyng, We han foundun watir.

xxxiii Wher of he clepide it plente; and þe name of þe cyte is set Berfabee, vnto þe day þat is now.

xxxiv Elau forsoþe fourti wyntir olde took two wyues, Judith, þe dowȝter of Beery Ethei, and Bethfamath, þe dowȝter of Elon, of þe same place; xxxv þe whiche boþe hadden offendid þe inwitt of Ysaac and Rebecca.

Capitulum XXVII.

i Ysaac forsoþe was olde, and his eyen wexen derk, and he myȝte not se. And he clepide Esau, his moor sone, and feide to hym, My sone! þe which answeryde, I am nyȝ.

ii To whom þe fader, þow feest, he seiþ, þat Y am wexun olde, and vnknowe þe day of my deep.

iii Take þin armes, quyuer and bowe, and go forþ oute; and whan þow haft wiþ huntynge eny þing takun, iv make to me þerof sowil, as þow knowe me to wiln, and bryng to me þat I ete, þat my soule blis to þee or I dye.

v þe which whan Rebecca hadde herd, and he was goon a wey in to þe feeld, þat he fulfille þe heest of þe fader, vi She feide to hir sone Jacob, I herde þi fader spekyng wiþ Esau, þi broþer, and seyng to hym, vii Bryng to me of þin huntynge, and maak metis, þat I ete, and Y shal blisse to þee bifore þe Lord or I dye.

viii Now þanne assente to my counseyls, my sone, ix and goynge to þe flok, bryng to me two þe best kyddis, þat I make of hem meet to þi fader, þe which he eet gladly;

x þe whiche whan þow bryngift yn, and he etiþ, he blisse to þee or þan he die.

xi To whom he answeryde, þow haft know þat Esau my broþer is a man ful of heer, and I soft;

xii if my fader groop and fele, Y dредe left he wene me wiln to bigile hym, and bryng on me malyfoun for benyfoun.

xiii To whom þe moder, In me be, she seiþ, bis malisoun, my sone; oonli here my vois, and goynge forþ bryng to þat Y feide.

xiv He ȝede a wey, and brouȝte to, and ȝaue to his modir. She greipide meetis, as she knewe þe fader of hym wiln, xv and wiþ þe cloþis of Esau ful good, þe whiche anentis hyr she hadde at hoom, she cloþid hym.

xvi And she dide about his hondis litel skynnes of kiddis, and she forcouseride þe nakid of þe nak;

xvii and ȝaue sowil, and took þe looues þat she hadde soþun.

xviii þe whiche þingis brouȝt to, feide, Fader myn! And he answeryde, I here; who art þow, sone myn?

xix And Jacob seide, Y am Esau, þi first getun. Y haue do to þee as þow haft comaundide me; aryfe, sit, and eet of myn huntynge, þat þi soule blisse to me.

xx Eft Ysaac to his sone, How, he seiþ, so foone fynde þow myȝtis, sone myne? þe which answeryde, Pe wil of God was, þat foone it shulde com to me þat I wolde.

xxi And Ysaac feide, Come nerre hider, þat I towche þee, sone myn, and proue wheþir þow be my sone Esau, or noon.
 xxii He com nerre to þe fader; and, hym gropid, feide Ysaac, Þe vois forsoþe is þe vois of Jacob, but þe hondis ben þe hondis of Esau.
 xxiii And he knewe hym not, for þe heery hondis expressiden þe liknes of þe moor. Panne blyssyng to hym, feide, xxiv Pow art my sone Esau? He answereide, I am.
 xxv And he, Brynge forþ, he feide, to me meetis of þin hunting, sone myn, þat my soule blisse to þee. Þe which offryd, whan he hadde eet, also and wyyn he offride, þe which drunkun, xxvi feide to hym, Come nerre to me, and ȝyue to me a cosse, sone myn.
 xxvii He com nerre, and cosyde hym; and anoon þat he felide þe good smel of his cloþis, blyssyng to hym seif, Loo! þe smel of my sone as þe smel of a ful feeld, to þe which þe Lord bliffide.
 xxviii God ȝyue to þee of þe dew of heuen, and of fatnes of þe erþe, plente of wheat, and of wyyn, and of oyle;
 xxix and to þee seruen puplis, and lowten þee lynagis;
 be þow þe lord of þi briþeren, and þe sonys of þi moder be þei bowid bifore þee; who shal curse to þee, be he curfid, and who shal blis to þee, wiþ blyssyngis be he fulfillid.
 xxx Vnneþ Ysaac had fulfillid þe word, and Jacob goon out, Esau com, xxxi and soþen meetis of þe huntyng broute yn to þe fader, seiyng, Aryse, fader myn, and eet of þe huntyng of þi sone, þat þi soule blisse to me.
 xxxii And Ysaac feide, Who forsoþe art þow? Þe which answereide, Y am þi first getun sone Esau. xxxiii Isaac wexe adred in a hidows stonyng, and more þan it may be leuyd wondryng, seif, Who is þanne he þat now riȝt brouȝte to me huntyng takun, and Y ete of al bifore þat þow com, and Y bliffide hym? and he shal be bliffid.
 xxxiv Esau, þe wordis of þe fader herd, roride wiþ a greet crye, and stonyed feide, Alſo blis and to me, fader myn.
 xxxv Þe which feide, Pi broþir com gilyngliche, and took þi blyssyng.
 xxxvi And he ekyde to, Justli is þe name of hym clepid Jacob; he forsoþe haþ subplauntid me loo! anoþir siþe; þe riȝtis of my fyrst geting biforn he took a wey, and now fecounde he haþ vnder rauyfhilde my benysoun.
 And eftsonys to þe fader, And wheþir þow haſt not refuruyd, he seif, to me þi blyssyng?
 xxxvii Ysaac answeryde, Pi lord I haue ordeynyde him, and alle his briþeren I haue vndir ȝockid to þe feruyce of hym; wiþ wheat, and wyne, and oyle I haue stablid hym; and to þee, sone myn, after þese ouer what shal Y doon?

xxxviii To whom Esau feide, Wheþer oonlich o blyssyng þow haſt fader? And to me Y preie þee þat þow blis; and wiþ a greet ȝowlyng he wepte.
 xxxix Ysaac moued, feide to hym, In þe fatnes of þe erþe, and in þe dewe of heuene fro aboue shal be þi blyssyng;
 xl þow shalt lyue in fwerd, and to þi broþer þow shalt serue, and tyme shal come whanne þow shalt shaak out, and lowfe þe ȝok of hym of þi nollys.
 xli Pan Esau euermore hatide Jacob for þe blyssyng þat þe fader bliffide to hym, and feide in his herte, Þe dayes of weilyng of my fader shal come, and I shal flee Jacob, my broþer.
 xl ii Pes þingis weren tolde to Rebecca, þe which sendyng and clepyng hire sone Jacob, feide to hym, Loo! Esau, þi broþer, pretib þat he flee þee; xl iii now panne, sone, here my vois, and aryfyng fle to Laban, my broþer, in Aran; xl iv and þow shalt dwelle wiþ hym a fewe dayes, to þe tyme þat þe woodnes of þi broþer reste, xl v and þe indignacioun of hym ceeffe, and he forȝete þe þingis þat þow haſt doon to hym. Afterward Y shal fende and lede þee fro þens hydir. Whi shal Y be priued of eipir sone in o day?
 xl vi And Rebecca feide to Ysaac, It noieþ me of my lijf for þe dowȝtrys of Heth; if Jacob shal taak a wif of þe lynage of þis loond, Y nyl not lyue.

Capitulum XXVIII.

i And so Ysaac clepide Jacob, and bliffide hym, and comaundide hym, seiyng, Wole þow not taak a wif of þe kynred of Chanaan;
 ii but go, and forþpasſe into Mesopotany of Syry, to þe hows of Batuel, þe fader of þi moder, and taak to þee fro þens a wif of þe dowȝtrys of Laban, þin vnkle.
 iii God forsoþe Almyȝti bliffe to þee, and make þee growe, and multiplie, þat þow be into þe cumpanyes of puplis;
 iv and ȝyue he to þee blyssyngis of Abraham, and to þi seed aftir þee, þat þow haue þe loond of þi pilgrimage, þe which he haþ bihoot to þi graunsire.
 v And whan Ysaac had laſt hym, he forþpasſid com into Mesopotanye of Syre, to Laban, þe sone of Batuel Siry, þe broþer of Rebecca, his moder.
 vi Seynge forsoþe Esau þat his fader hadde bliffid to Jacob, and hadde ſent hym into Mesopotany of Syry, þat fro þens he shulde taak hym a wif, and þat aftir þe blyssyng he hadde comaundid hym, seiyng, Pow shalt not taak a wif of þe dowȝtrys of Canaan; vii and þat Jacob obeishyng to his fader and moder shulde go into Syrye;
 viii and prouyng ȝat his fader wolde not gladli biholde þe dowȝtrys of Chanaan, ix ȝede to Ysmael, and took a wif, wiþ out hem þat he hadde byfore, Melech, þe dowter of Ysmael, sone of Abraham, þe sister of Nabriot.

 x Panne Jacob, goon out to Berfabee, ȝede to Aran.
 xi And whan he was comun to a maner place, and he wolde rest in it after þe sunne goyng down, took of þe stony þat lyen, and vnderputting to his heed, slepte in þe same place.
 xii And he sawȝ in his slepis a laddre stondyng vpon þe erþe, and þe heiȝt of it towchynge heuene, and aungels forsoþe of God feiynge vp and goyng down bi it, xiii and þe Lord cleuyng to þe ladder, feiynge to hym, Y am þe Lord God of Abraham, þi fader, and God of Ysaac; þe loond in which þow slepist Y shal ȝyue to þee, and to þi seed.
 xiv And þi seed shal be as þe powdre of þe erþe, þow shalt be sprad a brode to þe est, and west, and norþ, and sowþ; and alle lynagis of þe erþe shulen be blissid in þee and þi seed.
 xv And Y shal be þi keper, whidir euer þow goſt; and Y shal brynge þe aȝeyn into þis loond, ne Y shal not leeue forto Y fulſille alle þe þingis þat Y feide.
 xvi And whan Jacob was wakun of þe sleep, feide, Forſoþe þe Lord is in þis place, and Y wifte not.
 xvii And dredyng seide, Howe feerful is þis place! Here is noþer but þe hows of God, and þe ȝaat of heuene.
 xviii Aryfynge þanne eerly, took þe stoon, þe which he hadde vnderput to his heed, and areryde into a signe of worship, heeldynge oyle aboue.
 xix And he clepide þe name of þe cyte Bethel, þat bifornhoond was clepid Luza.
 xx And he a vowide a vowe, feiynge, If God were wiþ me, and kepide me in þe weye bi which Y goo, and ȝyue me looues to etun, and clooþ to be clopid, xxi and shal be turned aȝen welſumly to þe hows of my fader, þe Lord shal be to me into God.
 xxii And þis stoon, þat I haue areryde into a signe of worship, shal be clepid þe hows of God; and of alle þingis þat þow shalt ȝyue to me Y shal offer dymes to þee.

Capitulum XXIX.

i Jacob þanne forþ goon, cam into þe est loond.
 ii And he sawȝ a pit in þe feed, and þre flockis of sheep liggyng bisidis it; for of it beestis weren wateryd, and þe mouþ of it was cloſid wiþ a greet stoon.
 iii And þe maner was, þat alle þe sheep gaderyd to gidir, men shulden turne vp þe stoon, and, þe flockis fulfillid, eftſones þei shulden putte vpon þe mouþ of þe pit.
 iv And he feide to þe sheepherdis, Breþeren, whens be ȝe? ȝe whiche answeriden, Of Aran.

v Whom aſkyng, Wheþir, he feide, knowe ȝe Laban, þe sone of Nachor? ȝei ſeiden, We han knowun.
 vi Wheþir is he, he ſeip, hool? ȝei ſeiden, He farip wel; and loo! Rachel, þe dowȝter of hym, com wiþ his flok.
 vii And Jacob feyde, Aboue þere is ȝit myche of þe day, ne tyme is þat flockys ben ladde aȝen to þe fooldis; ȝyueþ bifore drynke to þe sheep, and ſo lede ȝe hem aȝen to þe paſture.
 viii ȝe whiche anſweryden, We mowen not, to þe tyme þat alle beestis ben gaderyd togider, and we mouen awey þe ſtoon fro þe mowþ of þe pit, þat we watren þe flok.
 ix ȝit ȝei ſpeken, and loo! Rachel com wiþ þe sheep of her fader; for ſhe fedde þe flok.
 x Whom whanne Jacob hadde ſeen, and wiſte her his vnkil dowȝter, and þe sheep of Laban his vnkle, he mouede awey þe ſtoon wiþ which þe pit was cloſid; and þe flok watered, xi he kiffide her, and wiþ areryd voys ſhe wepte.
 xii And he ſhewide to her þat he was þe brother of her fader, and þe sone of Rebecca; and ſhe hiyng tolde to her fader.
 xiii ȝe which whan he hadde herd, Jacob, his ſiſter ſone, comen, ȝede aȝen metynge wiþ hym, and clippynge him, and fallynge in coſſis, ladde hym into his hows. Forſoþe þe cauſis herd of his weye, xiv anſweryde, My boon þow art, and my fleiſh. And after þat þe dayes of a moneþ weren fulfillid, xv he feide to hym, Wheþer for þow art my brother, in veyn þow shalt ferue to me? Sey what of mede þow shalt take.
 xvi He hadde forſoþe two dowȝtrys, name of þe more Lya, þe leſſe forſoþe was clepid Rachel;
 xvii but Lya was wiþ blerid eyen, Rachel fayr in face, and wiþ feemly biholdynge.
 xviii Whom louynge Jacob, feide, I shal ferue to þee for Rachel, þi laſſe dowȝter, ſeuен ȝeer.
 xix Laban anſweryde, Betir is þat Y ȝyue hir to þee þan to anoþer man, dwelle wiþ me.
 xx Panne Jacob ſerued for Rachel ſeuен ȝeer, and þei ſemeden to hym fewe dayes for greetnes of loue.
 xxi And he feide to Laban, ȝyf to me my wiþ, for þe tyme is fulfillid þat Y shulde goo yn to her.
 xxii ȝe which, manye cumpanyes of his frendis clepid to þe feefit, made þe brydalis, xxiii and at euen brouȝte yn to hym Lya, his dowȝter, xxiv ȝyunge an handmayden to þe dowȝter, Zelpha bi name. To whom whan after þe maner Jacob was goon yn, xxv þe morutide doon, sawȝ Lya, and feide to his wyues fader, What is þat þow woldiſt doon? wheþer for Rachel Y feruede not to þee? whi vndurputtisþ þow Lya to me?
 xxvi Laban anſweride, It is not of cuſtom in oure place, þat þe leſſe biſore we taken to ſpoſeyls;

xxvii fulfil þe wike of dayes of þis cowple, and þis forsoþe I shal ȝyue to þee for þe werk þat þow art to serue to me, seuen oþer ȝeris.

xxviii He assentide gladli; and þe wike ouerpaffid, xxix he took Rachel to wiþf; to whom þe fadir ȝaue a feruaunt, Balam.

xxx And at þe laſte he vſide þe desirid sposeyls, put bifore to þe raþer þe loue of his þat com after, feruyng anentis hym leuen opere ȝerys.

xxxi þe Lord forsoþe seyng ȝat he dispiside Lya, opnyde þe wombe of hir, hir ſiſter bareyne dwellynge.

xxxii þe which a conſeyued ſone gat, and clepide þe name of hym Ruben, feiynge, þe Lord haþ ſey my mekenes, now my man ſhal loue me.

xxxiii And eftſonyſ ſhe conſeyued, and bare a ſone, and feide, For þe Lord haþ ſeen me ben had to diſpiyt, haþ ȝyuun alſo þis to me; and ſhe clepide þe name of hym Symyon.

xxxiv And þe þridde tyme ſhe conſeyued, and gat anoþer ſone, and feide, Now forſoþe myn huſboond ſhal be cowplid to me, þerþurȝ ȝat I bere to hym þre fonyſ; and þerfor ſhe clepide þe name of hym Leuy. xxxv þe ferþ tyme ſhe conſeyued, and bare a ſone, and ſeip, Now I ſhal knowlech to be Lord; and for þat ſhe clepide þe name of him Juda; and ſhe ceeffide to bere chyld.

Capitulum XXX.

i Seynge forſoþe Rachel ȝat ſhe was wiþouten fruyt of wombe, enuyede to þe ſiſter, and feide to þe huſboond, ȝyf to me free childryñ, ellis Y ſhal dye.

ii To whom wroþ Jacob anſweride, Wheþer for a God Y am, þe which haue priuede þee þe fruyt of þi wombe?

iii And ſhe, I haue, ſhe feide, a feruaunt, Balam, goo yn to hir, ȝat ſhe bere vpon my kneen, and I haue of his fones.

iv And ſhe ȝaue to hym Balam into maryage; þe which, þe man goon yn to hir, v conſeyued, and bare a ſone.

v And Rachel feide, þe Lord haþ ſhewid me, and he haþ herd my vois, ȝyuynge to me a ſone; and þerfor ſhe clepide þe name of hym Dan.

vi And eftſones Bala conſeiuinge, bare anoþer, vii for þe which feide Rachel, þe Lord haþ comparisownd me wiþ my ſiſter, and I haue recouered; and ſhe clepide hym Neptalym.

ix Ly a felynge ȝat ſhe had laſt for to bere children, ſhe took to þe huſboond Zelpha, hir handmayden.

x þe which aftir conſeyung bryngynge forþ a child, xi feide, Gracyouſly; and þerfor ſhe clepide þe name of hym Gad.

xii And Zelpha bare anoþir, xiii and Lya feide, þat for my blisfulnes; forſoþe alle wymmen ſhulen ſey me blisful; þerfor ſhe clepide hym Aſer.

xiv And Ruben goon out in tyme of wheet heruest into þe field, fonde mandraggis, ȝat he brouȝte to Lya, þe moder. And Rachel feide, ȝyue me parte of þe mandraggis of þi ſone.

xv She anſweride, Ne ſemilþ it to þee a litil, ȝat þow haſt bifore takun þe huſbond to me, but alſo þe mandraggis of my ſone þow taak? And ſhe, Slep he wiþ þee þis nyȝt for þe mandraggis of þi ſone.

xvi And to Jacob comyng aȝen at euen fro þe field Lya was goon out into þe aȝencomyng of hym, and ſeip, To me, ſhe ſeip, þow ſhalt come yn, for þurȝ mede I haue hyryde þee for þe mandraggis of my ſone. He flepte wiþ his ȝat nyȝt;

xvii and God herde þe preiers of hir, and ſhe conſeyued, and bare þe fiſt ſone; xviii and ſeip, God haþ ȝeuun mede to me, for I haue ȝouun myn handmaiden to my man; and ſhe clepide þe name of hym Yſachar.

xix Eftſonyſ Lya conſeyung bare þe fiſte ſone, xx and ſeip, þe Lord haþ enrychide me wiþ a good dower; alſo þis while wiþ me ſhal be myn huſboond, þerþurȝ ȝat Y haue getun to hym fiſe fones; and þerfor ſhe clepide þe name of hym Zabulon.

xi After whom ſhe bare a dowȝter, Dyne bi name.

xxii And þe Lord, recordid of Rachel, herde hir, and openyde þe wombe of hir.

xxiii Which conſeyued, and bare a ſone, feiynge, God haþ doon awey my reprofe;

xxiv and ſhe clepide þe name of hym Joseph, feiynge, þe Lord adde to me anoþer ſone.

xxv Joseph forſoþe born, Jacob feide to his wyues fader, Lat me ȝat Y go aȝen into my cuntre, and to my loond.

xxvi ȝyue to me wyues, and my free children, for þe which I haue feruede þee, ȝat I goo; þow forſoþe haſt knowe þe feruſe ȝat I haue feruſe to þee.

xxvii Laban feide to him, Shal I fynde grace in þi ſiȝt, þurȝ experyens Y haue lernyd for God haþ bliſſid to me for þee;

xxviii ordeyn þi mede ȝat Y ȝyue to þee.

xxix And he anſweryde, Pou haſt knowe what maner Y haue feruede to þee, and þi poffeſſioun how myche was in myn hondis;

xxx a litil þow haſt bifore ȝat I com to þee, and now þow art maad ryche, and God haþ bliſſid to þee at myn yncomyng; þanne it is riȝtful ȝat ſumtyme alſo Y puruey to myn hows.

xxxi And Laban feide, What ſhal Y ȝyue to þee? And he ſeip, Y wole noping, but if þow doſt ȝat I aſke, eft I ſhal feede and kepe þi beeſtis.

xxxii Turne abowt alle þi flockis, and leuer alle þi ſpeckid ſheep, and wiþ ſpeckyd fleſe, and what euere ȝolow, and ſpeckid, and dyuerſe colourid were, as wel in ſheep as in geyt, ſhal be my mede.

xxxiii And my riȝtwisnes shal answere to morwe, whan tyme of plesaunce shal come bifore þee; and alle þat weren not dyuerse, and speckid, and ȝalow, as wel in sheep as in geyt, of þeft þou shalt vndirnym me.
 xxxiv And Laban seide, Agreede Y haue þat þow askist.
 xxxv And he seuerde þat day þe she geyt, and þe sheep, and þe heyeȝ geyt, and þe weþeres, dyuerse and spotti. And al þe flok of o colour, þat is, of whyet or of blak fleſe, he toke in þe hoond of his fones; xxxvi and putte a space of þre daies weye bitwix hem and his dowȝtir husboond, þe whiche fedden þe toþer flockis of hym.
 xxxvii Panne Jacob takynge green popil ȝerdis, and of almanders, and of planes, a parti vnryendide hem; and riendis drawun awey; in þilke þat weren pilde semede whytnes, þilke forsoþe þat weren hool dwelten stiȝ green, and so in þis maner was maad of dyuerse colour.
 xxxviii And he putte hem in þe water trowes, where þe watyr was held out, þat whanne þe flockis weren comen to drynke, bifore þe eyen þei shulden han þe ȝerdis, and in þe siȝt of hem þei shulden conseyue.
 xxxix And so it was doon þat in þat heet of goynge togidere þe sheep shulden biholde þe ȝerdis, and beere spotty, and speckid, and spreyned wiþ dyuers colour.
 xl And Jacob dyuydide þe flok, and putte þe ȝerdis in þe watyr trowis, bifore þe eyen of þe rammys; forsoþe alle þe whyte and þe blak weren of Laban, þe toþere forsoþe of Jacob, seueryd bitwix hem silf þe flockis.
 xli Panne whanne þe first tyme þe sheep weren steyed vp, Jacob putte þe ȝerdis in þe trowis of watrys, biforn þe eyen of rammys and of sheep, þat in þe siȝt of hem þei shulden conseyue.
 xlvi Whanne forsoþe þe laȝt comyng togidere of beestis weren, and þe laȝt conceyuyng tyme, he putte not hem. And þilke þat weren of þe later tyme ben maad of Laban, and þilke of þe fyrst tyme of Jacob.
 xlvi And þe man is maad ryche wonder myche, and he hadde manye flockis, handmaydenys, and seruauntis, camels, and affis.

Capitulum XXXI.

i After þat he herde þe wordis of þe sonys of Laban, seiynge, Jacob haþ takun alle þat weren of oure fader, and of þe faculte of hym richid is maad noble.
 ii And he took hede to þe face of Laban, þat it was not towards hym as ȝistirday and þe þrid day hens, iii moost þe Lord seiyng to hym, Turne aȝen into þe loond of þi fadrys, and to þi kynred, and Y shal be wiþ bee.
 iv And he sente, and clepide Rachel and Lya into þe feeld, where he fedde þe flockis, v and he seide to hem, Y se þe face of ȝoure fader, þat it is not toward me as ȝistirday and þe þridde day hens; God forsoþe of my fader was wiþ me.

vi And ȝe han knowun þat wiþ alle my strengþis Y haue seruyd to ȝoure fader;
 vii but and ȝoure fader haþ comen aboute me, and chaungide my mede ten sibis; and neuerþelater God haþ not letun hym þat he shulde anoye to me.
 viii If oberwhile he seide, Pe dyuers colourid shulen be þi medis, alle þe sheep beren conseyuyng of dyuers colours; whanne forsoþe aȝenward he seiþ, Alle þe whyet þow shalt taak for þi mede, alle þe flockis beren whyet;
 ix and God haþ taak þe substaunce of ȝoure fader, and ȝeuun to me.
 x Forsoþe bifore þat þe tyme of conseyuyng of sheep com, Y heuede vp myn eyen, and sawȝ in sleep þe malis steying up vpon femalis, varye, and spotti, and of dyuers colours.
 xi And þe aungel of þe Lord seide to me in flepe, Jacob! and I answeride, Y am nyȝ.
 xii Pe which seiþ, Rere up þin eyen, and se alle þe malis steying up vpon þe femalis, varye, and sprynklid, and spottid; forsoþe Y haue seen alle þingis þat Laban haþ doon to þee; xiii Y am God of Bethel, where þow anoystidist þe stoon, and þow vowedist auowe to me. Now panne aryse, and goo out fro þis loond, turnynge aȝen into þe loond of þi birþ.
 xiv And Rachel and Lya answeryden, Wheþer han we eny þing of refidewe in faculteis and erytage of þe hows of oure fader?
 xv Wheþer as aliens haþ he not holdun vs, and foold, and haþ etun oure prysis?
 xvi But God haþ takun þe richessis of oure fader, and ȝeuun hem to vs, and to oure sonys; wherfor alle þingis þat God comaundidþ to þee, do.
 xvii Forsoþe Jacob aroos, and þe fre children and his wyues put vpon camels, xviii ȝede awey; and took al his substaunce, flockis, and alle þingis þat he hadde purchasid in Mesopotany, goynge to Ysaac, his fader, in þe loond of Chanaan.
 xix þat tyme Laban was goon to þe sheep þat shulden be clippid, and Rachel hadde stolne þe mawmetis of hir fadir.
 xx And Jacob nolde knowleche to his wyues fader, þat he wolde flee;
 xxi and whanne he was goon, boþe he and alle þingis þat weren of his riȝt, and þe flode passid ouer shulde go aȝens þe hil of Galaad, xxii it was tolde to Laban, þe þridde day, þat Jacob fleeiȝ.
 xxiii Pe which, his briþeren takun wiþ hym, purfuede hym seuen dayes, and ouertook hym in þe hil of Galaad.
 xxiv And he lawȝ in his sleep þe Lord seiyng to hym, Be war leſt eny þing sharpli þow speek aȝens Jacob.

xxv And now Jacob hadde strauȝte a tabernacle in þe hil; and whan he hadde takun hym wiþ his briþeren, in þe same hil of Galaad, he ficchide a tent;

xxvi and he feide to Jacob, Whi didist þow þus, þat bifyde me þow dryue awey my dowȝtris as caytyues wiþ swerde?

xxvii Whi vnwitynge me woldist þow fle, ne shewe to me, þat Y myȝte forþ folwe þee wiþ ioye, and songis, and tympans, and harpis?

xxviii þow suffredist not þat Y myȝte kisse my sones and dowȝtris; folily þow haſt vrouȝt.

xxix And now forſoþe myn hoond may ȝeeld to þee yuel, but God of þi fader ȝiftday feide to me, Be war leſt þow speek wiþ Jacob eny þing harder.

xxx And if þow coueytidist to goo to þine, and þe hows of þi fadir was in desyr to þee, whi haſt þow stoln my goddis?

xxxi Jacob anſweride, Pat þus fro þee I am goon forþ, Y dredde leſt violentli þow ſhuldifſ taak awey þi dowȝtris;

xxxii þat forſoþe þow vndirnymift me of þeft, anentif whom euer þow fyndifſ þi goddis, be he flaw bifor our briþeren; and ferch what euer of þi þing anentis me þow fyndifſ, and taak awey. Þes þingis feiynge, he knewe not þat Rachel hadde stoln þe mawmetis.

xxxiii And fo Laban, goon into þe tabernacle of Jacob, and Lya, and of eiper meyne, fonde nouȝt; and whan he was goon yn to þe tentis of Rachel,

xxxiv she hiynge hidde þe mawmetis vndur þe literyng of a camele, and sat aboue. And to hym, aſerchyng al þe tent and no þing fyndyng, xxxv she ſeiþ, Be not, my lord, wroþ þat Y may not aryse biſore þee, for after þe vſage of wymmen now it is fallen to me; and so bigilid is þe bifynes of hym ſechinge.

xxxvi And Jacob fwellynge, ſeiþ wiþ ſtriyf, For what my trespas, and for what my synne, haſt þow þus fulbrent after me, xxxvii and haſt enſerched alle my necessaryes of hows? What haſt þow foundun of eny ſubſtawnce of þin hows? Putte þat biſore my briþeren and toforñ þi briþeren, and deme þei bitwix me and þee.

xxxviii Perfor twenti wynter haue I ben wiþ þee? þi ſhep and þi geit weren not barein, þe weþeris of þi flok Y ete not,

xxxix ne takun of beeſt I fhewide to þee; Y al þe harm ȝolde; al þing of þeft þat perifhide, of me þow aſkidifſ;

xli day and nyȝt wiþ hoot and coolde Y was ſtreynyd, and ſleep fleiȝ fro myn eyen;

xlii ſo þurȝ out twenti zeer in þin hows Y feruede to þee, fourtene for þi dowȝtres, and fixe for þi flockis; forſoþe þow chaungedifſ my mede ten ſlipis.

xliii But þe God of my fader Abraham, and þe drede of Yſaac hadde ben to me, perauenture nakid now þou haddifſ laſt me; myn affliccioun and þe trauel of myn hondis þe Lord bihelde, and vndernam þee ȝesterday.

xlii Laban anſweride to hym, My dowȝtres, and sones, and þi flockis, and alle þat þow biholdifſ, ben myne, and what may Y do to my sones, and to my neces?

xliii Com þanne, and goo we into couenaunt of pees, þat witneſſe be bitwixe me and þee.

xli And so Jacob took a ſtoon, and areryde it into a title, xlii and feide to his briþeren, Bryngiþ to ſtoons; þe whiche gederynge togidere, maden an hillock, and eten þer vpon.

xliii þe which Laban clepyde an hillock of witnes, and Jacob an hipil of wytnessyng; eiþer after þe proprete of his tunge.

xlvii And Laban feide, Þis hillock ſhal be witnes bitwixe me and þee to day, and þerfor þe name of it is clepid Galaad, þat is, þe hillock of witnes.

xlix And Laban leide to, þe Lord biholde, and deme bitwixen vs, whanne we ſhulen goo from vs;

i if þow turmente my dowȝtres, if þow bryngifſ yn oþer wyues vpon hem, no man of oure word is witnes, faue God, þat preſent biholdiþ.

ii And eft he feide to Jacob, Loo! þis hillock, and þe ſtoon þat I haue rerid bitwixe me and þee, iii witnes ſhal be; þis hilloc, and þe ſtoon ben into witnessyng, if forſoþe I ſhall paſſe it goynge to þee, or þow ouerpaffiſt yuel to me þenkynge.

iv God of Abraham, and God of Nachor, deme bitwix vs, þe God of þe fader of hem. Panne Jacob ſwore by þe drede of his fader Yſaac; vii and, offrid flayn ſacrifice in þe hil, he clepide his briþeren þat þei ſhulden eete breed, þe whiche whanne þei hadden etun, dwelten þere.

iv Laban forſoþe at nyȝt aryſyng, kiſſide þe sones, and his douȝtris, and bliſſide to hem, turnyng aȝen into his place.

Capitulum XXXII.

i Jacob forſoþe wente in his weie þat he biganne, and þere weren to hym met aungels of þe Lord.

ii Whom whanne he hadde feen, ſeiþ, Pe tentis of God ben þes; and he clepide þe name of þat place Manaym, þat is, tentis.

iii And he ſente forſoþe meſſangeris bifor hym to Esau, his broþer, into þe loond of Seyr, in þe regioune of Edom;

iv and he comaundide to hem, feiynge, þus ſpeck ȝe to my lord Esau, Þes þingis ſeiþ þi broþer Jacob, At Laban I haue pylgrimagid, and was vnto þe preſent day;

v I haue oxen, and affiſ, and ſheep, and ſeruauntis, and handmaydens, and I ſende now a meſſage to my lord, þat Y fynde grace in þi ſiȝt.

vi And þe messangeris ben comun aȝen to Jacob, seiyng, We comen to Esau, þi broþer, and loo! he goþ into þin aȝen-comyng, wiþ foure hundrid men.
 vii Jacob ful myche dred, and afeerd dyuydide his peple þat wiþ him was, þe flockis forsoþe, and sheep, and oxen, and camels diuydid in two companyes; viii seiyng, If Esau come to be too companye, and smyte it, þe toþer companye þat is laſte þhal be fauyd.
 ix And Jacob feide, God of my fader Abraham, and God of my fader Ysaac, þow Lord, þat seidist to me, Turne aȝen into þi loond, and into þe place of þi birþe, and I shal wel do to þee.
 x Y am laſte þan alle þi mercyes, and þi trewþe þat þow haſt fulfillid to þi seruaunt; in my ſtaf I haue paſſid þis Jordan, and now wiþ two companyes Y turne aȝen; xi delyuer me of þe hoond of my broþer Esau, for greetly Y drede hym, leſt perauenture comyng he smyte þe moders wiþ þe children.
 xii þow haſt ſpokun þat þou ſhuldif wel do to me, and þat þow ſhuldif ſprede abrood my feed as þe grauel of þe fee, þat for multitude may not be noumbred.
 xiii And whanne he hadde ſlept þere þat nyȝt, he ſeueride of þat þat he hadde ȝiftys to Esau, his broþer, xiv the geyte two hundrid, hee geyte twenty, ſheepe two hundrid, and weberis twenti, xv camels fulle wiþ her coltis þretti, kien fourti, and bullis twenti, the affis twenti, and þe coltis of hem ten.
 xvi And he ſente bi þe hondis of his seruauntis eche oon after ober þe flockis aſide; and he feide to his children, Goo ȝe before me, and be þere a ſpace bitwixe flok and flok.
 xvii And he comaundide to þe forþer, seiyng, If þow mete my broþer Esau, and he alke þee, whos art þow, or whidir þow goſt, or whos ben þes þat þow folwiſt, xviii þou ſhalt anſwere, Of þi seruaunt Jacob, ȝiftis he haþ ſent to his lord Esau, and he comeþ after vs.
 xix þe fame wyſe he ȝauē maundementis to þe fecounde, and þe þridde, and to alle þat folwedен þe flockis, seiyng, In þe fame wordis ſpek ȝe to Esau, whanne ȝe fynden hym, xx and ȝe ſhulen adde, And he þi seruaunt Jacob oure weie in folwiþ. He feide forſoþe, Y ſhal pleſe hym wiþ ȝiftis þat goon before, and afterward Y ſhal ſe hym; perauenture he ſhal be maad plesid to me.
 xxi And ſo before ȝeden þe ȝiftis before hym; he forſoþe dwelte þat nyȝt in tentis.
 xxii And whanne ſobirly he was aryſun, he toke his two wyues, and as feel seruauntis wiþ elleuen ſones, and he ouerpaffide þe foorþ of Jaboth.
 xxiii And, ouerladde alle þingis þat to hym perteyned,
 xxiv he dwelte aloon, and loo! a man wristlide wiþ hym vnto þe morwe.
 xxv þe which whanne he ſawȝ þat he myȝte not ouercome hym, he towchide þe synwe of his hip, and anoon it wexe drye.

xxvi And he feide to hym, Leeue me, forſoþe now vpſteyeþ þe morwetide. He anſweride, I ſhal not leeue þee, but if þow bliſſe to me.
 xxvii þanne he ſeiþ, What is þe name of þee? He anſweride, Jacob.
 xxviii And he, No more, he ſeiþ, Jacob ſhal be clepid þi name, but Ifrael; for if anentis God þow haſt ben ſtrong, myche more anentis men þow ſhalt haue þe mayſtri.
 xxix Jacob aſkide hym, Sey to me what name art þow clepid? He anſweride, Wherto aſkif þow my name, þat is merueilows? And he bliſſide hym in þe ſame place.
 xxx And Jacob clepide þe name of þat place Phanuel, seiyng, I haue ſeen þe Lord face to face, and my ſoule is maad ſaad.
 xxxi And anoon is ryſun to hym þe ſunne, after þat he was ouerpaffid Phanuel; he forſoþe hal tide wiþ þe too foote.
 xxxii For what caufe þe children of Israel eten not synwe, þat wexe drie in þe hipe of Jacob, vnto þe day þat is now, þerþurȝ þat he towchide þe synwe of his hipe, and it was ſtoneyd.

Capitulum XXXIII.

i Jacob forſoþe heuyng vp þe eyen ſawȝ Esau comyng, and wiþ hym foure hundrid men; and he departide þe ſones of Lya, and of Rachel, and of boþ his seruauntis.
 ii And he putte eiþer handmayden, and þe fre children of hem, in þe bigynnyng; Lya forſoþe in þe ſecounde place, and þe ſones of hyr; Rachel and Jofeph laſte.
 iii And he before goynge anouride bowide into þe erþe ſeuensiþes, to þe tyme þat þe broþer 'of hym ſhulde neijȝ.
 iv And ſo Esau rennyng to meeþe wiþ his broþer, cleppide hym, and ſtreynynge hys necke and kiffynge wepte.
 v And þe eyen heued vp, ſawȝ wymmen, and þe children of hem, and ſeiþ, What to hem wiln þes? and if þei perteynen to þee? He anſweride, Litil children þei ben, whom God haþ ȝouun to me, þi seruaunt.
 vi And neijȝynge þe handmaydens and þe ſones of hem, ben doun bowid.
 vii And Lya wiþ her children com nerre; and whanne þe fame maner þei hadden anowrned, þe laſte Jofeph and Rachel anowryden.
 viii And Esau feide, What forſoþe ben þes companyes þat Y mette? He anſwerde, þat I ſhulde fynde grace before my lord.
 ix And he ſeiþ, Y haue many þingis, broþer myne, ben þi þingis to þee.
 x Jacob feide, Nyl þow ſo, Y preye, but if Y haue foundun grace in þin eyen, taak a litil ȝift of myn hoondis; ſo forſoþe Y haue ſeyn þi face as Y ſe þe chere of God; be þow to me benygne, xi and taak þe blifysyng þat Y haue brouȝt to þee, and þat God delyuerynge alle þingis haþ ȝouun to me.

 Vnneþ, þe broþer compellynge, takynge seiþ, xii Goo we togideres, and Y shal be felowe of þi weye.
 xiii And Jacob seyde, My lord, þow hast knowun þat Y haue tender litil children, and sheep, and oxen ful wombe wiþ ynne, þe whiche if more yn goyng Y do to traueyl, þei shulen o day alle þe flockis dyen; xiv my lord go bifore his feruaunt, and Y shal folwe litil mele þe steppis of hym, as Y se my litil children to mowen, to þe tyme þat Y come to my lord, in Seyr.
 xv Esau answeride, Y preye þee, þat of þe puple þat is wiþ me, algatis felawis dwellen of þi weye. It is not, he seiþ, nede; þis oon oonlich Y nede, þat Y fynde grace in þi siȝt, lord myne.
 xvi And so Esau is turned aȝen þat day in þe weye þat he come, into Seyr.
 xvii And Jacob com into Sachot, where a hows bild, and þe tentis fycchid, he clepide þe name of þat place Sachot, þat is, tabernaclis.
 xviii And he passide forþ into Salem, þe cite of Sychymor, þat is in þe loond of Chanaan, aftir þat he was turned aȝen fro Mesopotany of Syrye, and dwellide bifydis þe wallid town; xix and bouȝt a parti of þe feeld, in þe which he flicchide tabernaclis, of þe sones of Emor, þe fader of Sichym, wiþ an hundrid lombis.
 xx And þere, an auter reryd, he inwardly clepide vpon þe moost strong God of Ifrael.

Capitulum XXXIII.

i Dyne, þe dowȝter of Lya, forsoþe was goon oute, þat she myȝte se wymmen of þat regiouȝ.
 ii Whom whanne hadde seen Sichym, þe sone of Emor Euey, þe prince of þat loond, louede hir, and rauyshide, and slepte wiþ hir, wiþ force oppreside a mayden.
 iii And þe soule of hym was glewid wiþ hir, and hir forsy he swagide wiþ softnessis.
 iv And he goyng to Emor, his fadir, Tak to me, he seiþ, þis damyfele to wif.
 v Þe which whanne Jacob hadde herd, absent þe sones, and in þe foode of þe beestis occupied, he heelde his pees, to þe tyme þei comen aȝen.
 vi Emor forsoþe, þe fader of Sichem, goon oute, þat he myȝte speke to Jacob, vii loo! þe sones of hym comen fro þe feelde. And þe þing herd þat was fallen, þei weren ful wroþ, þerþurȝ þat a fowle þing he hadde wrouȝt in Ifrael, and þe dowȝter of Jacob defowlid, an vnleueful þing hadde fulfillid.
 viii And so Emor speke to hem, Þe soule of my sone Sichem haþ cleued to ȝoure dowȝter, ȝyueþ hir wif to
 hym,

ix and ioyne we togidere maryagis; ȝoure dowȝtres ȝif ȝe to vs, and oure dowȝtres taak ȝe, x and dwel ȝe wiþ vs; þe loond is in ȝoure power, excersise ȝe, chaffare ȝe, and haue ȝe it.
 xi But and Sichem to þe fader and to þe breþeren of hir seiþ, Fynde Y grace bifore ȝow, and what þing ȝe ordeyne Y shal ȝyue;
 xii eche ȝe dower, and aske ȝe ȝiftis, gladly Y shal ȝyue þat ȝe asken; oonly ȝyf ȝe to me þis damefele to wif.
 xiii þe sones of Jacob answeriden to Sichem and to þe fader of hym in trechory, waxynge cruel for þe stupre of þe sister, xiv We mowen not doon þat ȝe asken, ne ȝyue oure sister to a man vncircumsidid, þe which is vnleful and wrongful anentis vs.
 xv But in þat we mowen ben togidere boundun, if ȝe wole be like vs, and al kynde of maal be circumfisid in ȝow,
 xvi þanne we shulen ȝyue and take togidere oure dowȝtries and ȝouren; and we shulen dwelle wiþ ȝow, and we shulen be o peple.
 xvii If forsoþe ȝe wolen not be circumfisid, we shulen take our dowȝtries, and goo awey.
 xviii þe profre of hem pleside to Emor and to Sichem,
 his sone,
 xix ne þe ȝonglyng tariede, but anoon þat þat was askid he shulde fulfil; forsoþe he louede ful greetli þe damyfele, and he was noble in al þe hows of his fader.
 xx And þei goon yn þe ȝate of þe cite, speken to þe
 puple,
 xxi þes men ben pefible, and wolen dwelle wiþ vs; chaffare þei in þe loond, and excersise þei it, þe which large and broode nedis tyliers; þe dowȝtries of hem we shulen take wyues, and oure we shulen ȝyue to hem.
 xxii O þing is þat puttiþ off so myche good; if we circumfiden oure males, folwynge þe ryte of þe folk, xxiii and þe substancie of hem, and þe beestis, and al þat þei han shulen be ouren; oonli in þat assent we, þat dwellynge togidrys we maken o peple.
 xxiv And alle þei ben assentid, alle þe malis circumfisid.
 xxv And loo! þe briðde day, whanne þe forwe of þe woundes is moost greuows, þe two sones of Jacob, Symyon and Leuy, þe briþeren of Dyne, drawnen to her swerdis, ben goon into þe cyte tristiliche, and fleyn alle þe males;
 xxvi Emor and Sichem togideres þei flewen, takynge Dyne, her sister, fro þe hows of Sichem. xxvii þe which goon oute, þe toþer sones of Jacob fallen vpon þe slayn men, and þei distrayden þe cyte, in to vengeance of þe stupre, xxviii þe sheep of hem, droues, and asses, and alle þingis waftyng, þat in þe howlis and in þe feeldis weren; xxix þe litil children forsoþe, and þe wyues of hem þei ladden cheytues. Þe whiche þingis ful doon hardilich, xxx Jacob seyde to Symyon and Leuy, ȝe han disturbid me, and ȝe han maad me haatsum to Chananeis and Phareȝeis, þe dwellers of þis loond; we ben fewe, and þei gederyd to giderys shulen smyte me, and Y shall be doon awey and myn hows.

xxxi ȝei answerten, Wheþer as a strumpet þei shulden myfuse oure fistre?

Capitulum XXXV.

i The mene tyme þe Lord spak to Jacob, Aryse, and stey to Bethel, and dwel þere, and mak an autere to þe Lord, þat aperide to þee whanne þou flowȝ Efau, þi broþer.

ii Jacob forsoþe, al his hows clepid togidere, seiþ, Dop awey alyen goddis, þat ben in þe mydil of ȝow, and be ȝe clenfid, and chaunge ȝe ȝoure cloþis;

iii rise ȝe, and steye we vp in to Bethel, þat we maken þere an autere to þe Lord, þe which haþ herd me in þe day of my tribulacioun, and was felaw of my weye.

iv Panne ȝei ȝyuen to hym alle alyen goddis þat þei hadden, and þe eer ryngis, þat weren in þe ȝrys of hem; and he indeluued hem vndur an theribynte, þat is bihynde þe cite of Sichem.

Capitulum XXXVIII.

i Judas descendyng þe same tyme fro his briþeren, turnede to a man Odollamyte, Hyram bi name;
 ii and he sawȝ þere þe dowȝter of a Chanany man, Sue bi name. And a wijf takun, ȝede into hir, iii þe which confeyued, and bare a childe, and clepide þe name of hym Her.
 iv And eftsones conceyued þe kynde, she nemnyde þe born sone Onam.
 v And þe ȝridde child she bare, whom she clepide Sela, þe which born, seefide to more bere childe.
 vi Judas forsoþe ȝaue a wijf to his first getun Her, Thamar bi name.
 vii And Her, þe first getun of Jude, was wickid in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and þerfor was slayn of hym.
 viii Þanne Judas seide to Onam, his sone, Go yn to þe wijf of þi broþer, and be þow felawshipte to hir, þat þow rere seed to þi broþer.
 ix He wytyng sones to be born not to hym, goynge to þe wijf of his broþer, shede þe seed into þe erþe, left fre children weren born in name of þe broþer;
 x and þerfor þe Lord smote hym, þerþurȝ þat a cursid þing he dide.
 xi Wherfore Judas seide to Thamar, þe wijf of his sone,
 Be þow a widwe in þe hows of þi fader, to þe tyme þat Sela my sone growe; forsoþe he dredde left and he shulde dye as þe briþeren of hym. Þe which ȝede, and dwelte in þe hows of hir fader.

xii And manye ȝerys ouergoon, diede Sue, þe wif of Jude, þe which after weilyng coumfort takun, stieide vp to þe sheepherdis of his sheep, he and Yras, þe sheepherd of þe flok, Odollamyte, in Tampnas.
 xiii And it was told to Thamar, þat hir housbonde fader stieide vp into Tampnas, to þe sheep þat shulden be clippid.
 xiv þe which, þe cloþis of widewhed don down, toke to a roket, and þe abite chaungid, sat in þe place of two weyes þat ledeþ to Tampnam; þerþurȝ þat Sela was growun, and she hadde not takun hym to housbonde.
 xv Whom whanne Judas hadde seen, he trowide hir to ben a strumpet; she forsoþe hadde couerede hir chere, lest she were knowun.
 xvi And he yngoynge to hir, seiþ, Lat me, þat Y goo togidere wiþ þee; forsoþe he wiste not þat she was þe wif of his sone. þe which answerynge, What þhal þow ȝyue me, þat þow vse me wiþ liggyng?
 xvii he seide, Y þhal sende to þee a kidde fro þe flockis. And eft she seiyng, I þhal suffre þat þow wolt, if þow ȝyue to me a wedde, to þe tyme þat þow sende þat þat þow bihotist.
 xviii Judas seiþ, What to þee wolt þow be ȝouun for a wedde? She answeryde, Bi ryng, and þin armfercle, and þe staf þat þow holdist in þin hoond. Panne at oon togiders goynge þe womman conceyued, xix and aryfynge, she ȝede a wey; and þe abite doon doun þat she toke, she is cloþid wiþ þe cloþis of widewhod.
 xx Judas forsoþe fente a kidde bi his sheepherd Odollomyte, þat he shulde take a wedde þat he ȝaue to þe womman; þe which whanne he hadde not foundun hir, xxi askide þe men of þat place, Where is þe womman þat sat in þe two weies? answerynge alle men, Þere was not in þis place a strumpet.
 xxii And he turnede aȝen to Juda, and seide to hym, I haue not foundun hir, but and þe men of þat place feiden to me, neuer þere to haue fittun a strumpet.
 xxiii Judas seiþ, Haue she to hir silf, certis of lesynge vndurnym vs she may not; I haue sente a kydd þat Y bihiȝte, and þow haft not foundun hir.
 xxiv Loo! forsoþe after þre moneþis men tolden to Jude, seiyng, Thamar, bi sones wif, haþ doon fornycacioun, and þe wombe of hir is seen to wexe ful greet. And Judas seide, Bryng hir forþ, þat she be brent.
 xxv þe which whanne she shulde be lad to þe peyne, fent to her housbond fader, seiyng, Of þe man whos bes ben Y haue conseyued; know þow whos is þe ryng, and þe arm ferclle, and þe staf?
 xxvi þe which, þe ȝiftis knowun, seiþ, She is more riȝtwile þan Y, for I haue not takun hir to Sela, my sone; and neuerþelater ouer þat tyme he knewe hir not.
 xxvii Forsoþe instondyng þe beryng, gemels apereden in þe wombe, xxviii and in þat heeldyng out of þe children, þe toon putte forþ an hoond, in þe which þe medewife bonde a reed þreed, seiying, His shal goon out raþer.

xxix He forsoþe drawyng aȝen þe hoond, ȝede out þe toþer, and þe womman seide, Whi is þe wal for þee dyuydid? And for þat caufe she clepide þe name of hym Phares.

xxx Afterwarde ȝede out þe broþer of hym, in whos hoond was þe reed þreed, whom she clepyde Zaram.

Capitulum XXXIX.

i Thanne Joseph was lad into Egepte, and bouȝt hym Putiphar, þe geldyng of Pharao, þe prince of his oost Egipciens, fro þe hondis of Ismaelitis, of whiche he was brouȝt.

ii And þe Lord was wiþ him, and he was a man in alle þingis welfumly doyng. And he dwellide in þe hows of his lord, iii þe which alþerbest knewe þe Lord to be wiþ hym, and alle þingis þat he shulde doon, of hym to be greipid in þe hoond of hym.

iv And Joseph fonde grace bifore his lord, and mynystride to hym, of whom bifore putte to alle þingis, gouernede þe hows takun to hym, and alle þingis þat to hym weren bitauȝt.

v And þe Lord blisſide to þe hows of þe Egipcyen for Joseph, and multiplieðe, as wel in howfys as in feeldis, al þe substaunce of hym;

vi ne eny þing oper knewe but þe breed þat he eete. And Joseph was fayr in face, and seemly in siȝt.

vii And so after many dayes þe ladi keste hir eyen in Joseph, and seiþ, Sleep wiþ me;

viii þe which not assentyng to þe shrewid dede, feide to hir, Loo! my lord alle þingis to me takun, vnknowiȝ what he haþ in his hows, ix ne eny þing is, þat is not in my power, or haþ not takun to me, saue þee, þat art þe wif of hym; how banne may Y þat yuel don, and synne in my God?

x Wiþ siche maner wordis bi alle daies þei speken, and þe womman was greuyd to þe ȝonge man, and he refuside þe hordom.

xi It felle forsoþe a day, þat Joseph shulde goo into þe hows, and sumwhat of werk he shulde do wiþ outen witneſſis.

xii And she, þe hemme takun of þe cloþing of hym, shulde seye, Slep wiþ me; þe which, forþakun þe mantil in þe honde of hir, fleiȝ, and ȝede oute.

xiii And whanne þe womman hadde seen þe cloþ in hir hondes, and hir to be dispiȝid, xiv clepide to hir men of hir hows, and seide to hem, Loo! he haþ brouȝt yn an Ebew man, þat he shulde bigile vs; he was comun yn to me, þat he shulde togidere goo wiþ me, and whanne Y hadde vndercried, xv and he herde my voys, he forsoke þe mantil þat I heelde, and fleiȝ out.

xvi Panne in argument of bileue, þe holdun mantil she shewide to be houſbonde turnyng aȝen hoom.
xvii And seiþ, To me is comun yn an Ebrew feruaunt, whom þow hidir brouȝtist, þat he shulde bigijl me;
xviii and whanne he hadde seen me to crye, he forſoke þe mantil þat I heelde, and fleiȝ out.
xix Þes þingis herd, and þe lord to mych leueful to þe wordis of þe wif, was ful wroþ;
xx and toke Jofeph into prysoun, where þe gyued men of þe kyng weren kept, and he was þere cloſid.
xxi þe Lord forſoþe was wiþ Joseph, and hauyng rewþe of hym, ȝaue to hym grace in þe ſiȝt of þe prince of þe prysoun, xxii þe which toke in þe hond of him alle þe gyued men þat weren holdun in kepyng, and what þing was doon was vndur hym, xxiii ne he knewe eny þing, alle þingis takun to hym; þe Lord forſoþe was wiþ hym, and made redi alle þe werkys of hym.

Capitulum XL.

i And so þes þingis doon, fel þat two geldyngis synneden, þe botler of þe kyng of Egepte, and þe baker, to her lord.
ii And Pharao wroþ aȝens hem, for þe toþer was bifore to botlers, and þe toþir to bakers, iii putte hem into þe prisoun of þe prince of knyȝtis, in þe which and Joseph was gyued.
iv And þe kepere of þe prisoun tok hem to Joseph, þe which and mynstryde to hem. A litil of tyme ȝede bitwixe, and þei in keping weren holdun, v and boþ seen a sweuen oon nyȝt, aftir couenable vndoing to hem.
vi To whom whanne Joseph cam yn eerly, and fawȝ hem drery, vii askide hem, seiynge, Whi dreryer is ȝoure face to day þan it was wonte?
viii þe which anſweryden, A sweuen we han seen, and þer is not þat wol vndo it vs. And Joseph feide to hem, Wheþer not of God is þe vndoing? Telle ȝe to me what ȝe han seen.
ix And þe prouest of botlers bifore tolde his sweuen; I fawȝ bifore me a vyne, x in þe which weren þre braunchis growun litil mele into cluſtris, and after floures þe grapes to wexe ryp, xi and þe chalice of Pharao in myn hoond; þanne I toke grapes, and wrong into þe chalice þat Y heelde, and toke drynke to Pharao.
xii Joseph anſweryde, Þis is þe vndoing of þe sweuen; þre braunches þre ȝit dayes ben, xiii after whiche Pharao shal record of þi seruyce, and shal restore þee to þe bifore had gree, and þow shalt ȝyue to hym a chalice, after þin office, as þow were wont to do bifore.

xiv As myche haue mynde of me, whanne it were wel wiþ þee, and mercy þow shalt do wiþ me, þat þow make fuggeſtioun to Pharao, þat he lede me out of þis prisoun;
xv for þeuelich Y am had a wey fro þe loond of Hebrew, and here an ynnocent Y am ſent into a laak.
xvi Seynge þe mayſter of bakers þat he hadde vndo wiſeli þe ſweuen, seiþ, And I fawȝ a ſweuen, þat I hadde pree baſketis of melow vpon myn heed, xvii and yn þe o baſket, þat was heiȝer, Y trowide me to bere al maner metis þat ben made wiþ bakers craft, and bryddis to eet þeroſ.
xviii And Joseph anſweride, Þis is þe vndoing of þe ſweuen; þre baſkettis þre ȝit dayes ben, xix aftir whom Pharao shal take a wey þin heed, and shal honge þee in þe croſſe, and fowlis ſhulen teere þi fleiſh.
xx And fro þens þe þridde day was þe birþe day of Pharao, þe which makyng a greet feeste to his children, recordid amoneg þe meetis of þe mayſter of botlers, and of þe prince of bakers;
xi and restoryde þe toþer into his place, þat he bryngे forþ drynke to þe kyng, xxii þe toþer he hongide in a gibite, þat þe ſoþnes of þe remener were proued.
xxiii And neuerþelater after fallynge welsum þingis, þe prouest of botelers forȝete of his dreem redēr.

Capitulum XLI.

i After two ȝeer Pharao ſawe a ſweuen; he trowide him to ſtonde vpon a flood, ii of þe which ſteyden vp ſeuene fayre oxen and ful fatte, and þei weren fed in merſhi places;
iii and ober ſeuene out comen of þe flood, fowle and al ouercomen wiþ leenesse, and þei weren fedde in þe brenke of þe flood, in moost plenteuows grene places;
iv and þei deuouriden hem of whom was merueilous faymes and proporcioun of bodies. Pharao wakned, v flepte eftſones, and fawȝ anoþer ſweuen; ſeuene eerys buriounde in o stalk and ful fayr, vi and oþer as feel eerys, þinne and ſmytun wiþ meldew, weren growun, vii deuowrynge al þe fayrnes of þe firſt. Pharao, a wakynge after reſte, viii and þe morwetide bigunne, feerd for drede, ſente to alle þe reders of Egepte, and to all þe wiſe men, and hem clepid to, tolde þe ſweuen, and þere was not þat vndide it.
ix Panne at þe laſt þe maiftor of botlers remembryng, seiþ, I knowleche my synne; x þe king wroþ to his feruauntis, me and þe mayſter of bakers comaundid to be put in prisoun of þe prince of knyȝtis, xi where eiþer o nyȝt seen a ſweuen, bifore ſhewynge of þingis þat ben to comun.

xii Pere was `a seruant, Hebrew childe, of þe same duke of knyȝtis, to whom tellynge þe sweuenes, xiii we herden alle þingis þat afterward þe oute comyng of þe þing proued; forsoþe Y am ȝoldun aȝen to myn office, and he was hongid in þe crosse.
xiv Anoon þei doddiden Joseph lad out of þe prisoun, at þe maundement of þe kyng, and wiþ chaungid cloþing offreden to hym.
xv To whom he seip, I sawȝ sweuens, ne þere is þat opniþ, þe which I haue herd þe moost wiseli to caste.
xvi Joseph answarde, God wiþ outen me shal answere welsum þingis to Pharaoo.
xvii Panne Pharaao tolde þat he sawȝ; I wende me to stonde vpon þe brynk of þe flood, xviii and feuen oxen fro þe flood togideres steyden vp, ful greetli fayr and þurȝ oute wiþ fatt fleish, þe whiche in þe pasture of mershe þe grene lefvis chefeden;
xix and loo! þes folweden oþer feuen oxen, in as myche defourme and leene, þat neuer siche in þe loond of Egipte Y sawȝ;
xx þe whiche þe raþer deuowrid and waſtid, xxi no merke of fulfedyn ȝouun, but wiþ þe same leenesse and foulnes bei dwelten. A wakyng, xxii eftſones born doun wiþ fleepe, I sawȝ a sweuen; feuene eeris buriounde in o stalk, ful and moost fayr, xxiii and oþer feuen, þinne and smytun wiþ a brennyng blaſte, growiden of þe stalk, xxiv þe whiche deuowreden þe fayrnes of þe raþer. I haue tolde to þe reders þe sweuen, and no man is þat out openiþ.
xxv Joseph answerde, þe sweuen of þe kyng is oon; þe þingis þat God is to do he shewede to Pharaao.
xxvi Seuen oxen fayr, and feuen eerys fulle, feuen ȝeris of plentiþ ben, and þe same strengþe of sweuen holdun;
xxvii and þe feuen oxen þinne and leene, þe whiche steyden after hem, and feuen eeris þinne and smytun wiþ a brennyng wynde, feuen ȝeris ben of hungur to comen, xxviii þe whiche bi þis ordre shulen be fulfillid.
xxix Loo! feuen ȝeres shulen come of greet plente in al þe loond of Egipte, xxx whom shulen folwe oþere feuen ȝeer of as greet bareynes, þat to forgetyng be takun al þe biyhnd plenteþnes; xxxi forsoþe to waste is hungur al þe erþe, and þe greetnes of myseys is to spille þe greetnes of plentiþe.
xxxii þat forsoþe þow haſt seyn ſecoundli a sweuen perteyning to þe same þing, shewyng is of fastnesse, þerþurȝ þat þe worde of God be doon, and swifloker be fulſild.
xxxiii Now þanne puruey þe kyng a wife man and a redi, and before maak hym to þe loond of Egipte, xxxiv þe which ordeyn proueltis þoruȝ out alle regiouns, and þe fifte part of fruytis þoruȝ out þe feuen ȝeer of plenteþ, xxxv þat now ben to comen, now geder he in to þe beernes; and al þe wheet be leide vndur þe power of Pharaao, and be kepte in þe cytee, xxxvi and be bifore made redi to þe hungur to come of þe feuen ȝeer, þe which is to opprefþe Egipte, and þe loond be not confumed wiþ myschef.

xxxvii þe counſeil pleſide to Pharaao, and to alle þe mynistris of hym, xxxviii and he ſpake to hem, We mowen not fynde ſuch a man þe which be ful of þe ſpiryt of God.
xxxix Panne he ſeide to Joseph, For God haþ ſhewed to þee alle þingis þat þow haſt ſpokun, wheþer a wiſer or a liyk to þee fynde Y may?
xl þow ſhalt be vpon myn hows, and at þe maundement of þi mouȝ al þe puple ſhal obeishe; in o þing oonli in dignyty of þe rewme þee Y ſhal go bifore.
xli And eft Pharaao ſeide to Joseph, Loo! Y haue ordeynyd þee vpon al þe loond of Egipte.
xlii And he took a ryng of his hoond, and ȝaue hym in his hoond, and he cloþide hym a ſtool of biys, and putte aboue his necke a goldun beeȝe, xliii and made him ſteyȝ vpon his ſecound chaar, criyng a bedel, þat alle men ſhulden bifore hym knele, and bei ſhulden wite hym to be proueft to al þe loond of Egipte.
xlii And þe kyng ſeide to Joseph, I am Pharaao, wiþ outen þi maundement ſhal not eny man meue hoond or foot in þe loond of Egipte.
xliii And he turnede þe name of hym, and he clepide hym in Egipcian tung, þe faueror of þe world; and he ȝaue to hym a wif, Afenech, þe dowȝter of Putifar, preeſt of Helyopoleos. And fo Joseph, goon oute to þe loond of Egipte, xlii forſoþe was of þriddi wynter whanne he ſtode in þe ſiȝt of kyng Pharaao, and he ȝede aboue alle þe regiouns of Egipte.
xliii And plentiþnes cam of þe feuen ȝeer, and þe cornes maad into handfullis ben gederyd into beernes of Egipte, xlvii and al þe plentiþ of fruytis in alle þe citees was leide to kepe, xliii and þe plentiþe of wheet was so myche, þat to þe grauel of þe ſee it was meſurid euen, and þe plentiþ paſſide meſure.
li To Joseph forſoþe weren borne two ſones bifore þat þe hunger cam, whom to him bare Afenech, þe dowȝter of Putifar, preeſt of Helyopoleos.
lii And he clepide þe name of þe first gotun Manasses, ſeiyng, God haþ maad me to forȝete alle my trauayls, and þe hows of my fader;
liii and þe name of þe ſecounde he clepide Effraym, ſeiyng, God haþ maad me growe in þe loond of my pornes.
liii Panne ouerpaffed feuen ȝeer of plentiþe þat werein in Egipte, lvi bigunne to come to þe feuen zeer of messeys, whom Joseph seyde byfore, and in al þe world hungur wex greet; also in al þe loond of Egipte was hungur; lv þe which hungring, þe peple cryede to Pharaos, aþkyng lyuelod, to whom he answeride, Gōt to Joseph, and what euere he shal feye to ȝow, doþ. lvi Forsoþe ech day hungur encrefide in al þe loond, and Joseph openyde alle þe beernes, and folde to Egipcyens, for and hem opprefſide hungur; lvii and alle þe prouynces camen into Egipte, þat þei myȝten bigge meetis and þe yuel of myseis swagen.

Capitulum XLII.

i Jacob forsoþe herynge þat lyuelodes weren folde in Egipte, feide to his sones, Whi ben ȝe necgligent? ii I haue herd þat wheat is folde in Egipte, descende ȝe, and biggiþ to vs nedeful þingis, þat we mowen lyue, and we ben not consumed wiþ myseis. iii ȝanne descendynge þe ten briþeren of Joseph þat þei myȝten bigge whete in Egipte, iv Beniamyn wiþholdun at home of Jacob, þe which feide to þe briþeren of hym, Lest perauenture in þe weye eny þing he suffre of yuel. v ȝei ben goon into þe loond of Egipte, wiþ opere þat ȝeden to bigge; forsoþe þere was hungur in þe loond of Chanaan. vi And Joseph was prince of Egipte, and at his bikenyg whete cornes weren folde to þe peplis. And whanne his briþeren hadden lowtid him, vii and he knewe hem, as to aliens harder he spak, aþkyng hem, Whens cam ȝe? ȝe which answeryden, Fro þe loond of Chanaan, þat we biggen nedeful þingis to oure lyuelod. viii And neuerþelater he þe briþeren knowinge is not knowun of hem, ix and recordid of þe sweuen þat sumtyme he sawȝ, seiþ to hem, A spies ȝe ben, ȝe ben comen þat ȝe myȝten se be febler þingis of þe loond. x ȝe whiche feiden, It is not so, lord, but þi seruauntis comen, xi þat ȝei myȝten bie meetis; alle þe sones of o man we ben, pesibl we comen, ne þi seruauntis eny þing casten of yuel. xii To whom he answeryde, Oþer weies yt is, þe vnwardid þingis of þis loond ȝe ben comen to biholde. xiii And ȝei feiden, Twelue briþeren, ȝei seyn, þi seruauntis we ben, þe sones of o man in þe loond of Chanaan; þe leest is wiþ oure fader, þe toþer is not aboue. xiv ȝat is, he seiþ, þat I speke, a spies ȝe ben, xv for now expertyment of ȝow I shal taak, bi þe helþe of Pharaos ȝe shulen not goon hens, to þe tyme þat ȝoure leest broþer come; xvi sendiþ of ȝou oon, and bringe he him, ȝe forsoþe shulen ben in boondis, to þe tyme þat þe þingis þat ȝe han feide ben proued, wheþer fals or soþ ȝei ben; ellis bi þe helþ of Pharaos aspies ȝe ben.

xvii ȝanne he took hem to warde þre daies; xviii þe þridde forsoþe dai ledynge out of prisoun, seiþ, Do ȝe þat I feide, and ȝe shulen lyue, God forsoþ Y drede;

xix if ȝe be pesible, ȝoure o broþer be boundun in prisoun; ȝe forsoþe goþ, and beriþ þe whete þat ȝe han bouȝt into ȝoure howfis, xx and ȝoure leest broþer bryngiþ to me, þat Y may proue ȝoure wordis, and ȝe not die.

xxi And ȝei diden as he feide, and ȝei speken to gideres, ȝurȝ desert þes þingis we suffren, for we han synned in oure broþer, feyng ȝe angwiske of þe soule of hym, while he preyde vs, and we herden not, þerfore comeþ vpon vs þis tribulacioun.

xxii Of þe whiche oon, Ruben, seiþ, Wheþer Y feide not to ȝow, Nyle ȝe synne in þe childe, and ȝe herden not me? loo! þe blood of hym is out souȝt.

xxiii ȝei wilsten not forsoþe þat Joseph shulde vndurstonde, þerþurȝ þat bi a mene persone vndoynge boþ þe langagis he spak to hem.

xxiv And he turnyd hym silf a wey a litol, and he wepte, and turned aȝen he spak to hem; xxv and takynge Symeon, and byndynge hym, hem present, and comaundide to þe mynystris, þat þei shulden fille þe sackis of hem wiþ whete, and leggen aȝen þe money of eche in her sackis, ȝeuun ouer meetis in þe weie; þe whiche diden so.

xxvi And ȝei berynge þe whete in her affis ȝeden forþ, xxvii and þe fak of oon openyd, þat he myȝte ȝyue to his beeþt meete in an inturyng place to reste, biholdun þe money in þe mouȝt of þe fak, xxviii feide to his briþeren, To me is ȝoldun my money, loo! it is had in þe fak; and ȝei stonyed al aboute and sturbed, feiden togideres, What forsoþe is þis þat God haþ doon to vs?

xxix And ȝei comen to Jacob, her fader, in þe loond of Chanaan, and tolden to hym alle þingis þat was fallen to hem, seiynge, xxx ȝe lord of þe loond hard spake to vs, and he wenye vs to be spies of þe prouynce;

xxxi to whom we answerten, We ben pesible, ne we ben not aboute eny spies;

xxxii twelue briþeren of o fadur getun we ben, þe oon is not aboue, þe leest wiþ þe fadur dwelliþ in þe loond of Chanaan.

xxxiii ȝe which seiþ to vs, So I shal proue þat ȝe ben pesible; ȝoure o broþer leeue ȝe anentis me, and meetis to ȝoure housis nedeful take ȝe, and goþ, xxxiv and ȝoure leest broþer lediþ to me, þat Y knowe þat ȝe ben not aspyes, and þis þat is holdun in boondis ȝe mowen refeyue, and þeraftir of biggyng þat ȝe wolen ȝe han leue.

xxxv þes þingis feid, whanne eche heelden out whete, þei founden in þe mouȝt of þe sackis boundun moneys.
 And alle togideres afeerd, xxxvi þe fader Jacob seide, Wiȝ outer free children ȝe han maad me to be; Joseph is not aboue, Symeon is holdun in bondes, Beniamyn ȝe shulen take a wey fro me; alle þes yuels in me han bacwarde fallun.
 xxxvii To whom answarde Ruben, My two sones fle þou, if Y brynge hym not aȝen to þee; taak hym in myn hoond, and Y hym to þee shal ȝelde aȝen.
 xxxviii And he, My sone, he seiþ, shal not descende wiȝ ȝow; þe broþer of hym is deed, and he alone abidiþ; if ony þing to hym of aduersite falle in þe loond to þe which ȝe shulen goon, ȝe shulen lede doun myn hoore heiris wiȝ forwe to helle.

Capitulum XLIII.

i The meene tyme hungur al þe loond greetly bare
 doun;
 ii and, þe meetis brouȝt to ende, þat fro Egipte þei hadden brouȝt, Jacob seide to his sones, Turne ȝe aȝen, and bigge ȝe to vs a litil of meetis.
 iii Judas answarde, Þilke man denounside to vs vndur witnessyng of oþe, feiynge, ȝe shulen not se my face, but ȝoure leeft broþer ȝe bryngen wiȝ ȝow;
 iv if þanne þow wolt sende hym wiȝ vs, we shulen goon togidere, and to þee we shulen bye nedeful þingis;
 v if forsoþe þou wolt not, we wolen not goon; þe man forsoþe, as we han ofte feide, denounside to vs, feiynge, ȝe shulen not se my face wiȝ outer ȝoure leeft broþer.
 vi And Israel seide, Þis ȝe han doon in to my wrecchidnes, þat ȝe wolden shewe to hym and anoþer ȝow to han a broþer.
 vii And þei answarden, þe man askide vs bi ordre oure progenye, if þe fader lyued, if we hadden a broþer; and we answarden to hym fewyngly, aftir þat þat he askide; wheþer we myȝten wite þat he was to seyn, Bryngiȝ wiȝ ȝow ȝoure broþer?
 viii And Judas seide to his fader, Send þe child wiȝ me, þat we goon forþ, and we mowen lyue, leſt dien we
 and oure children;
 ix I take þe child, of myn hoond aȝen aske hym; but if I come aȝen and take hym to þee, Y shal be gilty of synne in þee al tyme;
 x if tariyng hadde not falle bitwix, now eftsones we hadden comen.
 xi Panne Yrael, þe fader of hem, seide to hem, If so it is nede, dop what ȝe wolen; take ȝe of þe beste fruytis of þe loond in ȝoure vefſils, and beriȝ ȝiftis to þe man, a litil of precious licoure of swete gumme, and of hony, and of licoure of þe tree of storax, and of stactes, þe licoure of myrre tree, and of therebynt, and of almaundis;

xii and dowble money bere ȝe wiȝ ȝow, and þat þat ȝe han foundun in þe sackis bere ȝe aȝen, leſt perauenture þurȝ error it be doon;
 xiii but and ȝoure broþer takiȝ, and goþ to þe man;
 xiv and my God Almyȝti make hym plesable to ȝow, and send he aȝen wiȝ ȝow ȝoure broþer, þat he holdiȝ in boondis, and þis Beniamyn; Y forsoþe as priued wiȝ outer free children shal be.
 xv Panne þe men token ȝiftis, and dowble money, and Beniamyn, and descendiden into Egipte, and stoden bifore Joseph.
 xvi Whom whanne he hadde seen, and Beniamyn togidere, he comaundide to þe dispensatowr of his hows, feiynge, Lede yn þe men hoom, and flee þe beetlis of sacrifice, and ordeyne a feefte; for wiȝ me þei ben to etun to day.
 xvii And he dide as it was comaundid, and brouȝte in þe men hoom; xviii and þere þei agast seiden to gideres, For þe money þat we brouȝten bifore in oure sackis we ben lad yn, þat chalengyng he turne in vs, and violently fugette to þraldom and vs and our assis.
 xix Wherfore in þilke ȝatis goyng to, speken to þe dispensatour, xx Syre, we preyen þee, þat þow here vs; now bifore we descenden þat we biggen meetis; xxi þe whiche bouȝt, whanne we comen to þe place of turnyng into reste, we opnyden oure sackis, and we fonden money in þe mouȝt of þe sackis, þat now in þe same peyse we han brouȝt aȝen; xxii but and oper money we han brouȝt, þat we biggen þilke þingis, þat ben necessarye to vs; it ys not in oure conscience, who it putte in oure bagges. xxiii And he answarde, Pees wiȝ ȝow, wole ȝe not drede; ȝoure God and þe God of ȝoure fader halp ȝyue to ȝow tresours in ȝoure sackis; for þe money þat ȝe ȝyuen to me, I haue it aþroed. And he ladde out to hem Symeon;
 xxiv and þei in lad hoom, brouȝt watir, and þei weschen her feet, and he ȝauȝe fodder to þe asses of hem.
 xxv þei forsoþe greiþiden ȝiftis to þe tyme þat Joseph shulde come yn at mydday, þei hadden herde forsoþe, þat þere þei weren to etun breed.
 xxvi Panne Joseph cam into his hows, and þei holdyng ȝiftis in her hondis, offerden to hym, and lowtiden bowid into þe erþe.
 xxvii And he goodly hem aȝen salutid, askide hem, feiynge, Wheþer ȝoure oold fader is saaf, of whom ȝe spaken to me? ȝit lyueþ he?
 xxviii þe whiche answarden, He ys al hool, þi feruaunt oure fader ȝit lyueþ; and þei bowid lowtiden hym.
 xxix And Joseph heuyng vp þe eyen, lawȝ Beniamyn, his broþer of o wombe, and seiþ, Þis is ȝoure litil broþer, of whom ȝe speken to me? And eft, God, he seiþ, haue mercy of þee, sone myne.

xxx And he hiȝede into þe hows, for þe entrayls of hym weren moued vpon his broþer, and teeris bristen oute, and he, goyng in to þe bed place, wepte.

xxxi And eft his face waishun, goon oute, stillide hym self, and seiþ, Settiþ looues.

xxxii þe whiche fett forþ, Joseph bi hym self, and þe briþeren bi hem seluen, and þe Egipciens togideres eetun bi hem seluen; forsoþe it is vnleueful to Egipciens to etun wiþ Ebrews, and a fowle þing þei wenens sich a manere feeste.

xxxiii þei setten bifore hym þe first geten, aftir þe riȝtis of his first getynge, and þe leeste aftir his age; and þei wondreden mych, xxxiv þe partise takun þat þei token of hym, and þe more party cam to Beniamin, so þat bi fyue partis he passide; and þei drunken, and ben fulfillid wiþ hym.

Capitulum XLIII.

i Joseph forsoþe comaundide to þe dispensatour of his hows, feiynge, Fille þe fackis of hem wiþ whete, as myche as þei mowen take, and ley þe money of eche in þe cop of her fak;

ii my filueren forsoþe coppe, and þe prise of whete þat he ȝaf, putte in þe mouþ of þe fak of þe ȝonger; and it is do so.

iii And þe morwetyde sprongun, þei ben lete go wiþ her affis.

iv And now þe cyte þei ȝeden oute, and forþ ȝeden a litil; also Joseph, þe dispensatour of his hous clepid, seiþ, A ryse, he seiþ, pursue þe men, and hem takun sey þow, Whi han ȝe ȝoldun yuel for good?

v Þe coppe þat ȝe han stoln, it is in þe which my lord drynkis, and in þe which he is wonte to dyuynge; þe moost yuel þing ȝe han do.

vi He dide as he comaundide, and, hem takun, bi ordre spak.

vii þe whiche answerden, Whi þus spekiþ oure lord, þat þi seruauntis so meche of wickidnes shulden han doon?

viii þe money þat we founden in þe cop of þe fackis we han brouȝt aȝen to þee fro þe loond of Chanaan, and what maner is it folwynge þat we shulden haue stolne fro þe hows of þi lord gold or filuer?

ix Anentys whom euere of þi seruauntis it were foundun þat þou sekist, be he deed, and we þe seruauntis shulen be of oure lord.

x þe which feide to hem, Be it doon after ȝoure sentens; anentis whom it be foundun, be he my seruaunt; ȝe forsoþe shulen be giltles.

xi And so blyue doyng down into þe erþe þe fackis, eche opnyde;

xii þe which aferchinge, bigynnynge fro þe more vnto þe leeste, fonde þe coppe in þe fak of Beniamyn.

xiii And þei þe cloþis to-rent, and eft chargid þe affis, ben turned aȝen into þe wallid town.

xiv And Juda þe firste wiþ þe breþeren wente in to Joseph; ne forsoþe ȝit fro þe place he hadde goon; and alle to þe erþe togidere fallen.

xv To whom he seiþ, Whi þus wolden ȝe doon? wheþir ȝe vnknownen, þat þere is noon lijk me in kunnynge of dyuynnge?

xvi To whom Juda, What, he seiþ, shulen we answere to my lord, or what shulen we spek, or riȝtwisly we mowen aȝen stryue? God haþ foundun þe wickidnes of þi seruauntis; loo! alle seruauntis we ben of my lord, and we and anentis whom þe cuppe is foundun.

xvii Joseph answerde, Fer be it fro me, þat Y þus do; he þat haþ stolne þe cuppe be my seruaunt; ȝe forsoþe goþ away free to ȝoure fader.

xviii Forsoþe Judas comynge ner, seiþ tristily, My lord, Y preye, þi seruaunt spek a word in þin eeris, and ne wræþ þow to þi seruaunt; þow art forsoþe after Pharao, my lord.

xix ȝow askidist bifore þi seruauntis, Haue ȝe a fader or broþer?

xx And we answerden to þee, my lord, Pere is to vs a fader oold, and a litil child, þe which in eeld of hym is born, whos broþer of o wombe is deed, and him oonli haþ his moder; þe fader forsoþe tenderli loueþ him.

xxi And ȝow feidist to þi seruauntis, Bryngiþ hym to me, and Y shal putte myn eyen vpon hym.

xxii We meueden to þee, my lord, þe child may not leeue his fader; if forsoþe he leeue hym, he shal dye.

xxiii And ȝow feidist to þi seruauntis, But ȝoure leeste broþer come to vs, ȝe shulen no more se my face.

xxiv Panne whanne we hadden steyed vp to oure fader, þi seruaunt, we tolden hym alle þingis þat my lord spak;

xxv and oure fader seyde, Goþ aȝen, and biggiþ vs a litil of whete;

xxvi to whom we seiden, We mowen not goon; if oure leeste broþer shul descende wiþ vs, we shulen go togideres; ellis, hym absent, we dorun not se þe face of þe lord.

xxvii And he answerde, ȝe witen þat two children gat to me my wif;

xxviii þe oon is goon oute, and ȝe leiden, a beest haþ deuowryd hym, and ȝit hidir to he aperyde not;

xxix and if I take þis, and eny þing to hym shal falle in þe weye, ȝe shulen doun lede myn hoore heiris wiþ mournyng to helle.

xxx Panne if I shal goo to þi seruaunt, oure fader, and þe child were þens, siþ þe liȝf of hym hongiþ of þe liȝf of þis, xxxi and se hym not be wiþ vs, he shal dye, and þi seruauntis shulen down lede þe hoore heiris of hym wiþ forwe to helle.

xxxii Be I propirli þi seruaunt, þe which haue refleyued þis into my feiþ, and haue bihoote, seiynge, But I bryngi aȝen hym, Y shal be gilti of synne in my fader al tyme;

xxxiii and so Y shall dwelle bi seruaunt for þe child in to þe seruyce of my lord, and þe child ascend wiþ his briþeren;

xxxiv forþoþ Y may not turne aȝen to my fader, þe child absent, leſt a witnes I stonde to of myschef, þat is to oppreſſe my fader.

Capitulum XLV.

i Joseph myȝte no ferþere wiþ holde hym ſelf, many biforſtondynge nyȝ; wherfor he comaundide þat alle men ſhulden goon out, and noon alien were amone to þe knowyng togideres.

ii And he arerid a voys wiþ wepyng, þat Egipcyens herden, and al þe hows of Pharao.

iii And he feide to his breþeren, I am Joseph; ȝit my fader lyueþ? Þe briþeren myȝten not anſwere, for ful myche drede aſeerd.

iv To whom he goodliche, Come ner, he feide, to me. And whanne þei weren comun nyȝ, Y am, he ſeib, Joseph ȝoure broþer, whom ȝe folden in to Egipte; v wole ȝe not drede, ne ſeme it to ȝow to be harde, þat ȝe han foold me in þes regiouns; forſoþe for ȝoure helþe God haþ ſent me biſore ȝow into Egipte.

vi Two ȝeer it ys þat hungur began to be in þe loond, ȝit fyue ȝeers leeuen, in þe whiche it may not be eerid, ne ropun;

vii and God haþ biſore ſent me, þat ȝe ben kepte vpon erþe, and meetis to lyue han ȝe mowen.

viii Not þurȝ ȝoure counſeil, but þurȝ þe wil of God Y am ſent hydir, þe which haþ maad me as þe fader of Pharao, and lord of al þe hows of hym, and prince in al þe loond of Egipte.

ix Hye ȝe, and ſtye ȝe vp to my fader, and ȝe ſhulen ſeye to hym, þis biddib bi ſone Joseph; God me haþ maad lord of al þe loond of Egipte; deſcende to me, ne abide þow, x and dwel in þe loond of Geffen; and þow ſhalt be biſide me, þow, and bi ſones, and þe ſones of bi ſones, bi ſheep, and bi droues, and al þat þou haſt, xi and þere Y ſhal ſede þee; ȝit forſoþe fyue ȝeer ben leeued of hungur, leſt and þow perifhe, and þin hows, and al þat þow haſt.

xii Loo! ȝoure eyen, and þe eyen of my broþer Beniamyn ſeen, þat my mouþ ſpekiþ to ȝow;

xiii tellib to my fader al my glorie, and alle þingis þat ȝe han ſeen in Egipte; hye ȝe, and bryng ȝe hym to me.

xiv And whanne cleppid hadde þriſt to hym þe necke of Beniamyn, his broþer, he wepte, and hym wepyngne alio vpon þe necke of hym.

xv And Joseph kiſſide alle his briþeren, and wepte vpon echone; aftir þat þei weren hardi to ſpeke to him.

xvi And it is herd, and wiþ ſolempne word puppliſhid in þe halle of þe kyng, Þe breþeren of Joseph ben comun. And Pharao ioyede, and al þe meyne of hym;

xvii and he feide to Joseph, þat he ſhulde comaunde to his briþeren, feiynge, Chargynge þe beeſtis goþ into þe loond of Chanaan, xviii and takiþ fro þens ȝoure fader, and kynrede, and comeþ to me, and I ſhal ȝyue to ȝow al þe goodis of Egipte, þat ȝe eeten þe mary of þe loond.

xix Comaunde alfo, þat þei taken þe waynes of Egipte to þe kariyng of her children, and wiues, and ſey þow, Takip ȝoure fader, and anoon as ȝe mowen comynge makip redi, xx ne leue ȝe not eny þing of eny purtenaunce to ȝoure howſhold, for al þe ryches of Egipte ſhulen be ȝouren.

xxi Þe children of Yrael diden, as it was bodun to hem; to whom Joseph ȝaf waynes, after þe heeſte of Pharao, and metis in þe weye;

xxii and to echone he comaundide to be brouȝt forþ two ſtolyſ; forſoþe to Beniamyn he ȝaf þre hundryd ſilueren pens, wiþ fyue þe beſt ſtolis;

xxiii as feele of money and of cloping ſeendyng to his fader, addynge to hem ten hee affis, þat ſhulden karye of alle þe ricchessis of Egipte, and as feele ſhe affis, whete in þe weye, and breed berynge.

xxiv Panne he laſte his briþeren, and to hem forþ goynge ſeib, Ne wraþþe ȝe in þe weye.

xxv Þe whiche ſteyyng vp fro Egipte camen into þe loond of Chanaan, to her fader Jacob;

xxvi and tolden to hym, feiynge, Joseph, bi ſone, lyueþ, and he is lord in al þe loond of Egipte. Þe which herde, Jacob as of a greet ſleep awakynge; neuerþelater he trowide not hem.

xxvii Þei aȝenward tolden al þe ordre of þe þing; and whanne he hadde feyn þe caryagis, and al þat he hadde ſent, aȝen quyckenyd þe ſpiryt of hym, xxviii and ſeib, It ſufficiþ to me, if ȝit Joseph my ſone lyue, I ſhal go and ſhal ſe hym or Y dye.

Capitulum XLVI.

i And Yrael forþ goon wiþ al þat he hadde, cam to þe pit of ooþ; and flawn þere þe beeſtis of facryfice to þe God of his fader Yſaac, ii herde hym bi a vyſioun þe nyȝt clepyng hym, and feiynge to hym, Jacob! Jacob! To whom anſwerde, Loo! I am nyȝ.

iii God ſeib to hym, Y am þe mooſt strong God of þi fader; nyl þou not drede, deſcend into Egipte, for into a greet folk of kynde Y ſhal make þee þere;

iv I ſhal deſcende wiþ þee þidir, and Y ſhal þens lede þee comynge aȝen, and Joseph ſhal leye his honden vpon þin eyen.

v Jacob aroos fro þe pit of ooþ, and his ſones token hym, wiþ þe children, and his wyues, in þe waynes þat Pharao fente to bere þe oold man, vi and al þat he hadde in þe loond of Chanaan; and he cam into Egipte wiþ al his feed, vii and þe fones of hym, and cofyns, dowȝteres, and al þe progenye togideres.

viii Þes ben forþoþe þe names of þe fones of Yrael, þe whiche ben goon into Egipte; he wiþ his free children. Þe firſte getun Ruben; ix þe fones of Ruben, Enoch, and Phallu, and Esrom, and Carmy.

x Þe fones of Symyon, Jemuhel, and Jamyn, and Zahoth, and Jachyn, and Sab, and Saber, and Saul, þe fone of Chanyntidis.

xi Þe fones of Leuy, Gerson, Caath, and Merary.

xii Þe fones of Juda, Her, and Onam, and Sela, and Phares, and Zara. Deed forþoþe ben Her and Onam in þe loond of Chanaan; and born ben þe fones of Phares, Esrom, and Amul.

xiii Þe fones of Ysachar, Thola, and Phua, and Jobab, and Semron.

xiv Þe fones of Zabulon, Sared, and Thelom, and Jahel.

xv Þes þe fones of Lye, þat she gat in Mesopotanye of Syrie, wiþ Dyna hir dowȝter; alle þe soulis of þe fones of hir and of douȝtres, þree and þretti.

xvi Þe fones of Gad, Sephyon, and Aggy, Suny, and Hesebon, Hery, and Arodi, and Arely.

xvii Þe fones of Asar, Jamne, and Jesua, and Jesuy, and Berya; and Sara, þe douȝter of hem. Þe fones of Berya, Heber, and Melchiel.

xviii Þes þe fones of Zelphe, whom Laban ȝaf to Lye, his douȝter, and þes gat Jacob, fixtene soules.

xix Þe fones of Rachel, wif of Jacob, Joseph, and Beniamyn.

xx And born ben þe fones of Joseph in þe loond of Egipte, þe which gat to hym Afenech, þe douȝter of Putyphar, of þe preest of Heliopoleos, Manasses, and Effraym.

xxi Þe fones of Beniamyn, Bela, and Becor, and Abelgora, and Naaman, and Jethi, and Resemophym, and Ophyn, and Ared.

xxii Þes þe fones of Rachel, þe whiche gat Jacob; alle þe soules fourtene.

xxiii Þe fones of Dan, Vfym.

xxiv Þe fones of Neptalym, Jafyel, and Gumi, and Jeser, and Salem.

xxv Þes þe fones of Bale, whom ȝaf Laban to Rachel, his douȝter. Þes gat Jacob, alle þe soules feuen.

xxvi And alle þe soules þat ben goon wiþ Jacob into Egipte, and goon out of þe leende of hym, wiþ ouȝt wyues of his children, sexti and sexe.

xxvii Þe fones forþoþe of Joseph, þat ben born to hym in þe loond of Egipte, soules two. Alle þe soules of þe hows of Jacob, þat ben goon into Egipte, weren feuenty.

xxviii Jacob forþoþe lente Juda before hym to Joseph, þat he shulde telle to hym, and he shulde aȝen come into Geffen.

xxix Whider whanne he was comun, Joseph, ioyned his chare, stieide vp to mete wiþ his fader at þe same place. And seyng hym, felle vpon þe nek of hym, and bitwix þe clippyngis wepte.

xxx And þe fader seide to Joseph, Now glad Y shal dye, for I haue seen þi face, and at þin aboue þee Y leeue.

xxxi And he spak to his breþeren; and to al þe hows of his fader, Y shal steye, and telle to Pharao, and Y shal seie to hym, My breþeren, and þe hows of my fader, þe whyche weren in þe loond of Chanaan, ben comen to me, xxxii and ben men kepers of sheep, and han bifynes of flockys to ben fedde; her beestis, and her droues, and al þat þei mowen haue, þei brouȝten wiþ hem.

xxxiii And whanne he shal clepen ȝou, and seie, What is ȝoure werke?

xxxiv ȝe shulen answere, Men sheepherdes we ben, þi seruauntis, fro oure childhod vnto þe tyme þat is now, and we and oure faders. Þes þingis forþoþe ȝe shulen seye, þat ȝe mowen dwelle in þe loond of Geffen, for alle Egipcyens haten alle sheepherdes of sheep.

Capitulum XLVII.

i Joseph þanne goon yn tolde to Pharao, seyng, My fader and breþeren, þe sheep of hem, and droues, and alle þe þingis þat þei han, ben comen fro þe loond of Chanaan; and loo! þei ben in þe loond of Geffen.

ii And fyue men, þe last of his breþeren, he sette bifore þe kyng, iii whom he askide, What han ȝe of werke? ȝei answerten, Sheepherdes of sheep we ben, þi seruauntis, and we and our fadres;

iv to pilgrimage into þi loond we ben comen, for þere is noon eerbe to þe flockis of þi seruauntis; hungur meche wexyngre greuows in þe loond of Chanaan, and we axen þat þow comaunde vs to be þi seruauntis in þe loond of Geffen.

v And so þe kyng seide to Joseph, ȝi fader and þi breþeren ben comen to þee;

vi þe loond of Egipte is in þi siȝt, in þe beste place make hem to dwelle, and tak to hem þe loond of Geffen; and if þow haft knowe to be redi men in hem, ordeyne hem maystryrs of my beestis.

vii After þes þingis Joseph ladde yn his fader to þe kyng, and sette hym befor hym, þe which blesfyngre to hym, viii and askyde of hym, How feele ben þe dayes of þe ȝeris of þi lijf?

ix He answerde, þe dayes of þe pilgrimage of my lijf ben of an hundrid and þretti ȝeer, litil and yuel, and þei comen not vnto þe dayes of my fadris, in þe whiche þei han pilgrimageid.

x And þe kyng blisſid, he ȝede ouȝte.

xi Joseph forsoþe to þe fader and to his breþeren ȝaf posseſſyoun in Egipte, in þe best soyl of þe loond of Rameſſes, as comaundyde Pharao;
 xii and he fedde hem, and al þe hows of his fader, ȝyuyngē meetis to eche oon.
 xiii Forsoþe in al þe world breed lackide, and hungur oppreſſide þe erþe, moost of Egipte and of Chanaan;
 xiv of þe whiche al þe money he gederyde togider for þe fellyng of whete, and putte it to þe treforye of þe kyng.
 xv And whanne to þe biggerys faylide prijs, cam al Egipte to Joseph, seiyngē, ȝif to vs breed; whi dien we bifore þee, faylyngē money?
 xvi To whom he anſwerde, Bryngiþ ȝoure beeſtis, and Y ſhal ȝyue to ȝow for hem meetis, if prijs ȝe han not.
 xvii Be whiche, whanne þei hadden brouȝt, he ȝaf to hem foode for horſis, and ſheep, and oxen, and affis; and he fuſteynede hem þat ȝeer for chaungyng of beeſtis.
 xviii And þei camen þe fecounde ȝeer, and feiden to hym, We hiden not to oure lord, þat failyngē þe money and þe beeſtis togideres han failid, ne it is priue fro þee, þat wiþ outer bodies and loond we han not;
 xix whi þanne ſhulen we dye, þee feynge? and we and our loond of þee ſhulen ben, bie vs in to þe kyngis þraldom, and ȝif vs feedes, leſt peryfhyngē þe tilyer, þe loond be turned azen into wildernes.
 xx Panne Joseph bouȝte al þe loond of Egipte, echoon fellyngē his posſeſſiouns, for þe greetnes of hungur; and he fugettide it to Pharao, xxi and al þe puplis of it, fro þe laſte termes of Egipte vnto þe vttmest cooſtis of it, xxii out takun þe loond of preftis, þe which of þe kyng was take to hem, to whom and certeyn meetis of þe comoun beernes weren ȝouun, and perfor þei ben not nedid to ſellen her posſeſſiouns.
 xxiii Panne feide Joseph to þe peplis, Loo! as ȝe beholden, and ȝow and ȝoure loond Pharao haþ; takiþ feedis, and ſowiþ feeldis, xxiv þat ȝe mowen han lyuelodis; þe fyfþe part ȝe ſhulen ȝyue to þe kyng, þe toþer foure partis Y leeue to ȝow into feed, and into metys, to meynes, and to ȝoure children.
 xxv þe whiche anſwerden, Oure helþe is in þin hoond; oure God oonly bihold vs, and gladliche we ſhulen ferue to þe kyng.
 xxvi Fro þat tyme vnto þe day þat is now, in al þe loond of Egipte þe fifþe part to kyngis is payed, and yt is maad as into a lawe, wiþ outer þe preeftis loond, þat free was fro þis condiciooun.
 xxvii Panne Yrael dwelte in Egipte, þat is, in þe loond of Geffen, and hadde it, and was encreeſid and multiplied greetly.
 xxviii And he lyuede in it ſixtene ȝeer, and alle þe dayes of þe liſt of hym ben maad of an hundryd and feuene and fourti ȝeer.

xxix And whanne he bihelde þe day of deeþ to neiȝ, he clepide his ſone Joseph, and feide to hym, If Y haue foundun grace in þi ſiȝt, putte þin hoond vnder myn hippe, and þow ſhalt do to me mercy and treueþ, þat þow byrie me not in Egipte; xxx but I ſhal ſleepe wiþ my fadris, and þow ſhalt take me fro þis loond, and biryg me in þe ſepulcre of myn eldres. To whom Joseph anſwerde, I ſhal do þat þow haſt bodun.
 xxxi And he, Sweer þanne, he ſeip, to me; whom fweryngē, Yrael anowrede God, turned to þe heed of þe bedde.

Capitulum XLVIII.

i And ſo þes þingis paſſid ouer, it was toold to Joseph, þat þe fader of hym wex ſik. þe which wiþ hym takun two ſones, Manaffes and Effraym, forþ ȝeden to go.
 ii And it was feide to þe olde man, Loo! þi ſone Joseph is comen to þee; þe which coumfortid ſat in þe bedde.
 iii And to Joseph comun in to him, ſeip, God Almyȝti aperyde to me in Luza, þat is in þe loond of Chanaan, and he bliſſide to me, iv and ſeip, Y þee ſhal encreefe and multiplie, and make into cumpanyes of peples, and Y ſhal ȝyue to þee þis loond, and to þi ſeed after þee, into euerlaſtyngē posſeſſioun.
 v Panne þi two ſones, þat ben born to þee in þe loond of Egipte bifore Y com hider to þee, ſhulen ben myne, Effraym and Manaffes as Ruben and Symeon ſhulen ben accountid to me;
 vi þe toþer forſoþe whom þow ſhalt gete after hem ſhulen be þine, and bi name of her breþeren ſhulen be clepid in her posſeſſiouns.
 vii To me forſoþe whanne Y cam fro Mesopotanye, Rachel was deed in þe loond of Chanaan, in þat weie, and it was veer tyme; and Y cam into Effratam, and Y biryede hir biſide þe weie of Effrathe, þe which in anoþer name is clepid Bethleem.
 viii And Jacob, feynge þe ſones of hym, feide to hym, Who ben þes?
 ix He anſwerde, My ſones þei ben, whom God haþ ȝouun to me in þis place. Bryng hem, he ſeip, to me, þat I bliſſe to hem.
 x þe eyen forſoþe of Yrael weren derke for greet eelde, and clearerli he myȝte not ſe; and hem put to hym, kiffyngē and cleppynge hem, xi feide to his ſone, Y am not bigilid of þi ſiȝt; forþermore God haþ ſhewid to me þi ſeed.
 xii And whanne Joseph hadde takun hem fro þe boſum of þe fader, he anowride, bowid into þe erþe.
 xiii And he putte Effraym at his riȝt hoond, þat is, at þe left syde of Ifrael; Manaffes forſoþe in his lift ſide, at þe riȝt ſide of þe fader, and he putte boþe to hym.
 xiv þe which ſtrecchyngē out þe riȝt hoond, putte vpon þe heed of Effraym, þe laſſe broþer; þe left forſoþe vpon þe heed of Manasse, þe which was more þurȝ birþe.

- xv Jacob togidere chaungyng þe hondes blifſide þe fones of Joseph, and seiþ, God, in whos ſiȝt ȝeden my fadres Abraham and Yſaac; God, þat fedde me fro my ȝongþe into þe day þat is now;
- xvi þat aungel þat delyueride me fro alle yuels, blesſe to þes children, and my name be inwardly clepid vpon hem, and þe names of my fadris Abraham and Yſaac;
in multitude vpon erþe growe þei.
- xvii Joseph forſoþe feynge þat his fader hadde putte þe riȝt hoond vpon þe heed of Effraym, greuowlſly tok, and þe hoond of þe fader takun, enforſide to heue fro þe heed of Effraym, and to ber ouer vpon þe heed of Manasse.
- xviii And he feide to þe fader, Not so, fader, it falliþ to be, for þis is þe firſt getun; put þi riȝt hoond vpon þe heed of hym.
- xix Þe which forſakyng feiþ, I knowe, fone myne, Y knowe; and þis forſoþe shal be into puples, and shal be multiplied; but þe broþer of hym lassfe more þan he shal be, and þe seed of hym shal growe into folk of kynde.
- xx And he blifſide hem in þat tyme, feynge, In þee Yrael shal be blifſid, and shal be feide, God do to þee as to Effraym and Manasse; and he ſette Effraym before Manasse.
- xi And he feiþ to Joseph, his fone, Loo! Y dye, and God shal be wiþ ȝow, and he shal bryng ȝow aȝen to þe loond of ȝoure fadris;
- xxii Y ȝyue to þee o parti outh of þi breþeren, þat Y tok of þe hoond of Amorrey, in fwerde and in my bowe.

Capitulum XLIX.

- i Jacob forſoþe clepide his fones, and feide to hem, Be ȝe gederid togidris, þat Y telle þat ben to comen to ȝou in þe laſte daies;
- ii be ȝe gadered togidris, and here ȝe, þe fones of Jacob, here ȝe Yrael ȝoure fader.
- iii Ruben, my firſt getun, þow my strengþe, and þe bigynning of my forwe; firſt in ȝiftis, and more in comaundyngh;
- iv þow art held out as water; ne grow þow, for þow haſt ſteied up þe cowche of þi fader, and þow haſt defoulid þe bedde of hym.
- v Symeon and Leuy, breþeren, þe vessels of ſhrewidnes, makyng batails;
- vi in þe counſeil of hem come not my foule, and in þe cumpayne of hem be not my glorie; for in her woodnes þei flewen a man, and in her owne wil þei vndurdelueden þe wal;
- vii cursid is þe woodnes of hem, for it is ſtedfaſt, and þe indignacioun of hem, for it is hard; Y shal deuyde hem in Jacob, and I shal ſcater hem in Yrael.

viii Juda, þee ſhulen preyſe þi briþeren, þin hondis in þe ſkulles of þin enemyes, þe fones of þi fader ſhulen lowte þee.

ix Þe whelp of lyon Juda; to þe prey, fone myne, þow ſteydiſt vp; reſtyng þow ley down as a lyon, and as a lionelle who ſhal arere hym?

x Þe ſeptre fro Juda ſhal not be takun awey, and a duke fro þe leende of hym, to þe tyme þat he come þat is to be ſent, and he ſhal be þe abidyng of folk of kynde, fone, his ſhe aſſe; he ſhal waffhe in wyne his ſtoole, and in blood of a grape his mantil;

xii fayrer ben þe eyen of hym þan wyn, and þe teep of hym whitter þan mylk.

xiii Zabulon in þe brynce of þe ſee ſhal dwelle, and in þe ſtacioun of ſhippes, arechynge vnto Sidon.

xiv Yſachar, an hee aſſe ſtrong, liggyng bitwix þe teermes,

xv ſawȝ reſt þat it was good, and þe loond þat it was beſt, and vnderputte his ſhuldur to bere, and he is maad to tributis feruynge.

xvi Dan ſhal deme his puple, and as anoþer lynage in Yrael.

xvii Be maad Dan an eddre of shadowe in þe weie, and an horned eddre in þe paþ, bitynge þe cleen of an hors, þat þe ſteyer up of hym falle bacward;

xviii and þi ȝyuer of helþe Y ſhal abyde, Lord.

xix Gad gird ſhal feiȝt before hym, and he ſhal be gird bihynde.

xx Afer, þe fat breed of hym, and he ſhal ȝeue delices to kyngis.

xxi Neptalym, þe herte ſent out, and ȝyuynge þe ſpechis of fayrnes.

xxii Þe fone acreefynge, Joseph, þe fone acreefynge, and ſemly in ſiȝt; þe douȝtres hidir and þider renneden vpon þe wal,

xxiii but þei eggiden hym out, and ſtreuen, and enuyden to hym, hauynge dartis.

xxiv Sat in þe ſtrong þe bowe of hym, and vnbouunden ben þe bondis of armes, and of þe hondis of hym bi þe hoond of þe myȝti of Jacob; þens a ſheperde ȝede out, þe ſtoone of Yrael.

xxv God of þi fader ſhal be þin helper, and þe Almyȝti ſhal bleſſe to þee wiþ bleſſynges of heuene fro aboue, and wiþ bleſſyngis of þe ſee liggyng beneþ, and wiþ bleſſyngis of tetis, and of þe wombe; xxvi þe bliſſyngis of þi fader ben coumfortid wiþ þe bliſſyngis of þe fadris of hym, to þe tyme þat were comen þe defyre of euerlaſtynge hillis; ben þei maad in þe heed of Joseph, and in þe heed of Nazarei amonge his breþeren.

xxvii Beniamyn, a wulf raumpynge, þe morwen tide he ſhall eete a pray, and þe euentide he ſhal dyuyde ſpoylis.

xxviii Alle þes in þe lynagis of Israel twelue; þes þingis spak to hem her fader, and blesſide hem eche wiþ propre blesſyngis.

xxix And he comaundide hem, seiyng, Y am gedered to my puple, birye ȝe me wiþ my faders in þe dowlle spelunk, þat is in þe feeld of Effron Ethei, xxx ȝazens Mambre, in þe loond of Chanaan, þat Abraham bouȝte wiþ þe feeld of Effron Ethei, into posseſſiouſ of a ſepulcre.

xxxi Bere þei birieden hym, and Sara, þe wif of hym; þere alſo byried is Yfaac, wiþ Rebecca þe wif; þere and Lya biried lieþ.

xxxii And endid þe maundementis wiþ whiche þe fones he enfourmyde, he gederede togedere his feet vpon þe bed, and dyed, and put he is to his puple.

i That feynge Joseph, fel vpon þe face of þe fader, weypynge, and kyffynge hym, ii and comaundide to þe feruauntis, his leches, þat wiþ fwete oynementis þei ſhulden anoynte þe fader.

iii þe whiche þe maundementis fulfillynge, paſſiden ouer fourti dayes; bis forſoþe manere was of bodies anoynt, and Egipte wepte hym ſeuenti dayes.

iv And fulfillid þe tyme of weilyng, Joseph to þe meyne of Pharao ſpakte, If Y haue founde grace in ȝoure ſiȝt, ſpeke ȝe in þe eeris of Pharao, v þerþurȝ þat my fader haþ chargid me wiþ ooþ, feyng, Loo! Y dye, in my ſepulcre þat I deluede to me in þe loond of Chanaan, þow ſhalt byrye me; þanne I ſhal ſteie vp þat Y byrye my fader, and ſhal turne ȝazen.

vi And Pharao feyde to hym, Stey vp, and byry þi fader, as þow haſt fworne.

vii Whom ſtiyng vp, ȝeden wiþ hym alle þe oold men of þe hows of Pharao, and alle þe more þurȝ birþe of þe loond of Egipte, viii þe hows of Joseph wiþ his breþeren, wiþ outen litil children, and flockis, and droues, þat laſten in þe loond of Geffen.

ix And he hadde in his ledyng chares, and rydynge men, and þere was maad þe companye not a litil.

x And þei camen to þe preſhyng feelde of Adad, þe which is ſet biȝonde Jordan, where holdynge þe offices for þe deed, wiþ greet weilyng and hydows, fulfilliden ſeuuen dayes.

xi Pat whanne hadden ſeen þe dwellers of þe loond of Chanaan, feiden, A greet weilyng is þis to þe Egipcyens, and þerfor þei clepiden þe name of þat place þe weylyng of Egipte.

xii þanne þe children of Yrael diden as it was comaundid hem, xiii and berynge hym into þe loond of Chanaan, byryden hym in þe dowlle spelunk, þat Abraham bouȝte wiþ þe feelde, into posſeſſiouſ of a ſepulcre, of Ephron Ethei, ȝazens þe face of Mambre.

xiv And Joseph is turned ȝazens into Egipte, wiþ his briþeren, and wiþ al þe cumpayne, þe fader beryed.

xv Þe which deed, dredyng þe breþeren of hym, and togidere ſpekyng, leſt perauenture he haue mynde of þe wrong þat he ſuffrede, and ȝeelde to vs al þe yuel þat we han do, xvi ſenten to hym, feyng, Bi fader comaundide vs or he ſhulde die, xvii þat þes wordes to þee we ſhulden feye, Y preye, þat þow forȝete þe wickidnes of bi breþeren, and of þe synne, and of þe malyce þat þei wrouȝten in þee; and we preyen, þat to þe feruaunt of God, bi fader, þow forȝeue þis wickidneſſe. Þe whiche þingis herd, Joseph wepte.

xviii And to hym comen his breþeren, and mekid into þe erþe lowtiden, and feiden, Bi feruauntis we ben.

xix To whom he anſwerde, Wole ȝe not dreden, wheþer mowen we ȝazentonde þe wil of God?

xx ȝe þouȝten of me yuel, and God turneþ it into good, þat he ſhulde enhaunce me, as ȝe now ſeen, þat ſaaſ he make many puples;

xxi wole ȝe not dreden, Y ſhal feder ȝow, and ȝoure children. And he coumfortide hem, and fayre and softly he ſpakte, xxii and dwelte in Egipte, wiþ al þe hows of his fader, and lyuede an hundred and ten ȝeer, xxiii and ſawȝ þe fones of Effraym vnto þe þridde generacioun; and þe fones of Machir, fone of Manaffe, ben born in þe kneen of Joseph.

xxiv þe whiche þingis ouerpaſſid, he ſpakte to his briþeren, After my deeþ God ſhal viſite ȝow, and make ȝow ſteyen vp fro þis loond to þe loond þat he fastnede wiþ ooþ to Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob.

xxv And whanne he hadde adiuryd hem, and feide, God ſhal viſite ȝow, bere ȝe wiþ ȝow my bones fro þis place, xxvi he diede, fulfillid an hundred and ten ȝerys of his liþ, and anoyntide wiþ fwete oynementis, was leid in to towmbe in Egipte.

Heere endiþ Genefis and now bigynneþ Exodus.

EXODI.

Here bygynneþ Exodi.

Capitulum I.

i Thes ben þe names of þe fones of Yrael, þat ȝeden into Egipte wiþ Jacob; eche wiþ her houſholdes ȝeden yn;

ii Ruben, Symeon, Leuy, Judas, iii Isachar, Zabulon, and Beniamyn, iv Dan, and Neptalm, Gad, and Afer.

v Panne weren alle þe soules of hem þat ȝeden out of þe hipe of Jacob seuenti and fyue. Joseph forsoþe was in Egipte; vi þe which deed, and alle hys breþeren, and al his cosynage, vii þe sones of Yrael wexen, and as burionyng ben multiplied, and þei strengþid fulfilliden þe erþe.
viii Panne a newe kyng roos vpon Egipte, þat knewe not Joseph, ix and he seide vnto his puple, Loo! þe puple of þe fones of Yrael is myche, and stronger þan we;
x comeþ, wiseli oppresse we it, leſt perauenture þei ben multiplied, and, if batayle aryse aȝens vs, it be addid to oure enemyes, and, we ouercomen, he go out of þe loond.
xi And so he bifore putte to hem mayfries of werkis, þat þei flulden ouertraueylen hem wiþ birþens. And þei bildeden to Pharao þe citees of tabernacles, Phiton, and Rameffes.
xii And in as myche as þei oppreffiden hem, so myche more þei weren multiplied, and wexen. And þe Egipciens hatiden þe sones of Yrael, xiii and tourmentiden, scornynge to hem, and enuyinge;
xiv and to bitternes þei brouȝten her lijf wiþ harde werkis of cley and tyle, and wiþ al seruage, þurȝ þe which þei weren þrist down in werkys of þe erþe.
xv And þe kyng of Egipte seide to þe mydwyues of Ebrews, of þe whiche oon was clepid Sephora, and 'þat oþer Fua, xvi comaundynge hem, Whanne ȝe shulen serue þe wymmen of Ebrew, to taken her children of her wombe, and þe tyme of birþe come, if it be a maal, fleeþ hym; if a femaal, kepiþ.
xvii Forsoþe þe mydwyues dredden God, and diden not after þe heefste of þe kyng of Egipte, but kepten þe males.
xviii þe whyche to hym clepid, seide þe kyng, What now is þis ȝe wolden do, þat þe knaue children ȝe wolen kepe?
xix þe whiche answarde, Wymmen of Ebrew ben not as þe wymmen of Egipte, þei forsoþe han þe kunning of mydwyueng, and er we comen to hem, þei ben delyuered.
xx Panne God dide wel to þe mydwyues; and þe puple growide, and was coumfortid greetli.
xxi And for þe mydwies dredden God, he byldyd to hem houſis.
xxii Panne Pharao comaundide to al his puple, seiyng, What euer of maal kynde þhal be born, þrowe ȝe it in to þe flode; what euer of femaal, kepiþ.

Capitulum II.

i Aftir þis ȝede out a man of þe hows of Leuy, and tok a wif of his lynage, ii þat conceyuede, and bar a child, and, seyng hym shaply, hydde hym þre moneþis.

iii And whanne he myȝte hide hym no lenger, he tok a ionket of reſſhen, and glewide it wiþ glewifhe cley, and wiþ picche, and putte þe litil faunt wiþ ynne, and fette out hym in þe flaggi place of þe brinke of þe flode, iv his ſiſter ſtondynge afer, and biholdynge þe auenture of þe bing.
v And, loo! þe douȝter of Pharao descendide for to be waſſhid in þe flode, and hir mayden feruauntis ȝeden bi þe brynde of þe flode. þe which, whanne ſhe hadde ſeen þe ionket in þe growyng place of reſſhes, ſente oon of hir mayden feruauntis, and, it brouȝte forþ, vi opnyng and biholdynge in it a litil child wepyng, hauyng rewþ of it, ſeip, Of þe children of Ebrews he is.
vii To whom þe ſiſter of þe child, Wolt bow, ſhe ſeip, þat Y go, and clepe to þee a womman of Ebrew, þat may noriſhe þe child?
viii She anſwerde, Go. þe mayden child ȝede, and clepide hir moder.
ix To whom ſpak þe dowȝter of Pharao, Tak, ſhe feide, þis child, and noriſch to me, and Y ſhal ȝyue to þee þi mede. þe womman tok, and noriſhید þe child, x and ful waxen tok to þe dowȝter of Pharao, whom ſhe clepide to hir in ſteede of a ſone; and ſhe clepide his name Moyses, ſeiyng, For of þe water Y tok hym.
xi In þilke daies, after Moyles was waxen, goon out to his breþeren, ſawȝ þe tourmentyng of hem, and a man of Egipce ſmytyng oon of þe Ebrews, his briþeren.
xii And whanne he hadde beholdun al abowt hider and bider, and no man he hadde ſeen to be nyȝ, þe Egipciens ſmytun he hidde in þe foonde.
xiii And goon out anoþer day, he bihelde two Ebrews chidyng, and he feide to hym þat dyde þe wrong, Whi ſmytſt bow þi broþer?
xiv þe which anſwerde, Who ordeynede þee prince and domesman vpon vs? Wheþer bow wole flee me, as bow flewe ȝiftiday þe Egipciens? Moyses dradde, and ſeip, What manere is maad opyn þis word?
xv And Pharao herde þis word, and ſouȝte to flee Moyses, þe which fleyng fro hys ſiȝt, dwelte in þe loond of Madyan, and sat bisidis a pitt.
xvi Forſoþe þere weren to þe preest of Madian ſeuen douȝtres, þe whiche 'comen to drawe watir; and, þe water goters fillid, þei coueytiden to water þe flok of hyr fader.
xvii Pere ouercamen ſhepherdes, and þrewen hem out; and Moyses aroos, and, þe mayden children defendid, he watridge her ſheep.
xviii þe whiche, whanne þei were turnyd aȝen to Jetro, her fader, he feide to hem, Whi ben ȝe comen fwifter þan ȝe ben wonte?

xix Bei answerden, A man of Egipte haþ delyuered vs fro þe hoond of þe sheperdis; also and he haþ drawun water wiþ vs, and ȝyue drynke to þe sheip.
 xx And he, Where is he? he seiþ, whi han ȝe laft þe man? clepe ȝe hym, þat he eete breed.
 xxi Pan Moyses swere, þat he shulde dwelle wiþ hym;
 and he tok a wif, Sephoram, þe douȝter of hym.
 xxii þe which bar to hym a sone, þat he clepide Gersan, feiynge, A comlyng Y was in a straunge loond. And anoþer forsoþe she bar, whom he clepide Eliezer, feiynge, soþe þe God of my fader is myn helper, and haþ delyuered me fro þe hoond of Pharao.
 xxiii After myche forsoþe of tyme died þe kyng of Egipte, and inwardly weilynge þe sones of Yrael for þe werkis, crierden out, and þe crye of hem to God of her werkis steyde vp.
 xxiv And he herde þe weilyng of hem, and was recordid of þe boond of pees, þat he couenauntide wiþ Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob;
 xxv and he bihelde þe children of Yrael, and knewe
 hem.

Capitulum III.

i Moyses forsoþe fedde þe sheip of Jetro, hys wyues fader, preest of Madian; and whanne he had dreuen þe flok to þe ynnermore partis of deserte, he cam to þe hil of God, Oreb.
 ii And þe Lord apperide to hym in a flawme of fier fro þe mydle of a bussh, and he sawȝ þat þe bussh was ofier, and was not brent.
 iii Panne seide Moyses, Y shal go, and se þis greet siȝt, whi þe bussh is not brent.
 iv And þe Lord biholdynge þat he ȝede to seen, clepide hym fro þe mydle of þe bussh, and seiþ, Moyses!
 Moyses! þe which answeerde, Y am nyȝ.
 v And he, Ne come þow, he seiþ, no nerre hidur, but lowse þow bi shoyng fro bi feyt; þe place forsoþe þat þow stondist yn is an holi loond.
 vi And he seiþ, Y am þe God of þi fader, God of Abraham, and God of Ysaac, and God of Jacob. Moyses hidde his face, forsoþe he dorst not loke aȝens God.
 vii To whom þe Lord seiþ, I haue seen þe affliccioun of my puple in Egipte, and Y haue herd þe crye of it, for þe hardnes of hem þat ben before to þe werkis. And knowynge þe forwe of it, viii Y descendide to delyuere it fro þe hoondis of Egipciens, and Y shal lede out fro þat loond into a good loond and a wide, into a loond þat flowiþ mylk and honi, to þe places of Chananey, and Ethey, Amorrei, and Phereȝei, Euehey, and Jebussey.
 ix Panne þe crye of þe children of Yrael is comen to me, and Y haue seen þe affliccioun of hem, wiþ þe which þei ben oppresid of þe Egipcyens.
 x But come, and Y shal sende þee to Pharao, þat þow lede my puple, þe sones of Yrael, out of Egipte.

xi And Moyses seide to God, Who am Y, þat I shulde goo to Pharao, and lede out þe sones of Yrael fro Egipte?
 xii þe which feide to hym, I shal be wiþ þee, and þis þow shalt haue to tookun, þat I haue sent þee, whanne þow shalt lede my puple fro Egipte, þow shalt do facryfice to God vpon þis hil.
 xiii Moyses seiþ to God, Loo! Y shal goo to þe sones of Yrael, and Y shal seie to hem, þe God of ȝoure fadris haþ sent me to ȝow; if þei seyn to me, what is his name, what shal Y seye to hem?
 xiv þe Lord seyde to Moyses, I am þe which Y am; he seiþ, þus þow shalt seye to þe children of Israel, He þat is haþ sent me to ȝow.
 xv And eftsones God seiþ to Moyses, þes þingis þow shalt seye to þe sones of Yrael, þe Lord God of ȝoure fadrys, God of Abraham, and God of Ysaac, and God of Jacob, haþ sent me to ȝow; þis is name to me wiþouten ende, and þis my memoriale in generacioun and into generacioun.
 xvi Goo, and gedere togidere þe aldyr men of Yrael, and þow shalt seye to hem, þe Lord God of ȝoure fadrys haþ apeeryd to me, God of Abraham, and God of Ysaac, and God of Jacob, feiynge, Vifyntyng Y haue visitid ȝow, and Y haue seen alle þingis þat haue fallen to ȝow in Egipte;
 xvii and Y seyde, þat Y shal lede ȝow out fro þe affliccioun of Egipte into þe loond of Chananei, and Etheli, and Amorre, Phereȝey, and Euehi, and Jebussey, to þe loond flowyng mylk and honi.
 xviii And þei shulen here bi voyce; and þow shalt goon yn, and þe alder men of Yrael to þe kyng of Egipte, and þow shalt seye to hym, þe Lord God of Ebrews haþ clepid us; we shulen goon a weye of þre dayes into wildernes, þat we doon sacrifice to þe Lord oure God.
 xix But Y wote, þat þe kyng of Egipte shal not ȝyue ȝow leue þat ȝe goon, but bi strong hoond; xx forsoþe Y shal strecche out myn hoond, and Y shal smyte Egipte in alle my merueyles, þat Y am to do in þe mydle of hem, and after þes þingis he shal ȝyue to ȝow leue.
 xxi And Y shal ȝeue grace to þis puple bifore þe Egipciens, þat whanne ȝe gon out, ȝe shulen not goon out voyd;
 xxii but a womman shal ake of hir neigbore and of hir gest silueren and goldun vesseles, and clothes, and ȝe shulen ligge hem vpon ȝoure sones, and vpon ȝoure douȝtres, and ȝe shulen spoyle Egipte.

Capitulum IIII.

i Moyses answeerde, and seiþ, Bei shulen not leue me, ne here my voyce; but seyn, þe Lord apeeryde not to þee.
 ii Panne he feide vnto hym, What is þat þat þow holdist in þin hoond? He answeerde, A ȝerde.

iii And þe Lord seide, Prow it into þe erþe; he þrewe it, and it was turned into a boske eddre, so þat Moyses fleiȝ.
 iv And þe Lord seide, Strecch out þin hoond, and tak his tayle; he strauȝte out, and helde, and it was turned into a ȝerde.
 v Þat þei bileuen, he seiþ, þat God of þi fadres aperide to þee God of Abraham, and God of Yfaac, and God of Jacob.
 vi And þe Lord seide eftstones, Putte þin hoond into þi bosum; þe which whanne he hadde putt into his bosum, he brouȝte it forþ leprows, at liknes of snow.
 vii Drawe aȝen, he seiþ, þe hoond into þi bosum: he aȝen drewȝ, and brouȝte it forþ eftstones, and it was lijk vnto þe toþer fleshe.
 viii If þei leuen not, he seiþ, to þee, ne here þe word of þe former signe, þei shulen leue to þe word of þe signe þat folweþ;
 ix and if forsoþe þey leuen not to þes twey signes, ne heren þi voys, tak water of þe floode, and heeld it out vpon þe drye loond, and what euere þow drawist of þe floode, it shal be turned into blode.
 x Moyses seiþ, Lord, Y biseche, I am not wel spekyng fro ȝesterday and fro þe þridde dai hens; and siþ þow spak to þi seruaunt, Y am of more latsum and of more flow tonge.
 xi Be Lorde seide to hym, Who made þe mouȝ of man, or who forgide þe downmbe and þe deef, þe seer and þe blynde? wheþer not Y?
 xii Goo þanne, I shal be in þi mouȝ, and Y shal teche þee what þow shalt spek.
 xiii And he, Y biseche, he seiþ, Lord, fende whom þow art to fende.
 xiv Be Lord wrooþ aȝens Moyses, seiþ, Aaron, þi broþer, Leuyte, I wote þat he is a fayr speker; loo! he shal goo out into þin aȝen goyng, and seynge þee he shal be glad in herte.
 xv Spek to him, and put my wordis in his mouȝ, and Y shal be in þi mouȝ and in his mouȝ; and Y shal shewe to ȝou what ȝe shulen do.
 xvi He shal speke for þee to þe puple, and he shal be þi mouȝ; þow forsoþe shal be to hym in þes þinges, þat pertenen to God.
 xvii And þis ȝerde tak in þin hoond, in þe which þow art to doon signes.
 xviii Moyses ȝede, and turned aȝen to Jetro, his wyues fader, and he seide to hym, Y shal goo, and turn aȝen to my breþeren in to Egipre, þat Y se if þei ȝit lyuen. To whom feide Jetro, Goo in pees.
 xix Panne be Lord seide to Moyses in Madian, Goo, and turn aȝen into Egipre; forsoþe alle þei ben deede, þat souȝten þi lyf.
 xx Moyses tok his wyf, and his sones, and putte hem upon an asse, and he is turned aȝen into Egipre, berynge þe ȝerde of God in his hoond.

xxi And þe Lord seide to hym turnyng aȝen into Egipre, Looke, þat alle þe signes worþi to be shewid þow do, þe whiche Y haue putte in þin hoond, before Pharao; Y shal hardun his herte, and he shal not leeue þe puple; xxii and þow shalt seye to hym, Pes þingis seiþ þe Lord, My sone first getun Yrael; xxiii Y seide to þee, leeue my sone, þat he serue to me; and þow woldist not leeue hym; loo! Y shal flee þi first gotun sone.
 xxiv And whanne he was in þe weie, in þe syde turnyng place to reste, þe Lorde ȝede aȝens hym, and wold flee hym.
 xxv Anoon Sephora tok a ful sharp stoon, and kitte al aboute þe vttermore shynne of þe ȝerde of hir sone, and it touchide his feet; and she seiþ, A spouse of blodis þow art to me.
 xxvi And she lafte hym, for þe circumficioun, aftir þat she hadde seid, A spouse of blodes þou art to me.
 xxvii Be Lord forsoþe seide to Aaron, Goo into þe aȝen comyng to Moyses, into desert; þe which ȝede to mete wiþ hym into þe hil of God, and he kysside hym.
 xxviii And Moyses tolde Aaron alle þe wordis of þe Lord, for þe whiche he sente hym, and þe toknes þat he comaundyd.
 xxix And þei comen togidere, and þei gadereden togidere alle þe alder men of þe fones of Yrael.
 xxx And Aaron spak alle þe wordis, þat þe Lord hadde seyde to Moyses; and he dide þe signes beforne þe puple; xxxi and þe puple bileuede; and þei herden þat þe Lord hadde visitid þe fones of Yrael, and þat he hadde biholdun þe affliccion of hem; and redi þei anourden.

Capitulum V.

i Aftir þes þingis ȝeden in Moyses and Aaron, and feiden to Pharao, Pes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Leeue my puple, þat þei doo sacrifice to me in desert.
 ii And he answerde, Who is þe Lord, þat I here his voys, and leeue Yrael? Y knowe not þe Lord, and Yrael Y shal not leeue.
 iii Pei seiden, Be God of Ebrews haþ clepid vs, þat we goon þe weie of þre dayes into wildernes, and sacrificye unto þe Lord oure God, leſt perauenture falle to us pestilence, or swerd.
 iv Be kyng of Egipre seiþ to hem, Whi, Moyses and Aaron, bisyen ȝe þe puple fro her werkis? Go ȝe to ȝoure charges.
 v And Pharao seide, Mych is þe puple of þe loond; ȝe seyn þat þe folk vudur growiþ; myche more, if ȝe ȝyuen hem reste fro werkis.
 vi He comaundide þanne þat day to þe maystris of werkis, and to þe constreyners of þe puple, seiynge, vii No more ȝe shal ȝyue chaf to þe puple, þat tiles ben maad as before; but goo þei hem filuen, and gadere stoble;

viii and þe mesure of tyles þat þei before maden, ȝe shulen putt vpon hem, and ȝe shulen not lassen eny þing; forsoþe þei ben voyd, and þerfor þei cryen out, seiyng, Goo we, and sacrificye we to oure God;
ix þe þei oppressid wiþ werkis, and fulfille þei hem, þat þei assenten not to lefyng wordis.
x Panne, goon out, þe maylris of werkis and þe confstreynders feyden to þe puple, þus seiþ Pharao, Y ȝyue ȝou not chaf; xi goþ, and gederiþ, where euer ȝe mowen fynde; ne eny þing shal be lasse of ȝoure werk.
xii And þe puple is scaterid þurȝ out al þe loond of Egypete to be gadered chaf.
xiii And þe maylris of werkis greetly stoden, seiyng, Fulfilliþ ȝoure werk eche day, as before ȝe weren wont to doon, whanne chaf was ȝouun to ȝou.
xiv And þe maylris of þe children of Yrael, of þe confstreynders of Pharao, seiyng, Whi han ȝe not fulfillid þe mesure of tylis, as bifore, nowþer ȝistirday ne to day?
xv And þe maylrys of þe children of Yrael camen, and crieren out to Pharao, seiyng, Whi doft þow þus aȝens þi seruauntis?
xvi Chaf ben not ȝouun to vs, and tiles aliche many ben comaundid. Loo! we þi seruauntis ben betun wiþ scourges, and wrongfuli it is doon aȝens þi puple.
xvii þe which seiþ, ȝe tenden to ydernes; and þerfor ȝe feyn, Go we and sacrificye to þe Lord;
xviii goþ þanne and worchiþ; chaf shal not be ȝouun to ȝow, and ȝe shulen ȝelde þe customyd noumbre of tylis.
xix And þe maylris of þe fones of Yrael seen hem seluen into yuel, for þat it was feide to hem, þere shal not be maad lasse eny þing of þe tiles bi eche daies.
xx And þei aȝen wenten to Moyses and to Aaron, þat stoden euen aȝens, goyng out fro Pharao, xi and þei seiden 'to hem, Se þe Lord, and deme, for to stynken ȝe han maad oure smel before Pharao and his seruauntis; and ȝe han ȝouun hym a swerd, þat he flee vs.
xxii And Moyses turnede aȝen to þe Lord, and seiþ, Lord, whi haft þow turmentid þis puple? whi haft þow sent me?
xxiii Fro þat tyme forsoþe þat Y ȝede yn to Pharao for to spek in þi name, he turmentide þi puple, and þow haft not delyuered hem.

Capitulum VI.

i And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Now þow shalt seen, what þingis Y am to do to Pharao; forsoþe bi a strong hoond he shal leeue hem, and in a myȝti hoond he shal brouwe hem out of his loond.

ii And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, Y þe Lord, iii þat aperide to Abraham, and to Yfaac, and to Jacob in þe God Almyȝti; and my name Adonay Y shewyde not to hem; iv and I couenauntide a boond of pees wiþ hem, þat Y shulde ȝyue hem þe loond of Chanaan, þe loond of her pilgrimage, in þe which þei weren comlyngys.
v Y haue herd þe weylyng of þe children of Yrael, in þe which þe Egipciens han oppreffid hem, and Y haue recordide of my couenaunte.
vi Perfore sey to þe fones of Yrael, Y þe Lord, þat shal lede ȝow out of þe trauelous prisoun of Egipciens; and delyuere fro seruage; and forbigge in an ouerpaffyng arm, and in greet domes;
vii and Y shal tak ȝow to me into a puple, and Y shal be ȝoure Lord; and ȝe shulen knowe, þat Y am þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haþ ladde ȝow out fro þe trauelows prisoun of Egipciens, viii and brouȝte ȝow into þe loond, vpon þe which Y haue lift up myn hoond, þat Y ȝyue it to Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob, and Y shal ȝyue it to be had to ȝow; I a Lord.
ix Panne Moyses tolde alle þes þingis to þe fones of Yrael, þe whiche assentiden not to hym for þe angwisch of spyryt, and þe moost hard werk.
x And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xi Goo yn, and spek to Pharao, þe kyng of Egypete, þat he leeue þe fones of Yrael from his loond.
xii Moyses answarde before þe Lord, Loo! þe fones of Yrael heren me not, and what manere shal Pharao here, namelich siþ Y am vncircumcidid in lippes?
xiii And þe Lord spak to Moyses and Aaron, and ȝaf a maundement to þe fones of Yrael, and to Pharao, þe kyng of Egypete, þat þei ledien þe fones of Yrael out of þe loond of Egypete.
xiv þes be þe princis of þe housholdis bi her meynese. þe fones of Ruben, þe first gotten of Yrael, Enoch, and Fallu, Efrom, and Carmy; þes be cognaciouns of Ruben.
xv þe fones of Symeon, Jamuel, and Jamyn, and Adod, and Jachym, and Soer, and Saul, þe fone of Chananytidis; þes be progenyes of Symeon.
xvi And þes be names of þe fones of Leuy bi her cognaciouns, Gerfon, and Caath, and Merary. Forsoþe þe ȝeres of þe lijf of Leuy weren an hundred and seuen and pretti.
xvii þe fones of Gerfon, Lobny and Semei, by her cognaciouns.
xviii þe fones of Caath, Amram, and Yfuar, and Ebron, and Oziel; þe ȝeris forsoþe of þe lijf of Caath an hundryd and six and pretti.
xix þe fones of Merary, Mooly and Musi. þes be cognaciouns of Leuy bi her meynese.
xx Amram forsoþe tok a wif, Jochabed, þe douȝter of þe broþer to hys fader, þe which bar to hym Aaron, and Moysen, and Mary; and þe ȝeris of þe lijf of Amram weren an hundryd and seuen and þretti.

 xxi And þe sones of Ysuar, Chore, and Naphes, and Zethry.
 xxii þe sones forsoþe of Oziel, Myfael, and Elizaphan, and Sethri.
 xxiii Aaron forsoþe tok a wif, Elizabeth, þe dowȝter of Amynadab, þe sister of Naason, þe which bar to hym Nadab, and Abyut, and Aleazar, and Ythamar.
 xxiv þe sones forsoþe of Chore, Afer, and Elchanan, and Abiasab; þes ben þe cognaciouns of Chorytis.
 xxv And forsoþe Eliazar, þe sone of Aaron, tok a wif of þe dowȝtris of Phatiel, þe which bar to hym Phynees. þes ben þe princis of þe Leuytis meynese bi her cognaciouns.
 xxvi þis is Aaron and Moyses, to whom þe Lord comaundide, þat þei shulden lede þe sones of Yrael out of þe loond of Egipte be her companyes; xxvii þes ben þat speken to Pharao, þe kyng of Egipte, þat þei ledn þe sones of Yrael out of Egipte; xxviii þis is Moyses and Aaron, in þe day þat þe Lord spak to Moyses in þe loond of Egipte.
 xxix And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, Y þe Lord; spek to Pharao, kyng of Egipte, alle þingis þat Y speke to þee.
 xxx And Moyses seiþ bifore þe Lord, Loo! Y am vncircumcidid in lippys, what manere shulde Pharao here me?

Capitulum VII.

i And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Loo! Y haue ordeyned þee þe god of Pharao; and Aaron, þi broþer, shal be þi prophete.
 ii þow shalt spek to hym alle þingis þat Y feende to þee, and he shal spek to Pharao, þat he late þe sones of Yrael out of his loond.
 iii And Y shal ful harden his herte, and Y shal multiplie toknes and signes worþi to be shewid in þe loond of Egipte, and he shal not here ȝow;
 iv and Y shal feend yn myn hoond upon Egipte, and Y shal lede myn oost, and my puple, þe sones of Yrael, out of þe loond of Egipte bi þe grettis domes;
 v and þe Egipciens shulen knowe, þat Y am a Lord, þat may strecche out myn hoond vpon Egipte, and lede þe sones of Yrael out of þe myddil of hem.
 vi And so diden Moyses and Aaron; as þe Lord comaundide, so þei diden.
 vii Forsoþe Moyses was of eiȝti ȝeris, and Aaron of eiȝty and þre, whanne þei spaken to Pharao.
 viii And þe Lord feide to Moyses and Aaron, ix Whanne Pharao shal sey to ȝou, Shew to us signes, þow shalt sey to Aaron, Tak þin ȝerde, and þrow it bifore Pharao, and be it turned into a boſk eddre.
 x And so Moyses and Aaron, goon yn to Pharao, diden as þe Lord comaundide; and Aaron tok þe ȝerde bifore Pharao and his seruauntis, þat was turnyd into a boſke addre.

 xi Pharao forsoþe clepid fages, and clepers of deuels to doon yuel, and þei also diden bi Egipciens enchauntyngis, and sum priue þingis lyik manere;
 xii and eche þrewe forþ her ȝerdes, þat were turned into dragouns; but þe ȝerde of Aaron deouride her ȝerdes.
 xiii And þe herte of Pharao was myche hardid, and he herde hem not, as þe Lord comaundide.
 xiv Forsoþe þe Lord feide to Moyses, Engregid is þe herte of Pharao, he wole not leeue þe puple;
 xv go to hym eerli; loo! he shal goon out to þe watri, and þow shalt stand into his aȝen comyng upon þe brynk of þe floode; and þow shalt tak þe ȝerde, þat was turned into a dragoun, in þin hoond, xvi and þow shalt sey to hym, Pe Lord God of Ebrews haþ sent me to þee, seiynge, Leeue my puple, þat þei sacrifice to me in desert; and vnto now þow woldist not heren.
 xvii Banne þes wordis þe Lord seiþ, In þat þow shalt knowe, þat Y am a Lord; loo! Y shal smyit wiþ þe ȝerde, þat is in myn hoond, þe water of þe floode, and it shal turne into bloode; xviii þe fiffis forsoþe, þat ben in þe floode, shulen dye; and þe water shal stynke, and tormentid shulen be þe Egipciens drynkyngis of þe water of þe floode.
 xix And þe Lord feid to Moyses, Sey þow to Aaron, Tak þi ȝerde, and strecche þin hoond out vpon þe watri of Egipte, and vpon her floodes, and her ryuers, and merlhis, and alle lakis of watri, þat þei ben turned into bloode; and þat þere be corrupte rennyng bloode in al þe loond of Egipte, as wel in treen vessel as in stony.
 xx And so Moyses and Aaron diden, as þe Lord comaundide; and arerynge þe ȝerde, he smote þe watri of þe floode before Pharao and his seruauntis, þe which was turned into blood;
 xxi and þe fiffis, þat weren in þe floode, dieden; and þe floode stonke, þat þe Egipciens myȝten not drinke þe water of þe flood; and þere was bloode in al þe loond of Egipte.
 xxii And þe clepers of deuels to doon yuel of þe Egipciens diden in liyk manere in her enchauntyngis; and þe herte of Pharao was myche hardid; and he herde hem not, as þe Lord comaundide.
 xxiii And he turnede hym self awey, and ȝede into his hows, ne he putte not to þe herte, also þis while.
 xxiv Forsoþe alle þe Egipciens deluyden bi enuyroun of þe floode, þat þei myȝten drynk þe water; forsoþe þei miȝten not drynk of þe water of þe floode.
 xxv And seuen dayes weren fulfillid, after þat þe Lord hadde smyten þe floode.

Capitulum VIII.

i Forsoþe þe Lord seide to Moyses, Goo into Pharaõ, and þow shalt sey to hym, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Leeue my puple, þat he sacrificye to me;

ii ellis forsoþe if þow wolt not leeue hem, loo! Y shal smyte alle þi coostis wiþ frogges;

iii and þe floode shal boyl up froggis, þat shulen steyn vp, and goo in to þin hows, and into þi bedchaumbre, and vpon þi beddyng, and into þe houses of þi seruauntis, and into þi puple, and into þi ouenes, and in to þe relyues of þi metis;

iv and to þee, and to þi puple, and to alle þi seruauntes shulen goon yn froggis.

v And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Sey to Aaron, Strecche out þi hoond vpon floodes, and vpon ryuers, and merfhes; and brynge out frogges vpon þe loond of Egipte.

vi And Aaron strauȝte out þe hoond vpon þe watriis of Egipte; and þere steyden vp frogges, and couerden þe loond of Egipte.

vii And þe clepers of deuels diden by her enchauntyngis lijk maner; and brouȝten out frogges vpon þe loond of Egipte.

viii Forsoþe Pharaõ clepide Moyses and Aaron, and feiden to hem, Preye ȝe þe Lord, þat he do awey frogges fro me, and fro my puple; and Y shal lat þe puple, þat þei sacryfyte to þe Lord.

ix And Moyses seide to Pharaõ, Ordeyn me a tyme, whan Y shal preye for þee, and for þi seruauntis, and for þi puple, þat þe frogges ben dreuen a wey fro þee, and fro þin hows, and fro þy seruauntis, and fro þi puple; and oonly in þe floode þei abiden.

x þe which answerde, To morwe. And he, After þi word, he seiþ, Y shal do, þat þow knowe, for þere is not a Lord as oure God; xi and þe frogges shulen goon away from þee, and from þin hows, and fro þi children, and fro þi seruantis, and fro þi puple; and oonli in þe floode þei shulen abijd.

xii And Moyses and Aaron ȝeden out fro Pharaõ. And Moyses criede to þe Lord, for þe biheeste of froggis, þat he couenauntide to Pharaõ.

xiii And þe Lord dide after þe word of Moyses; and þe frogges weren deed of þe howlis, and of þe townes, and of þe feedles;

xiv and þei gedered hem togidere into greet heepes wiþouten nouembre, and þe erþe stonke.

xv Pharaõ forsoþe seynge þat þere was ȝeue rest, his herte engredgide, and herde not hem, as þe Lord comaundide.

xvi And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Spek to Aaron, Strecche out þi ȝerde, and smyit þe powdre of þe erþe, þat þere ben stynggyng gnattis in al þe loond of Egipte.

xvii And he dide so; and Aaron strauȝte out þe hoond, holdynge þe ȝerde, and he smote þe powdre of þe erþe; and þere weren maad stynggyng gnattis in men, and in beetis; al þe powdre of þe erþe is turnyd into stynggyng gnattis þurȝ out al þe loond of Egipte.

xviii And liyk manere diden þe clepers of deuels in her enchauntyngis, þat þei myȝten dryue out þe stynggyng gnattis, and þei myȝten not; and stynggyng gnattis weren boþe in men and in beetis.

xix And þe clepers of deuels feiden vnto Pharaõ, Þe fyngrur of God ys here. And þe herte of Pharaõ was greetli hardid, and he herde hem not, as þe Lord hadde comaundide.

xx And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Aryse eerli, and stoond before Pharaõ, forsoþe he shal goon out to þe watriis; and þow shalt sey to hym, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Leeue my puple, þat þei sacrificye to me;

xxi and if þow late hem not, loo! Y shal feende into þee, and into þi seruauntis, and into þi puple, and into þin howses, al kynde of fliȝis; and þe howlis of Egipte shulen be fulfillyd wiþ fliȝis of dyuerse kynde, and al þe loond in which þei shulen ben.

xxii And Y shal mak merueylows in þat day þe loond of Geffen, in þe which is my puple, þat þere ben not þere fliȝis; and wyt þow þat Y am Lord in þe myddel of þe erþe;

xxiii and Y shal fette partyng bitwix my puple and þi puple; to morwe shal be þis tokne.

xxiv And so dide þe Lord. And þere cam þe moost greuows flize in to þe hows of Pharaõ, and of his seruauntis, and into al þe loond of Egipte; and þe loond was corrupte of lyche maner fliȝis.

xxv And Pharaõ clepide Moyses and Aaron, and seiþ to hem, Gooþ, and sacrificieþ to þe Lord ȝoure God in þis loond.

xxvi And Moyses seiþ, It may not be doo so; þe abhomynaciouns forsoþe of Egipciens shulen we offre to oure Lord? þat if we sleen þes þingis þat Egipciens heryen beforne hem, þey shulen felle us down wiþ stones.

xxvii We shulen goon þe weye of þree dayes into wildernes, and we shulen sacryfie to þe Lord oure God, as he haþ comaundid vs.

xxviii And Pharaõ seid, Y shal leeue ȝow, þat ȝe sacrificie to þe Lord ȝoure God in deserfe; neuerþeles go ȝe a wey no ferþere; preieþ for me.

xxix And Moyses seiþ, Y goon out fro þee shal preye þe Lord; and þe flize shal goo a wey fro Pharaõ, and fro his seruauntis, and fro his puple to morwe; neuerþeles wole þou no more desceyue me, þat þow lat not þe puple sacryfie to þe Lord.

xxx And Moyses goon out fro Pharaõ preiede þe Lord, xxxi þat dide aftir his word, and he tok awey fliȝes fro Pharaõ, and fro þe seruauntis, and fro his puple; þere ouerlafte not oon forsoþe.

xxxii And þe herte of Pharaõ was engredgid, so þat ȝit þis while he wolde not leeue þe puple.

Capitulum IX.

i To Moyses forsoþe seyde þe Lord, Goo yn to Pharao, and spek to hym, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Ebrews, Leeue my puple, þat it sacrificie to me;
 ii þat if ȝit bow forsakist, and holdist hem, iii loo! myn hoond shal be vpon þi feeldis, vpon horfis, and assis, and chamels, and oxen, and sheip, a ful greuows pestilence;
 iv and þe Lord shal do a meruelous þing bitwix posseſſions of Yrael and þe posſeſſions of Egypcyens, þat no þing algatis perishe of þes þingis þat pertenen to þe sones of Yrael.
 v And þe Lord ordeynede a tyme, seiyng, To morwe þe Lord shal do þis word in þe loond.
 vi Þe Lord dide þanne þis word þe toþer day, and alle þe beestis of Egypciens dyeden; of þe beestis forsoþe of þe children of Yrael no þing algat perishide.
 vii And Pharao sent to looke, ne eny þing was deed of þes þingis þat Yrael hadde; and þe herte of Pharao was inwardly agreued, and he lafte not þe puple.
 viii And þe Lord leyde to Moyses and Aaron, Tak ȝe hoondes ful of asken fro þe chymney, and Moyses sprenge it into heuene before Pharao; ix and þe herte powdre vpon al þe loond of Egypce; and þere shulen ben in men and yn beestis biles, and bleynes fwellynge, in al þe loond of Egypce.
 x And þei token asken of þe chymney, and þey stoden before Pharao; and Moyses spengide it into heuene; and þere ben maad woundes of þe fwellynge bleynes in men, and in beestis; xi ne þe clepers of deuels myȝten stoonde before Moyses, for þe woundis þat weren in hem, and in al þe loond of Egypce.
 xii And þe Lord hardid þe herte of Pharao, and he herde not hem, as þe Lord spak to Moyses.
 xiii And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Eerli aryse, and stoond before Pharao, and þow shalt sey to hym, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Ebrews, Lat my puple, þat he sacrificie to me; xiv for in þis while Y shal sende alle my veniaunces vpon þin herte, and vpon þi seruauntis, and vpon þi puple, þat þou knowe, þat þere is noon like me in al þe loond.
 xv Now forsoþe I shal stretche out þe hoond, and Y shal smyit þee and þi puple wiþ pestilence, and þou shalt perisshe fro þe erþe; xvi þerfor forsoþe Y haue sett þee, þat Y shewe my strengþe in þee, and my name be toold in eche loond.
 xvii ȝit þow holdist my puple, and wole not leeue it?
 xviii Loo! Y shal reyne to morwe þis fame our ful myche hawle, what maner was not in Egypce, fro þe day þat it was sett, vnto þe tyme þat is now.
 xix Seend þanne now riȝt, and gedere togidere þi beestis, and al þat þou haft in þe feelde; men forsoþe, and beestis, and alle þat shulen be foundun wiþouten, and not gedered togidere fro watres, and þe hawle fal vpon hem, þei shulen die.

xx He þat dradde þe word of þe Lord, of þe seruauntis of Pharao, made his seruauntis and beestis flee togidere into howfis; xxi he forsoþe þat rouȝte not þe word of þe Lord, left his seruauntis and beestis in þe feeldis.
 xxii And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Strecche out þin hoond into heuene, þat þere be maad hawle in al þe loond of Egypce, vpon men, and vpon beestis, and vpon al erþe of þe feelde in þe loond of Egypce.
 xxiii And Moyses strauȝte þe ȝerde into heuene; and þe Lord ȝaf þundres, and hawle, and dyuersly rennyng leytis vpon þe erþe; and þe Lord reynede hawle vpon þe loond of Egypce;
 xxiv and hawle, and fier mengid togidere weren broȝt; and it was of so greet mychelnes, how greet biþre neuer apeeride in al þe loond of Egypce, siþ þat folk was maad.
 xxv And þe hawle smoot in al þe loond of Egypce alle þat weren in feeldes, fro man vnto beest; and al erþe of þe feelde smoote þe hawle, and eche tree of þe cuntree it breke togidere; xxvi oonly in þe loond of Geffen, where weren þe children of Yrael, þe hawle fel not.
 xxvii And Pharao sente, and clepide Moyses and Aaron, seiyng to hem, Y haue synned also now; þe Lord is riȝtwiys, Y and my puple wickid; xxviii preye ȝe þe Lord, þat þe þundres of God and þe hawle leeuen of, and Y shal leten ȝow, and ȝe shulen dwelle here no more.
 xxix Moyses seiþ, Whanne Y shal goon out fro þe citee, Y shal strecche out my hoond to þe Lord, and þe þundres shulen ceſſe, and hawle shal not be, þat þow knowe, for of þe Lord is þe erþe; xxx forsoþe Y knowe, þat þow and þi seruauntis dreden not ȝit þe Lord God.
 xxxi Þe flax þanne and barlich was hurt, for þat þat þe barlich was grene, and þe flax now buriuownde coddes; xxxii whete forsoþe and corn weren not hurt, for þei weren of late growyng.
 xxxiii And Moyses goon out fro Pharao, and out of þe citee, strauȝte þe hondes to þe Lord, and þundres and hawle ceefiden, and no more droppide þe reyn vpon þe loond.
 xxxiv Pharaos forsoþe seyng, þat þe reyne hadde ceefid, and hawle, and þundres, encreeſid þe synne; and þe herte of hym and of hys seruauntis is engredgid, xxxv and his herte was ful myche hardid; and he lafte not þe sones of Yrael, as þe Lord comaundide by þe hoond of Moyses.

Capitulum X.

i And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Goo yn to Pharao, Y forsoþe haue hardid þe herte of him, and of his seruauntis, þat Y make þes my signes in hym;

ii and þow telle in þe erres of þi sone and of þi cosyns, how ofte siþes Y haue born doun togidere þe Egipciens, and haue doon toknes in hem; and knowe ȝe for Y a Lord.

iii Panne Moyses and Aaron ȝeden yn to Pharao, and feiden to hym, Pes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Hebrews, How long wolt þow not be fuget to me? Leeue my purple, þat it sacrificie to me;

iv yf forsoþe þow wilstondre, and wole not leeue it, loo! Y shal leede yn to morwe a locust into þi coostis, v þat shal couer þe vttermost of þe erþe, þat eny þing of it shal not apeere, but be etun þat was laft to þe hawle; forsoþe he shal gnawe alle trees þat buriouen in þe feeldes;

v and þei shulen fulfille þin howses, and of þi seruauntis, and of alle þe Egipcyens, how many han not seen þi fadris, ne her fadris, siþ þei weren born vpon erþe, vnto þe day þat is now. And he turnede hym a wey, and ȝede out fro Pharao.

vi And þe seruauntis of Pharao feiden to hym, How long shulen we suffre þis sclaundre? Leeue þe men, þat þei sacrificye to þe Lord her God; seest þow not, þat Egipre periship?

vii And þei clepeden aȝen Moyses and Aaron to Pharao, þe which seide to hem, Gof, and sacrificieþ to þe Lord ȝoure God; who forsoþe ben þat ben to goon?

viii Moyses seiþ, Wib ȝoure children and alderen we shulen goon; and wib sones, and douȝtres, wib sheip, and droues; it is forsoþe þe solempnyte of þe Lord ȝoure God.

x And Pharao answerde, So þe Lord be wib ȝow, what maner þanne Y shal leeue ȝow and ȝoure children? to whom is it dout, þat ful yuel ȝe þenken?

xii It shal not be doon so, but go ȝe oonly men, and facryfye to þe Lord; þis forsoþe and ȝoure feluen askiden. And anoon þei weren put out fro þe siȝt of Pharao.

xiii And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Strecche out þin hoond vpon þe loond of Egipre, to a locust, þat it stey vp vpon þe loond, and deuowre al herbe þat to þe hawle was laft of.

xiv And Moyses strauȝte out þe ȝerde vpon þe loond of Egipre, and þe Lord brouȝte yn a brennyng wynde al þat day and nyȝt; and þe morwe tyde biganne, a brennyng wynd reride vp locustes, xviii þe whiche steiden vp fro al þe loond of Egipre, and seeten in alle þe coostis of Egipciens vnnoumbrable, whiche maner before þat tyme weren not, ne afterward ben to comen.

xv And þei couerden al þe vttermost party of þe loond, wastynge alle þingis; þanne þe heerbe of þe loond was deuowryd, and what euer þing of apples þat was in trees, þat þe hawle hadde laft; and algatys no grene þing was laft in þe trees and in heerbis of þe loond, in al Egipre.

xvi Wherfor hiyng Pharao clepide Moyses and Aaron, and seide to hem, Y haue synned in þe Lord ȝoure God, and yn ȝow; xvii but now forȝyue ȝe þe synne to me; also þis siþe prey ȝe þe Lord ȝoure God, þat þis deeþ he doo a wey fro me.

xviii And Moyses ȝede out fro þe siȝt of Pharao, and preide þe Lord; xix þe which made blow þe moost hidows wynde fro þe west, and þe locust takun he þrewe a fer into þe reed see; and þere laft not forsoþe oon in alle þe coostis of Egipre.

xx And þe Lord hardide þe herte of Pharao, and he laft not þe children of Yrael.

xxi Forsoþe þe Lord seide to Moyses, Strecche out þin hoond into heuene, and be þere derknes vpon þe loond of Egipre, so þik þat þei mown be gropid.

xxii And Moyses strauȝte out þe hoond into heuene, and orrible derknesses ben maad in al þe loond of Egipre; xxiii þre dayes no man `myȝte le his broþer, ne mouede him out of þat place þat he was ynne; where euer þe children of Yrael dwelten, was liȝt.

xxiv And Pharao clepide Moyses and Aaron, and seide to hem, Goþe, and sacrificieþ to þe Lord; ȝoure sheep oonli and droues abiden þei stil; ȝoure children goo þei wiþ ȝow.

xxv Moyses seiþ, Forsoþe ooftis and brent sacrifices þow shalt ȝyue to vs, þat we offren to þe Lord ȝoure God;

xxvi alle þe flockis shulen goon wiþ vs; þere shal not leeue a cleee of þe þingis þat ben necessarie into þe heriying of þe Lord ȝoure God, namely, whan we knownen not what shal be offryd, to þe tyme þat we comen fullich to þat place.

xxvii And þe Lord hardide þe herte of Pharao, and he wold not leeue hem.

xxviii And Pharao seide to Moyses, Goo awey fro me, and be war þat þow se no more my face; what euer day þow aperist to me, þow shalt dye.

xxix Moyses forsoþe answerde, So be it doon, as þow haft spokun; Y shal se no more þi face.

Capitulum XI.

i And þe Lord seide to Moyses, ȝit wib o veniaunce Y shal touche Pharao and Egipre, and aftyr þes þingis he shal leeue ȝow, and constreyne to goon out.

ii Panne þow shalt seie to al þe puple, þat a man aske of his freend, and a woman of hir neiȝbore, silueren and goldun vessels, and cloþis;

iii forsoþe þe Lord shal ȝyue grace to his puple befor þe Egipcyens. And Moyses was a ful greet man in þe loond of Egipre, before þe seruauntis of Pharao and al þe puple;

iv and seiþ, Pes þingis seiþ þe Lord, At myd nyȝt Y shal goon yn to Egipre;

v and þere shulen dye alle þe fyrst gotun in þe loond of Egipciens, fro þe first gotun of Pharao, þat fittip in his see, vnto þe first gotun of þe handmayden, þat is at þe queern; and alle þe first gotun of beestis;
vi and þere shal be a greet crye in al þe loond of Egipce, what maner was not bifore, ne afterward is to come.
vii Anentis forsoþe alle þe children of Yrael þere shal not grucche a dog, fro man vnto beeste; þat ȝe knownen, bi how myche myracle þe Lord dyuydide þe Egipciens and Yrael.
viii And alle þes þi seruauntys shulen descende to me, and þei shulen preye for me, seyyng, Go out þow, and al þe puple þat is fuget to þee; after þes þingis we shulen goon out. And greetly wroþ he ȝede out fro Pharao.
ix Þe Lord forsoþe seyde to Moyses, Pharao shal not here ȝow, þat many signes be doon in þe loond of Egipce.
x Moyles forsoþe and Aaron diden alle þe signes and alle þe toknes worþi shewynge, þat ben wrytun, before Pharao; and þe Lord hardide þe herte of Pharao, ne he lafte þe sones of Yrael fro his loond.

Capitulum XII.

i The Lord forsoþe seyde to Moyses and Aaron in þe loond of Egipce, ii ȿis moneþ to ȝow þe bigynnyng of þe moneþis shal be þe first in moneþes of þe ȝeer.
iii Spek ȝe to al þe cumpayne of þe sones of Yrael, and fey ȝe to hem, ȿe tenþ day of ȿis moneþ tak echon a lombe bi meynese and her howfis;
iv if forsoþe þe noumble is to litil, þat it may not suffice to eet þe lombe, he shal tak his neiȝbore, þat is ioyned to his hows after þe noumble of þe soules, þat may suffice to þe etyng of þe lombe.
v Forsoþe it shal ben a lombe wiþouten wemme, a maal of o ȝeer; after þe which riȝt ȝe shulen take also a kydde;
vi and ȝe shulen kepe it vnto þe fourtenþ day of ȿis moneþ; and al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael shal offre it at euen.
vii And þei shulen take of his bloode, and leggen vpon eiþer post, and in þe breshwoldes of þe howfes, in þe whiche þei shulen eet it;
viii and þei shulen eet flesh þat nyȝt, roftid wiþ fier, and þerf looues wiþ wylde letuse.
ix ȝe shulen not eten of it eny þing raw, ne soþun wiþ water, but oneli roftid wiþ fier; þe heed wiþ his feet and entrayls ȝe shulen vowre;
x ne þere shal not leeue of it eny þing to to morwen; and if eny þing be laft, wiþ fier ȝe shulen brenne it.
xi So forsoþe ȝe shulen eten it; ȝe shulen girde about ȝoure reynes, and ȝe shulen haue shoon in ȝoure feet, holdynge staves in hoondis; and ȝe shulen eete haſtiliche; it is forsoþe phase, þat is to seye, þe paffyng forþ of þe Lord.

xii And Y shal passe þurȝ al þe loond of Egipce þat nyȝt, and Y shal smyit alle þe first gotun in þe loond of Egipce, fro man vnto beeste; and in alle þe goddis of Egipce Y shal make domes; Y a Lord.
xiii ȿe bloode forsoþe shal be to ȝow into tokne, in þe houſis in þe which ȝe shulen be; and Y shal se þe bloode, and Y shal ouerpasse ȝow; and þere shal not be in ȝow a veniaunce deſtruyinge, whanne Y shal smyit þe loond of Egipce.
xiv Forsoþe ȝe shulen han þis day into mynde, and ȝe shulen halwe it solempne to þe Lord in ȝoure generaciouns wiþ heriying euerlastynge.
xv Seuen daies ȝe shulen eten þerf breed; in þe first day þere shal be no four dowȝ in ȝoure howfes; who so euer etiþ fowred breed, shal perishe þat soule fro Yrael, fro þe first day vnto þe seuenþe day.
xvi ȿe first day shal be holy and solempne, and þe seuenþe day shal be wurſhipful in þe fame feefte; no þing of werk ȝe shulen doon in hem, out tak þes þat perteynþ to etyng;
xvii and ȝe shulen kepe þerf breed. Forsoþe in þat fame day Y shal leede ȝoure oost out of þe loond of Egipce; and ȝe shulen kepe þis day in ȝoure generaciouns in ryte euerlastynge.
xviii ȿe firſte moneþ, þe fourtenþ day of þe moneþ, at euen, ȝe shulen eet þerf breed, vnto þe oon and twentiþ day of þe fame moneþ at euen.
xix Seuen dayes foure breed shal not be foundun in ȝoure howfes; who so etiþ foure breed, his soule shal perishe fro þe cumpayne of Yrael, as wel of cumlyngis, as of wiþ ynne borne of þe loond.
xx Al foure breed ȝe shulen not eet, and in alle ȝoure dwellyng places ȝe shulen eet þerf breed.
xxi Moyles forsoþe clepide alle þe eldren of þe sones of Yrael, and seyde to hem, Goeþ, takynge a beeste bi ȝoure meynese, offre ȝe paske;
xxii and þe litil sprynkil of ysop wetiþ in bloode, þat is in þe neþir breswold, and sprengiþ of it þe ouerþreswold, and eiþer post; noon of ȝow alle shal go out of þe dore of his hows vnto þe morwen tyde.
xxiii ȿe Lord forsoþe shal passe forþ smytyng þe Egipciens; and whanne he feefþ þe bloode in þe breswald, and in eiþer post, he shal ouer goo þe dore of þe hows, and he shall not suffre þe smyter goo into ȝoure howfis, and hurten.
xxiv Kepe þow þis word lawful to þee and to þi sones vnto wiþouten ende.
xxv And whanne ȝe shulen goon into þe loond þat þe Lord is to ȝyue to ȝow, as he haþ bihotun, ȝe shulen kepe þes cerymonyes;
xxvi and whanne ȝoure sones shulen seye to ȝow, What is þis religiouþ?
xxvii ȝe shulen seye to hem, It is þe sacrifice for þe ouercomun enimys of þe paffing of þe Lord, whanne he passide forþe vpon þe hows of þe fones of Israel in Egipte, smytyng þe Egipciens, and oure hows delyuerynge. And þe purple bowid anowryde.

xviii And þe fones of Yrael goon out, diden as þe Lord comaundyd to Moyses and Aaron.

xxix It was doon forsoþe in þe myddil of þe nyȝt, þe Lord smoot alle þe fyrst gotun in þe loond of Egipte, fro þe fyrst gotun of Pharaeo, þat sat in his see, vnto þe fyrst gotun of þe caytif womman, þat was in prisoun, and alle þe fyrst gotun of beestis.

xxx And Pharao aroos þe nyȝt, and alle his seruauntis, and al Egipte; and þer was sþrungun a greet crye in Egipte; and forsoþe þere was not an hows, in þe which leye not þe deed.

xxxi And Moyses and Aaron clepid in þe nyȝt, Pharao seip, Ryseþ, and goþ out fro my puple, and ȝe and þe fones of Yrael; goþe, and sacrificieþ to þe Lord, xxxii as ȝe feyn; ȝoure sþeip and ȝoure droues takip, as ȝe han askid; and goynge a wey blefse ȝe to me.

xxxiii And þe Egipciens nediden þe puple to goon out of þe loond swiftly, feiyng, Alle we shulen dye!

xxxiv Panne þe puple tok sþrengid meel, or it were sowrid; and byndyng it in chaf, putte vpon her shuldres.

xxxv And þe fones of Yrael diden as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses; and þei askiden of þe Egipciens silueren and goldun vessels, and myche cloþing.

xxxvi Forsoþe þe Lord ȝaf grace to þe puple before þe Egipciens, þat þei wolden leene hem; and þei spuyleden þe Egipciens.

xxxvii And þe fones of Yrael ȝeden fro Remesse into Sochoth, almoost six hundryd bowysnd of foot men, wiþ outen children and wymmen; xxxviii but and þe comoun of eiþer sex `or kynde vnoumbrable steyden vp wiþ hem; sþeip, and droues, and ful many hauynge lijf of dyuerse kynde.

xxxix And þei bakiden meeles, þat a litil before sþrengide þei token out of Egipte, and þei maden þerf looues vnder asken; and þei myȝten not be maad sowre, þe Egipciens constreynyng to goon out, and not suffryng to mak eny dwellyng, ne eny þing of fowel þere com to to maken redi.

x Pe dwellyng places forsoþe of þe fones of Yrael, þat þei dwelliden yn Egipte, was of four hundred and pretti ȝeer;

xii þe whiche fulfillid, þe same day ȝede al þe oost of þe Lord out of þe loond of Egipte.

xlii ȝis is nyȝt of þe Lord able to be kept, whanne he ladet hem out of þe loond of Egipte; ȝis owen to kepe alle þe fones of Yrael in her generacions.

xliii Pe Lord forsoþe seide to Moyses and Aaron, ȝis is þe religiou of phask; ech alien shal not ete þerof; xliii al forsoþe seruaunt bouȝt be he circumcidid, and so eet he;

xlv comlyng and hyryd seruaunt shulen not eet þerof;

xvi in oon hows it shal be etun, ne ȝe shulen not bere of his fleshe out, ne boon of it ȝe shulen breek.

xvii Alle þe compayne of þe fones of Yrael shal doo it;

xviii þat if eny of pilgrymes wole come into ȝoure heriying of religiou, and do þe pask of þe Lord, before eche maal child of him shal be circumcidid, and þanne wiþ riȝt he shal halewe, and he shal be togidere as a wiþ ynne gotun of þe loond; if eny forsoþe be not circumcidid, he shal not ete þerof.

xlix Pe same lawe shal be to þe wiþ ynne gotun, and to þe comlyng tilyer, þat pilgrimagiþ anentis ȝow.

i And alle þe fones of Yrael diden as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses and Aaron.

ii And in þe same day þe Lord ladde þe fones of Yrael out of þe loond of Egipte, bi her companyes.

Capitulum XIII.

i Forsoþe þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, ii Halwe to me alle þe fyrst gotun þat openiþ þe wombe in þe fones of Yrael, as wel of men as of beestis, alle forsoþe ben myne.

iii And Moyses feide to þe puple, Haþ mynde of þis day, in þe which ȝe ben goon out of Egipte, and of þe hows of þraldom, for yn a strong hoond þe Lord haþ lad ȝow out of þis place, þat ȝe eeten not sowrid breed.

iv To day ȝe goon out, in þe moneþ of new fruytis;

v and whanne þe Lord shal leede þee into þe loond of Chananey, and Ethei, and Amorre, and Euehi, and Jebusei, þat he swoore to bi fadrys, þat he shulde ȝyue to þee, þe loond flowyng mylk and honys, and ȝe shulen halwe þis manere of holy þingis þis moneþ.

vi Seuen dais ȝe shulen eete þerf breed, and in þe seuenþe day shal be þe solempnyte of þe Lord;

vii þerf breed ȝe shulen eete seuen dayes, þere shal not apere anentis þee eny þing maad sowre, ne in alle þi cooftis.

viii And þow shalt telle to bi sone þat day, feiyng, ȝis is bat þe Lord haþ doon to me, whanne Y ȝede out of Egipte.

ix And it shal be as a tokne in þin hoond, and as mynde before þin eyen, þat þe lawe of þe Lord euermore be in þi mouþ; forsoþe in strong hoond þe Lord ladde þee out of Egipte, and of þe hows of þraldom.

x ȝow shalt kepe þis maner heriying þe ordeyned tyme, fro dayes into dayes.

xi And whanne þe Lord shal leede þee into þe loond of Chananei, as he haþ sworn to þee, and to bi fadris, and shal ȝyue it to þee, xii ȝow shalt feuer al þat openeþ wombe, to þe Lord, and þat þat cheef is in þi beestis; what euer ȝow shalt haue of maal kynde, ȝow shalt halwe it to þe Lord.

xiii Pe first gotun of an asse ȝow shalt chaunge for a sþeip, þe whiche if ȝow `aȝen biȝt not, ȝow shalt flee; alle. forsoþe þe first gotun of man of þi fones ȝow shalt `aȝen bye in priys.

xiiii And whanne þi fone shal aske þee to morwe, feiynge, What is þis? þow shalt answere to hym, In a stronge hoond þe Lord haf lad us out of þe loond of Egipre, fro þe hows of þraldom;
 xv for whanne Pharao was hardyd, and wold not leeue vs, þe Lord flowe al þe first gotun in þe loond of Egipre, fro þe first gotun of man vnto þe first gotun of beetis; þerfor Y offre to þe Lord al þat openeþ wombe of maal kynde, and al þe first gotun of my fones Y
 'azen bye.
 xvi It shal be þanne as a tokne in þin hoond, and as a bing hongid vp for recording before þin eyen, þerþurȝ þat in a strong hoond þe Lord haf lad vs out of Egipre.
 xvii þanne whanne Pharao hadde leten out þe puple, God ladde hem not out bi þe weie of þe loond of Philisten, þe which is nyȝ; holdyng leſt perauenture it
 'shulde oþenkyn hym, if it hadde feen bateyls aȝens hym to aryse, and turnen aȝen into Egipre; xviii but he ladde hem about bi þe weie of desert, þat is biside þe reed see. And armed steyden vp þe fones of Yrael fro þe loond of Egipre.
 xix Forsoþe Moyses tok þe boons of Joseph wiþ hym, þerþurȝ þat he hadde wiþ ooþ chargid þe fones of Yrael, feiynge, God shal vyfste ȝow, and ber ȝe my boons out hens wiþ ȝow.
 xx And þei goon from Sochoth, settententis in Etham, in þe vttermeſt cooſtes of wildernes.
 xxi Pe Lord forsoþe wente beforne hem to be ſhewide þe weie, bi day in þe pilere of a clowde, and bi nyȝt in a piler of fier, þat he were leder of þe weye eiper tyme; xxii neuer faylide of þe piler of þe clowde bi day, ne þe piler of fier bi nyȝt, before þe puple.

Capitulum XIII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiynge, ii Spek to þe fones of Yrael; turned ſette þei tentis 'forn aȝens Phyayroth, þat is bitwix Magdalum and þe fee, aȝenſt Beelſephon; in hiſ ſiȝt ȝe ſhulen fett tentis vpon þe fee.
 iii And Pharao is to ſey vpon þe fones of Yrael, þei ben artid togidere in a loond, desert haf encloſid hem.
 iv And Y ſhal harden hiſ herte, and he ſhal purſue ȝow, and Y ſhal 'be glorified in Pharao, and in alle hiſ ooftis; and þe Egipciens ſhulen wyte for Y am a Lord, and þei diden ſo.
 v And it is told to þe kyng of Egipciens, þat þe puple
 'hadde flowun; and ful myche chaungid is þe herte of Pharao, and of hiſ ſeruantis vpon þe puple, and þei feiden, What wole we doon, þat we leeuen Yrael, leſt it ferue not to vs?
 vi þanne he ioynede þe chare, and al hiſ puple he tok
 wiþ hym;
 vii and he tok ſix hundryd chofun charys, and al þat of chares was in Egipre, and þe leders of hiſ ooft.

viii And þe Lord hardide þe herte of Pharao, þe kyng of Egipre, and he purſuede þe fones of Yrael; and þei weren goon out in a hiȝe hoond.
 ix And whanne þe Egipciens purſueden þe ſteppes of þe goers before, þei fonden hem in þe tentis vpon þe fee; alle þe ridynge, and þe chares of Pharao, and al þe ooft weren in Phyayroth, aȝens Beelſephon.
 x And whanne Pharao was nyȝ, þe fones of Yrael, heuyng vp her eyen, ſeyen þe Egipciens after hem, and þei dradden greetli; and þei crieden to þe Lord, xi and feiden to Moyses, Perauenture þere weren not ſepulcris in Egipre, þerfor þow tok vs, þat we dieden in wildernes? what woldiſt þow do þis, þat þow woldiſt lede vs out of Egipre?
 xii Was not þis þe word þat we ſpaken to þee in Egipre, ſeyinge, Goo awey fro vs, þat we feruen to þe Egypcyens? it is forſoþe myche betere to ferue to hem, ban to dye in wildernes.
 xiii And Moyses ſeide to þe puple, Wole ȝe not drede, ſtondeþ, and ſeeþ þe greet wondres of God, þat he is to doon to day; forſoþe þe Egipciens þat ȝe now ſeen, ȝe ſhulen ſeen no more vnto wiþ outhen ende; xiv þe Lord ſhal fiȝt for ȝow, and ȝe ſhulen hoold ȝoure pees.
 xv And þe Lord ſeide to Moyses, What cryest þow to me? Spek to þe fones of Yrael, þat þei goon forþ; xvi þow forſoþe arere þin ȝerde, and ſtrecche out þin hoond vpon þe fee, and dyuyde it, þat þe fones of Yrael goon þurȝ þe drye, in þe myddil fee.
 xvii Y forſoþe ſhal harden þe hertes of þe Egipciens, þat þei purſue ȝow, and Y ſhal be glorified in Pharao, and in al hiſ ooft, and in þe chares, and in þe riders; xviii and þe Egipciens ſhulen wyte þat Y am Lord God, whanne Y ſhal be glorified in Pharao, and in chares, and in hiſ ryders.
 xix And þe aungel of þe Lord, þat ȝede before þe caſtels of Yrael, takynge hym ſelf ȝede after hem, and wiþ hym togidere þe pilere of þe clowde, þe forþermore leeuyng bihynde þe bak, xx ſtode bitwix þe tentis of Egipciens and þe tentis of Yrael; and þere was a derk clowde, and liȝtyng þe nyȝt, lo þat to hem ſelf togidere al þe tyme of þe nyȝt þei myȝten not cum nyȝ.
 xxi And whanne Moyses hadde ſtrauȝt out hiſ hoond vpon þe fee, þe Lord tok it awey, blowynge an hidous wynde, and brennyng al nyȝt, and he turnede it into drowȝt; and þe watir was dyuyd.
 xxii And þe children of Israel 'wenten yn thurȝ þe myddel of þe drye fee; forſoþe þe water was as a wal at þe riȝt ſyde of hem and þe lefte.
 xxiii And þe Egipciens purſuyng, ȝeden yn after hem, al þe horſyng of Pharao, his chares, and his ryders, bi þe myddil of þe fee.
 xxiv And now was comun þe morwetide, and loo! þe Lord biholdynge vpon þe tentes of þe Egipciens, by þe pilere of fyter, and of þe clowde, flewe þe oost of hem;

xxv and he turnede vpsedown þe wheles of þe chares, and þei weren born into þe depþe. Þanne feiden þe Egipciens, Flee we Yrael; forþoþe þe Lord fyȝtiþ for hem aȝens us.

xxvi And þe Lord seiþ to Moyses, Strecche out þin hoond vpon þe reed see, þat þe watriis turnen aȝen to Egipciens, vpon þe chares, and þe horfmen of hem.

xxvii And whanne Moyses hadde strauȝt out þe hoond aȝens þe see, fyrst þe morwetide it was turned aȝen to þe raþer place; and þe Egipciens fleyng, watries aȝen comen, and þe Lord wrapt hem wiþ ynne in þe myddel floodes.

xxviii And þe watriis weren turned aȝen, and þei couerden þe chares, and þe horfmen of al þe oost of Pharaos, þe whiche folwynge weren goon into þe see; ne oon forþoþe ouerlaþte not of hem.

xxix Forþoþe þe sones of Yrael fulliche ȝeden þurȝ þe myddil of þe drye see, and þe watriis weren to hem as for a wal, fro þe ryȝt half and fro þe left half.

xxx And þe Lord delyuerede Israeþ in þat day fro þe hoond of þe Egipciens, and þei seen þe Egipciens deed vpon þe brenk of þe see, xxxi and þe greet hoond þat þe Lord hauntide aȝens hem; and þe puple dredde þe Lord, and leueden to þe Lord, and to Moyses his seruaunt.

Capitulum XV.

i Thanne Moyses foong, and þe sones of Israel, þis ditee to þe Lord; and feiden. Synge we to þe Lord, forþoþe gloriously he is magnyfied; þe hors and þe steyer up he brewe down into þe see.

ii My strengþe and my preyfyng þe Lord; and he is maad to me into helþe. Þis my God, and hym Y shal gloryfie; þe God of my fader, and hym Y shal enhaunce.

iii þe Lord as a man fister, Almyȝti his name;

iv þe chare of Pharaos and his oost he þrewe fer into þe see. His chosun princes weren turned vpsedoun in þe reed see;

v þe depe watriis couerden hem; þei descendiden into þe depþe as a stoon.

vi Lord, þi ryȝt hoond is magnyfied in strengþe; þy ryȝt hoond, Lord, haþ smytun þe enemye.

vii And in multitude of þi glorie þow haft put doun alle myn aduersaryes; þow haft sent þi wraþ, þat deuowride hem as stoble.

viii And in þe spirit of þi woodnes watriis ben gederid togidere; þe flowynge water stode, þe depe watriis ben gederid to gidere in þe myddil see.

ix þe enemye seide, Y shal purfue, and Y shal tak; robries Y shal dyuyde, my soule shal be fulfillid. I shal drawe out my swerd; and myn hoond shal flee hym.

x þi spiryrt blewe, and þe see couerde hem; and þei ben vnder dreynt as leed in hidows watris.

xi Who, Lord, is lijk to þee in strong þingis, who is lijk to þee? þow doer of greet þingis in holynes, and feerful, and preysable, and doyng merueyls.

xii þow haft strauȝt out þin hoond, and þe erþe haþ deuourid hem;

xiii a duke þow haft ben in þi merci to þi puple, þat þow haft aȝenbouȝt; and þow haft born it in þi strengþe to þin holi dwellyng place.

xiv Puples steiden vp, and ben wroop; forwes wipheelden þe dwellers of Philistien.

xv Þanne ben disturbid þe princes of Edom; tremblyng wipheelde þe strong men of Moab. Alle þe dwellers of Chanaan aȝenfrusshiden for ferde; xvi inward drede fal vpon hem, and outward drede in þe mykilnes of þin arme. Be þei maad vnmouable as a stoon, to þe tyme, Lord, þat þi puple passe; to þe tyme þat þi puple passe, þis þat þow haft weeldid.

xvii þow shalt lede hem yn, and þow shalt plaut in þe hil of þin heritage; wiþ þi moost stedfast dwellyng, Lord, þat þow haft vrouȝt; Lord, þi feytuarie, þat þin hondes fastiden.

xviii þe Lord shal regne wipouten ende and ouer.

xix Forþoþe Pharaos, rydyng wiþ charys, and his horfmen ȝeden yn to þe see, and þe watriis of þe see þe Lord aȝenbrouȝte vpon hem; þe sones forþoþe of Yrael ȝeden þurȝ þe drye, in þe myddil of it.

xx Þanne Mary, a prophetesse, þe sister of Aaron, tok a tympan in hir hoond, and alle þe wymmen ȝeden out after hir, wiþ tympanes and daunes;

xxi wiþ þe whiche she before songe, feyng, Synge we to þe Lord, gloriously forþoþe he is magnyfied; þe hors and his steyer up he þrew doun into þe see.

xxii Forþoþe Moyses tok Yrael fro þe reed see, and þei ȝeden out into þe desert of Sur, and þei ȝeden þre dayes þurȝ wildernes, and þei fonden no watyr.

xxiii And þei camen into Marath, and þei myȝten not drynk þe watriis of Marath, forþi þat þei weren bitter; wherfor and a couenable name he putte to þe place, clepyng it Mara, þat is, bitternes.

xxiv And þe puple gruccide aȝens Moyses, feyng, What shulen we drynk?

xxv And he cryede to þe Lord, þe which shewide hym a tree; þe which whanne he hadde put into þe watriis, þei weren turned into swetnes. Pere he ordeynede to him heefis and domes, and þere he temptide hym, xxvi feyng, If þow herist þe voys of þe Lord þi God, and doft þat þat is ryȝt before hym, and obeyshift to his maundementis, and kepist alle his heefis, al þe langour þat I putte in Egypþe, Y shal not bryngyn yn vpon þee; I forþoþe am þe Lord þi Sauyour.

xxvii þe sones of Yrael forþoþe camen into Helym, where weren twelue welles of watriis, and seuenti palme trees, and þei meueden tentis bisides þe waters.

Capitulum XVI.

i And þei ȝeden forþ fro Helym, and al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael cam into desert of Syn, þat is bitwix Helym and Synai, þe fifteneþ day of þe secunde monþ after þei weren goon out of þe loond of Egipte.
ii And alle þe congregaciouns of þe sones of Yrael grucchiden aȝens Moyses, and aȝens Aaron, in wildernes.
iii And þe sones of Yrael seiden to hem, Wolde God we hadden be deed bi þe hoond of þe Lord in þe loond of Egipte, whanne we feeten vpon þe pottis of flesh, and eten breedie in fulnes; whi haft bow ladde vs into þis desert, þat þow myȝtist flee al þis multitude wiþ hungur?
iv Þe Lord forsoþe feide to Moyses, Y shal reyn to ȝow looues fro heuen; þe purple goo out þat he gadere þat sufficen bi eche dayes; þat Y tempte hym, wheper he goo in my lawe, or noon.
v Þe fixte day forsoþe greiþ þei þat þei bryngen yn, and dowble be þere þat þei weren wont to gedere bi eche dayes.
vi And Moyses and Aaron seiden to alle þe sones of Yrael, At euen ȝe shulen wyte þat þe Lord haþ lad ȝow out of þe loond of Egipte;
vii and þe morwetide ȝe shulen fe þe glorye of þe Lord; I haue herd forsoþe ȝoure grucchyng aȝens þe Lord; what forflop ben we, þat ȝe grucchen aȝens vs?
viii And Moyses seiþ, Þe Lord shal ȝyue to ȝow at euen flesh for to eete, and eerli looues in fulnes, for bi þat he haþ herd ȝoure grucchyng, þe which ȝe han grucchid aȝens hym; what forsoþe ben we? ne aȝens vs is ȝoure grucchyng but aȝens þe Lord.
ix And Moyses feide to Aaron, Sey to al þe congregacioun of þe sones of Yrael, Goo ȝe to before þe Lord, forsoþe he haþ herd ȝoure grucching.
x And whanne Aaron spak to al þe companye of þe sones of Yrael, þei bihilden to wildernes, and loo! þe glorye of þe Lord aperyde in a clowde.
xi Forsoþe þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, xii Y haue herd þe grucchyng of þe sones of Yrael; spek bow to hem, At euen ȝe shulen eete flesh, and eerli ȝe shulen be fillid wiþ looues, and ȝe shulen wyte þat Y am þe Lord ȝoure God.
xiii Panne it was doon at euen, and steynge vp a curlew couerde þe tentis, and eerly dew cam by þe eniurown of þe tentis.
xiv And whanne it hadde couerde þe vttermore parti of þe erþe, it aperid in wildernes lassid, and as wiþ a peftel pownyd, into þe lyknes of an hoore froft vpon þe erþe.
xv Þe which þing whanne þe sones of Yrael hadden seen, þei seiden togidere, Man hu? þat bitokneþ, what is þis? forsoþe þei knewen not what it was. To whom Moyses seiþ, Þis is þe breed þat þe Lord haþ ȝouun to ȝow for to eete.

xvi Þis is þe word þat þe Lord comaundide, Echon gedere of it how myche it sufficiþ for to eete, þe tenþe part of þre busshels bi ech heedes, after þe noumber of soules þat dwellen in þe tabernacle, so ȝe shulen taak.
xvii And so dyden þe sones of Yrael, and þei gadreden anoþer more, anoþer leſſe;
xviii and þei mesurden it at þe mesure of gomor, þat is, of þrettenþe pownde, wiþ þe tenþe part of two pownde; ne he þat gederede more hadde more, ne he þat gaderyde leſſe foond leſſe, but eche after þat þat he myȝte eete gadreden.
xix And Moyses seide to hem, No man leeue þerof vnto þe morwen; xx þe whiche herden him not, but sum þerof laſte vnto þe morwen, and it biganne to boyle wormes, and stonk; and Moyses was wroþ aȝens hem.
xxi Forsoþe eche gaderede þe morwetide as myche as myȝte suffice to eete, and whanne þe funne bigan to heet, it moltid.
xxii Þe fixte day forsoþe þei gadreden dowble metis, þat is to seye, two gomors bi eche man. And alle þe princes of þe multitude camen, and tolden to Moyses, xxiii þe which seiþ to hem, Þis is þat þe Lord spak, Þe rest of þe holy day is halwid to þe Lord, to morwe al þat is to worchyng doþe, and 'þat ben to seeþing seeþeþ, and what euer shal be relif, leiþ vp til to morwe.
xxiv And þei diden so as Moyses hadde comaundide, and it stonk not, ne worme was founde þere yn.
xxv And Moyses feide, Etiþ þat to day, for it is þe saboth of þe Lord, yt shal not be founde to day in þe feelde; xxvi fix dayes gedere ȝe, in þe seuenþe day forsoþe is þe saboth of þe Lord, þerfor it shal not be foundun.
xxvii Þe seuenþe day cam, and goon out of þe purple þat þei myȝten gedere, þei fonden noȝt.
xxviii And þe Lord seide to Moyses, How long wolen ȝe not kepe my maundementis, and my lawe?
xxix Seiþ þat þe Lord shal ȝyue to ȝow a saboth, and þerfore he shal ȝyue to ȝow þe fixt day dowble meetis; dwel euerechon anentis hym filf, no man goo out of his place þe seuenþe day.
xxx And þe purple halowide þe seuenþe day.
xxxi And þe hows of Yrael clepide þe name of it man, þat was as þe seed of coliaundre white, and þe taast of it as of tryed floure wiþ hony.
xxxii And Moyses feyde, Þis is þe word þat þe Lord comaundide, Fulfil þow gomor of it, and be it kept into generaciouns afterward to comen, þat þei knownen þe breed wiþ þe which Y norshire hem in wildernes, whanne ȝe weren lad out of þe loond of Egipte.
xxxiii And Moyses feide to Aaron, Tak a vessel, and putte þer yn man, how myche may take gomor, and ley vp before þe Lord, to kepe into ȝoure generaciouns, xxxiv as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses; and Aaron putte it in þe tabernacle, to be referued. xxxv And þe sones of Yrael eten man fourti wynter, to þe tyme þat þei camen into a loond able to dwel yn; wiþ þis meet þei weren norishid forto þei towcheden to þe coofstys of þe loond of Chanaan.

 xxxvi Gomor forsoþe is þe tenþe party of ephi, þat is, a mesure of þre buffhels.

Capitulum XVII.

i Thanne goon forþ al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael fro þe desert of Syn, bi her mansouns, after þe word of þe Lord, 'setten tentis into Raphidym, where was not water to þe puple for to drynke.
 ii þe which ianglynge aȝens Moyses, seiþ, ȝif to vs water, þat we drynken. To whom anfwerde Moyses, What iangle ȝe aȝens me, whi tempte ȝe þe Lord?
 iii þe puple þanne þristide þere, for meschef of water, and it grucchide aȝen Moyses, seiyng, Whi hast þow maad vs to goo out of Egipte, þat þow myȝte flee vs, and oure fre children, and beeftes, þurȝ þrist?
 iv Moyses forsoþe criede to þe Lord, seiyng, What shal Y do to þis puple? ȝit a litil while, and it shal stonen me.
 v þe Lord seide to Moyses, Goo before þe puple, and tak wiþ þee of þe aldren of Yrael, and þe ȝerde, wiþ þe which þow smoot þe floode tak in þin hoond, and goo; vi loo! Y shal stande before þee þere, vpon þe stoon of Oreb, and þow shalt smyte þe stoon, and þere shal goon out of it water, þat þe puple drynk. Moyses dide so beforne þe aldren men of Yrael; vii and he clepide þe name of þat place Temptynge, for þe ianglyng of þe sones of Yrael, and for þei temptiden þe Lord, seiyng, Wheþer is God in vs, or noon?
 viii Forsoþe Amalech cam, and fauȝte aȝen Yrael in Raphidym.
 ix And Moyses seide to Josue, Chees men, and þow goon out, fijt aȝens Amalech, to morwen; and Y shal stande in þe frout of þe hil, hauyng ȝe ȝerde of God in myn hoond.
 x Josue dide as Moyses had spokun, and he fauȝte aȝens Amalech. Moyses forsoþe, and Aaron, and Hur steiden vp vpon þe cop of þe hil;
 xi and whanne Moyses rereden vp þe hoondes, Yrael ouercom; ellis forsoþe if he a litil abatide, Amalech ouercam.
 xii Forsoþe þe hoondes of Moyses weren heuy; þanne þei, takyng a stoon, puttiden vnder hym, in þe which he sete. Aaron forsoþe and Hur susteyned þe hoondes of hym, on eiþer syde; and it was doon, þat þe hoondes of hym werieden not, vnto þe goyng down of þe funne.
 xiii And Josue made Amalech to flee, and þe puple of hym, in þe mouþ of þe fwerd.

xiv And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Wryte þis in þe book for mynde, and tak in þe eeris of Josue; forsoþe Y shal do a wey þe mynde of Amalech vnder heuene.
 xv And Moyses bilde an auter, and clepide þe name of it þe Lord myn enhaunsyng.
 xvi seiyng, For þe hoond of þe Lord oonli, and þe batayle of God it was aȝens Amalech, fro generacioun into generacioun.

Capitulum XVIII.

i And whanne Jethro, þe preest of Madian, cosyn to Moyses, hadde herd alle þingis þat God dide to Moyses, and to Yrael his puple, forþi þat þe Lord hadde ladde Yrael out of Egipte, ii he tok Sephoram, þe wif of Moyses, whom he sente aȝen,
 iii and þe two sones of hym, of whom oon was clepid Gersan, seiyng þe fader, a comlyng Y was in an alien loond,
 iv þe toþer forsoþe Eliezar, God forsoþe, seiþ, myn helper of my fader, and he haþ delyuered me fro þe fwerd of Pharaao.
 v Panne cam Jetro, cofyne to Moyses, and þe sones of hym and his wif, to Moyses in desert, where he hadde sett tentis biside þe hil of God.
 vi And he sente to Moyses, seiyng, I, bi cosyn Jethro, come to bee, and bi wif, and bi two children wiþ hir.
 vii þe which, goon out into þe aȝencomyng of his cosyn, lowtide, and kiffide hym, and þei salutiden hem filf togidris wiþ pesible wordis. And whanne he was goon into þe tabernacle, viii Moyses tolde to his cosyn alle þingis þat God hadde doon to Pharaao, and to þe Egipciens, for Yrael, and al þe traueyle þat hadde fallen to hem in þe weye, fro þe which þe Lord hadde delyuered hem.
 ix And Gethro was glad vpon alle þe goodis þat þe Lord dide to Yrael, forþi þat he hadde delyuered hym fro þe hoondis of þe Egipciens; x and seiþ, Blissid be þe Lord God þat haþ delyuered ȝou fro þe hoondes of þe Egipciens, and fro þe hoond of Pharaao, þat haþ drawun out his puple fro þe hoond of Egipte;
 xi now I haue knowun for greet is þe Lord aboue alle goddis, forþi þat þei proudli diden aȝens hem.
 xii Panne Jethro, þe cosyn to Moyses, offredre to God brent sacrifices, and oostes; and Aaron, and alle þe aldren of Yrael, camen, þat þei myȝten eete breed wiþ hym before God.
 xiii Anoþer forsoþe day Moyses sat for to deme þe puple, þe which stood niȝ to Moyses, fro morwe to euen.
 xiv þe which þing whanne his cosyn hadde seen, þat is, alle þingis þat he dide in þe puple, seiþ, What is þis þat þow doſt in þe puple? whi alone fittift þow, and al þe puple abidiþ fro morwetide vnto euen?

xv To whom answarde Moyses, To me comeþ þe puple, sechynge þe sentence of God;
 xvi and whanne þere falliþ to hem eny strijf, þei comen to me, þat Y deme betwix hem, þat Y shewe þe heestis of God, and his lawe.
 xvii And he, Not good þing, he seiþ, þow doſt, xviii þow art consumyd wiþ foli labour, and þow and þi puple þat is wiþ þee; ouer þi strengþes is þis doyng of cauſis, alone 'þat þow shalt not mowe ſufteyne.
 xix But here my wordis and counſels, and þe Lord ſhal be wiþ þee; be þow to þe puple in þes þingis þat perteynen to God, þat þow telle to hem þat ben feyd; xx and þow shewe to be puple þe ſerymonyes, and þe ryte of heriynge, and þe weie bi þe whych þei Owen to goon yn, and þe werk þat þei Owen to doon.
 xxi And puruey of al þe puple men myȝti, and dredinge God, in whom be trewþe, and þe whiche haten aueryſe; and ordeyne of hem rewlers vpon þowsaundes, and rewlers vpon hundreþes, and rewlers vpon fifty, and rewlers vpon ten, xxii þat mowen deme þe puple al tyme; and what euer 'ſhal be more, telle þei it to þee, and deme þei þe laſſe þingis oonli, þat liȝter it be to þee, þe charge partid vnto oþere.
 xxiii And if þow doſt þus, þow shalt fulfil þe comaundement of God, and his heestis þow may ſufteyne; and al þis puple ſhal turne wiþ pees to her places.
 xxiv þe whiche þingis herd, Moyses dide alle þingis þat he meuyde to.
 xxv And dowȝti men, chofun of al Yrael, he ordeyned hem princes of þe puple, rewlers vpon þowsaundes, and rewlers vpon hundreþis, and rewlers upon fifty, and rewlers vpon ten,
 xxvi þat demeden þe puple al tyme; what euer forſoþe were harder, þei tolden to hym, oonli þe liȝter þingis demyngē.
 xxvii And he laſte his cofyn, þe which turnyd aȝen, ȝede into his loond.

Capitulum XIX.

i The þridde moneþ of þe goyng of Yrael out of þe loond of Egipte, in þis day þei camen into þe wildernes of Synai;
 ii for þei goon forþ fro Raphidym, and comyng vnto deserte of Synay, 'ſetten tentis in þe same place; and þere Yrael ficcid tentis, 'forn aȝens þe hil.
 iii Moyses forſoþe ſteyde vp into þe hil to God; and þe Lord clepide hym fro þe hil, and seiþ, þes þingis þow shalt ſeye to þe hows of Jacob, and þow ſhal telle to þe
 fones of Yrael,
 iv ȝoure ſelf han ſeen what I haue doon to þe Egipciens, what maner wife Y haue born ȝou vpon þe weenges of eglis, and haue takun to me.

v If þanne ȝe heren my voys, and kepen my couenaunt, ȝe ſhulen be to me into my propre trefour of alle puples; myn forſoþe is al þe erþe; vi and ȝe ſhulen be to me into a preeftis kyngdom, and an holi folk; þes ben þe wordis þat þou ſhalt ſpeke to þe fones of Yrael.
 vii Moyses cam, and clepide togidere þe more men þurȝ birþe of þe puple, he expownede alle þe wordes þat þe Lord hadde comaundid.
 viii And al þe puple answarde togidere, We ſhulen doon alle þe þingis þat þe Lord haþ ſpokun. And whanne Moyses hadde told þe wordis of þe puple to be Lord, ix þe Lord ſeyde to hym, Now riȝt Y ſhal com to þee in derknes of a clowde, þat þe puple here me ſpekyng to þee, and leue to þee, into wiþ outen eende. Panne Moyses tolde þe wordes of þe puple to be Lord, x þat feide to hym, Goo to þe puple, and halwe hem to day and to morwen, and waſſhe þei her cloþis, xi and be þei redi into þe þridde day; in þe þridde day forſoþe þe Lord ſhal deſſende before al þe folk vpon þe hil of Synay.
 xii And þow shalt ordeyn termes to þe puple, bi enuyroun; and þow shalt ſeye to hem, Be war þat ȝe ſteyen not into þe hil, ne touche þe endes of it; eche þat touchiþ þe hil, wiþ deþ ſhal dye.
 xiii Hondes ſhulen not touche hym, but wiþ ſtones he ſhal be preſſid down, or he ſhal be ſtickid wiþ dartis; wheþer he be beest, or man, he ſhal not lyue; whanne þe trumpe begynneþ to crie, þanne ſtey þey vp into þe
 hil.
 xiv And Moyses deſcendide fro þe hil to þe puple, and halowede yt; and whanne þei haddun waſſhun her cloþes, xv he seiþ to hem, Be ȝe redi into þe þridde day, and neiȝe ȝe not to ȝoure wyues.
 xvi And now þe þridde day was comen, and þe morwetide was ful clearerid; and loo! þundres biganne to be herd, and leytes to Ihynen, and þe moost þik clowd to couer þe hil; and þe crye of þe trump more hidoulously made noyſe, and þe puple dredde, þat was in þe tentes.
 xvii And whanne Moyses hadde led hem out into þe aȝen comyng of God, fro þe place of þe tentes, þei ſtoden at þe rotes of þe hil.
 xviii And al þe hil of Synay ſmokide, forþi þat þe Lord deſcendide vpon it in fier; and þe ſmeek ſteyde vp of it as of a furneys, and al þe hil was ful feerful; xix and þe foun of þe trompe litil mele ſpronge into more, and lenger was ſtrecchid. Moyses ſpak, and þe Lord answarde hym, xx and þe Lord deſcendide vpon þe hil of Synay, in þat cop of þe hil, and he clepide Moyses in þe heiȝt of it.
 Whider whanne he hadde ſteied vp, xxi he feide to hym, Descende, and as wiþ ooþ charge þe puple, left perauenture it wole paſſe ouer þe termes to ſe þe Lord, and of hem perifſhe a myche multitude;

xxii þe preestis forsoþe þat camen nyȝ to þe Lord, be þei halewed, left Y smyte hem.

xxiii And Moyses seide to þe Lord, Þe comounte may not stey vp into þe hil of Synay; þow forsoþe haſt witneſſid, and comaundid feiynge, Put þe termes about þe hil, and halwe it.

xxiv To whom seiȝ þe Lord, Goo, descende, and þow ſhalt ſtey vp, and Aaron wiþ þee; þe preestis forsoþe and þe puple paſſe þei not þe termes, ne ſteye þei vp to þe Lord, left perauenture he flee hem.

xxv And Moyses ſteiede vp to þe puple, and alle þingis tolde to hem.

Capitulum XX.

i And þe Lord ſpak alle þes wordes 'to Moyses, ii Y am þe Lord þi God, þat haþ lad þee out of þe loond of Egipte, fro þe hows of þraldom.

iii þow ſhalt not haue alyen goddis before me.

iv þow ſhalt not mak to þee grauen þing, ne eny liknes þat is in heuene aboue, and þat is in erþe beneþe, ne of hem þat ben in watrys vnder erþe;

v þow ſhalt not anoure hem, ne herye hem; I forſoþe am þe Lord þi God, ſtrong gelows, viſitynge þe wickidnes of fadris in ſones into þe þridde and þe ferþe generacioun of hem þat hatiden me, vi and doyng merci into þousyndes to hem þat louen me, and kepen myn heeftis.

vii þow ſhalt not tak þe name of þe Lord þi God in veyn, ne forſoþe þe Lord ſhal haue innocent hym, þat takip þe name of þe Lord his God in ydel.

viii Haue mynde to halwe þin holy day;

ix fiſe daies þow ſhalt worche, and doon alle þi werkis; x þe feuenþe forſoþe day is þe haliday of þe Lord þi God; þow ſhalt not doon al werk, þow, and þi ſone, and þi dowȝter, and þi ſeruaunt, and þin handmayden, þi beeſte, and comlyng þat is wiþ ynne þi ȝatis;

xi fiſe forſoþe daies God made heuene and erþe, þe ſee, and alle þingis þat ben in hem, and he reſtide þe feuenþe day; þerfore þe Lord bliſſide to þe holi day, and halwide it.

xii Honour þi fader and þi moder, þat þou be of long liſf vpon erþe, þat þe Lord þi God ſhal ȝyue to þee.

xiii þow ſhalt not flee.

xiv þow ſhalt 'do no lecherrye.

xv þow ſhalt not do þeft.

xvi þow ſhalt not ſpeke aȝens þi neiȝbore fals witnes.

xvii þow ſhalt not coueyte þe hows of þi neiȝbore, ne þow ſhalt defyre þe wijf of hym, ne ſeruaunt, ne hoondmayden, ne oxe, ne aſſe, ne alle þingis þat ben of hym.

xviii Al þe puple forſoþe herde voyces, and ſawȝ lawmpes, and herde þe ſown of þe trompe, and þe hil ſmokyng; and ferde and ſmitun togidere wiþ vttermore drede, þei ſtoden afer, xix feiynge to Moyses, Spek þow to vs, and we ſhulen here; ſpeke not þe Lord to vs, left perauenture we dien.

xx And Moyses ſeide to þe puple, Wole ȝe not drede, þat forſoþe God proue ȝow he cam, and þat þe drede of hym were in ȝow, and þat ȝe synnen not.

xi And þe puple ſtood afer; Moyses forſoþe cam nyȝ to þe derknes, in þe which was God.

xxii And þe Lord ſeide forþermore to Moyses, Þes þingis þow ſhalt ſeye to þe ſones of Yrael, ȝe han ſeen þat from heuene I haue ſpokun to ȝow; xxiii ȝe ſhulen not mak wiþ me ſilueren goddis, ne goldun goddis ȝe ſhulen mak to ȝow.

xxiv An auter of erþe ȝe ſhulen mak to me, and ȝe ſhulen offre vpon it ȝoure 'brent sacrifices, and peſible, ȝoure ſheep, and oxen, in al place in þe which ſhal be mynde of my name; I ſhal com to þee, and Y ſhal bleſſe to þee.

xxv þat if a ſtonen auter þow makift to me, þow ſhalt not edifie þat of hewun ſtoons; if forſoþe þow rerift þi 'grauyngre yrūn vpon it, it ſhal be polutid.

xxvi þow ſhalt not ſtey vp bi greeſes to myn auteer, left þi filþe be ſhewyd.

Capitulum XXI.

i Thes ben þe domes, þat þow ſhalt purpose to hem.

ii If þow bye an Ebew ſeruaunt, fiſe ȝeer ſerue he to þee, in þe feuenþe ȝeer he ſhal goo out fre, freliche;

iii wiþ what maner cloþing he com yn, wiþ ſiche he go out; and if he is hauynge a wijf, and þe wijf goo out at ones.

iv If forſoþe þe lord ȝyue to hym a wijf, and ſhe ber ſones and dowȝtris, þe womman and þe fre children of hir ſhulen be of his lord; he forſoþe ſhal goo out wiþ his cloþing.

v þat if þe ſeruaunt ſeie, Y loue my lord, and wijf, and fre children, I ſhal not goon out fre;

vi þe lord offre hym to þe goddis, and he ſhal be preſentid to þe dore, and poſtes; and he ſhal bril his eer wiþ an alle, and he ſhal be to hym a ſeruaunt into þe world.

vii If eny fille his dowȝter into a ſeruaunt, ſhe ſhal not goo out as handmaydens weren wont to goon out;

viii if ſhe diſpleſe in þe eyen of hir lord, to whom ſhe was takun, he ſhal leeue hir; forſoþe to an alyen puple he ſhal not haue power of ſillyng, if he leeue hir.

ix If forſoþe he ſpoſe hir to his ſone, after þe maner of dowȝtres he ſhal do to hir;

x and if he tak anoþer womman to hym, he ſhal puruey to þe mayden bridalis and cloþes, and þe prylis of þe clennes he ſhal not denye.

xi If þes þre þingis he do not, ſhe ſhal goon out freliche wiþ outhen money.

xii Who ſmytiþ a man, wilnyng to flee, wiþ deep die he;

xiii who forsoþe is not aweytid, but God haþ takun hym into his hondes, Y þhal ordeyne to þee a place whidyr hym awe to flee.

xiv If eny man of auyfement fle his neiȝbour and by aspyes, fro myn auteer þow þhalt pul hym, þat he be flayn.

xv Who smytþ his fader, or moder, wiþ deeþ dye he.

xvi Who cursiþ his fader, or moder, be he deed.

xvii Who steliþ a man, and selliþ hym, conuycte of þe trespass, wiþ deeþ dye he.

xviii If men chiden, and þat oon smyte his neiȝbour wiþ stoon, or wiþ fist, and he be not deed, xix but lye in þe bed, if he aryse and goo out vpon his staf, he þhal be ynnocent þat smoot; so neuerþeles þat he restore þe bify traueils of hym, and þe expensis into leches.

xx Who so smyteþ his seruaunt, or handmayden, wiþ ȝerde, and þei dien in her hondes, he þhal be gilti of deedly blame.

xi If forsoþe he lyue ouer a day, or two, he þhal not be vndurcast to þat peyne, for þe money of hym he is.

xxii If men chiden, and a man smyte a womman wiþ child, and make forsoþe þe child deed born, but she lyueþ, he þhal be vndurcast to þe harme, as myche as þe housbond of þe womman wole aske, and domes men þhulen deme.

xxiii If forsoþe hir deeþ folwe, he þhal ȝeeld liþ for liþ, xxiv eye for eye, tooþ for tooþ, hoond for hoond, foot for foot, xxv brynnynge for brynnynge, wounde for wounde, blones for blones.

xxvi If eny man smyte þe eye of his seruaunt, or of hondmayden, and make hem 'pure blynde, he þhal leeue hem free for þe eye þat he haþ drawun out.

xxvii A tooþ forsoþe if eny man smyte out to his seruaunt, or to his handmayden, liyk maner he þhal leeue hem free.

xxviii If an oxe wiþ þe horn smyte a man, or a womman, and þei weren deed, he þhal be þrowun doun to deeþ wiþ stones, and his flesh þhal not be etun, and þe lord þhal be innocent of þe oxe.

xxix And if an oxe be an hornputter fro ȝesterday and þe ȝridde day hens, and þei han warned þe lord of hym, befor witnes, and þe lord haþ not holdun hym yn, and he flee a man, or womman, þe oxe þhal be þrow doun to þe deeþ wiþ stones, and þe lord of it þei þhulen flee;

xxx and if pryis be set to hym, he þhal ȝyue for his liþ what euer be askid.

xxxi Þe sone forsoþe and þe douȝter if it smyte wiþ horn, to þe lijk sentence he þhal vnderligge.

xxxii If seruaunt and hondmayden it aseyl, þretti ownces of siluer he þhal ȝyue to his lord; þe oxe forsoþe þhal be þrowun down wiþ stoons.

xxxiii If eny man open a cystern, and delue, and not coueriþ it, and oxe or asfe fal into it, xxxiv þe lord of þe cistern þhal ȝeeld þe prijs of þe beeftis, and þat þat is deed þhal be his.

xxxv If an alyen oxe wounde an oxe of anoþer manrus, and he were deed, þe quyk oxe þei þhulen felle, and þei þhulen dyuyde þe prijs; þe careyn forsoþe of þe deed þei þhulen depart bitwix hem.

xxxvi If forsoþe he wiste, þat þe oxe was an hornputter fro ȝesterday and fro þe ȝridde day hens, and his lord kepide hym not, he þhal ȝeeld oxe for oxe, and þe hool careyn he þhal al take.

Capitulum XXII.

i If eny man haþ stoln sheep, or oxe, and sleep, or selliþ, fyue oxen for oon oxe he þhal restore, and foure sheep for o sheep.

ii If a þeef brekyng an hows, or were foundun vndurmynynge, and wiþ a wounde takun were deed, þe smyter þhal not be gilti of þe blood;

iii and if þe sunne sprongne he do þat, he haþ doon manslaȝter, and he þhal die. And if he haue not to ȝelde for þe þeft, he þhal be soold;

iv and if þere be founde anentis hym lyuynge þat þat he haþ stoln, eiþer oxe, or asfe, or sheep, þe dowble he þhal restore.

v If eny man harme feeld, or vynȝeerd, and leeue his beeþte, þat it waſte oþer mennus þingis, what euer best bing he haþ in his feeld, or vynȝeerd, he þhal restore for estymacioun of þe harm.

vi If fyer goon out fynde eeres, and cacche þe rekes of corn, or þe corn stondynge in feeldis, he þhal ȝeeld þe harm þat tyndeþ þe fier.

vii If eny man leene money to a freend, or vessel into kepyng, and fro hym þat tok þei weren takun awey bi þeft, if þe þeef be foundun, he þhal ȝeeld þe dowble.

viii And if þe þeef is vnknowun, þe lord of þe hows þhal be presentid to þe goddis, and he shall sweer, þat he strauȝte not hoond into þe þing of his neiȝbore, ix for to be don gijl; as wel in oxe, and in asfe, and sheep, and cloþing; and what euer of harm he maye bryng yn, to þe goddis þe cause of eiþer þhal com, and if þei demen, he þhal ȝeeld þe dowble to his neiȝbore.

x If eny leene to his neiȝbore oxe, asfe, sheep, and al beeþte to kepyng, and it were deed, or feblisshid, or takun of enemyes, and no man se it, xi þere þhal be þe lawe of oþer in þe mydle, þat he strauȝte not out þe hoond to þe þing of his neiȝbore; and þe lord þhal tak þe oþer, and he þhal not be constreyned to ȝeeld aȝen.

xii þat if þruȝ þeft it were takun awey, he þhal restore þe harm to þe lord;

xiii and if it be etun of a beeþte, bryng he forþe to hym þat þat is flayn, and he þhal not restore.

xiv Who of his neiȝbore eny þing of þes askiþ to borwe, and it were enfeblisched, or deed, þe lord not present, he þhal be compellid to ȝeeld;

xv and if þe lord were present, he shal not restore, moost if þe hirid was foold, for mede of his werk.
 xvi And if eny man bere down a mayden not ȝit spowfid, and he sleep wiþ hir, he shal dowe hir, and he shal haue hir to wif.
 xvii And if þe fader of þe mayden wole not ȝyue, he shal ȝeeld þe money, after þe maner of dowyng, þat maydens weren wont to tak.
 xviii Clepers of deuels þow shalt not suffre to lyue.
 xix What man so goþe togidere wiþ a beeſte, wiþ deeþ die he.
 xx Who offreb to goddis, but to þe Lord oonly, be he flayne.
 xxi A comlyng þow shalt not mak fory, ne turment hym; forſoþe comlyngis and ȝoure feluen weren in þe loond of Egipte.
 xxii To þe wydowe and þe faderles child þow shalt not anoye.
 xxiii If þow harmest hem, þei shulen crye to me, and Y shal here þe crye of hem, xxiv and my woodnes shal dedeyn, and Y shal ſmyte ȝow wiþ fwerd, and ȝoure wyues shulen be wydewes, and ȝoure fones faderles.
 xxv And if þow leenyſt money to my pore faderles child, þat dwelliþ wiþ þee, þow shalt not conſtreyn hym, as a fraward aſker, ne þow shalt not opprefſe him wiþ vſurys.
 xxvi If þow takist of þi neiþbore a cloob wed, before þe goyng down of þe funne þow shalt ȝeeld it to hym; xxvii þat is forſoþe al oonli þurȝ which is courid þe cloþing of his flesh, ne he haþ noon oþer, in þe which he sleep; if he crye to me, Y shal here hym; for Y am mercyable.
 xxviii To þe goddis þow shalt not bacbite, and to þe prince of þi puple þow shalt not curse.
 xxix By dymes and fyrfst fruytis þow shalt not tarye to offre. Be firſt gotun of þi fones þow shalt ȝyue to me; xxx of oxen forſoþe, and lheep þow shalt doon lijk maner; ſeuen dayes be he wiþ his moder, and þe eiȝtiþ day þow shalt ȝeeld hym to me.
 xxi ȝe shulen be holy men to me; þe flesh þat were before taſtid of beeſtis ȝe shulen not eete, but ȝe shulen caſte it to doggis.

Capitulum XXIII.

i Thow shalt not tak þe voys of leefyng, ne ligge to þin hoond, þat for þe vnpyteuows þow feye fals witnes.
 ii þow shalt not folwe þe puple to doon yuel, ne in dome of many þow shalt affente to þe ſentence, þat þow goo out of þe weye of trewþe.
 iii Of þe pore forſoþe þou shalt not haue merci in cause of ſtrijf.
 iv If þou aȝen come to þe ox of þin enemy, or to þe errynge aſſe, lede aȝen to hym.

v If þow fe an aſſe of hym þat hatib þee lye vnder þe charge, þow shalt not ouerpaffe, but þow shalt vnderheue wiþ hym.
 vi þow shalt not bowe awey in þe dome of þe pore.
 vii Lefyng þow shalt flee. Be innocent and þe ryȝtwis þow shalt not flee, for Y am aduersarye aȝens þe unpiteuows.
 viii Ne tak þou ȝiftes, þat alſo blynden wife men, and turnen vpfedoun þe wordis of riȝtwys men.
 ix To þe pilgrime þow shalt not be greuous; ȝe knownen forſoþe þe lyues of comlyngis, for and ȝe ȝoure ſilf weren pylgrimys in þe loond of Egipte.

xxx And þow shalt `putt in þe breeſt broche of dome, doctryne and trewþe, þat shulen be in þe breeſt of Aaron, whanne he shal go ynne before þe Lord; and he shal bere þe dome of þe sones of Yrael in his breeſt, in þe siȝt of þe Lord euermore.

xxxi And þow shalt make þe coote of þe coope al iacynctyne, xxxii in whos myddil aboue shal be an hood, and a weynd hemme bi enuyroun of it, as it is wont to be maad in þe eendis of cloþis, leſt it liȝtly to-breke.

xxxiii Beneþe forſoþe at þe feet of þe same coote, bi enuyroun, þow shalt make as powm garnettis, of iacynkt, and purpur, and coctun twies died, and bijs aȝen foldid; in þe myddil litel belles menged, xxxiv so þat þe litel belle be gold, and a powm garnet; and eftſones anoþer litel goldun belle, and a powm garnet.

xxxv And Aaron shal be cloþid it in þe office of þe feruyc, þat þe fown be herd whanne he goþe yn and out þe seyntuarye, in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and þat he dye not.

xxxvi And þow shalt make a plate of moost puyre gold, in þe which þow shalt graue wiþ werk of a grauer, þe hooly to þe Lord.

xxxvii And þow shalt bynde it wiþ a iacynctyne filete, and it shal be vpon þe coyif `ſtondinge ouer to þe forheed of þe bishop.

xxxviii And Aaron shal bere þe wyckidnes of þilke þingis þat þe sones of Yrael shulen offre, and halowe, in alle ȝiftis to men, and in her ȝiftes to God; and þe plate shal be euermore in þe front of hym, þat þe Lord be pleſid to him.

xxxix And þou shal streyne þe coote wiþ bijs, and þe coif of bijs, and þou shalt make þe girdil wiþ werk of a broderere.

xli Forſoþe to þe sones of Aaron þow shalt greiþe lynnен cootes, and girdlis, and coyfes, into glorye and fayrnes.

xlii And þow shalt cloþe wiþ alle þes Aaron, þi broþer, and his sones wiþ hym; and of hem alle þow shalt sacre þe hondes; and þow shalt halwe hem, þat þei beren þe office of presthode to me.

xliii And þow shalt make lynnен brecches, þat þei coueren þe flesh of her filþehed, fro þe reynes vnto þe hippes.

xliii And vse þei hem Aaron and his sones, whanne þei shulen goo into þe tabernacle of witnes, or whanne þei neȝen to be auteer, þat þei mynyſtre in þe seyntuarye, leſt þei gylti of wickidnes dyen; lawful euerlaſtyng eit shal be to Aaron, and to his seed after hym.

Capitulum XXIX.

i But and þis þou shalt doon, þat þei be sacrid to me in presthode; tak a calf from þe droue, and two wheþeris wiþ outer wemme, ii and þerf looues, and a cake wiþ outer four dowȝ, þe whiche ben þei spreynde wiþ oyle, and þerf crampcakes wett wiþ oyle; and of puyr whete meeþe þow shalt make alle þingis, iii and put in a leeþe þow shalt offre. Þe calf forſoþe, and þe two weþeris, iv and Aaron and his children, þou shalt brynge to þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnes; and whanne þow hast wasshe þe fader wiþ þe sones wiþ water, v þow shalt cloþe Aaron wiþ his cloþes, þat is to seie, wiþ rocket, and coote, and coope, and breeſt broche, þat þow shalt streyne wiþ a girdel.

vi And þow shalt putte a coyif in to his heed, and þe holi plate vpon þe coyif, vii and þe oyle of anoyntyng þow shalt heelde vpon his heed, and wiþ þis ryte he shal be sacrid.

viii Þe sones forſoþe of hym þow shalt presente, and þow shalt cloþe wiþ lynnен cloþes, ix and þow shalt girde wiþ a girdle, þat is, Aaron and his free children; and þow shalt putte vpon hem mytryis, and þei shulen be my preefis wiþ euerlaſtyng religiou. And after þat þow haſt facryde þe hondes of hem, x þow shalt brynge forþ and a calf before þe tabernacle of witnes, and Aaron and his sones shulen putte yn hondes vpon þe heed of it;

xi and þow shalt flee it in þe siȝt of þe Lord, biſide þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnes.

xii And þat þat is takun of þe blood of þe calf, þow shalt putte vpon þe hornes of þe auter wiþ þi fyngre; þe relif blood forſoþe þow shalt heelde beside þe foot of it.

xiii And þow shalt take al þe fatnes þat couereþ þe entreyls, and þe calle of þe mawe, and þe two kydneers, and þe fatt þat is vpon hem, and þow shalt offre encense vpon þe auter.

xiii þe flesh forsoþe of þe calf, and þe skynne, and þe dryt, þow shalt outforþ brenne out of þe tentis, forþi þat it is for synne.

xv And þow shalt take o weþer, vpon whos heed Aaron and his sones shal ligge þe hondes; xvi þe which whanne þou hast flawe, þow shalt take of þe blood of it, and þow shalt heelde aboute þe auter.

xvii And þow shalt kutte þat weþer in gobettis, and þe entrayls of it wafhid, and þe feete, þow shalt putte vpon þe cut flesh, and vpon his heed;

xviii and þow shalt offre al þe weþer into ensence vpon þe auter; offrynge it is to þe Lord, þe moost swete smel of þe flawn sacrifice of þe Lord.

xix And þow shalt take anoþer weþer, vpon whos heed Aaron and his sones shulen putte hondes, xx þe which whanne þow hast offrede, þow shalt take of þe blood of it, and þow shalt putte vpon þe eende of þe ryȝt eer of Aaron, and of his sones, and vpon þe þoumbis of þe hoond of hem, and of þe ryȝt foot; and þow shalt heelde þe blood vpon þe auter, bi enuyroun.

xxi And whanne þow hast takun of þe blood, þat is vpon þe auter, and of þe oyle of anoyntyng, þow shalt sprengre Aaron and his cloþes, þe sones and þe cloþingis of hem. And so hem sacryd, xxii and þe cloþes, þow shalt take þe talwȝ of þe weþer, and þe tayle, and þe vttermore fatnes þat couereþ þe entrayls, and þe fatt calle of þe mawe, and þe two reynes, and þe fat þat is vpon hem, and þe ryȝt shuldre, forþi þat it is þe weþer of consecraciou;

xxiii and a cake of a loof, a crustid cake spreynde wiþ oyle, a crompid cake, of þe leape of þerf looues, þat is sett in þe siȝt of þe Lord.

xxiv And þow shalt putte al vpon þe hondes of Aaron, and of þe sones of hym, and þow shalt halowe hem, areryng vp before þe Lord.

xxv And þow shalt take alle þe þingis fro þe hondes of hem, and þow shalt teende vpon þe auter, into alle brent sacrifice, þe moost swete smel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, for it is þe offryng of hym.

xxvi And þow shalt take þe litel breeft of þe weþir, wiþ þe which Aaron is sacrid, and þow shalt halowe it, arerid vp before þe Lord, and it shal falle into þi part.

xxvii And þou shalt halwe þe sacrid litel breeft, and þe shuldre þat þow feuerdist fro þe weþer, wiþ which Aaron was halowed, and his children;

xxviii and þei shulen falle into þe part of Aaron, and þe sones of hym, þurȝ euerlastynge ryȝt, fro þe sones of Yrael; for þei ben þe first fruytis, and þe bigynnynghes of þe peesible fleyne sacryfice of hem þat ben offred to þe Lord.

xxix And þe hooli cloþ þat Aaron shal vfe, þe sones of hym shulen haue after hym, þat þei ben anoyntid in it and sacrid þe hondes of hem.

xxx Seuen daies he shal vfe it, þat `shal be of his sones ordeynd bishop for hym, and þat shal goo into þe tabernacle of witnes, þat he mynystre in þe seytuarie.

xxxi And þow shalt take þe weþer of halowyng, and þow shalt seeþe þe flesh of it in þe holy place, xxxii of þe which Aaron shal eete, and þe sones of hym; and þe looues þat ben in þe leape þei shulen eete in þe vestiarye of þe tabernacle of witnes, xxxiii þat it be a peesible sacrifice, and þat þe hondes of þe offrers ben halowid. A man of oþer kynne þan þe sones of Aaron, shal not eete of þilke þingis, for þei ben holy.

xxxiv þat if þere leue of þe sacrid flesh, or of þe looues, vnto þe morwetide, þow shalt brenne þe relif wiþ fier; þei shulen not ben etun, for þei ben halowid.

xxxv Alle þingis þat Y comaundide to þee, þow shalt do vpon Aaron, and vpon þe sones of hym. Seuen daies þow shalt facre þe hondes of hem, xxxvi and þow shalt offre a calf for synne bi eche dayes to perfitye clenfe; and þou shalt clenfe þe auter, whanne þow offrest þe sacrifices of parfite clenfyng, and þow shalt anoynte it into þe halwyng.

xxxvii Seuen daies þow shalt clenfe þe auter, and halowe, and it shal be holy of halowis; eche þat towchijþ it shal be halowid.

xxxviii Þis is þat þow shalt do in þe auter; two loombes of oþere bi eche day bisili, xxxix o loombe at morwetide, and anoþer at euen tide; xl þe tenþe part of þe tried flowr spreynd wiþ oyle, powned, þat haue a mesure, þe fourþe part of hym, þat is a sextarye, þat is a mesure of two pownd, and wyn to offre of þe same mesure, in o lombe.

xli Anoþer forsoþe lombe þou shalt offre at euen, after þe riȝt of þe morwetide offryng, and after `þo þingis þat `we han feid, into þe smel of swetnes;

xlii a sacrifice to þe Lord it is wiþ euerlastynge offryng into ȝoure generaciouns, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnes before þe Lord, where Y shal ordeyne þat I speke to þee;

xliii and þere Y shal comaunde to þe sones of Yrael, and þe auter shal be halowid in my glorye.

xliii And I shal halowe þe tabernacle of witnes wiþ þe auter, and Aaron wiþ þe sones of hym, þat þei beren þe office of preesthood to me.

xlv And Y shal dwelle in þe myddil of þe sones of Yrael, and Y shal be to hem a God;

xlivi and þei shulen knowe, for Y am þe Lord God of hem, þat habþ ladde hem out of þe loond of Egipte, þat Y myȝt dwelle among hem; Y þe Lord God of hem.

Capitulum XXX.

i And þou shalt make an auter, for to brenne `þe maad ensence of þe trees of Sichym, ii hauyng o cubijt of lengþe, and anoþer of brede, þat is foure cornerd, and two cubites in heiȝt; hornes shulen goo out of it.

 iii And þow shalt cloþe it wiþ moost puyr gold, as wel be litel fier panne of it, as þe walles bi enuyroun, and þe hornes; and þow shalt make to it a coroun of gold bi enuyroun,
 iiiii and two rynges of gold vnder þe hornes bi eche fides, þat þe berynge staues mowen be putte into hem, and þe auter born.
 v And þilke berynge staues þow shalt make of þe trees of Sichym, and gilden;
 vi and þow shalt sette þe auter aȝens þe veyle, þat hongiþ before þe arke of testymonye before þe propiciatorye, wiþ þe which is couerd þe witnessfynge, where Y shal speke to bee.
 vii And Aaron shal brenne þe ensence swete smellynge vpon it erly; whanne he shal araye þe lanternes, he shal teenden it;
 viii and whanne he settiþ hem at euen, he shal brenne þe euerlastynge maad ensense before þe Lord, into ȝoure generaciouns.
 ix ȝe shulen not offer vpon it ensence of oþer makynge, ne offryng, ne sacrifice, ne offryng loues ȝe shulen taste.
 x And Aaron shal preye vpon þe hornes of it ones bi þe zeer, in blood þat is offerd for synne, and he shal plese vpon it in ȝoure generaciouns; þe holy of halowen it shal be to þe Lord.
 xi And þe Lord spake to Moyses, feiyng, xii Whanne þow takist a sowme of þe sones of Yrael, eche shal ȝyue prijs after þe noumbre for her soules to þe Lord, and þere shal be no veniaunce in hem, whanne þei shulen be nowmbred.
 xiii And eche shal ȝyue þis þat passiþ to a name, half 'an nounce after þe mesure of þe temple; a sicle, 'þat is, a nounce, hab twenti half scripilles; þe half party of a sicle shal be offerd to þe Lord.
 xiv He þat is had in þe noumbre, fro twenti ȝeer and aboue, shal ȝyue þe prijs; xv þe riche shal not adde to an half sicle, and þe pore no þing shal leffe.
 xvi And þe money takun, þat is gederid of þe sones of Yrael, þow shalt take in to þe vses of þe tabernacle of witnessfynge, þat þere be þe mynde of hem before þe Lord, and he haue mercy to þe soules of hem.
 xvii And þe Lord spake to Moyses, feiyng, xviii And þow shalt make a brasun lauatory wiþ his foot to washe wiþ, and þow shalt putte it betwix þe tabernacle of witnes and þe auter; and þe water put yn, xix Aaron and his sones shulen washe in it her hondes and feete,
 xx whanne þei ben to goyng ynto þe tabernacle of witnessfynge, and whanne þei ben neiȝyng to þe auter þat þei offren in it maad ensence to þe Lord, xxi left perauenture þei dyen; lawful euerlastyng it shal be to hym and to þe seed of hym bi succeſſyouns.

 xxii And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, xxiii Tak to þee swete smellynge þingis, of þe first myrre and chosen, fyue hundryd siclis; and þe half of þe canel, þat is, two hundrid and fifti siclis; and of chaalamy also two hundryd and fifti, xxiv and of chafee fyue hundryd sicles, in þe weig of þe feyntryare; oyle of þe olyues, þe mesure of hym,
 'þat is, of two pownd;
 xxv and þow shalt make þe holy oyle of anoyntyng, an oynement maad wiþ þe werk of ungwentarye.
 xxvi And þow shalt anoynt of it þe tabernacle of witnessfynge, and þe arke of testament, xxvii and þe bord wiþ his vessels, and þe candelfstik, and þe necessariyes of it, þe auter of ensence, xxviii and of al brent sacrifice, and al þe necessarye þat perteynþ to þe heriying to hem.
 xxix And alle þow shalt halowe, and þei shulen be þe holi þingis of halowes; he þat towchis hem, shal be halowid.
 xxx Pow shalt anoynt Aaron, and þe sones of hym, and þow shalt halwe hem, þat þei beren þe office of preefthod to me.
 xxxi And to þe sones of Yrael þow shalt seie, Ȥis oyle of anoyntyng holy it shal be to me into ȝoure generaciouns.
 xxxii þe flesh of man shal not be anoyntyde of it, and biside þe composicioin of it ȝe shulen not make anoþer, for it is halowid, and hooli shal be to ȝow. xxxiii What euer man make sich on, and ȝyue of it to an alyen, he shalle be putte out of his puple.
 xxxiv þe Lord forsoþe seyde to Moyses, Tak to þee swete smellynge þinges, stacten, and onycha, galbantum of good smel, and ensence moost liȝtyng, and alle þei shulen ben of euen weighe.
 xxxv And þow shalt make þe maad ensence wiþ werk of oynement makynge, meyngid bisily, and puyr, and moost worbi wiþ halowyng.
 xxxvi And whanne þow haft pownede alle togidere into moost smal powdre, þow shalt putte of it before þe tabernacle of wytnessfynge, in þe which place Y shal apere to þee; hooly of halowes shal be to ȝow þe maad ensence.
 xxxvii Siche a makynge ȝe shulen not make into ȝoure owne vses, for hooli it is to þe Lord.
 xxxviii Eche man þat doþ lyik þing, þat he ful vse þe smel of it, he shal peryshe fro his puplis.

Capitulum XXXI.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, ii Loo! I haue clepid Befeleel bi name, þe sone of Hur, sone of Hur, of þe lynage of Juda;
 iii and Y haue fulfillid hym wiþ þe spiryt of God, wiþ wisdom, and vnderstondyng, iii and kunnyng in al werk, to caste what euer þing may be forgid of gold, and of siluer, and of brasse, v marble, and gemmes, and dyuerste of trees.

 vi And Y haue ȝeuen to hym a felaw, Ooliab, þe sone of Achisamech, of þe lynage of Dan; and in þe herte of eche tawȝt I haue putte wsdomes, þat þei maken alle þingis þat I haue comaundide to þee; vii þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, and þe arke of witnessyng, and þe propiciatorye þat is vpon it, and alle þe vessels of þe tabernacle; viii and þe meet bord, and þe vessels of it, þe moost puyr candelfstik wiþ his vessels, and þe auteers of þe maad ensence, ix and of þe albrent sacrifice, and alle þe vessels of hem; þe lauatorie wiþ his foot; x þe holi cloþes in þe seruyis to Aaron þe preest, and to þe sones of hym, þat þei vſen hyr office in facrid
 þingis;
 xi þe oyle of anoynting, and þe maad ensence of swete smellynge þingis in þe feynarye; alle þingis þat I haue comaundide to þee, þei shulen make.
 xii And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feynge, xiii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, Lookeþ þat ȝe kepen myn holy day, for it is a tokne bitwix me and ȝow in ȝoure generaciouns; þat ȝe witen for Y a Lord, þat halowiþ ȝow.
 xiv Kepiþ myn holi day, holi forsoþe it is to ȝow; who so poluteþ it, wiþ deþ dye he; who so doþ in it werk, shal perishe þe liȝt of hym fro þe myddil of his puple.
 xv Six dayes ȝe shulen do werk; in þe feuenþe day is holy day, þe holi reste to þe Lord; eche þat doþ werk in þat day shal dye.
 xvi þe sones of Yrael kepe þei þe holy day, and halowe þei it in her generaciouns; a couenaunt it is euer durynge bitwix me and þe sones of Yrael, xvii and a perpetuel tokyn; six forsoþe dayes God made heuene and erþe, and in þe feuenþe day fro þe werk he cefide.
 xviii And þe Lord ȝaf to Moyses fulfillid þes maner wordes, in þe mownt of Synay, two stonen tablis of witnessyng, writun wiþ þe fyngre of God.

Capitulum XXXII.

i The puple forsoþe, feynge þat Moyses made abidyng of comyng doun fro þe hil, gederid to gidere aȝens Aaron, seiþ, Arise, mak to vs goddis, þat goon befor vs; to þis man Moyses, þat haþ ladde vs out fro þe loond of Egipte, we knowen not what is fallyn.
 ii And Aaron seide to hem, Tak ȝe þe goldun eer rynges fro þe eerys of wyues, and of sones, and of ȝoure dowȝtres, and bryngiþ to me.
 iii þe puple dide þat he comaundide, bryngynge þe eer rynges to Aaron;
 iv þe whiche whanne he hadde takun, he fourmyde wiþ ȝetun werk, and made of hem a ȝotun calf. And þei feiden, þes ben bi goddis, Yrael, þat ladde þee out of þe loond of Egipte.

 v þe whiche þing whanne Aaron hadde seeyn, he made vp an auter before it, and in voys of a bedel he cryede, feynge, To morwe is þe solempnyte of þe Lord.
 vi And þei aryfun erly offreden sacrifices al brent and peefible sacrifices; and þe puple sat to ete and to drynke, and arysen to pleyen.
 vii þe Lord forsoþe spak to Moyses, feynge, Go, descende, bi puple haþ synned, whom þow hast ladde out of þe loond of Egipte.
 viii Soone þei han goon backward fro þe weie þat þow shewedist to hem, and þei han made to hem a ȝotun calf, and anourden, and offryng to it sacrifices feiden, þes ben bi goddis, Israel, þat han ladde þee out of þe
 loond of Egipte.
 ix And eftsones þe Lord seiþ to Moyses, Y se wel þat þis puple is of hard nol;
 x late me þat my woodnes wreþ aȝen hem, and þat I do hem away; and þee I shal make into a greet folk of kynde.
 xi Moyses forsoþe preyede þe Lord his God, feynge, Whi, Lord, wrappiþ bi woodnes aȝen bi puple, whom þow hast ladde out of þe loond of Egipte in greet strengþe, and in a stroong hoond?
 xii Left, Y biseche, þe Egipciens seyn, fellich he haþ ladde hem out, þat he myzte flee in þe hilles, and doon a wey fro þe erþe, reste bi wrappiþe, and be peesfyble vpon þe wickidnes of þi puple.
 xiii Record of Abraham, Ysaac, and of Yrael, þi feruauntis, to whom þow hast sworn bi þi seluen, feynge, Y shal multiplie ȝoure feed as þe sterres of heuene, and al þis loond of þe which Y haue spokun, Y shal ȝyue to ȝoure feed, and ȝe shulen welde it euermore.
 xiv And þe Lord was plesid þat he dide not þe harme, þat he spake aȝens his puple.
 xv And Moyses is turned aȝen fro þe hil, berynge in hoond two tablis of testymonye wrytun on eiþir side, xvi and maad wiþ þe werk of God; þe wrytyng forsoþe of God was grauen in þe tables.
 xvii Jolue forloþ herynge þe noyle of þe puple criyng out, seide to Moyses, ȝellynge of fiȝtyng is herd in þe tentis.
 xviii To whom he answerde, It is not a crye of men biddynge to fiȝtyng, ne an out crye of men compellynge to flee, but a voys of men syngynge Y here.
 xix And whanne he was nyȝ to þe tentis, he sawȝ þe calf, and companies of men al abowt; and ful wroþ he þrewe þe tablis out of þe hoond, and he brake hem at þe rotes of þe hil.
 xx And cacchyng þe calf þat þei hadden made, he brente, and gronde it al to doſt, þe whiche he sprengide
 'in to water, and ȝaf of it drynke to þe sones of Yrael.

xxi And Moyses seide to Aaron, What dide þis puple to þee, þat þow woldest bryngē vpon hem þe moost synne?
 xxii To whom he answarde, Ne endeyn, my lord, þou forsoþe knewe þis puple, þat it is redy to yuel; xxiii þei feiden to me, Make to vs goddis, þat goon beforн vs, to þis Moyses forsoþe, þat ladde vs out of þe loond of Egipte, we knowen not what is befaln.
 xxiv To whom Y feide, Which of ȝow haþ gold? Þei token, and ȝauen to me, and Y þrewe it into þe fier, and þere ȝede out þis calf.
 xxv Seynge þanne Moyses þe puple, þat it was nakid; Aaron forsoþe hadde spoylde it for þe senship of þe filþe, and among þe enemyes he hadde sette it nakid;
 xxvi and stondynge in þe ȝatis of þe tentis, seiþ, If eny man be of þe Lord, be he ioyned to me; and þere ben gedered to hym alle þe fones of Leuy.
 xxvii To whom he seiþ, þes þinges seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Put a man a swerd vpon his hippe, goþ, and turneþ aȝen fro ȝate vnto ȝate by þe myddel of þe tentis, and flee echon broþer, and frende, and his neȝbore.
 xxviii þe fones of Leuy diden after þe word of Moyses, and þere fallen in þat day as þre and twenti þowfynd of men.
 xxix And Moyses seiþ, ȝe han sacrid ȝoure hoondes to day to þe Lord, echon in sone, and in his broþer, þat þere be ȝeue to ȝow blifsynge.
 xxx And anoþer dai begun Moyses spake to þe puple, ȝe han fynned þe moost synne; Y shal stye vp to þe Lord, if eny manere Y may preye hym for ȝoure gilt.
 xxxi And he goon aȝen to þe Lord, seiþ, Lord, Y biseche, þis puple haþ fynned a greet synne, and þei han made to hem goldun goddis; xxxii ouþer forȝif hem þis gilt, or if þow dost not, do me out of þi book, þat þou haft wrytun.
 xxxiii To whom þe Lord answarde, Who so synneþ to me, Y shal do hym out of my book;
 xxxiv þow forsoþe goo, and lede þis puple whider Y spake to þee; myn aungel shall goo before þee, and Y in þe day of veniaunce shal vifite þis synne of hem.
 xxxv þan þe Lord smoot þe puple for þe gilt of þe calf, þat Aaron made.

Capitulum XXXIII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, Go, and stye vp fro þis place, þow, and þi puple, þat þow haft ladde out of þe loond of Egipte, in to þe loond þat Y swore to Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, seiynge, To þi feed Y shal ȝyue it.
 ii And Y shal fende an aungel, þi before renner, þat Y þrowe out Chanane, and Amorre, and Ethe, and Phereze, and Eue, and Jebuze, iii and þow go into þe loond flowynge mylk and honý; forsoþe Y shal not stie vp wiþ þee, for a puple 't is of hard nol, left perauenture Y skater þee in þe weie.

 iv þe puple herynge þis werft word weilide, and noon after þe wonne was cloþid his ȝurnyng.
 v And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Spek to þe fones of Yrael, A puple of hard nol þow art; ones Y shal stye vp in þe myddil of þee, and Y shal do þee awey; now riȝt put down þin ȝurnement, þat I knowe, what Y shal do to þee.
 vi Panne þe fones of Yrael diden doun her ȝurnement fro þe hil of Oreb. vii And Moyses takyng a tabernacle strauȝte it afer out of þe tentis, and he clepyde þe name of it þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees. And al þe puple þat hadde eny questioun, ȝede out to þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, out of þe tentis.
 viii And whanne Moyses ȝede out to þe tabernacle, alle þe puple aroos, and echon stode in þe dore of his tente, and þei biheelden þe bak of Moyses, to þe tymē he ȝede into þe tente.
 ix He forsoþe goon into þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, discendide a piler of a clowde, and stode at þe dore; and 'þe Lord spak wiþ Moyses, x alle men beholdynge þat þe piler of þe clowde stode at þe dore of þe tabernacle; and þei stoden, and lowtiden þurȝ ȝates of her tabernaclis.
 xi þe Lord forsoþe spak to Moyses face to face, as a man is wonte to speke to his freende; and whanne he turnede aȝen into þe tentis, þe feruaunt of hym, child Jofue, þe sone of Num, ȝede not fro þe tabernacle.
 xii And Moyses seide to þe Lord, Pow comaundis, þat I lede out þis puple, and þow shewist not to me, whom þow art to sendynge wiþ me, namelich siþ þow seist, Y knewe þee bi name, and þow haft founde grace before me.
 xiii If þanne Y haue founde grace in þi siȝt, shew to me þi face, þat I knowe þee, and fynde grace before þin eyen; behold þi puple, and þis folk.
 xiv And God seide, My face shal goo before þee, and reste Y shal ȝyue to þee.
 xv And Moyses seiþ, If þow þi silf goft not before, ne lede þow vs fro þis place; xvi in what forsoþe mowen we knowe, I and þis puple, þat we han founde grace in þi siȝt, but if þat þow go wiþ vs, þat we ben glorrifyed of alle puples þat dwellen vpon þe erþe?
 xvii þe Lord forsoþe seiþ to Moyses, And þis word þat þow haft spokun, Y shal do; þow haft forsoþe founde grace before me, and þi silf Y haue knowe bi name.
 xviii þe which seiþ, Shew to me þi glorie.
 xix He answarde, Y shal shewe al good to þee, and Y shal be clepid in þe name of þe Lord before þee, and Y shal haue mercy to whom Y wole, and goodliche Y shal be to whom it likiþ to me.

xx And eft he seiþ, Pow shalt not mowe se my face, forsoþe þere shal not mowe se me a man, and lyue.
xxi And eft, Loo! he seiþ, þere is a place anentis me, and þow shalt stonde vpon a stoon; xxii and whanne my glorie shal passe, Y shal putte þee in þe hool of þe stoon, and I shal defende wiþ my riȝt hoond, to þe tyme þat Y passe; xxiii and I shal take myn hoond, and þow shalt se myn hyndermore, my face forsoþe þow shalt not mowe se.

Capitulum XXXIIII.

i And þerafter, Cut, he seiþ, to þee two stonun tables at þe liknes of þe former, and Y shal write vpon hem þe wordes þat hadden þe tablis, þat þow brak.
ii Be redi eerli, þat þow stie vp anone into þe hil of Synay; and þow shalt stonde wiþ me vpon þe cop of þe
hil;
iii no man stie vp wiþ þee, ne be seen eny man þurȝ out al þe hil; oxen forsoþe and sheep, be þei not fedde þere aȝens.
iv Panne he hewide out two stonun tables, what manere þei weren before, and fro nyȝt arysyng he stiede vp into þe hil of Synay, as þe Lord comaundide to him, berynge wiþ hym þe tables.
v And whanne þe Lord had stiede vp bi þe clowde, Moyses stood wiþ hym, inwardli clepynge þe name of
þe Lord,
vi whom paſſyng before hym, seiþ, Lordshiper, Lord God, mercyable, and goodliche, and pacient, and of myche mercy, and verrey, vii þat kepist couenaunt and mercy into þowſandes, þat doſt awei wickidnes, and hidows giltis, and synnes, and no man anentis þee bi him ſilf is innocent, þat ȝeldiſt wickidnes of fadris to fones and neces, into þe bridde and þe ferþe progenye.
viii And Moyſes haſtynge is bowid redi into þe erþe,
and anowryng,
ix seiþ, If Y haue founde grace in þi ſiȝt, Lord, I bifeche þat þow goo wiþ vs, forsoþe þe puple is of hard nol, and þat þow do awey oure wickidnes, and synnes, and þat þow welde vs.
x þe Lord anſwerde, Y shal goo in couenaunt, feynge alle men, I shal do signes, þat neuere weren seen vpon erþe, ne in eny folkis of kynde, þat þis puple seen, in whos myddil þow art, þe feerful werk of þe Lord, þat Y am to do.
xi Kep alle þingis þat to day I haue comaundide to þee;
Y my ſilf shal browe out before þi face Amorrey, Chananey, and Ethei, Phereſei forsoþe, and Euei, and Jebuzei.
xii Be war, leſt eny tyme þow ioyne frendſhips wiþ þe dwellers of þat loond, þat ben to þee into falliȝng.
xiii But and þe auteers of hem deſtrye, brek togidere þe ymages, and þe mawmete woodes hew down;

xiv wole þow not anowre an alien God; þe Lord gelows þe name of hym, God is a louer; xv ne go þow not into couenaunt wiþ men of þat regioun, leſt whanne þei han do fornycacioun wiþ her goddess, and anourden þe mawmetis of hem, eny man clepe þee, þat þow eete of þe þingis þat ben offerd.
xvi Ne wif of þe dowȝtris of hem þow shalt tak to þi fones, leſt after þat þei han do fornycacioun, þei maken to do fornycaciouns and þi fones into her goddis.
xvii ȝotun goddis þow shalt not make to þee.
xviii þe solempnyte of þerf looues þow shalt kepe; ſeuen dayes þow shalt eete þerf looues, as I haue comaundide to þee, in þe tyme of þe moneþ of new þinges; in þe moneþ forsoþe of veer tyme þow ȝedest out of Egipce.
xix Al þat openip þe wombe of maal kynde shal be myn, of alle hauyngelijf, as wel of oxen, as of sheep, shal be myne.
xx þe firſt goten of an aſſe þow shalt bigge wiþ a sheep;
ellis forsoþe if þow ȝyueſt not for it þe priys, it shal be ſawn. þe firſt gotun of þi fones þow shalt `aȝenbigge; ne þow shalt not apere in my ſiȝt voide.
xxi Six dayes þow shalt worche, þe ſeuenþe day þow ſhalt ceſe to eeren and to repen.
xxii þe solempnyte of weekis þow shalt make to þee in þe firſt bigynnynge of fruytis of þi whete heruest, and þe solempnete whanne, þe tyme turnyng aȝen of þe ȝeer, alle þinges ben putte vp.
xxiii þe tymes of þe ȝeer ſhal apere eche maal child þat is þin in þe ſiȝt of þe Almyȝti Lord, þi God, Yrael.
xxiv Whanne forſoþe Y shal take þe gentiles fro þi face, and I shal ſprede abrood þi teermes, no man ſhal putte ſpies to þi loond, þee ſtyngiſe vp and apperyngiſe in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord þi God, þries in þe ȝeer.
xxv þou ſhalt not offre vpon þe lowr dowȝ þe blood of my ſacrifice, neþer ſhal not leeue vnto þe morwe tide of þe ſacrifice of þe solempnyte of park.
xxvi þe chefe of þe fruytes of þi loond þow ſhalt offre in þe hows of þe Lord þi God. Pow ſhalt not ſeeþe a kidde in þe mylk of his moder.
xxvii And þe Lord ſeide to Moyſes, Write to þee þes wordes, wiþ whiche Y haue couenauntide a boond of pees, wiþ þee and wiþ Yrael.
xxviii Panne Moyſes was þere wiþ þe Lord fourti dayes and fourti nyȝtis, and eete no breed, ne drank water; and he wroot in þe tables þe ten wordes of þe boond of pees.
xxix And whanne Moyſes deſcendide fro þe mount of Synay, he held two tables of teſtymonye, and he wifte not þat his face was horned of þe cumpayne of þe word of God.
xxx Aaron forſoþe and þe fones of Yrael, feynge þe face of Moyſes horned, þei dredden to comen nyȝ, xxxi and þei clepid of hym turneden aȝen, as wel Aaron as þe princes of þe synagogē;

xxxii and after þat he had spokun, comen to hym also alle þe sones of Yrael; to whom he comaundide alle þinges þat he hadde herd of þe Lord in þe mownt of Synay.

xxxiii And fulfillid þe wordes, he putte a veyle vpon his face;

xxxiv þe which, he goon yn to þe Lord, and spekyng wiþ him, dide awey, to þe tyme þat he shulde goo out; and þanne he spak to þe sones of Yrael alle þinges, þat to hym weren comaundid; xxxv þe whichie seen þe face of Moyses goyng out be horned, but eft he couerde his face, if eny tyme he spak to hem.

Capitulum XXXV.

i Therfore alle þe cumpayne of alle þe sones of Yrael gedered, he seid to hem, Þes ben þat þe Lord haþ comaundide to be doon.

ii Six daies ȝe shulen doo werk, þe feuenþe day shal be to ȝow holy, an holi day and þe reste of þe Lord; who so doþ werk in it he shal be flayn.

iii ȝe shulen not tiende fier in al ȝoure dwellyng place bi þe holi day.

iv And Moyses seiþ to alle þe companyes of þe sones of Yrael, Þis is þe word þat þe Lord comaundide, feyng, v Seuer ȝe anentis ȝow þe chefe fruytis to þe Lord; eche wilful and of redi inwit offer hem to þe Lord, gold, and filuer, and brasse, vi iacynct, and purpur, and cocto twies died, and bijs, heiris of goote, vii and þe skynnes of weþers maad reed, and iacynctyne, þe trees of Sichym, viii and oyle to þe liȝtes 'to be maad, and þat þere be maad an oyment, and þe moost swete ensence, ix onychyn stonus and gemmes, to þe anowrnnyng of þe coope, and of þe breetf broche.

x Who so euere of ȝow is wijs, come he, and mak þat þe Lord haþ comaundide, xi þat is, þe tabernacle, and þe roof of it, and þe coueryng; rynges, and þe 'tablid fides, wiþ þe berynge staues, litol stakes, and feet;

xii þe arke, and þe berynge staues; þe propicyatorie, and þe veyle, þat before it is sprad abrood;

xiii þe meetbord wiþ berynge staues, and þe vessels, and þe looues of proposiciooun;

xiv þe candelstik to susteyne þe liȝtes, þe vessels of it, and lanternes, and oyle to þe norifhyng of fyres;

xv þe auter of þe maad ensence, and þe beryng staues; oyle of anoynting, and þe maad ensence of þe fwete smellynge spices; þe tente at þe dore of þe tabernacle;

xvi þe autere of þe al brent sacrifice, and þe brasun gredeyrne of it, wiþ þe berynge staues, and his vessels; þe lauatorie, and þe feet of it;

xvii þe cortynes of þe porche, wiþ pilers, and feet; þe tentis in þe ȝatis of þe vestiarie; xviii þe litol stakis of þe tabernacle, and of þe porche, wiþ her cordes;

xix þe clothes whose vse is in þe seruyce of þe feyntuarye; þe clothes of Aaron þe bishop, and of his sones, þat þei beren þe office of preesthod to me.

xx And al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael goon out fro þe siȝt of Moyses, xxi offerde wiþ mooſt redi mynde and deuoute þe chefe þinges to þe Lord, to make þe werk of þe tabernacle of testymonye, what þing to þe herieng and to þe holy clothes was neſſeſſarye.

xxii Men wiþ wymmen ȝeuen hongynge rynges, and eer rynges, and hoond rynges, and beeȝis; al gilden vessel is feuerd into þe ȝiftis of þe Lord.

xxiii Who so euer hadde iacynct, and purpur, and cocco twies died, bijs, and heiris of goote, weþer skynnes maad reed, and blew, xxiv þe metals of filuer, and of brasse, þei offreden to þe Lord, and þe trees of Sichym into dyuerſe vſis.

xxv But and wymmen ȝyuen þat come þurȝ dower, iacynct, and purpur, and reed silk, and bijs, xxvi and þe heiris of goote, wilfully alle propre þingis ȝeuynge.

xxvii þe princes forſoþe offerden onychyn stonus and gemmes, to þe coope and breeſt broche, xxviii and swete smellynge spices, and oyle to make þe liȝtes, and to greiþe þe oyment, and to make þe encense of mooſt swete smel.

xxix Alle men and wymmen wiþ a deuowt mynde offerden ȝiftis, þat þe werkis 'shulden be maad, þat þe Lord comaundide bi þe hoond of Moyses; alle þe sones of Yrael halowiden wilful þinges to þe Lord.

xxx And Moyses feide to þe sones of Ifrael, Loo! þe Lord haþ clepid Beseleel bi name, þe sone of Hury, þe sone of Hur, of þe lynage of Juda;

xxxi and he haþ fulfillede hym wiþ þe spiryt of God, of wiſdom, and vnderſtondyng, and of kunning, wiþ al doctrine, xxxii to cast and to make þe werk, in gold, and filuer, and brasse, xxxiii and in stonus to ben graued, and in carpentrye werk; what þing craftily may be founde, xxxiv he haþ ȝouun in his herte; and Ooliab, þe sone of Achymafech, of þe lynage of Dan;

xxxv boþe he haþ tauȝte wiþ wiſdom, þat þei maken þe werkis of carpentrye, of browdrye, and of werkyngh wiþ needlis, of iacynct, and purpur, and cocto twies died, and of bijs, and alle þinges weue þei, and alle newe þingis fynde þei.

Capitulum XXXVI.

i Thanne diden Beseleel, and Ooliab, and eche wife man, to whom þe Lord ȝaue wiſdom and vndirstondyne, þat þei cowden craftili worche þat ben necessarie into þe vſes of þe seytuarie, and þat þe Lord haþ comaundide to be maad.

ii And whanne Moyses hadde clepide hem, and eche tawȝt man, to whom þe Lord hadde ȝeue wiðdome, and þat wilfulli hadden offerd hem to make þe werk, iii he toke to hem alle þe ȝiftis of þe fones of Yrael. Þe whiche whanne þei stoden stedfastly to her werk eche daye, eerly þe puple offerde þe auowes.

iv Wherfor þe crafti men constreyned to come, feiden to Moyses, þe puple more offerip þan is nede.

vi Panne Moyses comaundide in þe voyce of a bedel to be cryde, Neijer man ne womman eny þing more offre in þe werk of þe seytuarie; and so was ceeffide fro þe ȝiftis to ben offerd, vii forþi þat þe offred þinges sufficeden, and aboundide more ouer.

viii And alle þe wife men in herte maden to fille þe werk of þe tabernacle ten cortyns of bijs foldun aȝen, and iacynct, and purpur, and cocto twies dyed, wiþ diuers werk, and wiþ browdrye craft.

ix Of þe whiche oon hadde in lengþe eiȝte and twenti cubites, and in brede foure; o mesure was of alle þe cortyns.

x And he ioynede fyue cortyns eiþer to oper, and opere fyue he cowplede togidere to hem seluen;

xi and he made iacynctyne oyletis in þe hemme of þe o cortyn on eiþer syde, and in þe hemme of þe oper also, xii þat þe oyletis myȝten come aȝens hem seluen togidere, and togidere be ioyned;

xiii wherfore and fifti golden cerclis he ȝeetide, þat myȝten hold þe oiletes of þe cortyns, and þat þere were maad o tabernacle.

xiv And he made enleuen sarges of þe heiris of goote, to couere þe roofe of þe tabernacle;

xv o farge in lengþe hadde þretti cubitis, and in brede foure cubitis; of o mesure weren alle þe sarges; xvi of whom fyue he ioynede a fide, and opere six atwynne.

xvii And he made fifty oyletis in þe hemme of þe o farge, and fifti in þe hemme of þe topir farge, þat to hem seluen þei myȝten be ioynede to gidere;

xviii and fifti brasun knoppis wiþ whiche þe roof myȝte be knyt, and o mantil be made of alle þe sarges.

xix And he made þe couertour of þe tabernacle of flynnnes of wepers maad reed, and anoþer aboue þe veyle of flynnnes maad blew.

xx And he made þe tablis of þe tabernacle of þe trees of Sichym stondyne;

xxi of ten cubites was þe lengþe of þe to table, and oþer half cubijt þe brede heeld.

xxii Two rabitynges weren bi eche tables, þat þe tone to þat oþer myȝt be ioyned;

xxiii so he made in alle þe tablis of þe tabernacle. Of þe whiche twenti weren at þe mydday cooþ aȝens þe sowþ, xxiv wiþ fourti silueren footstakys; two footstakis vndur o table weren put at eiþir parti of þe corners, where þe rabityngis of þe fides in þe corners weren endid.

xxv At þe cooþ forsoþe of þe tabernacle þat biholdip to þe norþ he made twenti tablis, xxvi wiþ fourti silueren footstakys, two footstakis bi eche tablis.

xxvii Aȝens þe west forsoþe, þat is at þat parti of þe tabernacle þat biholdip þe see, he maad fix tables, xxviii and two oþer bi eche corners of þe tabernacle bihynde, xxix þe whiche weren ioyned fro beneþe vnto abouen, and in to o ioynyg togidere þei weren born; so he made on eiþir parti bi þe corners, xxx þat eiȝt tablis weren togidere, and hadden sixtene silueren footstakys, þat is, two silueren footstakys vnder eche tablis.

xxxi And he made berynge staues, fyue of þe trees of Sichym to hold togidere þe tablis of þe to side of þe tabernacle, xxxii and fyue oþere to make togidere þe tables of þe toþer side, and wiþouten þes, fyue oþere berynge staues at þe west cooþ of þe tabernacle aȝens þe see.

xxxiii And he made anoþer berynge staf, þat shulde come þurȝ þe myddil tables fro corner vnto corner.

xxxiv And þilk tablid þingis he giltide, ȝotun þe siluer footstakys of hem, and he made þe cercles of hem golden, bi þe whiche þe berynge barres myȝten be lad ynne, þe whiche and hem he couerde wiþ golden platis.

xxxv And he made þe veyle dyuerfe and sondrye, of iacynct, and purpur, 'reed silk, and bijs foldid aȝen, wiþ browdrye werk;

xxxvi and foure pilers of þe trees of Sichym, þe whiche wiþ þe heedis he gildide, ȝoten þe siluer footstakys of hem.

xxxvii And he made a tente in þe entre of þe tabernacle, of iacynct, and purpur, reed silk, and bijs foldid aȝen, wiþ þe werk of nedlis;

xxxviii and fyue pylers wiþ her heedis, þe whiche he couerde wiþ gold, and þe brasun footstakys of hem he ȝetide, þe whiche he couerde wiþ gold.

Capitulum XXXVII.

i Beseleel forsoþe made also þe arke of þe trees of Sichym, hauyng two cubites and an half in lengþe, and oþer half cubijt in brede, and þe hiȝte was of oþer half cubijt; and he clopid it wiþ moost puyr gold wiþ ynne, and wiþ ouþe.

ii And he made to it a goldun crown bi enuyroun, iii ȝetylge foure goldun rynges bi foure corners of it, two rynges in þe to side, and two in þe toþer.

iv And he made berynge staues of þe trees of Sichym, v which he clopide wiþ gold, and þe whiche he putte into þe rynges þat weren in þe s̄ides of þe arke, to bere it.

vi And he made þe propiciatorye, þat is, Goddis spekyng place, of mooſt puyr gold, of two cubites and an half in lengþe, and of oþer half cubijt in brede.

vii Also two cherubyn of gold forgid, whiche he putte on eþer ſide of þe propicyatorye, viii o cherub in þe ouermest heiȝt of þe o parti, and þat oþer cherub in þe ouermest heiȝt of þat oþer parti; two cherubyn in eþer heiȝtis of þe propiciatorye, ix ſtrecchyng out be wenges, and couerynge þe propiciatorye, and hem feluen togidere, and it aȝenbiholdyngē.

x And he made þe meet bord of trees of Sichym, in lengþe of two cubites, and in brede of o cubijt, þat hadde in heiȝt o cubijt and an half.

xi And he enuyrounde it wiþ mooſt clene gold, and he made to it a goldun brerde bi enuyroun;

xii and to þilke brerde a goldun coroun bitwix grauen of foure fyngrys, and vpon it anoþer goldun coroun.

xiii And he ȝetide foure goldun cercles, þe whiche he putte into þe foure corners, bi eche feet of þe bord aȝen þe coroun, xiv and he putte into hem berynge ſtaues, þat þe bord myȝte be born.

xv And þilk berynge ſtaues he made of trees of Sichym, and enuyrounde hem wiþ gold.

xvi And þe veffels to dyuerſe vſes of þe bord, eyſel veffels, fiols, and litil cuppes, and ensenfers of mooſt clene gold, in þe whiche ben ſacrifice 'of licours to ben offerd.

xvii And he made a candilstik, forgid of mooſt clene gold, of whose berynge ſtaf, ȝeerdis, cuppis, and bollis, and lilies ȝeden out;

xviii ſixe in eþer ſide, þree ȝeerdes on o ſide, and þre on þe toþer;

xix þre cuppes in þe maner of a note þurȝ eche ȝeerde, and litil ballis togidere, and lilies; and þree cuppes at þe liknes of a note in o ȝeerde, and ballis togidere, and lilies; þe werk was euen of ſix ȝeerdes, þat ȝeden out of þe ſtok of þe candelſtik.

xx In þat forſoþe berynge ſtaf were foure cuppes, in maner of a note, and balles þurȝ ech, and lilies;

xxi and þe balles vnder þe two ȝeerdes bi þre places, þe whiche togidere maken ſix ȝeerdes, goynge out of o berynge ſtaf;

xxii and þanne þe ballis, and ȝeerdes of it weren alle forgid of mooſt clene gold.

xxiii And he maad ſeuuen lanternes wiþ her candelquenchers, and þe veffels, where þe ſnuffes ben quenchid, of mooſt clene gold.

xxiv A talent of gold peylide þe candellſtik wiþ alle his veffels.

xxv And he maade þe auter of maad enſence of þe trees of Sichym, hauyng þurȝ ſquare eche cubitis, and in heiȝt two, of whoses corners ȝeden out horns.

xxvi And he clopide it wiþ mooſt clene gold, wiþ þe fier panne, and walles, and hornes; and he made to it a litel golden crown by enuyroun, xxvii and two goldun rynges vnder þe crown, bi eche ſides, þat in hem ben put yn þe berynge ſtaues, þat þe auter may be born.

xxviii Ȭilke forſoþe berynge ſtaues he made of þe trees of Sichym, and he couerde wiþ goldun plates.

xxix And he made oyle to oynement of halowyng, and þe maad enſence of mooſt clene ſwete ſmellyng splices, wiþ þe werk of pymetarye.

Capitulum XXXVIII.

i And he made þe auter of brent ſacrifyce of þe trees of Sichym, of fyue cubitis bi ſquare, and of þree in heiȝt;

ii whose hornes ȝeden out of þe corners; and he couerde it wiþ brasun plates.

iii And he greipide into þe vſes of it dyuerſe veffels of braſſe, cawdrowns, toonges, fleſhhokes, hokes, and fier pannes.

iv And þe gredyrne of it in manere of a nett he made brasun, and vnder it in myddil of þe auter a 'fier panne.

v Foure ryngis ȝotun, be ſo feele heiȝtes of þe netwile gredyrne, to þe berynge ſtaues to be put yn, for to bere;

vi þe whiche and hem he made of þe trees of Sichym, and he couerde wiþ brasun plates.

vii And he ladde yn cercles, þe whiche 'ſtoden ouer in þe ſides of þe auter. And þilk auter was not maffye, but holwȝ of tabled þingis, and wiþ ynne voyde.

viii And he made a brasun lauatorye, wiþ his foot, of þe ſhewers of wymmen, þe whiche wacchiden in þe porche of þe tabernacle.

ix And þe porche, in whos ſowþe cooſt weren þe tentis of bijs folden aȝen of an hundred cubites, LEUITICUS.

Here begynneþ þe bok of Leuiticus.

Capitulum I.

i The Lord forſoþe clepide Moyſes, and spak to hym from þe tabernacle of witnessyng, seiyng, ii Spek to þe fones of Yrael, and þow shalt feie to hem, þe man þat offreb of ȝow an oof to God of þe beestis þat is, of oxen, and of sheep, offryngs flawn sacrifices, iii if al brent sacrifice were þe offryng of hym, and of þe droue, a maal wiþ outen wemme he shal offre at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnessyng, to plesa to hym þe Lord.
 iv And he shall putte þe hondes vpon þe heed of þe ooft, and it shal be acceptable, and profytyng into þe clensyng of hym.
 v And he shal offre a calf before þe Lord, and þe fones of Aaron, þe preest, shulen offre þe blood of it, shedyng bi enuyroun of þe auter, þat is before þe dore
 of þe tabernacle.
 vi And þe skyn of þe ooft drawun of, þe greet lemes þei shulen kit in gobetis;
 vii and þei schulen leye fier in þe auter maad before þe heep of wodde;
 viii and þe lemes þat ben kyt a boue ordeynyng, þe heed, þat is, and alle þat cleuen to þe mawe, ix þe entrails and þe feet wasshe wiþ watir; and þe preest shal brenne hem vpon þe auter in to al brent sacrifice, and swete smel to þe Lord.
 x þat if of þe beestis is þe offeryng, þe al brent sacrifice of sheep, or of geyt, he shal offre a loombe of oȝeer wiþ outen wemme, xi and he shal offre at þe fide of þe auter þat biholdiþ to þe norþ, bifore þe Lord. Þe blood forſoþe of it þe fones of Aaron shulen heelde vpon þe auter bi enuyroun, xii and þei shulen dyuyde þe lemes, þe heed, and alle þat cleuen to þe mawe, and leie vpon þe wodde, to þe which fier is to be vnder putte; xiii þe entrayls forſoþe, and þe feet þei shulen wasshe wiþ water; and þe preest shal brenne alle þingis offred vpon þe auter into brent sacrifice, and moost swete smel to þe Lord.

 xiv If forſoþe of þe briddis þe offryng of brent sacrifice were to þe Lord, of turturs, or culuer briddis, xv þe preest shal offre it at þe auter; and þe heed crokid aȝen to þe necke, and þe place of a wounde broke, he shal make þe blood renne down vpon þe brenke of þe auter.
 xvi Þe litil bleedre forſoþe of þe þroot, and þe feþeres, he shal cast out biside þe auter, at þe eest cooſt, in þe place where askis ben wonte to be cast out; xvii and he shal breke þe wynges of it, and not kyt, ne wiþ ryrun dyuyde it; and he shal brenne it vpon þe auter, fier vnder put to þe wodde; al brent sacrifice it is and offryng of moost swete smel to þe Lord.

Capitulum II.

i Whanne a lijf offreþ offryng of sacrifice to þe Lord, triyd flour shal be þe offryng of him. And he shal heelde vpon it oyle, and putte cense, ii and bryng to þe fones of Aaron, þe preest, of whom oon shal take an handful of triyd flour, and of oyle, and al þe cense; and putte þe memorial vpon þe auter, into moost swete smel to þe Lord.
 iii þat forſoþe þat leeueþ of þe sacrifice shal be of Aaron and of his fones, holi of halowes `of offrynges to þe Lord.
 iv Whanne forſoþe he shal offre baake sacrifice of triyd flour in þe ouen, þat is, looues wiþ outen sourdowȝ, spreyn wiþ oyle, and þe þerf kaakis medlid wiþ oyle;
 v if þin offryng shal be fro þe friyng panne, of triyd flour spreyn wiþ oyle and wiþ outen four dowȝ, vi þow shalt dyuyde it in litil parties, and heelde vpon it oyle.
 vii If forſoþe fro þe gridil sacrifice, euen maner þe triyd flour shal be spreyn wiþ oile; viii þe which offryng to þe Lord þou shalt take in þe hondis of þe preest. Þe which whanne he shal offre it, ix he shal take a memorial fro þe sacrifice, and make brenne vpon þe auter into smel of swetnes to þe Lord.
 x What euer forſoþe leeueþ, shal be of Aaron and his fones, holi of halewys of offringis to þe Lord.
 xi Al offryng þat is offred to þe Lord, shal be maad wiþ outen four dowȝ, ne eny þing of four dowȝ, and of hony, shal be brent in þe sacrifice of þe Lord.

xii Pe cheefe fruytys oonly ȝe shulen offre of hem, and ȝiftis; vpon þe auter forsoþe shal not þei be leyde, into smel of swetnes.

xiii What euer þow shalt offre of sacrifice, þow shal anoynte it wiþ salt, ne þow shalt not take a wey salt of þe boond of pees of þe Lord þi God fro þi sacrifice; in al offring þow shalt offre salt.

xiv If forsoþe þow shalt offre a ȝyfte of þe cheef þingis of þi fruytis to þe Lord, of eerys ȝit green, þow shal parche it wiþ fier, and breke in maner of brysid corn; so þow shalt offre þi cheefe fruytis to þe Lord, xv heeldynge vpon hem oyle, and encense puttyngne yn, for þe offryng of þe Lord it is.

xvi Of þe whiche þe preest shal make brynnne, into mynde of þe ȝifte, a part of þe brisde corn, and of þe oyle, and al þe cense.

Capitulum III.

i And if þe oost of pesible þingis were þe offryng of hym, and of þe oxen he wole offre, a maal, or a femaal, wiþ outer wemme he shal offre before þe Lord.

ii And he shal putte þe hoonde vpon þe heed of his flawe sacrifice, þe which shal be offred in þe entryng of þe tabernacle; and þe fones of Aaron, þe preest, shulen heelde þe blood bi enuyroun of þe auter.

iii And þei shulen offre of þe oost of pesible þingis into offryng to þe Lord, þe talwȝ þat couereþ þe entrailes, and what euer of fatnes is wiþ ynforþ;

iv þe two reyns, wiþ þe talwȝ wiþ þe which ben couerd þe reyn guttis, and þe calle of þe mawe wiþ þe smale reyns.

v And þei shulen brenne hem vpon þe auter, in to al brent sacrifice, þe fier vnder put to þe wodde, into offryng of moost swete smel to þe Lord.

vi If forsoþe of sheep were þe offeryng of hym, and oost of pesible þingis, wheþer maal or femaal he shal offre, bei shulen be wiþ outer wemme.

vii If he shal offre a loombe before þe Lord, viii he shal putte his hoond vpon þe heed of his flawn sacrifice, þe whych shal be offerd in þe vestiarye of þe tabernacle of witnesfyng; and þe fones of Aaron shulen heelde þe blood of it bi enuyroun of þe auter.

ix And þei shulen offre of þe oost of pesible þingis a sacrifice to þe Lord, talwȝ, and al þe tail wiþ þe reynes, and þe fatnes þat couereþ þe wombe, and alle þe entrayls, x and eiþer litil reyne, wiþ þe talwȝ þat ys biside þe reyne guttis, and þe calle of þe mawe, wiþ þe litil reynes.

xi And þe preest shal brenne hem vpon þe auter, into foode of þe fier, and of þe offryng to þe Lord.

xii If a she goet were þe offryng of hym, and he shulde offre it to þe Lord, xiii he shal putte his hoond vpon þe heed of it, and he shal offre it in þe entre of þe tabernacle of witnesfyng; and þe fones of Aaron shulen shede þe blood of it bi enuyroun of þe auter.

xiv And þei shulen take of it, into foode of þe Lordis fier, talwȝ þat couereþ þe wombe, and þat helip alle þe entrayles, xv two litil reyns wiþ þe calle þat is on hem biside þe reyne guttes, and þe fatt of þe mawe, wiþ þe litil reynes.

xvi And þe preest shal brenne hem vpon þe auter, into foode of þe fier, and of moost swete smel; al þe talwȝ shal be of þe Lord, xvii þurȝ perpetuel riȝt, in kynredes and alle ȝoure dwellyng places, and blood, and fat algatis shulen ȝe not ete.

Capitulum III.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyse, seiyng, ii Spek to þe fones of Israelf, Whanne a liȝt synneþ bi ignorauunce, and of alle þe heestis of þe Lord, þe whiche he haþ comaundide þat þei shulden not be do, eny þing doþ;

iii if þe preest þat is anoyntid, synne, makynge þe puple to trespasse, he shal offre for his synne a calf wiþ outer wemme to þe Lord;

iv and shal lede it to be dore of þe tabernacle of witnesfyng before þe Lord, and he shal putte þe hoond vpon his heed, and he shal offre it to þe Lord.

v And he shal take of þe blood of þe calf, berynge it in to þe tabernacle of witnesfyng.

vi And whanne he haþ wette þe fyngre in þe blood, he shal sprengi it seuene siþes before þe Lord, aȝens þe veyle of þe seyntuarye.

vii And he shal putte of þe same blood vpon þe hornes of þe auter of moost kyndli encense to þe Lord, þat is in þe tabernacle of witnesfyng; al forsoþe þe laft blood he shal helde into þe foot of þe auter of brent sacrifice in þe entre of þe tabernacle.

viii And þe talwȝ of þe calf he shal offre for synne, as wel it þat coueris þe entreyles, as alle þat ben wiþ ynforþ, ix two lytil reyns, and þe calle þat is aboue hem biside þe reyne guttes, and þe talwȝ of þe mawe, wiþ þe litil reynes, x as it is doon awey fro þe calf of þe oost of pesible þingis; and he shal brenne hem vpon þe auter of brent sacrifice.

xi þe skynne forsoþe, and al þe flesh wiþ þe heed, and feet, and þe entreyles, and þe dryt, xii and þe laft body he shal bere out of þe tentis into a clene place, where þe asken ben wont to be held out; and he shal tende hem vpon þe hepe of wode, þe which in þe place of heeld out asken shulen be brent.

xiii And if al þe companye of þe sones of Yrael bi vnknowyng and bi vnlidam do þat þat is aȝens þe comaundement of þe Lord, xiv and afterward vnderstonde his synne, he shal offre for þe synne a calf, and he shal lede it to þe dore of þe tabernacle.

xv And þe eldred of þe puple shal putte hoondes vpon þe heed of it before þe Lord; and þe calf offred in þe fīȝt of þe Lord, xvi þe preest þat is aȝoynid shal bere yn of þe blood of it into þe tabernacle of witnessyng, xvii wiþ þe weet fyngre sprengyng feuen fīȝes aȝens þe veyle.

xviii And he shal putte of þe same blood in þe hornes of þe auter, þat is before þe Lord in þe tabernacle of witnessyng; þe lafste forsoþe blood he shal helde biseide þe foot of þe auter of brent sacrifices, þat is in þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnessyng.

xix And al þe talwȝ of it he shal take, and he shal brenne vpon þe auter;

xx and so doyng of þis calf, as he dide before, and þe preest preyng for hem þe Lord shal haue mercy.

xxi þat forsoþe calf he shal bere out of þe tentis, and he shal brenne as þe oþer calf, for it is for þe synne of þe multitude.

xxii If a prynce synne, and doo oon of manye bi ignoraunce, þat is defendid in þe lawe of þe Lord, xxiii and afterward vnderstonde his synne, he shal offre an oost before þe Lord, an hee geit of þe geetis, wiþ outen wemme, xxiv and he shal putte his hoond vpon þe heed of it.

And whanne he shal offre it in þe place, where is wont to be flawe þe brent sacrifice before þe Lord, for it is for synne;

xxv þe preest shal wete þe fyngre in þe blood of þe oost for synne, towchynge þe hornes of þe auter of brent sacrifice, and þe relif heldynge at þe foot of it.

xxvi þe talwȝ forsoþe he shal brenne a boue, as in flawn sacrifices of pesible þinges is wont to be doon, and he shal prey for hym, and for his synne, and it shal be forȝeuuen to hym.

xxvii þat ȝif a lijf of þe puple of þe loond synne bi ignoraunce, þat he doo eny þing of þes þinges þat ben defendid in þe lawe of þe Lord, and trespassiȝ, xxviii and knowlechiȝ his synne, offre he an hee geyt wiþ outen wemme, xxix and 'he shal putte þe hoond vpon þe heed of þe oost þat is for þe synne, and he shal offre it in þe place of þe brent sacrifice.

xxx And þe preest shal take of þe blood in his fyngre, and towchynge þe hornes of þe auter of brent sacrifice, þe relif he shal helde at þe foot of it.

xxxi Al forsoþe þe talwȝ takyng a wey, as yt is wont to be takun fro þe flawn sacrifices of pesible þinges, he shal brenne vpon þe auter into smel of swetnes to be

Lord; and he shal preye for hym, and it shal be forȝeuue hym.

xxxii If forsoþe of þe beestis he shall offre flawn sacrifice for synne, þat is, a sheep wiþ outen wemme, xxxiii he shal putte þe hoond vpon þe heed of it, and he shal offre it in þe place where ben wonte to ben flawun þe oostis of brent sacrifices.

xxxiv And þe preest shal take of þe blood of it wiþ his fyngre, and towchynge þe hornes of þe auter of brent sacrifice, he shal heelde þe relif at þe foot of it.

xxxv And al þe talwȝ takyng a wey, as þe talwȝ of a weþer is wonte to be takun a wey þat is offrid for synnes, and he shal brenne vpon þe auter þe encense of þe Lord; and he shal preye for hym, and for his synne, and it shal be forȝouun hym.

Capitulum V.

i If a lijf synne, and here þe voyce of a swerer, and were witnes, þat oþer he seeþ, or to hym silf is knowun gilti, but if he shewe, he shal bere his wickidnes.

ii þe lijf þat towchis eny vnclene þing, oþer þat is flawe of a beest, oþer bi hym silf deed, or eny oþer crepyng beest, and he were forgeten of his vnclennes, he is gilti, and haþ trespassid.

iii And if he towche eny þing of þe vnclennes of man, after al vnclennes wiþ þe which he is wont to be defowlid, and forȝeten afterward knowe, he shal vnderlye to þe trespass.

iv þe lijf þat sweris, and spekiȝ wiþ his lippes, þat or eny þing yuel shal do, or wel, and doþ not, and þe fame þing wiþ ooþ or word stableþ, v and forȝeten afterward vndirstonde his trespass, vi do he penaunce for þe synne, and offre he of þe flockis an shee lombe, or a shee geyt; and þe preest shal prey for hym, and for his synne.

vii If forsoþe he may not offre a beeste, offre he two turturs, or two culuer bryddis to þe Lord, oon for þe synne, and anoþer into brent sacrifice.

viii And he shal ȝyue hem to þe preest, þe which, þe first offryng for þe synne, shal bowe aȝen þe heed of it to þe feþers, so þat it cleue to þe nek, and not fullich it be broke.

ix And he shal spreng of þe blood of it þe wal of þe auter; what euer forsoþe were lefte he shal make to drop at þe foundement of it, for it is for synne.

x þe toþer forsoþe he shal brenne in to brent sacrifice, as it is wont to be doo, and þe preest shal prey for hym and for his synne, and it shal be forȝeuuen hym.

xi And if his hoond mowe not offre two turturs, or two culuer briddes, offre he for his synne of tried flowre þe tenþe part of ephi; he shal not putte into it oyle, ne leye yn eny þing of encense, for it is for synne.

xii And he shal take it to þe preest, þe which takyng of it a ful hoondful, shal brenne vpon þe auter, into þe mynde of hym þat offrede, xiii preyngē for hym, and purgyngē; þat oper forsoþe part he shal haue in ȝifte.

 xiv And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyngē, xv If a lijf synne, forfetyngē þe cerymonyes bi errour, in þes þingis þat ben halowed to þe Lord, offre he for his trespas a weþer wiþ out wemme of þe flockis, þe which may be bouȝt wiþ two sicles, after þe weiȝte of þe seyntuary.
 xvi And þat þat he hap doo of harm he shal restore, and þe fifþe part he shal putte aboue, takynge to þe preeſt, þe which shal preye for hym, offryngē a weþer, and it shal be forȝouen hym.
 xvii þe lijf þat synneþ bi ignoraunce, and dooþ oon of þes þingis þat ben defendid bi lawe of þe Lord, and gilti of þe synne vnderstonde his wickidnes, xviii he shall offre a weþer wiþ outen wemme of þe flockis to þe preeſt, after þe mesure and eymyng of þe synne; þe which shal preye for hym, for vnknowyngē he dide, and it shal be forȝeue to hym, xix for bi errour he trespasse in þe Lord.

Capitulum VI.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyngē, ii þe lijf þat synneþ, and, þe Lord despiside, denye to his neiȝbore þe laſt þing þat to his feiþ was takun, or wiþ fors eny þing takiþ, or doþ wrong chalenge, iii or fynde loſt þing, and denyyngē ouermore forsweriþ, and eny oper of manye doo in þe whiche men ben wonte to synne, iv he ateint of þe trespas shal ȝelde alle þingis hool þat þurȝ frawde he wolde wiþ hoolde, v and ferþermore þe fifþe part to þe lord, to whom he dide þe harm.
 vi For his synne forsoþe he shal offre a weþer wiþouten wemme of þe flok, and he shal ȝyue it to þe preeſt, after þe eymyng and meſure of þe trespas;
 vii þe which shal preye for hym before þe Lord, and it shal be forȝeue to hym, for al þat in doyngē he synnedē.
 viii And þe Lord spake to Moyses, seiyngē, ix Comaunde to Aaron and his sones, þis is þe lawe of þe brent sacrifice; it shal be brent in þe auter al nyȝt vnto þe morwen; fyer it shal be of þe same auter.
 x þe preeſt shal be cloþid wiþ a coote, and wiþ lynnен breches; and he shal take þe afken, þe whiche þe fier vowryngē brent out, and puttyngē bifyde þe auter xi he shal be spoylid þe raþer clothes, and cloþid wiþ oper he shal offre hem out of þe tentes, and in moost clene place vnto a litil ſparcle he shal make to be waſtid.
 xii þe fier forsoþe in þe auter euermore shal brenne, þe which þe preeſt shal norishe, vnder puttyngē wode eerly bi eche dayes; and putte yn aboue þe brent sacrifice, he shal brenne þe talwȝ of þe peſible þingis.
 xiii þis fier is perpetuel þat shal neuer fayle in þe auter.

xiv þis is þe lawe of ſacrifice and of ſacrified licours, þe whiche þe ſones of Aaron shulen offre before þe Lord, and before þe auter.
 xv þe preeſt shal take an handful of tryed flour, þe which ys ſpreynt wiþ oyle, and al þe encenſe þat is putte vp on þe tryed flour, he shal brenne it in þe auter, in to mynde of moost fwete ſmel to þe Lord.
 xvi þe laſt forſoþe part of þe tryed flour Aaron wiþ his ſones shal ete, wiþ outen four dowȝ; and he shal ete in þe holi place of þe porche of þe tabernacle.
 xvii Perfore forſoþe it shal not be fouryd, for þe part of it is offred into þe encenſe of þe Lord; holi of halowes it shal be, as for þe synne and for þe trespas.
 xviii þe maalis oonlich of þe lynage of Aaron shulen ete it; lawful and euerlaſtyngē it is in ȝoure kynredes, of þe ſacrifices of þe Lord; eche þat touchiþ þo þinges shal be halowid.
 xix And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyngē, xx þis is þe offryng of Aaron, and of þe ſones of him, þat þei shulen offre to þe Lord in þe day of her anoyntyng; þe tenþe part of ephi þei shulen offre of þe tried flour, in euerlaſtyngē ſacrifice, þe half of it eerli, and þe half of it at euen;
 xxi þe which in a panne ſpreynt wiþ oyle shal be fryed.
 xxii And þe preeſt þat to þe fader þurȝ ryȝt comeþ after, shal offre it hoote, into þe moost fwete ſmel to þe Lord; and al shal be brent in þe auter.
 xxiii Al forſoþe ſacrifice of preeſtis wiþ fier shal be conſumyd, ne eny shal eete of it.
 xxiv And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyngē, xxv Spek to Aaron and his ſones, þis is þe lawe of ooft for synne; in þe place where is offred brent ſacrifice, shal it be offerd before þe Lord; holi of halowis it is.
 xxvi þe preeſt þat offreb it, shal eete it in holi place, in þe porche of þe tabernacle.
 xxvii What euer shal towche þe fleiſhe of it, shal be halowid; if a clooþ be ſpreynt of þe blood of yt, it shal be waſhe in an holy place.
 xxviii þe bretiſh vessel forſoþe in þe which it is ſoþen, shal be broken; þat if it were a brasun vessel, it shal be rubbið, and waſhe wiþ water.
 xxix Eche maal of þe preeſtis kynrede shal eete of þe fleiſhe of it; for holi of halowis it is.
 xxx An ooft forſoþe þat is flawe for synne, whos blood is born into þe tabernacle of witneſſyng to cleſe in þe seyntuarie, shal not be eete, but brent wiþ fier.

Capitulum VII.

i And þis lawe of ooft for trespas is holy of halowis.
 ii Perfore where þe brent ſacrifice is offred, and þe ſacrifice for þe trespas shal be flawe; þe blood of it bi enuyroun of þe auter shal be heelde.
 iii þei shulen offre of it þe tayl, and þe talwȝ þat couereþ þe entrayls, iii be two litel reynes, and be fatnes þat is bïfide be reyne guttes, and be calle of be mawe, wiþ be litil reynes.

 v And be preest shal brenne hem vpon be auter; be encense it is of be Lord for be trespasses.
 vi Eche maal of be preeftes kynrede in holi place shal ete þis flesh, for holi of halowis it is.
 vii As for a synne is offred an oost, so and for a trespass, of eiper hoost shal be o lawe; to be preest þat it shal offre it shal perteyne.
 viii Be preest þat offreþ be flawn offryng of brent sacrifice, shal haue be skynne of it.
 ix And alle be sacrifice of tried floure, þat is bake in be ouen, and what euer þing in be gredyrne, or in friyng panne is greipid, of þat preest it shal be, of whom it is offred.
 x wheþer þei ben spreyn wiþ oyle, or drye. To alle be sones of Aaron even mesure bi echon shal be dyuyd.
 xi Þis is be lawe of be oost of pesible þinges, þat is offred to be Lord.
 xii If for doyng of þankyngis were be offryng, þei schulen offre looues wiþ outer four dowȝ spreyn wiþ oyle, and binne þerf cakis anoynt wiþ oyle, and bakun tryed floure, and litil rownd looues spreyn wiþ mengyng of oyle;
 xiii and looues maad wiþ four dowȝ, wiþ be oost of þankynge þat is offred for be pesible þinges; xiv of be whiche oon for be chefe fruytis shal be offred to be Lord, and it shal be of be preest þat shal heelde be blood of be oost, xv whos fleshe þat same day shal be etun, ne þere shal leeue of it eny þing vnto be morwe. xvi If þurȝ a vow, or wylfully, eny man offreþ an oost, be same day also it shal be eten; but if eny þing leeue to be morwe, it is leful to eete; xvii what euer forsoþe be þridde day fynde, be fier shal consume.
 xviii If eny man eete be þridde day of be flesh of be oost of pesible þinges, his offryng shall be sett at noȝt, ne it shal profyte to be offrer; but raper ech liȝt þat defowlip hym silf wiþ syche meete, shal be gilti of trespassyng. xix be flesh þat eny vnclene þing touchip, shal not be etun, but brent wiþ fier; he þat is clene, shal eete it.
 xx A liȝt defowlid, þat etiþ of be flesh of be oost of pesible þinges, þat is offred to be Lord, shal perishe fro his puplis.
 xxi And he þat towchip be vnclessnes of man, or of beeþte, or of eny þing þat may defowle, and etiþ of fiche maner flesh, shal spille fro his puples.
 xxii And be Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, xxiii Spek to be sones of Israel, be talwȝ of sheep, and of oxe, and of geyt, ȝe shulen not eete; xxiv be talwȝ of deed careyn, and of þat beeþte þat is takun of a wilde beeþte, ȝe shulen haue into dyuerse vñses.

xxv If eny man eete be talwȝ, þat shulde be offred into be encense of be Lord, he shal perishe fro his puple.
 xxvi And be blood of eche beeþte ȝe shulen not take in meete, as wel of bryddes, as of beeþtis; xxvii eche liȝt þat etiþ blood shal perishe fro his puplis.
 xxviii And be Lord spak to Moyses, xxix seiynge, Speke to be sones of Yrael, He þat offreþ flawn offryng of pesible þinges to be Lord, offre he þerwiþ and sacrifice, þat is, his offrynges of licours.
 xxx He shal holde wiþ hondes be talwȝ of be oost, and be litil breſt; and whanne boþe, offred to be Lord, he haþ sacred, xxxi he shal take to be preest, be which shal brenne be talwȝ vpon be auter; be litil breſt forsoþe shal be of Aaron and his sones;
 xxxii and be riȝt shuldre of be oostis of pesible þinges shal falle into chefe fruytis of be preest.
 xxxiii He þat offreþ be blood, and be talwȝ, of be sones of Aaron, shal haue and be riȝt shuldre in his porcioun.
 xxxiv be litil breſt forsoþe of areryng, and be shuldre of feueryng, Y haue take fro be sones of Yrael of be pesible hoostes of hem, and haue ȝyue to Aaron be preest and his sones, þurȝ perpetuel lawe, fro al be puple of Yrael.
 xxxv Þis is be anoyntyng of Aaron and his sones, in be cerymonyes of be Lord, be day þat Moyses offred hem þat þei shulden vse preesthood.
 xxxvi and be þinges þat be Lord comaundide to be ȝeue to hem of be sones of Yrael, þurȝ perpetuel relygioun in her generacions.
 xxxvii Þis is be lawe of be brent sacrifice, and of sacrifice for synne, and for trespasses, and for be facryng, and for flawn offrynges of pesible þinges, xxxviii þat be Lord ordeyned to Moyses in be mownt Synay, whanne he comaundide to be sones of Yrael þat þei shulden offre her offrynges to be Lord, in be desert of Synay.

Capitulum VIII.

i The Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, ii Tak Aaron wiþ his sones, be clothes of hem, and be oyle of be anoyntyng, a calf for synne, two weþers, a leape wiþ þerf louses;
 iii and þow shalt gedere togidere al be companye at be dore of be tabernacle.
 iv Moyses dyde as be Lord comaundide; and al be puple gadered before be ȝates of be tabernacle, v he seip, Þis is be word þat be Lord comaundide to be do.
 vi And anon he offred Aaron and his sones; and whanne he hadde washe hem, vii he cloþide be bishop wiþ a lynnen sherte, girdyng hym wiþ a gyrdle and cloþing hym wiþ a blewe coote, vñses.

viii and putte aboue þe coope, þe which streynyng wiþ a lace ioyned it to þe breſt broche, in þe which was loore and ſoþenes.

ix And he couerde þe heed wiþ a mytre, and vpon it, aboue þe frownt, he putte a goldun plate, ſacrid in halowynge, as þe Lord comaundide to him.

x And he took þe oyle of anoyntyng, wiþ þe which he anoyntide þe tabernacle wiþ alle his ournementis;

xi and whanne halowynge he hadde ſpreynt þe auter ſeuен ſipes, he anoyntide it; and alle þe vefſels of it, and þe lauatorye wiþ his foot he halowide wiþ oyle.

xii Þe which heeldynge vpon þe heed of Aaron, he anoyntide hym, and ſacrede, and his ſones offred he ſacricle, xiii and clopid wiþ lynnen cootys, and girde wiþ girdles, and putte on hem mytrys, as þe Lord comaundide.

xiv And he offred a calf for synne; and whanne Aaron and his ſones hadden putte her hondes vpon þe heed of it, xv he offred it, takyng þe blood; and þe fyngre wett, he towchede þe hornes of þe auter bi enuyroun, þe which clenſid and halowid, he heelde þe laſt blood at þe foundementis of it.

xvi Þe talwȝ forſoþe þat was vpon þe entrayles, and þe calle of þe mawe, and þe two litil reynes wiþ her grece he brent vpon þe auter;

xvii þe calf wiþ þe ſkynne, flesh, and dryt, brennyng out of þe tentes, as þe Lord comaundide.

xviii And he offred a weþer into brent ſacrifice; vpon whos heed whanne Aaron and his ſones hadden putte her hondes, xix he offred it, and heelde þe blood of it bi enuyroun of þe auter.

xx And þiſk weþer cuttyng in gobetis, þe heed of it, and þe lemes, xxi and þe talwȝ he brente wiþ fier, wafched before þe entraylis and þe feete; and al þe weþer he tende to gidere vpon þe auter, forbi þat it was brent ſacrifice of mooſt ſwete ſmel to þe Lord, as he comaundide to hym.

xxii And he offred þe ſecounde weþer, into þe ſacringle of preeftis; and Aaron and his ſones puttiden her hondes vpon þe heed of it.

xxiii Þe which whanne Moyses hadde offride, takyng of þe blood towchid þe ende of þe riȝt eere of Aaron, and þe þowmbe of his riȝt hoond, alſo and of þe foote. And he offred þe ſones of Aaron.

xxiv And whanne of þe blood of þe offred weþer he hadde towchid þe eende of þe riȝt eere of echon, and þe þoumbe of þe hoond, and of þe riȝt foote, þe relif he heelde vpon þe auter bi enuyroun.

xxv Þe talwȝ forſoþe, and þe tayle, and al þe fatnes þat couereþ þe entrayles, and þe calle of þe mawe, and þe two reynes wiþ her talwȝes, and þe ryȝt ſhuldre he ſeuerede.

xxvi Takynge forſoþe of þe leepe of þerf looues, þat was before þe Lord, looues wiþ outer four dowȝ, and a litil rownd loof ſpreynt wiþ oyle, and a þinne caake, he putte vpon þe talwȝes, xxvii and þe riȝt ſhuldre, takyng alle togidere to Aaron and his ſones.

xxviii Þe which whanne bei hadden rerede hem befor þe Lord, eftſones takyng of þe hondes of hem, he brente vpon þe auter of brent ſacrifice, forbi þat it was þe offring of consecracioun, into ſmel of ſwetnes of ſacrifice to þe Lord.

xxix And he took þe litil breeſt, rerynge it before þe Lord, of þe weþer of consecracioun into his part, as þe Lord haþ comaundide hym.

xxx And takyng þe oynement, and þe blood þat weren in þe auter, he ſpreynde vpon Aaron, and his vefmentes, and upon his ſones, and her cloþis.

xxxi And whanne he hadde halowide hem in her cloþinge, he comaundide hem, ſeiyng, Seeþe ȝe þe fleſh before þe ȝatis of þe tabernacle, and þer etiþ it; and þe looues of consecracioun etiþ, þat ben putte in þe leepe, as God haþ comaundide to me, ſeiyng, Aaron and his ſones ſchulen eete hem;

xxxii what euer forſoþe were laſt of þe fleſh and of þe looues, þe fier ſhal confume.

xxxiii Fro þe dore forſoþe of þe tabernacle ȝe ſhulen not goo out ſeuен daies, vnto þe day in þe which þe tymē of ȝoure consecracioun ſhal be fulfillid; ſeuен forſoþe daies is endid þe consecracioun, xxxiv as now it is doon, þat þe ryte of þe ſacrifice be fulfillid.

xxxv Day and nyȝt ȝe ſhulen dwelle in þe tabernacle, al about kepyng þe wardes of þe Lord, leſt ȝe dien; ſo forſoþe it is comaundide to me.

xxxvi And Aaron and his ſones diden alle þingis, þat þe Lord ſpak bi þe hoond of Moyses.

Capitulum IX.

i The eiȝt day forſoþe doon, Moyses clepide Aaron, and his ſones, and þe greet men þurȝ birþe of Yrael; and he feide to Aaron, ii Tak fro þe droue a calf for synne, and a weþer into brent ſacrifice, eiþir wiþ out wemme, and offre hem before þe Lord.

iii And þow ſhalt ſpeke to þe ſones of Yrael, Take ȝe a geyt for synne, and a calf, and a lombe of o ȝeer and wiþout wemme, into brent ſacrifice, iv an oxe and a weþer for peſible þingis; and offre ȝe hem before þe Lord, in þe ſacrifice of echon offryng tried flour ſpreynt wiþ oyle; to day forſoþe þe Lord ſhal apere to ȝow.

v Panne þei token alle þingis, þat Moyses hadde comaundide, at þe dore of þe tabernacle, where, whanne al þe multitude ſtoode, vi Moyses seip, ƿis is þe word þat þe Lord comaundide, do ȝe, and þe glorie of hym shal apere to ȝow.

 vii And he seide to Aaron, Come nyȝ to þe auter, and offre for bi synne; offre brent sacrifice, and prey for þee, and þe puple; and whanne þou fleest þe hooft of þe puple, prey for hem, as þe Lord hab̄ comaundide.
 viii And anoon Aaron goyng to þe auter offred a calf for his synne;
 ix whos blood his sones offreden to hym, in þe which wetynge þe fynge he towchide þe hornes of þe auter, and heelde þe relyf at þe foot of it;
 x and þe talwȝ, and þe litil reynes and þe calle of þe mawe þat ben for synne, he brent vpon þe auter, as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses.
 xi þe flesh forsoþe, and þe skynne of it wiþ out þe tentis he brent wiþ fier.
 xii And he offrede þe flawn offryng of þe brent sacrifice, and his sones offreden þe blood of it to hym, þe which he heelde bi enuyroun of þe auter;
 xiii þat alſo ooft cutt in to gobetis, wiþ þe heed, and alle þe lymes þei offriden; þe whiche alle vpon þe auter he brente wiþ fier, xiv before wasche wiþ water þe entayles, and þe feet.
 xv And offryng for þe synne of þe puple he flewe a goote, xvi and þe auter clenſid he made brent sacrifice, xvii echynge into þe sacrificye offrynges of licours þat ben offryd togidere, and brennyng hem vpon þe auter, wiþ out þe cerymonyes of þe morutide brent facryfice.
 xviii And he offrede an oxe, and a weþer, þe pesible ooftes of þe puple; and his sones offreden þe blood to hym, þe which he heelde vpon þe auter in enuiroun.
 xix þe talwȝ forsoþe of þe oxe, and þe tayl of þe weþer, and þe litil reynes wiþ her talwȝes, and þe calle of þe mawe, xx þei putten vpon þe breeſtes. And whanne þe talwȝes weren brent in þe auter, xxi þe breeſtis of hem, and þe riȝt shuldres Aaron arerynge before þe Lord feuerde, as Moyses comaundide.
 xxii And strecchyng out hondes to þe puple he bleſſide hem; and lo fulfillid þe ooftes for synne, and þe brent sacrifices, and þe pesible þinges, he descendide.
 xxiii Moyses forsoþe and Aaron goon into þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, and berafter goon out bliſſiden to þe puple; and þe glorie of þe Lord aperyd to al þe multitude.
 xxiv And loo! fier goon out fro þe Lord deuowrede þe brent sacrifice, and þe talwȝes, þat weren vpon þe auter; þe which whanne þe puple hadde seen, þei preifeden þe Lord, fallyng doun in to her faces.

Capitulum X.

i And Nadab and Abiu, þe sones of Aaron, cauȝt þe censerys, putten fier and encense þere aboue, offryng before þe Lord alien fier, þat to hem was not comaundid.

 ii And fier goon out fro þe Lord, deuowrede hem, and þei ben deed before þe Lord.
 iii And Moyses seide to Aaron, ƿis is þat þe Lord hab̄ spokun, Y shal be halowid in hem þat neijen to me, and in þe siȝt of al þe puple Y shal be glorified; þe which þing heryng, Aaron helde his pees.
 iv Moyses forsoþe, Myfael, and Elizaphan, þe sones of Ofyel, þe vnkle of Aaron, clepid, seip to hem, Gope, and takij þoure briþeren fro þe siȝt of þe seytuarie, and berij out of þe tentis.
 v And anoon goyng þei token hem, as þei lien clopid wiþ her lynnen cloþes, and þei keſten hem out, as it was comaundid to hem.
 vi And Moyses spak to Aaron, and to Eliazar and to Ytamar, his sones, Wole ȝe not make ȝoure heedes nakid, and wole ȝe not kutte ȝoure cloþes, leſt perauenture ȝe dien, and vpon al þe cumpanie sprengē indignacioun; ȝoure breþeren and al þe hous of Yrael weilen þei þe brennyng þat þe Lord hab̄ reryde.
 vii ȝe forsoþe shulen not goon out þe ȝates of þe tabernacle, ellis ȝe shulen peryſhe; þe oyle forsoþe of þe holi anoynthyng is vpon ȝow. Þe whiche diden alle þinges after þe heefte of Moyses.
 viii And þe Lord seide to Aaron, ix Wyn, and alle þat may make dronke, þow and þi sones shulen not drynke, whanne ȝe shulen goo into þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, leſt ȝe dien; for þe euerlaſtyng heefte it is into ȝoure generaciouns;
 x and þat ȝe han kunnyng of demyng bitwix holy and cursid, bitwix defowlid and clene;
 xi and þat ȝe techen þe sones of Yrael alle my lawful þinges, þat þe Lord hab̄ spokun to hem bi þe hoond of Moyses.
 xii And Moyses spak to Aaron, and to Eliazar and to Ytamar, his sones, þat weren laſt, Tak ȝe þe sacrifice þat was laſt of þe offryng of þe Lord, and etij it wiþ outen fourdowȝ, biside þe auter, for holy of halowis yt is.
 xiii ȝe shulen eete forsoþe in holy place þat þat is ȝeuuen to þee and to þi sones, of þe offrynges of þe Lord, as it is comaundid to me.
 xiv And þe litil breeſt þat is offered, and þe shuldre þat is feuered, ȝe shulen eete in þe moost cleene place, þow, and þi sones, and þi douȝtren wiþ þee; to þee forsoþe and to þi free children ben put vp, of þe hoolsum ooftis of þe sones of Yrael;
 xv forþi þat þe shuldre, and þe breeſt, and þe talwȝes þat ben brent in þe auter, þei han arerede before þe Lord; and perteynen to þee, and to þi sones, þurȝ perpetual lawe, as þe Lord hab̄ comaundide.
 xvi Among þes þingis þe goot þat was offred for synne whanne Moyses souȝte, he foonde ful brent, and wroop aȝens Eliazar and Ytamar, þe sones of Aaron þat laſten, seip, xvii Whi han ȝe not eetun in hooli place þe oost for synne, þat is holy of halowes, and ȝyue to ȝow, þat ȝe bere þe wickidnes of þe multitude, and preye for it in þe siȝt of þe Lord;

xviii namelicke ȝif of þe blood of it is not brouȝt wiþ ynne þe halowes, and ȝe shulen eete it in þe seytuarie, as þe Lord haþ comaundide to me?

xix And Aaron answerde, To day is offred þe flawn offryng for synne, and brent sacrifice before þe Lord; to me forsoþe is falm þat þou feest; what manere myȝte I eete it, and plees to þe Lord in cerymonyes wiþ weilynge mynde?

xx þe which þing whanne Moyses hadde herde, he resseyuede satysfaccioun.

Capitulum XI.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses and Aaron, seiyng, ii Sey ȝe to þe sones of Yrael, Kepe ȝe alle þingis þat Y haue writun to ȝow, þat I be ȝoure God. Þes ben þe beetis þat ȝe shulen eete, of alle þat beren lif on erþe;

iii alle þat han þe clee dyuydid, and chewiþ kude, in beetis ȝe mowen eete;

iv what euer forsoþe chewiþ kude, and haþ clee, but dyuydiþ it not, as camel and oþere, ȝe shulen not eete it, and among vncleane þinges ȝe shulen holde it.

v An vrchon, þat chewiþ kude, and dyuideþ not þe clee, is vncleane;

vi an haer forsoþe, for and he chewiþ kude, but þe clee he dyuidiþ not;

vii and a sowe, þat al be it þat sche dyuidiþ þe clee, she chewiþ not kude.

viii Of þe flesh of þes eete ȝe not, ne towche ȝe þe careyns, for þei ben vncleane to ȝow.

ix Þes ben also þat ben getun in watri, and it is leeful to eete; alle þat han fynnes and scaales, as wel in þe see, as in þe floodes and stondyng watri, ȝe shulen eete;

x what euer forsoþe haþ no fynnes and scaales, of hem þat in watri ben meued and lyuen, shulen be abhomynable to ȝou, xi and as cursid; ȝe shulen not eete þe flesh of hem, and þe falm to deeþ ȝe shulen shonne.

xii Alle þat han not fynnes and scaales in watri, shulen be polute.

xiii Þes ben þat ȝe shulen not eete of bryddes, and ben to be shoned of ȝow; an egle, and a griffyn, and a merlyoun;

xiv and kijt, and a grijp after his kynde;

xv and alle of crowe kynde into his liknes;

xvii an owle, and a deuedep, and þe vncleane watir foule, þat wiþ his bille puttyng water into his ars, purgiþ hym silf;

xviii a swan, a cormaraunt, and a pellicane; and a gerfawcoun, xix and a iay after his kynde; and a lapwynk, and a reremous.

xx Alle of foules þat goþ on foure feete, shal be abhomynable to ȝow;

xxi what euer forsoþe goþ on foure feete, but haþ lenger þeis bihynde, bi þe whiche he lepiþ vpon þe erþe, ȝe shulen eete;

xxii as is bruk in his kynde, 'þat is þe kynde of locust er it haue wenges, and attachus, 'þat is þe kynde of locust, whanne it bigynneþ to flee, and opymachus, 'þat is a foule enemy to serpentes, and a locust, eche after his kynde.

xxiii What euer forsoþe of foules þat oonli haþ foure feete, shal be to ȝow as cursid þing;

xxiv and who so euer towchip þe falm to deeþ of hem, shal be polutid and vncleane vnto þe euentide;

xxv and if it were nede þat he bere eny of hem deed, he shal walhe his cloþes, and he shal be vncleane vnto þe goyng doun of þe sunne.

xxvi Eche forsoþe beeþe þat haþ a clee, but dyuideþ not it, ne chewiþ kude, shal be vncleane; and what euer touchip it, shal be defoulid.

xxvii þat þat goþ vpon hondes, of al þat beriþ lif þat goon on foure feete, shal be vncleane; who so touchip þe falm to deeþ of hem, shal be polutid vnto euen;

xxviii and who so beriþ siche maner careyns, shal walhe his cloþis, and he shal be vncleane vnto þe euen; for alle þes ben vncleenes to ȝou.

xxix Þes forsoþe among polutid þinges shulen be holde, of hem þat ben meued in erþe; a wesil, and a mouse, and a cokedril, eche after his kynde; 'þat is a beeþe of foure feete, hauyng þe neþer cheke lap vnmeuable, and meuyng þe ouere;

xxx a mygal, 'þat is a beeþe born trecherous to bigile, and mooft gloterous, a camelion, 'þat is a beeþe varyed in to diuerfe colours, after diuerfe lokingis, and a stellioun, 'þat is a werme depeyntid as wiþ sterries, and a lacert, 'þat is a serpent þat is clepid a liserd, and a moldwerp.

xxxi Alle þes ben vncleane; who toucheþ þe falm to deeþ of hem, shal be vncleane vnto þe euen;

xxxii and vpon what þing fal eny þing of þe falm to deeþ of hem, shal be polut, as wel þe treen vessel and cloþing, as skynnes and heren shertes; and in what þing is werk maad, it shal be wett wiþ water, and þei shulen be polut vnto þe euen, and so afterward þei shulen be clenfid.

xxxiii A britel vessel forsoþe, in þe which eny of þes falliþ wiþ ynne, shal be polut, and þerfor it is to be broke.

xxxiv Al þe meete þat ȝe shulen eete, if water were shed vpon it, shal be vncleane; al meltyng þing, þat shal be dronke of eny vessel, shal be vncleane;

xxxv and what þing of siche þing fald to deep falles vpon it, shal be vnclene, oþer forneyfes, 'or ketels, shulen be destryued, and shulen be vnclene.
 xxxvi þe welles forsoþe and sisterns, and al þe gederyng togidere of watri, shulen be clene. He þat touchiþ þe fald to dep of hem, shal be polutid.
 xxxvii If it falle vpon þe feede, it shal not polute it; xxxviii if forsoþe eny man wiþ water helde vpon þe feede, and afterward wiþ þe fald to dep were touchid, anone it shal be polutid.
 xxxix If þe beeste þat is leeful to ȝow to eete were deed, he þat touchiþ þe careyn of it shal be vnclene vnto euen; xl and he þat etiþ of it eny þing, or beriþ, shal wasshe his cloþes, and he shal be vnclene vnto euen.
 xli Al þat crepiþ vpon erþe shal be abhomynable, ne shal be take vnto meet.
 xlvi What þing of foure feete goþ vpon þe breeſt, and haþ many feete, or bi þe erþe is drawun, ȝe shulen not eete, for it is abhomynable.
 xlviii Nyl ȝe defoule ȝoure soules, ne touche eny þing of hem, leſt ȝe ben vnclene; xliii Y forsoþe am þe Lord ȝoure God; be ȝe holy, for Y am hooli. Ne defoule ȝe ȝoure soules in eny crepyng þing þat is meuyd vpon erþe; xlvi Y forsoþe am þe Lord, þat haþ ladde ȝow fro þe loond of Egipte, þat Y shulde be to ȝow into God; ȝe shulen be holy, for Y am holy.
 xlvi ȝis is þe lawe of þe berynge liþ, and of foules, and of al lyuyng foule þat is meuyd in water, and crepiþ in erþe;
 xlvii þat ȝe mowen knowe þe differences of clene and of vnclene, and þat ȝe witen what ȝe owen to eete, and what to forsake.

Capitulum XII.

i The Lord spak to Moyſes, feiynge, ii Spek to þe fones of Yrael, and bow shalt seye to hem, A womman, if þurȝ resseyued seed she bare a maal, she shal be vnclene ſeven dayes after þe daies of þe ſeueryng of þe flux of rotun blood;
 iii and þe eiȝt day þe fawnt shal be circumcidid.
 iv She forsoþe þre and pretti daies shal dwelle in þe blood of hir purifiyng; al holi þing she shal not touche, ne goo in to þe ſeyntuarie, to þe tyme þat þe daies of hir purifiyng ben fulfillid.
 v If forsoþe she bere a maydyn child, she shal be vnclene twey wekes, after þe ryte of þe flux of þe rotun blood, and ſix and ſixty dayes she shal dwelle in þe blood of hir purifiyng.
 vi And whanne þe daies of hir purifiyng weren fulfillid, oþer for ſone, or for douȝter, she shal bere a lomb of oȝeer in to brent ſacrifice, and a culuer brid, or a turtiȝ, for ſynne, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witneſſyng; and ſhe shal take to þe preeſt, vii þe which shal offre it before þe Lord, and shal preye for hir, and ſo ſhe shal be maad clene fro þe flux of hyr blood. ȝis is þe lawe of þe berynge maal and femaal.

 viii And if þe hoond of hir fynde not, ne may offre a lombe, ſhe shal take two turturs, or two culuer bryddes, þe oon into brent ſacrifice, and þat oþir for ſynne; and þe preeſt shal preye for hir, and ſo ſhe shal be maad clene.

Capitulum XIII.

i The Lord spak to Moyſes and Aaron, feiynge, ii A man in whos ſkynne and flesh were ſprongun dyuerſe colour, or bleyne, oþer eny þing liȝtyng, þat is to ſeie, a plaage of lepre, he shal be brouȝt forþ to Aaron, þe preeſt, or to oon of eny of his fones;
 iii þe which whanne he ſeeþ þe lepre in þe ſkynne, and þe heeris chaungid into whijt colour, and þilk ſpice of lepre lower þan þe ſkynne and þat oþer flesh, a plaage of lepre it is, and at þe dom of hym he shal be ſeuered.
 iv If forsoþe liȝtyng whitneſſe were in þe ſkynne, and no more lowe þan þat oþer flesh, and þe heeris of before hadden colour, þe preeſt shal reclufe hym ſeuen daies;
 v and he shal beholden þe ſeueneþe day, and if forsoþe þe lepre be no forþermore runne, ne paſſe in þe ſkynne þe former termes, eftſones he shal reclufe hym ſeuen oþer dayes;
 vi and þe ſeueneþe day he shal loke, if more derker were þe lepre, and not waxed in þe ſkynne, he shal cleſne hym, for it is a ſcab; and þe man shal wasshe his cloþis, and he shal be clene.
 vii þat if afterward þat he is ſeen of þe preeſt, and ȝoldun to clennelitte, eftſone þe lepre wexiþ, viii he shal be brouȝte to hym, and of vnclennes he shal be condemnyd.
 ix þe plaage of lepre if it were in a man, he shal be brouȝt to þe preeſt, x and he shal ſe hym; and whanne whijt colour were in þe ſkynne, and of þe heeres chaungiþ þe ſiȝt, þilke forsoþe quyk flesh aþeeriþ, xi þe moost olde lepre it shal be demyd, and fulle rootid to þe ſkynne; and ſo þe preeſt shal defoule hym, and not reclufe, for it is of vnclennes ful open.
 xii If forsoþe out flowe þe rennyng lepre in þe ſkynne, and couer al þe flesh, fro þe heed vnto þe feet, what þing vndir þe ſiȝt of þe eyen falliþ;
 xiii þe preeſt shal beholde hym, and deme it to be holdun moost clene lepre, 'for þi þat al be turned into whitnes, and perfer þe man shal be clene.
 xiv Whanne forsoþe quyk flesh aþeirde in hym, xv þanne þurȝ þe dome of þe preeſt he shal be polut, and among vnclene he shal holdun; if þe quyk flesh is ſpreynt wiþ lepre, it is vnclene.
 xvi þat if eftſones it were turned into whitneſſe, and couereþ al þe man, xvii þe preest shal behoolde hym, and deme to be clene.

 xviii þe flesh and þe skynne, in þe whiche a bocche is growun, and helid, xix and in þe place of þe bocche aperiþ a fel wounde, whijt, or derk reed, þe man shal be brouȝt to þe preest;
 xx þe which whanne he haþ seen þe place of þe lepre lower þan þat oþer flesh, and þe heeris turned into whitnes, he shal defoule hym; a plaage forsoþe of lepre is spongyn in þe bocche.
 xxi þat if þe heere is of þe raþer colour, and þe fel wounde vnder derk, and þanne þe nyȝ flesh is not lower, he shal recluse hym feuen dayes; xxii and if forsoþe it wax, he shal deme hym of þe lepre;
 xxiii if forsoþe it stoonde in his place, it is þe fel wounde of þe bocche, and þe man shal be clene.
 xxiv þe flesh and þe skynne, þat þe fyer brekiþ out, and, heelid, haue a whijt or a reed fel wounde, xxv þe preest shal biholde it, and loo! if it is turned into whitnes, and þe place of it is lower þan þat oþer skynne, he shal defoule hym, for þe plaage of þe lepre is spongyn in þe fel wounde.
 xxvi þat if þe colour of þe heeres were not fulle chaungid, ne þe plaage lower þan þat oþer flehs, and bilke spice of lepre were vnder derk, he shal recluse hym feuen daies;
 xxvii and þe feuenþe day he shal loke; and if þe lepre wax in þe skynne, he shal defoule hym; xxviii if forsoþe in his place stonde whijtnes not clear ynowȝ, a plaage of brennyng it is, and perfor it shal be clenfid, for a fel wounde of brennyng 'it is.
 xxix Man or womman, in whos heed or beerde boriouneþ a lepre,
 xxx þe preest shal loke hem; and if forsoþe þe place were lower þan þat oþer flesh, and þe heer ȝalow, and sotiler þan it is wont, he shal defoule him, for lepre of þe heed it is, and of þe beerde.
 xxxi If forsoþe he se þe place of þe wemme euen to þe nyȝ flesh, and þe heer blak, he shal recluse hym feuen daies,
 xxxii and þe feuenþe day loke; and if þe wemme growe not, and þe heer is of his colour, and þe place of þe plage to þat oþer flesh euen, xxxiii þe man shal be shauen, out-take þe place of þe wemme, and he shal be reclusyd feuen oþer daies.
 xxxiv If þe feuenþe day þe plaage were seen 'to haue stoonde in his place, ne lower þan þat oþer flesh, he shal clenfe hym, and his cloþes wasshid he shal be clene.
 xxxv If forsoþe after þe clenfyng eftstones growe a wemm in þe skynne, xxxvi he shal na more seche, wher þe heer be chaungid in to ȝalow colour, for apertly he is vnclene.
 xxxvii Forsoþe if þe wemme stoonde, and þe heeris weren blak, know he þat þe man is hool, and trutshili pronounce he hym clene.

xxxviii A man or a womman, in whos skynne whijtnes aperip, xxxix þe preest shal loke hem; if he perceyue vnder derk whijtnes to shyne in þe skynne, know he þat it is no lepre, but a wemme of whijt colour, and þat þe man is clene.
 xl A man of whos heed þe heeres fallen, he is ballid,
 and clene;
 xli and if fro þe frount fallen þe heeres, he is bihynde ballid, and clene;
 xlvi if forsoþe in þe ballidnes, or in þe bihynde ballidnes, whijt or reed colour were spongyn out, xlvi and þat þe preest seeyȝ, he shal condempne hym, not of dowtows lepre it is, þat is spongyn in þe ballidnes.
 xlvi Whoso euer were þanne defoulid wiþ lepre, and feuered at þe dome of a preest, xlvi he shal haue his cloþis vnsewyd, þe heed nakid, þe mouȝ couered wiþ þe clooþe, and he shal crye hym wemmed, and foule;
 xlvi al tyme þat he is leprows and vncleene, alone he shal dwelle out of þe tentes.
 xlvi A wullun clooþ, or lynnen, xlvi þat haþ a lepre in þe oof, or in þe werpe, oþer of a certeyn skynne, or ouȝt þat is maad of skynne, xlvi if it were infect wiþ whijt or reed wemme, it shal be holdun a lepre, and shal be shewid to þe preest; xlvi þe which, it lokid, shal recluse feuen daies.
 li And þe feuenþe day eftstones biholdynge, if he perseuyue þat it haþ wox, it shal be a stedfast lepre; he shal deme þe clooþ polut, lii and al þing in þe which it were founde; and perfor it shal be brent wiþ flawmes of fier.
 liii þat if he se þat it haþ not waxen, liii he shal comaunde, and þei shal wasshe it in þe which is þe lepre, and he shal recluse it feuen oþer
 daies;
 lv and whanne he seeþ forsoþe þe raþer face not turned aȝen, and neuerpelater þe lepre not to haue woxe, he shal deme vnclene, and wiþ fier he shal brenne, forþi þat it is spred in þe vttermost of þe clooþ, oþer 'al þurȝ.
 lvi A lepre, if forloþe þe place of þe lepre were derker, after þat þe clooþ is wasshun, he shal breke it, and fro þe hoole dyuyde.
 lvii þat if forþermore apere in þat places, þe whiche weren before vndefoulid, þe lepre fleynge and vagaunt, shal be brent wiþ fier; lviii and if it ceese, he shal wasshe secoundlich þo þinges þat ben pure, and þei shal be clene. lix Þis is þe lawe of þe lepre of wullen clooþ, and lynnen, of oof and of warpe, and of al leþerin purtenaunce, how þei shal be clenfid, or be defoulid.

Capitulum XIII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng,

ii Pis is þe rijt of þe leprows, whanne he is to be maad clene. He shal be brouȝt to þe preest, iii þe which goon out of þe tentis, whanne he fyndip þat þe lepre is clenſid, iii he shal comaunde to hym þat is purified, þat he offre for hym ſilf two quyk ſparowes, whom it is leeful to eet, and cedre tree, and `flawm reed ſilk, and yſope.
v And oon of þe ſparows he shal comaunde to be offred in a brīl vessel, vpon quyk watriſ; vi þat oþer forſoþe quyk, wiþ cedre tree, and `reed ſilk, and yſope, he shal weete in þe blood of þe ſparowe þat is offred, vii wiþ þe which he shal ſprenge hym þat is to be clenſid ſeuene ſiþes, þat þurȝ riȝt he be purgid; and he shal late goo þe quyk ſparowe, þat the flee awei into þe feelde.
viii And whanne þe man haþ waſhīde his cloþes, he shal ſhaue alle þe heeres of þe bodi, and he shal be waſhe wiþ water, and purified he shal goo into þe tentis; ſo oonli þat he dwelle out of his tabernacle ſeuene daies;
ix and þe ſeueneþ day þat he ſhaue þe heeris of þe heed, and beerde, and browes, and þe heeres of al þe body. And eftſones þe cloþes and þe body waſhīd, x þe eiȝt day he shal take two lombes wiþ outhen wemme, and a ſheep of o ȝeer wiþ outhen wemme, and þre dymes of tried floure, into ſacrifice, þat be ſpreynt wiþ oyle, and biſides a ſextarie of oyle. xi And whanne þe preest, purfyng þe man, ordeyned hym and alle þes þingis before þe Lord, in þe dore of
þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, xii and he shal take a lombe, and offre it for trespas, and a ſextarye of oyle; and alle þingis offred before þe
Lord,
xiii he shal offre a lombe, where is wont to be offred þe ooſt for synne and þe brent ſacrifice, þat is, in holy place; forſoþe as for synne ſo for trespas to þe preest perteyneth þe ooſt; holi of halowes it is.
xiv And þe preest takyng of þe blood of þe ooſt þat is offrid for trespas, he shal putte vpon þe ende of his riȝt ere þat is clenſid, and vpon þe þoumbes of þe riȝt hoond and foot.
xv And of þe ſextarie of oyle he ſhall putte in his left
hoond,
xvi and he shal wete þe riȝt fyngrē in it, and he shal ſprenge before þe Lord ſeuene ſiþes.
xvii þat forſoþe of þe oile þat is laſt in þe left hoond, he shal heelde vpon þe eende of his riȝt eere þat is clanſid, and vpon þe þoumbes of hoonde and of riȝt foot, and vpon þe blood þat is ſhed for trespas, xviii and vpon his heed. And he shal prey for hym before þe Lord, xix and he shal doo ſacrifice for synne; þanne he shal offre brent ſacrifice, xx and putte it in þe auter wiþ his offryng of licours, and þe man lawfullich shal be clenſid.

xi þat if he is a pore man, and his hoonde may not fynde þat ben ſeyde, he shal take for þe trespas a lombe to þe offryng, þat þe preest prey for hym, and þe tenþe part of tried flour ſpreynt wiþ oyle, into ſacrifice, and a ſextarie of oyle, xxii and two tutrups, and two culuer bryddis, of whom þe oon be for synne, and þe oþer into brent ſacrifice; xxiii and he shal offre hem þe eiȝt day of his purifying to þe preest, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, before þe Lord.
xxiv þe which takyng a lombe for trespas, and a ſextarie of oile, shal rere togidris; xxv and þe lombe offryd, of þe blood of it he shal putte vpon þe eende of þe riȝt eere of hym þat is clenſid, and vpon þe þoumbes of his hoonde and of þe ryȝt foote.
xxvi Of þe oyle forſoþe a part putte he into his left hoonde,
xxvii in þe which wetynge þe fyngrē of þe riȝt hoonde, ſprenge he ſeuene ſiþes aȝens þe Lord;
xxviii and weet he þe eende of þe ryȝt eere of hym þat is clenſid, and þe þoumbes of þe hoonde, and of þe riȝt foot, in þe place of þe blood þat is ſhed out for trespas.
xxix þe laſt forſoþe part of þe oyle þat is in þe leſte hoonde, putte he vpon þe heed of þe purified, þat he pleſe þe Lord for hym.
xxx And a turtre, or a culuer bryd, he shal offre, xxxi oon for trespas, and anoþer into brent ſacrifice, wiþ her offrid licours.
xxxii þat is þe ſacrifice of þe leprows, þat may not haue alle þingis in þe clenſyng of hym.
xxxiii And þe Lord ſpak to Moyses and Aaron, ſeiyng, xxxiv Whanne ȝe weren goon into þe loonde of Chanaan, þat Y shal ȝyue to ȝow into poſſeffyoun, if þere were a plaage of lepre in howfis, xxxv whos is þe hows shal goon tellyng to þe preest, and ſeie, As a plague of lepre it is ſeen to me to be in myn hows.
xxxvi And he shal comaunde, þat alle þingis be born out of þe hows or he goo into it, and be ſeen wheþer it be a lepre, leſt alle þinges þat ben in þe hows ben maad vnclene; and afterward he shal goon yn, þat he beholde þe lepre of þe hows.
xxxvii And whanne he ſeeþ in þe walles of it as litil valeys defourmed wiþ paalnes, or wiþ reednes, and lower þan þat oþer vttermore partie, xxxviii he shal goo out of þe dore of þe hows, and anon he shal close it ſeuene dayes.
xxxix And þe ſeueneþ day turned aȝen he shal beholde it; and if he fynde þat þe lepre haþ waxen, xl he shal comaunde þe ſtonus, in þe whiche is þe lepre, to be drawe out, and hem to be þrowe `a ferre out of þe cyte, in an vnclene place;
xli þat forſoþe hows to be parid wiþ ynforþ bi enuyroun, and þe powdre of þe paryng to be ſpreynt out of þe citee, in an vnclene place, xlii and oþer stonus to be put aȝens for hem þat were takun awey, and wiþ oþer cley þe hows to be dawbid.

xliii If forsoþe after þat þe stonus ben drawen out, and þe powdre born out, and wiþ oþer erþe dawbid, xliii and þe preest goon yn se þe lepre turned aȝen, and þe walles aȝen spreynit wiþ spottis, it is a stedfaſt lepre, and þe hows vnclene;
xlv þe whiche anoon þei ſchulen diſtruy; and þe ſtonus of it, and trees, and al þe powdre þei ſhulen prowe afer out of þe wallid town, in an vnclene place.
xlii Who gob into þe hows, whanne it is cloſid, ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen, xlii and who ſlepiþ in it, and etiþ eny þing, ſhal waffhe his cloþes.
xliii þat if þe preest goynge in fe þat þe lepre haþ not waxen in þe hows, after þat it is newe dawbid, he ſhal purifie it, helpe ȝoldun aȝen.
xlii In þe purifiyng of it he ſhal take two sparows, and þe cedre tree, and 'fier reed filk, and ysop.
i And þat oon Sparow offred in a britil vefsel, vpon quik watris, ii he ſhal take þe cedre tree, and ysop, and 'fier reed filk, and a quyk Sparow, and he ſhal weete alle þingis in þe blood of þe offrid Sparow, and in quyk watres; and he ſhal ſprenge þe hows ſeuен ſiþes;
iii and he ſhal purifie it, as wel in þe blood of a Sparow as in quyk watrys, and in þe quyk Sparow, and in þe cedre tree, and ysop, and 'fier reed filk.
iii And whanne he haþ late þe Sparow freliche flee awey in þe feelde, he ſhal prey for þe hows, and þurȝ ryȝt it ſhal be maad clene.
iv þis is þe lawe of al lepre, and hurtyng, v and of lepre of cloþes, and howfis, vi and of fel wounde, and of bleynes brekyng out, and of wemme liȝtyng, and in dyuerse ſpices þe colours chaungid, vii þat it may be knowe what tyme eny þing be clene, or vnclene.

Capitulum XV.

i And þe Lord ſpak to Moyses and Aaron, ſeyng, ii Speke ye to þe ſones of Yrael, and ſeiþ to hem, Pe man þat ſuffreb þe flux of ſeede, ſhal be vnclene;
iii and þanne he ſhal be demyd to vndur ligge to þis vice, whanne bi eche momentis it cleueþ to þe flesh of hym, and to gidere groweþ þe foule humour.
iv Al þe bed þat he ſleepiþ yn ſhal be vnclene, and where euer he ſitteþ.
v Who ſo euer of men towchiþ hys bed, he ſhal waffhe his cloþes, and he waffhid wiþ water ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.

xi Eche whom he þat is ſuþon towchiþ wiþ not waffhun hondes before, ſhal waffhe his cloþes, and waffhid wiþ water ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
xii Pe britil vefſel þat he towchiþ, ſhal be tobrokun; þe treen vefſel forſoþe ſhal be waffhid 'wiþ water.
xiii If he were helid, þat ſuffreb ſiche a maner paſſiouñ, he ſhal noumbre ſeuен daies after his clensyng, and þe cloþes waffhid, and al þe bodi in qwik watris, he ſhal be clene.
xiv Pe eiȝt day forſoþe he ſhal take two turturs, oþer two culuer briddes, and he ſhal come in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, and he ſhal ȝyue hem to þe preeſt;
xv þe which ſhal doon oon for ſynne, and þat oþer into brent ſacrifice; he ſhal prey for him bifor þe Lord, þat he be clene fro þe flux of his ſeede.
xvi Pe man of whom gob out þe ſeede of goyng togidris, ſhal waffhe wiþ water al his body, and he ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
xvii Clooþ and ſkynde þat he haþ, he ſhal waffhe wiþ water, and it ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
xviii Pe womman wiþ whom he gob togider wiþ, ſhal be waffhe wiþ water, and ſhe ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
xix Pe womman þat, turnyng aȝen þe moneþ, ſuffreb þe flux of blood, ſeuен daies ſhal be ſeuerd; eche þat towchiþ hir ſhal be vnclene vnto euen.
xx and þe place in which ſhe ſleepiþ or ſittiþ þe daies of her ſeueryng, ſhal be polut.
xi He þat towchiþ her bed, ſhal waffhe his cloþes, and he waffhid wiþ water ſhal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
xxii Eche vefſel vpon which ſhe ſittiþ who ſo euer towchiþ, ſhal waffhe his cloþes, xxiii and he waffhid wiþ water ſhal be polut vnto þe euen.
xxiv If man gob togidere wiþ hir in þe tyme of his blood flowyng bi moneþes, he ſhal be vnclene ſeuен daies, and al þe bed in which he ſleepiþ ſhal be polut.
xxv Pe woman þat ſuffriþ manye daies þe flux of blood, not in tyme of þe flux bi þe moneþ, oþer þat aftir þe flux of blood bi þe moneþ ceſiþ not to flowe blood, as longe as ſhe ſhal vnderligge to þis paſſiouñ ſhe ſhal be vnclene, as it be in tyme of þe flux of blood bi þe moneþ.

xxvi Al þe bed in which she s̄lepiþ, and þe vessel in which she settiþ, shal be polut.
 xxvii Who so towchijþ hir, shal waffhe hys clopis, and he waffhid wiþ water shal be vnclene vnto þe euen.
 xxviii If þe blood stoonde, and ceefe to flowe, she shal noumbr feuen daies of hir purifiyng, xxix and þe eiȝtiþ day she shal offre for hir silf to þe preest two turturs, or two culuer briddis, at þe dore of
 þe tabernacle of witneſſyng;
 xxx þe which shal do oon for þe synne, and þat oþer into brent sacrifice; and he shal preye for hir before þe Lord, and for þe flux of þe vncلنnes of hir.
 xxxi ȝe shulen teche þerfore þe sones of Yrael, þat þei shonnen vncلنnes, and die not in her fluxes, whanne þei defoulen my tabernacle þat is among hem.
 xxxii ȝis is þe lawe of hym þat suffrefþ flux of seede, and þat is polutid þurȝ goynge togidris, xxxiii and of hyr þat þurȝ moneþ tymes of flowing of blood is feuerd, and þat flowiþ ful oft blood, and of þe man þat s̄lepiþ wiþ hir.

Capitulum XVI.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, after þe deep of þe two sones of Aaron, whanne þei offrynge alien fier were flawn,
 ii and comaundide to hym, seiyng, Spek to Aaron, þi broþer, leſt alle tymes he goo into þe seytuarye, þat is wiþ ynne þe veile before þe propiciatory, wiþ þe which þe arke is couerd, þat he dye not; for in a clowde Y shal apeere vpon þe heuenli answeryng place;
 iii but if þes þinges he do before. He shal offre a calf for synne, and a weþer in to brent sacrifice; iii wiþ a lynnen coote he shal be cloþid, and wiþ lynnen breches he shal hile þe shame worþi membres; he shal be gyrd wiþ a lynnen gyrdil, and a lynnen mytre he shal putte to be heed; þes forþoþ ben þe holy cloþes, wiþ þe whiche al he shal be cloþed, whanne he were waffhid.
 v And he shal take of al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael two gootes for synne, and a weþir into brent sacrifice;
 vi and whanne he offrefþ a calf, and preieþ for hym silf,
 and for his hows, vii two gootes he shal make stoonde before þe Lord, in þe dore of þe tabernacle of witneſſyng; viii puttyng vpon eiþer loot, oon to þe Lord, and anoþer to þe goot þat shal be sent out.
 ix Whos loot goþ out to þe Lord, shal offre þilke for synne; x whos forþoþ into þe goot þat shal be sent out, shal ordeyne him quik before þe Lord, þat he heelde preiers vpon hym, and fende hym out into wildernes.

xi ȝes þingis lawfully solempnyſid, he shal offre a calf, and preiyng for hym silf, and for his hows, shal offre
 it.
 xii And þe censure taken to, þe whiche he haþ fulfillide of þe coolis of þe auter, and takynge wiþ hoond þe maad ensence of dyuers splices into ensensyng, he shal goo yn biȝonde þe veile, in to þe hooli þingis; xiii þat þe fwete smellynge splices putt vp on þe fier, þe clowde of hem and þe breeþ couer Goddis answeryng place, þat is vpon þe witneſſyng, and die not.
 xiv And he shal take of þe blood of þe calf, and he shal sprengi wiþ þe fyngre feuen ſipes aȝens þe propiciatorye, at þe eest.
 xv And whanne he haþ flawe þe goot, for þe synne of þe puple, he shal bere ynne his blood wiþ ynne þe veile, as it is comaundid of þe blood of þe calf, þat he sprengi forn aȝen Goddis answeryng place, xvi and purge þe seytuarye fro þe vncلنnes of þe sones of Yrael, and fro þe trespassynges of hem, and fro alle synnes. After þis riȝt he shal doo in þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, þat is ficchid betwix hem, in þe myddil of þe sortes of dwellyng of hem. xvii No man be in þe tabernacle, whanne þe bishop shal goo into þe seytuarye, þat he preye for hym silf, and for his hows, and for al þe companye of Yrael, to þe tyme þat he goo out of þe tabernacle.
 xviii And whanne he goþ out to þe auter þat is before þe Lord, prey he for hym silf, and þe taken blood of þe calf, and of þe goot, heelde he vpon þe hornes of it, bi
 enuyroun;
 xix and sprengi wiþ þe fyngre feuen ſipes, purge he,
 and halowe it fro þe vncلنnes of þe sones of Yrael.
 xx After þat he haþ clenſide þe seytuarye, and þe tabernacle, and þe auter, þanne offre he a quik goot; xxi and eiþer hoond put on his heed, knowleche he al þe wickidnes of þe sones of Yrael, and alle þe giltis, and alle þe synnes of hem, þe which inwardly preiyng to his heed, he shal fende it out bi a man al redy into desert.
 xxii And whanne þe goot haþ born al þe wickidnes of hem into solitarye loonde, and were left in desert, xxiii Aaron shal turne aȝen into þe tabernacle of witneſſyng; and þe cloþes doon of, wiþ þe whiche he was cloþed before, whanne he entride þe seytuarye of God, and hem laſt þere, xxiv he shal waffhe his flesh in an holi place, and shal be cloþid wiþ his owne cloþes, and afterward þat he, goon out, haþ offred his and þe puples brent sacrifice, he shal preye as wel for hym silf, as for þe puple;
 xxv and þe talwȝ þat is offred for synne he shal brenne vpon þe auter.
 xxvi He forþoþ þat letiþ goo þe sent out goot, shal waffhe his cloþes and his bodi wiþ water, and so he shal goo into þe tentis.
 xxvii þe calf forþoþ and þe goot, þat weren offred for synne, and whos blood is brouȝt in seytuarye, þat þe clensyng were fulfillid, þei shulen bere out of þe tentis; and þei shulen brenne wiþ fier, as wel þe skynnes, as þe flesh of hem and þe drit.

xxviii And who so euer brenne hem, shal wasshe his clothes and þe flesh wiþ water, and so he shal go into þe tentes.

xxix And þis shal be to ȝow lawful euerlastyng; þe seuenþ moneþ, þe tenþ day of þe moneþ, ȝe shulen traueyle ȝoure soules, and no werke ȝe shulen do, wheþer wiþ ynne bore or comlyng þat pilgrimagen among ȝow.

xxx In þis day shal be þe purgyng of ȝow, and clensyng fro alle ȝoure synnes, before þe Lord ȝe shulen be maad clene;

xxxi þe holiday forsoþe of restyng it is, and ȝe shulen traueil ȝoure soules þurȝ perpetuel religioum.

xxxii þe preest forsoþe, þat were anoynt, shal purgen out, and whos hondes ben sacrid, þat he bere þe office of preesthod for his fader; and he shal be clopid wiþ a lynnен stoole, and wiþ holy clothes, xxxiii and he shal purge þe seytuarie, and þe tabernacle of witnessyng, and þe auter, and þe preestis, and alle þe puples.

xxxiv And þis shal be lawful to ȝow euermore, þat ȝe preyen for þe sones of Yrael, and for alle þe synnes of hem, ones in þe zeer. He dide þanne, as þe Lord hadde comaundide to Moyseſ.

Capitulum XVII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyſes, seiyng, ii Spek to Aaron and his sones, and to alle þe sones of Yrael, seiyng to hem, Þis is þe word þat þe Lord haþ comaundide, seiyng, iii Eche man of þe hows of Yrael, if he flee an oxe, or a sheep, or a she goat in þe tentes, or out of þe tentes, iv and offrep not at þe dore of þe tabernacle offryng to þe Lord, he shal be gilti of blood; as he hadde shedde blood, so he shal perishe fro þe myddil of his puple.

v Perfor þe sones of Yrael shulen offre to þe preest her oostes, þat þei flewen in þe feelde, þat þei ben halowid to þe Lord, before þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnessyng, and offre þei þe oostes pefible to þe Lord.

vi And þe preest shal heelde þe blood vpon þe auter of þe Lord, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnessyng; and he shal brenne þe talwȝ into smel of swetnes to þe Lord.

vii And þei shulen no more offre her oostes to feendes, wiþ þe whiche þei han do fornycacioun; lawful euerlastyng it shal be to hem, and to þe after comers of hem.

viii And to hem þow shalt seye, A man of þe hows of Yrael, and of þe comlings þat pilgrimagen anentis ȝow, þat offriþ brent sacrifice, oþer slayn offryng, ix and to þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnessyng bryngiþ it not, þat it be offred to þe Lord, he shal spille fro his puple.

x Eche man of þe hows of Yrael, and of comlyngis þat pilgrimagen among ȝow, if he eete blood, Y shal aȝen fastne my face aȝens þe soule of hym, and Y shal lese hym fro his puple;

xi for þe soule of flesh is in blood, and I haue ȝouun it to ȝow, þat ȝe purgen myn auter for ȝoure soules, and blood be fore þe hidows gilt of soule.

xii And perfor Y feide to þe sones of Yrael, Eche liȝ of ȝow ete no blood, ne of þe comlyngis þat pilgrymagen among ȝow.

xiii Eche man of þe sones of Yrael, and of þe comelyngis þat pilgrymagen anentis ȝow, wheþer wiþ huntyng or wiþ foulynge, take wilde beeſte, or bridd, þe which it is leeful to eete, sheed he his blood, and couer it þe erþe; xiv þe soule forsoþe of al flesh is in blood. Wherfor Y feide to þe sones of Yrael, þe blood of al flesh ȝe shulen not eete, for þe soule of flesh is in blood, and who so euer etiþ it, shal dye.

xv þe liȝ þat etiþ faln to deþ, oþer þe takun of a beeſte, as wel of wiþ ynne getun, as of comlyngis, shal washe his cloþis and hym silf wiþ water, and he shal be defowlid vnto þe euen, and bi þis ordre he shal be maad clene;

xvi þat if he wasshe not his clothes, or body, he shal bere his wickidnes.

Capitulum XVIII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyſes, seiyng,

ii Speke to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, Y am þe Lord ȝoure God;

iii after þe custome of þe loond of Egyp̄e, in þe which ȝe han dwellid, ȝe shulen not doo; after þe maner of þe regioum of Chanaan, to þe whiche Y am to bryng ȝow yn, ȝe shulen not don, ne in þe lawful þingis of hem ȝe shulen goo.

iv ȝe shulen doo my domes, and þe heestis ȝe shulen kepe, and ȝe shulen goo in hem; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.

v Kepiþ my lawes and domes, þe whiche doyng, a man shal lyue in hem; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.

vi Eche man to þe nexte woman of his blood shal not goo to, þat he opne þe filþed of hir; Y Lord.

vii þe filþeed of þi fader and þe filþeed of þi moder þow shalt not discouer; þi moder she is, þow shalt not opne þe filþeed of hir.

viii þe filþeed of þe wiff of þi fader þow shalt not discouer; þe filþeed forsoþe of þi fader it is.

ix þe filþeed of þi sister, of fader or of moder, þat at home or wiþ outen is gotun, þow shalt not opne.

x þe filþeed of þe dowȝter of þi sone, or of þi douȝter dowȝter, þow shalt not opne, for þi filþeed it is.

xi Be filpheed of þe douȝter of þe wif of þi fader, þat she haþ bore to þi fadir, and is þi sifter, þow shalt not opne.
 xii Be filþ of þe sifter of þi fader þow shalt not discouer; þe flesh she is of þi fader.
 xiii Be filþed of þe sifter of þi moder þow shalt not opne, for þi þat she is flesh of þi moder.
 xiv Be filþeed of þe broþer of þi fadir þow shalt not opne, ne þow shalt goo to þe wif of hym, þe which is ioyned to þee þurȝ affynyte.
 xv Be filþeed of þe wif of þi sone þow shalt not opne, for þe wif of þi sone she is, ne þow shalt dyscouer þe shenshyp of hir; and no man take þe wif of his broþer.
 xvi Be filþeed of þe wif of þi broþer þow shalt not opne, for þe filþed of þi broþer it is.
 xvii Be filþeed of þi wif, and of þe douȝter of hir, þow shalt not opne; þe douȝter of þe sone of hir, and þe douȝter of þe douȝter of hir þou shalt not take, þat þow opne hir shenþip, for þe flesh of hir þei ben, and siche a goyng togidere is incest.
 xviii Be sifter of þi wif into liggyн bi hir þow shalt not take, ne opne þe filþede of hir, ȝit she lyuyn.
 xix To þe womman þat suffreþ flux of blood þow shalt not goo, ne opne þe stynkyngnes of hir.
 xx Wiþ þe wif of þi neiȝbore þow shalt not goo togidir, ne wiþ mengyng togidere of seede þow shalt 'be defoulid.
 xxi Of þi seede þow shalt not ȝyue, þat it be sacryd to þe mawmet of Moloch, ne þow shalt defowle þe name of þi God; Y a Lord.
 xxii Wiþ a maal þow shalt not be mengid, bi maner of goyng to gidere wiþ womman, for abhomynacioun it is.
 xxiii Wiþ alle beeftis þow shalt not goo to gidere, ne þow shalt be defoulid wiþ it. A womman shal not vnder ligge to a beeuste, ne shal be mengid to it, for hidows synne it is.
 xxiv Ne be ȝe polut in alle þes þinges, wiþ þe whiche alle gentilis ben defoulid, þat Y shal þrowe out before ȝoure siȝt, xxv of whom þe erþe is polut, whos hidows synnes Y shal vilsite, þat it caste out his dwellers.
 xxvi Kepe ȝe my lawes and my domes, þat ȝe do not of alle þes abomynaciouns, as wel þe wiþ ynne gotun as þe dwellers þat pilgrymagen anentis ȝow.
 xxvii Alle forsoþe þes curfisnessis diden þe tiliers of þe erþe þat weren before ȝow, and polutide it.
 xxviii Shoneþ þerfor, leſt and also ȝow it caste out, whanne þe same þinges ȝe doon, as it keſte out folk þat was before ȝow.
 xxix Eche lijf þat doþ of þes abomynaciouns eny þing, shal perischt fro þe myddil of his puple.
 xxx Kepe ȝe my heeftis, and wole ȝe not doo þingis þat diden þes þat weren before ȝow, leſt ȝe ben polut in hem; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.

Capitulum XIX.

i The Lord spak to Moyses, feiynge, ii Spek to al þe compayne of þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, Be ȝe holy, for Y am holy, þe Lord ȝoure God.
 iii Echon drede his fader and moder. Kepe ȝe myn holy day; I þe Lord ȝoure God.
 iv Nyle ȝe be conuertid to mawmetis, ne goddis ȝotun to gidere make ȝe to ȝow; I þe Lord ȝoure God.
 v If ȝe offren an oost of þe flesþ þingis to þe Lord, þat he be plesable, vi þiilk dai þat it were offryd ȝe shulen eete it, and þat ober day; what euer þing forsoþe were laſt into þe briddie day, ȝe shulen brenne wiþ fier.
 vii If eny after two dayes etiþ of it, he shal be cursid, and gilti of vnpitowfnes;
 viii he shal bere his wickednes, for þe holy of þe Lord he haþ polutide, and þat soule shal perish fro 'þe myddil of his puple.
 ix Whanne þow repist þe tilþes of þi loond, þow shalt not kitte vnto þe grounde þe vttermost of þe erþe, in þe leeuyng eerys þow shalt gedere;
 x ne in þi vyne ȝeerd þe reyfonus and cornes fallynge down þow shalt not gedere, but to pore men and pilgrimes to ben lesid þow shalt leeue; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xi ȝe shulen do no þeft. ȝe shulen not liȝe, ne defleyue eny man his neiȝbore.
 xii þou shalt not forswere in my name, ne þou shalt polut þe name of þi God; Y a Lord.
 xiii Pow shalt not doo wronge chalenge to þi neiȝbore, ne wiþ force bere hym down. Per shal not bide anentis þee þe werke of þin hyred seruant vnto þe morwen.
 xiv þou shalt not curse to þe deef, ne before þe blynde þow shalt putte þing of offence; but þou shalt drede þe Lord þi God, for I am a Lord.
 xv Pow shalt not do þat is wickid, ne vnryȝtwisly þow shalt deme; þou shalt not biholde þe perfone of þe pore, ne þow shalt onoure þe chere of þe myȝti; riȝtwisly deme þow to þi neiȝbore.
 xvi Pow shalt not be a wrongful acuser of greuous synne, ne a pr Yue yuel speker in peplis; ne þou shalt stoonde aȝens þe blood of þi neiȝbore; Y a Lord.
 xvii Haat þow not þi broþer in þin herte, but opynli vndernym hym, leſt þow haue on hym synne.
 xviii Pow shalt not seche veniaunce, ne þow shalt haue mynde of þe wronge of þi citefeynes; þow shalt loue þi frende as þi silf; Y a Lord. xix Kepe ȝe my lawes. Pi beeftis þow shalt not make goo to gidere wiþ beeftis of anoþer kynde. A feelde þow shalt not sowe wiþ dyuerfe seede. A cloþ þat is wouen of two, þow shalt not be cloþid.
 xx A man if he sleepe wiþ a womman, bi goyng to gidere of seede, þe which is boond womman, alſo noble, and neuerþelater bi prijs not bouȝt, ne þe fredam ȝyuen, boþe shulen be scourgid, and þei shulen not die, for she was not free.

 xxi For her trespass forsoþe, he shal offre to þe 'Lord at þe dore of þe tabernacle of witnesfyng, a weber; xxii and þe preest shal preye for hym, and for his trespass, before þe Lord; and he shal eft haue mercy to hym, and þe synne shal be forȝeuuen.
 xxiii Whanne ȝe weren gon in to þe loond, and plauntiden in it apple trees, ȝe shulen doo awey þe first fruytis of hem; þe apples þat buriounen shulen be vnclene to ȝow, ne ȝe shulen eete of hem.
 xxiv þe ferþe forsoþe ȝeer al þe fruyt of hem shal be halowid and preyſable to þe Lord;
 xxv þe fift ȝeer forsoþe ȝe shulen eete þe fruytis, gedryng to gidere apples þat þei bringen forþe; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xxvi ȝe shulen not eete flesh wiþ þe blood. ȝe shulen not dyuyne in bryddis, ne ȝe shulen sette kepynges vpon sweuenes;
 xxvii ne ȝe shulen in rownde dodde heer, ne shauue beerde;
 xxviii and vpon þe deed ȝe shulen not kitte ȝoure flesh, ne eny figuris, or prycyngis, ȝe shulen make to ȝow;
 Y a Lord.
 xxix Ne putt þow þi douȝter to bordel, and þe loond be defoulid, and it be fulfillid wiþ trespass vnto deþ.
 xxx My holi dayes kepe ȝe, and my seytuarie drede ȝe;
 Y a Lord.
 xxxi Ne declyne þow to dyuynours, ne aferche eny þing of takers her answeris of deuels, þat ȝe ben polut bi hem; I þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xxxii Before þe hoor heed aryse, and onour þe persone of þe oolde, and drede þe Lord þi God; Y am a Lord.
 xxxiii If a comlyng dwelle in ȝoure loond, and were abidyng amone ȝow, ne myssey ȝe to hym, xxxiv but be he among ȝow as a wiþ inne born; and ȝe shulen loue hym as ȝoure self; forsoþe and ȝe weren comelyngis in þe loond of Egipte; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xxxv Nyle ȝe do eny wickid þing in dome, in rewle, in weiȝt, in mesure;
 xxxvi riȝt balaunce, and euen ben þe weiȝtis, ryȝt bufhel, and euen sextarye; Y þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haue ladde ȝow out of þe loond of Egipte.
 xxxvii Kepe ȝe myn heefis, and alle þe domes, and do ȝe hem; 'I þe Lord.

Capitulum XX.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, ii þes þinge spek to þe sones of Yrael, þe man of þe sones of Yrael, and of þe comlyngis þat dwellen in Yrael, if eny of his feede ȝyue to þe mawmet of Moloch, þurȝ deþ die he; þe puple of þe loond shulen stonen hym.

iii And Y shal putte my face aȝens hym, and Y shal kitte hym doun fro þe myddil of my puple, forþi þat he ȝaue of his feede to Moloch, and haþ defowlide my seytuarye, and polut myn holy name.
 iv þat if þe puple of þe loond necleigent, and as despifyng myn heefis, forȝyue þe man þat haþ ȝouun of his feede to Moloch, ne wole flee hym, v Y shal putte my face vpon þat man, and his kynrede, and I shal kitte hym down, and alle þat consenten to hym, þat þei doon fornycacioun wiþ Moloch, fro þe myddil of his puple.
 vi þe liff þat declyneþ to dyuynours, and herkeners to deuels, and doþ fornycacioun wiþ hem, I shal putte my face aȝens hym, and I shal flee hym fro þe myddel of his puple.
 vii Be ȝe maad holy, and beþ holy, for I am holi, þe Lord ȝoure God.
 viii Kepe myn heefis, and doþ hem, for Y am þe Lord þat halowiþ ȝou.
 ix Who so cursip to his fader, or moder, wiþ deeþ die he; who so to his fader or moder cursip, his blood be vpon hym.
 x Who so doþ leccherie wiþ wif of anoþer, and haþ wrouȝte auowtrye wiþ þe wif of his neiȝbore, þurȝ deþ dye boþ þe lecchour and þe auowtres.
 xi He þat slepiþ wiþ his stepdam, and opneþ þe shenship of his fader, þurȝ deþ dien þei boþe; þe blood of hem be vpon hem.
 xii If eny man sleepe wiþ his sones wif, eiþer be deed, for hidows trespass þei han wrouȝt; þe blood of hem be vpon hem.
 xiii He þat slepiþ wiþ a maal, bi maner of goyng togidere wiþ a womman, eiþer haþ wrouȝt ful vnleeful þing, þurȝ deþ die þei; þe blood of hem be vpon hem.
 xiv He þat vpon þe wif takip þe douȝter, þe moder 'of hyre, hidows trespass haþ wrouȝt; ful myche he shal bren wiþ hem, and so greet vnleeful þing shal not dwelle in þe myddil of ȝow.
 xv He þat wiþ hows beeſte or feelde beeſte goþ togider, wiþ deþ die he, and þe beeſte flee ȝe.
 xvi þe womman þat lieþ to eny beeſte, to gidere be she flayn wiþ it; þe blood of hem be vpon hem.
 xvii He þat takip his fistir, þe douȝter of his fader, or þe douȝter of his moder, and seeþ þe filþeed of hir, and she bihoold he shenship of þe broþer, a ful vnleeful þing þei han wrouȝt, boþe shulen be flayn in þe liȝt of her puple; forþi þat her filþeed þei opnedon to gidere, and þei shulen bere her wickidnes.
 xviii He þat goþ to gidere wiþ a womman in þe flux of þe moneþ blood, and opneþ hir filþehed, and she opneþ þe welle of hir blood, boþe shulen be flayn fro þe myddel of her puple.
 xix þe filþeed of þi moder fistir, and þi fader fistir, þow haſt not discouer; who þat doþ þis, þe shenship of his flesh he shal nakyn, and boþ shal bere her wickidnes.

xx He þat goþ togidere wiþ be wif of his fader broþer, or of his vncle, and opneþ þe shenþip of his kynrede, þoþ þei shulen ber her synne, and wiþ out free children þei shulen dye.

xxi Who so weddeþ þe wif of his broþer, an vnleeful bing doþ; þe filþeed of his broþer he haþ opned, and wiþ out fre children he shal be.

xxii Kepe ȝe my lawes, and my domes, and doþ hem, leſt and þe loond caſt ȝow out, þat ȝe ben to goyng yn, and to dwellynge.

xxiii Nyle ȝe goo in þe lawful þingis of naciouns, þe whiche Y am to puttyng out before ȝow; alle forſoþe þes þinges þei han do, and Y haue wlatid hem.

xxiv To ȝow forſoþe Y ſpeke, Weeldiþ þe loond of hem, þat Y ſhal ȝyue to ȝow in to erytage, þe loond flowynge mylk and honys; Y þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haþ feuerde ȝow fro oþer puples.

xxv And ȝe þanne feuer a clene beeſte from vnclene, and clene bryd fro vnclene, leſt ȝe poluten ȝoure foulis in beeſtis, and in bryddis, and in alle þat mouen in erþe, and þat to ȝow Y haue ſhewid to be polut.

xxvi ȝe shulen be holi to me, for Y þe Lord am holy, and haue feuerd ȝow fro oþer puples, þat ȝe ben myne.

xxvii A man or womman, in þe which is a ſpirit of wiccheſcraft, or of dyuynyng, wiþ deb die þei, and wiþ ſtonus men shulen ouer-falle hem; þe blood of hem be upon hem.

Capitulum XXI.

i And þe Lord ſeide to Moyses, Spek to þe preeſtis, fones of Aaron, and þow ſhalt ſeye to hem, Be not þe preeſt defoulid in þe deed of her cyteſeyns, ii but oonly in cofyns, and nyȝ, þat is, upon fader and moder, and ſone and douȝter, and broþer, iii and ſister, mayden, þat is not ſpousid to man;

iv but and in þe pryncie of his puple he ſhall not be defoulid.

v þei shulen not ſhaue heed, ne beerd, ne in her flesh þei shulen make in kyttyng;

vi holi þei shulen be to her God, and þei shulen not polute his name; enſence forſoþe of þe Lord, and þe looues of her God þei offren, and þeþor holi þei shulen be.

vii A ſtrompet, and foule hordam, ȝe shulen not take to wif, ne hir þat is forſakun of her housboond, for he is facryd to his God, viii and looues of propoſicioñ he offreþ; be þanne he holi, for Y am holi, þe Lord þat halowiþ ȝow.

ix þe douȝter of þe preeſt, if ſhe were takun in hordam, and defouleþ þe name of hir fader, wiþ fier flawmes ſhe ſhall be brent.

x þe bishop, þat is þe mooſt preeſt amone his briþeren, upon whos heed is heelde þe oyle of anoynthyng, and whos hondes in preeſthod ben ſacrid, and is cloþid wiþ holi cloþes, his heed he ſhall not diſcouer, his cloþis he ſhall not kitt, xi and to al deed he ſhall not goo yn algate; and vpon his fader and moder he ſhall not be defoulid, xii ne he ſhall goo out fro þe halowes, leſt þe feyntuarie of þe Lord be polut, for þe oyle of holi anoynthyng of his God is vpon hym; I þe Lord.

xiii A mayden he ſhall take to wif;

xiv a widewe, and a departheid, and a defoulid oon, and a ſtrompat, he ſhall not take, but a maydyn child of his puple;

xv ne menge he þe lynage of his kynde to þe comounte of his puple, for Y a Lord, þat halowe hym.

xvi And þe Lord ſpak to Moyses, ſeiyng, xvii Spek to Aaron, A man of þi ſeed, bi þe meyneſees, þat haþ a wemme, offre he not breed to his God, xviii ne go he to þe ſeruice of hym; if he were blynde; if halt; if oþer wiþ litil, or wiþ greet, and crokid noose; xix if wiþ brokun foot, or hoond;

xx if crokid rigge, or bleer eyed; if whijt perle hauyng in þe eye; if contynuel ſcab; if a drye ſcab in þe body; or broſten.

xxi Eche þat haþ a wemme, of þe ſeed of Aaron þe preeſt, he ſhall not goo to offre ooftis to þe Lord, ne looues to his God;

xxii he ſhall neuerpelater eete looues þat ben offred in þe feyntuarye, xxiii ſo oonli þat wiþ ynne þe veyle he goo not, ne goo to þe auter, for a wemme he haþ, and he ſhall not defoule my feyntuarie; I a Lord þat halewe hem.

xxiv Panne Moyses ſpak to Aaron, and his fones, and to al Yrael, alle þat weren comaundid to hym.

Capitulum XXII.

i And þe Lord ſpak to Moyses, ſeiyng, ii Speke to Aaron, and his fones, þat þei ſhunnen fro þes þingis þat ben ſacrid of þe fones of Yrael, and defoule þei not þe name of halowid þingis to me þat þei offren; Y a Lord.

iii Sey to hem, and to þe aftercomers of hem, Eche man þat goþ to, of ȝoure lynage, to þilk þinges þat ben ſacrid, and þat þe fones of Yrael offreden to þe Lord, in þe whiche is vnclennes, he ſhall perishe before þe Lord; Y am a Lord.

iv þe man of þe ſeed of Aaron þat were leprows, or ſuffryng flux of feed, ſhall not eete of þes þingis þat ben halowid to me, to þe tyme þat he be heelid. He þat towchis þe vnclene vpon þe deed, and of whom goþ out þe feed as of goyng togidere, v and þat ſhall touche crepyng beeſte, and eny vnclene, whos touchyng is hoory, vi ſhall be vnclene vnto þe euen, and he ſhall not eete þes þingis þat ben halowid to me; but whanne he waſhiþ his flesh wiþ water, vii and þe sunne is goon down, þanne, clensid, he shall eete halowid þinges, for it is þe meete of hym.

 viii ƿe fallid to deþ, and taken of a beeſte, he shal not eete, ne he shal be polut in hem; I þe Lord.
 ix þei shulen kepe myn heeftis, þat þei vndur liggen not to synne, and dyen in þe feytuarie, whanne þei poluten it; I þe Lord þat halowe ȝow.
 x Eche alyen shal not eete of þe halowid þinges; þe alien tilier of þe preest, and hyrid feruaunt, shulen not eete of þilk þinges.
 xi Whom forsoþe þe preest biggiþ, and he þat were a free man of his hows, þes shulen eete of þilk þinges.
 xii If þe douȝter of þe preest to eny of þe puple were spousid, of þes þinges þat be halowid, and of þe cheef fruytys she shal not eete;
 xiii if forsoþe a widewe, or departyd, and wiþ outh free children weren turned aȝen to þe hows of hir fader, as a child mayden was wont she shal be norifshid of þe meetis of hir fader; eche alien of etyng of þilk þinges haþ no power.
 xiv He þat etiþ of þe halowid þinges bi ignoraunce, shal adde þe fifþe part wiþ þat he etiþ, and he shal ȝyue to preest in þe feytuarie, xv he þei shulen defoule þe halowid þinges of þe sones of Yrael, þat þei offren to þe Lord, xvi leſt perauenture þei susteynen þe wickidnes of his trespass, whanne halowid þinges þei eeten; I þe Lord þat halowe hem.
 xvii ƿe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, xviii Spek to Aaron, and his sones, and to alle þe sones of Yrael, and þou shalt seie to hem, A man of þe hows of Yrael, and of comlynges þat dwellen anentis hem, þat offriþ his offrynge, oþer vowes ȝeeldynge, or wilfully offrynge, what þing þat he offreþ into brent sacrifice of þe Lord, xix þat it be offrid bi ȝow, a maal wiþ outh wemme it shal be, of þe oxen, and of þe sheep, and of þe geet; xx if it haue a wemme, ȝe shulen not offre, ne shal be acceptable.
 xxi ƿe man þat offreþ flayn sacrifice of pesible þinges to þe Lord, oþer vowes ȝeeldynge, oþer wilfully offrynge, as wel of oxen as of sheep, wiþ outh wemme he shal offre, þat it be acceptable; al wemme shal not be in it.
 xxii If it were blynde, if broken, if hauyng fel wounde, if litil bleynes, or shab, or drye rownd shab, ȝe shulen not offre hem to þe Lord, ne ȝe shulen brenne of hem vpon þe auter of þe Lord.
 xxiii Ox and sheep, wiþ eer and tayl kit, wilfully may be offred; þe vowe forsoþe of þes þinges may not be quyt.
 xxiv Al beeſte, þat ouþer wiþ al tobrokun, or crippid, or kitt and taken awey þe ballokes is, ȝe shulen not offre to þe Lord, and in ȝoure loond þes þinges algatis ȝe shulen not do.
 xxv Of þe hoond of þe alyen ȝe shulen not offre looues to ȝoure God, and what euer oþer þing he wole ȝyue, for alle þei ben corrupt and defoulid; ȝe shulen not take hem.

- xxvi And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, xxvii Oxe, sheep, and geet, whanne þei weren geten, feuen dayes þei shulen be vnder þe teete of her damme; þe eiȝt forsoþe day, and þerafter, þei mowen be offrid to þe Lord, xxviii wheþer shee oxe, oþer shee sheep; þei shulen not be offryd o day wiþ fruytis in her wombe.
 xxix If ȝe offren an ooþ for doyngs of þonkyngis to þe Lord, þat it may be plesable, xxx þe same day þat it is offred ȝe shulen eete it; þere shal not leeue eny þing vnto þe morwe of þat oþer day; I a Lord.
 xxxi Kepe ȝe myn heeftis, and do ȝe hem; Y a Lord.
 xxxii Ne polute ȝe myn holy name, þat Y be halowid in þe myddel of þe sones of Yrael; Y þe Lord þat halowe ȝow, xxxiii and haue ladde ȝow out of þe loond of Egypce, þat Y were to ȝow into God; I þe Lord.

Capitulum XXIII.

- i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, ii Speke to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, þes ben þe cesyng dayes of þe Lord, þe whiche ȝe shulen clepe holi.
 iii Sixe daies ȝe shulen do werk, þe feuenþe day, for it is þe reſte of þe weke, it shal be clepid holi; al werk ȝe shulen not do in it; þe day of þe Lord it is in alle ȝoure dwellynges.
 iv þes ben þe holy cesyng daies of þe Lord, þe whiche ȝe shulen halowe in ȝoure tymes.
 v ƿe first moneþ, þe fourtenþe day of þe moneþ, at euen, is þe pask of þe Lord;
 vi and þe fifteenþe day of þis moneþ is þe solempnyte of þe þerf louoes of þe Lord; feuen dayes ȝe shulen eete þerf louoes;
 vii þe fyfþ day shal be to ȝow moost solempne and holy; al seruyle werk ȝe shulen not do in it, viii but ȝe shulen offre sacrifice in fier to þe Lord feuen dais; þe feuenþe forsoþ dai shal be more solempne and holier, and no seruyle werk ȝe shulen do in it.
 ix And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiyng, x Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, Whanne ȝe weren goo into þe loond þat I shal ȝyue to ȝow, and han ropun þe tilþe, ȝe shulen bere hondfullis of eeris, þe first fruytis of ȝoure repyng, to þe preest;
 xi þe which shal rere vp þe litil birþen before þe Lord, þat it be acceptable for ȝow, þat oþir day of þe weke; and he shal halowe it;
 xii and in þe same day þat þe hondful is sacryd, shal be flayn a lomb wiþ outh wemme of o zeer into brent sacrifice of þe Lord;
 xiii and þe offryngis of þe licours shal be offred wiþ it, two dymes of tryed flour spreynit wiþ oyle, into þe xiii Breed, and brokun corn, and potage ȝe shulen not ete of þe corn, vnto þe day þat ȝe offren of it to ȝoure God; euerlastyng heest it is in ȝoure generaciouns, and in ȝoure dwellynge places.

xv ȝe shulen noumbre banne fro þat oþer day of þe weke, in þe which ȝe han offred þe hoondful of first fruytis, seuen wekis fulle, xvi vnto þat oþir day of fulfillynge of þe seuenþ weke, þat is, fifti daies; and so ȝe shulen offre a newe sacrifice to þe Lord xvii of alle ȝoure dwellynge places, two looues of þe first fruytes, of þe two dymes of tried flour, soured, þe which ȝe shal baake into þe first fruytis to þe Lord.

xviii And ȝe shal offre wiþ þe looues seuen loombes vnwemmed of oþer, and a calf of þe droue, and two wepers, and þei shulen be in brent sacrifice, wiþ her offryngis of licours, into þe moost swete smel to þe Lord.

xix And ȝe shulen do a geit for synne, and two lombes of oþer, þe ooft of pesible þingis.

xx And whanne þe preest arereþ hem, wiþ þe looues of þe fyrst fruytes, before þe Lord, þei shulen falle into þe vse of hym.

xxi And ȝe shulen clepe þis day moost solempne, and moost holy; al seruyle werk ȝe shulen not do in it; lawful euerlastyng it shal be in alle dwellynge places, and ȝoure generaciouns.

xxii And afterward, whanne ȝe repen þe tilþe of ȝoure loond, ȝe shulen not kitt it vnto þe ground, ne þe leeuyng eeris ȝe shulen gadere, but to pore men and pilgrymes ȝe shulen leeue hem; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.

xxiii And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xxiv Spek to þe sones of Yrael, þe seuenþ moneþ, þe first day of þe moneþ, shal be to ȝow an holi day memoryale, wiþ sownyng trompes, and it shal be clepyd holy;

xxv alle seruyle werkes ȝe shulen not do in it, and ȝe shulen offre brent sacrifice to þe Lord.

xxvi And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xxvii Be tenþ dai of þis seuenþ moneþ, a day of purgyng shal be moost solempne, and it shal be clepid holy; ȝe shulen trauayl ȝoure soules to God, and ȝe shulen offre brent sacrifice to þe Lord;

xxviii al werk ȝe shulen not doo in tyme of þis day, for a day of hauyng mercy it is, þat þe Lord ȝoure God haue mercy to ȝow.

xxix Al soule þat were not trauelid þis day, shal perysþ fro his puple, xxx and he þat doþ eny þing of werk, Y shal do hym a wey fro his puple;

xxxi no þing þerfore of werk ȝe shal do in it; lawful euerlastyng shal be to ȝow in alle generaciouns and ȝoure dwellyngis;

xxxii þe dai of restyng it is. ȝe shulen trauayl ȝoure soules þe nynþe day of þe moneþ; fro euen to euen ȝe shulen halowe ȝoure holi dayes.

xxxiii And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xxxiv Spek to þe sones of Yrael, Fro þe fiftenþ day of þis seuenþ moneþ shulen be þe cesyng dayes of þe tabernacles, in feuen dayes to þe Lord;

xxxv þe first day shal be clepid moost solempne and moost holy, alle seruyle werkes ȝe shulen not do in it;

xxxvi and seuen dayes ȝe shulen offre brent sacrifices to þe Lord, þe eiȝt forsoþe day shal be moost solempne and moost holy; and ȝe shulen offre brent sacrifice to þe Lord, it is forsoþe of compayne, and of quelet; al seruyle werk ȝe shulen not doon in it.

xxxvii þes ben þe cesyng dayes of þe Lord, þe whiche ȝe shulen clepe moost solempne and moost holy; and ȝe shulen offre in hem offryngis to þe Lord, brent sacrifices, and sacrifices of licours, after þe ryte of euery day, xxxviii out take þe holy dayes of þe Lord, and ȝoure ȝiftis, and þe whiche ȝe shulen offre of a vowe, opere þe whiche 'wilfullich' ȝe han ȝeuon to þe Lord.

xxxix Panne fro þe fiftenþ day of þe seuenþ moneþ, whanne ȝe shulen gadere to gidere alle þe fruytis of ȝoure erþe, ȝe shulen halowe þe cesyng day of þe Lord seuen dayes; in þe first day and þe eiȝt day shal be holy day, þat is, rest.

xl And ȝe shulen take to ȝow þe first day fruytis of þe moost fayr tree, and þe braunches of palmes, and braunches of a tree of þykke burionyngis, and wiþies of þe rennyng water, and ȝe shulen glaad before þe Lord ȝoure God;

xli and ȝe shulen halowe þe solempne of hym seuen dayes, bi þe ȝeer; lawful euerlastyng it shal be in ȝoure generaciouns. þe seuenþ moneþ ȝe shulen halowe þe feeste daies, xlii and ȝe shulen dwelle seuen dayes in shadewe places; ech þat is of þe lynage of Yrael, shal dwelle in tabernaclis, xliii þat ȝoure aftercomers leernen, þat in tabernaclis Y haue made to dwelle þe sones of Yrael, whanne Y ladde hem out of þe loond of Egipte; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.

xlv And Moyses spak vpon þe solempnytees of þe Lord to þe sones of Yrael.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng,

ii Comaund to þe sones of Yrael, þat þei bryngen to þee oyle of olyues, moost pure, and bryȝt, to þe lanternes to ben tende contynueli wiþ oute þe veyle of witnessyng, iii in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees; and Aaron shal sette hem fro euen vnto morwen before þe Lord, þurȝ heriyinge and ryte perpetuel in ȝoure generaciouns;

iiiii vpon þe moost clene candilstik þei shulen be sett euermore in þe siȝt of þe Lord.
 v Pow shalt take forsoþe tried floure, and þow shalt baak of it twelue looues, þe whiche echon shal haue two dymes,
 vi of whom þou shalt sette syx anentis oþer six, vpon þe moost clene bord before þe Lord;
 vii and þow shalt putt on hem ensence moost briȝt, þat þe breed be into mynde of þe offrynge of þe Lord; viii bi eche holi day þei shulen be chaungid before þe Lord, takne of þe fones of Yrael þurȝ euerlastynge boond of pees;
 ix and þei shulen be of Aaron and his fones, þat þei eten hem in holy place, for holy of halowes it is, of þe sacrifices of þe Lord, þurȝ perpetuel riȝt.
 x Loo! forsoþe a fone goon out of a womman of Yrael, þat beer of an Egipcyen man, amoneg þe fones of Yrael, haþ streuen in tentis wiþ a man of Yrael, xi and whanne he hadde blasfemyd þe name of þe Lord, and hadde cursid to hym, is brouȝt forþe to Moyses; and þe moder of hym was clepid Salumyth, þe douȝter of Dabry, of þe lynage of Dan;
 xii and þei puttiden hym in to prisoun, to þe tyme þat þei knewen what þe Lord comaundide.
 xiii þe which spak to Moyses, seiyng, xiv Leed þow out þe blasfeme out of þe tentis, and putt alle þat herden her hoonden vpon his heed, and al þe puple stonye hym.
 xv And to þe fones of Yrael þou shalt speke, Pe man þat cursiþ to his God, shal bere his synne, xvi and he þat blasfemeþ þe name of þe Lord, þurȝ deþ die he; al þe multitude of þe puple wiþ stonus shal browe hym down; wheþer he were cyteseyn or pilgrym þat blasfemeþ þe name of þe Lord, þurȝ deþ dye he.
 xvii He þat smytiþ and fleeþ a man, þurȝ deþ die he;
 xviii he þat smytiþ a beest, ȝeeld he anoþer of þe same kynde, þat is, liȝt for liȝt.
 xix He þat wrongfuli ȝyueþ a wemme to eny of his cyteseyns, as he haþ doon, so be it do to hym; xx brusur for brusur, eye for eye, tooþ for tooþ he shal ȝeilde; what maner of wemme he wrongfuli ȝyueþ, flichon be he conftreyned to suffre.
 xxi He þat smytiþ a beest, ȝeeld he anoþer; he þat smytiþ a man, be he punyshid.
 xxii Euen doom be þere among ȝow, wheþer pilgrime or cyteseyn synne, for I am þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xxiii And Moyses spak to þe fones of Yrael, and þei brouȝten hym forþe þat blasphemede out of þe tentis, and þei beren hym down wiþ stonus. And þe fones of Yrael diden, as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses.

Capitulum XXV.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses in þe mownt of Synay, seiyng,

ii Spek to þe fones of Yrael, and þow shalt seye to hem, Whanne ȝe weren in goon into þe loond þat I shal ȝyue to ȝow, 'halowe ȝe þe holiday of þe Lord; iii ȝix ȝeer þow shalt sowe þi feelde, and fix ȝeer þou shalt kytte þi vyn, and geder þe fruytis of it; iv þe feuenþe forsoþe ȝeer of þe loond shal be þe saboth of þe restyng of þe Lord; feelde þow shalt not sowe, and vyn þow shalt not kitte, v þingis þat þe erþe freely bryngiþ forþ þow shalt not reeve, and grapes of þi first fruytis and vyndage þou shalt not gedere; þe ȝeer forsoþe it is of þe restyng of þe loond;
 vi but þei shulen be to ȝow into meet, to þee, and to þi seruauntis, to þin handmayde, and to þin hyryd man, and to þe comlyng þat pilgrimagiþ anentis þee;
 vii to hous beefis and þi feelde beefes, alle þingis þat growen shulen ȝyue meeete.
 viii And þow shalt noumbre to þee feuen wekes of ȝeerys, þat is, feuen siþes feuen, þe whiche togidere maken nyn and fourty ȝeer;
 ix and þow shalt sowne wiþ trompe þe feuenþe moneþ, þe tenþe day of þe moneþ, in þe tyme of doyng mercy, in al ȝoure loond.
 x And þow shalt halowe þe fyftiþ ȝeer, and clepe it forȝifnesse to alle þe dwellers of þi loond; he is forsoþe þe iubilee; a man shal turne aȝen to his possessioun, and eche shal turne aȝen to his before hadde meyne, xi for þe iubilee it is, and þe fyfteþe ȝeer. ȝe shulen not sowe, ne reeve þe free growynge þingis in þe feelde, and þe first fruytis of þe vyndage ȝe shulen not gedere, xii for þe halowynge of þe iubile; but anone offryd ȝe shulen eete;
 xiii þe ȝeer of iubilee alle goo þei aȝen to her possessiouns.
 xiv Whanne þow shalt selle eny þing to þi cyteseyn, oþer bigge of hym, ne peire þow þi broþir, xv but aftir þe noumbre of þe ȝeiris of iubilee þow shalt bigge of hym, and after þe noumbre of fruytis he shal selle to þee.
 xvi As myche as mo ȝeiris dwellen after þe iubilee, so myche and þe prijs shal creese, and as myche as lasse of tyme þow shalt nowmbre, so myche lasse and þe biggyng shal coste; þe tyme forsoþe of fruytis he shal selle to þee.
 xvii Nyle ȝe wrongfully trauayl ȝoure men of o lynage, but echon drede his God; for Y þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xviii Do ȝe myn heefis and domes, kepiþ and fulfille ȝe hem, þat ȝe mowen dwelle in þe loond wiþ outen eny drede, xix and þe erþe bryngiþ forþ to ȝow his fruytis, þe whiche ȝe eten vnto fulfyllynge, dredyng þe feernes of no man.
 xx And if ȝe feyn, what shulen we eete þe feuenþe ȝeer, if we sownen not, ne gadren oure fruytis?
 xxi Y shal ȝyue my bleffynge to ȝou þe fixte ȝeer, and it shal make þe fruytis of þree ȝeer;

xxii and ȝe shulen sowe þe eiȝþe ȝeer, and ȝe shulen eete oolde fruytes vnto þe nynþe ȝeer; to þe tyme þat newe be growen ȝe shulen eete oolde.

xxiii ȝe loond forsoþe shal not be sold 'in to wiþ outer ende, for myn it is, and ȝe comlingis and myn erþe tyliers ben;

xxiv wherfor al þe regioune of ȝoure possessioun vndur condicioun of aȝenbiggyng shal be sold.

xxv If þi broþer maad pore, selle his ltitl possessioun, and he wole, þe nyȝ kyn of hym may aȝenbigge þat þat he sold;

xxvi if forsoþe he haue noon neiȝbore, and he mowe fynde þe prýse to aȝenbigge, xxvii þe fruytis shulen be countid fro þat tyme þat he sold, and þat þat is laft ȝeelde he to þe bigger, and so he shal resseyue his possessioun.

xxviii And if his hoond fynde not, þat he ȝeelde þe prijs, þe bigger shal haue þat he bouȝte, vnto þe iubilee ȝeer; in þat forsoþe ȝeer al biggyng shal turne aȝen to þe lord, and to þe raþer hauer.

xxix Who sellip his hows, wiþ ynne þe walles of þe cytee, he shal haue leue of biggyng aȝen to þe tyme þat o ȝeer be fulfillid;

xxx and if he bigge not aȝen, and þe cercle of þe ȝeer were ouer caste, þe bigger shal welde it, and his aftercomers into wiþ outer ende, and it may not be bouȝt aȝen, also in þe iubilee.

xxxi If forsoþe in a town þat haþ no wallis were þe hows, þurȝ riȝt of þe feeldes it shal be sold; if forsoþe it were not aȝenbouȝt in þe iubilee, it shal turne aȝen to his lord.

xxxii ȝe hows of þe Leuytes, þat ben in þe cytees, euermore mowen be aȝenbouȝt;

xxxiii if þei weren not aȝenbouȝt, in þe iubilee þei shulen turne aȝen to þe lordes; for þe houſes of cytees of Leuytes ben for þe possessiouns among þe fones of Yrael;

xxxiv þe suburbs forsoþe of hem þei shulen not selle, for euerlastynge possessioun it is.

xxxv If þi broþer were maad pore, and feble in hoond, and þow resseyuest hym as a comlyng and a pilgrym, and lyueþ wiþ þee, xxxvi ne take þow of hym vsurys, ne more ouer þan þow hast ȝouun; dred þi God, þat þi broþer mowe lyue anentis þee.

xxxvii ȝi money þow shalt not ȝyue to him to vsure, and of þe fruytes ouer abounding þou shal not axe; xxxviii Y þe Lord ȝour God, þat haue ladde ȝou out of þe lond of Egyp̄e, þat I ȝyue ȝow þe loond of Chanaan, and þat Y were ȝoure God.

xxxix If þurȝ porenesse compellid, þi broþer selle hym filf to þee, þow shalt not oppresse hym þurȝ þraldom of feruauntis, x but as an hiryd man and a dweller he shal be; vnto þe iubilee ȝeer he shal worche anentis þee, xi and afterward he shal goo out wiþ his free children, and turne aȝen to þe kyn, and to þe possessioun of his fadres.

xii Forsoþe þei ben my feruauntis, and Y haue ladde hem out of þe loond of Egyp̄e; þei shulen not be sold bi condicouns of þralles;

xiii ne ouer traueyle þou him bi þi power, but drede bowþ bi Lord.

xiv þral and boond womman ben to ȝow of þe naciouns þat ben in ȝoure enuyroun, xv and of þe comlynges þat pilgrimagen anentis ȝow, ober þat of hem weren bore in ȝoure loond; þes ȝe shulen haue feruauntis, xvi and þurȝ riȝt of erytage ȝe shulen ouerleeuen hem to þe after comers, and ȝe shulen welde hem wiþ outer ende; ȝoure forsoþe briþeren, þe fones of Yrael, ȝe shulen not oppresse bi power.

xvii If anentis ȝow þe hoond of þe comlyng and of þe pilgrym wax greet, and þi broþer bicome pore, selle him filf to hym, or to eny of þe lynage of hym, xviii after þe selling he may be aȝenbouȝt; who so wole of his briþeren, bigge he hym; xix and þe fadres broþer, and þe fader broþer fone, and þe cosyn, and þe alye. If forsoþe and he mowe, aȝenbie he hym filf, xxi noumbred oonli þe ȝeiris fro þe tyme of his fillyng vnto þe iubilee ȝeer; and þe money wiþ þe which he was foold, after þe noumber of ȝeiris, and þurȝ resoun of an hirid man reckened.

xxii If þere were many ȝeiris þat leeuen vnto þe iubilee, and after þat he shal ȝeelde þe prijs;

xxiii if fewe, he shal leye resoun wiþ hym after þe noumber of ȝeeres; and he shal ȝeelde to þe bigger þat þat is laft of þe ȝeiris, xxiv in þe whiche before he seruede, þe medis wiþ ynne reckenyd; he shal not traueil hym violentlich in þi siȝt.

xxv And if bi þat he may not be aȝeynbouȝt, þe iubilee ȝeer he shall goon out wiþ his free children;

xxvi myn forsoþe feruauntis ben þe fones of Yrael, þe whiche Y haue ladde out of þe loond of Egyp̄e; I þe Lord ȝoure God.

Capitulum XXVI.

i ȝe shulen not make to ȝou a mawmett, and grauen þing, ne titlis ȝe shulen rere, ne huge stoon ȝe shulen putte in ȝoure erþe, þat ȝe honouren it; Y forsoþe am þe Lord ȝoure God.

ii Kepe ȝe myn halidaies, and inwardli drede ȝe at my seyntuarye; Y a Lord.

iii If ȝe goon in myn heestis, and my maundementis kepen, and doon hem, iv Y hal ȝyue to ȝow reynes in her tymes, and þe loond þhal brynge forþ his burionyng, and wiþ apples þe trees shulen be fulfillid;

v and þe þrefhyng of repyn tilþes shal atake þe vyndage, and þe vyndage shal occupie þe sowyng tyme, and ȝe shulen ete ȝoure breed in plente 'in fulnes, and wiþ outen drede ȝe shulen dwelle in ȝoure loond.

vi I shal ȝyue pees in ȝoure coostis; ȝe shulen sleepe, and þere shal not be þat shal afeere ȝou; I shal take aweie yuel beestis, and swerd shal not þurȝ passe ȝoure termes.

vii ȝe shulen pursue ȝoure enemys, and þei shulen falle before ȝow;

viii fyue of ȝow shal pursue an hundryd aliens, and an hundred of ȝow ten þousyndes; ȝoure enemys shulen falle wiþ swerd in ȝoure siȝt.

ix Y shal beholde ȝow, and make growe; ȝe shulen ben multiplied, and I shal fastne my couenaunt wiþ ȝow;
x ȝe shulen ete þe moost oold þingis of oold, and þe newe vpon comynge, þe oold ȝe shulen cast awye;
xi and I shal sette my tabernacle in þe myddil of ȝow, and my soule shal not cast ȝow aweie;

xii I shal goo among ȝow, and I shal be ȝoure God, and ȝe shulen be to me a puple.

xiii I þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haue ladde ȝow out of þe loond of Egipcyens, þat ȝe seruen not to hem, and þe whiche haue brokun þe chaynes of ȝoure nolles, þat ȝe myȝten goo vp ryȝt.

xiv But if ȝe heren me not, ne doon alle myn heefis, xv and if ȝe spurne my lawes, and my domes despisen, þat ȝe doon hem þe whiche ben ordeyned of me, and my couenant ȝe fulli bryngen to nouȝt, xvi I þanne þis þing shal do to ȝow; Y shal vifte ȝow swiftly in nedynes, and in brennyng, þat make fayl ȝoure eyen, and wafte ȝoure lyues; in veyn ȝe shulen sowe ȝour feed, þat of þe enemys shal be deuowryd;

xvii I shal putte my face aȝens ȝow, and ȝe shulen falle before ȝoure enemys, and ȝe shulen be suget to hem þat hatiden ȝow; ȝe shulen flee, no man purfuyng.

xviii If forsoþe and so ȝe obeilhen not to me, I shal adde ȝoure correccions feuen foold for ȝoure synnes;

xix and I shal altobreke þe prijd of ȝoure hardnes, and I shal ȝyue heuene to ȝow aboue as of yrunc, and þe erþe brafun;

xx ȝoure traueyl in veyn shal be wastyd, ne þe erþe shal brynge forþ burionyg, ne þe trees shulen ȝyue apples. xxi And if ȝe goon ouerþwart to me, ne wolen here me, I shal adde ȝoure viauances vnto þe feuenþ foold for ȝoure synnes;

xxii and I shal sende out to ȝow beestis of þe feeld, þat waften and ȝow and ȝoure beestis, and to skarfnes alle þinges þei shulen bryng, and þat ȝoure weies be maad desert.

xxiii And if ȝe wolen not resseyue disciplyne, but goon ouerþwart to me, xxiv I forsoþe contrarius aȝens ȝow shal goo, and I shal smyte ȝow feuen siȝpes for ȝoure synnes;

xxv and I shal brynge vpon ȝow a swerd, vengesoure of my boond of pees; and whanne ȝe flee into ȝoure cytees, I shal sende pestilence into þe myddil of ȝou, and ȝe shulen be take in þe hoondes of ȝoure enemys, xxvi after þat I breke þe staf of ȝoure breed, so þat ten wymmen in oon ouen baken looues, and ȝelden hem at weiȝt; and ȝe shulen eete, and not be fulfillid.

xxvii If forsoþe and bi þes þinges ȝe heren not me, but goon aȝens me, xxviii and I shal go aȝens ȝow in contrarye woodnes, and I shal vndernym ȝow wiþ feuen viauance for ȝoure synnes, xxix so þat ȝe eten þe flesh of ȝoure sones, and of ȝoure douȝtres;

xxx and I shal destruye ȝoure heyz þinges, and ȝoure mawmetis Y shal breke; ȝe shulen falle amoneg þe fallynges of ȝoure mawmetis, and my soule shal wlaate ȝow, xxxi in so myche þat ȝoure cytees Y shal brynge down in to wildernes, and þe desertis I shal make ȝoure feytuaries, ne more ouer Y shal resseyue þe moost fwete smel;

xxxii and I shal scater ȝoure loond, and ȝoure enemys, whanne þei weren dwellers of it, shulen wondre vpon it;

xxxiii ȝow forsoþe Y shal scatre amoneg gentiles and I shal drawe out a swerd after ȝow, and ȝoure loond shal be desert, and ȝoure cytees fallen down.

xxxiv Panne her holi dayes shulen pleese to þe erþe, alle þe daies of her wildernes; whanne ȝe weren in enemys loond, it shal halowe, xxxv and rest in þe feuenþ tymes of his wildernes, forþi þat it restide not in ȝoure feuenþ tymes, whanne ȝe dwelten in it.

xxxvi And whiche of ȝow leeuen, Y shal ȝyue drede in þe hertes of hem, in regiouns of þe enemys; þe foun of a fleyng leef shal fere hem, and so þei shulen flee it as þe swerd; þei shulen falle, no man purfuyng, xxxvii and eche vpon his briþeren shal falle togidere, as men fleyng batailes; no man of ȝow shal be hardi to wiþstoonde to enemys;

xxxviii ȝe shulen perishe amoneg þe gentiles, and þe enemys loond shal wafte ȝow.

xxxix But and if of hem eny leeuen stille, þei shulen wax stynkyng in her wickidnes, in þe loond of her enemys, and for þe synne of her fadres and her owne þei shulen be turmentid, xli to þe tyme þat þei knowlechen her wickidnesses, and of her yuels þei recorden, in þe whiche þei han trespassid aȝens me, and han goo ouerþwert to me.

xlii Perfor Y shal goo aȝens hem, and I shal lede hem into þe enemys loond, to þe tyme þat þe vncircumcidid þouȝt of hem wax alhamed; þan þei shulen preie for her vnpytownesse, xlvi and I shal recorde of my boond of pees, þat I haue couenauntide wiþ Jacob, Ysaac, and Abraham; of þe loond forsoþe I shal haue mynde, xlvii þat whanne it were forsakun of hem, it shal pleese to hym silf in his feuenþe tymes, suffryng wildernesſes for hem; þei forsoþe shulen preye for her synnes, forþi þat þei han cast aweie my domes, and my lawes despiseden;

 xlviii and neuerþeles also whanne þei weren in þe enemyes loond, Y keste hem not aweie fulli, ne so Y despiside, þat þei weren consumed, and þat I shulde make my couenaunt brouȝt to nouȝt wiþ hem; Y forsoþe am þe Lord God of hem.
 xlvi And I shal recorde of my rāþer boond of pees, whanne I ladde hem out of þe loond of Egipte, in þe siȝt of gentils, þat I were þe God of hem; Y þe Lord God.
 xlvi ȿes ben þe heeftis, and domes, and lawes, þat þe Lord ȝaf bitwix hym and betwix þe fones of Yrael, in þe mownt of Synay, bi þe hoond of Moyses.

Capitulum XXVII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, feiynge, ii Spek to þe fones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, þe man þat doþ avowe, and bihotiþ to God hijs soule, vndir eymyng he shal ȝyue þe prijs.
 iii And if it were a maal, fro þe twentipe ȝeer vnto þe sixtiþe ȝeer, he shal ȝyue fifty ficles of siluer, at þe mesure of þe seytuarye, iv if a womman, þritti;
 v fro þe fifþe forsoþe ȝeer vnto þe twentipe, a maal shal ȝyue twenti cycles, þe womman ten; vi fro o moneþ vnto þe fifþe ȝeer, for þe maal shal be ȝyue fyue cyclis, and for þe femaal þree; vii of sixti wynter and more, a maal shal ȝyue fiftene ficles, þe womman ten.
 viii If he were a pore man, and at þe eymyng he shal not mowe ȝeelde, he shal stoonde before þe preeſt, and how myche he eymed, and seeþ þat he may ȝeelde, fo myche he shal ȝyue.
 ix A beeſte forsoþe þat may be offred to þe Lord, if eny auowiþ, holi it shal be, x and it may not be chaungid, þat is, noþer betere for yuel, ne þe wors for good; but if he shal chaunge, and þat þat is chaungid and it for þe which it is chaungid shal be sacryd to þe Lord.
 xi ȿe vnclene forsoþe beeſte þat may not be offred to flauȝtre, whoſo auowiþ, it shal be brouȝt before þe preeſt,
 xii þe which demyng wheether it be good or yuel, shal sette þe prijs;
 xiii and if he þat offreþ wole not ȝyue, he shal adde aboue þe eymyng þe fifþe part.
 xiv A man if he auowe his hows, and halowe it to þe Lord, þe preeſt shal behoolde, wheether it be good or yuel, and after þe prijs, þat of hym were ordeyned, it shal be foold;

 xv if forsoþe he þat auowiþ wole bigge it aȝen, he shal ȝyue þe fifþe part of þe eymyng aboue, and he shal haue þe hows.
 xvi And if þe feelde of his possessioun he auowe, and halowe to þe Lord, after þe mesure of þe feed shal be eymed þe prijs; if wiþ þritti bushels of barley þe feelde is sowun, for fifti ficles of siluer it shal be foold.
 xvii And if anoon fro þe ȝeer of þe biginnynge iubilee he auowe þe feeld, as myche as it may be worþ, so myche shal be eymed;
 xviii if forsoþe a litil of tyme, þe preeſt shal noumbr þe money after þe noumbr of ȝeeres þat ben laft vnto þe iubilee, and it shal be drawe aweie fro þe prijs.
 xix And if he þat auowide wole bigge þe feeld aȝen, he shal adde þe fifþe part of þe eymed money, and he shal weelde it;
 xx if forsoþe he wole not aȝenbigge, but to eny oþer were fold ouer hym þat auowede, he may not aȝenbigge;
 xxi for whanne þe day of þe iubilee comeþ, it shal be halowid to þe Lord, and þe possessioun sacrid perteyneþ to þe ryȝt of preeſtis.
 xxii If a feelde is bouȝt, and not of þe possessioun of þe more men, were halowid to þe Lord, xxiii þe preeſt shal noumbr þe prijs, after þe noumbr of ȝeeres vnto þe iubilee, and he shal ȝyue, þe which auowide it to þe Lord;
 xxiv in þe iubilee forsoþe it shal turne aȝen to þe rāþer lord þat folde it, and hadde into þe loort of his possessioun.
 xxv Al eymyng shal be peyſid wiþ þe cycle of þe seytuarye; þe ficle haþ twenty halpens.
 xxvi ȿe first getun þat perteyneþ to þe Lord no man may halowe and vowe, wheþer oxe or sheep it were, of þe Lord þei ben.
 xxvii And if þe beeſte is vnclene, he þat offreþ shal aȝenbigge aftir his eymyng, and shall adde þe fifþe part of þe prijs; if he wole not aȝenbigge, it shal be foold to anoþer, how myche euer it were eymed.
 xxviii Al þat to þe Lord is sacrid, wheþer it were man, or beeſte, or feelde, it shal not be foold, ne may be aȝenbouȝt; what euer þing ones were sacrid, holi of halowes it shal be to þe Lord, xxix and eche sacrid þing þat is offryd of man, shal not be bouȝt aȝen, but þurȝ deep die. xxx Alle þe dymes of þe erþe, wheþer of þe cornes, or of þe apples of trees, ben of þe Lord, and to hym þei ben halowid;
 xxxi if eny man wole bigge aȝen his dymes, adde he þe fifþe part of hem;
 xxxii of alle þe dymes of sheep, or of oxe, and of geyte, þat vndur þe ȝeerde of þe sheeþer goon, what euer dyme come, it shal be halowid to þe Lord;

xxxiii it shal not be chosen, noþir good noþer yuel, ne for anoþer chaungid; if eny man chaunge, and þat, þat is chaungid, and þat, for what it is chaungid, shal be halowid to þe Lord, and shal not be aȝenbouȝt.

xxxiv ȝes ben þe heefis þat þe Lord comaundide to Moyses, and to þe sones of Yrael, in þe mownt of Synay.

Capitulum V.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, ii Comaund to þe sones of Yrael, þat þei casten out of þe tentes alle leprows, and þat flowiþ feed, and is polut vpon þe deed;
 iii as wel þe maal as þe femaal casteþ out of þe tentis, left þei defoulenn hem, whanne þei dwellen wiþ ȝow.
 ivi And þe sones of Yrael dyden so, and þei casteden hem out of þe tentes, as þe Lord hadde spokun to Moyses.
 v And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiynge, vi Spek to þe sones of Israel, A man or womman, whanne þei doon of alle þe synnes þat ben wont to falle to men, and bi negligence ouer passid þe maundement of þe Lord, and trespassen, vii þei shulen knowleche her synne, and þei shulen ȝeelde þat heed, and þe fiffþe part þere aboue, to hym in whom þei synneden.
 viii If forsoþe þere weren not þat shulde resseyue, þei shulen ȝyue to þe Lord, and it shal be of þe preeft, out take þe weþer þat is offryd for þe purgyng, þat þe oost be plesable.
 ix Alle forsoþe þe first fruytis þat offren þe sones of Yrael, to þe preeft perteynen; x and what þing in þe seyntuarye is offred of eche, and is takun to þe hondes of þe preeft, shal be of hym.
 xi And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seyyng, xii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seye to hem, A man, whos wif erreþ, and, þe housbonde despifyng,
 xiii flepe wiþ anoþer man, and þat þe housbonde may not knowe of, but þe auowtrye is hidde, and wiþ witnes may not be vndurnom, for she is not foundun in þe hordom;
 xiv if þe spiryt of geloufnis stire þe man aȝens his wif, þe which ouþer is polut, or wiþ fals suspeciouin is coueidid,

xv he shal lede hire to þe preest, and he shal offre for hir an offrynge, þe tenþe part of a busshel of barley melowe; and he shal not heelde vpon it oyle, ne putte ensence, for þe sacrifice of gelouste it is, and offrynge enserchyng auowtrye.
 xvi Perfor þe preest shal offre it, and sette before þe
 Lord;
 xvii and he shal take þe holy watre in a britil vessel, and a litol of þe erþe of þe pament of þe tabernacle he shall putt into it.
 xviii And whanne þe womman stondiþ in þe siȝt of þe Lord, she shal discouere her heed, and putt vpon hir hondis þe sacrifice of recordynge, and offryng of gelowste. He forsoþe shal holde þe most bittir watrie, in þe whiche wiþ cursid cursyng he cast togidir.
 xix And he shal swere to her, and seie, If anoþer man haþ not slept wiþ þee, and if þow art not polut, forsaked þe bedde of þe housboond, þes moost bittr watrie shulen not anoye þee, into þe whiche cursid þinges I haue gederyd to gydere; xx if forsoþe þow haſt bowide a weie fro þin housboond, and art polut, and haſt leyn wiþ anoþir man,
 xxi to þes cursingis þow shalt vndurligge; þe Lord ȝyue þee into cursyng, and ensaumple of alle in his puple; mak he þin hippe to stynke, and þi swellynge wombe be al to broftun;
 xxii goon in þee cursyd watrie into þi wombe, and swellynge þi wombe stynke þin hippe. And þe womman shal answere, Amen! amen!
 xxiii And þe preest shal wryte in a libel þes cursid þinges, and he shal do hem out wiþ þe moost bittir watrie, xxiv into þe whiche cursid þinges he dide togidris, and he shal ȝyue hir to drynke. Þe which whanne she haþ dronkun vp,
 xxv þe preest shal take of hir hoond þe sacrifice of gelowste, and he shal arere it vp before þe Lord, and he shal putte vpon þe auter; xxvi so oonli, þat before he take an hondful of sacrifice of it þat is offerd, and tynde vpon þe auter, and so ȝyue drynke to þe womman þe moost bitter watrie.
 xxvii þe whiche whanne she drinkiþ, if she is polut, and, despisid þe man, she is gilti of auowtrie, þe watries of cursyng shulen passe þurȝ hir, and þe womb blow wiþ ynne, þe hippe shal stynke, and þe womman shal be into cursyng, and into ensaumple to al þe puple.
 xxviii And if she were not polut, she shal be harmles, and make free children.
 xxix Þis is þe lawe of gelowfnes, if þe womman bowe doun fro hir man, and were polut, xxx and þe housboond, þurȝ spiryt of gelowfnes stired, bryngiþ hir in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and þe preest do to hir after alle þinges þat ben writun, xxxi þe housboond shal be wiþ outen blame, and she shal refseyue hir wickidnes.

Capitulum VI.

- i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng,

- v Al þe tyme of his feuerynge a rasour shal not passe vpon his heed, vnto þe fulfillid day in þe which he is sacred to þe Lord; he shal be holy, growyng þe heer of his heed.
- vi Alle tyme of his facryng he shal not goo yn vpon þe deed,
- vii ne vpon faders forsoþe, and moders, and breþeren, and sistren careyn he shal be defoulid, for þe facryng of his God is vpon his heed;
- viii eche day of his feuerynge shal be holy to þe Lord.
- ix If forsoþe eny man were fodeynlich deed before hym, þe heed of his consecracioun shal be polut, þe which anoon he shal shau in þe same day of his purgacioun, and eftstones þe feuenþe day;
- x in þe eiȝtiþ forsoþe day he shal offre two turturs, or two culuer briddes, to þe preest, in þe entre of þe boond of pees of witnessyng.
- xi And þe preest shal do oon for þe synne, and anoþir in to brent sacrifice; and he shal preye for hym, for he haþ synned vpon þe deed, and he shal halowe þe heed of hym in þat day.
- xii And he shal sacre to þe Lord þe daies of his feuerynge, offryng a lombe of o ȝeare for þe synne, so neuuerþelater þat þe raper daies ben maad as for noȝt, for polut is þe halowyng of hym.
- xiii Þis is þe lawe of consecracioun. Whanne þe daies twenty, weþers ſexti, geet ſexti, loombes of o ȝeere ſexti.

 þes þinges ben offrid in þe dedicacioun of þe auter, whanne it is annoynt.

Ixxxix And whanne Moyſes went into þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, þat he conſeile þe anſwer of God, he herde a voyce of ſpekyngē to hym fro þe propiciatorye, þat was vpon þe arke of witneſſyngē, bitwix þe two cherubyn, and fro whens he ſpak to hym.

Capitulum VIII.

i And þe Lord ſpak to Moyſes, ſeyngē, ii Spek to Aaron, and þow ſhalt ſeie to hym, Whanne þow ſettift þe ſeuuen lanterns, þe candelftyke be arered in þe ſowþ part; þis þanne comaund, þat þe lanterns aȝen þe norþ `forn aȝens biholden to be table of þe looues of propoficioun, aȝens þat part þat þe candelftik biholdip, þei owen to liȝten.
iii And Aaron dyde, and putte yn lanterns vpon þe candelftyk, as þe Lord comaundide to Moyſes.
iv þis forſoþe was þe makynge of þe candelftik; of betun out golde, as wel þe myddil ftok as al þe þinges þat of eiþer ſide of þe ȝerdeſ weren born out; after þe enſauſple þat þe Lord hewide to Moyſes, ſo he wrouȝte þe candelftyk.
v And þe Lord ſpak to Moyſes, ſeyngē, vi Tak þe Leuytes fro þe myddil of þe fones of Yrael;
 and þow ſhalt purifie hem aftir þis rijt.
vii Be þei ſpreynt wiþ water of purgyngē, and ſhaue þei alle þe heerys of her flesh. And whanne þei han waffhun her cloþes, and weren clenſid, viii take þei an oxe of þe droue, and his ſacrifice of licours, tried flour ſpreynt wiþ oyle; and anoþir oxe of þe droue þow ſhalt take for synne; ix and þow ſhalt ſette to þe Leuytes before þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, clepid togidere al þe multitude of þe fones of Yrael.

x And whanne þe Leuytes were before þe Lord, þe fones of Israel shulen putte her hoondes vpon hem; xi and Aaron ſhal offre þe Leuytes, a ȝift in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord of þe fones of Yrael, þat þei ſeruen in þe ſeruyce of hym.
xii And þe Leuytes shulen putte her hoondes vpon þe heedis of þe oxen, of þe whiche oon þow ſhalt doo for synne, and anoþer into brent ſacrifice of þe Lord, þat þow preye for hem.
xiii And þow ſhalt ſette þe Leuytes in þe ſiȝt of Aaron, and of his fones, and þow ſhalt ſacrefe hem offred to þe
 Lord;
xiv and ſeuer fro þe myddil of þe fones of Yrael, þat þei be myyn.
xv And afterward goo þei in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, þat þei ſeruen to me; and ſo þow ſhalt puryfyne and ſacrefe hem, into þe offrynge of þe Lord, for þurȝ ȝift þei ben ȝeue to me of þe fones of Yrael. xvi For þe firſt gotten þat open al wombe in Yrael Y haue takun hem;
xvii myyn forſoþe ben al þe firſte gotten of þe fones of Yrael, as wel of men as of beestis, fro þe day þat I ſmoot al þe firſte gotten in þe loonde of Egipte, I haue halowed hem to me.
xviii And Y haue take þe Leuytes for al þe firſte gotten of þe fones of Yrael;
xix and Y haue take hem bi ȝifte to Aaron and his fones, fro þe myddil of þe puple, þat þei ſeruen to me for Yrael, in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, and preien for hem, leſt þere be in þe puple veniaunce, if þei were hardi to neȝ to þe seytuarye.
xx And Moyſes and Aaron diden, and al þe multytude of þe fones of Yrael, vpon þe Leuytes, þat þe Lord
 comaundide to Moyſes.
xi And þei ben purifiȝed, and þei waffheden her cloþes;
 and Aaron arerede hem in þe ſiȝte of þe Lord, and preiede for hem,
xii þat puryfyed þei weenden into her offices, into þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, before Aaron and his fones, as þe Lord comaundide to Moyſes, of þe Leuytes ſo it is doon.
xiii And þe Lord ſpak to Moyſes, ſeyngē, xvii þis is þe lawe of þe Leuytes; fro twenti ȝeere and aboue þei shulen weende in, þat þei mynyſtren in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees; xviii and whanne þe fyftiþe ȝeere of age þei han fulfillid, þei shulen ceefe to ferue.
xvi And þei shulen be þe ſerauantes of her bryþeren in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, þat þei kepen þinges þat weren comaundid to hem; þo forſoþe werkis doo þei not; ſo þow ſhalt diſpoze þe Leuytes in her wardis.

Capitulum IX.

i The Lord spak to Moyfes, in deseert of Synay, þe secounde ȝeer aftir þat þei weren went out of þe loond of Egipte, þe first moneþ, seiynge, ii Þe fones of Yrael doo þei paske in his tyme, iii þe fourtenþ day of þis moneþ, at euen, aftir alle þe ferymonyes and þe iustifiyngis of it.
 iv And Moyfes comaundide to þe fones of Israel, þat þei shulden doo paske;
 v þe whiche diden in his tyme, þe fourtenþ day of þe moneþ, at euen, in þe mount of Synay; aftir alle þingis þat þe Lord comaundide to Moyfes, diden þe fones of Yrael.
 vi And loo! summe vnclene vpon þe soule of man, þat myȝten not doo paske in þat day, goynge to Moyfes and Aaron, vii seiden to hem, Vnclene we ben vpon þe soule of a man; whi be we bigilid, þat we mowen not offre þe offrynge to þe Lord in his tyme, amonge þe fones of Yrael?
 viii To whom answerde Moyfes, Stoonde ȝe, þat I conseil, what þe Lord comaundiþ of ȝow.
 ix And þe Lord spak to Moyfes, seiynge, x Spek to þe fones of Yrael, A man þat were vnclene vpon a soule, oþer in þe fer weye, in þe folk of ȝoure kynde, xi do he paske to þe Lord þe secounde moneþ, þe fourtenþ day of þe moneþ, at euen; wiþ þerf looues and wijlde letus he shal eete it.
 xii Þei shulen not leeue of it eny þing vnto þe morwe, and boon of it þei shulen not breeke; al þe rijt of phase þei shulen kepe.
 xiii And if eny forsoþe is clene, and was not in þe weye, and ȝit dide not þe paske, þat soule shal be out putte fro his puples, for sacrifice he offredre not to be Lord in his tyme; his synne he shal bere.
 xiv A pilgrime forsoþe and a comlynge, if þere were anentis ȝow, do he paske to þe Lord, aftir þe cerymonyes and iustifiyngis of it; þe same heest shal be anentis ȝou, as wel of þe comlyng as of þe wiþ ynne born.
 xv Perfor þe day in þe which þe tabernacle is arerid, couerde it a clowd; fro euen forsoþe vpon þe tent was as liknes of fier vnto þe morwe. xvi So it was doon contynuly, bi þe day couerde it a clowd, and bi þe nyȝt as liknes of fier.
 xvii And whanne þe clowd was takun awey, þat kepte þe tabernacle, þanne wenten forþe þe fones of Yrael, and in þe place where stood þe clowd, þere þei settententes.
 xviii At þe maundement of þe Lord þei wenten forþe, and at þe maundement of hym þei picchiden þe tabernacle. Al þe daies in þe whiche stood þe clowd vpon þe tabernacle, þei dwelten in þe fame place.
 xix And if it felle þat myche tyme it dwelte vpon it, þe fones of Yrael weren in þe bisi waardes of þe Lord, and þei wenten not forþe, xx as feel dais as þe clowde were vpon þe tabernacle. At þe maundement of þe Lord, þei arereden tentes, and at þe maundement of hym þei putten down.

 xxi And if þe clowd were fro euen to þe morwe, and anoon þe morwe tide laft of, þei wenten forþe; and if aftir day and nyȝt it ȝede awey, þei scaterden þe tentes.
 xxii Wheþer twey or o moneþ, or lenger tyme, it were vpon þe tabernacle, þe fones of Yrael dwelliden in þe fame place, and wenten not forþe; anoon forsoþe as it wente a wey, þei meueden þe tentes.
 xxiii Bi þe word of þe Lord þei piȝten tentes, and bi þe word of hym þei wenten forþe; and þei weren in þe bisi waardes of þe Lord, after þe heest of hym, bi þe hoond of Moyfes.

Capitulum X.

i The Lord spak to Moyfes, seiynge, ii Mak to þee two beten out silueren trompes, wiþ þe whiche þow mayst clepe togidere þe multitude, whanne þe tentis ben to be meued.
 iii And whanne þow sownest wiþ þi trompes, al þe folk shal be gederid to þee at þe dore of þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees.
 iv If onys þow sownest, shulen come to þee þe princes and þe heedis of þe multitude of Israel; v if forsoþe lenger and stowndmeel trompynge sowne, þe firste, þat ben at þe eest plage, shulen meue þe tentis.
 vi In þe secounde forsoþe sownyng and euen ȝollynge of þe trompe, shulen rere þe tentys þat dwellen at þe sowþ; and aftir þis maner þat oþer shulen doo, ȝollynge þe trompes into weendyng forþe.
 vii Whanne forsoþe þe puple is to gederynge togidre, shal be symple criyng of trompes, and not stowndmeel þei shulen ȝolle.
 viii Þe fones of Aaron preest shulen sowne wiþ þe trompes, and þis shal be lawful euerlastyng in ȝoure generaciouns.
 ix If ȝe goon out to batayle fro ȝoure loond aȝens þe enemyes þat stryuen aȝens ȝow, ȝe shulen crye wiþ ȝollynge trompes, and it shal be recordyng of ȝow before þe Lord ȝour God, þat ȝe ben delyuerid fro þe hondes of ȝoure enemyes.
 x And if eny tyme ȝe shulen haue meetship, and feeste daies, and kalendes, ȝe shulen syng wiþ trompes vpon þe brent sacrifices and þe pesible fleyen sacrifices, þat þei ben to ȝow into recordyng of ȝoure God; Y þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xi Þe secounde ȝeer, þe secounde moneþ, þe twentipe day of þe moneþ, þe clowd rered vp fro þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees.
 xii And þe fones of Yrael ben goon forþe bi her companyes, fro þe deseert of Synay; and þe clowd restyde in þe wildernes of Pharan.

xiii And þe first meueden tentes, after þe heest of þe Lord doon in þe hoond of Moyses, xiv þe sones of Juda bi her companyes, of whom þe prince was Naafon, þe sone of Amynadab.
 xv In þe lynage of þe sones of Ysachar prince was Nathanael, þe sone of Suar.
 xvi In þe lynage of Zabulon prince was Heliab, þe sone of Helon.
 xvii And þe tabernacle is sett down, þe which berynge wenten out þe sones of Gerson, and of Merarye.
 xviii And þe sones of Ruben wenten forþe bi companyes in her ordre, whos prince was Elifur, þe sone of Sedeur.
 xix In þe lynage forsoþe of þe sones of Symeon prince was Salamyel, þe sone of Suryfadday.
 xx Forsoþe in þe lynage of Gad was pryncie Heliaphat, þe sone of Duel.
 xxi And wenten forþe þe Caathites, berynge þe seytuarie; as longe þe tabernacle was bore, to þe tyme þat þei camen to þe rerynge place.
 xxii And þe sones of Effraym meueden tentis, by her companyes, in whos oost prince was Elizama, þe sone of Amyud.
 xxiii In þe lynage forsoþe of þe sones of Manasse pryncie was Gamaliel, þe sone of Phadassur.
 xxiv And in þe lynage of Beniamyn duke was Abidan, þe sone of Gedeon.
 xxv Lafte of alle þe tentes wenten forþe þe sones of Dan, bi her companyes, in whos oost pryncie was Aiezer, þe sone of Amyfadday.
 xxvi In þe lynage forsoþe of þe sones of Afer pryncie was Phegiel, þe sone of Ochran.
 xxvii And in þe lynage of þe sones of Neptalym prince was Ahira, þe sone of Henan.
 xxviii Þese ben þe tentes and þe goyngis forþe of þe sones of Yrael, bi her companyes, whanne þei wenten out.
 xxix And Moyses seide to Heliab, þe sone of Raguel Madianye, his cofyn, We goon forþe to þe place þat þe Lord is to ȝyuunge to vs; com wiþ vs, þat we doon good to þee, for þe Lord good þingis haþ bihoot to Israel.
 xxx To whom he answerde, I shal not goo wiþ þee, but I shal turne aȝen into my loond, in þe which Y am bore.
 xxxi And he, Wole þow not, he seiþ, vs forsaak; þow forsoþe haſt knowe in what places bi deserte we owen to sette tentes, and þow shalt be oure leder;
 xxxii and whanne þow comyst wiþ vs, what þing best were of þe ritchessis þat þe Lord is to ȝyuunge to vs, we shulen ȝyue to þee.
 xxxiii Banne þei wenten forþe fro þe mownt of þe Lord, weie of þre daies; and þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord wente before hem, bi þree daies, purueiyng þe place of þe tentes.
 xxxiv And þe clowd of þe Lord was vpon hem bi þe day, whanne þei shulden goon.

xxxv And whanne þe arke shulde be arered, Moyses seide, Aryse, Lord, and be scateryd þin enemyes, and fleeȝ þei fro þi face þat haten þee; xxxvi whanne forsoþe it was sette down, he seide, Torn aȝen, Lord, to þe multitude of þe oost of Yrael.

Capitulum XI.

i Ther amone was spongyn a grucchyng of þe puple, as of men forwyng for þe traueyl aȝens þe Lord; þe whiche whanne he hadde herde, he was wroob; and þe fier of þe Lord, tend into hem, deuowride þe latter part of þe tentes.
 ii And whanne þe puple hadde cryede to Moyses, Moyses preiede to þe Lord, and þe fier is sowpyd vp.
 iii And he clepide þe name of þat place Tendynge, forþi þat þe fier of þe Lord was tende aȝens hem.
 iv Þe comoun forsoþe of eipir kynde þat hadde steyd vp wiþ hem, brent wiþ desir of flesh, fittyng and wepinge, ioyned to hem togider þe sones of Yrael, and seiþ, Who shal ȝyue to vs to eete flesh?
 v We recorden of þe fishes þat we eten in Egipte gladly; into mynde come to vs þe goordis, and þe pepony, and þe leeke, and þe vniowns, and þe garlekes;
 vi oure soule is drye; noon oþir þing byholden our eyen but manna.
 vii Manna forsoþe was as þe seed coryaundre, of þe colour of bdelli.
 viii And þe puple wenten abowt, gederynge it, and breke in a gryndstoon, or powned in a morter, seepinge in a pot, and makynge of it litil þinne kakis of fauour, as of oylid breed.
 ix And whanne þe dewe descendide þe nyȝt vpon þe tentes, descendide togider and manna.
 x Panne Moyses herde þe puple wepyng bi meynees, and eche bi þe dores of his tent; and þe woodnes of þe Lord was ful wroob, but and to Moyses it was feen a þing vnuffrable.
 xi And he seiþ to þe Lord, Whi haſt þow tormentid þi seruant? whi fynde I not grace before þee, and whi haſt þow put þe birþen of al þe puple vpon me?
 xii wheþer Y haue conceyued al þis multitude, and gotten it, þat þow sey to me, Ber hem in þi bosum, as a noryshe is woned to bere a litil child, and bere into þe loond for þe which þow haſt swore to be faders of hem?
 xiii wherof to me flesh þat Y ȝyue to so myche a multitude? Pei wepen before me, seiynge, ȝif to vs flesh, þat we eten; xiv Y may not aloone susteyne al þis puple, for it is greuows to me.
 xv If oþir weies it is seen to þee, Y preye þat þow flee me, and Y fynde grace in þin eyen, þat wiþ so myche yuels Y be not turmentide.

xvi And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Geder to me feuenti men of þe alderen of Yrael, þe whiche þow haft knowun, þat þei ben oolde of þe puple, and maystris; and þow shalt lede hem to þe dore of þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, and þow shalt make þere to stoonde wiþ þee, xvii þat Y descende, and speke to þee; and Y shal take a wey of þi spiryte, and ȝyue to hem, þat þei susteynen wiþ þee þe birþen of þe puple, and not þow alone be greued.
 xviii To þe puple forsoþe þow shalt seye, Be ȝe halowid, to morwe ȝe shulen eete flesh; Y forsoþe haue herde ȝow to seye, Who shal ȝyue to vs metis of flesh? wel it was to vs in Egipt; þat þe Lord ȝyue to ȝow flesh, xix and eete not o day, ne two, ne fyue, or tenne, ne twenti forsoþe, xx but vnto þe moneþ of days, to þe tyme þat it come out bi ȝoure noose þrillis, and be turnyd into fomynge; forþi þat ȝe han putte abak þe Lord, þe which is in þe myddil of ȝow, and han wepte before hym, seiyng, Whi wenten we out of Egipt?
 xxi And Moyses seiþ to þe Lord, Six hundryd þousandes of foot men ben of þis puple, and þou seylt, Y shal ȝyue to hem etynge of flesh an hool moneþ.
 xxii Wheþer a multitude of oxen and of sheep shal be flayn, þat it may suffice to meeþe, or alle þe fiffhes of þe see shulen be gedryd in oon, þat þei fulfillen hem?
 xxiii To whom answarde þe Lord, Wheþer þe hoond of þe Lord be vnmisþy? now now þou shalt se, wheþer my word in dede be fulfillid.
 xxiv Þanne Moyses came, and toolde to þe puple þe wordis of þe Lord, gedrynge feuenti men of þe alderen of Yrael, þe whiche he made stonde about þe tabernacle.
 xxv And þe Lord cam down bi þe clowd, and spak to hym, takynge of þe spiryt þat was in Moyses, and ȝyuyng to þe feuenti men; and whanne þe spiryte hadde restid in hem, þei profecyden, ne more ouer cefiden.
 xxvi Þere dwelten forsoþe in þe tentis two men, of whom oon was clepid Heldad, and þat oþer Medad, vpon whom restide þe spiryt; for and þei weren discryued, and þei wenten not out to þe tabernacle. And whanne þei propheceden in þe tentis, xxvii rennede a child, and toolde to Moyses, seiyng, Heldad and Medad prophecien in þe tentis.
 xxviii Anoon Josue, þe sone of Nun, þe seruaunt of Moyses, and chofun of many, seiþ, My lord, Moyses, defend hem.
 xxix And he, What, he seiþ, enuyest þow for me? who ȝyueþ þat þe puple prophecie, and God ȝyue to hem his spiryt?
 xxx And Moyses is turned aȝen, and þe more þurȝ birþe of Yrael into þe tentis.
 xxxi A wynde forsoþe goyng out fro þe Lord, brouȝte cauȝt curlouis ouer see fro þe Lord, and he lafte into þe tentis, bi þe weye, as myche as o day myȝte be maad redy, on eche side of þe tentis bi enuyroun; and þei flowen in þe eyre two cubitis on heiȝt vpon þe erþe.

xxxii Þanne þe puple arisynge al þat day and nyȝt and þat oþer day, gederide a multitude of curlouis; þe which made redi ten chorys; a chore is a mesure of bretti busshels; and drienden hem bi enuyroun of þe tentes.

xxxiii ȝit flesh was in þe teeþe of hem, ne defautide fiche a maner meet; and loo! þe wodenes of þe Lord styrid into þe puple, smoot hem wiþ a ful greet veniaunce.

xxxiv And þat place is clepid þe sepulcris of couetynge; þere forsoþe þei byrieden þe puple þat desyride flesh.

xxxv And þei goon out fro þe sepulcres of Lust, camen into Afferoth, and dwelten þere.

Capitulum XII.

- i And Mary spak and Aaron aȝens Moyses, for þe Ethiopis his wif, and seiden,
- ii Wheþer oonli bi Moyses haþ þe Lord spokun? wheþer not and to vs also he haþ spokun? þe which whann þe Lord hadde herde, he was ful wroop.
- iii Moyses forsoþe was moost mylde man, ouer alle men þat dwelten on erþe.
- iv And þe Lord anoon spak to hym and Aaron and Mary, Goo ȝe þre alone out to þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees.
- v And whanne þei weren comyn ynne, þe Lord descendide in a piler of a clowde, and stood in þe entre of þe tabernacle, clepyng Aaron, and Marye; þe which whanne weren goon, feide to hem,
- vi Here ȝe my wordes; if eny were amoneȝ ȝow þe prophete of þe Lord, in visioun Y shal apere to hym, oþer bi sweuen I shal speke to hym.
- vii And he seiþ, And not sichon my seruaunt Moyses, þat in al myn hows is moost trewe;
- viii mouȝ forsoþe to mouȝ I shal speke to hym, and opynly, and not bi derknesses and figuris he feieþ God. Whi þanne dreden ȝe not to bacbite to my seruaunt Moyses?
- ix And wrooþ aȝens hem, wente aweie.
- x þe clowde forsoþe wente awey, þat was vpon þe tabernacle, and loo! Marye aperide flynyng wiþ lepre as snowe. And whanne Aaron hadde beholdun hir, and sawȝ hir þurȝ hilid wiþ lepre,
- xi seiþ to Moyses, My lord, Y preye, ne sett þow not to vs þis synne, þat folily we han doon,
- xii ne þis be maad as deed, and as deed wiþ ynne wombe þat is browun out fro þe wombe of his moder; loo! now þe myddil of her flesh is deuowrid wiþ lepre.
- xiii And Moyses cryed to þe Lord, seiyng, Lord, I preye, heel hir.

xiiii To whom answarde þe Lord, If þe fader of hir hadde spitte into hir face, wheþer shulde hir not namelich feuen days wiþ reednes be vnderhild? Be hir feuered feuen days out of þe tentis, and afterward hir shal be aȝen clepid.
 xv And so Mari is putte out of þe tentis feuen dayes; and þe puple is not meued fro þat place, to þe tyme þat Marye is aȝenclepid.
 xvi And þe puple wente forþe fro Afferoth, piȝte þe tentes in þe deseert of Pharan.

Capitulum XIII.

i And þere þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, ii Seend men þat biholden þe loond of Chanaan, þat I am to ȝuyng þe sones of Yrael, eche of eche lynagis, of þe princes.
 iii And Moyses dide þat þe Lord hadde comaundid, fro þe deseert of Pharan seendyng men princes, iiiii of whom þes ben þe names. Of þe lynage of Ruben, Semmya, þe sone of Zeccur.
 v Of þe linage of Symeon, Saphat, þe sone of Hury.
 vi Of þe lynage of Juda, Caleph, þe sone of Jephone.
 vii Of þe lynage of Ysachar, Agal, þe sone of Joseph.
 viii Of þe lynage of Effraym, Osee, þe sone of Nun.
 ix Of þe lynage of Beniamyn, Phalti, þe sone of Raphu.
 x Of þe lynage of Zabulon, Gedihel, þe sone of Sody.
 xi Of þe lynage of Joseph, Gaddi, of þe septre of Manasse, þe sone of Susy.
 xii Of þe lynage of Dan, Ammyhel, þe sone of Gemalli.
 xiii Of þe lynage of Afer, Sur, þe sone of Mychael.
 xiv Of þe lynage of Neptalym, Nabdi, þe sone of Naphi.
 xv Of þe lynage of Gad, Guhel, þe sone of Machi.
 xvi Þes ben þe names of þe men, þe whiche Moyses sent to biholde þe loond of Chanaan; and he clepide Osee, þe sone of Nun, Josue.
 xvii Panne Moyses sente hem to biholde þe loond of Chanaan, and seyde to hem, Styg vp bi þe sowþ plage; and whanne ȝe come into þe hillis, xviii beholde ȝe þe loond, what it is; and þe puple þat is dweller of it, wheþir it be stronge, or feble, fewe in noumbre, or many;
 xix þat loond, good, or yuel; what maner citees, wallid, or wiþ outen wallis;
 xx þe erþe, fat, or bareyn, wodi, or wiþ outen trees. Be ȝe comfortyd, and bryng ȝe to vs of þe fruytis of þat loond. It was forþe tyme, whanne now þe before rijp grapes myȝte be eete.
 xxi And whanne þei steyden vp, þei enserchiden þe loond, fro þe deseert of Syn vnto Rohob, hem entrynge Emath.
 xxii And þei styeden vp to þe sowþ, and camen into Ebron, where weren Achyman, and Sisay, and Tholmay, þe sone of Enath; forþe Ebron feuen ȝeris before Thannyn, þe cytee of Egipte, is maad.

xxiii And þei goyng vnto þe rennyng water of þe clustre, kyttiden a vyn wiþ his grape, þe which two men beeren in a staf; of þe powmgarnettis forþoþe, and of þe figis of þat place þei token, xxiv þe which is clepid Nehelescol, þat is, þe rennyng water of þe clustre, for þi þat þe children of Yrael brouȝten þens a clustre.
 xxv And þe spiers of þe loond turneden astir fourti days, al þe regiou恩 goon about, xxvi þei camen to Moyses, and to Aaron, and to al þe compayne of þe sones of Yrael, into deseert of Pharan þat is in Cades. And þei speken to hem, and to al þe multitude þei shewiden þe fruytis of þe loond. xxvii And þei tolden, seiyng, We camen to þe loond, to þe which ȝe fenten vs, þe whiche forþoþe flowiþ mylk and honi, as of þes fruytis it may be knowe; xxviii but moost stronge dwellers it haþ, and greet citees, and wallid; þe lynage of Enachym we han seen
 þere;
 xxix Amalech dwelliþ in þe sowþ; Etheus, and Jebuzeus, and Amorreus in þe mownteyns; Chananeus forþoþe dwelliþ biside þe see, and about þe flodis of Jordan.
 xxx Amonge þes þingis Caleph swagyng þe grucchyng of þe puple, þat spronge aȝens Moyses, seiþ, Stie we vp, and weeld we þis loond, for we mowen gete it.
 xxxi Oþer forþoþe þat weren wiþ hym, seiden, Nay, to þis puple we ben not myȝti to stye vp, for strenger þan we he is.
 xxxii And þei myȝtiden of þe loond þat þei bihelden, anentis þe sones of Yrael, seiyng, Pe loond þat we han passid deuwriþ his dwellers; þe puple þe which we han biholde is of huge stature; xxxiii þere we seyen þingis passyng þe course of kynde, of þe sones of Enach, of þe kynde of geauntis, to whiche comparysoun as locustis we weren seen.

Capitulum XIII.

i Therfore rerynge crye al þe puple, wepte þat nyȝt, ii and grucchiden aȝens Moyses and Aaron, þat is alle þe sones of Yrael, seiyng, Wolde God we weren deed in Egipte, and not in þis waft wildernes; iii wolde God we perisshen, and þat þe Lord lede vs not into þis loond, leſt we fallen bi fward, and wyues and oure free children ben lad caytyues; wheþir were it not beter to turne aȝen into Egipte?
 iv And þei seiden oon to þat oþere, Ordeyn we to vs a duke, and turne we aȝen into Egipte.
 v Pe which þing herd, Moyses and Aaron fallen redy into þe erþe, before al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael.
 vi And forþe Josue, þe sone of Nun, and Caleph, þe sone of Jephone, þe whiche and þei hadden goon þe loond, renten her cloþes, vii and to al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael speken, þe loond þat we han enuyrownde is ful good;

viii if þe Lord were mercyful, he shal lede vs into it, and take þe loonde flowynge mylk and hony.
ix Wole ȝe not be rebel aȝens þe Lord, ne drede ȝe þe puple of þis loond, for as breed so we may deuowre hem; þere is goo from hem al helpe, þe Lord is wiþ vs, wole ȝe not drede.
x And whanne al þe multitude cryede, and wiþ stonus wolden þrowe hem down, þe glorye of þe Lord aperide vpon þe roof of þe boond of pees, seyng alle þe sones of Yrael.
xi And þe Lord seide to Moyses, How longe shal þis puple bacbite to me? How longe shulen þei not leue to me, in alle þe signes þat Y haue doon before hem?
xii Y shal þerfor smyte hem wiþ pestilence, and waast; þee forsoþe Y shal make a prince vpon a greet folk of kynde, and a strenger þan þis is.
xiii And Moyses seyde to þe Lord, þat þe Egipcyens heren, of whos myddil þow haft ladde out þis puple, xiv and þe dwellers of þis loond, þe whiche han herde, for þow, Lord, in þis puple be, and wiþ face to face þow be seen, and bi clowde defende hem, and in a pyler of a clowde þow goo before hem bi day, and in a pyler of fier bi nyȝt, xv þat þow flee so myche a multitude as o man, and seyn, xvi þow myȝtist not brynge yn þis puple in þe loond for þe whiche he fwores, and þerfor he flew hem in wildernes.
xvii Panne þe strengþe of þe Lord be magnyfied, as þow haft sworne, seyng, xviii þe Lord pacient, and of myche mercy, doyng aweye wickednesse and hidows trespassis, and no man giltles forsaynge, þe whiche visitist þe synnes of fadres into sones into þe þridde and þe ferþe generacioun.
xix Forȝyue, Y preye, þe synne of þis þi puple, aftir þe greetnes of þi mercy, as þow were merciable to hem goyng out fro Egipte into þis place.
xx And þe Lord seide, Y haue forȝyue to hem, after þi word.
xxi Y lyue; and fulfillid shal be þe glorye of þe Lord, in al þe loond;
xxii neþeles al men þat han seen my maieste, and my signes, and þat Y haue do in Egipte and in wildernes, and han temptid me now bi ten sibes, ne han obeshid to my voys, xxiii shulen not seen þe loond for þe whiche Y haue fwores to þe fadris of hem, ne eny of hem þat han bacbytide to me, shal fe it.
xxiv My feruaunt Caleph, þat ful of anoþer spyryt haþ folwid me, I shal lede into þis loond, þat he haþ goon about, and þe feed of hym shal welde it.
xxv For þe Amalechites and Chanane ben before ȝow, bi whos fwerd ȝe shulen falle, for þi þat ȝe wolden not assent to þe Lord, ne þe Lord shal be wiþ ȝow.

xxvi And þe Lord spak to Moyses and Aaron, seyng, xxvii How longe þis moost shrewid multitude grucchyþ aȝens me? þe pleynetes of þe sones of Yrael Y haue herde. xxviii Sey þanne to hem, Y lyue, seiþ þe Lord; as ȝe han spokun, herynge me, so Y shal do to ȝow; xxix in þis wildernes shulen ligge ȝoure careyns. ȝee alle þat ben noumbrid, fro twenti ȝeer and aboue, and han grucchid aȝens me, xxx ȝe shulen not goon into þe loond, vpon þe whiche Y haue reryde myn hoond, þat Y make ȝow to dwelle, out take Caleph, þe sone of Jephone, and Josue, þe sone of Nun.
xxxi ȝoure litil children forsoþe, of which ȝe han seyde, þat þei shulen be to prey to be enemyes, Y shal lede yn, þat þei seen þe loond, þe whiche displexid to ȝow.
xxxii ȝoure forsoþe careyn shal ligge in wildernes; xxxiii ȝoure sones shulen be vagaunt in deseert fourti ȝeer, and þei shulen bere ȝoure fornycacioun, to þe tyme þat þe careyns of ȝoure faders ben waftid in deseert,
xxxiv after þe noumbre of fourti days, in þe whiche ȝe han biholdun þe loond; a ȝeer for a day shal be in noumbrid, and fourti ȝeer ȝe shulen resseyue ȝoure wickidnesses, and ȝe shulen knowe my veniaunce.
xxxv For as I haue spoke, so I shal doo to al þis multitude moost shrewid, þat haþ togidir ryfun aȝens me in þis wildernes; it shal fayle, and dye.
xxxvi Perfor alle þe men þat Moyses fente to beholde þe loond, and þe whiche turned aȝen, maden al þe multitude grucchen aȝens hym, myfleyng of þe
loond,
xxxvii þat it was yuel, ben deed, and smytun in þe siȝt of
þe Lord.
xxxviii Josue forsoþe, þe sone of Nun, and Caleph, þe sone of Jephone, lyueden, of alle þat wenten to beholde þe loond.
xxxix And Moyses spake alle þes wordes to alle þe sones of Yrael, and þe puple weilide ful myche.
xl And, loo! eerly firste arysyng, þei stiden vp þe cop of þe hil, and seiden, We ben redi to stye vp to þe place, of þe whiche þe Lord haþ spokun, for we han fynned.
xli To whom Moyses, Whi, he seiþ, ouerpassen ȝe þe word of þe Lord, þe whiche þing shal not falle to ȝow into good spedē?
xlii Wole ȝe not stye vp, forsoþe God is not wiþ ȝow, lefþ ȝe fallen before ȝoure enemyes. xliii Amalechites and Chanane ben before ȝow, bi whos fwerd ȝe shulen falle, for þi þat ȝe wolden not assent to þe Lord, ne þe Lord shal be wiþ ȝow.
xliv And þei blyndid togidere styeden vp into þe cop of þe hil; þe arke forsoþe of þe telfament of þe Lord and Moyses wenten not fro þe tentis.

xiv And Amalecchite descendide, and Chanane, þat dwelten in þe hil, and smytynge hem, and hewynge togidere, pursueden hem vnto Horma.

Capitulum XV.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, ii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt feye to hem, Whanne ȝe weren goon into þe loond of ȝoure dwellynge þat I shal ȝyue to ȝow, iii and þulen doo offrynge to þe Lord into brent sacrifice, or flayn pesible sacrifice, quytynge þe auowes, oþir wilfulli offrynge ȝiftis, oper in ȝoure solempnytees brennynge smelle of swetnes to þe Lord, of oxen, or of sheep;
iv who so euer offriþ flayn offrynge, þe sacrificies of tryed flour, þe tenþe part of ephi, spreynt wiþ oyle, þe which þe mesure shal haue þe fourþe part of hyn, v and wyn to helde þe sacrificies of licours, of þe same mesure, he shal ȝyue into brent sacrifice, or into flayn.
vi Bi eche loombis and wepers shal be þe sacrifice of tryed flour, of two dymes, þat be spreynt wiþ oyle, of þe þridde part of hyn;
vii and wyn to þe sacrifice of licour, of þe þridde part of þe same mesure, he shal offre into þe smelle of swetnes to þe Lord.
viii Whanne forsoþe of oxen he doþ brent sacrifice, oper ooþt, þat þow fulfillie þe vowe, oper pesible flayn sacrifices, ix þow shalt ȝyue, bi eche oxen, of tryed flour ten dymes, spreynt wiþ oyle, þat shal haue half of þe mesure of hyn, x and wyn to þe sacrificies of licours to ben helde, of þe same mesure, into offrynge of moost swete smell to þe Lord.
xi So ȝe shulen doo bi eche oxen, xii and weþers,
xiii and loombes, and geetis;
xiv as wel wiþ ynne getun as pilgrymes wiþ þe same riȝt shulen offre sacrifices;
xv o maundement shal be and dome, xvi as wel to ȝow as to þe comlyngis of þe loond.
xvii Pe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xviii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þow shalt seie to hem, Whanne ȝe comen into þe loond þat I shal ȝyue to ȝou, xix and eete of þe looues of þat regiou, xx ȝe shulen feuer þe first fruytis to þe Lord of ȝoure meetis; as of þe flores þe first fruytis ȝe shulen feuere, xxi so and of fowelis ȝe shulen ȝyue þe first fruytis to þe Lord.

xxii þat if bi ignorauunce ȝe passen bisides eny þing of þes þat þe Lord haþ spokun to Moyses, xxiii and haþ comaundide bi hym to ȝow, fro þe day þat he bigunne to comaunde, and ouer, xxiv and weren forȝetun to do, þe multitude shal offre a calf of þe droue, brent sacrifice into moost swete smelle to þe Lord, and sacrifices of it, and offerd lycours, as þe cerymonyes of it axen, and a goot for synne.

xxv And þe preest shal preye for al þe multitude of þe sones of Israel, and it shal be forȝeven, for not wilfuli þei fynneden; neþeles offrynge þe encens to þe Lord for hem silf, and for synne, and her errour;

xxvi and it shal be forȝoun to al þe folk of þe sones of Israel, and to þe comlyngis þat pilgrymagen amonges hem, for þe blame is of al þe puple bi ignorauunce.

xxvii þat if a liȝt vnknowynge synne, he shal offre a she goot of o zeer for his synne;

xxviii and þe preest shal preye for hym, for vnwityngly he synned before þe Lord; and he shal purchase to hym forȝuenes, and it shal be forȝeu to hym.

xxix As wel to þe wiþynne born as to þe comlyngis, o lawe shal be of alle þat synnen vnknowynge.

xxx A liȝt forsoþe þat bi pride eny þing of synne doþ, wheþer citefeyn he be, oper pilgrime, for aȝens þe Lord he was rebel, he shal perishe fro his puple;

xxxi þe word forsoþe of þe Lord he dispiside, and þe heeft of hym he made at nouȝt; þerfor he shal be doon awey, and he shal bere his wickidnes.

xxxii And it was doon whanne þe sones of Yrael weren in wildernes, and þei fonden a man gederynge stikkis in þe holi day, xxxiii þei brouȝten hym to Moyses and Aaron, and to al þe multitude;

xxxiv þe whiche closeden hym into prisoun, vnknowynge what vpon hym þei oweden to doo.

xxxv And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Bi deeþ die þis man; þrow hym down wiþ stonus al þe folk `wiþ out þe tentis.

xxxvi And whanne þei hadden ladde hym wiþ out, þei þrewen hym down wiþ stonus, and he was deed, as þe Lord comaundide.

xxxvii And þe Lord seide to Moyses, xxxviii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and þou shalt seie to hem, þat þei maken to hem hemmes bi foure corners of þe mantils, puttynge in hem iacynclyn filetis;

xxxix þe whiche whanne þei seen, þei recorden of alle þe maundementis of þe Lord, þat þei folowen not her owne þouȝtis and eyen, by dyuerse þingis lecherynge;

xl but more þei hauyng mynde of þe heeftis of þe Lord, doon hem, and ben holy to her God.

xli I þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haue ladde ȝow out of þe loond of Egipte, þat Y were ȝoure God.

Capitulum XVI.

i Loo! forsoþe Chore, þe sone of Ysuar, þe sone of Caath, þe sone of Leuy, and Daten and Abyron, þe sones of Heliab, and Hon, þe sone of Pheleph, of þe sones of Ruben, ii aryfen aȝens Moyfes, and oþer of þe sones of Yrael, two hundryd and fifty noble men of þe synagoge, and þe whiche in tyme of counsel bi names weren clepid.

iii And whanne þei stoden aȝens Moyfes and Aaron, þei seiden, It sufficiþ to vs, for al þe multitude of halowis is, and in hem is þe Lord; whi ben ȝe arered vpon þe puple of þe Lord?
iv Þe whiche þing whanne Moyfes hadde herde, he felle redy into þe face;
v and he spak to Chore, and to al þe multitude; Eerly, he seiþ, þe Lord shal make knowun whiche perteynen to hym, and þe halowis he shal sett to hym; and whom he chefiþ, shal neiȝ to hym.
vi þis þefor doo ȝe; tak echon his censere, þow Chore, and al þi counsel;
vii and to morwe þe fier drawun vp, put ȝe þere aboue þe maad encense before þe Lord, and whom euer he chefiþ, he shal be holy. Myche ȝe sones of Leuy ben areryd.
viii And eft he seide to Chory, Herib, ȝe sones of Leuy.
ix Wheþer litil it is to ȝow, þat God of Yrael haþ feuerde ȝow fro al þe puple, and ioynede to hym silf, þat ȝe seruen to hym in heriynge of þe tabernacle, and stoonden before þe myche comynge of þe puple, and mynystre to hem?
x Ȥefor to hym silf he haþ maad þee to come nyȝ, and alle þi briþeren þe sones of Leuy, þat to ȝow also preesthood ȝe chalengen, xi and al þi glubbe stoonde aȝens þe Lord? What is forsoþe Aaron, þat ȝe grucchen aȝens hym?
xii Panne Moyfes fente for to clepe Datian and Abyron, þe sones of Helyab; whiche answerten, We comen not.
xiii Wheþer litil it is to þee, þat þow hast ladde vs fro þe loond þat flowide mylk and honys, þat þow flee in deseert, but and þow haue lordship on vs?
xiv Forsoþe þow hast lad vs into þe loond þat flowiþ ryuers of mylk and honys, and þow hast ȝyue to vs possessiouns of feedes, and of vynes; wheþer and oure eyen þow wolt drawe out? We comen not.
xv And Moyses ful wroþ seiþ to þe Lord, Bihold þow not þe sacrifices of hem; þow wost þat and a litil asse forsoþe Y neuer took of hem, ne wrongfully trauayld eny of hem.
xvi And he seide to Chore, Pow and al þi congrygacioun stondiþ asijd before þe Lord, and Aaron to morwe atwynne.
xvii Take ȝe eche ȝoure senserys, and puttij vpon hem encense, offrynge to þe Lord, two hundrid and fifti senserys; Aaron forsoþe holde he his censer.
xviii Þe which þing whanne þei hadden doo, stoondynge Moyfes and Aaron, xix and þei hadden gederyde on an heepe aȝens hem al þe multitude at þe dore of þe tabernacle, to alle aperyd þe glorye of þe Lord.
xx And þe Lord spak to Moyfes and Aaron, and seiþ, xxi Be ȝe feuerd fro þe myddil of þis congregacioun, þat hem grijſlich Y make lost.

xxii Þe whiche fallen redi into þe face, and seiden, Mooft stroong God of þe spirytis of al flesh, wheþer oon synnyng, aȝens alle þi wrap shal waxe cruel?
xxiii And þe Lord seiþ to Moyfes, xxiv Comaund to al þe puple, þat it be feuerd fro þe tabernaclis of Chore, and Datian, and Abiron.
xxv And Moyfes aroos, and wente to Datian and Abiron; and folwyng hym þe alderen of Yrael, xxvi he seide to þe puple, Goþ away fro tabernaclis of vnpitows men, and wole ȝe not touche þat to hem parteynen, leſt ȝe be wrapped in þe synnes of hem.
xxvii And whanne þei weren goon fro þe tentes of hem bi enuyroun, Dathan and Abiron goon out, stoden in þe entre of her tentes, wiþ wyues, and free children, and al þe felowshipe.
xxviii And Moyfes seiþ, Yn þis ȝe knownen þat þe Lord sente me, þat I doo alle þe þingis þat ȝe seen, and not of propre herte hem I bryngne forþe.
xxix If þurȝ vſid deep of men þei dien, and visyte hem a veniaunce, wiþ þe which and oþer ben woned to be visytid, þe Lord haþ not sente me;
xxx if forsoþe a newe þing þe Lord doo, þat þe erþe opnyng his mouþ swelowe hem, and alle þingis þat to hem perteynen, and goon down lyuynge into helle, ȝe shulen wyte þat þei han blasfemyd þe Lord.
xxxi Anoon þanne as he cefyde to speke, þe erþe is brokun vndur þe feet of hem, xxxii and openyng his mouþ deuowride hem, wiþ her tabernaclis, and al þe substainte of hem; xxxiii and þei deffendiden quyk into helle, couerd wiþ þe erþe, and þei pershyden fro þe myddil of þe multitude.
xxxiv And forsoþe al Israel þat stood bi enuyroun, fleeȝ fro þe erþe of hem perishyng, feiynge, Lest perauenture and vs þe erþe swelow.
xxxv But and fier goon out fro þe Lord, flewȝ two hundrid and fifti men þat offerden encense.
xxxvi And þe Lord spaak to Moyfes, feiynge, xxxvii Comaund to Eleazar, þe sone of Aaron, preest, þat he take þe encensers þat liggen in þe brennyng, and þe fier hidir and þidir scater he; for þei ben halwid in þe deþis of synful men;
xxxviii and beet he hem forþe into platis, and fitche he to þe auter, forþi þat þere is offerd in hem encense to þe Lord, and be halwid, þat þe sones of Yrael biholden hem for tookne and mynde.
xxxix Panne Eleazar, þe preest, took þe brasen senserys, in þe whiche offerden þes whom þe tendynge deuowride, and he bette hem forþe into plates, fitchyng to þe auter;
xl þat afterward þe sones of Yrael myȝten haue, bi þe whiche þei shulden take mynde, leſt eny of oþer kynrede, and þat is not of þe seed of Aaron, come niȝ to offre encense to þe Lord, leſt he suffre as Chore suffrede, and al þe multitude of hym, spekyng þe Lord to Moyses.

xli Forsoþe al þe multitude of þe sones of Israel grutchide þe day folwynge aȝens Moyses and Aaron, seiyng, ȝe han flayn þe puple of þe Lord.

xlii And whanne þere was sprongun diffencioun, and noyse wiþ ynne waxed, xliii Moyses and Aaron flowen to þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees; þe whiche astir þei ben goon ynne, couerde a clowde þe tabernacle, and aperyde þe glorie of þe Lord.

xliii And þe Lord seide to Moyses and Aaron, xlv Gop a wey fro þe myddil of þis multitude, also nowe I shal doo hem awey.

xlii And whanne þei lyen in þe erþe, Moyses seide to Aaron, Take a censer, and fier drawun vp fro þe auter, put incense þere aboue, goyng anoon to þe puple, þat bow preye for hem; now forsoþe is goon out wraþ fro þe Lord, and a veniaunce waxiþ wood.

xlvii þe whiche þing whanne Aaron hadde do, and hadde runne to þe myddil multitude, þat nowe waſtid þe brynnynge, he offredre þe maad encense; xlviii and stondynge betwix þe deed and þe lyuynge, for þe puple preyde, and þe veniaunce cefide.

xlix þere weren forsoþe þat weren smyttun fourtene bowſynd of men and feuen hundrid, wiþ outen hem þat perſhidin in þe diffencioun of Chore.

l And Aaron turnede aȝen to Moyses, at þe dore of þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, astir þat restide þe deeþ.

Capitulum XVII.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng,

ii Spek to þe sones of Yrael, and tak of hem fondry zeerdis, bi her kynredis, of alle þe princes of þe lynagis twelue ȝerdes; and of echon þe name þow shalt vpon write to his ȝerde;

iii þe name forsoþe of Aaron shal be in þe lynage of Leuy, and o ȝerde alle þe meynees of hem shal conteyn.

iv And þow shalt putte hem in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, before þe witneſſyng, where I shal speke to þee;

v whom of hem Y shal chese, shal buriowne his ȝerde; and I shal chaſtys fro me þe pleynetes of þe sones of Yrael, in þe whiche aȝens ȝow þei grutchen.

vi And Moyses spak to þe sones of Yrael; and alle þe princes ȝauen to hem ȝerdes, bi alle þe lynages; and þere weren twelue ȝerdes, wiþ out þe ȝerde of Aaron.

vii þe whiche whanne Moyses hadde putte before þe Lord, in þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, viii þe day folwynge he goon aȝen, foond þat þe ȝerde of Aaron, 'in þe house of Leuy, hadde buriowned; and swellynge þe gemmes, breken out flowres, þei spred a brood wiþ leeues, into almaundes be fourmed.

ix Panne Moyses brouȝte forþe alle þe ȝerdes fro þe siȝt of þe Lord to alle þe sones of Yrael; and eche seen, and token her ȝerdes.

x And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Ber aȝen þe ȝerde of Aaron into þe tabernacle of witneſſyng, þat it be kept þere into tokne of þe rebel sones of Yrael, and þe querels of hem resten fro me, leſt þei dien.

xi And Moyses dide, as þe Lord comaundide.

xii þe sones of Yrael forsoþe feiden to Moyses, Loo! we ben waſtid, and alle we perifſhen;

xiii who so euer comeþ niȝ to þe tabernacle of þe Lord, dieþ; wheþer vnto þe deeþ alle we ben to be doon awey?

Capitulum XVIII.

i And þe Lord seide to Moyses and Aaron, Pow, and þi sones, and þe hows of þi fader wiþ þee, shal bere þe wickidnes of þe feytuarie; and þou and þi sones togidere shulen suffre þe synnes of ȝoure preſthod.

ii But and þi briperen of þe lynage of Leuy, and þe septre of þi fader tak wiþ þee, and redi be þei, and mynyſtre to þee. Pow forsoþe and þi sones shulen mynyſtre in þe tabernacle of witneſſyng;

iii and þe Leuytes shulen wake to þin heeftis, and to alle þe werkis of þe tabernacle; so oonlich þat to vesseſ of þe feytuarie, and to þe auter þei comen not nyȝ, leſt and þei dien, and ȝe perifſhen togidre.

iv Be þei forsoþe wiþ þee, and waake þei in þe wardis of þe tabernacle, and in alle þe cerymonyes of it. Of anoþer lynage shal not be meengid to ȝow.

v Wake ȝe into þe waerde of þe feytuarie, and in þe feruyc of þe auter, leſt indignacioun sprynge vpon þe sones of Yrael.

vi Y haue ȝyue to ȝow þe Leuytes ȝoure briperen, fro þe myddil of þe sones of Yrael, and I haue takun a ȝift to þe Lord, þat þei feruen in þe feruycs of his tabernacle.

vii Pow forsoþe and þi sones, kepe ȝe ȝoure preſthod; and alle þingis þat to þe heriynge of þe auter perteynen, and wiþ ynne þe veil ben, bi þe preſtis shal be mynyſtred; and if eny of oþer lynage come niȝ, he shal be flayn.

viii And þe Lord spak to Aaron, Loo! Y haue ȝyue to þee kepyng of my cheef fruytis; alle þingis þat ben halowid of þe sones of Yrael, to þee I haue take, and to þi sones, for þe preſtis office lawful euerlaſtynge.

ix Pes þingis þanne þow shalt take of þes þingis þat ben halowid, and offerd to þe Lord; al offryng, and sacrifice, and what euer þing for synne and for trespass is ȝoldun to me, and falliþ into holy of halowis, þin shal ben, and of þi sones.

x In þe feytuarie þow shalt eete it; maalis oonli shulen eete of it, for it is facryd to þe Lord.

xi þe cheef fruytis forsoþe þat þe sones of Yrael han vowid and offred, Y haue ȝouun to þee, and to þe fones, and þi douȝtres, bi perpetuel riȝt; he þat is clene in þin hows, shal eete hem.

xii Al þe mary of oyle, and of wyne, and of whete, what euer þing þei shulen offre of first fruytis to þe Lord, to þee Y haue ȝeuen.

xiii Alle þe bigynnyngis of fruytis þat þe erþe getiþ, and to þe Lord ben brouȝt, þei shulen falle into þin vſis; he þat is clene in þin hows, shal eete of hem.

xiv Al þing þat of auowe þe fones of Yrael ȝeuen, shal be þin.

xv What euer þing firste shal breek out of þe wombe of al flesh, þat þei offren to þe Lord, wheþer of men, or of beeftis it were, of þi riȝt shal be; so oonlich þat for þe first getun of man prijs þow shalt take, and al beeftis þat is vnclene, þou make be aȝen bouȝt;

xvi whos aȝenbiggyng shal be after o moneþ, wiþ fyue flicis of siluer, bi peife of þe seytuarie; a sicle hap twenti halpens.

xvii þe first gotten forsoþe of oxe, and of sheep, and of shee goot, þou shalt not maak be aȝen bouȝt, for þei ben halowid to þe Lord; oonli þe blood of hem þow shalt heelde vpon þe auter, and þe talwȝ þow shalt brenne into moost swete smel to þe Lord.

xviii þe flesh forsoþe shal falle in to þin vſe, as þe facryd litil breſt and þe riȝt shulder, shulen be þin.

xix Alle þe firste fruytis of þe seytuary, þat þe fones of Yrael offren to þe Lord, to þee I haue ȝeue, and to þi fones and þi dowȝtren, bi perpetuel riȝt; þe couenaunt of salt is euer laſtyng before þe Lord, to þee, and to þi fones.

xx And þe Lord feide to Aaron, In þe loond of hem no þing ȝe shulen weelde, ne ȝe shulen haue part amouge hem; Y þe part and þi herytage, in þe myddil of þe fones of Yrael.

xxi To þe fones forsoþe of Leuy Y haue ȝyue alle þe dymes of Yrael into posseſſioun, for þe seruyce þat þei feruen to me in þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees;

xxii þat þe fones of Yrael comen nomore nyȝ to þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, ne doo synne þat bryngiþ yn deep, xxiii oonly þe fones of Leuy, to me in þe tabernacle seruynge, and berynge þe synnes of þe puple; lawful euerlaſtyng it shal be in ȝoure generacions.

xxiv Noon oþer þing þei shulen weelde, of þe offryngis of dymes payed, þe whiche into þe vſis of hem and necessaries Y haue feuuerde.

xxv And þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, xxvi Comaund to þe Leuytes, and tel out, Whanne ȝe taken dymes of þe fones of Yrael, þat Y haue ȝyue to ȝow, þe firste fruytis of hem offre ȝe to þe Lord, þat is, þe tenþe part of þe dyme, xxvii þat it be put to ȝow in þe offryngis of þe cheef þingis, as wel of þe flores as of þe preffis;

xxviii and of alle þingis of þe whiche ȝe taken þe firste fruytis, offre ȝe to þe Lord, and ȝyue to Aaron, þe preest.

xxix Alle þingis þat ȝe offren of dymes, and into þe ȝiftis of þe Lord ȝe shulen feuere, þe best and chosen alle shulen be.

xxx And þow shalt seye to hem, If þe more clene and þe beter eche þingis ȝe offren to þe Lord of þe dymes, it shal be put to ȝow, as of þe flore and of þe preſſe ȝe ȝeuen þe firſte fruytis.

xxxi And ȝe shulen eete hem in alle ȝoure places, as wel ȝe as ȝoure meyne, for prijs it is for þe seruyce þat ȝe seruen in þe tabernacle of witneſſyng.

xxxii And ȝe shulen not synne vpon þat, þe noble and þe fatt to ȝow reſeruyng, leſt ȝe poluten þe offryngis of þe fones of Yrael, and dyen.

Capitulum XIX.

i And þe Lord spak to Moyses and Aaron, seiyng, ii þis þe religioun of flayn offryng, þat þe Lord haþ ordeynede. Comaunde to þe fones of Yrael, þat þei brengen forþe a reede kowe of hool age, in þe which no spot be, ne beriþ ȝok.

iii And ȝe shulen take hir to Elyazar, þe preest, þe which hir, lad out of þe tentes, shal offre in þe fiȝt of alle;

iv and wetyng þe fyngre in hir blood, shal spreynge aȝens þe ȝates of þe tabernacle feuen ſipes.

v And he shal bren hir, alle men seyng, as wel wiþ flkynde and flesh of hir as wiþ þe blood and dryt, to þe flawme ȝe shulen take.

vi Cedre forsoþe tree, and yſoop, and 'fijr reede ſilk twies died, þe preest shal putte into þe flawme þat vowriþ þe kowe.

vii And þanne at þe last, þe cloþis waffid, and his body, he shall goo into þe tentes, and he shal be defoulid vnto þe euen.

viii But and he þat shal brenne hir, shal waffhe his cloþis, and bodi, and vnclene shal be vnto þe euen.

ix A clene forsoþe man shal gedre þe asken of þe kowe, and heelde hem out of þe tentes in þe moost clene place, þat þei ben to þe multitude of þe fones of Yrael into kepyng, and into water of sprengyng; for for synne þe kowe is brent.

x And whanne he haþ waffhe his cloþes, þat beer þe aſkis of þe kowe, he shal be vnclene vnto þe euen. And þe fones of Yrael, and comlyngis þat dwellen amouge hem, shulen han þis holi bi perpetuel rijt.

xi He þat towchis þe careyn of a man, and for þat feuen daies were vnclene, xii he shal be spreyned of þis water þe briddie day, and þe feuenþe, and so he shal be clenſid. If þe briddie day he were not spreyned, þe feuenþe day he may not be maad vterly clene.

xiii Al þat towchis of manus foul þe faln to deep, and wiþ þis mengynge were not spreyned, he polutis þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and shal perishe fro Yrael; for wiþ þe water of purgynge he is not spreynet, he shal be vnclene, and his filþe shal dwelle vpon hym.

xiii Þis is þe lawe of man þat dieþ in þe tabernacle; eche þat goþ into þe tente of hym, and alle þe vessels þat þere ben, shal be polutid feuen daies.

xv Pe vessel þat haþ not a couerynge, ne byndyngre þere aboue, shal be vnclene.

xvi If eny man towche in þe feelde a careyn of a slayn man, or of þe bi hym silf deed, oþir þe mouþ of hym, or þe sepulcre, shal be vnclene feuen daies.

xvii And þei shulen take of þe askes of brennyng, and of synne, and þei shulen putte quyk waters vpon hem, into þe vessel;

xviii in þe which whanne a clene man wetiþ ysoop, he shal sprenge of it þe tente, and al þe purtenaunce, and þe polut men wiþ fishe a maner towchynge.

xix And wiþ þis maner þe clene shal goo about þe vnclene, þe pridde and þe feuenþe day; and clenſid þe feuenþe day, he shal wasshe hym silf, and his cloþis, and vnclene he shal be vnto þe euen.

xx If eny man wiþ þis riȝt were not purgid, shal perishe þe soule of hym fro þe myddil of þe chirche; for þe seytuarie of þe Lord he polutide, and he is not spreynet wiþ þe water of enuyrownynge.

xxi Þis shal be þe heest lawful euerlastynge. He forsoþe þat shal sprenge þe watrys, shal wasshe his cloþis; eche þat towchisþ þe watrys of purgynge, shal be vnclene vnto þe euen.

xxii What þing þe vnclene towchiþ, he shal make vnclene; and þe foule þat of þes þingis eny þing towchiþ, shal be vnclenem vnto þe euen.

Capitulum XX.

i And þe fones of Yrael camen, and al þe multitude into þe deseert of Syn, þe firste moneþ. And þe puple dwelte in Cades; and Mary is þere deed, and byryed in þe same place.

ii And whanne þe puple nedide water, þei camen aȝens Moyses and Aaron, and, turned into diffenciou, seiden, iii Wold God we hadden perifflhude amoneg oure briberen, before þe Lord.

iv Whi han ȝe ladde out þe chirche of þe Lord into wilderenes, þat and we and oure beestis dyen?

v Whi han ȝe maad vs to stie vp fro Egipt, and ȝe han ladde into þis worst place, þat may not be sowid, þe whiche ne fige getiþ, ne vynes, ne powmgarnettis, 'more ouer and water it haþ not to drynke?

vi And Moyses and Aaron, þe multitude laft, goon into þe tabernacle of þe boond of pees, fallen down redi into þe erþe, and cryeden to God, and seiden, Lord God, here þe crye of þis puple, and opyn to hem þi trefour, þe welle of quyk water, þat, hem fillid, ceese her grutchynge. And þe glorye of þe Lord aperide vpon hem;

vii and þe Lord spak to Moyses, seiyng, viii Tak þe ȝerde, and gedre þe puple, þow, and Aaron pi broþer; and speke ȝe to þe stoon before hem, and it shal ȝyue watri. And whanne þow haft ladde out water fro þe stoon, shal drynke al þe multitude, and þe beestis of it.

ix Panne Moyses took þe ȝerde, þat was in þe siȝt of þe Lord, as he comaundide to hym, x þe multitude gedryd before þe stoon; and he seyd to hem, Here ȝe, rebels and harde to billeue; wheþer of þis stoon water to ȝow we mowen cast out?

xi And whanne Moyses hadde areryde þe hoond, smytyng wiþ þe ȝerde twiȝs þe flynt, wenten out moost large watri, so þat þe puple myȝt drynke, and þe beestis.

xii And þe Lord seide to Moyses and Aaron, For ȝe billeueden not to me, þat ȝe halweden me before þe fones of Israel, ȝe shulen not lede in þes puples into þe loond þat I shal ȝyue to hem.

xiii Þis is þe water of contradiccioun; þere þe fones of Yrael iangleden aȝens þe Lord, and he is halwid in hem.

xiv Moyses þere amoneg sente messengers fro Cades to þe kyng of Edom, þe whiche shulden seie, þes þingis sendip to þee bi broþer Yrael. þow haft knowun al þe trauayl þat haþ caȝt vs, xv what maner oure faders descendiden into Egipt, and we han dwelte þere myche tyme, and þe Egipciens han tourmentide vs, and oure fadres;

xvi and what maner wyse we han cried to þe Lord, and he haþ herd vs, and he haþ sent an aungel, þat haþ ladde vs out of Egipte. And loo! we sett in þe cytee of Cades, þat is in þin uttermoost coostis, xvii bischen, þat to vs it be leueful to passe bi þi loond; we shulen not goo bi feeldis, ne bi vynes, ne we shulen drynke watri of þi pittis; but we shulen goo þe comoun weye, ne to þe ryȝt ne to þe left bowynge, to þe tyme þat we passen þi coostis.

xviii To whom answarde Edom, ȝe shulen not passe bi me, ellis armed Y shal come aȝens þee.

xix And þe fones of Yrael seyden, Bi þe beryd weye we shulen goon, and if we shulen drynke þi watri, we and oure beestis, we shulen ȝyue þat is riȝt; no difficulte shal be in þe prijs, oonli swifly passe we.

xx And he answarde, ȝe shulen not passe. And anoon metynge he wente out, wiþ a multitude wiþ out noumbre, and wiþ a stronge hoond, xi and he wolde not assente to hym preiynge, þat he graunte passyng bi his coostis. Wherfor turnede aside fro hym Yrael.

xxii And whanne þei hadden meuyde tentis fro Cades, þei camen into þe hil of Hor, þat is in þe coostis of þe loond of Edom;

xxiii where þe Lord spak to Moyses, xxiv Aaron, he seiþ, go he to his puplis; forsoþe he shal not goo into þe loond þat I haue ȝeue to þe fones of Yrael, forþi þat he were harde of billeue to my mouþ, at þe watriis of contradiccioun.

xxv Tak Aaron, and his sone wiþ hym, and þow shalt lede hem into þe hil of Hor;

xxvi and whanne þow haſt made nakyd þe fader of his clooþ, þow shalt cloþe wiþ it Eleazar, his sone, and Aaron shal be leide togidre, and die þere.

xxvii And Moyſes dide as þe Lord comaundide; and þei ſtieden vp into þe hil of Hor, before al þe multitude.

xxviii And whanne Aaron he hadde ſpuylid his clopis, he cloþide wiþ hem Eleazar, his sone; and hym deed in þe brenk of þe hil, he deſcendide wiþ Eleazar.

xxix Al forſoþe þe multitude feynge Aaron to haue died, wept vpon hym þretti dayes, bi alle her meyneſes.

Capitulum XXI.

i That whanne Arad, þe Chanane kyng, þat dwellide at þe fouþ, hadde herde, þat Yrael was comen bi þe espiours weye, fauȝte aȝens hym, and ouercomer beynge, brouȝte of hym a prey.

ii And Yrael bi vowe hym ſilf to þe Lord obleschynge, ſeip, If þow takifst þis puple in myn hoond, Y ſhal doo awey his citees.

iii And þe Lord haþ harde þe preyers of Yrael, and haþ take Chanane; þe which he haþ flayn, turned vpedoun þe citees of hym; and he clepide þe name of þat place Horma, þat is, a curſyng.

iv And forſoþe þei wenten forþ fro þe hil of Hor, by þe weie þat ledip to þe reede fee, þat þei myȝten goo about þe loond of Edom; and it biganne to greue þe puple, of þe weie and of þe traueyl.

v And ſpeken aȝens þe Lord and Moyſes, ſeip, Whi haſt þow ladde vs out of Egipte, þat we dien in wildirnes?
þere fayliþ to vs breed, watriis þere ben not; oure foule now wlatiþ vpon þis moost liȝt meet.

vi Wherfore þe Lord haþ ſente into þe puple eddres a fier; at whos woundis and deþes of manye, vii þei comen to Moyſes, and ſeiden, We han ſynned, for we han ſpoken aȝens þe Lord and þee; prey, þat he take fro vs eddres. And Moyſes preide for þe puple; viii and þe Lord ſpak to hym, Mak a brasun addre, and put it for a tokne; who ſmytun biholdiþ it, ſhal lyue.

ix Panne Moyſes maade a brasun eddre, and putte for a ſigne; whom þe ſmytun biholdynge, were maad hool.

x And þe fones of Yrael goon forþe, ſetten tentis in Oboth;

xi fro whens goon out, þei piȝten tentis in Jeabarym, in þe wildernes, þat biholdiþ Moab, aȝens þe eest cooſt.

xii And fro þens meuyng, þei camen to þe rynnynge water of Zareth;

xiii þe whiche leuyng, þei ſetten tentis aȝens Arnon, þat is in deſeert, and fer ſtondiþ ouer in þe cooſtis of Amorrey. Forſoþe Arnon is þe eende of Moab, dyuydynge Moabites and Amorreis.

xiv Wherfor it is feide in þe book of bateyls of þe Lord, As he haþ doo in þe rede fee, ſo he ſhal doo in þe rennyng watriis of Arnon;

xv þe roches of þe rennyng watriis ben bowid, þat þei reſten in Arnon, and þat þei liggen in þe cooſtis of Moabites.

xvi Of þat place aperide a pitt, vpon þe which þe Lord ſpakte to Moyſes, Geder þe puple, and I ſhal ȝyue to hym watir.

xvii Panne Yrael ſong þis ditee, Sty vp þe pit; þei ſongen togidre,

xviii þe pit þat delueden þe prynces, and greibeden þe dukis of þe multitude, in þe ȝeuer of þe lawe, and in her ſtaues. And þei wenten fro þe wildernes of Mathana,

xix fro Mathana to Naaliel, fro Naaliel into Bamoth;

xx Bamoth is a valey in þe regiouſ of Moab, in þe frount of Phasga, þat biholdiþ aȝens þe deſeert.

xxi And Yrael ſent meſſangers to Seon, þe kyng of Amorreys, feiynge,

xxii I bifeche þat it be leueful to me to paſſe bi þi loond; we ſhulen not bowe down to þe riȝt ne to þe left; we ſhulen not paſſe bi feelds and vynes, ne we ſhulen not drynke watriis of pittis; þe kyngis weye we ſhulen goo, to þe tyme þat we paſſen bi cooſtis.

xxiii þe which woold not graunt þat Yrael myȝte paſſe bi his cooſtis, but raþir, þe ooft gedryd togidre, wente out to mete in deſeert. And he cam into Jafa, and he fauȝte aȝens hym;

xxiv of whom he is ſmytun in þe mouþ of þe fwerd, and his loond is weelid fro Arnon vnto Jebboth and to þe fones of Amon; for wiþ a ſtronge helpe weren holde þe cooſtis of Amonytes.

xxv Panne Israel took alle þe citees of hym, and dwelte in þe wallid towns of Amorrey, in Eſebon þat is, and in þe litil touns of it.

xxvi þe cytee of Eſebon was of Seon, þe kyng of Amorrey, þat fauȝte aȝen þe kyng Moab, and took al þe loond þat was of his comaundynge, vnto Arnon.

xxvii Perfor it is ſeyd in prouerbe, Come ȝe into Eſebon, be bilde, and maad vp þe citee of Seon;

xxviii fier went out of Eſebon, and flawme of þe wallid town of Seon, and deuowryde Arnon of Moabites, and þe dwellers of þe hie þingis of Arnon.

xxix Woo to þee, Moab! þow, puple of Chamos, haſt periſhid; he haþ ȝyue þe fones of hym into fliȝt, and þe douȝtren into caytiffee to Seon, þe kyng of Amorreis; xxx þe ȝok of hem he ſcatrede, fro Eſebon vnto Dibon;

wery þei camen into Ophe, and vnto Medaba.

xxxi And fo Yrael dwelt in þe loond of Amorrey.

xxxii And Moyſes ſente 'þe whiche ſhulden aspie Jasaf, whos litil towns þei token, and weeldeden þe dwellers.

xxxiii And þei turneden hem ſilf, and ſtieden vp bi þe weie of Basan. And aȝen wente to hem Og, þe kyng of Basan, wiþ al his puple, to fiȝtyng in Edray.

xxxiv And þe Lord seide to Moyses, Ne drede þow hym, for in þin hoond Y haue takun hym, and al þe loond, and þe puple of hym; and þow shalt doo to hym as þow haft doon to Seon, þe kyng of Amorreis, þe dweller of Esebon.

xxxv Pow haft smytun þerfore and þis wiþ his sones, and al his puple, vnto þe deþ; and þei weelden þe loond of hym.

Capitulum XXII.

i And þei goon forþe, settiden tentes in þe wijlde feeldes of Moab, where biȝonde Jordan Jericho is set.

ii Seynge forþoþe Balach, þe sone of Sephor, alle þinges þat Yrael dide to Amorreis, iii and þat Moabites dredden hym, and þe feernes of hym þei myȝten not bere, iv he seide to þe more þurȝ birþe of Madian, So þis puple shal doo awey alle þat in oure coofcis dwellen, what maner is woned an oxe to take eerbe vnto þe rotys. He forþoþe was kyng þat tyme in Moab.

v Panne he sente messangers to Balaam, þe sone of Beor, dyuynour, þat dwelled vpon þe flood of þe loond of þe sones of Amon, þat þei myȝten clepe hym, and seye, Loo! a peple is goon out of Egipte, þat couereþ þe vttermoost of þe erþe, fittyng aȝens me.

vi Com þerfore, and curs to þis puple, for it is strenger þan I, if eny maner Y may smyte, and browe hym out of my loond; Y haue knowun forþoþe, þat he is blifid to whom þow blifist, and cursid in whom þow castist cursyngis.

vii Pe alderen of Moab and þe more þurȝ birþe of Madian wenten forþe, hauyng prijs of þe dyuynynge in þe hoondes; and whanne þei weren comen to Balaam, and hadden toold alle þe wordes of Balach, viii he answarde, Dwelle ȝe here þe nyȝt, and Y shal answere what þing shal seie to me þe Lord. Hem forþoþe dwellynge anentis Balaam, ix cam God, and feide to hym, What to hem wolen þes men anent þee?

x He answarde, Balac, þe sone of Sephor, kynge of Moabites, fente to me, seyng, xi Loo! þe puple þat is goon out of Egipte couereþ þe vttermoost of þe loond; come, and curse to hem, if eny maner Y fiȝtyng may dryue hem out.

xii And God seide to Balaam, Wol þow not goo wiþ hem, ne curs þow to þe puple, for it is blifid.

xiii Pe which eerli aryfynge, seide to þe prynces, Goo ȝe into ȝoure loond, for God haþ defended me to come wiþ ȝow.

xiv Pe prynces, turned aȝen, seiden to Balac, Balaam wold not come wiþ vs.

xv Eftsones he many mo, and nobler þan he bifore hadde sent, fende;

xvi þe whiche whanne þei weren comen to Balaam, seiden, Ȣus seiþ Balac, þe sone of Sephor, And tary þow not to come to me, redi to worshipe þee;

xvii and what euere þow wolt, Y shal ȝyue to þee; com, and curs to þis puple.

xviii Balaam answarde, If Balac ȝyue to me his hows ful of siluer and of gold, Y shal not mowe chaunge þe word of my God, þat oper more or lasse I speke.

xix Y biseche, þat here ȝe dwellen also in þis nyȝt, þat Y may wite what to me eft þe Lord answereþ.

xx Panne þe Lord cam to Balaam þe nyȝt, and seiþ to hym, If þes men comen to clepe þee, aryse, and go wiþ hem, so oonly þat þat Y comaunde to þee, þow doo.

xxi Balaam roos eerlich, and maad redy þe shew asse, wente forþe wiþ hem.

xxii And God is wroop. And an aungel of þe Lord stood in þe weye aȝens Balaam, þat satt to þe asse, and two children wiþ hym he hadde.

xxiii Pe asse biholdynge an aungel stondynge in þe weye, wiþ a swerd drawun out, turnede hir out of þe weie, and wente bi þe feelde. Pe which whanne Balaam bette, and wold lede aȝen to þe paþ, xxiv þe aungel stood in þe narwenes of two stonen wallis, to þe whiche vynes weren boundun.

xxv Whom seyng, þe asse ioynede hym silf to þe wal, and briside þe foot of þe fitter; and he eftsones bette.

xxvi And neuerþelater þe aungel to a streyt place goynge, where noþer at þe riȝt ne at þe left myȝt goon out of þe weie, metynge stood.

xxvii And whanne þe asse hadde seen þe aungel stondynge, lhe felle down vndir þe feet of þe fitter, þe which more hydowfly wroop, bette wiþ a staf þe sides of hir.

xxviii And þe Lord openyde þe mouþ of þe asse, and shew spak, What haue I doo to þee? whi smytist þow me, loo! now þe þridde tyme?

xxix Balaam answarde, For þou haft deseruyde, and bigilide me; wold God Y hadde a swerd, þat I myȝte smyte þee.

xxx And þe asse seide, Wheþir Y am not þi beeſte, to þe which euermore þow were wont to sitte vnto þe day þat is now? Isey, what þing lijk euer Y dide to þee? And he seiþ, Neuer.

xxxi Anoon þe Lord openyde þe eyen of Balaam, and he seeȝ an aungel stondynge in þe weie, holdynge a drawun swerd in þe hoond; and he lowtide hym redi to þe erþe.

xxxii To whom þe aungel, Whi, he seiþ, þries þow haft bette þin asse? Y am comen, þat I be aduerfarie to þee, for shrewid is þi weie, and contrarie to me; xxxiii and but þe asse hadde bowide fro þe weye, ȝyuyng stede to þe wiþstonder, þee I hadde slayn, and lhe shulde haue lyued.

xxxiv And Balaam seide, I haue synned, vnwitynge þat þow stood aȝens me; and now, if it displese to þee þat Y goo, Y shal turne aȝen.

xxxv Be aungel seiþ, Go wiþ þese, but be war left eny oþer þing þan Y comaunde to þee þow speke. He wente þanne wiþ þe prynces.
 xxxvi Be which þing whanne Balac hadde herde, he wente out into azenmetynge of hym, in þe wallid town of Moabitis, þat is sett in þe vttermooft cooftis of Arnon.
 xxxvii And he seide to Balaam, Y haue sent messangeris, þat I clepe þee; whi anoon come þow not to me?
 wheþer for I miȝte not ȝeelde mede to þi comynge?
 xxxviii To whom he answarde, Loo! I am nyȝ, wheþer oþir þing Y may speke but þat God shal putte in my mouȝ?
 xxxix þanne þei wenten forþe togidre, and camen into þe cytee, þat was in þe vttermooft cooft of his kyngdom.
 xl And whanne Balac hadde slayn sheep and oxen, he fente to Balaam and þe prynces þat wiþ hym weren, ȝiftis.
 xli Morwynnge forþoþe doon, he ladde hym to hye þingis of Baal, and he beheelde þe vttermooft part of þe puple.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And Balaam seide to Balac, Bilde to me here feuen auters, and mak redi as feel calues, and of þe fame noumbre weþers.
 ii And whanne he hadde doon after þe word of Balaam, þei putten to gydre a calf and a weþer vpon þe auter.
 iii And Balaam seyde to Balac, Stoond a litol while biþide þi brent sacrifice, to þe tyme þat Y goo, if perauenture þe Lord aȝen come to me; and what euer þing he comaunde I shal speke to þee. And whanne he hadde goon awey swiftli, iv God aȝen come to hym; and Balaam spak to hym, Seuen, he seiþ, auters Y haue areryd, and putte in a calf and a weþer þere aboue.
 v þe Lord forþoþe putte þe word in þe mouȝ of hym, and seiþ, Turn aȝen to Balac, and þes þingis þow shalt speke.
 vi He turned aȝen, foonde Balac stoondyne bisidis his brent sacrifice, and alle þe prynces of Moabitees.
 vii And takun to his parable, seiþ, Fro Aran haþ ladde me Balac, þe kyng of Moabites, fro þe hillis of þe eest;
 Com, he seiþ, and curs to Jacob; go forþe, and wari to Israel.
 viii What maner wise shal I curse to whom God haþ not cursid? bi what resoun shal Y wary whom God warieþ not?
 ix Fro þe hiest flyntis Y shal see hym, and fro þe hillis Y shal biholde to hym; þe puple aloon shal dwelle, and amonge þe gentilis he shal not be reckned.
 x Who may ful noumbre þe powdre of Jacob, and knowe þe noumbre of þe lynage of Yrael? Dye my soule þurȝ þe deeþ of riȝtwise men, and ben maad my last lijk to þes!

 xi And Balac seide to Balaam, What is þat þat þow doft? þat þow shuldif curse to myn enemyes, Y clepide þee, and þow aȝenward blifist to hem.
 xii To whom he answerde, Wheþer oþer þing Y may speke but þat þe Lord shal comaunde?
 xiii þanne Balac seide to Balaam, Com wiþ me into anoþer place, whens a part of Israel þow seeȝ, and al seeȝ þow may not; þens curs þow to hym.
 xiv And whanne he hadde ladde hym into an hye place, vpon þe cop of þe hil of Phafga, he bilde to Balaam feuen auters, and putt yn þere aboue calues and weþers, xv he seide to Balac, Stond here biþide þi sacrifice, to tyme þat Y go metynge.
 xvi To whom whanne þe Lord was aȝen comen, and hadde putte þe word in þe mouȝ of hym, seiþ, Turn aȝen to Balac, and þes þingis þow shalt speke to hym.
 xvii Turned aȝen, he fonde hym stondyne bisidis his sacrifice, and þe princes of Moabites wiþ hym. To whom Balac, What þing, he seiþ, haþ þe Lord spokun?
 xviii And he takid to his parable, seiþ, Stoond Balac, and herkne; here, þow sone of Sephor.
 xix God is not as man, þat he lye, ne as þe sone of man, þat he be chaungid; þanne he seide, and shal not doon?
 he haþ spokun, and shal not fulfille?
 xx To bleſſe I am brouȝt forþe, bleſſyng Y may not defende.
 xxi þere is no mawmet in Jacob, ne fals liknes is seen in Yrael; þe Lord God of hym is wiþ hym, and þe noyle of þe victorie of þe kyng is in hym.
 xxii þe Lord God haþ ladde hym out of Egipte, whos strenþe is lijk to an vnycorn; xxiii þere is no dyuynnge bi briddis in Jacob, ne dyuynacioun in Yrael. In his tymes it shal be seide to Jacob and to Yrael, What þe Lord haþ vrouȝt!
 xxiv Loo! þe puple as a liones shal aryse togidre, and as a lioun shal be reryd; þe lioun shal not ligge, to þe tyme þat he deuowre þe prayȝ, and drynke þe blood of þe slayn.
 xxv And Balac seide to Balaam, Ne curs þow to hym, ne bliſſe þow.
 xxvi And he seiþe, Wheþer seide Y not to þee, þat what euer þing God comaundide to me, þat Y wolde doo? xxvii And Balac seide to hym, Com, and Y shal lede þee to anoþer place, if perauenture it plese to God þat fro þens þow curse to it.
 xxviii And whanne he hadde ladde hym out vpon þe cop of þe hil of Phegor, þat biholdiþ þe wildernes, xxix Balaam seide to hym, Bilde here to me feuen auters, and mak redy so feel calues, and of þe fame noumbre weþers.
 xxx Balac dide as Balaam seide, and putte yn calues and weþers, bi eche auters.

Capitulum XXIIII.

- i And whanne Balaam hadde seen þat he shulde plese to be Lord for to blesse to Yrael, he wente not as he wente bifore, for to seche dyuininge, but dressyng his chere aȝens þe deseert,
- ii and arerynge þe eyen, sawȝ Israel in þe tentis dwellynge bi her lynagis. And þe Spirit of God fallynge into hym,
- iii takun to a parable, seiþ, Balaam, þe sone of Beor, feide, a man whos eye is stoppid feide,
- iv þe herer of þe wordes of God feide, þe which þe siȝt of þe almyȝti God haþ inwardli lokid, þe which falliþ, and so ben openyd his eyen,
- v How feyr þi tabernaclis, Jacob, and þi tentis, Yrael!
- vi as wodi valeys, and as watri gardeyns biside þe flodis, as þe tabernacles þat þe Lord piȝte,
- vii as cedres biside watres; and wattris shal flowe of his boket, and þe feed of hym shal be into many watris. Þe kyng of hym for Agag shal be take a wey, and þe kyngdom of hym shal be doon a wey.
- viii God haþ ladde hym out of Egipte, whos strengþe is lik to an vyncorn; gentilis shulen deuowre þe enemyes of hym, and þe boonus of hem bei shulen breek, and brille wiþ arwis.
- ix Liggyng he shal sleep as a lioun, and as a liones, þat no man shal be hardi to rere. Who blesſiþ to þee, he shal be blesſid; and who cursiþ, into cursynghe shal he be rettyd.
- x And Balac wrooþ aȝen Balaam, wiþ wrongun hoondis seiþ, To curse to my enemyes I haue clepid þee, to whom aȝenward þe þridde tyme þow hast bliſſid.
- xi Turn aȝen to þi place; Y ordeynede forsoþe hugeli to honoure þee, but þe Lord haþ priuyde þee þi worship set down.
- xii Balaam answerde to Balac, Wheþer feide Y not to þi messangers, þat þow sendist to me,
- xiii If Balac ȝyue to me his hous ful of siluer and gold, Y may not ouerpasse þe word of þe Lord my God, þat oþer of good or of yuel I speke of myn herte, but what þing seiþ þe Lord, þat I shal speke?
- xiv Nebeles goyng to my puple, I shal ȝyue to þee counsel, what þi puple to þis puple shal doo þe last tyme.
- xv Panne þe parable taken, eft seiþ, Balaam, þe sone of Beor, feide, a man whos stoppid is þe eye, feide,
- xvi þe herer of þe wordis of God feide, þat knewe þe lore of alþir heiȝest, and þe feynge of þe Almyȝti seeiþ, þat fallynge haþ þe eyen openyd,
- xvii I shal se hym, but not now; I shal inwardly loke hym, but not nyȝ; a sterre shal sprynge of Jacob, and a ȝeerde shal ryse of Yrael; and he shal smyte þe dukis of Moab, and he shal waſt alle þe sones of Seth;

xviii and Ydume shal be þe possessioun of hym, þe herytage of Seir shal falle to his enemyes; Yrael forsoþe strongly shal doo, xix of Jacob shal be þat lordship, and leefe þe relykes of þe cytee.

xx And whanne he hadde seen Amalech, takyng to a parable, seiþ, Pe bigynnyng of gentiles Amalech, whos eendis shulen be lost.

xxi He feeȝ forsoþe Cyneum, and taken to a parable, seiþ, Stronge forsoþe is þi dwellynge place, but if yn a stoon þow puttist þi nest, xxii and were chosen of þe lynage of Synne, how longe mowe þow dwelle? Assur forsoþe shal take þee.

xxiii And taken to a parable, eft spak, Alas! who to lyuynge, whanne þe Lord shal doo þes þingis?

xxiv Bei shulen come in greet shippis fro Ytalic, and þei shulen ouercome Assiries, and þei shulen waſt þe Ebewis, and at þe laſt þei also shulen perishe.

xxv And Balaam roos, and is turned aȝen into his place; Balac forsoþe þe weye þat he cam, turnyde aȝen.

Capitulum XXV.

- i Israel forsoþe dwelt þat tyme in Sechym, and þe puple dide fornycacioun wiþ þe douȝtres of Moab;
- ii þe which clepen hem to her tabernacles, and þei eten, and honoureden þe goddis of hem;
- iii and Israel sacrificide to Belpagor. And þe Lord was wrooþ to Moyses;
- iv Tak, he seiþ, alle þe prynces of þe puple, and honge hem aȝens þe funne in iebettis, þat my woodnes be turned a wey fro Yrael.
- v And Moyses feide to þe domesmen of Yrael, Sle echon his neigbors, þat han sacrificide to Belphegor.
- vi And loo! oon of þe sones of Yrael wente yn before his bryþeren to a Madyanyte strompet, feeyng Moyses, and al þe puple of þe sones of Yrael, þe whiche wepten before þe ȝatis of þe tabernacle.

Capitulum XXX.

i Moyses forſoþe tolde to þe fones of Yrael alle þingis þat þe Lord comaundide hym. And he ſpak to þe princes of þe lynagis of þe fones of Yrael, þis is þe word þat þe Lord comaundide, ii If eny of men auowe to þe Lord auowid, oþer hym filf bi ooþ ſtreynde, he ſhal not make at nouȝt his word, but al þat he bihiȝt he ſhal fulfil.
iii A womman ȝif eny þing ſhe auowiþ, and hir filf ſtreynd bi ooþ, þe which is in þe hows of hir fader, ȝit in childis age, iv if þe fader knowe þe vowe, þat ſhe haþ bihoot, and þe ooþ, bi þe which hir ſoul ſhe haþ obliſhid, and holde his pees, ſhe ſhal be gilti of þe auowe; what þing ſhe haþ bihoot and ſweriþ, in werk ſhe ſhal fulfil.
v If forſoþe anoon as þe fader heriþ, he wiþſeiþ it, and þe vowis and þe oobis of hir shulen be at nouȝt, ne ſhe ſhal 'be holdun gilti to þe biheest, forþi þat þe fader aȝenſeide it.
vi If ſhe haue an houſboond, and auowe eny þing, and onys a word of hir mouþ goynge out þe foul of hir obliſhe bi ooþ, vii what day þe man heriþ, and wiþſeiþ not, ſhe ſhal be gilti of þe vowe; what þing euer ſhe haþ bihoot, ſhe ſhal ȝelde.
viii If forſoþe anoon herynge he wiþſeiþ, and he makid at nouȝt al þe biheest of hir, and þe wordis by þe which ſhe ſtreynde hir ſoul, þe Lord ſhal forȝyue to hir.
ix A widew, and a departid, what þing þei auowen þei shulen ȝeelde.
x A wif in þe hows of hyr man, whanne ſhe byndiþ hir bi auowe, and bi ooþ, xi if þe man here, and holde his pees, ne wiþſeiþ to þe biheest, ſhe ſhal ȝeeld what euer þing ſhe haþ bihoot.
xii If forſoþe anoon he wiþſeiþ, ſhe ſhal not 'be holdun gilti of þe biheest, for þe huſboond wiþſeiþ, and þe Lord ſhal forȝyue to hir.
xiii If ſhe auowe, and bi ooþ ſtreyne hir ſelf, þat bi faſtyng and abſtynens of oþer þingis ſhe traueyl hir ſoul, in þe dome of þe man it ſhal be, þat ſhe do it, or not do it.
xiv And if þe man herynge holde his pees, and into anoþer day deferre þe ſentence, what euer þing ſhe haþ vowid and bihoot, ſhe ſhal ȝeeld, for anoon as he herde, he heelde his pees.
xv If forſoþe he wiþſeiþ, after þat he aſſentide, he ſhal bere þe wickidnes of hir.

xvi þes ben þe lawes þat þe Lord ordeynde to Moyses, bitwix man and womman, bitwix fader and douȝter þat is ȝit in childis age, oþer þat in þe hows of fader and modir dwelleþ.

Capitulum XXXI.

i And þe Lord ſpak to Moyses, feiynge, ii Venge firſt þe fones of Yrael of þe Madianytis, and fo þow ſhalt be gedryd to þi puple.
iii And anoon Moyses, Arme ȝe, he ſeib, of ȝow men to þe firȝt, þat mowen þe veniaunce of þe Lord out take of þe Madianytis.
iv A þowſand men of ech lynagis ben chosun of Yrael, þat ben ſent to batayl.
v And þei ȝeuen þowſandis of eche lynagis, þat is, twelue þowſandis of men, redy to þe firȝt; vi whom Moyses ſente wiþ Fynees, þe fone of Eleazar, þe preeſt. Forſoþe þe hooli veffels, and þe trumpeſ to crye, he took to hem.
vii And whanne þei hadden fouȝt aȝens Madianytes, and hadden ouercomen, alle þe maalis þei flewen, viii and þe kyngis of hem, Euy, and Reem, and Sur, and Hur, and Rebe, fyue princes of þe folk of hem. Balaam forſoþe, þe fone of Beor, þei flewen wiþ ſwert.
ix And þei token þe wymmen of hem, and children, and alle þe beeftis, and al purtenaunce; x what þing euer þei myȝten haue, þei deſtruyden; as wel cyteeſ as litil towns and caſtels bi flawme he brent.
xi And þei token praye, and alle þat þei token, as wel of men as of beeftis, xii and brouȝten to Moiſes, and Eleazar, þe preeſt, and to al þe multitude of þe fones of Yrael. Forſoþe oþer vſable þingis þei beren to þe tentis, in þe wijld feedlis of Moab, biside Jordan, aȝen Jericho.
xiii And Moyses and Eleazar, þe preeſt, wenten out, and alle þe prynces of þe synagogue, into aȝencomyngē of hem, out of þe tentis.
xiv And Moyses wrooþ to þe prynces of þe oost, leders of þowſandis, and gouernours of hundredis, xv þat camen fro þe batayl, ſeib, Whi han ȝe kept þe wymmen?
xvi ben not þes þat han deſeyued þe fones of Yrael, at þe ſuggeſtioun of Balaam, and han maad ȝow trespassis in þe Lord, vpon þe synne of Phegor, wherfor and þe puple was ſmytun?
xvii Perfor al flee ȝe what euer þing is of maal kynde, and litil children; and wymmen þat han knowun men in goynge togidre, kytte ȝe þe þrootis;
xviii mayde children, and alle wymmen maydens kepe ȝe to ȝow, xix and dwelliþ out of þe tentes feuen days. Who ſleepþ a man, or a man fleyn touchiþ, ſhal be paſſid about þe þridde day, and þe feuenþe;

xx and of al þe praye, wheþer cloþing it were, oþer vessel, and eny þing into vsable þingis maad redi, of þe purgid.

 xxi Eleazar forsoþe, þe preest, to þe men of þe oost þat hadden fowȝt, þus spak, Pis is þe maundement of þe lawe, þat þe Lord comaundide to Moyſes, xxii Gold, and siluer, and brasse, and yren, and tynne, and leed,
 xxiii and al þat may passe bi flawmes, shal be purgid þurȝ fier; forsoþe what euer þing fier shal not mowe fusteyn, wiþ water of clenfynghe shal be halowid.
 xxiv And ȝe shulen wasshe ȝoure cloþis þe feuenþe day;
 and puryfied afterward ȝe shulen goo into þe tentes.
 xxv And þe Lord seide to Moyſes, xxvi Take þe summe of hem þat ben takun, fro man vnto beest, pow, and Eleazar, þe preest, and alle þe prynces of þe comoun.
 xxvii And þow shalt dyuyde euen þe praye among hem þat fauȝten and wenten out to þe batayl, and among al þe laft multitude.
 xxviii And þow shalt seuer a part to þe Lord, of hem þat han fouȝten, and weren in þe batayl, o soule of fyue hundrid, as wel of men, as of oxen, and assis, and oute, þe nyȝ cooftis, to a toun, Abder bi name, and þei shulen strecche vnto Assemonam;

 v and þe cooft shal goo bi enuyroun fro Assemonam vnto þe rennyng water of Egipte, and it shal be endid in þe brenk of þe greet see.
 vi Þe west plage forsoþe shal begynne fro þe greet see,
 and wiþ þat his eend shal be closid.
 vii Forsoþe to þe norþ plage, fro þe greet see teermes shulen begynne, ful comyng vnto þe moost hiȝe hil, viii fro þe which þei shulen come into Emath, vnto þe eendis of Sedeba;
 ix and þe nyȝ cooftis shulen go vnto Effrona, and þe town of Enan. Þes shulen be þe teermes in þe part of þe norþ.
 x Þens shulen be sett þe eendis aȝens þe eest plage, fro þe toun of Henam vnto Sephama; xi and fro Sephama þe termes shulen descende vnto Reblath, aȝens þe welle of Daphym; þens þei shulen come aȝens þe eest to þe see of Cenereth; xii and þei shulen stretche vnto Jordan, and at þe last þei shulen be closid wiþ þe moost salt see. Þis loond ȝe shulen haue bi ȝoure cooftis in enuyroun.
 xiii And Moyfes comaundide to þe fones of Yrael, seyng, Þis shal be þe loond þat ȝe shulen welde bi lot, and þat þe Lord comaundide to be ȝeuen to nyne lynagis, and to þe half lynage; xiv forsoþe þe lynage of þe fones of Ruben bi her meynees, and bi þe lynage of þe fones of Gad, aftir þe kynrede and noumble, and þe half lynage of Manasse, xv þat is, two lynagis and an half, token her parte beþonde Jordan, aȝens Jericho, at þe eest plage.
 xvi And þe Lord seiþ to Moyfes, xvii Þes ben þe names of þe men þat shulen dyuyde þe loond to ȝow, Eleazar, þe preest, and Josue, þe sone of Nun,
 xviii and alle þe prynces of alle lynagis;
 xix of whom þe names ben þes, of þe lynage of Juda, Caleph, þe sone of Jephone;
 xx of þe lynage of Symeon, Samuel, þe sone of Amyud; xxi of þe lynage of Beniamyn, Elyad, þe sone of Callelon;
 xxii of þe lynage of þe fones of Dan, Bochri, þe sone of Jogli;
 xxiii of þe fones of Joseph and þe lynage of Manasse, Hamyel, þe sone of Ephoth;
 xxiv of þe lynage of Effraym, Camuel, þe sone of Septhan;
 xxv of þe lynage of Zabulon, Elizaphan, þe sone of Pharnath;
 xxvi of þe lynage of Ysachar, duke Phaltiel, þe sone of Ozan;
 xxvii of þe lynage of Afer, Abyud, þe sone of Salomy;
 xxviii of þe lynage of Neptalym, Fedahel, þe sone of Amyud.

xxix Þes ben, to whom þe Lord comaundide, þat þei shulden dyuyde to þe fones of Yrael þe loond of Chanaan.

Capitulum XXXV.

i These þingis forsoþe spak þe Lord to Moyfes, in þe wijde feeldis of Moab, vpon Jordan, aȝens Jerycho, ii Comaunde to þe fones of Israel, þat þei ȝyuen to þe Leuytis, of her posseſſions, citees to dwellen yn, and þe suburbs of hem bi enuyroun, iii þat þei dwellen in wallid towns, and þe suburbis ben to feelde beeftis, and housbeeftis; iv þe whiche fro þe wallis of þe citees wiþ outen forþ bi enuyroun ben stretchid, bi space of a þowland paafe; v aȝens þe eest, two þowland shulen be þe cubitis, and aȝens þe souþ, alſo two þowland; forsoþe at þe see þat biholdiþ to þe west, þe fame mesure shal be, and þe norþ plage bi euen teerme shal be eendid. And citees shulen be in þe myddil, and suburbis wiþoute.
 vi Forsoþe of þilk wallid townes also to þe Leuytes ȝe shulen ȝyue, fix shal be feuerd into þe helpis of fugityues, þat he þat shedip blood, fleeȝ to hem; and out taken hem, oþir two and fourti wallid townes, vii þat ben to gide eiȝt and fourti, wiþ her suburbis.
 viii And þilk citees þat shulen be ȝeuen, of þe posseſſions of þe fones of Yrael, of hem þat more han, mo shulen be take awey, and þat laſte, fewer; eche aftir þe mesure of her herytage, shulen ȝyue wallid townes to þe Leuytes.
 ix Pe Lord seiþ to Moyfes, x Spek to þe fones of Yrael, and þow shalt seye to hem, Whanne ȝe goon ouer Jordan, into þe loond of Chanaan,
 xi biholdiþ what citees Owen to be into þe helpis of fugityues, þat not wilnyng sheeden blood.
 xii In þe whiche whanne þe forþ fleer fleeȝiþ, þe cofyn of þe flayn man shal not mowe flee hym, to þe tym þat he standid in þe fiȝt of þe multitude, and þe cause of hym be demed.
 xiii Of þilk forsoþe citees þat ben feuerd to þe helpis of þe fugityues, xiv þre shulen be beþonde Jordan, and þree in þe loond of Chanaan;
 xv as wel to þe fones of Yrael as to comlyngis and piligrimes; þat he fleeȝ to hem, 'þe which not wilnyng shedip blood.
 xvi If eny man smytiþ a man wiþ yren, and were deed, he þat is smyter shal be gilti of mannis flauȝter, and he shal dye.
 xvii If a stoon he þrowe, and wiþ þe cast fleeþ, lijk maner he shal be puniſhid.
 xviii If wiþ a tree smyten he dye, in blood of þe smyter he shal be vengid.
 xix Pe nyȝ kynne of þe flayn þe man fleer shal flee;
 anoon as he catchiþ hym, he shal flee.

xx If bi haat eny man a man aȝen puttib, oþer þrowib eny þing into hym bi aspies, xxi oþer whanne he were enemye wiþ hoond smytib, and he were deed, þe smyter shal be gilty of manflauȝter. Anoon þe cosyn of þe flayn, whanne he fyndib hym, þhal kyt his þroot.
 xxii And if bi hap, and wiþ outen haat and enemytees, xxiii eny þing of þese dob;
 xxiv and þat herynge þe puple were pruyd, and bitwix þe smyter and þe nyȝ of þe blood þe uestyoun were meyud,
 xxv þe innocent shal be delyuerd fro þe hoond of þe vengefour, and he shal be brouȝt aȝen bi sentence into þe cytee, to þe which he fleeȝ, and he shal dwelle þere, to þe tyme þat þe greet preest þat wiþ hooli oyle is anoynt, dye.
 xxvi If þe fleer out of þe cooftis of þe cytees þat to outlawis ben ordeynd, were foundun, xxvii and smytun of hym þat is vengefour of þe blood, wiþouten gilt þhal he be þat flewe hym;
 xxviii þe forþ fleer forsoþe shulde vnto þe deep of þe bisshop in þis citee dwelle stil; aftirward forsoþe þat he dye, þe mansleer shal turne aȝen in his loond.
 xxix ȝe þingis euerlastynge shulen be, and lawful in alle ȝoure dwellyngis.
 xxx A mansleer vndur witnesse, shal be punisched; at þe witnessynge of oon no man shal be condempnyd.
 xxxi ȝe shulen not take prijs of hym þat is gilty of blood, anoon and he shal dye.
 xxxii Outlawis, and ferre fleeȝers, before þe deep of þe bisshop no wife into her citees mowen turne aȝen, xxxiii leſt ȝe poluten þe loond of ȝoure dwellyng, þe which is defoulid bi þe blood of þe innocentis, ne oþer wayes may be purgyd, but bi his blood, þat þat oþers blood shedde.
 xxxiv And so shal be clensid ȝoure possellioun, me dwellynge wiþ ȝou; forsoþe Y am þe Lord, þat dwelle among þe fones of Irael.

Capitulum XXXVI.

i Camen nyȝ forsoþe and þe prynces of þe meynees of Galaad, þe fone of Machir, þe fone of Manasse, of þe lynage of þe fones of Joseph, and speken to Moyses before þe princes of Irael, ii and seyden, To þee oure lord comaundide þe Lord, þat þe loond bi lot þow shuldist dyuyde to þe fones of Irael, and þat to þe douȝtres of Salphaad, oure broþer, þow shuldest ȝyue possellioun duwe to þe fader.
 iii þe whiche if men of anoþer lynage taken to wyues, shulen folwe her possellioun, and translatid to anoþer lynage, of oure herytage shal be laffid; iv and so shal be doo, þat whanne þe iubyle, þat is þe fiftiȝe ȝeer of remyssioun, come, be confoundid þe delynge of lottis, and oþer mennus possellioun passe to opir.

v And Moyses answerde to þe fones of Irael, and, þe Lord comaundynge, seip, Ryȝt þe lynage of þe fones of Joseph haþ spoken,
 vi and þis lawe vpon þe douȝtren of Salphaad of þe Lord is opynly shewid; wedden þei to whom þei wolen, oonly to þe men of her lynage; vii leſt þe posselliouns of þe fones of Irael be mengid fro lynage into lynage. Forsoþe alle men shulen take wyues of her lynage, and of her kynrede, viii and alle wymmen housboondes of þe fame lynage take þei, þat þe herytage dwelle in þe meynees, ix ne to hemself be mengid þe lynagis, but so dwelle þei, as of þe Lord þei ben feuerd.
 x And þe douȝters of Salphaad diden, as to hem was comaundid.
 xi And Maala, and Thersa, and Egra, and Melcha, and Noha, weren weddid to þe fones of þe broþer of her fader,
 xii of þe meyne of Manasse, þat was þe fone of Joseph.
 And þe possellioun þat was to hem delyuerd, abood in þe lynage and þe meyne of þe fader of hem.
 xiii Pes ben þe maundementis and domes, þat þe Lord comaundide bi þe hoond of Moyses, to þe fones of Irael, in þe wijld feeldis of Moab, vpon Jordan, aȝens Jericho.

Here endiþ þe book of Numeri and nowe bygynneþ þe book of Deutronomy.

DEUTRONOMIE.

Here begynneþ þe bok of Deutonomie.

Capitulum I.

i Thes ben þe wordis þat Moyses spak to al Irael, biȝonde Jordan, in þe wijld feeldi wildernes, aȝens þe Reed See, bytwix Pharan and Tophel and Laban and Afferoth, where is mych þing of gold, ii bi enleuen days fro Oreb bi þe wey of þe hil of Seyr, vnto Cades Barne.
 iii þe fourteenþe ȝeer, þe enleuenþ moneþ, þe first day of þe moneþ, Moyses spak to þe fones of Irael alle þingis þat þe Lord hadde comaundid to hym þat he shulde seye to hem, iv after þat he smoot Seon, þe kyng of Amorreis, þat dwellic in Esebon, and Og, þe kyng of Bafan, þat dwellic in Afferoth and in Edray, v biȝonde Jordan, in þe loond of Moab. And Moyses biganne to opne þe lawe, and seie, vi þe Lord oure God haþ spoke to vs in Oreb, seiyng, It suffisib to ȝow þat in þis hil ȝe han dwelt; vii turneþ aȝen, and comeþ to þe hil of Amorreis, and to oþer þat þere ben next, feeldi, and hilli, and þe more lower places aȝens þe souþ; and to þe loond biside þe brenk of þe see of Chananees, and of Libany, vnto þe greet flood of Eufraten.

viii Loo! he seip, I haue take it to 3ow; goo 3e yn, and weelde 3e it, vpon þe which þe Lord haþ fworn to 3oure fadres Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, þat he 3yue it to hem, and to þe seed of hem after hem.

ix And I haue seid to 3ow in þat tyme, I may not aloone fusteyne 3ow, x for þe Lord 3oure God haþ multiplied 3ow, and 3e ben many as þe sterres of heuene; xi þe Lord God of oure fadris adde to þis noumbrē many þowlandis, and blesse to 3ow, as he haþ spokun.

xii Y may not alone 3oure nedis fusteyn, and birþens, and stryues;

xiii 3yue 3e of 3ow wyse men, and herti, and whos conuersacioun be preued in 3oure lynagis, þat I putte hem to 3ow princes.

xiv þan 3e answarden to me, A good þing it is þat þou wolt doon.

xv And I took of 3oure lynagis wise men, and noble; and I haue ordeyned hem princes, and tribunes, and centuriouns, and quynquagenaryes, and denes, þat techen 3ow alle þingis.

xvi And I haue comaundide to hem, seiyng, Here 3e hem, and þat is riȝtwiȝe demeþ, wheþer he be cyteseyn, or pilgrime.

xvii Noon shal be distaunce of persones; so þe litil 3e shulen here as þe more, ne 3e shulen accept eny mannes persone, for þe dome of God it is. And if eny þing hard to 3ow were seen, telliþ to me, and I shal here.

xviii And I comaundide alle þingis þat 3e shulden doo.

xix And goon forþ fro Oreb, we paſſiden bi feerful deſeert and mooſt wildernes, þat 3e han seen, bi þe weye of þe hil of Amorre, as þe Lord 3oure God haþ comaundide to 3ow. And whanne 3e weren comen into Cades Barne, xx Y feide to 3ow, 3e ben comen to þe hil of Amorre, þat þe Lord oure God is to 3yuynge to vs;

xxi looke þe loond þat þe Lord þi God shal 3yue to þee; and stye vp, and weelde it, as þe Lord oure God haþ spoken to þi fadris; nyl þow drede, ne eny þing be agaſt.

xxii And 3e comen to me alle, and ſeiden, ſende we men, þat biholden þe loond, and tellen to vs bi what weie we shulden ſtyle vp, and to what cytees goon.

xxiii And whanne to me þe word pleside, Y ſente of 3ow twelue men, eche by her lynagis.

xxiv þe whiche whanne þei weren goon, and haddeſt ſtied vp into þe hillis, þei camen into þe valeye of Clufre; and þe loond biholdid, xxv takyng of þe fruytis of it, þat þei myȝten ſhewe þe plenteouſte, þei brouȝten to vs, and ſeiden, Good is þe loond þat þe Lord oure God is to 3yuynge to vs.

xxvi And 3e wolden not ſtyle vp, but myȝtibleuyng to þe word of þe Lord oure God, xxvii 3e grutchiden in 3oure tabernaclis, and ſeiden, þe Lord hatiþ vs, and þerfore he haþ ladde vs out of þe loond of Egipte, þat he take vs in þe hoond of Amorre, and doo awey.

xxviii Wheþer shulen we ſtie vp? þe messangeris han feerde oure hertiſ, feiyng, þe mooſt multitude is, and in stature more ſhapplych þan we; greet citees, and in to heuene wallid; þe fones of Enachym we han ſeen bere.

xxix And I ſeide to 3ow, Wole 3e not be feryde, ne drede 3e;

xxx þe Lord God, þat is oure ledere, for vs he ſhal fiȝte, as he haþ doo in Egipte, alle men feynge.

xxxi And in wildernes, 3e han ſeen, þe Lord þi God haþ born þee, as a man is wonyd to bere a litil child, his ſone, in alle weie bi þe whiche 3e han goo, to þe tyme þat 3e comen to þis place.

xxxii And ȝit not þus forſoþe 3e leeueden to þe Lord 3oure God, þat wente before 3ou in þe weie, xxxiii and haþ ſet þe place in þe whiche 3e shulden picche tentis, þe nyȝt ſhewyng þe weie to 3ow bi fier, and þe dai bi piler of a clowde.

xxxiv And whanne þe Lord hadde herde þe voyce of 3oure wordis, wroþþ he ſwore, and ſeip, xxxv Pere ſhal not fe eny man of þe men of þis worſt generacioun þe good loond, þat vndur oþþ Y haue bihoot to 3oure fadris, xxxvi ſaue Caleph, þe ſone of Jephone; he forſoþe ſhal ſe it, and to hym I ſhal 3yue þe loond þat he haþ troden, and to his ſones, for he haþ folwid þe Lord.

xxxvii Ne þe indignacioun aȝen þe purple is to be meruelid, ſiþ to me forſoþe þe Lord wroþþ for 3ow, ſeide, Ne þow ſhalt go in þidir, xxxviii but Josue, þe ſone of Nun, þi feruaunt, he ſhal goo yn for þee; þis enfourme þow, and ſtrengþe, þat he þe loond bi lot dyuyde to Yrael.

xxxix 3oure litil children, of þe whiche 3e han ſeid, þat cheytif þei shulen be lad, and þe ſones þat to day of good and yuel vnknown þe distaunce, þei shulen goon yn; and to hem Y ſhal 3yue þe loond, and þei shulen weeld it.

xli 3e forſoþe turneþ aȝen, and goþ þens into wildernes, bi þe weie of þe Reed See.

xlii And 3e answarden to me, We han ſynned to þe Lord; we shulen ſtie vp, and fiȝten, as þe Lord oure God haþ comaundid. And whanne 3e, tauȝt in armes, wolden goo into þe hil, xliii þe Lord ſeip to me, fey þou to hem, Wole 3e not ſtie vp, ne fiȝte; forſoþe Y am not wiþ 3ow, leſt 3e fallen before 3oure enemyes.

xlii I ſpak, and 3e herden not, but contrariyng to þe heeft of þe Lord, and bolnyng bi pride, 3e ſtieden vp into þe hil.

xliii And ſo Amorre gon out, þat dwelt in þe hillis, and aȝen comynge purſuede vs, as been ben wont to be purſued, and flewen doun fro Seyr vnto Horma.

xlv And whanne turned aȝen 3e wepten before þe Lord, he herde 3ow not, ne to 3our voys wolde affent;

xlii ȝe feeten þerfor in Cades Barne myche tyme.

Capitulum II.

- i And goon forþ þens, we comen into wildernes þat ledip to þe Reed See, as þe Lord seide to me; and we enuyrounden þe hil of Seyr long tyme.
ii And þe Lord seide to me, iii Suffice it to ȝow to goon about þis hil; goo ȝe aȝens þe norþ.
iv And to þe puple comaund, seiyng, ȝe shulen passe bi þe cooftis of ȝoure briþeren, þe fones of Esau, þat dwellen in Seyr, and þei shulen drede ȝow.
v Se ȝe þerfor bisilich, þat ȝe ben not meued aȝens hem; ne forsoþe I shal ȝeue to ȝow of þe loond of hem as myche as þe staf of a foot may treede, for into þe possellioun of Esau Y haue ȝyue þe hil of Seyr.
vi Meetis ȝe shulen bigge of hem for money, and eten; water bouȝt ȝe shulen drawe, and drynke.
vii ȝe Lord þi God haþ blesſid to þee in al þe werk of þin hoondes; he haþ knowun þi weie, what maner wife þow hast passid þis greet wildernes, bi fourti ȝeer, þe Lord þi God dwellynge wiþ þee, and no þing failed to þee.
viii And whanne we hadden passid bi oure briþeren, þe fones of Esau, þat dwelliden in Seyr, bi þe feedi weie fro Elath, and fro Afiongaber, we camen to þe weie þat ledip into defeert of Moab.
ix And þe Lord seide to me, Fiȝt þow not aȝens Moabites, ne go þou in aȝens hem to bateyl; forsoþe I shal not ȝyue to þee eny þing of þe loond of hem, for to þe fones of Loth Y haue take Ar into possellioun.
x Emyn weren þe first dwellers of it, a greet puple, and a stroong, and so hiȝe, xi þat of Enachym lynage as geauntis þei ben trowed, and weren liki of þe fones of Enachym; þerfor Moabites clepen hem Emyn.
xii In Seyr forsoþe raþer dwelten Horrey, þe whiche put out and doon awei, þe fones of Esau dwelliden, as Yrael dide in þe loond of his possellioun, þat þe Lord ȝaf to hym.
xiii Panne aryfyng, þat we myȝten passe þe strem of Zareth, we camen to it.
xiv Forsoþe þe tyme, in þe which we wenten fro Cades Barne vnto þe passyng of þe strem of Zareth, was of eiȝt and þretti ȝeer, to be tyme þat al þe congregacioun of men of bateyl weren waſtid fro þe tentis, as þe Lord fwore;
xv whos hoond was aȝens hem, þat þei dien fro þe myddil of þe tentis.
xvi Forsoþe aftir þat alle þe fiȝters fallen, xvii þe Lord spak to me, seiyng, xviii þou shalt passe to day þe cooftis of Moab, þe citee, Ar bi name;
xix and comyng nyȝ into þe side cooftis of þe fones of Amon, be war leſt þow fiȝte aȝens hem, ne be þou meued to batayl; forsoþe Y shal not ȝeue to þee of þe loond of þe fones of Amon, for to þe fones of Loth I haue ȝeue it into possellioun.

- xx ȝe loond of geauntis it is holdun, and in it sum tyme dwelten geauntis, whom þe Ammonites clepen Zouymy;
- xxi myche puple, and greet, and of feyre lengþe, as Enachym, whom þe Lord dide awey fro þe face of hem, and made hem to dwelle for hem, xxii as he dide to þe fones of Esau, þat dwellen in Seyr, doyng awey Horreis, and þe loond of hem to hem takyng, þe which þei weelden vnto þe tyme þat is nowe.
xxiii Forsoþe Eueos, þat dwellen in Afferym vnto Gazam, men of Capadoce putten out; þe whiche goon out fro Capadoce, diden hem awey, and dwelliden for hem.
xxiv Ryse ȝe, and passiþ þe strem of Arnon; loo! Y haue takun in þin hoond Seon, þe kyng of Esebon, and Amorreis; and þe loond of it bigynne to take possellioun, and doo aȝens hym batayle.
xxv To day Y shal bigynne to fende drede and þi feerde into puplis þat dwellen vndur al heuen, þat þi name herd, þei dreden, and bi maner of wymmen berynge child þei bigynnen to tremble, and wiþ forwe biholden.
xxvi Y sente þerfore messangeris fro þe wildernes of Cademoch to Seon, þe kyng of Esebon, bi pesible wordis, seiyng, xxvii We shulen passe bi þi loond, þe comoun weye we shulen goo; we shulen not goo aside, ne to þe ryȝt ne to þe leſt.
xxviii Lyuelodis bi prijs fel to vs, þat we eeten; water for money ȝif, and so we shulen drynke. Oonlich is, þat þow graunte to vs passyng forþ, xxix as þe fones of Esau diden, þat dwellen in Seyr, and Moabitis, þat dwellen in Ar, to þe tyme þat we comen to Jordan, and passe to þe loond þat þe Lord oure God is to ȝyung to vs.
xxx And Seon, þe kyng of Esebon, wolde not ȝyue to vs passyng; for þe Lord, þi God, inwardly hardide þe spirite of hym, and aȝen festnede þe herte of hym, þat so he were take into þin hoondis, as now þow feelt.
xxxi And þe Lord seide to me, Loo! Y haue begunne to take to þee Seon, and þe loond of hym; bigynne to weelde it.
xxxii And Seon goon out to mete wiþ vs, wiþ al his puple, to þe batayle in Jasa.
xxxiii And þe Lord oure God took hym to vs, and we han smyten hym, wiþ his fones, and al his puple.
xxxiv And alle þe cytees in þat tyme we token, sleyn þe dwellers of hem, 'men, and wymmen, and children; we laſten not in hem eny þing, xxxv out take beefstys þat camen into þe part of þe praye takers, and spoylis of þe cytees whiche we token.
xxxvi Fro Aroer, þat is vpon þe brenke of þe strem of Arnon, fro þe wallid town þat in þe valeye is set, vnto

Galaad, was no street or cytee, þat oure hoondis askapide. Alle þe Lord oure God took to vs; xxxvii wiþ oute þe loond of þe sones of Amon, to þe which we comen not nyȝ, and alle þat liggen to þe streem of Jeboch, and þe mounteyn citees, and alle þe places fro þe whiche þe Lord oure God haþ defendid vs.

Capitulum III.

- i And so turned we stieden vp bi þe weye of Basan; and Og, þe kyng of Basan, wente out into aȝencomynge to vs wiþ his puple, to fiȝte in Edray.
ii And þe Lord seide to me, Ne drede þow hym, for in þin hoond he is taak, wiþ al þe puple, and his loond; and þow shalt doo to hym as þow didist to Seon, þe kyng of Amorreis, þat dwellid in Esebon.
iii þe Lord oure God took also þanne in oure hoondis Og, þe kyng of Basan, and al þe puple of hym; and we han smytun hym vnto þe deep, iv waſtynge alle þe cytees of hym o tyme; þere was no wallid town þat vs myȝte askape; sexti citees, al þe regioune of Argob, of þe kyngdom of Og in Basan.
v Alle þe cytees weren strengþid wiþ mooſt hiȝe wallis, ȝatis, and barris; wiþ ouden townes vnnoumbrable, þat hadden no wallis.
vi And we diden hem awey, as we diden to Seon, þe kyng of Esebon, deſtroyinge al citee, and men, and wymmen, and litil children;
vii beeſtis forſoþe and ſpuyles of þe cytees we han frodrawen.
viii And we han take þat tyme þe loond fro þe hoond of two kyngis of Amorreis, þat weren biȝonde Jordan, fro þe streem of Arnon vnto þe hil of Hermon, ix þat Sydony Saryon clepen, and Amoreis Sanyr; x alle þe cytees þat ben fet in pleyn, and al þe loond of Galaad, and Bafan, vnto Sewa and Edrai, þe citees of þe kyngdom of Og, in Basan.
xi Oonli forſoþe Og, þe kyng of Basan, left of þe ſtok of geauntis; and þe bedde of hym is ſhewid yren, þat is in Rabath, of þe sones of Amon, ten cubites hauyng of lengþe, and foure of brede, at þe meſure of þe cubite of mannis hoond.
xii And þe loond we weeldiden in þat tyme, fro Aroer, þat is vpon þe brenk of þe streem of Arnon, vnto þe myddil part of þe hil of Galaad; and þe cytees of it Y haue ȝeuen to Ruben and Gad.
xiii Forſoþe þat oþer part of Galaad, and al Basan, of þe kyngdom of Og, Y haue take to þe half lynage of Manaffe, al þe regioune of Argob. Al Basan was clepid þe loond of geauntis.
xiv Jayr, þe ſone of Manaffe, weeldide al þe regioune of Argob, vnto þe teermes of Geſſuri, and Machati; and he cleep Basan bi his name, Anothiayr, þat is, þe towns of Jayr, vnto þe day þat is nowe.
xv Forſoþe to Machir Y haue ȝeue Galaad;

- xvi and to þe lynage of Ruben and Gad Y haue ȝeue þe loond of Galaad, vnto þe ſtreem of Arnon, half of þe ſtreem, and þe nyȝ cooftis vnto þe ſtreem of Jeboch, þat is þe teerme of þe sones of Amon;
xvii and þe pleyn of wildernes, and Jordan, and teermes of Cenereth vnto þe ſee of deſeert, þat is mooſt salt, to þe rotis of þe hil of Phasga, aȝens þe eest.
xviii And Y haue comaundid to ȝow in þat tyme, feyng, þe Lord oure God ȝyueþ to ȝow þis loond into herytage; fulspeed goo ȝe before ȝoure briþeren, þe sones of Yrael, alle þe ſtronge men, xix wiþ ouden wyues and litil children and beeſtis. I haue knowun forſoþe þat ȝe han manye beeſtis, and in þes citees ſhulen abide, 'þe whiche Y ȝaf to ȝow, xx to þe tyme þat þe Lord ȝyue refst to ȝoure briþeren, as he haþ ȝyue to ȝow; and alſo þat þei weelden þe loond þat he is to ȝuyng to hem, biȝonde Jordan; þanne ſhal turne aȝen echon into his poſſeffioun, þat Y haue ȝeue to ȝow.
xxi To Jofue forſoþe in þat tyme I haue comaundid, feyng, Biȝ eyen han ſeen þat þe Lord oure God dide to þes two kyngis; ſo he ſhal do to al þe rewmes, xxii to þe whiche þow art to paſſyng; ne drede þow hem; þe Lord oure God ſhal fiȝt for us.
xxiii And I preyede þe Lord in þat time, feyng, xxiv Lord God, þow haſt bigunne to ſhewe to þi ſeruant biȝ mochilnes, and mooſt ſtrong hoond, ne forſoþe þere is anoþer God or in heuene or in erþe, þat may doo þi werkis, and be comparyſound to þi ſtrengþe.
xxv I ſhal paſſe þerfor, and ſe þis beſt loond biȝonde Jordan, and þis noble hil and Liban.
xxvi And þe Lord was wroþ to me for ȝow, ne herde me, but ſeide to me, It ſufficiþ to þee; namore ſpeke þow of þis biȝing to me.
xxvii Sty vp to þe cop of Phasge, and biȝ eyen turn about to þe west, and norþ, ſouþ, and eest, and bihold; ne forſoþe þow ſhalt paſſe þis Jordan.
xxviii Comaund to Jofue, and ſtrengþe hym, and comfort; for he ſhal goo before þis puple, and dyuyde to hem þe loond þat þou art to feyng.
xxix And we dwelliden in þe valeye, aȝens þe 'mawmet temple of Phegor.

Capitulum IIII.

- i And nowe, Israel, here þe heeftis and domys, þat Y teche þee; þat doyngे þem þow lyue, and goyng yn þow weelde þe loond þat þe Lord God of ȝoure fadres is to ȝeue to ȝow.
ii ȝe ſhulen not adde to þe word þat Y ſpeke to ȝow, ne take awey from it; kepe ȝe þe heeftis of þe Lord ȝoure God, þe whiche Y comaunde to ȝow.
iii ȝoure eyen han ſeen alle biȝgis þat þe Lord dide aȝens Belphegor; what maner wife he haþ brufid down al þe heriers of it, fro þe myddil of ȝou.

- iv Forsoþe þe þat cleuen to be Lord ȝoure God, lyuen alle, to be day þat is nowe.
- v ȝe witen þat I tauȝt ȝow heestis, and riȝtwisnesses, as hab comaundid to me be Lord my God; so ȝe shulen doo hem in be loond þat ȝe ben to weeldynge,
- vi and kepe and fulfille in dede. Forsoþe þis is ȝoure wiðdam, and vndirstondyng before be puplys, þat þei alle, herynge þes heestis, seyn, Loo! a wise puple and an vndirstondyng! a greet folk of kynde!
- vii Ne þere is oþer nation so greet, þat haþ goddis neijynge to hem, as ȝoure God is nyȝ to alle ȝoure holi preiers.
- viii What is forsoþe oþer folk of kynde so noble, þat haþ ceremoyns, and ryȝtwis domys, and al be lawe, þat I purpose to day before ȝoure eyen?
- ix Keep þerfor þi silf, and þi soule bisilich; ne forȝeþ bow be wordis þat þin eyen han seen, and ne falle þei out of þin herte, alle be dayes of þi lijf. Pow shalt teche hem þi sones, and þi sone sones;
- x be day `be which þow stodist before be Lord þi God in Oreb, whanne to me spak be Lord, seiyng, Gedre to me be puple, þat he here my wordis, and lerne to dredre me al tyme þat he lyueþ in erþe, and teche he his sones.
- xi And ȝe neijeden to be root of be hyl, þat brent vnto heuene; and þere weren in it derknessis, and clowde, and myftynes.
- xii And be Lord spak to ȝow fro be myddil of be fier; be voyce of be wordis of hym ȝe herden, and be forme out ryȝt sawȝ ȝe not.
- xiii And he shewide to ȝow his couenaunt, þat he comaundide þat ȝe shulden doo, and be ten wordis, þat he wroot in be two stonen tablis.
- xiv And to me he comaundide in þat tyme, þat I shulde teche ȝow cerymoyns, and domes, þat ȝe Owen to doo in be loond þat ȝe ben to weelden.
- xv Kepe ȝe þerfor bisiliche ȝoure soulis; ȝe han not seen eny lickenes, in be day þat be Lord spak to ȝou in Oreb, fro be myddil of fier;
- xvi leſt perauenture difseyued ȝe maken to ȝow a graued liknes, oþer ymage of maal, or of femaal;
- xvii liknes of alle beeftis þat ben vpon erþe, or of briddis vndur heuene fleyng,
- xviii and of crepyng beeftis þat meuen in be erþe, oþer of fisshis þat vndir be erþe dwellen in watrys;
- xix leſt perauenture be eyen reryd to heuene, þou fe be sunne, and be mone, and alle be sterries of heuene, and by errour difseyued þow honoure hem, and herye, be whiche of nouȝt maad be Lord þi God, into feruyce to al folk of kynde, þat ben vndur heuene.
- xx Forsoþe be Lord took ȝow, and ladde ȝow oute fro be yren forneys of Egipte, þat he haue a puple bi herytage, as it is in be day þat is nowe.
- xxi And be Lord was wroþ aȝens me, for ȝoure wordis, and swore þat I shulde not passe Jordan, ne goo into be best loond, þat he is to ȝuyng to ȝow.
- xxii Loo! I dye in þis erþe; I shal not passe Jordan; ȝe shulen passe, and weelde þe noble loond.
- xxiii Be war, leſt eny tyme þow forȝeete þe couenaunt of be Lord þi God, þat I made couenaunt wiþ þee, and make to þee a graued liknes of hem þat be Lord defendide to make.
- xxiv For be Lord þi God fier waſtyng is; a God gelows.
- xxv If ȝe geten sones, and sones sones, and dwelliden in be loond, and desseyued make to ȝow eny liknes, doyng yuel before be Lord ȝoure God, þat ȝe terren hym to wræþe,
- xxvi witnessses Y inwardly clepe to day heuene and erþe, þat foone ȝe ben to perishen fro be loond, þat, Jordan ouerpaffid, ȝe ben to weelden; ȝe shulen not dwelle in it long tyme, but be Lord ȝou shal doo awey,
- xxvii and scater into alle folkis of kynde, and ȝe shulen dwelle fewe in þe naciouns, to whiche be Lord is to lede ȝou.
- xxviii And þere ȝe shulen serue to goddis, be whiche bi hoond of men ben forgid of tree, and stoon, þat seen not, ne heren, ne eten, ne smellen.
- xxix And whanne þou fechist þere be Lord þi God, þow shalt fynde hym; so neuerþelater þat wiþ al þin herte þow seche, and wiþ al be tribulacioun of þi soule.
- xxx After þat þee han foundun alle þingis þat ben before seid, forsoþe be last tyme þow shalt turne aȝen to be Lord þi God, and þow shalt here be voyce of hym.
- xxxi For a mercyalbe God be Lord þi God is; he shal not leeue þee, ne vterlich doo awey, ne he shal forȝete þe couenaunt in be which he swore to þi fadris.
- xxxii Alþ bow of be oold dayes þat weren before þee, fro be daye þat be Lord þi God fourmede man vpon erþe, fro be hiȝest of heuene vnto be hiȝest of it, if þere is doon eny tyme fiche a maner þing, or euer is knowun,
- xxxiii þat be puple herde be voyce of be God spekyng fro be myddil of fier, as þow herdist, and sawȝ;
- xxxiv if God dide, þat he ȝede in, and took to hym a folk of kynde fro be myddil of naciouns, bi temptaciouns, signes, and wondres, bi fiȝt, and strong hoond, and streiȝt out be arme, and orrible fiȝtes, after alle þingis þat dide for ȝow be Lord ȝoure God, in Egipte, seyng ȝin eyen;
- xxxv þat þow knewe for be Lord he a God, and þere is noon oþer but oon.
- xxxvi Fro heuene he made þee to here his voyce, þat he teche þee; and in be loond he haþ shewid to þee his moost fier, and þow haſt herde be wordis of hym fro be myddil of fier;
- xxxvii for he haþ loued þi fadres, and chosun be seed of hem after hem. And he ladde out þee, goyng before in his greet vertue, fro Egipte,
- xxxviii þat he doo awey moost naciouns, and be strengere, in þin entree, and in lede þee, and ȝeue to þee þe loond of hem into possellioun, as þow biholdist in þe day þat is now.

xxxix Know þow þerfor to day, and þenk in þin herte, þat þe Lord he is a God in heuene aboue, and in erþe beneþe, and þere is noon oþer.

xli Kepe þow þe heeftis of hym, and maundements, þat I comaunde to þee, þat wel it be to þee, and þi sones after þee, and dwelle þow myche tyme vpon þe erþe, þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee.

xlii Þanne Moyses feuerde þre citees, biȝonde Jordan, at þe eft plage, xliii þat to hem fleeȝ þe which fleeþ a neiȝbour, not wilnyng, ne were enemy before oon and oþer day, and to oon of þese citees myȝte ascape;

xliii Bosor, in wildernesse, þat is set in þe wijlde feeldi loond, of þe lynage of Ruben; and Ramoth, in Galaad, þat is in þe lynage of Gad; and Golan, in Bafan, þat is in þe lynage of Manasse.

xliiii þis is þe lawe þat Moyses purpoſide before þe sones of Yrael, xlv and þese þe witnessyngis, and cerymoyns, þat he spak to þe sones of Yrael, whanne þei wenten out of Egipte, xlivi ouer Jordan, in þe valey aȝens þe `mawmet temple of Phegor, in þe loond of Seon, kyng of Amorre, þat dwellid in Efebon, whom smoot Moyses. Forsoþe þe sones of Israel goon out of Egipte, xlivii weeldiden þe loond of hym, and þe loond of Og, kyng of Bafan, of þe two kyngis of Amorreis, þat weren biȝonde Jordan, at þe ryfynge of þe funne;

xlviii fro Aroer, þat is set vpon þe brenk of þe streme of Arnon, vnto þe hil of Seon, þat is in Hermon;

xlix al þe pleyn biȝonde þe Jordan, to þe eest plage, vnto þe see of widernes, and into þe rotis of þe hil of Phasga.

Capitulum V.

i And Moyses clepide al Yrael, and seide to hym, Here, Yrael, cerymoyns, and domys, þat I speke in ȝoure eris to day; lerne ȝe hem, and fulfillip in dede.

ii þe Lord oure God haþ couenauntid wiþ vs a boond of pees in Oreb; iii not wiþ oure fadres he made couenaunt, but wiþ vs, þat nowe ben, and lyuen.

iv Face to face he haþ spoke to vs in þe hil, fro þe myddil of fier.

v I felawe and meene was bitwix God and ȝow in þat tyme, þat I tolde to ȝow þe wordis of hym; forsoþe ȝe dreden þe fier, and ȝe stieden not into þe hil. And he seip, vi I þe Lord þi God, þat haue ladde þee out of þe loond of Egipte, fro þe hows of seruage.

vii Pow shalt not haue alyen goddis in my ſiȝt.

viii Pow shalt not make to þee grauen þing, ne liknes of alle þingis þat in heuen ben aboue, and þat in erþe bynþe, and þat dwellen in watres vndur erþe;

ix þow shalt not honoure hem, ne herye; forsoþe I am þe Lord þi God, a ielouse God, ȝeeldynge wickidnes of fadres into sones, into þe bridde and þe ferþe generacioun to hem þat hatiden me, x and doyngे mercy into many þowfandes to hem þat louen me, and kepen myn heeftes.

xi Pow shalt not mystaak þe name of þe Lord þi God idillich, for he shal not be vnpunyshid, þat vpon veyn þing þe name of hym takip.

xii Kepip þe day of þe saboth, þat þow halwe it, as þe Lord þi God haþ comaunid to þee.

xiii Six dayes þow shalt worche, and doo alle þi werkis;

xiv þe feuenþe day is of þe saboth, þat is þe rest of þe Lord þi God. Pow shalt not doo in it eny þing of werke, þow, and þi sone, and dowȝter, seruaunt, and handmayden, and oxe, and asse, and al þi beeþt, and pilgryme þat is wiþ ynne þi ȝatis; þat þi seruaunt and handmayde resten, and as þow.

xv Haue mynde, þat and þi self seruede in Egipte, and þe Lord þi God ladde þee out þens in a stronge hoond, and in an arme streiȝt out; þerfore he haþ comaunid to þee, þat þow kepe wel þe day of þe saboth.

xvi Honour þi fader and þi moder, as þe Lord þi God haþ comaunid to þee, þat longe tyme þow lyue, and wel be to þee in þe loond þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyuynge to þee.

xvii Pow shalt not flee.

xviii And þow shalt do no lecherrye.

xix And þow shalt doo no þeft.

xx Pou shalt not speke aȝens þi neiȝbore fals witnes.

xxi Pow shalt not coueyte þe wif of þi neiȝbore, ne hows, ne feelde, ne seruaunt, ne handmayde, ne oxe, ne asse, and alle þingis þat of hym ben.

xxii þes wordes þe Lord spak to al oure multitude, in þe hil, of þe myddel of fier and clowde and derknesse, wiþ a greet voyce, no þinge addinge more ouer; and he wroot hem in two stonen tablis, þat he took to me.

xxiii ȝe forsoþe, after þat ȝe herden a voice fro þe myddel of derknessis, and þat ȝe seen þe hil to brenne, ȝe comen to me alle þe princes of þe lynages, and þe more þurȝ birþe, xxiv and seiden, Loo! þe Lord oure God haþ shewid to vs maieste, and his mychylness; þe voyce of hym we han herd fro þe myddil of þe fier, and we han preued to day þat þurȝ God spekyng wiþ man a man lyueþ.

xxv Whi þanne shulen we die, and shal deuowre vs bis moost fier? Forsoþe if we heren more þe voice of þe Lord oure God, we shulen die.

xxvi What is al flesh, þat he here þe voice of God lyuynge, þat fro þe myddil of fier spekiþ, as we han herd, and myȝten lyue?

xxvii Pow more goo niȝ, and here alle þingis þat þe Lord oure God shal seye to þee; and þow shalt speke to vs, and we herynge shal doon hem.

xxviii Þe which þing whanne þe Lord hadde herd, seiȝ to me, I haue herd þe voys of þe wordes of þis puple, þat þei han spokun to þee; wel alle þingis þei han spokun.

xxix Who ȝyueþ hem siche þouȝt to haue, þat þei dreden me, and kepen alle my maundementis in al tyme, þat wel it be to hem, and to þe sones of hem, into wiȝ outeren ende?

xxx Go, and sey to hem, Turneþ aȝen into ȝoure tentis.

xxxi Forsoþe þow stond here wiȝ me, and I shal speke to þee al þe maundementis, and ceremoyns, and domes, þat þow shalt teche hem, þat þei doon hem in þe loond þat Y shal ȝeue to hem into possessiouȝ.

xxxii Kepe ȝe þerfore, and doþ hem, 'þe whiche þe Lord God haþ comaundid to ȝow; ȝe shulen not bowe aside, ne to þe ryȝt, ne to þe left, xxxiii but bi þe weie þat þe Lord ȝoure God haþ comaundid, ȝe shulen goo, þat ȝe lyuen, and wel be to ȝow, and ȝoure daies ben drawun along in þe loond of ȝoure possessyoun.

Capitulum VI.

i These ben þe heestis, and cerymoyns, and domes, þat þe Lord oure God comaundide þat Y shulde teche ȝow, and ȝe doon hem in þe loond to þe which to be weelid ȝe passen forþe;

ii þat þow drede þe Lord þi God, and kepe alle þe maundementis, and heestis of hym, þat I comaunde to þee, and to þi sones, and to þi sones sones, alle þe dais of þi liȝt, þat þi days ben drawnen along.

iii Here, Yrael, and keep wel, þat þow doo þat þe Lord haþ comaundid to þee, and wel be to þee, and þow be multiplied forþermore, as þe Lord God of þi fadres haþ behoot, to ȝyue to þee þe loond flowyng mylk and honȝ.

iv Here, Yrael, þe Lord þi God o God is.

v Pow shalt loue þe Lord þi God of al þin herte, and of al þi soule, and of alle þi strengbis.

vi And þes wordis þat I comaunde to þee to day, shulen be in þin herte; vii and þow shalt telle hem to þi sones, and deuowtly þenk, syttinge in þin howse, and goyng in þe weie, and slepyng, and aryfynge.

viii And þow shalt bynd hem as a tokne in þin hoond; and þei shulen be before þin eyen, and not be meued; ix and þow shalt write hem in þe presfold and dores of þin hows.

x And whanne þe Lord þi God haþ lad þee into þe loond, for þe which he swore to þi fadrys Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, and ȝeueþ to þee greet and best citees, þat þow haft not bilde, xi howfes ful of alle ritcheffes, þat þow haft not made out, and cysterns, þat þow haft not doluen, vyyn places, and olyue places, þat þow haft not plantid, and eetist, and were fulfillid, xii be war bisiȝ þat þow forȝete not þe Lord, þat haþ lad þee out of þe loond of Egipte, fro þe hows of seruage.

xiii Þe Lord þi God þow shalt drede, and to hym oonli þou shalt serue, and bi þe name of hym þow shalt swere.

xiv ȝe shulen not go aftir alyen goddis, of alle gentilis þat about ȝow ben;

xv for a gelouse God þe Lord þi God, in þe myddil of þee, leſt eny tyme þe woodnes of þe Lord þi God wrappē aȝens þee, and doo þee awey fro þe vttermoost of þe erþe.

xvi Pow shalt not tempte þe Lord þi God, as þow hast temptid in þe place of temptynge.

xvii Keep þe heestis of þe Lord þi God, and witnessyngis, and cerymoyns, þat he comaundid to þee;

xviii and do þat is plesaunt and good in þe siȝt of þe Lord, þat it wel be to þee, and þow goon yn weelde þe best loond, of þe which þe Lord haþ swore to þi fadres, xix þat he shal do awey alle þin enemyes bifore þee, as he haþ spokun.

xx And whanne þi fone askiȝ þee to morwe, seiyng, What to hem self wolen þes witnessyngis, and cerymoyns, and domes, þat þe Lord oure God haþ comaundid to vs?

xxi þow shalt seie to hym, Prallis of Pharao we weren in Egipte, and þe Lord ladde vs out of Egipte, in a strong hoond; xxii and haþ doo signes, and greet wondris, and moost yuel in Egipte, aȝens Pharao, and alle þe seruauntis of hym, in ȝoure siȝt.

xxiii And he ladde ȝow out þens, þat vs lad ynne, he ȝyue þe loond, vp þe which he haþ swore to oure fadres.

xxiv And þe Lord haþ comaundid to vs, þat we doon alle þes lawful þinges, and drede þe Lord oure God, þat it wel be to vs alle þe dayes of oure liȝt, as it is to day.

xxv And he shal be merciable of vs, if we doon and kepen alle þe heestes of hym, bifore þe Lord oure God, as he haþ comaundyd to vs.

Capitulum VII.

i Whanne þe Lord þi God haþ lad þee into þe loond, þe which to weelde þow shalt goo yn, and doþ awey many gentilis before þee, Ethee, and Gergefe, and Amorre, Chananee, Pherefe, Euee, and Gebuse; feuen folkis, of myche more noumbrē þan þow art, and stronger 'þan þow;

ii and þe Lord God take hem to þee, and þow shalt smyte hem vnto þe deþ, þow shalt not maak wiþ hem couenaunt of pees, ne haue mercy of hem, iii ne felawship wiþ hem mariagis; þi douȝter þow shalt not ȝeue to his sone, ne his douȝter þow shalt take to þi sone;
 ivi for she shal lede aside þi sone, þat he folwe not me, and þat more he serue to alyen goddis; and þe woodenes of þe Lord shal wrappe, and loone do þee awey.
 v But rafþer þes þingis ȝe shulen doo to hem; þe auters of hem vndurturneþ, and brekiþ togidres þe ymagis, and þe 'mawmet wodis hewiþ down, and þe grauen þingis brenneþ.
 vi For an holy puple þou art to þe Lord þi God; þe Lord þi God haþ chosen þee, þat þow be to hym a special puple, fro al þe puples þat ben vpon erþe.
 vii Not for al þe gentilis in noumbr ȝe vencusiden, þe Lord is oyned to ȝow, and haþ chosun ȝow, whanne ȝe ben fewer han alle þe puples;
 viii but for þe Lord haþ loued ȝow, and haþ kept þe testament þat he haþ sworn to ȝour fadres; and he haþ lad ȝow out in a strong hoond, and haþ raunsomyd fro þe hows of seruage, and fro þe hows of Pharao, þe kyng of Egipte.
 ix And þow shalt wytte, for þe Lord þi God he is a strong God, and a feiþful, kepynge couenaunt and mercy to þilk þat louen hym, and to hem þat kepen his heeftis, into þowsfande generaciouns;
 x and ȝeeldynge anoon to hem þat haten hym, so þat he scater hem, and ferþer differre not; anoon ȝeeldynge to hem þat þei deseruen.
 xi Kepe þerfore þe heeftis, and cerymoyns, and domes, þat I comaunde to þee to day, þat þow doo.
 xii If after þat þow herist þes domes, kepist hem, and doost, þe Lord þi God shal kepe couenaunt to þee, and mercy, þat he swore to þi fadres.
 xiii And he shal loue þee, and multiplie, and he shal blesse to þe fruyt of þi wombe, and to þe fruyt of þi loond, and to þi whete, and to þi vyndage, oyle, and droues, flockis of þi sheep, vpon þe loond for þe which he haþ swore to þi fadris, þat he ȝeue it to þee.
 xiv Blisſid þow shalt be among alle puples; þere shal not be anentis þee bareyn of eiper kynde, as wel in men, as in þi flockis.
 xv Pe Lord shal doo awey fro þee al forwe; and þe worst infirmytees of Egipte, þat þow haft knowun, he shal not put in to þee, but to al þin enemyes.
 xvi And þow shalt deuowr alle þe puples, 'þe whiche þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee; þin eye shal not spare to hem, ne serue to þe goddis of hem, leſt þei ben into dounfallynge of þee.
 xvii If þow feiſt in þin herte, Mo ben þes folk þan Y, what maner wise shal I mowe doo awey hem?
 xviii wol þow not drede, but recorde þat þe Lord þi God haþ doo to Pharao, and to alle þe Egipciens, xix mooſt veniaunces, þat þin eyen han seen, and toknes, and wondres, and a strong hoond, and a strauȝt out arme, þat þe Lord þi God out lede þee; so þow shalt doo to alle puples 'þe which þow dredift.

 xx Forþermore and horsefleȝis þe Lord þi God shal fende to hem, to þe tyme þat he doo awey alle, and scater, þat fleen þee, and ben 'hid mowen þei not.
 xxi þou shalt not drede hem, for þe Lord þi God is in þe myddil of þee, þe greet God, and feerful.
 xxii He shal waste þes naciouns 'in þi siȝt, litilmele and bi partees; þow shalt not mowe doo hem awey togidre, leſt perauenture be multiplied aȝens þee þe beeſtys of þe erþe;
 xxiii and þe Lord þi God shal ȝeue hem in þi siȝt, and fle hem, to þe tyme þat fulli þei ben doon aweie.
 xxiv And he shal take þe kyngis of hem into þin hoondes, and þow shalt scater þe names of hem vndur heuene; no man shal mowe wiþſtoonde to þee, to þe tyme þat þow al to-trede hem.
 xxv Pe grauen þingis of hem wiþ fier þow shalt brenne; þow shalt not coueyt siluer and gold, of þe whiche þei ben maad, ne þow shalt take of hem to þee eny þing, ne offend þow for hem, for abhomynacioun it is of þe Lord þi God.
 xxvi Ne bryng þow yn eny þing of þe mawmet into þin hows, leſt þow be maad accurfid, as and it is; as stynk þow shalt loop, and as filþhed and horþe of abhomynacioun þow shalt haue, for cursid it is.

Capitulum VIII.

i Al maundement þat I comaunde to þee to day be war bisili þat þow doo, þat ȝe mowen lyue, and þat ȝe ben multiplied, and goon yn, ȝe weelden þe loond, for þe which þe Lord haþ sworn to ȝoure fadres.
 ii And þow shalt recorde of al þe weie, bi þe which þe Lord þi God haþ lad þee fourti wintir, bi deseert, þat he trauyle þee, and tempte; and weren knowun þat in þin inwitte weren styrud, wheþer þow woldift kepe þe heeftis of hym, or noo.
 iii He trauelde þee wiþ scarfenes, and ȝaf to þee meet manna, þe whiche vnknewe þow, and þi fadres, þat he shewe to þee, þat not in oonly breed lyueþ man, but in eche word of God, þat gop out of þe mouȝt of þe Lord.
 ivi ȝi cloþinge, wiþ þe which þow were couerd, for eelde faylide not, and þi foot was not vndur bryſſed, loo! þe fourtiþ ȝeer is;
 v þat þow aȝen þenke in þin herte, for as a man techiþ his sone, so þe Lord þi God tauȝte þee, vi þat þow kepe þe heeftis of þe Lord þi God, and goo in þe weies of hym, and drede hym.
 vii Forþoþe þe Lord þi God shal lede þee into a good lond, þe lond of ryuers, and of watrys, and of welles, in whos feedis and hillis breken out gedrynges of flodes;

viii þe loond of whete, and of barley, and of vynes, in þe which figis, and poomgernettis, and olyues growen; þe loond of oyle and of hony;
 ix where wiþ out eny scarfenes þow shalt eete þi breed, and þow shal ful vse þe plente of alle þinges; whos stones ben yren, and of þe hillis of it ben doluen metallys of brasse;
 x þat whanne þow eetist, and were fulfillid, þow blesse to þe Lord þi God for þe best loond þat he haþ ȝeue to þee.
 xi Kepe wel, and bewarre, leſt eny tyme þow forȝete þe Lord þi God, and myſleue þe heefis of hym, and domes, and cerymoyns, þat Y comaunde to þee to day; xii leſt after þat þow etist, and were fillid, feyr howfes bildift, and dwellidift in hem, xiii and haſt droues of oxen, and flockis of sheep, and plente of ſiluer, and of gold, and of alle þinges, xiv þin herte be reryd, and haue no mynde of þe Lord þi God, þat haþ lad þee out of þe loond of Egipte, and of þe hows of feruage, xv and þi leder was in greet wildernes, and feerful, in þe which was ſerpent þurȝ blaſt brennyng, and ſcorpioun, and 'dipſas, þat is, an eddre þat whom he bitiþ, he makeþ þurȝ þrefte die, and noon algatis watris; þe which ladde out ryueres of þe mooſt hard ſtoon,
 xvi and fedde þee wiþ manna in wildernes, þe which knewen not þi fadres. And after þat he trauelde þee, and ſtrengþide, at þe eende he hadde mercy of þee, xvii leſt þow feidift in þin herte, My ſtrengþe, and myȝt of myn hoond alle þes þingis to me han ȝeuen.
 xviii But record þow of þe Lord þi God, þat he ſtrengþes haþ ȝeue to þee, þat he fulfillie his couenaunt, 'vp þe which he haþ ſworne to þi fadris, as þe present day ſhewiþ.
 xix If forſoþe forȝeten of þe Lord þi God, folwedift alien goddis, and herye hem, and honoure, loo! now Y before ſeye to þee, þat vtterly þow shalt periſhe; xx as þe gentilis, þat þe Lord dyde awey in þin entre, fo and ȝe ſhulen periſhe, if inobeifhaunt ȝe ſhulen be to þe voys of þe Lord ȝoure God.

Capitulum IX.

i Here, Yrael; þow shalt to day gon ouer Jordan, þat þow weelde mooſt nacioouns, and ſtrenger þan þow; greet cytees, and into heuene wallid;
 ii a greet puple, and an hieȝe; þe fones of Enachym, 'þe whiche þi ſelf haſt ſeen, and herd, to þe whiche no man may aȝen wiþtoond.
 iii Panne to day þow shalt wite, þat þe Lord þi God he ſhal go before þee; fier deuowryng and waſtyng, þe which briſſe hem down, and doo awey, and ſcatre before þi face ſwiftly, as he haþ ſpokun to þee.
 iv Ne ſey þow in þin herte, whanne þe Lord þi God haþ doo hem awey in þi ſiȝt, For my riȝtwiſnes þe Lord haþ lad me in, þat þis loond I weelde; ſiþ for her wickidneſſes þes nacioouns ben doon awey.

 v Forſoþe ne for þi riȝtwiſneſſes, and euennesse of þin herte þow shalt goon yn, þat þow weelde þe loondes of hem; but for þei diden vnpitownes, þe comyng yn, ben doon awey, and þat þe Lord fulfillie his word þat vnder ooþ he haþ bihoot to þi fadres Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob.
 vi Wite þow þen, þat not for þi riȝtwiſneſſe þe Lord þi God ſhal ȝyue to þee þis best loond into poſſeſſiouн, ſiþ þow art a puple of mooſt hard nolle.
 vii Haue mynde, and forȝete þow not what maner wife to wræþe þow terredift þe Lord þi God in wildernes; fro þat day þat þow wentift out of Egipte vnto þis place, euere more aȝens þe Lord þou ſtriedift.
 viii For and in Oreb þow terredift hym, and wroþ he wolde doo þee awey, ix whanne I ſtiede into þe hil, þat I took two ſtonen tablis, tablis of couenaunt, þe Lord couenauntide wiþ ȝou, and I abood in þe hil fourti days and nyȝt, breed not etyng, and water not drynkyng.
 x And þe Lord ȝaf to me two ſtonen tablis, eiþer wrytun wiþ þe fyngre of God, and conteynyng alle þe wordis þat to ȝow he ſpak in þe hil, fro þe myddil of fier, whanne al þe companye of þe puple was gedrid.
 xi And whanne fourti days weren paſſed, and ſo feele nyȝt, þe Lord ȝaf to me two ſtonen tablis, tablis of
 boond of pees;
 xii and he ſeide to me, Ryſe, and go hens anoon, for þi puple, þat þow haſt lad out of Egipte, han forſake ſwiflthy þe weie þat þou haſt ſhewid to hem, and han maad to hem ſelf a ȝoten calf.
 xiii And eft þe Lord ſeide to me, I biholde, þat þis puple is of hard nolle;
 xiv ſuffre me, þat I trede hym doun, and doo awey þe name of hym vndur heuene; and Y ſhal ſet þee vpon folk þat is more and ſtrenger þan þis.
 xv And whanne I ſhulde deſcende fro þe hil brennyng, and two tablis of þe boond of pees I heelde wiþ eiþer
 hoond,
 xvi and ſawȝ ȝow to haue ſynned to þe Lord ȝoure God, and haue maad to ȝow a ȝoten calf, and han forſake ſwiflthy þe wey of hym, þat he ſhewide to ȝow, xvii I prewe afer þe tablis fro myn hoondis, and breek hem in ȝoure ſiȝt.
 xviii And I felle down before þe Lord as before, fourti days and fourti nyȝt, breed not etyng, and water not drynkyng, for alle ȝoure ſynnes þat ȝe diden aȝens þe Lord, and hym to wræþe han terred; xix forſoþe I dredde þe indignacioun and þe wræþe of hym, 'in which aȝens ȝow iſtyrd, wold doo ȝow a wey.
 And þe Lord herde me alſo þis while.
 xx Forſoþe aȝens Aaron hugeli wroþ, he wolde hym trede, and for hym lijk maner Y preiede.
 xxi Forſoþe ȝoure ſynne þat ȝe diden, þat is, þe calf, takynge Y brent wiþ fier, and in gobetis brekynge, and vtterly into powdre doyng, Y prewe ferre into þe strem þat descendide fro þe hil.

 xxii In þe brennyng forsoþe, and in þe temptynge, and in þe Sepulcres of Lust, ȝe terreden þe Lord; xxiii and whanne Y sente ȝow fro Cades Barne, seyng, Sty ȝe vp, and weelde ȝe þe loond þat I haue ȝeue to ȝow, and ȝe han dispisid þe maundement of þe Lord ȝoure God, and han not leued to hym, ne his voyce heren ȝe wolden;
 xxiv but euer more ȝe weren rebel, fro þe day þat I biganne to knowe ȝow.
 xxv And Y leye before þe Lord fourti days and fourti nyȝtis, in þe whiche hym mekely Y preyede, þat he ne shulde do ȝou away, as he þratte.
 xxvi And preyinge I seide, Lord God, ne scater þow þi puple, and þin herytage, þat þow haft bouȝt in þi mychilnes, þe which þow haft lad out of Egypce in a strong hoond.
 xxvii Record of þi seruauntis, Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob; ne bihold þow þe hardnes of þis puple, and vnpitwsnes, and synne,
 xxviii left perauenture þe dwellers of þe loond, of þe which þow haft lad vs out, seyn, Þe Lord myȝte not lede hem into þe loond þat he biȝte hem, and hatide hem; þerfor he haþ lad out, þat he fle hem in wildernes,
 xxix þat ben þi puple, and þin herytage, 'þe which þow haft lad out in þi greet strengþe, and in þi strelȝt out arme.

Capitulum X.

i In þat tyme þe Lord seide to me, Plaan to bee two stonen tables, as þe raþer weren; and stye vp to me into þe hil. And þow shalt make a treen ark, ii and I shal write in þe tablis wordes þat weren in hem
 'þe whiche before þou breeke; and þow shalt putt hem into þe ark.
 iii I made þerfor þe ark of trees of Sechym; and whanne I hadde planed two stonen tablis, at þe lyknes of þe raþer, I stide vp into þe hil, hauyng hem in hooñdes.
 iv And he wroot in þe tables, after þat þat he hadde wryten before ten wordes, þat þe Lord spak to vs in þe hil, fro þe myddil of fier, whanne þe puple was gedryd, and haþ ȝeue hem to me.
 v And turned aȝen fro þe hil, Y deſſendid, and putte þe tables into þe ark þat I made, þe whiche ȝit hidir to þere ben, as þe Lord haþ comaundid to me.
 vi Forsoþe þe fones of Yrael meeueden tentis fro Beroth, of þe fones of Jachan, in Mosera, where Aaron is deed, and biryed, for whom his fone Eleazar bere þe office of preest.
 vii Pens þei camen in Galaad; fro þe which place goon forþ, þei settiden tentis in Gethabatha, in þe loond of watriis and of stremes.

viii þat tyme I feuerde þe lynage of Leuy, þat he bere þe ark of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and stoond before hym in seruyce, and blesse in þe name of hym, into þe present day.
 ix Wherfor Leuy hadde no part ne posseſſioun wiþ his briþeren, for he þe Lord is þe posseſſioun of hym, as þe Lord þi God haþ bihoot to hym.
 x I forsoþe stood in þe hil, as bifore, fourti dais and fourti nyȝt, and þe Lord herde me in þis while, and wold not leſe þee.
 xi And he seide to me, Go, and weend before þe puple, þat he goo yn, and weelde þe loond þat I haue sworn to þe fadres of hem, þat I shulde take to hem.
 xii And nowe, Yrael, what þing þe Lord þi God askip of þee, but þat þow drede þe Lord þi God, and goo in þe weies of hym, and loue hym, and serue to þe Lord þi God in al þin herte, and in al þi soule;
 xiii and kepe þe heeftis of þe Lord þi God, and þe cerymoyns of hym, þat I to day comaunde to þee, þat wel it be to þee.
 xiv Loo! of þe Lord þi God is heuene, and heuene of heuene, erþe, and alle þingis þat in it ben; xv and neuerþelater to þi faders ioyned is þe Lord, and he louede hem, and haþ chosen þe seed of hem, after hem, þat is, ȝow, fro alle gentils, as to day is preued.
 xvi Kutte ȝe about þerfore þe vttermore part of ȝoure herte, and ȝoure nolle forþermore harde ȝe not.
 xvii For þe Lord oure God he is God of goddis, and Lord of lordyngis; a greet God, and myȝti, and dredful, þat perfoone takeþ not, ne ȝiftis.
 xviii He doþ doom to þe faderles child, and to widewe, and loueþ þe pilgrime, and ȝyueþ to hym lyuelod, and cloþinge.
 xix And ȝe þerfore loueþ pilgrimys, for and ȝe ȝoure self weren pilgrimys in þe loond of Egypce.
 xx Þe Lord þi God þow shalt drede, and to hym þow shalt serue, and to hym þow shalt drawe to, and swere in þe name of hym.
 xxi He is þi preyſynge, and þi God, þat haþ do to þee þes greet þingis, and feerful, þat þin eyen han seen.
 xxii In feuenti soules þi fadres deſſendeden into Egipte, and loo! now þe Lord þi God haþ multiplied þee as sterres of heuene.

Capitulum XI.

i Loue also þe Lord þi God, and kepe wel þe heeftis of hym, and cerymoyns, domes, and maundementis, al tyme.
 ii Knowe ȝe to day þat ȝoure fones vnknownen, þat han not seen þe discipline of þe Lord ȝoure God, þe greet þingis of hym, and strong hoond, and strauȝt arme, iii toknes and werkis, þat he dide in þe myddil of Egipte to Pharao þe kynge, and to al his loond, iv and to al þe oost of Egipciens, and to hors and charys; what maner wife couerden hem watriis of þe

Reed See, whanne þei pursueden ȝow, and þe Lord dide hem awey vnto þe day þat is now; v and to ȝow what þingis he haþ doo in wildernes, to þe tyme þat ȝe camen to þis place; vi and to Dathan and Abyron, þe sones of Eliab, þat was þe sone of Ruben, whom þe erþe, his mouȝ opned, sowpide awey, wiþ howses and tabernaclis, and al þe substaunce of hem þat þei hadden, in þe myddil of Yrael.
 vii ȝoure eyen sawȝen alle þe greet werkis of þe Lord,
 'þe whiche he dide,
 viii þat ȝe kepen alle þe maundementis of hym, þe whiche I to day comaunde to ȝow, and mowen goo yn, and weelde þe loond, to þe which ȝe shulen goon yn, ix and myche tyme lyue in it, þat vndur ooþ þe Lord haþ bihoot to ȝoure fadres, and to þe seed of hem, mylk and hony flowynge.
 x Forsoþe þe loond, to þe which to be weeldid þow shalt goon yn, is not as þe loond of Egipte, of þe which þow wentist out, where þe seed þroun in maner of gardyns moystyng watrys ben lad;
 xi but it is hilli, and feeldi, abidyng fro heuene reynes, xii þat þe Lord þi God euermore visitþ, and þe eyen of hym in it ben, fro þe bigynnynge of þe zeer vnto þe eend of it.
 xiii If þanne ȝe obeshen to myn heestis þat I to day comaunde to ȝou, þat ȝe louen þe Lord ȝoure God, and serue to hym in al ȝoure herte, and in al ȝoure soule; xiv he shal ȝyue to ȝoure loond reyn tymeli and laate, þat ȝe gederen to gider whete, and wyn, and oyle, xv haye of þe feeldes to beeftis to ben fed, and þat ȝe eten and ben fulfillid.
 xvi Be ȝe war, leſt perauenture ȝoure herte be disseyued, and ȝe goon a wey fro þe Lord, and seruen to alyen goddes, and honoure hem; xvii and þe Lord wroop cloose heuenes, and reynes comen not down, ne þe erþe ȝyue his buriownynge, and ȝe perishen swiftli fro þe best loond þat þe Lord is to ȝeuynge to ȝow.
 xviii Putte ȝe þes my wordis in þe hertis, and in ȝoure inwittis, and honge ȝe hem vp for a tokne in hoondis, and among ȝoure eyen lette ȝe.
 xix Teche ȝe ȝoure sones, þat hem þei deuowlis þenken, whanne þow sittist in þin hows, and goſt in þe weye, and lyift, and arylist.
 xx þow shalt wryte hem vpon þe postis and ȝatis of þin hows, xxi þat þi days and of þi sones be multiplied in þe loond þat þe Lord swore to þi fadris, þat he shulde ȝyue to hem, as long as heuene stoont a boue to erþe.
 xxii Forsoþe if ȝe kepen þe heestis þat I comaunde to ȝow, and doon hem, þat ȝe louen þe Lord ȝoure God, and goon in alle þe weyes of hym, drawynge to hym, xxiii þe Lord Almyȝti shal scater alle þes gentilis before ȝoure face, and ȝe shulen weelde hem þat ben more and strenger þan ȝe.

xxiv Eche place þat ȝoure foot tredip, shal be ȝour; fro deseert, and fro Libane, and þe greet flood of Effrate vnto þe west see, shulen ben ȝoure termes.
 xxv No man shal stooned aȝens ȝow; ȝoure dred and feerd shulen ȝyue þe Lord ȝoure God vpon al þe loond þat ȝe ben to trede, as he haþ spoke to ȝow. xxvi Loo! I purpose in ȝoure siȝt to day bleſſynge and cursynge;
 xxvii bleſſynge, if ȝe obeishen to þe heestis of þe Lord ȝour God, þat to day I comaunde to ȝow;
 xxviii cursynge, if ȝe heren not þe maundementis of þe Lord ȝoure God, but gon awey fro þe weie þat Y now shewe to ȝow, and gon after alien goddis þat ȝe knownen not.
 xxix Forsoþe whanne þe Lord þi God ledip þee into þe loond, to þe which to be had þow goost, þow shalt putte bleſſynge vpon þe hil of Garifym, cursynge vpon þe hil Hebal, xxx þat ben biȝonde Jordan, after þe weye þat turneþ to þe funne goynge down, in þe loond of Chananey, þat dwelliþ in þe wilde feeldes aȝens Galgalam, þat is biside þe valey strecchynge and entrynge aferre.
 xxxi Forsoþe ȝe shulen passe Jordan, þat ȝee weelden þe loond þat þe Lord ȝoure God is to ȝyue to ȝow, and ȝe han and weelde it.
 xxxii Se ȝe þerfore þat ȝe fulfillen þe cerymoyns and domes, þat I to day shal putte in ȝoure siȝt.

Capitulum XII.

i Thes ben þe heestes and domes, þat ȝe Owen to doon in þe loond þat þe Lord God is to ȝyue to þee, þat þow weelde it, alle dayes in þe whiche vpon þe erþe þow shalt goon.
 ii Turne ȝe doun alle places in þe whiche þe gentilis þat ȝe ben to weelde, heried her goddis, vpon hiȝe mounteyns, and hillis, and vndir al þik braunchid tree.
 iii Scatre ȝe þe auters of hem, and brekiþ togidre þe ymagis; þe mawmet wodes brenneþ wiþ fier, and þe mawmattis deſtruy ȝe; scatre ȝe þe names of hem fro þe places.
 iv ȝe shulen not doo so to þe Lord ȝoure God; v but to þe place þat þe Lord ȝoure God chesip of alle ȝoure lynages, þat he putte his name þere, and dwelle in it; ȝe shulen come, vi and offre in þat place brent sacrificis, and ȝoure flayn offryngis, and dymes, and first fruytis of ȝoure hoondis, and auowis and ȝiftis, þe first gotten of oxen, and of sheep.
 vii And ȝe shulen eete þere in þe siȝt of þe Lord ȝoure God; and ȝe shulen glade in alle þingis, to which putten hoond, ȝe and ȝoure howses, in þe whiche þe Lord ȝoure God bleſſe to ȝou.
 viii ȝe shulen not doo þere þat we doon here to day, eche þat to hym self femeþ riȝt.

ix Forsoþe ne vnto þe tyme þat is nowe ȝe comen to rest and to þe possessioun, þat þe Lord God is to ȝeue to ȝow.

x ȝe shulen paffe Jordan, and dwelle in þe loond þat þe Lord ȝoure God is to ȝyue to ȝow, þat ȝe resten fro alle enemyes bi enuyroun, and dwellen wiþ outen eny drede.

xi In þe place þat þe Lord ȝour God chesip, þat his name be in it. ȝidre alle þingis þat Y comaunde ȝe shulen bere, brent sacrifices, and ooftis, and dymes, and first fruytis of ȝoure hoondes, and what euer þing cheefe is in ȝiftis, þat ȝe han vowid to þe Lord.

xii ȝere ȝe shulen eete before þe Lord ȝoure God, ȝe, and sones, and ȝoure douȝtres, men seruauntis, and wymmen seruauntis, and Leuytis, þat in ȝoure cytees dwellen; forsoþe ne þei han oþer part and possessioun among ȝow.

xiii Be war þat þou offre not þi brent sacrifices in alle places þat þou shalt se, xiv but in it þat þe Lord shal chefe in oon of þi lynagis þow shalt offre ooftis, and doo alle þingis þat Y comaunde to þee.

xv Forsoþe if þow wolt eete, and þee þe etynge of flesh delyte, fle, and eete after þe blesfyng of þe Lord þi God, þat he haþ ȝeue to þee in þy cytees, oþer vnclene it were, þat is, wemmed and feble, oþer cleene, þat is, hool and wiþouten wemme, þat is leueful to ben offrid, and as capret and hert þow shalt eete;

xvi wiþ outen etynge oonli of þe blood, þat vpon þe erþe as water þow shalt heeld out.

xvii ȝow shalt not mowe eete in þy burghtownes dimes of whete, of wyn, and of þin oyle, þe first geten of droues, and beeftis, and alle þingis þat þow auowist, and wilfulli wolt offre, and þe first fruytis of þin hoondes;

xviii but bifore þe Lord þi God þow shalt ete hem, in þe place þat þe Lord þi God chesip, þow, and þi sone, and þi douȝter, knaue seruaunt, and meyde seruaunt, and þe Leuyte þat dwelliþ in þi citees; and þow shalt glade, and be fulfilld before þe Lord þi God, in alle þingis to þe which þou strecchist þin hoond.

xix Be war þat þow forlake not þe Leuyte in al tyme, in þe which þow dwellist in erþe.

xx Whanne þe Lord þi God shal large þi termes, as he haþ spoke to þee, and þow wolt ete flesh, þat þi soule desirþ, xxi forsoþe þe place þat þe Lord þi God chesip, þat his name be þere, if it were ferre, þow shalt flee of þe droues, and of þi beeftis, 'þe whiche þow haft, as he haþ comaundid to þee; and þow shalt eete in þi burȝtouns, as it plesip to þee.

xxii As is etun a capret and an hert, so þow shalt eete hem; and cleene and unclene in comun shulen be ete.

xxiii ȝat oonli shun, leſt þow eete blood; forsoþe blood of hem is for þe soule, and þerfore þow shalt not eete a soule wiþ flesh, xxiv but as water þow shalt heeld vpon erþe, xxv ȝat wel it be to þee, and to þi sones after þee, whanne þow doſt þat plesip in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord.

xxvi And ȝat þow auowist and halowist to þe Lord, þow shalt take, and come to þe place þat þe Lord chesip, xxvii and offre þin offryngis, flesh and blood, vpon þe auter of þe Lord þi God; þe blood of þe ooftis þou shalt heelde in þe auter, and flesh þi ſilf shalt eete.

xxviii Kepe wel and here alle þingis þat I comaunde to þee, þat it wel be to þee, and to þi sones after þee, into wiþ outen eende, whanne þow doſt þat is good and plesaunt in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord þi God.

xxix Whanne þe Lord þi God scaterreþ before þi face þe gentilis, to þe whiche to be weelid þou shalt goon yn, and weelde hem, and dwelle in þe loond of hem, xxx be war þat þow folwe not hem, after þat þe comyng yn þei weren vnder turned, and seche þe cerymoyns of hem, seiynge, As þese gentils heryden her goddis, so and Y shal hery.

xxxi ȝow shalt not do lijk maner to þe Lord þi God; forsoþe alle abhomynaciouns þat þe Lord contrarieþ þei han doon to her goddis, offryngis sones, and dowȝtris, and brennyngis wiþ þe fier.

xxii What I comaunde to þee, þat þow only do to þe Lord, ne adde þow eny þing, ne lasse.

Capitulum XIII.

i If þere rife in þe myddil of þee a prophete, obere eny man seiþ hym ſilf to haue ſeen a ſweuen, and he seiþ before a tokne and wondre, ii and comiþ þat he ſpak, and seiþ to þee, Goo we, and folwe we alien goddis, þat þow vñknowiſt, and ferue we to hem, iii þow shalt not here þe wordis of þis prophete and dremer; for þe Lord ȝoure God temptiþ ȝow, þat 'it be maad opyn wheþer ȝe louen hym or not, in al ȝoure herte, and in al ȝoure ſoule.

iv ȝe Lord ȝoure God folowe ȝe, and hym drede ȝe; þe heeftis of hym kepiþ, and heriþ þe voyce of hym; to hym ȝe shulen ferue, and to hym ȝe shulen drawe to.

v Forsoþe þat prophete or feynur of ſweuens ſhal be flayn; for he haþ ſpoken þat he turne ȝow awey fro þe Lord ȝoure God, þat haþ lad ȝow out of þe loond of Egipte, and haþ raunsomed ȝow fro þe hows of feruage, þat he make þee to erre fro þe weye þat þe Lord þi God haþ comaundid to þee; and þow shalt doo awey yuel fro þe myddil of þee.

vi If þi broþer, þe ſone of þi moder, wol meue þee, or þi ſone, or þi douȝter, oþer wiþ þat is in þi bosome, oþer freende þat þow louest as þi ſoule, pryueli seiynge, Goo we, and ferue we to alien goddis, 'þe whiche vñknowiſt þow, and þi fadres, vii of alle gentilis in enuyrown, þat bifide or ferre ben, fro þe bigynnyng vnto endynge of þe loond, viii assent þou not to hym, ne hyre, ne spare to hym þin eye, þat þow haue mercy, and hide hym, ix but anoon þow shalt fle hym. Be first þin hoond vpon hym, and after þee al þe puple put on hoond.

 x He shal be clepid þe brownun down wiþ stonus; for he wold drawe þee away fro þe Lord þi God, þat ladde þee out of þe loond of Egipte, fro þe hows of seruage, xi þat al Israel herynge drede, and no more do eny þing lijk of þis þing.
 xii If þow here in oon of þi citees, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee to dwelle, sum men feiyng, xiii þe sones of Belial ben goon out fro þe myddil of þee, and han take awey þe dwellers of þi citee, and seiden, Goo we, and serue we to alyen goddis, þe whiche ȝe knownen not, xiv seche wisely and bisily, þe foþ of þe þing ful lokid; if þow fynde it to be certeyn þat is feid, and þis abomynacioun in dede fulfillid, xv anoon þou shalt smyte þe dwellers of þat citee in þe mouþ of þe fwerd, and do it awey, and alle þingis þat in it ben, vnto þe beestis.
 xvi And what euere þing were of purtenaunce, þow shalt gedre in þe myddil of þe stretis of it, and wiþ þat citee þow shalt brenne vp, so þat alle þingis þow waaste to þe Lord þi God, and þere be an euere lastynge sepulcre; it shal be bild no more.
 xvii And þere shal not cleue of þat cursid heed eny þing in þin hoond, þat þe Lord turne awey fro þe wrappe of his wodenes, and haue mercy of þee, and multiplye þee, as he swore to þi faders.
 xviii Whanne þow herist þe voyce of þe Lord þi God, þow shalt kepe alle þe heestis of hym þat I comaunde to þee to day, þat þow doo þat is plesaunt in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God.

Capitulum XIII.

i Sones be ȝe of þe Lord ȝour God; ȝe shulen not kut, ne make ballidnes, vpon þe deed, ii for `a puple holi þow art to þe Lord þi God, and þee haþ chosun þat þow be to hym into a special puple, of alle gentilis þat ben vpon erþe.
 iii Ne eete ȝe þingis þat ben vnclene.
 iv Þis is þe beest þat ȝe owen to eete; oxe, and sheep, and she geet,
 v hert, capret, bugle, `tragelaphum, þat is, a beest in part lijk an hert, and in part lijk a goot, phigarg, origen, camelion, `þat is, a beest lijk a camele in þe heed, in þe bodi to a paard, and in þe nek to an horse, in þe feet to a bugle, and pardelun, `þat is, a litil pard.
 vi Al beeft þat in two partis deuydip þe clee, and chewiþ code, ȝe shulen eete.
 vii And of þes þat chewen code, and dyuyden not clee, þes ȝe shulen not eete; chameyl, haare, yrchun, for þei chowen code, and deuyden not þe clee, þei shulen be vnclene to ȝow;

viii a suwe forsoþe, for þhe deuydip þe clee, and chewiþ no code, þhe shal be vnclene; þe flesh of hem ȝe shulen not ete, and þe careyns ȝe shulen not towche.
 ix þes þingis ȝe shulen eete, of alle þingis þat dwellen in watris; þo þat han fynnys and scalis eete ȝe; x þo þat wiþ outen fynnys and scales ben, eete ȝe not,
 for þei ben vnclene.
 xi Alle clene briddis eete ȝe;
 xii vnclene eete ȝe not, þat is, egle, and griffun, and a merlison, xiii and yron, `þat is, a whyte foul, laſſe þan a grijp, and of his kynde, and gryip, and kyte, aftir his kynde, xiv and al þing of crowe kynde, xv and ostrich, and nyȝt foul, and a koote, and an hawke, after his kynde, xvi a gerfawkon, and a swan, and an ybyn, `þat is a foule of Nyle flood, þat puttynge his bille into his ers, purgiþ hym self,
 xvii and a dyuedap, a pellican, and a nyȝt crowe, a cormeraunt, xviii and a iay, eche in his kynde, and a lapwynk, and a reremos.
 xix And al þat crepiþ, and haþ fynnes, shal be vnclene, and not ben eten.
 xx Alle þat is clene, eete ȝe;
 xxi al þat is faln wiþ deeþ, eete ȝe not of it. To þe pilgryme þat is wiþ ynne þe ȝatis ȝif þat he eete, or fel to hym, for þow art an hooli puple of þe Lord þi God.
 þow shalt not seeþe þe kidde in þe mylk of his moder.
 xxii þe tenþe paart þow shalt seuer fro alle þe fruytis þat growen in þi lond, bi eche ȝeer; xxiii and þow shalt eete in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God, in þe place þat he chees, þat in it þe name of hym be inwardli clepid, þe dyme of þi whete, of wyn, and oyle; and þe first gotun of droues, and of þi sheep þow shalt offre, þat þow lerne to drede þe Lord þi God, in al tyme.
 xxiv Forsoþe whanne lenger were þe weye, and þe place þat þe Lord þi God chees, and haþ blesſid to þee, ne þow mayſt not to hym alle þes þingis brynge, xxv þow shalt felle alle, and into priys turne, and þow shalt bere in þin hoond, and go to þe place þat þe Lord þi God cheſiþ;
 xxvi and þow shalt bigge of þe same money what euere þing to be pleſe, oþer of droues, or of sheep; forsoþe wyn, and fidre, and al þat desyriþ þi soule; and þow shalt eete before þe Lord þi God, and shal eete, þow, and þin hows,
 xxvii and þe Leuyte þat is wiþ ynne þi ȝatis; be war þat þow forsake not him, for he haþ noon oþer paart in þi possellioun.
 xxviii þe þridde ȝeer þow shalt seuer an oþer dyme of alle þingis þat growen to þee þat tyme, and put vp wiþ ynne þe ȝatis.
 xxix And þe Leuyte shal come, þat haþ noon oþer paart ne possellioun wiþ þee, and þe pilgryme, and faderles child, and wedowe, þat wiþ ynne þi ȝatis ben; and þei shulen eete, and be fulfillid, þat þe Lord þi God blesse to þee, in alle þe werkis of þin hoondes þat þou shalt doo.

Capitulum XV.

- i The feuenþe ȝeer þow shalt doo remyssyoun,
- ii þat in bis ordre shal be halowid. To whom is owed eny þing, of freend, or neȝbore, and his broþer, he shal not mowe aȝen aske it, for ȝeer of remyssioun of þe Lord it is.
- iii Of pilgrime and comlyng þow shalt aske; þow shalt not haue power of aȝen askynge þe citeseyn and nyȝ kyn;
- iv and algatis nedи and begger þere shal not be among ȝow, þat þe Lord þi God blesse to þee, in þe loond þat þe Lord is to take to þee in to possessioun.
- v If neuerþelater þou here þe voyce of þe Lord þi God, and kepiſt alle þingis þat he comaundiþ, and þat I to day comaunde to þee,
- vi he shal blesse to þee, as he haþ bihoot. Þow shalt leen vndur wed to many folk of kynde, and þi ſilf shalt borowe of no man; þow shalt haue lordship vpon manye naciouns, and no man shal haue lordship vpon þee.
- vii If oon of þi breþeren, þat dwelliþ wiþ ynne þe ȝatis of þi citee, in þe loond þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee, to pouerte come, þow shalt not aȝen hard þin herte, ne wiþdrawe þe hoond,
- viii but opyn it to þe pore, and þow shalt ȝyue loon þat þow feest hym to nedē.
- ix Be war leſt perauenture vndur crepe to þee a wickid þouȝt, and seye in þin herte, þe feuenþe ȝeer of remyssioun neȝeþ; and þow turne awey þin eyen fro þi pore broþer, not wilnyng to leene hym, þat he aſkiþ to borwe; leſt he crye aȝens þee to þe Lord, and it be maad to þee into synne.
- x But þow shalt ȝyue to hym, and þow shalt not doo eny þing fellich in his nedis to be releued, þat þe Lord þi God blesse to þee in al tyme, and in alle þingis to whiche þow puttist hoond.
- xi Pere shulen not faile pore men in þe loond of þi dwellynge; berfor I comaunde to þee þat þow opyn þe hoond to þi nedи broþer, and pore, þat in þe loond dwelliþ wiþ þee.
- xii Whanne to þee were fold þin Ebewe broþer, or Ebewe womman, and ſixe ȝeer ferue to þee, in þe feuenþe ȝeer þou shalt leeue hym free.
- xiii And whom wiþ freedom þow ȝyueſt, þou shalt not ſuffre to goon awey voyd;
- xiv but þow shalt ȝyue weyfode of þe flockis, and of þe flore, and of þi preſſe, in þe which þe Lord þi God haþ bleſſid to þee.

xv And haue mynde þat þi ſelf ſeruediſt in þe loond of Egipte, and þe Lord þi God haþ delyuered þee, and þerfor I now comaunde to þee.

xvi Forſoþe if he ſeiþ, Y wole not goo out, for þi þat he loueþ þee, and þin hows, and wel feliþ hym ſilf to be anentis þee, xvii þow shalt take 'a nal, and þril his eer in þe ȝate of þin hows, and ferue he to þee into wiþ outen eende; and to þe þral womman lijk maner þou shalt doo.

xviii þow shalt not take awey fro hem þin eyen, whanne þow leeueſt hem fre, for after þe mede of þe hired man bi ſixe ȝeer he feruede to þee; þat þe Lord þi God blesſe to þee, in alle þe werkis þat þow dooſt.

xix Of þi firſt gotten, þat ben born in droues, and þi ſheep, and what euere þing is of maal kynde, þow shalt halwe to þe Lord þi God. Pou shalt not worche in þe firſt gotten of oxe, ne þou shalt thare þe firſt gotten of ſheep.

xx In þe ſiȝt of þe Lord þi God þow shalt eete hem bi eche ȝeer, in þe place þat þe Lord haþ choſen, þou, and þin hows.

xxi Forſoþe if it haue wemme, or were crokid, or blynde, or in eny part defourme, or feble, it shalt not be offerd to þe Lord þi God;

xxii but wiþ ynne þe ȝatis of þi cytee þow shalt eete it, as wel clene as vnclene, lijk maner þei shulen eete hem, as capret and hert.

xxiii Þis onely þow shalt kepe wel, þat þe blood of hem þou eete not, but held þou out into þe erþe as water.

Capitulum XVI.

i Kepe wel þe monþe of þe newe fruytis, and of þe firſt veer tyme, þat þou doo paſk to þe Lord þi God; for in bis monþe þe Lord þi God ladde þee out of Egipt bi nyȝt.

ii And þou shalt offre paſke to þe Lord þi God, of ſheep, or of oxen, in þe place þat þe Lord þi God chees, þat þe name of hym dwelle þere.

iii Pou shalt not eete in it ſowred breed; feuen days þou shalt eete wiþ outen ſourdowȝ, breed of greet traueyle, for in inward drede þou wentiſt out of Egipt, for þou shuldifſt haue mynde of þe day of þi goyng out of Egipt, alle þe days of þi liȝt.

iv Pou shal not apere ſowred breed feuen days in alle þi teermys, and þere shal not leeue of þe flesh of it þat is offerd þe euen, in þe firſt day þe morwen.

v Pou shalt not mowe offre paſke in eche of þes þi citees þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee, vi but in þe place þat þe Lord þi God cheſiþ, þat þe name of hym dwelle þere; þou shalt offre paſke þe euen, at þe funne goyng down, whanne þow wentiſt out of Egipt.

vii Pou shalt make it ynowȝ, and eete, in þe place þat þe Lord þi God cheſiþ, and erly ryſyng þow shalt goo into þi tabernaclis.

viii Sexe dayes þou shalt eete þeरf looues; and in þe feuenþe day, for it is þe quylet of þe Lord þi God, þou shalt not doo werk.
 ix Seuen wekis þou shalt noumble to þee, fro þat day þat þou puttist þi kuttyng yren into þe corn;
 x and þou shalt halwe þe feest day of þe feuen wekes to þe Lord þi God, a wilful offrynge of þin hoond, þat þow shalt offre after þe blesynge of þe Lord þi God.
 xi And þou shalt eete before þe Lord þi God, þou, and þi sone, and þi douȝtre, and þi seruaunt, and þin handmayde, and Leuyte þat is wiþ ynne þi ȝatis, and comlynge, and faderles child, and wydowe, þat dwellen wiþ ȝow, in place þat þe Lord þi God chesip, þat his name dwelle þere.
 xii And þou shalt record for seruaunt þou were in Egipt, and kepen and doon þat ben comaundid.
 xiii And þe solempnte of þe tabernaclis þou shalt halwe, bi feuen days, whanne þou haft gedrid of þe flore, and of þe preffe þi fruytis;
 xiv and shalt eete in þi feest day, þou, and þi sone, and þi douȝter, and þi seruaunt, and handmayd, Leuyte also and comlynge, and faderlesse child, and widew, þat ben wiþ ynne þi ȝatis.
 xv Seuen days to þe Lord þi God feeftis þou shalt halowe, in þe places þat þe Lord chesip; and þe Lord þi God shal blesse to þee, in alle þi fruytis, and in al werk of þin hoondis, and þou shalt be in gladnes.
 xvi Pre ȝipes in þe ȝeer shal apere eche þi maal child in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God, in þe place þat he chesip, in þe solempnyte 'of þerf looues, and þe solempnyte of wekis, and in þe solempnyte of tabernaclis. He shal not apere before þe Lord voyd; xvii but echon þhal offre, after þat he haþ, after þe blesynge of þe Lord his God, þat he ȝyueþ to hym.
 xviii Domeſmen and mayltris þow shalt ordeyn in alle þi ȝatis, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, bi alle þi lynagis, þat þei demen þe puple bi riȝt doom, xix ne into anoþer paart declinen. Pou shalt not accept persone, ne ȝiftis, for ȝiftis blynden eyen of wife men, and chaungen wordis of riȝtwis men.
 xx Riȝtwisly þat is riȝt þou shalt pursue, þat þou lyue, and weeld þe loond, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee.
 xxi þou shalt not plaunt a mawmet wode, and al tree biside þe auter of þe Lord þi God;
 xxii ne þou shalt make to þee and ordeyn ymage; þe whiche þingis hatiþ þe Lord þi God.

Capitulum XVII.

i Thow shalt not offre to þe Lord þi God ox, and sheep, in whom is wemme, or eny þing of vice, for abhomynacioun it is to þe Lord þi God.
 ii And whanne weren founden anentis þee, wiþ ynne oon of þi ȝatis, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, man or womman, þat doþ yuel in siȝt of þe Lord þi God, and ouerpassë þe couenaunt of hym, iii þat þei goon, and seruen to alien goddis, and honoure hem, þe funne, and þe mone, and al þe knyȝthod of heuen, þe whiche þingis I comaunde not;

 iv and þis were told to þee, and herynge þou enscherchist bisilich, and fyndist it to be soþ, and abhomynacioun is doon in Yrael;
 v þou shalt lede out þe man and womman, þat þe moost yuel þing han doon, to þe ȝatis of þi cytee, and wiþ stonus þei shulen be browen doun.
 vi In mouþe of two or þree witnissis, shal perish he, þat þhal be slayn; no man be slayn, oon aȝens hym seiyng witnisse.
 vii þe hoond of þe witnessis first shal flee hym, and þe hoond of þat ober puple last shal be put to, þat þou doo a wey yuel fro þe myddil of þee.
 viii If hard and dowtous anentis þee doom to be þow biholdist, bitwix blood and blood, cause and cause, lepre and not lepre, and of þe domes men wiþ ynne þi ȝatis þou feest þe wordis to be varied; aryse, and sti vp to þe place, þat þe Lord þi God haþ chosun;
 ix and þow shalt come to þe preefis of Leuyte kynde, and to þe domysman þat were þat tyme; and þow shalt aske of hem, þe whiche shulen shewe to þee þe trewþ of þe dom.
 x And þow shalt doo what euere þing þei seyn, þat ben before to þe place þat þe Lord haþ chosun, and teche þee after þe lawe of hym; xi þou shalt folowe þe sentence of hem; þou shalt not bowe aside, to þe riȝt or to þe left.
 xii Who forsoþe wexiþ proud, not wilnyng to obeishe to þe maundement of þe preest, þat þat tyme serueþ to þe Lord þi God, and to þe doom of þe domysman, shal die þat man; and þow shalt doo a wey yuel fro þe myddil of Israel;
 xiii and al þe puple herynge shal drede, þat no man peraftier inwardli boln wiþ prijd.
 xiv And whanne þow shalt goo ynto þe loond, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, and weeldist it, and dwellist yn it, and seist, Y shal set 'vp on me a kyng, as han alle naciouns bi enyroun;
 xv hym þow shalt set, whom þe Lord þi God chesip of þe noumble of þi breþeren. Pow shalt not mowe of ober folk a man kyng make, þat be not þi broþer.
 xvi And whanne he were ordeyned, he shal not multiplye to hym horses, ne lede aȝen puple into Egipt, bi noumble of horfyng arered, namelich siþ þe Lord haþ comaundid to ȝow, þat no more bi þe same weie ȝe turnen aȝen.
 xvii He shal not haue many wyues, þat mysdrawen þe soule of hym, ne of filuer ne of gold greet birþens.
 xviii And after þat he sittip in þe dygnyte of his rewme, he shal discriue to hym a declaracioun of þis lawe in a volym, takynge a faumpler of þe preefis of Leuyte lynage;

xix and he shal haue it wiþ hym, and he shal rede it alle þe dais of his lijf, þat he knowe to drede þe Lord his God, and to kepe þe wordis and cerymoyns of hym, þat in þe lawe ben comaundid;

xx ne be areryd þe herte of hym into prijd vpon his breþeren, ne bowe he aside in to þe riȝt paart or left, þat long tyme regne he, and his sones vpon Yrael.

Capitulum XVIII.

i Preeftis and Leuytes, and alle þat ben of þe same lynage, shulen not haue part and herytage wiþ þat oþer puple of Yrael, for þe sacrifices of þe Lord, and offryngis of hym þei shulen eete;

ii and noon oþer þing þei shulen take of þe possellioun of her breþeren; forsoþe þe Lord he is þe herytage of hem, as he haþ spoke to hem.

iii Þis shal be þe doom of preeftis of þe puple, and of hem þat offren slayn offryngis; wheþer oxe, or sheep þei offren, þei shulen ȝyue to þe preest þe shuldre, and þe litil woombe,

iv þe first fruytis of whete, of wyn, and of oile, and a paart of wollis of sherryng of sheep.

v Forsoþe hym þe Lord þi God haþ chosun, of alle þi lynages, þat he stoonde and serue to þe name of þe Lord, he and his sones, into wiþ outen ende.

vi If a Leuyte goo out fro oon of his citees of al Yrael, in þe which he dwellip, and defryng a place þat þe Lord chefiþ,

vii wol come he shal serue in þe name of þe Lord his God, as alle his briþeren Leuytis, þat shulen stoonde þat tyme before þe Lord.

viii þat same paart of meetis he shal take, 'þe which and oþer; out take þat, þat in his cytee of þe fadre successyoun is owed to hym.

ix Whanne þow goost into þe loond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, be war þat left þow wol folowe þe abhomynaciouns of þilk gentils;

x ne be foundun in pee þat go aboute his sone, or his douȝter, ledyng bi þe fier, oþer þat aþkiþ dyuynours, þat he kepe sfeuens and dyuynyngis; ne be þer cleper of deuels,

xi ne enchaunter, ne counsel rerers of deed men, ne dyuynours, and seche of þe deed þe treuþ.

xii Forsoþe alle þes þingis þe Lord wlatiþ, and for þes maner hidows synnes he shal doo hem awey in þin entre.

xiii Pow shal be parfite and wiþ outen wemme, wiþ þe Lord þi God.

xiv þes gentils, whos loond ȝe shulen weeld, brydd coniurers and dyuynours heren; forsoþe þow of þe Lord þi God oþerweys art enfourmyd.

xv A prophete of þi folk and of þi briþeren as me, þe Lord þi God shal arere to þee, hym þow shalt here;

xvi as þow haft aþkid of þe Lord þi God, in Oreb, whanne þe company was gedryd, and þow seydest, I shalt here namore þe voyce of þe Lord my God, and þis moost fier Y shal se namore, leſt Y dye.

xvii And þe Lord seide to me, Wel alle þingis þei han spoken.

xviii A prophet Y shal rere to hem, fro þe myddil of her briþeren, lijk þee; and I shal put my wordis in þe mouþ of hym, 'and he shal speek to hem alle þingis þat Y comaunde to hym.

xix Forsoþe who þe wordis of hym þat spekiþ 'in my name, wol not here, Y veniesour shal be.

xx Forsoþe a prophete þat þurȝ prijd bi shrewid, wil speke in my name þingis þat Y comaundid not hym for to seye, oþer of name of alyen goddis, he shal be slayn.

xxi And if bi stille þouȝt þow answurst, What maner may I vndurstonde þe word, þat þe Lord haþ not spokun?

xxii Þis tokne þow shalt haue, þat in þe name of þe
Lord þiþl prophete seiþ bifore, and comeþ not, þat þe Lord haþ not spokun, but bi bolnynges of his inwit þe prophet haþ feyned, and þerfor þow shalt not drede
hym.

Capitulum XIX.

i Whanne þe Lord þi God shal scatre þe gentilis, whos loond he is to take to þee, and þow weeldist it, and dwellist in þe citees of it, and in þe howfes;

ii þre citees þow shalt feuer to þee in þe myddil of þe loond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee into possellioun.

iii Pow shalt bisiþly make redi a weye, and dyuyde in þre partis euenlich al þe prouynce of þi loond, þat he þat for manslaȝter is flowun, haue fro nyȝ whedir he may scaap.

iv Þis shal be lawe of þe mansleer fleynge, whos lijf is to be kept. He þat smytþ his neiȝbore vnwitynge, and þat ȝesterday or þe þridde day hens, noon aȝens hym to haue had haat is preued,

v but to haue goo aweye wiþ hym symplich into þe wode to trees to be kit, and in þe hewynge of þe trees þe axe fleeþ þe hoond, and þe yren, flift of fro þe haft, smytþ his freend, and fleeþ; þis to oon of þe forseid citees shal fleeȝ, and lyue;

vi left perauenture þe 'next of kyn of hym, whos blood is shed, þurȝ forwe styrud pursue, and take hym, if lenger þe weie were, and smyte þe soule of hym þat is not guilty of deeþ; for noon aȝens hym þat is slayn haat to haue hadde before is shewid.

vii Perfor Y comaunde to þee, þat þre citees of euen space bitwixe hem self þow deuyde.

viii Forsoþe whanne þe Lord þi God haþ largid þi teermys, as he fwore to þi fadres, and haþ ȝyue to þee al þe loond, þat to hem he bihiȝt;

ix if neuerþelater þow kepiþ þe heefcis of hym, and doſt þat to day I comaunde to þee, þat þow loue þe Lord þi God, and goo in his weyes al tyme, þow shalt adde to þee þree oþer citees, `and of þe þree cytes aboue seide þe noumbe þow shalt dowlbe, x þat giltles blood be not shed in þe myddil of þe loond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee to be weldid, leſt þou be of blood gilti.

 xi Forsoþe if eny hauynge his neiȝbour to haat, weitid to þe lijf of hym, and rysyng smyte hym, and were deed, and fleeþ to oon of þe aboue seid citees, xii þe alderen of þat citee shulen feende, and taken hym fro þe place of his out fleynge; and þei shulen take into þe hoond of þe neiȝbour `of hym, whos blood is shed, and he shal die,
 xiii ne þow shalt haue mercy of hym; and þow shalt doo awey gilti blood fro Yrael, þat wel it be to þee.
 xiv þow shalt not take, and ouerbere þe teermes of þi neiȝbour, `þe whiche han maad raper men in þi posseſſioun, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, in þe loond þat þow takist to be weldid.
 xv O witnes shal not stoond aȝens eny man, what euere þing it were of synne, or of greet trespas; but in mouȝ of two or of þree witnessis shal stoonde ech word. xvi If þere stoonda a witnes lyȝer aȝens man, accusyng hym of trespas, xvii þei shulen stoond boþe, of whom is þe cause, before þe Lord, in þe fiȝt of preeftis, and domysmen, þat weren in þilk days.
 xviii And whanne moost bisiþy enſeerchyng þei fynden þe fals witnes to haue seide aȝens his broþir leefyng, xix ȝeelde þei to hym, as he þouȝte to doo to his broþer; xx þat oþere men herynge, han drede, and be not hardy to doo siche þinges.
 xxi þow shalt not haue mercy of hym, but lijf for lijf, eye for eye, tooþ for tooþ, hoond for hoond, foot for foot þow shalt axe.

Capitulum XX.

i If þow goſt out to batail aȝens þin enemyes, and feest rydinge, and charys, and more multitude of þe aduersarye ooft þan þow haſt, þow shalt not drede hem; for þe Lord þi God is wiþ þee, þat haþ lad þee out of þe loond of Egipt.
 ii And neyȝinge now batayl, þe preeft shal stoond biſore þe poynþ, iii and þus he shal spek to þe puple, Here, Yrael, ȝe to day aȝens ȝoure enemyes doon fiȝt; drede not ȝoure herte, wol ȝe not be feerd; wole ȝe not ȝyue ſted, ne drede ȝe hem;
 iv for þe Lord ȝoure God is in þe myddil of ȝow, and for ȝow aȝens þe aduersaryes `ſhal fiȝt, þat he delyuer ȝow fro perel.
 v Þe leders forſoþe bi alle companyes, herynge þe ooft, shal crye, Who is þe man þat haþ bild a newe hows, and haþ not parfomed it? goo he, and turne he aȝen into his hows, leſt perauenture he dye in þe bateyl, and anoþer parfourme it.

vi Who is þat man þat haþ plauntid a vyn, and ȝit not haþ maad it comoun, and of þe which it is leeueful to alle men to eete? goo he, and turn he aȝen into his hows, leſt perauenture he dye in bateyl, and anoþer man his office vſe.
 vii Who is a man þat haþ spousid a wif, and haþ not taak hir? goo he, and turn he aȝen into his hows, leſt perauenture he dye in bateyl, and anoþer man take hir.
 viii Pes þingis seid, þei shulen adde oþer þinges, and spek to þe puple, Who is a man dredful, and wiþ feerd herte? goo he, and turn aȝen into his hows, leſt he make to drede þe hertis of his briþeren, and as he by dred is gaſt.
 ix And whanne þe duykis of þe ooft ben stil, and þe eende of spekyng han doon, echon his companyes shal make redi to fiȝtyng.
 x If eny tyme þow comeſt nyȝ to a citee to be ouercomen, firſt þow shalt offre to it pees.
 xi If he refseyue, and open to þee þe ȝatis, al þe puple þat is in it shal be faued, and shal ferue to þee vndur tribute.
 xii Forſoþe if þei wolen not make couenaunt of pees, and bigynnen aȝens þee batayl, þow shalt fiȝt aȝens it.
 xiii And whanne þe Lord þi God haþ take it to þee in þin hoond, þow shalt smyit al þat is in it of maal kynde in mouȝ of þe swerd, xiv wiþ outen wymmen, and litil children, and beeftis, and oþer þat ben in þe cytee. Al þe praye þow shalt dyuyde to þe ooft, and þou shalt eete of þe spuyles of þin enemyes, þat þe Lord þi God haþ ȝeue to þee.
 xv Pus þow shalt doo to alle cytees, þat fro þee ben ful fer, and ben not of þes cytees þat þow art to take into posſeſſyon.
 xvi Forſoþe of þes cytees þat shal be ȝeue to þee, no man þow shalt suffre to lyue, xvii but þow shalt flee in þe mouȝ of swerd; Ethee, þat is, and Amorre, and Chananee, and Phereze, Eue, and Jebusee, as þe Lord þi God haþ comaundid to þee; xviii leſt perauenture þei techen ȝow to doon alle abhomynacyouns, þat þei han wrouȝt to her goddis, and ȝe synnen aȝens þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xix Whanne þow befegift a citee myche tyme, and wiþ waardis enuyrounnyſt þat þow ouercome it, þow shalt not kyt down trees, of þe whiche may be eeten, ne bi enuyroun wiþ axes þow shalt waast þe regiouн; for a tree it is and no man, ne yt may encrees þe noumbe of men fiȝtyng aȝens þee.
 xx Forſoþe if eny trees ben not berynge applis, but wijlde, and able into oþer vſes, kit doun, and mak engynes, to þe tyme þat þow taak þe cytee þat fiȝtiþ aȝens þee.

Capitulum XXI.

i Whanne þere were founde in þe loond þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee, a careyn of a flayn man, and þhal be vnknowun þe gilti of þe deb, ii þe more þurȝ birþ shulen goon out, and þi domefmen, and þe spacis of alle þe cytees bi enuyroun shal be meetid fro þe place of þe careyn;
 iii and which þei biholden be ner þan oþer, be aldre men of þat citee shulen taak a shee calf fro þe droue, þat hap not taak ȝok, ne loond hap kit wiþ shaar;
 iv and þei shulen lede it to þe rowȝ valey, and stony, þat neuer was eeryd, ne seed hap resseyued; and þei shulen kit in it þe scullis of þe calf.
 v And preeftis, þe sones of Leuy, whom þe Lord þi God hap chosun, þat þei seruen to hym, and blessem in his name, shulen goo to, and at þe word of hem al þe nede shal honge; and what euer ȝing is clene or vnclene, be it demyd. vi And þe more þurȝ birþ of þat cytee shulen come to be flayn man, and þei shulen wasshe her hoondis vpon þe shee calf, þat ys smyten in þe valey;
 vii and þei shulen seye, Oure hondis han not shad þis blood, ne eyen han seen.
 viii Lord, be merciable to þi puple Yrael, þat þow haft bouȝt, and rette not þe innocent blood in þe myddil of þi puple Israel. And þe gilt of þe blood shal be taak aweye fro hem.
 ix Forsoþe þow shalt be alyen fro þe blood of þe innocent þat is shad, whanne þow doft þat þe Lord hap comaundid.
 x If þow goft out to þe fiȝt aȝens þin enemyes, and þe Lord þi God hap taken hem in þin hoond, xi and haft brouȝt chaytyues, and feest in þe noumble of cheytyues a feyr womman, and louest hir, and wolt han hir to wijf, xii þow shalt lede hir into þin hows; þe which shal shauue þe heer, and shal kyt about þe naylis, xiii and she shal do of þe cloop in þe which she is taak, and fittyng in þin hows, she shal weepe fader and hir moder o monþ; and aftyrward þow shalt goon yn to hir, and þow shalt sleep wiþ hir, and she shal be þi wijf.
 xiv Forsoþe if afterward she fittiþ not in þin inwit, þow shalt leeue hir free, ne felle þow mayst bi money, ne oppresse bi power, for þow haft mekid hir.
 xv If a man haue two wyues, oon loued, and anoþer odyows, and getiþ of hir free chyldren, and þe sone of þe odiows were first gotten, xvi and wold þe substauence among his sones dyuyde, he shal not mowe þe sone of þe loued make first gotten, and put before þe sone of þe odiows, xvii but þe sone of þe odyows he shal knowe first gotten, and he shal ȝyue to hym of þes pingis þat he hap alle pingis dowble; forsoþe þis is þe bigynnynge of þe free children of hym, and to þis ben owen þe first gotten.
 xviii If a man gete a rebel sone, and a fraward, þat heriþ not þe fadres and modres heest, and clepid to obeyfhe, dispise, xix þei shulen taak hym, and lede to þe aldre men of þe citee of hym, and to þe ȝate of doom; xx and þei shulen seye to hem, ȝis oure sone is fraward, and rebel; oure heestis dispisiþ to here, to glotryes takip hede, and to lecherrye, and to feestis.

 xxi Pe puple of þe cytee shal þrow hym down wiþ stonus, and he shal dye, þat ȝe doon awei yuel fro þe myddil of ȝou, and al Israef hering wexe afeerd.
 xxii Whanne a man synneþ þat þat is to punyfhyng bi deb, and demed to deeþ were hongid in þe gebet, xxiii þe careyn of hym shal not abide in þe tree, but in þe same day shal be biried; for cursid he is of God þat hongiþ in þe tree, and þow shalt not defoule þi loond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee into possessioun.

Capitulum XXII.

i Thow shalt not fee þe oxe of þi broþer, oþer sheep errynge, and biþide passe, but þow shalt lede aȝen to þi broþer.
 ii And if he is not þi niȝ broþir, ne knowist hym, þow shalt lede into þin hows, and þei shulen be anentis þee, as long as þi broþir sechiþ hem, and resseyue.
 iii Lijk maner þow shalt doo of affe, and of clopinge, and of al ȝing of þi broþer, þat is lost; if þow fynde it, ne leeue it as alyen.
 iv If þou feest þe affe of þi broþer, or oxe, to haue falm in þe weie, þow shalt not dispise, but vndur heeue wiþ hym.
 v A womman shal not be clopid wiþ manus clopinge, ne man shal vse wommannus cloping; abomynable forsoþe anentis God he is, þat doþ þes ȝings.
 vi If goynge bi þe weie, in tree or in erþe a nest of briddis þou fyndist, and þe moder to þe bryddis or to þe eyren aboue fittyng, þow shalt not hold hyr wiþ þe sones, vii but þow shalt suffre hir to goo awey, holdynge þe sones takyn, þat wel it be to þee, and loong tyme þow lyue.
 viii Whanne þow bildist a newe hows, þow shalt mak þe wal of þe roof bi enuyroun, leſt þere be shad blood in þin hows, and þow be gilti, þat oþer fildyng and fallyng hedlyng.
 ix Pou shalt not fowe þi vynȝeerd wiþ oþer feed, leſt and þe feed þat þow haft sowun, and þat growen of þe vynȝeerd, to gider ben halowed.
 x Pow shalt not eere in oxe togidre and affe.
 xi Pow shalt not be clopid þe cloping, þat is weuen of wulle and of flex.
 xii Litil cordis in þe hemmes þow shalt make bi foure corners of þi mantil, wiþ þe which þow shalt be couerd.
 xiii If a man taak a wijf, and afterward haue hir to haat, xiv and sechiþ occasioun bi þe which he leeue hir, and castynge aȝens hyr a moost yuel name, and seye, ȝis wijf I haue take, and goon yn to hir I foond hyr not mayde;

xv þe fadir and þe moder of hir shulen taak hir, and bere wiþ hem þe toknes of hir maydynhod to þe aldre men of þe citee, þat ben in þe ȝate;

xvi and þe fader shal seye, My douȝter I haue ȝyue wijf to pis, whom for he hatiþ, xvii he puttis to hir a moost yuel name, þat he seye, I haue not founde þi dowȝter mayde; and loo! þes ben þe tokens of þe meydynhod of my douȝter; and þei shulen spreede out þe cloþing before þe 'aldre men of þe cytee.

xviii And þe aldre men of þe citee shulen taak þe man of hir, and þei shulen beet hym, xix condempnynge also in an hundred siclys of siluer, þe whiche he shal ȝyue to þe fader of þe mayde, for he haþ loosed þe moost yuel name vpon a maydyn of Yrael; and he shal haue hir to wijf, and he shal not mowe leeue hir, al þe tyme of his lijf.

xx And if it is soþ, þat he putte aȝens hyr, and is not in þe womman founden maydenhod, xxi þei shulen þrow hir out of þe ȝatis of þe hows of hir fader; and men of þat citee shulen þrow hir down wiþ stonus, and she shal dye, for she haþ doon an vnleful bing in Yrael, þat she dide lecherie in þe hows of hir fader; and þow shalt doo awei yuel fro þe myddil of þee.

xxii If a man sleep wiþ þe wijf of anoþer, eyþer shal die, þat is, þe auowtreer and þe auowtress; and þow shalt do awey yuel fro Yrael.

xxiii If a womman mayden a man spowfe, and eny man in þe cytee fynde hir, and lye wiþ hir, xxiv þow shalt lede eiþer to þe ȝate of þat cytee, and þei shulen be browun doun wiþ stonus; þe maydyn, for she cryed not, whanne she was in þe cytee; þe man, for he haþ mekid þe wijf of his neigbour; and þow shalt doo awey yuel fro þe myddil of þee.

xxv Forsoþe if in þe feeld a man fynde a womman þat is spowfid, and takynge ligge wiþ hir, he shal dye alone;

xxvi þe womman no þing shal suffre, ne is gilti of deeþ; for as a beef ryȝif aȝens his broþer, and fleeþ þe loule of hym, so and þe womman haþ suffred;

xxvii aloone she was in þe feeld, and criede, and no man was niȝ þat delyuer hir.

xxviii If a man fynde a womman meydyn, þat haþ no spows, and takynge lie wiþ hir, and þe þing comeþ to doom, xxix he shal ȝyue, þat haþ slept wiþ hyr, to þe fader of þe womman fifti sicles of siluer, and he shal haue hir to wijf, for he haþ mekid hir; he shal not mowe leeue hyr, alle þe dais of his lijf.

xxx A man shal not taak þe wijf of his fader, ne shal opne þe couerynge of hym.

Capitulum XXIII.

i A geldynge, þe ballokis brisid, or kyt of, and þe ȝerde kyt awey, shal not goon into þe chirche of þe Lord.

ii þe born of an hore shal not goon into þe chirche of þe Lord, vnto þe tenþe generacioun.

iii Amonytis and Moabites also aftir þe tenþe generacioun shulen not goon into þe chirche of þe Lord, wiþ outen eende;

iv for þei wolden not aȝen come to ȝow wiþ breed and water in þe weie, whenne ȝe wenten out of Egipt; and for þei hiryd aȝens þee Balaam, þe sone of Beor, fro Mesopotany of Syrye, for to curse to þee;

v and þe Lord þi God wolde not here Balaam, and turnede þe cursynge of hym into þi bleffynge, forþi þat he louede þee.

vi Pow shalt not make wiþ hem pees, ne seche þow to hem goodis, alle þe days of þi lijf vnto wiþ outen eende.

vii Pow shalt not wlaat Ydome, for he is þi broþer, ne Egipcian, for comlynge þow were in þe loond of hem.

viii Bo þat weren born of hem, þe ȝridde generacioun shulen go into þe chirche of þe Lord.

ix Whanne þow goſt out aȝens þin enemyes into fiȝt, þow shalt keep þee fro al yuel þing.

x If þere were among ȝow a man þat wiþ nyȝt sleep is polut, he shal goo out of þe tentis; xi and he shal not turn aȝen before þat at euen he were wasshe wiþ watyr; and after þe funne goyng down he shal turn aȝen into þe tentis.

xii Pow shalt haue a place out of þe tentis, to þe which þow shalt goon out to þe needful þings of kynde, xiii berynge a stake in a girdel; and whanne þow sittis, þow shalt delue bi enuyrown, and þe defied out þou shalt couer wiþ erþe, in þe whych þow art releued.

xiv Forsoþe þe Lord þi God goþ in þe myddil of tentis, þat he delyuer bee, and taak to þee þin enemyes, þat þi tentis ben hooli, and no þing in hem apere of filped, leſt he forsake þee.

xv Pow shalt not take a seruaunt to his lord, þat to þee haþ flowen;

xvi he shal dwelle wiþ þee in þe place þat to hym plesis, and in oon of þi citees shal rest; and make þow not hym sory.

xvii Pere shal be no strumpet of þe douȝtres of Yrael, ne horlyng of þe fones of Yrael.

xviii Pow shalt not offre þe mede of þe hoorhows, ne þe prijs of an hounde, in þe hows of þe Lord þi God, what euere þing it be þat þow auowist; for abomynacioun is eiþer anentis þe Lord þi God.

xix Pow shalt not leene to þi broþer at vſure money, ne fruytis, ne eny oþer þing, xx but to an alien. Forsoþe to þi broþer wiþ outen vſure þat þat to hym nedis þow shalt lene, þat þe Lord þi God blisse to þee in al þi werke, in þe loond to þe which to be weeldid þow shalt goon yn.

xxi Whanne þow auowist auowe to þe Lord þi God, þow shalt not tary to zeelde, for þe Lord þi God shal

- requyre it; and if þow taryest, it shal be rettid to þee into synne.
- xxii And if þow wolt not bihoot, þow shalt be wiþ outen synne.
- xxiii Forsoþe þat þat is onus goon out of þi lippis, þow shalt kepe wel, and do as þow haſt bihoot to þe Lord þi God, and þurȝ propre wil and þi mouȝ haſt spokun.
- xxiv Þow goon vnto þe vyn of þi neiȝbour, þow shalt eete grapis, as myche as it likiȝ to þee; out forsoþe ne beer þou wiþ þee.
- xxv If þow goo into þe corn of þi freend, þow shalt breek eeris, and wiþ be hoond brisse; forsoþe wiþ kuttyng yren þow shalt not reep.

Capitulum XXIII.

- i If man taak a wijf, and haue hyr, and fynde no grace before þe eyen of hir, for sum filþed, he shal wryte a libel of forsaynge, and he shal ȝyue in þe hoond of hyr, and he shal leeue hir fro his hows.
- ii And whanne she goon out anoþer housboond takiȝ,
- iii and he forsoþe hate hir, and ȝyue to hir a libel of forsaynge, and leeue fro his hows, oþer certeyn were deed,
- iv be first housboond shal not mowe taak her aȝen into wijf, for she is polut, and is maad abomynable before þe Lord; leſt þow make to synne þi loond, þat þe Lord þi God to þee haþ taak to be weeldid.
- v Whanne a man haþ taak a wijf laate, he shal not goo forþ to bateyl, ne to hym eny þing of nede shal be ioyned opynlich, but he shal taak hede wiþ outen blame to his hows, þat o ȝeere he ioye wiþ his wijf.
- vi Pow shalt not taak in stedde of a wed þe neþermore and ouermore grynstoon, for his liȝt he putte to þee.
- vii If a man were taak bisili weytynge his broþer of þe sones of Yrael, and he folde take þe prijs, he shal be flayn; and þow shalt do a wey yuel fro þe myddil of þee.
- viii Bisili kepe wel, leſt þow renne into plague of lepre, but þow shalt doon alle þingis þat þe prestis of Leuyte kynde han tauȝt þee, aftir þat Y haue comaundid to hem, and fulfil bisili.
- ix Haue ȝe mynde what þingis þe Lord ȝoure God dyde to Marye, in þe weye, whanne ȝe wenten out of Egipt.
- x Whanne þow shalt aȝen aske of þi neiȝbour eny þing þat he owiȝ to þee, þow shalt not goon into þe hows of hym for to taak wed;
- xi but þow shalt stoond wiþ out, and he to þee shal brynge forþ þat he haþ.
- xii Forsoþe if he is pore, þe wed anentis þee shal not al nyȝt dwelle,
- xiii but anoon þow shalt ȝeeld to hym before þe goyng down of þe funne, þat he, slepyng in his cloþinge, bleſſe to þee, and þow haue ryȝtwifnes before þe Lord þi God.

- xiv þou shalt not denye þe mede of þe ned, and of þe pore þi broþer, or of comlyng þat dwelliȝ wiþ þee in þi loond, and wiþ ynne þi ȝatis is;
- xv but þe same day þow shalt ȝeeld to hym þe prijs of his traueyl, before þe funne goyng down, for he is pore, and of it susteyneþ his liȝt; leſt he crye aȝens þee to þe Lord, and be rettid to þee into synne.
- xvi Fadrys shulen not be flayn for þe sones, ne sones for þe fadris, but echon for his own synne shal dye.
- xvii þow shalt not peruerþ þe doom of þe comlyng, and faderles child; ne þow shalt taak awawy in stede of a wed þe cloþ of þe widewe.
- xviii Haue mynde þat þow haſt ferued in Egipt, and þe Lord þi God haþ delyuered þee þens; þe perfor I comaunde to þee þat þow doo þis þing.
- xix Whanne þow repiſt corn in þi feild, and a forȝetun handful þow leeuest, þow shalt not turn aȝen for to taak it, but þe comlyng, and faderles child, and widewe þow shalt suffre to bere a wey, þat þe Lord þi God bleſſe to þee in al þe werk of þin hoondis.
- xx If þou gedreſt fruytis of olyues, what euere leeue in þe trees, þow shalt not turn aȝen for to gedre, but þow shalt leeue to be comlyng, faderles child, and widewe.
- xxi If þou kuttist þi vyn from grapis to wyn, þou shalt not gedre þe leeuyng reysens, but þei shulen falle into þe vse of þe comlyng, faderles child, and widewe.
- xxii Haue mynde þat þow feruedist in Egipt, and þe perfor Y comaunde to þee, þat þow doo þis þing.

Capitulum XXV.

- i If þere were a cause bitwex eny men, and han askid iugis, whom þei biholden to be ryȝtwyfe, to hym þe palme of riȝtwifnes þei shulen ȝyue, whom wickid, þei shulen condempne of wickidnes.
- ii Forsoþe if hym þat haþ synned þei seen worþi, þei shulen þrow doun wiþ scourgis, and before hem þei shulen make to be betun; for þe mesure of synne shal be and þe maner of scourgyngis,
- iii so oonlich, þat þe fourtiȝ noumber þei ouer pasſe not, leſt foulich rent before þin eyen þi broþer go awawy.
- iv Pow shalt not bynde þe mouȝ of þe oxe tredinge þi fruytis in þe flore.
- v Whanne breþeren dwellen togidre, and oon of hem wiþ outen free children were deed, þe wijf of þe deed shal not wedde to anoþer, but shal taak hir his broþer, and he shal arere þe seed of his broþer.
- vi And þe fyrfot gotten sone of hyr he shal clepe bi þe name of hym, þat þe name of hym be not doon a wey fro Yrael.
- vii Forsoþe if he wol not taak þe wijf of his broþer, þat to hym bi þe lawe is owid, þe womman shal goo to þe ȝate of þe cyte; and she shal aske þe more men þurȝ birþ, and shal seye, þe broþer of my man wol not arere seed of his broþer in Yrael, ne me into wedlok taak.

viii And anoon þei shulen maak hym to be clepid, and þei shulen aske. If he answere, I wol not taak hir to wif;
 ix þe womman shal come nyȝ to hym, before þe aldre men, and she shal taak þe sho of his foot, and spit in his face, and seye, Pus it shal be doo to a man, þat wol not bilde vp þe hows of his broþer;
 x and shal be clepid þe name of hym in Yrael, þe hows of þe vnshod.
 xi If þere han two men bytwix hem self chidyng, and oon aȝens þat oþer bigynneþ to iangle, and wilnyng be wif of þat oþer to delyuer hir man fro þe hoond of þe strenger, and haþ put þe hoond, and takun þe shamfast membris of hym, xii þow shalt kut of þe hoond of hir, ne be bowid on hyr wiþ eny mercy.
 xiii þow shalt not haue in sak dyuerse weiȝtis, more and lasse, xiv ne þere shal be in þin hows a buffhel more and lasse.
 xv Weiȝt þow shalt haue iust and verrey, and euen buffhel and verrey shal be to þee, þat myche tyme þou lyue vpon erþe þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee.
 xvi þe Lord forsoþe shal wlaat hym þat doþ þes þingis, and wiþstoondiþ alle vnriȝtwisnesses.
 xvii Haue mynde what þingis dide to þee Amalech in þe weye, whanne þow wentist out of Egipt; xviii what maner wise he aȝen cam to þee, and þe eendis of þi felawship, þat wery abeden, flewȝ, whanne þow were defoulid wiþ hungre and traueil, and dredde not God.
 xix Perfor whanne þe Lord þi God haþ ȝyue to þee rest, and maad fugettis alle naciouns bi enuyroun, in þe loond þat he haþ bihoot to þee, þow shalt doo a wey his name vndre heuene; be war leſt þow forȝete.

Capitulum XXVI.

i Whanne þow comyst into þe loond þat þe Lord þi God is to ȝyue to þee to be weeldid, and holdist it, and dwellist in it, ii þow shalt taak of alle þi fruytis þe cheef, and put in a leep; and þow shalt goo to þe place þat þe Lord þi God haþ chosun, þat þere be inwardly clepid þe name of hym.
 iii And þow shalt goon to þe preest þat were in þo days, and seye to hym, I knowleche to day before þe Lord þi God, þat Y am comen into þe loond, for þe which he haþ swore to oure fadris, þat he shulde ȝyue it to vs.
 iv And þe preest takyng þe leep of þin hoond, shal put before þe auter of þe Lord þi God.
 v And þow shalt speke in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God, Sirus pursuede my fader, þat descendide into Egipt, and þere pilgrimage in moost fewe noumbe; and he growide into a greet folk of kynde, and strong, and of multitude wiþ out ende.

vi And þe Egipciens greuwfly traueilyden vs, and pursueden, puttynge on moost greuows birþens.
 vii And we crierden to þe Lord God of oure faders, þat haþ herde vs, and bihold oure mekenes, and traueyl, and anguyfles;
 viii and he haþ lad vs out of Egipt in a myȝti hoond, and in an arme streiȝt out, in greet drede, in toknes, and wondres, ix and brouȝte into þis place; and haþ taak to vs þe loond mylk and hony flowynge.
 x And þerfor nowe Y offre to þee þe cheef of þe fruytis of þe erþe þat þe Lord haþ ȝeue to me. And þow shalt leeue hem in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God. And þe Lord þi God honourd, xi þow shalt eete in alle goodis þat þe Lord þi God haþ ȝeue to þee and to þin hows, þow, and Leuytis, and comlyng, þat is wiþ þee.
 xii Whanne þow hast fulfillid þe tipe of alle þi fruytis, þe zeer of tiþis þe þridde, þow shalt ȝeue to Leuyte, and comlyng, and faderles child, and widewe, þat þei eten 'wiþ ynne þi ȝatis, and ben fulfillid.
 xiii And þou shalt speke in þe siȝt of þe Lord þi God, Y haue brouȝt þat is halowid fro myn hows, and haue ȝyue it to Leuyte, and comlyng, and faderles child, and widewe, as þow hast comaundid to me; I haue not passid biside þin heestis, ne haue forgot þi maundement.
 xiv Y haue not eete of hem in my forwe, ne haue feuerd hem in eche vnclemmes, ne haue spendid of hem eny þing in þing of deed coors. Y haue obeishid to þe voyce of þe Lord my God, and haue doo alle þingis þat þow hast comaundid to me.
 xv Bihold fro þi sanctuary, fro þe hiȝe dwellynge place of heuens, and blesse þow to þi puple Yrael, and to þe loond þat þow hast ȝyue to vs, as þow hast swore to oure fadres, to þe loond mylk and hony flowynge.
 xvi To day þe Lord þi God haþ comaundid to þee, þat þow doo þes maundementis and domys, þat þow kepe and fulfil of al þin hert, and of al þi soule.
 xvii þe Lord þow hast chosun to day, þat he be to þee God, and þow goo in þe weies of hym, and keep his cerymoyns, and heestis, and domys, and obeishid to his maundement.
 xviii Loo! þe Lord haþ chosen þee to day, þat þow be to hym a special puple, as he haþ spoken to þee, and þow keep alle þe heestis of hym;
 xix and he shal maak þee hiȝer þan alle þe folkis, þat he haþ maad of nouȝt, into preyfynge, and name, and his gloriȝ; þat þow be an holy puple of þe Lord þi God, as he haþ spokun.

Capitulum XXVII.

i Moyses forsoþe haþ comaundid, and þe eldren, to þe puple of Yrael, seiyng, Keep ȝe eche maundement þat I comaunde to ȝow to day.

ii Whanne ȝe han passid ouere Jordan, into þe loond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, þow shalt arere greet stonus, and wiþ plastré þow shalt dawbe hem, iii þat þow mowe wryte in hem alle þe wordis of þis lawe, Jordan ouergoon, þat þow goo into þe lond þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee, þe loond mylk and hony flowynge, as he haþ swore to þi fadres.
iv Whanne þanne þow shalt ouerpas Jordan, arere þe stonus þat Y to day comaunde to þee, in þe mownt of Hebal; and þow shalt dawbe hem wiþ plastré.
v And þow shalt bild þere up an auter to þe Lord þi God, of stonus whom yrun haþ not towchid, vi and of stonus vnfourmed and vnpolishid; and þow shalt offre vpon it brent sacrificis to þe Lord þi God; vii and þow shalt offre pesible oostis, and þow shalt eete þere, and 'make metship before þe Lord þi God.
viii And þow shalt wryte vpon þe stonus alle þe wordis of þis lawe, pleynly and clearerli.
ix And Moyfes and þe preestis of Leuyte kynde seiden to al Yrael, Tak hede, and here þow, Yrael; to day þow art maad þe puple of þe Lord þi God;
x þow shalt here þe voice of hym, and do þe heestis, and ryȝtwisnesses, þat I comaunde to þee.
xi And Moyfes comaundide to þe puple in þat day,
seiyng,
xii þes shulen stoond to blesse þe Lord vpon þe hil of Garysym, Jordan put ouer; Symeon, Leuy, Judas, Ysachar, Josph, and Beniamyn.
xiii `And forn aȝens þes shulen stoond to curse in þe hil of Hebal, Ruben, Gad, and Aser, Zabulon, Dan, and Neptalym.
xiv And þe Leuytes shulen pronounce, and seye to alle men of Israel, wiþ an hiȝe voice, xv Cursid be þe man þat makid grauen þing and ȝotun, abomynacioun of þe Lord, þe werk of þe hoondis of crafti men, and shal put it in hidils; and al þe puple shal answer, and seye, Amen!
xvi Cursid þat honoureþ not his fader and moder; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xvii Cursid þat ouerberiþ þe teermes of his neiȝbore;
and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xviii Cursid þat makid to erre þe blynde in þe weye; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xix Cursid þat peruertiþ doom of comlynge, faderles child, and widewe; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xx Cursid þat slepiþ wiþ þe wijf of his fader, and opneþ þe couerynge of his bed; and al þe puple shal seie, Amen!
xxi Cursid þat slepiþ wiþ eny beast; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xxii Cursid þat slepiþ wiþ his sister, douȝter of his fader, or of his moder; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xxiii Cursid þat slepiþ wiþ his wyues moder; and al þe puple shal seie, Amen!

xxiv Cursid þat priuely smytiþ his neiȝbour; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen! Cursid þat slepiþ wiþ þe wijf of his neiȝbour; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xxv Cursid þat takid ȝiftis, þat he smyte þe soule of þe innocent blood; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!
xxvi Cursid þat dwelliþ not in þe wordis of þis lawe, ne hem in deede fulfilliþ; and al þe puple shal seye, Amen!

Capitulum XXVIII.

i If forsoþe þow herist þe voyce of þe Lord þi God, þat þow doo and kepe alle þe heestis of hym, þat Y comaunde to þee to day, þe Lord þi God shal make þee hiȝer þan alle þe folkis of kynde, þat dwellen in erþe.
ii And þere shulen come vpon þee alle þes bliflyngis, and shulen taak þee; if neuerþelater þe heestis of hym þow herist.
iii Bleffid þow in þe citee, and bleffid in þe feeld;
iv bleffid þe fruyt of þi wombe, and þe fruyt of þin erþe, and þe fruyt of þi beetis, þe flockis of þi droues, and þe fooldis of þi sheep;
v blifid þi beernes, and bleffyd þi relikis;
vi bleffid þow shalt be ingoyng, and out goyng.
vii þe Lord shal ȝyue þin enemyes, þat ryſen aȝens þee, fallynge in þin siȝt; bi o weye þei shulen come aȝens þee, and bi feuen þei shulen flee fro þi face.
viii þe Lord shal seend out bleffyng vpon þi celers, and vpon alle þe werkis of þin hoondis; and he shal blesse þee in þe loond þat þow shalt taak.
ix þe Lord shal rere þee to hym into an hooli puple, as he haþ swore to þee, if þou kepylt þe heestis of þe Lord þi God, and gost in þe weies of hym.
x And alle þe puples of erþes shulen seeyzen, þat þe name of þe Lord be inwardly clepid vpon þee, and þei shulen drede þee.
xi To be plenteuous in alle goodis þe Lord shal make þee, in fruytis of þi wombe, and fruyt of þi beetys, fruyt of þi loond, þat þe Lord haþ swore to þi fadres, for to ȝyue to þee.
xii þe Lord shal opne his best tresour, heuene, þat he ȝyue reyn to þi loond in his tyme; he shal blesse to alle þe werkys of þin hoondis; and þow shalt okyr to many folkis, and þi self shal not borwe to oker of eny man.
xiii þe Lord þi God shal sett þee into heed, and not into tayl, and þow shalt be euere more aboue, and not vndur; if neuerþelater þow here þe maundementis of þe Lord þi God, þat Y comaunde to þee to day, and kepist, and dost, xiv and bowist not aside fro hem, ne to þe riȝt, ne to þe left, ne haſt not folwid alien goddis, ne heried hem.
xv And if þou wolt not here þe vois of þe Lord þi God, þat þow keep and doo alle þe maundementis of hym, and cerymoyns, þat Y comaunde to þee to day, shulen come vpon þee alle þes malysouns, and holde þee.
xvi Cursid þow shalt be in citee, cursed in feeld;

xvii cursid þi bern, and cursid þi relikis;
xviii cursid þe fruyt of þi wombe, and þe fruyt of þin erþe, þe droues of þin oxen, and þe flockis of þi sheep.
xix Cursid þow shalt be ingoynge, and cursid out goynge.
xx Pe Lord shal fende vpon þee hungre inward, and hungre outward, and blamyng into alle þi werkis þat þow shalt do, to þe tyme þat he trede þee doun, and lefe swiftly, for þi moost yuel syndyngis, in þe whiche þow haft forsakun me.
xxi Joyn to þee þe Lord pestilence, to þe tyme þat he waast þee fro þe erþe, to þe which þow shalt goon in to be weeldyd.
xxii Smyit þee þe Lord wiþ nede, feuer, and coold, and brennyng, and heet, and corrupt eyre, and rust; and pursue he to þe tyme þat þou peryfhe.
xxiii Be heuene þat is aboue þee braafny; and þe lond þat þou tredist yrony.
xxiv ȝyue þe Lord þe wedre of þin erþe powdre, and fro heuene come down vpon þee alkis, to þe tyme þat þow be al to-powned.
xxv Tak þee þe Lord fallynge down before þin enemyes; bi o weye go þow out aȝens hem, and bi seuen fle þow, and be þou scatered þurȝ out alle þe rewmes of þe erþe;
xxvi and be þi careyn into meete to alle þe foulis of heuene, and beeftis of þe erþe, and be þere noon þat driue aweye.
xxvii Smyit þee þe Lord wiþ þe byil of Egipt, and þe paart of þe bodi bi þe which toordis ben sheten out, wiþ scab forslope and itchynge, so þat þow may not be helid.
xxviii Smyit þee þe Lord wiþ madnes, and blyndnes, and wiþ woodnes of þouȝt; xxix and þow shalt graasp in mydday, as is woned a blynd man to graasp in derknissis; and make he not redi þi weyes; and alle tymes wrong chalenge suffre þou, and be þow born down wiþ vyolence, ne haue þow þat delyuer þee.
xxx A wijf tak þow, and anoþer man sleep wiþ hyr; `an hows bild þow, and dwel þow not in yt; plaunt þow a vyn, and kut þow not þe grapis of it.
xxxi ȝin ox be flayn before þee, and eete þow not of it; ȝin asse be cauȝt in þi siȝt, and be it not ȝoldun to þee; þi sheep be þei ȝouen to þin enemyes, and be þere noon þat þee help.
xxxii ȝi sones and þi douȝtren be þei takun to anoþer puple, seyng ȝin eyen, and defaylynge at þe siȝt of hem al day; and be þere not strengþ in þin hoond.
xxxiii Pe fruyt of þin erþe, and alle þi traueyls eete þe puple þat þow knowist not; and be þow euer more wronge chalengis fusteininge, and born doun alle days, xxxiv and stonyed at þe drede of þo þingis þat þin eyen shulen seen.

xxxv Smyit þee þe Lord wiþ þe moost yuel biel in knees, and in sparyuers; and mow þow not be helid fro þe fool of þe foot vnto þe nol.
xxxvi And þe Lord shal leede þee, and þi kyng, whom þow haft ordeynd `vpon þee, into a folk þat knowist not, þow, and þi fadris; and þow shalt serue þere to alien goddys, tree, and stone.
xxxvii And þow shalt be lost into prouerb, and fable to alle puplis, to þe whiche þe Lord shal inleede þee.
xxxviii Myche feed þow shalt þow `in to þe loond, and litil þou shalt gedre; for locustis shulen deuowre alle þingis.
xxxix A vyn þow shalt plaunt, and delue, and wyn þow shalt not drynke, ne gedre of it eny þing; for it shal be wastyd wiþ wormes.
xl Olyues þow shalt haue in alle þi teermes, and þow shalt not be anoynt wiþ oyle; for þei shulen falle away, and perishen.
xli Sones and douȝtres þow shalt geete, and þow shalt not vle hem; for þei shulen be lad into chaytife.
xlii Alle þi trees and fruytis of þi loond rust shal waast.
xliii A comlynge, þat dwelliþ wiþ þee in þe loond, shal stey up vpon þee, and shal be hiȝer; forsoþe þow shalt goo doun, and be lower.
xliii He shal oker to þee, and þow shalt not oker to hym; he shal be into heed, and þow shalt be into tayl.
xlv And þere shulen come vpon þee alle þes malisouns, and purfuyng shulen holde þee, to þe tyme þat þow dye; for þow haft not herd þe voyce of þe Lord þi God, ne haft kept þe maundementis of hym, and cerymoyns, þat he hab comaundid to þee.
xlii And þere shulen be in þee sygnes, and wondres, and in þi seed, vnto wiþ outen ende;
xlvii forþi þat þow haft not serued to þe Lord þi God in ioy of herte and gladnes, for plenteuowsnes of alle þingis.
xlviii þou shalt serue to þin enemye, þat God shal send into þee, in hungre, and preſt, and nakidnes, and scaarfnes of alle þingis; and he shal put on an yren ȝok vpon þi scol, to þe tyme þat he haue al to-treede þee.
xlix þe Lord shal bryngе vpon þee a folk fro aferre, and fro þe vttermoołt cooltis of þe erþe, into liknes of a fleyng egle wiþ feersnes, whos tongue þow mayſt not vnderſtond;
I moost gredi folk, þat shal not spaar to þe old, ne haue mercy of þe litil child.
li And he shal deuowr þe fruyt of þi beeftis, and fruytis of þin erþe, to þe tyme þat þow dye, and leeue he not to þee corn, wyn, and oyle, droues of oxen, and flockis of sheep, to þe tyme þat he scatre þee, lii and al to-treede þee in alle þi citees; and þi fast wallis and hiȝe shulen be destryued, in þe whiche þow haddist trufit in al þi loond. þow shalt be enſegid, wiþ ynne þi ȝatis in al þi loond, þat þe Lord þi God shal ȝyue to þee.

iiiii And þow shalt ete þe fruyt of þi woombe, and þe flesh of þi sones, and of þi douȝtren, þat þe Lord þi God haþ ȝeue to þee, in angwisch and waftete, wiþ þe which þin enemye þhal oppresse þee.
 ivii A man delicate of liff, and leccherous myche, þhal enuye to his broþer, and to þe wif þat fittip in his bosum, ivi þat he ȝyue not to hem of þe flesh of his sones, þe whiche he þhal eete; forþi þat no þing oþer he haue in þe sefgyng and scaarsenes, þat þin enemyes han waftid þee wiþ ynne alle þi ȝatis.
 ixi A tendre womman and a delicate, 'þe which vpon þe erþe myȝte not go, ne fitch þe stap of þe foot, for softnes and moost tendrenes, þhal enuye to hir man þat restip in þe bosum of hir, vpon þe sone and douȝtres flesh, ivii and þe fili of þe lityl fellis, þat goon out fro þe myddil of þe hippis of hyr, and vpon þe free children þat ben born in þe same our. ȝei shulen ete hem priuely, for þe scaarfness of alle þingis in þe seuge and waftete, bi þe which þin enemy þhal oppresse þee wiþ ynne þi ȝatis.
 iviii But if þow keep and doo alle þe wordis of þis lawe, þat ben wryten in þis volym, and drede þe name of him gloriows and feerful, þat is þe Lord þi God, lix þe Lord þhal encrees þi veniaunces, and veniauncis of þi feed; greet veniaunces and stedfaſt, infirmitees moost yuel and euerelaſtyng.
 lix And he þhal turn into þee alle þe turmentyngis of Egyp, þat þow haſt dredde, and þei shulen cleue to þee.
 lixi Forþermore and alle þe langouris and veniauncis, 'þe whiche ben not wryten in þe volym of þis lawe, þe Lord þhal brynge vpon þee, to þe tyme þat he haue al totrode þee.
 lixii And ȝe shulen leeue fewe in noumbre, þat weren before as sterrys of heuene for multitude; for þow herdist not þe voice of þe Lord þi God.
 lixiii And as before þee þe Lord gladdide vpon ȝow, wel doyng to ȝow, and ȝow multipliynge; so he þhal be glad, ȝow scateryng and vndurturnyng, þat ȝe ben doon awey fro þe loond, to þe which þow þhalt go in to be weelidid.
 lixiii þe Lord þhal scater þee into alle puplis, fro þe hiȝte of þe erþe vnto þe teermes of it; and þou þhalt ferue þere to alien goddis, 'þe whiche þow knowist not, and þi fadris, to trees and stonus.
 lixv In þo folkis forþoþe þow þhalt not rest, ne þhal be rest to þe stap of þi foot. Forþoþe þe Lord þhal ȝyue to þee þere a dredful herte, and faylyng eyen, and a fowle waftid wiþ priue forwe.
 lixvi And þi liff þhal be as hongyng before þee; þow þhalt drede nyȝt and day, and þow þhalt not trowe to þi liff.
 lixvii Eerli þow þhalt seye, Who ȝyueþ to me euen? and at euen, Who ȝyueþ to me eerlich? for þe drede of þin herte, bi þe which þow þhalt be agast, and for þo þingis þat þow þhalt se wiþ þin eyen.

lxviii And þe Lord þhal brynge þee aȝen wiþ multitude of shippis into Egyp, bi þe weye of þe which he seide to þee, þat yt þow þhuldist se no more. ȝere þow þhalt be sold to þin enemys, into þrallis and þrallessis; and þere þhal not be þat bigge.

Capitulum XXIX.

i Thes ben þe wordis of þe couenaunt of pees, þat þe Lord haþ comaunid to Moyses, þat he shoulde smyte wiþ þe sones of Yrael in þe loond of Moab, biside þat boond of pees, þat wiþ hem he couenauntide in Oreb.
 ii And Moyses clepide al Yrael, and seide to hem, ȝe han seen alle þingis þat þe Lord haþ doo before ȝow in þe loond of Egyp, to Pharaos, and alle þe seruauntis of hym, and to al þe loond of hym;
 iii greet temptaciouns, þat þin eyen seen, þilk sygnes, and greet wondres.
 ivii And þe Lord ȝaf not to ȝow an vndurstondynge herte, and seyng eyen, and eeris þat miȝten here, vnto þe day þat is nowe.
 v He ladde ȝow fourti ȝeer bi deseert; ȝoure clopes ben not apeyred, ne þe shoon of ȝoure feet for eeld ben not waftid;
 vi breed ȝe eeten not, wyn and sidre ȝe dronken not, þat ȝe shulden knowe for he is þe Lord ȝoure God.
 vii And ȝe ben comen to þis place; and Seon, þe kyng of Esebon, went out, and Og, þe kyng of Basan, aȝen comyng to ȝow to fiȝt.
 viii And we smyten hem, and token þe loond of hem, and ȝauen to be weeld to Ruben, and Gad, and to þe half lynage of Manasse.
 ix Keep ȝe þerfor þe wordis of þis couenaunt, and fulfil hem, þat ȝe vndurstonden alle þingis þat ȝe shulden doo.
 x ȝe stonden to day alle before þe Lord ȝoure God, ȝoure princes, and lynagis, and þe more þurȝ birþ, and doctours, al þe puple of Israel, xi free children, ȝour wyues, and comlyngis þat wiþ þee dwellen in tentes, out taak þe hewers of trees, and hem þat beren watriſ;
 xii þat þow passe in þe couenaunt of þe Lord þi God, and in þe oþer þat þe Lord þi God smytiþ wiþ þee, xiii þat he arere þee to hym into a puple, and he be þe Lord þi God, as he haþ spokun to þee, and as he haþ fworn to þi fadres Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob.
 xiv Ne to ȝow alone I þis couenaunt smyte, and þes oþeres conferme, xv but to alle present and absent.
 xvi Forþoþe ȝe han knowe what maner wife we dwelten in þe loond of Egyp, and what maner wife we paſſiden bi þe myddil of naciouns; þe whiche paſſynge, xvii þe seen abomynaciouns, and filþis, þat is, mawmnettis of hem, tree and stoon, siluer and gold, þat þei heryeden.

 xviii Lest perauenture þere be among ȝow man or womman, meyne or lynage, whos herte is turned a wey to day fro þe Lord ȝoure God, þat he goo, and ferue to goddis of oþer gentils; and be among ȝow a rote burionyng gal and bitternes; xix and whanne he hadde herd þe wordis of þis oþoþ, he blefse to hym in his herte, seiyng, Pees shal be to me, and Y shal go in þe shrewidnes of myn herte; and a dronken take þe þristi, xx and þe Lord forȝyue not to hym, but þanne moost þe woodnes of hym shal wax feers, and gelows ȝens þat man, and fitten vpon hym alle þe cursid þingis þat ben wryten in þis volym; and he doo awey þe name of hym vnder heuene,
 xxi and waast hym into þe lost fro alle lynagis of Yrael, after þe malisouns þat in þe book of þis lawe and couenaunt ben conteyned.
 xxii And þe generacioun folowynge shal seye, and þe fones þat shulen be born berafter, and pilgrymys, and fro aferre comen, seyng þe veniauncis of þat loond, and þe infirmytees, wiþ þe whiche þe Lord tourmentid
 it,
 xxiii wiþ brimstoon, and brennyng wiþ heet of þe funne, so þat forþermore it be not sowed, ne eny þing green burioun, into ensaumple of þe vndurturnynge of Sodom and Gomor, Adame and Soboym, þe whiche þe Lord vndurturned in wreþ, and in his woodnes.
 xxiv And al folk shulen seye, Whi þus þe Lord haþ doon to þis loond? What is þis greet wraþ wiþ outen mesure of his woodnes?
 xxv and þei shulen answere, For þei han forsake þe couenaunt of þe Lord, þat he couenauntide wiþ þe faders of hem, whanne he lad hem out of þe loond of Egyp,
 xxvi and ferueden to alien goddis, and honoureden hem whom þei knewen not, and to whom þei weren not taken to;
 xxvii þefor wraþþed þe woodnes of þe Lord ȝens þis loond, þat he brouȝt in vpon it alle þe cursid þingis þat in þis volym ben wryten;
 xxviii and he keste hem out fro his loond in wraþþe, in woodnes, and in moost indignacyoun; and he keste aferre in to an alyen loond, as to day is preued.
 xxix Hid þingis of þe Lord ȝoure God ben, þat ben open to vs, and to ȝoure fones vnto wiþ outen ende, þat we doon alle þingis of þis lawe.

Capitulum XXX.

i Whanne þefor were comen vpon þee alle þes wordes, bleffynge or malyfoun, þat I haue purposid in þi siȝt, and brouȝt þurȝ forþenkynge of þin herte in alle folkis of kynde, into þe whiche þe Lord þi God haþ scatred

 þee,
 ii and were turned aȝen to hym, and obeyshidest to þe heefis of him, as Y to day comaunde to þee, wiþ þi fones, in al þin herte and in al þi soule, iii and þe Lord þi God shal bryng þee aȝen fro þi chaytifte, and shal haue mercy of þee, and eft shal gedre þee fro alle puplis, into þe whiche þee before he scatride;
 iv if to þe eendis of heuene þow were scatryd, þens shal aȝen drawe þee þe Lord þi God; v and shal taak, and brynge into þe loond þat weldiden þi fadris; and þow shalt holde it, and bleffynge to þee, of more noumbre he shall make þee to be þan weren þi fadris.
 vi Pe Lord þi God shal circumcyde þin herte, and þe herte of þi seed, þat þow loue þe Lord þi God in al þin herte and in al þi soule, and þow may lyue.
 vii Forsoþe alle þes malisouns þe Lord shal turn vpon þin enemyes, and hem þat haten þee þei shulen pursue.
 viii Forsoþe þow shalt turne aȝen, and here þe voice of þe Lord þi God, and þow shalt doo alle þe maundementis þat I comaunde to þee to day; ix and þe Lord þi God shal make þee to be plenteuous in alle þe werkis of þin hoondis, in þe progeny of þi woomb, and in þe fruyt of þi beestis, in plenteuowste of þin erþe, and in largyte of alle þingis. Forsoþe þe Lord shal turne aȝen, þat he ioye on þee in alle goodis, as he ioyede in þi fadres;
 x if neuerþelater þow herest þe voyce of þe Lord þi God, and kepist þe heefis of hym, and cerymoyns, þat in þis lawe ben writyen, and turn aȝen to þe Lord þi God, in al þin herte, and in al þi soule.
 xi Þis heeft þat I comaunde to þee to day, is not aboue þee, ne ferre put, xii ne in heuene set, þat þow maist seye, Who of vs may to heuene sty vp, þat he bryngit to vs, and we heren it, and fulfillen in dede?
 xiii ne biȝond see set, þat þow pleyn, and seye, Who of vs may passe ouer þe see, and it to vs hidir bryngit, þat we mowen here, and doon þat þat is comaundid?
 xiv But riȝt nyȝ þee is þe word, in þi mouȝt and in þin herte, þat þow doo it.
 xv Bihold þat to day I haue purposid in þi siȝt lijf and good, and aȝenward deb and yuel; xvi þat þow loue þe Lord þi God, and goo in þe weies of hym, and keep þe heefis of hym, and cerymoyns, and domes; and þow lyue, and he multiplie þee, and blefse to þee, in þe loond to þe which to be weeldid þow shalt goon yn.
 xvii Forsoþe if þin herte were turned awey, and woldist not here, and bi errorr disseyued honourist alyen goddis, and feruest hem, xviii I before seye to þee to day, þat þow perishe, and litil tyme þow shalt dwelle in þe loond, to þe which Jordan ouer put þow shalt goon yn, þat it be weeldid.

xix Wytnesses Y inwardly clepe heuene and erþe to day, þat Y haue purposid to ȝow lijf and debȝ, good and yuel, bleffynge and curfynge; chees þefor lijf, þat and bow lyue and þi seed.

xx and þow loue þe Lord þi God, and þow obeysh to his voyce, and to hym þow drawe to; forsoþe he is þi lijf, and þe lengþe of þi days; þat þow dwelle in þe loond, for þe which þe Lord hab̄ swore to þi fadris Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob, þat he ȝeue it to hem.

Capitulum XXXI.

i And so Moyses ȝede, and spak alle þes wordes to al Yrael, ii and feide to hem, Of an hundrid and twenti ȝeer Y am to day, Y may namore goon out and come yn, namelich whanne and þe Lord hab̄ feide to me, Pow shalt not paffe þis Jordan.

iii Ȥefor þe Lord þi God shall paffe before þee; he shal doo a wey alle þes gentils in þi siȝt, and þow shalt weeld hem; and þis Jofue shal paffe before þee, as þe Lord hab̄ spoken.

iv And þe Lord shal doo to hem as he dide to Seon, and to Og, þe kyng of Amorreis, and to þe loond of hem; and he shal do hem a wey.

v Whanne þanne and þes he shal taak to ȝow, lik maner ȝe shulen doo to hem, as I haue comaundid to ȝow.

vi Manlich do ȝe, and `be ȝe coumfortid; wole ȝe not be feerd, ne dred at þe siȝt of hem, for þe Lord þi God he ys þi leder, and he shal not leeue, ne forsaak þee.

vii And Moyses clepide Jofue, and feide to hym before al þe multitude of þe sones of Yrael, Tak coumfort, and be þow strong; forsoþe þow shal lede in þis puple into þe loond þat þe Lord hab̄ sworn hym to ȝeuynge to þe faders of hem; and þow shalt it dyuyde bi lot.

viii And þe Lord þat is ȝour leder, he shal be wiþ þee, ne shal leeue ne forsaak þee; wole þow not drede, ne be feerd.

ix And so Moyses wroot þis lawe, and took it to þe preestis, þe sones of Leuy, þat beren þe ark of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and to alle þe alderen of Yrael.

x And he comaundide to hem, seiyng, After seuen ȝeer þe ȝeer of remyssioun, in þe solempnytees of þe tabernaclis, xi alle men of Yrael comyng togidre, þat þei aperen in þe siȝt of þe Lord her God, in þe place þat þe Lord hab̄ chofun, þow shalt rede þe wordis of þis lawe before al Yrael, hem herynge, xii and in oon al þi puple gedrid, as wel men as wymmen, litil children, and comlyngis þat ben wiþ ynne þi ȝaatis; þat herynge þei lernen, and dreden þe Lord oure God, and keep and fulfille alle þe wordis of þis lawe;

xiii forsoþe þe sones of hem þat now vñknownen, þat þei mowen here, and þei dredden þe Lord her God alle days in þe whiche þei dwellen in erþe to þe which, Jordan ouer put, ȝe shulen goon þat it be had.

xiv And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Loo! nyȝ ben þe days of þi deeþ; sleep Jofue, and stoond ȝe in þe tabernacle of witnesfyng, þat Y comaunde to hym. Ȥefor Moyses and Jofue ȝeden, and stoden in þe tabernacle of witnesfyng;

xv and þe Lord aperide þere in a pelere of a clowde, þat stood in þe entre of þe tabernacle.

xvi And þe Lord feide to Moyses, Loo! pow shalt sleepe wiþ þi fadris, and þis puple aryfyng shall doo fornycacioun after alien goddis, in þe loond to þe which he shal goon yn, and dwelle in it; þere he shal forsaak me and make at nouȝt þe couenaunt of pees, þat Y couenauntid wiþ hym.

xvii And my woodnes shal wrappþe aȝens hym in þat day, and Y shal forsaak hym, and hiyde my face fro hym, and he shal be into deuowryng; and alle yuels and tormentyngis shulen fynde hym, so þat he feie in þat day, Forsoþe for God is not wiþ me, þes yuels han foundun me.

xviii Forsoþe Y shal hide, and hile my face in þat day, for alle þe yuels þat he hab̄ doo, for he hab̄ folwid alien goddis.

xix And so now wryte ȝe to ȝow þis fonge, and teche ȝe þe sones of Yrael, þat myndfulli þei hoolden, and wiþ mouȝ syng; and þis dyte be to me for witnesſinge among þe sones of Yrael.

xx Forsoþe I shal leede hym into þe loond, for þe which I haue sworn to þe fadris of hym, mylk and hony flowynge; and whanne þei hadden eete, and weren fillid, and fat, þei shulen turn to alien goddis, and serue to hem; and myffey to me, and þei shulen make at nouȝt my couenaunt.

xi After þat many yuels and tormentyngis han founden hym, þis fonge shal answere to hym for witnesfyng, þat no forȝetyng shal doo awey fro þe mouȝ of þi seed. I knowe forsoþe þe þowȝtis of hym, what þingis he be to doo, to day or Y lede hym into þe loond þat I haue bihoot to hym.

xxii Panne Moyses wroot a fonge, and tauȝte þe sones of Yrael.

xxiii And þe Lord comaundide to Jofue, þe sone of Nun, and seiþ, Tak coumfort, and be stronge; forsoþe þou shal bryng yn þe sones of Yrael into þe loond þat I haue bihoot, and I shal be wiþ þee.

xxiv After þanne þat Moyses wroot þe wordes of þis lawe in a volym, and fulfillide, xxv he comaundide to þe Leuytis þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, seiyng, xxvi Take ȝe þis book, and puttþ it in þe fide of þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord ȝoure God, þat it be þere aȝens þee into witnesfyng.

xxvii Forsoþe Y knowe þi struyng, and þi moost hard nol; ȝit lyuynge me, and goyng yn wiþ ȝowe, euermore struyngly ȝe diden aȝens þe Lord; myche more whanne I shal be deed.

xxviii Gedre ȝe to me alle þe more þurȝ birþ, bi ȝoure lynages, and doctours, and I shal speke hem, herynge þes wordes, and I shal inwardly clepe aȝens hem heuene and erþe.

xxix Forsoþe I haue knowun, þat after my deep wickidlich ȝe shulen doo, and ȝe shulen bowe aside soон fro þe wey þat I haue comaundide to ȝow; and þere shulen come aȝens to ȝou yuels in þe last tyme, whanne ȝe han doon yuel in þe fist of þe Lord, þat ȝe terren hym bi þe werkys of ȝoure hoondis.

xxx Panne Moyfes spak, herynge al þe company of Yrael, þe wordis of þis dite, and vnto þe eende fulfillid.

Capitulum XXXII.

i Here ȝe, heuens, þingis þat Y speke; here þe erþe þe wordis of my mouþ.

ii To gidre sprynge in reyn my loore; flowe as dewe my speche, as wedre vpon erbe, and as dropes vpon cornes.

iii For þe name of þe Lord I shal inwardly sleep; ȝeueþ huge doyng to oure God.

iv Of God perfitt ben þe werkys, and alle his weyes domes; a trewe God, and wiþ outen eny wickidnes, ryȝtwis and euen.

v Þei han synned to hym, and not his sones in filþis; fhrewid kynred, and mysturnyd.

vi Pes þingis aȝenward ȝeeldist þow not to þe Lord, O fole puple and vnwise? Wheþer is he not þi fader, þat haþ weelid þee, and maad, and fourmed þee of nouȝt?

vii Haue mynde of olde days, and þenk eche generaciouns; aske þi fader, and he shal telle to þee, þi more, and þei shulen seie to þee.

viii Whanne deuydide þe hiȝest folkis of kynde, whanne he feuerde þe sones of Adam, he sette þe teermys of puplis after þe noumbre of þe sones of Yrael.

ix Part forsoþe of þe Lord þe puple of hym; Jacob þe litil corde of his herytage.

x He foond hym in a deseert loond, in place of orrour, and of waast wildernes; he ladde hym aboute, and tauȝte, and kept as þe apple of his eye.

xi As an egle forþclepyng his bryddis to flee, and on hem houynge, he sprade out his weengis, and took to hym, and beer in his shuldres.

xii þe Lord alone was þe leder of hym, and was not wiþ hym an alien God.

xiii He sette hym on an hiȝe erþe, þat he myȝte ete þe fruytis of feedles, þat he myȝte sowke hony of þe stoon, and oylen of þe moost hard stone;

xiv butre of þe droue, and mylk of sheep, wiþ þe talwȝ of loombs and of wepers, of þe sones of Basan; and goot wiþ margh of whete, and blood of grapis myȝte drynk moost clear.

xv Ful fat maad is þe loued, and aȝen wynsed; fulfattid, fulgrefid, outlargid; he laft God his maker, and ȝeed abak fro God, his ȝyuer of heelþ.

xvi Þei eggiden him in alyen goddis, and in abomynaciouns to wraþþe arereden.

xvii Þei offriden to deuels, and not to God, to goddis þe whiche þei knewen not; newe and freſſhe camen, 'þe whiche heryeden not þe faders of hem.

xviii God þat þee gat þow haſt forſaak, and haſt forȝet þe Lord þi shaper.

xix þe Lord sawȝ, and to wraþþe was rerid; for eggiden hym his sones and douȝtres.

xx And he seiþ, Y ſchal hyde my face fro hem, and I shal behold þe laſt þinges of hem; generacioun forſoþe myſturnid it is, and vntrewe sones.

xxi Þei han eggid me in hym þat was not God, and han terred in her vanytees; and I shal egge hem in hym þat is no puple, and in fole folk of kynde I shal terre hem.

xxii Fier is vndurtent in my woodnes, and it shal brenne vnto þe laſt þingis of helle; and it shal deuowre þe loond wiþ his buriownyng, and of hillis þe foundementis shulen brenne.

xxiii I shal gedre vpon hem yuels, and myn arewis I shal fulfil in hem.

xxiv Þei shulen be waſtid wiþ hungir, and briddis shulen deuour hem in biting moost bitter; teeþ of bestis I shal fende in hem, wiþ woodnes of hem drawinge on erþe, and crepinge.

xxv Wiþ out forþ ſhal waſt hem ſword, and wiþ yn forþ dred; þe ȝong togidre and mayden, þe fowkyng wiþ þe old man.

xxvi And I feide, Where forſoþe ben þei? to ceefe Y ſhal maak fro men þe mynde of hem.

xxvii But for þe wraþ of enemyes I lafte for a while, leſt perauenture wolden wexe prowde þe enemyes of hem, and seye, Oure hiȝe hoond, and not þe Lord, haþ doon alle þes þingis.

xxviii Folk wiþ out counſeil it is, and wiþ out wiſdom;

xxix wolde God þei fauerden, and vndurstoden, and laſt þingis purveyden.

xxx What maner wife oon purſuede a þowſand, and two myȝten dryue ten þowſand? Wheþer not þerfore for her God folde hem, and þe Lord cloſide hem?

xxxi Forſoþe oure God is not as þe goddis of hem, and oure enemyes ben iugis.

xxxii Of þe vyn of Sodoms þe vyn of hem, and of þe ſubaarbis of Gomor; þe graap of hem graap of gal, and þe cluſter moost bittre.

xxxiii Gal of dragouns þe wyne of hem, and venym of eddres vncurable.

xxxiv Wheþer ben not þes þingis hid anentis me, and merkid in my tresours?

xxxv Myn is veniaunce, and Y shal ȝeeld to hem in tyme, þat þe foot of hem flyde; nyȝ is þe day of perdicoun, and to be nyȝ hiȝen þe tymes.
 xxvi Be Lord Ihal deme his puple, and in his seruauntis he shal haue mercy; he shal se þat feble be þe hoond, and closid forsoþe han faylid, and þe lafte ben waſtid.
 xxvii And þei shulen seye, Where ben þe goddis of hem, in whiche þei hadden trust?
 xxviii Of whos flayn sacrifice þei eten þe fatnesse, and drunken þe wyn of þe offryngis of licours, arise, and helpe þei to ȝow, and in nede ȝow defende.
 xxix Seeþ þat Y am alone, and þere is noon oþer God faue me; I shal flee, and I shal maak to lyue; Y shal smyte, and I shal heel; and þere is not þat fro myn hoond may delyuer.
 xl I shal heue vp to heuene myn hoond, and Y shal seye, I lyue wiþ outen eende.
 xli If I whette as leit my fwerd, and myn hoond taak doom, Y shal ȝeeld vengyng to myn enemyes, and to hem þat hatiden me, I shal quite.
 xlvi I shal drenche myn arewis in blood, and my fwerd shal deuour flesh of þe blood of flayn, and of þe chaytife of þe nakid heed of enemyes.
 xlvi Preyse ȝe, gentils, þe puple of hym, for þe blood of his seruauntis he shal wreek, and veniaunce he shal quyte into þe enemyes of hem; and he shal be merciful to þe erþe of his puple.
 xlvi Panne Moyses cam, and spak alle þe wordis of þis songe in þe eris of þe puple; and he and Josue, þe sone of Nun.
 xlvi And he fulfillide alle þes wordis, spekyng to al Yrael; xlvi and feide to hem, Put ȝe ȝoure hertis into alle þe wordys þat I witnesse to ȝow to day, þat ȝe comaunden hem to ȝoure fones to keep, and to doo, and to fulfille alle þingis þat ben wryten of þis lawe;
 xlvi for not in veyn þei ben comaundid to ȝow, but þat echon in hem shulde lyue; þe which doyng long tyme ȝe abiden in þe loond, to þe which to be weeldid, Jordan ouerput, ȝe shulen goon yn.
 xlvi And þe Lord spak to Moyses in þe same day, seiyng, xlvi Sty vp into þis hil Abarym, þat is, paſſyng, into þe hil Nebo, þat is in þe loond of Moab, aȝens Jeryco; and se þe loond of Chanaan, þat to be hold I shal taak to þe fones of Yrael, and dye þow in þe hil.
 i Be which stiynge vp, þow shalt be ioyned to þi puplis, as died Aaron, þi broþer, in þe hil of Hor, and was put to his puples.
 ii For ȝe han trespassid aȝens me, in þe myddil of þe fones of Yrael, at þe Watris of Aȝenseiyng, in Cades of þe deseert of Syn; and ȝe halwide not me amonge þe fones of Yrael.
 iii Aȝenward þow shalt se þe loond, and shalt not goon into it, þat I shal ȝyue to þe fones of Israel.

Capitulum XXXIII.

- i This is þe bliflynge, wiþ þe which Moyses, man of God, blifede þe fones of Irael before his deeþ;
- ii and seiþ, Be Lord fro Syna cam, and fro Seir is sprongun to vs; he aperide fro þe hil of Pharan, and wiþ hym þousandis of seytis; in þe riȝt hoond of hym firy lawe.
- iii He louede puples; alle seytis in þe hoond of hym ben, and þat neijen to þe feet of hym, shulen taak of þe loor of hym.
- iv Lawe comaundide to vs Moyses, þe erytage of þe multitude of Jacob.
- v And þere shal be anentis þe moost riȝt a kyng, þe princis of þe puple gedrid wiþ þe lynagis of Yrael.
- vi Lyue Ruben, and dye he not, and be he litil in noumbre.
- vii Þis is of Jude þe bleffyng; here, Lord, þe voyce of Jude, and to his puple wiþ ynne leede hym; his hoondis shulen fiȝt for it, and helper of it he shal be aȝens þe aduersaries of it.
- viii Forsoþe to Leuy he seiþ, Bi perfeccioun and bi loor fro þin hooli man, whom þow haſt preued in temptacioun, and haſt demed at þe Watris of Aȝenseiyng;
- ix þe which haþ feide to his fader and to his moder, I knowe ȝow not, and to his briþeren, I vnknowe hem; and þei knewen not her fones. Þes kepten bi speech, and bi couenaunt;
- x heelden bi domys, O! Jacob, and bi lawe, O! Yrael; þei shulen put maad encense in bi woodnes, and brent sacrifice on þin auter.
- xi Bleffe, Lord, þe strengþ of hym, and þe werkis of þe hoondis of hym tak; smyit þe backis of þe enemyes of hym, and þat haten hym, aryse þei not.
- xii And to Beniamyn he seiþ, Mooſt loued of þe Lord shal dwelle tristili in hym; as in a chaumbre al day he shal dwelle, and betwix þe shuldres of hym he shal reſt.
- xiii Forsoþe to Joseph he seiþ, Of þe bleffyng of þe Lord þe loond of hym; of þe applis of heuene, and of þe dewe, and of þe see vnderligging;
- xiv of applis of þe fruyt of funne, and of mone;
- xv and of þe cop of þe oold mounteyns, and of applis of euerlaſtyng hillis;
- xvi and of fruytis of þe erþe, and plente of it. Bleffyng of hym þat aperide in þe buffle come vpon þe heed of Joseph, and vpon þe fortop of Nazarey among his briþeren.
- xvii As of þe first gotten bool þe feirnes of hym; hornes of an unicorn þe hornes of hym; in hem he shal wyndowe gentilys, vnto þe teermes of þe erþe. Þes ben þe multitudys of Effraym, and þes þousandis of Manasse.
- xviii And to Zabulon he seiþ, Glad þow, Zabulon, in bi goyng out, and, Ysachar, in bi tabernaclis.

xix Puplis at þe hil þei shulen sleep, and þere þei shulen offre slayn sacrifices of ryȝtwysnesse; þe whiche þe flowynge of þe see as mylk shal sowke, and hid tresours of grauels.
 xx And to Gad he seiþ, Bleſſid in breede Gad; as a lioun he restide, and he took arme and fortow.
 xxi And he sawȝ his prynfēhod, þat in his paart a doctour he was seid vp; þe which was wiþ princis of puple, and dide riȝtwysnesses of þe Lord, and hys doom wiþ Yrael.
 xxii To Dan forsoþe he seiþ, Dan, keetlyng of a lyon, shal flowe laargly fro Bafan.
 xxiii And to Neptalym he seide, Neptalym plenteuownesse shal ful vſe, and ful shal be wiþ bleſſyngis of þe Lord; eerly and mydday he shal weeld. xxiv To Afer forsoþe he seiþ, Bleſſid in sones Afer, be he plesyng to his breþeran; weet he in oyle his foot.
 xxv Yrun and bras þe shoyng of hym; as days of þi ȝongþ so and þin eelde.
 xxvi Þere is noon oþer God as þe moost riȝt God; þe stier of heuen þin helper; þurȝ þe hidows doynges of hym to and fro rennen þe clowdes.
 xxvii Be dwellynge place of hym aboue, and vndurneþe euerlaſtyng aarmys; he shal cast out fro þi face þe enemye, and he shal seye, Be þow to-trode.
 xxviii Yrael shal dwelle trutſtilych, and aloone; þe eye of Jacob in þe loond of whete, and of wyn; and heuens shulen wexe derk þurȝ dewe.
 xxix Bleſſid art þow, Yrael; who lijk of þee, þou puple þat art faued in þe Lord? Sheeld of þin help and fward of þi glorye þi God; þin enemyes shulen denye þee, and þow shal treed neckis of hem.

Capitulum XXXIIII.

i Ascende þanne Moyses fro þe wijlde feeldys of Moab, vpon þe hil of Nebo, in to þe cop of Phasga, aȝens Jericho. And þe Lord shewide to hym al þe loond of Galaad vnto Dan,
 ii and al Neptalym, and 'þe loond of Effraym and Manasse, and al þe loond of Juda, vnto þe last see; iii and þe sowȝ paart, and þe breedë of þe feeld of Jericho, cyte of Palmys vnto Seor.
 iv And þe Lord seide to hym, Ȣis is þe loond for þe which Y swore to Abraham, Yfaac, and Jacob, seiyng, To þi seed I shal ȝyue it; þow haft seen it wiþ þin eyen, and þow shalt not pasle to it.
 v And þanne Moyses, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, dyed þere, in þe loond of Moab, comaundynge þe Lord.
 vi And he bryede hym in þe valey of þe loond of Moab, aȝens Phegor; and no man knewe þe sepulcre of hym vnto þe day þat is now.
 vii Moyses of an hundred and twenty ȝeiris was whanne he diede; þe eyȝe of hym daswed not, ne þe teeþ of hym ben meued.

viii And þe children of Israel wepten hym in þe wijlde feeldis of Moab þretti dais; and fulfillyd ben þe dais of mournynge of hem weylyng Moyses.
 ix Forsoþe Jofue, þe sone of Nun, is fulfillid wiþ þe spyrty of wisdom, for Moyses putte on hym his hoondis; and to him obeishiden þe sones of Yrael, and diden as þe Lord comaundide to Moyses.
 x And þere roos not a prophete ferþermore in Yrael as Moyſes, whom þe Lord knewe face to face, xi in alle sygnes and wondres, þe whiche bi hym he fente, þat he shulde doo in þe loond of Egipte to Pharao, and to alle þe seruauntis of hym, and to al þe loond of hym;
 xii and al strong hoond, and greet merueyls, þat Moyses dide before al Israel.

JOSUE.

Pe prolog of Jofue

At þe last endid þe fyue bokis of Moyses, as of greet boond delyuered, to Jofue, þe sone of Nau, we putten hoond, whom Ebrews clepen Josue Ben Nun, þat is, Jofue, þe sone of Nun; and to þe book of Jugis, whom þei clepen Sophyn; and to Ruth, and to Hester, þe whiche wiþ þe same names þei tellen out. And we moneishen þe reder, þat þe wode of Ebrew names, and distyncciouns bi membris dyuydid þe bisy wryter keep wel, leſt and oure traueyl and þe studie of hym peryſhe; and þat in þe fyrſt, þat oft Y haue witnesſid, wite he me not in to repreuyng of oold men newe þingis to ſtipie, as my freendis putten blame; but for foul paart to offre of my tongue, to men, whom neuerþelater oure faumpleers delyten, þat for þe fixe faumpleers of Greekis, þe whiche and neden cost and moost traueil, haue þei oure makynge. And ȝife where euere þei dowten in redynge of oold volyms, þei togidre beryng þes to þilk, fynden þat þei fechen; moost ſiþ anentys Latyns so feele ben faumpleers, how feele bokis, and echon after his doom oþer addide or wiþdrewē, þat is seen to hym; and forsoþe it may not be foþ þat discordiþ. Wherfor þe scorpioun ceeſe to ful ryſe aȝens vs wiþ crokid wounde, and leeue he of hooli werk to reproue wiþ venymyd tongue, or takynge if it pleſe, or diſpifyng if it displease; and haue he mynde of þo verſe, Ȣi mouȝt aboundide wiþ malice, and þi tongue vrouȝte trecheries; fittyng aȝens þi broþer þow speek, and aȝens þe sone of þi moder þou puttist ſclaundre; þes þingis þow didist, and Y heelde my pees; þou eymedit wickidli, þat Y shal be of þe lijk; Y shal vndurnyme þee, and fette þee aȝens þi face.
 Forsoþe what profit is of þe herer, or of þe reeder, vs to sweete in traueilynge, and to traueile in bacbytng?

oþer to foru þe Jewis, þat of chalengyng of hem and of scornynge Cristen be `doon a wey occasioun, and men of þe chirche it to dispise, also and to tere, wherof aduersaries ben tourmentid? And if þe oold conliche interpretacioun plese to hem, þe which and to me displesip not, and no þing hei wiþ out wenens to be taak; whi þo þingis þat vndur signes of a sterre, and vndur signes of an arowe, or ben addyd, or kut awey, hei reden, and dispisen? Whi Danyel after þe translacoun of Theodosiun chirchis han resseyued?
 Whi Origen hei merueilen, and Eusebe of Pamphili, alle makyngis also expowynge? Oþer what foli was, after þat hei seiden soþ þingis, to bryng forþ þo þat ben fals? Where of forsoþe in þe Newe Testament hei mowen preue þe taken witnesfyngis, `þe whiche in oold bokis ben not had? Þese þingis we seyn, leſt we ben seen vtterli to be ſtil to wrongfull chalengers.
 Ferþermore after þe deep of `þe holi womman Paule, whos liþ is faumple of vertue, and þes bokis, `þe whiche to be mayden of Crist, Eustochie, Y myȝte not denye, we han demed, while þe spiryt þhal gouern þes lymes, to fitten to be explanacioun of þe prophetis, and to `turnen aȝen to be now long laſt werk, as bi a maner turnynge aȝen after outlawynge; nameli ſiþ Pawmache, an hooli man and merueilous, þis fame þing aſkip bi lettres, and we, hiyng to be contre, owen to ouerpasse wiþ a deef eer þe `dep beryng songis of mermynns.

Here eendib þe prolog of Jofue and Judicum and of Ruth, and nowe bigynneþ þe book of Jofue.

Capitulum I.

- i And it is doon after þe dep of Moyſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, þat þe Lord ſpak to Jofue, þe ſone of Nun, þe feruaunt of Moyſes, and feide to hym,
- ii Moyſes, my feruaunt, is deed; riſe, and paſſe ouer þis Jordan, þow, and al þe puple wiþ þee, into þe loond þat Y þhal ȝyue to þe ſones of Yrael.
- iii Eche place þat þe ſtap of ȝoure foot þhal treed, to ȝow Y þhal taak, as Y ſpak to Moyſes,
- iv fro `deſeert and Libane and vnto þe greet flood of Effrates; al þe loond of Etheus, vnto þe greet ſee aȝens þe funne goyng doun, þhal be ȝoure teerme.
- v Noon þhal mowe to ȝow to aȝenſtoond alle þe dais of þi liþ; as Y was wiþ Moyſes, fo Y þhal be wiþ þee; Y þhal not leeue, ne forſaak þee.
- vi Tak coumfort, and be ſtrong; forſoþe þow þhalt dyuyde bi lot to þis puple þe loond, for þe which Y haue ſwore to þi faders, þat Y take it to hem.
- vii Take coumfort þerfor, and be ful ſtrong, þat þow keep, and doo al þe lawe, þat Moyſes, my feruaunt, haþ comaundid to þee; ne bowe þow aſide fro it to þe ryȝt or to þe left, þat þow vnderſtoond alle þingis þat þow doſt.

viii Be volym of þis law goo not awey fro þi mouþ, but þow þhalt deuowtly þink in it days and nyȝtis, þat þow kepe and do alle þingis þat ben wryten in it; þanne þow þhalt make redi þi weie, and vnderſtoond it.

ix I comaunde to þee; tak coumfort, and be ſtrong; wole þow not drede, and wole þow not be feerd; for wiþ þee is þe Lord þi God in alle þingis, to what euere þingis þow þhalt goo.

x And Jofue comaundide to þe pryncis of þe puple, feiynge,

xi Goo ȝe bi þe myddil of þe tentis; and comaunde ȝe to þe puple, and feye ȝe, Make ȝe redi to ȝou meetis, for after þe briddie day ȝe þulen paſſe ouer Jordan, and goo into þe loond to be weeldid, þat þe Lord ȝoure God is to ȝyue to ȝow.

xii Forſoþe to Rubenytis, and Gaddytis, and to þe half lynage of Manasse he ſeiþ, xiii Haue mynde of þe word þat comaundide to ȝow Moiſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, feiynge, Þe Lord ȝoure God haþ ȝyue to ȝow reſt and al þe loond;

xiv ȝoure wyues and ȝoure children and beeſtis þulen dwelle in þe loond þat Moyſes haþ taak to ȝow biȝonde Jordan; ȝe forſoþe paſſibl̄ armed before ȝoure breþeren, alle þe ſtronge men in hoond; and fiȝte ȝe for hem, xv to þe tyme þat þe Lord ȝyue reſt to ȝoure briþeren, as and to ȝow he haþ ȝeue; and þat þei forſoþe weelden þe loond þat þe Lord ȝoure God is to ȝyue to hem; and so ȝe þulen turn aȝen into þe loond of ȝoure poſſeffyoun, and ȝe þulen dwelle in it, þat to ȝow haþ ȝeuen Moyſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, biȝond Jordan, aȝens þe riſyng of þe funne.

xvi And þei anſwerden to Jofue, and ſeiden, Alle þingis þat þow haſt comaundid to vs we þulen doo, and whidir euer þow ſeendift, we þulen goo;

xvii as we han obeishid in alle þingis to Moyſes, fo and we þulen obeyſhe to þee; oneli þe Lord þi God be wiþ þee, as he was wiþ Moyſes.

xviii Who aȝen ſeiþ to þi mouþ, and obeishibl̄ not to alle þe wordis, `þe whiche þow haſt comaundid to hym, dye he; þou oonly tak coumfort, and do manlych.

Capitulum II.

i Sente þanne Jofue, þe ſone of Nun, fro Sechym two men, aſpies in hidlis, and feide to hem, Goþ, and biholdibl̄ þe loond, and þe cyte of Jerycho. Þe whiche goyng ȝeden into an hows of a woman strumpet, Raab bi name, and þei reſtiden anentis hir.

ii And it is told to þe kyng of Jerycho, and feid, Loo!
 men ben goon yn hybir bi nyȝt, of þe ſones of Yrael, for to aſpye þe loond.

iii `And þe kyng of Jericho ſente to Raab þe strumpet, feiynge, Bryng out þe men, þat camen to þee, and ben comen into þin hows; forſoþe aſpies þei ben, and al þe loond to bihold þei comen.

ivii And þe womman takyng þe men hidde, and seiþ, Y knowleche, þat þei camen to me, but Y knewe not whens þei weren;
v and whanne þe ȝate was closid in derknessis, and þei togidrys ȝeden out, Y note whidir þei wenten; pursue ȝe anoon, and ȝe shulen atake hem.
vi Forsoþe she made þe men to stye vp into þe soler of hir hows, and couerde hem wiþ stuble of flaxe, þat was þere.
vii Forsoþe þei, þat weren sent, folweden hem bi þe weye þat ledip to þe foordis of Jordan; and hem goon out, anoon þe ȝate was closid.
viii And not ȝit þei hadden slept, þat weren hid, and loo! þe womman styeðe vp to hem, ix and seiþ, Y haue knowe þat þe Lord shal taak to ȝow þe loond; forsoþe ȝoure gaftnes is falm into vs, and alle þe dwellers of þe loond ben abasshid.
x We han herd, þat þe Lord haþ dried vp þe watres of þe Reed See at ȝoure incomynge, whanne ȝe weren goon out of Egipte; and what ȝe han doon to þe two kyngis of Amorreis, þat weren biȝonde Jordan, Seon and Og, þe whiche ȝe han flayn; xi and þes þingis herynge we dredden, and oure herte basshede, ne spiryt bood in vs at ȝoure yncomynge; forsoþe þe Lord ȝoure God he is God in heuene aboue, and in erþe byneþe.
xii Nowe perfer swere ȝe to me bi þe Lord ȝoure God, þat what maner wise Y mercy haue doo wiþ ȝow, so and ȝe doo wiþ þe hows of my fader; and ȝife ȝe to me a verrey tokne, xiii þat ȝe fauen my fader and moder, and broþer, and my sisters, and alle þat of hem ben, and ȝe delyueren oure foulis fro deþ.
xivii Þe whiche answarden 'to hir, Oure soule be for ȝou into deþ, if neuerþelater þow bitraye vs not; and whanne þe Lord haþ taak to vs þe loond, we shulen do in þee merci and treuþ.
xv She þanne lafte hem bi a coord out of a wyndowe; forsoþe þe hows of hir cleuede to þe wal.
xvi And she seide to hem, To þe mounteyns stye ȝe, leſt perauenture þei turnyng aȝens aȝens comen to ȝow; þere be ȝe hid þre days, to þe tyme þat þei turnen aȝen; and so ȝe shulen goo bi ȝoure weye.
xvii Þe whiche seiden to hyr, Gyltles we shulen be fro þis oþ, wiþ þe which þow haſt wiþ oþ boundun vs, xviii yf, we comynge into þe loond, þis reed litol coord were not a tokne, and þow byndist it in þe windowe, bi þe which þow haſt late vs go; and þi fader and moder, breþerem and al þi kynne þow gederist in þin hows;
xix he þat þe dore of þin hows were goon out, þe blood of hym shal be into his heed, and we shulen be alien; forsoþe þe blood of alle þat wiþ þee weren in þe hows, shal rebound into oure heed, if hem eny man towchip.
xx And if vs þou wolt bitraye, and þis word bryngē forþ into þe mydil, we shulen be clene fro þis oþ, wiþ þe which þou haſt made vs swere.

xi And she answarde, As ȝe han spokun, so be it doon. And letyng hem þat þei wente forþ, she hongide a litol reed coord in hir wyndowe.
xii Forsoþe þei goyng camen to þe mounteyns, and dwellyden þere þre dais, to þe tyme þat þei weren comen aȝen þat pursueden; forsoþe sechynge bi al þe weie, þei fonden hem not.
xiii Þe whiche comynge into þe cyte, ben comen aȝen, and þe spies descendiden fro þe hil; and ouerpaffid Jordan þei camen to Josue, þe sone of Nun; and þei tolden to hym alle þingis þat fallen to hem, xviii and feiden, Þe Lord haþ taken al þis loond into oure hoondis, and þurȝ drede ben þrowe down alle þe dwellers of it.

Capitulum III.

i Therfor Josue, fro nyȝt arysynge, meuede þe tentis; and þei goyng fro Sechym camen to Jordan, he and alle þe sones of Yrael, and dwelten þere bi þre dais.
ii Þe which ouerpaffid, wenten bedels bi þe mydil of þe tentis, iii and bigunnen to crye, Whanne ȝe seen þe ark of þe boond of pees of þe Lord oure God, and preftis of þe lynage of Leuy berynge it, forsoþe ȝe togidre rifeþ, and folwe ȝe þe forgoers;
ivii and be þere betwixe ȝou and þe ark a space of cubitis two bowſand, þat aferre ȝe mowen ſe, and knowe bi what weye ȝe goon, for bifore ȝe han not goon bi it; and be war, þat ȝe neȝen not to þe ark.
v And Josue feide to þe puple, Be ȝe halwid; forsoþe to morwe þe Lord shal do amonȝe ȝow merueyls.
vi And he seiþ to þe preftis, Takiþ þe ark of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and gooþ before þe puple. Þe whiche þe heefstis fulfillynge token, and wenten before hem.
vii And þe Lord feide to Josue, To day Y shal bigynne to enhaunce þee before all Yrael, þat þei knownen, þat as I was wiþ Moyfes, so and I am wiþ þee.
viii Forsoþe þow comaund to þe preftis, þat beren þe ark of þe boond of pees, and sey þou to hem, Whanne ȝe weren goon in a paart of þe watre of Jordan, stoondiþ in it.
ix And Josue feide to þe sones of Yrael, Comeþ hidre, and heriþ þe word of þe Lord oure God.
x And eft, In þis, he seiþ, ȝe shulen wyte þat þe Lord God lyuyng in þe mydil of ȝow is; and he shal scatre in ȝoure liȝt Chanane, Ethe, Euee, and Phereſe, Gergeſe forsoþe, and Jebufe, and Amorre.
xi Loo! þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord of al erþe shal goo before ȝow þurȝ Jordan.
xii Makiþ redy twelue men of twelue lynagis of Israel, eche bi eche lynagis.
xiii And whanne han put þe steppis of her feet þe preftis, þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord God of al erþe, in þe watres of Jordan, þe watres þat ben neþermore shulen renne, and fayle; forsoþe þo þat camen fro aboue shulen stoond togidre in o glob.

 xiii Panne wente out þe puple fro her tabernaclis, þat þei passen ouer Jordan; and þe preestis þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees ȝeden before hym.
 xv And hem goon into Jordan, and þe feet of hem wet yn paart of þe water; Jordan forsoþe fulfillide þe brenkis of his trowȝ in tyme of heruest; xvi þe watrie dessendynge stoden in o place, and at liknes of an hil mych swellynge þei apereden ferre fro þe cyte þat was clepid Edom, vnto þe place Sarthan; forsoþe þoo þat weren neþermore, into þe see of wildernes, þat now is clepid deed, dessendiden, forto þei vtterly failiden. Forsoþe þe puple wente aȝen Jordan;
 xvii and þe preestis, þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, stoden gyrd vpon þe drye erþe in þe middil of Jordan, and al þe puple passide ouere þurȝ þe drye trowȝ.

Capitulum III.

i The which ouergoon, þe Lord seide to Josue, ii Chees twelue men, eche bi eche lynagis, iii and comaund to hem, þat þei taken fro þe mydil of Jordans trowȝ, where stoden þe feet of þe preestis, twelue hardeft stonus; þe whiche ȝe shulen fet in þe place of tentis, where ȝe þis nyȝt fitchen tentis. iiiii And Josue clepide twelue men, whom he chees of þe fones of Israel, eche of eche lynagis;
 v and seiþ to hem, Goop bifore þe arke of þe Lord ȝoure God to þe mydil of Jordan, and bere ȝe þens eche eche stonus in ȝoure shuldres, after þe noumbre of þe fones of Israel, vi þat it be a tokne bitwixe ȝow. And whanne þe fones of Israel asken ȝow to morwe, seiyng, What to hem wolen þes stonus?
 vii ȝe shulen answere to hem, Þe watrys of Jordan han failid before þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, whanne he passide it; þerfor þes stonus ben set into þe mynd of þe fones of Yrael, vnto wiþ outen ende.
 viii Panne þe fones of Yrael diden as Josue comaundide to hem, berynge fro þe mydil of Jordanus trowȝ twelue stonus, as to hym þe Lord comaundide, after þe noumbre of þe fones of Yrael, vnto þe place in þe which þei settent tentis; and þere þei puttiden hem.
 ix Forsoþe oper twelue stonus putte Josue in þe mydil of Jordans trowȝ, where stoden preestis, þat beren þe ark of þe boond of pees of þe Lord; and ben þere vnto þe day þat is nowe.
 x Forsoþe þe preestis, þat beren þe arke, stoden in þe mydil of Jordan, to þe tyme þat alle þingis weren fulfillid, þat þe Lord comaundide to Jofue, for he shulde speke to þe puple, as Moyses had feide to hym.
 And þe puple hyede, and passide forþ.

xi And whanne alle weren goon ouere, ȝede ouere and þe arke of þe Lord, and þe preestis wenten before þe puple.

xii Forsoþe þe fones of Ruben, and Gad, and half þe lynage of Manasse, aarmed wenten before þe fones of Israel, as to hem comaundide Moyfes.

xiii And fourti þowsand of ȝiȝtyng men bi companies and oostis wenten vpon þe pleyn and wijld feeldis of þe cyte of Jericho.

xiv In þat day þe Lord magnyfiede Josue before al Yrael, for þei shulden drede hym, as þei dredden Moyfes, ȝit while he lyued.

xv And he seide to hym, xvi Comaund to þe preestis þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees, þat þei styen vp fro Jordan.

xvii Be which comaundide to hem, seyng, Styg vp fro Jordan.

xviii And whanne þei weren goon vp, berynge þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and þe drye erþe hadden bigunne to treed, þe watrie ben turned into his trowȝ, and floweden, as bifore þei waren woned.

xix Forsoþe þe puple fro Jordan stiede þe tenþe day of þe firste moneþ, and settiden tentis in Galgalis, aȝens þe este cooþ of þe cyte of Jericho.

xx Forsoþe þe twelue stonus, 'þe whiche þei token fro Jordans trowȝ, Josue putte in Galgalis;

xxi and seide to þe fones of Israel, Whanne ȝoure fones asken to morwe her fadres, and seyn to hem, What to hem wolen þes stonus?

xxii ȝe shulen teche hem, and seye, Bi þe drye trowȝ we passiden þis Jordan,

xxiii þe Lord ȝoure God driyng þe watrie of it in ȝoure ȝiȝt, to þe tyme þat we weren ouerpaffid, as he dide bifore in þe Reed See, 'þe which he dryede to þe tyme þat we weren ouerpaffed, xxiv þat alle þe puplis of loondis leeren þe moost strong hoond of þe Lord, and þat ȝe dreden þe Lord ȝoure God al tyme.

Capitulum V.

i After þanne þat alle þe kyngis of Amorreis, þat dwelten biȝonde Jordan at þe west cooþ, and alle þe kyngis of Chanaan, þat þe niȝ places weeldiden of þe greet fee, herden, þat þe Lord hadde dryed þe flodis of Jordan before þe fones of Yrael, to þe tyme þat þei weren goon ouere, þe herte of hem is discoumfortid, and abood not in hem spiryte of hem, dredynge þe entre of þe fones of Yrael.

ii þat tyme seiþ þe Lord to Josue, Maak to þee stonen knyues, and circumcide þe secounde tyme þe fones of Yrael.

iii He dide þat þe Lord comaundide, and circumcydide þe fones of Yrael in þe hil of mens ȝerdis.

iv Forsoþe þis is þe cause of þe secounde circumcisioun; al þe puple þat wente out of Egipte of maal kynde, alle þe men fiȝters, ben deed in deseert bi moooste longe enuyrounyngis of weye, v þe whiche alle weren circumcidid. Forsoþe þe puple þat is bore in deseert bi fourti ȝeer, in þe weye of mooft wyde wildernesse, vi were vncircumcidid to þe tyme þat þei weren waftid, þat han not herd þe voyce of þe Lord, and to whom before he fwores, þat he wold shewe hem þe loond flowynge mylk and hony.

 vii Of þes þe sones camen after into stede of þe faders, and ben circumcidid of Josue; þe whiche, as þei weren born, weren in hoolnes of her ȝerdes, ne hem in þe weie eny man circumcidide.
 viii Forsoþe after þat alle ben circumcidid, þei dwelten in þe same place of her tentis, to þe tyme þat þei weren helid.
 ix And þe Lord seide to Josue, To day I haue taak aweye þe reproof of Egyp fro ȝowe. And þe name of þat place is clepid Galgala, vnto þe day þat is nowe.
 x And þe sones of Yrael dwelten in Galgalis, and diden pask þe fourtenþe day of þe moneþ at euen, in þe wilde feeldys of Jerycho;
 xi and þei eten of þe fruytis of þe erþe þat oþer day, þerf looues, and corn powned of þe same ȝeer.
 xii And manna faylide after þat þei eten of þe fruitis of þe erþe; ne þe sones of Yrael vseden na more þat meet, but eten of þe fruytis of þe present ȝeer of þe loond of Chanaan.
 xiii Forsoþe whanne Josue were in þe feeld of þe cytee of Jerycho, he reryde þe eyen, and sawȝ a man aȝens hym stondyng, and holdynge a drawn out swerd; and he wente to hym, and seip, Oure þou art, or of þe aduersaries?
 xiv `Pe which answerde, Nay, but I am prince of þe oost of þe Lord, and nowe Y come. Josue felle redi into þe erþe, and onowrynge, seip, What þing my Lord spekiþ to his seruaunt?
 xv Lowse, he seip, þe sho fro bi feet; forsoþe þe place, in þe which þow stondist, is hooli. And Josue dide, as to hym was comaundid.

Capitulum VI.

i Jericho forsoþe was clofid and waardid, for drede of þe sones of Israel, and no man dorst goo in, or goo out.
 ii And þe Lord seide to Josue, Loo, Y haue ȝeue into þin hoondis Jericho, and þe kyng of it, and alle þe stronge men.
 iii Goþ about þe cytee, alle ȝe fiȝters, to gidre bi þe day; so ȝe shulen do six days.
 iv Forsoþe þe feuenþe day þe prestis shulen taak feuen trompes, whos vse is in þe iubilee; and go þei before þe arke of þe boond of pees; and feuen sipes ȝe shulen goo about þe cyte, and þe prestis shulen crye wiþ þe trompes.

v And whanne þe voyce of þe trompe lenger and þicker ful fowneþ, and in ȝoure eeris braggijþ, al þe puple shal crye wiþ mooft out crye; and þe wallis of þe cyte shulen fuldoun falle, and eche shal goon in bi þe place, aȝens þe which þei stoden.
 vi Josue þanne, þe sone of Nun, clepide þe prestis, and seide to hem, Taak ȝe þe arke of þe boond of pees, and feuen oþer prestis taak þei feuen trompes of þe iubilees, and goo þei before þe arke of þe Lord.
 vii Forsoþe to þe puple he seip, Goþ, and enuyrownþ þe cite, aarmed goynge before þe arke of þe Lord.
 viii And whanne Josue hadde eendid þe wordis, and feuen preestis wiþ feuen trompes crieden before þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, ix and al þe puple aarmed wente before, þe left comouns folowid þe arke, and wiþ trompes alle þingis þei fowneden.
 x Forsoþe Josue comaundide to þe puple, seiyng, ȝe shulen not crye, ne shal be herd ȝoure voyce, ne eny word of ȝoure mouȝ shal goon out, to þe tyme þat þe day come, in þe which Y schal seye to ȝow, Crieþ, and wiþ an out voyce crieþ.
 xi Panne þe arke of þe Lord enuyrounde þe cyte onys bi day, and turned aȝen into þe tentis dwellide þere.
 xii Panne Josue ryfynge fro nyȝt, þe preestys token þe arke of þe Lord;
 xiii and feuen of hem feuen trompes, of þe whiche vse is in þe iubilee; and þei wenten before þe arke of þe Lord, goynge and trompyng; and þe puple armed wente before hem. Forsoþe þat oþer comouns folwidre þe arke, and wiþ trompis lownede.
 xiv And þei wenten a boute þe citee þe secounde day onys, and turneden aȝen into þe tentis; so þei diden fixe days.
 xv Forsoþe þe feuenþe day eerly ryfynge wenten about þe cytee, as it was dispositid, feuen sipes.
 xvi And whanne þe feuenþe goynge about þe prestis cryeden wiþ trompes, Josue seyde to al Yrael, Wiþ an out voice crie ȝe; forsoþe þe Lord haþ taak to vs þe citee;
 xvii and be þis cyte cursid, and alle þingis þat in it ben to þe Lord. Alone Raab þe strompet lyue, wiþ alle þat wiþ hir in hows ben; forsoþe she hidde messangeris þe whiche we fenten.
 xviii ȝe forsoþe beþ war, leſt of þes þingis þat ben comaundid eny þing ȝe towchen, and ben gilti of trespass; and alle þe tentes of Yrael be vndur synne, and distourblid.
 xix Forsoþe what euer þing of gold and of siluer were,
 and of brasen vessellis, and of yren, to þe Lord be it halowid, put vp in þe tresours of hym.
 xx Panne al þe puple criyng out, and criyng þe trumpis, after þat into þe eeris of þe multitude þe lown braggiðe, þe wallis anoon fallen down; and echon styeden vp bi þe place þat aȝens hem was.

xxi And þei token þe cytee, and flewen alle þat weren in it, fro man vnto womman, fro ȝonge vnto oold; forsoþe oxen, and sheep, and assis, in mouȝt of þe swerd þei smyten.

xxii To þe two men forsoþe, þat aspiers weren sente, feide Jofue, Gooþ into þe hows of þe womman strompet, and brynge hir forþ, and alle þat ben of hir, as to hir bi oop ȝe han stedefaſtly feide.

xxiii And þe ȝonge goon yn, ladden out Raab, and hir eldris, breþeren forsoþe, and al purtenaunce to houfholt, and al þe kynrede of hir; and out of þe tentis of Yrael þei maden to dwelle.

xxiv Forsoþe þe cyte, and al þat were foundun in it, þei brenten, wiþ outen þe gold, and siluer, and brasen vesseſ, and yren, 'þe whiche into þe tresory of þe Lord þei sacriden.

xxv Forsoþe Raab strompet, and þe hows of hir fader, and al þat she hadde, Jofue made to lyue; and þei dwelten in þe myddil of Israel, vnto þe present day; forþi þat she hidde þe messangers, 'þe whiche he hadde ſent for to aspie Jerycho.

xxvi In þat tyme Jofue curſide, feiynge, Cursid þe man before þe Lord, þat rerip vp or bildip Jericho cyte! In his firſt gotten ligge he be foundedemētis of it, and in þe laſt of þe free children putte he þe ȝatis of it.

xxvii Was þanne þe Lord wiþ Jofue, and þe name of hym is puppliſhid in al þe loond.

Capitulum VII.

i The fones forsoþe of Yrael han ouerpaffid þe maundement, and han myltakun of þe curse; for Achor, þe fone of Charmy, fone of Zabdi, fone of Zare, of þe lynage of Juda, took sum what of þe curse; and wroþ is þe Lord aȝens þe fones of Yrael.

ii And whanne Jofue wolde ſend fro Jericho men aȝens Hay, þat is biſide Bethauen, at þe eeft cooſt of þe burȝ town Bethel, he feide to hem, Stieþ vp, and aſpye ȝe þe loond. Þe whiche fulſilyng he heeftis, aſpiened Hay; iii and turned aȝen þei ſeiden to hym, Styre not vp al þe puple, but two þowſandis or þre of men goon, and doon a wey þe cytee; whi al þe puple in veyn is traueyld aȝens mooſt fewe enemyes?

iv Styeden þanne vp þre þowſand of fiȝtyng men, þe whiche anoon turnyng backis, v ben smyten of þe men of þe cytee of Hay; and fallen down of hem þretti and ſixe men; and þe aduersaryes purſueden hem fro þe ȝate vnto Sabarym; and þei fallen bi lowe and ſhort weyes fleynge. And þe herte of þe puple myche dredde, and at þe likeneſſe of water is molten.

vi Forsoþe Jofue kitte his cloþis, and redi felle doun into þe erþe before þe arke of þe Lord, vnto euen, as wel he as alle þe alders of Yrael; and þei putten powdre vpon her heedes.

vii And Jofue ſeide, Alas! alas! Lord God, what woldiſt þow þis puple brynge ouer Jordan flood, for to taak vs in þe hoond of Amorreī, and for to leefe? Wolde God, as we bigunnen, we hadden dwellid biȝonde Jordan.

viii My Lord God, what ſhal Y ſey, ſeyng Yrael to his enemys backis turnyng?

ix Chananees shulen here, and alle þe dwellers of þe loond and togidre gedryd þei shulen enuyroun vs, and doon awey oure name fro þe loond; and what ſhal þou doo to þi greet name?

x And þe Lord ſeide to Jofue, Ryfe, whi liȝt þow bowid in þe erþe?

xi Yrael haþ ſynned, and haþ broken my couenaunt; and þei han taak of þe corſe, and han ſtolen, and liȝed, and han hidde among her vesseſ.

xii Ne Yrael ſhal mowe ſtoond before her enemys, and hem he ſhal flee, for he is polut wiþ þe curs; I ſhal not be more wiþ ȝou, to þe tyme þat ȝe han alto troden hym þat is gilti of þat hidows trespas.

xiii Ryfe, halwe þe puple, and ley to hem, Be ȝe halwid aȝen to morwe; forſoþe þes þingis ſeip þe Lord God of Yrael, Cursyng is in þe myddil of þee, Israel; þow ſhalt not mowe ſtoond before þin enemys, to þe tyme þat he be doon awey fro þee, þat is defoulid wiþ þis hidows gilt.

xiv And ȝe ſhulen come eerly eche bi ȝoure lynagis; and what euer lynage þe lot fynde, he ſhal come bi his kynredis, and kynrede bi howfis, and hows bi men.

xv And ſo euer he in þat gilt were taak, he ſhal be brent wiþ fier wiþ al his ſubſtaunce, for he haþ brokun þe couenaunt of þe Lord, and haþ do ſacrilegi in Yrael.

xvi And ſo Jofue ryſyng eerly, ſette Israel bi her lynagis; and it is founded þe lynage of Juda;

xvii which, whanne after his meyneſſe was offred, it is founded þe meyneſſe of Zare; forſoþe þiſk bi men offryng he foonde Zabdi;

xviii whos hows in fondry men dyuydynge, he foonde Achor, þe fone of Charmy, fone of Zabdi, fone of Zare, of þe lynage of Juda.

xix And he ſeide to Achor, My fone, ȝif glorye to þe Lord God of Yrael, and knowlech, and ſhewe to me, what þow haſt doon; ne hyde þou.

xx And Achor anſwerde to Jofue, and ſeide to hym, Trewly, Y haue ſynned before þe Lord God of Yrael, and þus and þus Y haue do;

xi Y ſawȝ forſoþe among þe ſpuylis a ful good reed mantil, and two hundreþ ſiclis of siluer, and a goldun rewle of fifty ſiclis; and coueytyng took a wey, and hidde in þe erþe, aȝens þe myddil of my tabernacle; forſoþe þe siluer Y couerde wiþ þe doluen erþe.

xxii Sente þanne Jofue ſerauntis, þe whiche rennyng to þe tabernacle of hym, þei founden alle þingis hid in þe fame place, and þe siluer togidre; xviii and þei takyng a wey fro þe tent token þe þingis to Jofue, and to alle þe fones of Yrael; and þre wen forþ before þe Lord.

xxiiii And so Josue takynge Achor, þe sone of Zare, and þe siluer, and þe mantil, and þe golden rewle, and sones and douȝtres of hym, oxen, and asses, and sheep, and þilk tabernacle, and al þe purtenaunce, and al Yrael wiþ hym, ladden hem to þe valey of Achor;

xxv where feide Jofue, For þow haſt disturblid vs, out stourbe þee þe Lord in þis day. And al Israel stonede hym; and alle þingis, þat his weren, ben waſtid wiþ fier.

xxvi And þei gedreden vpon hym a greet heep of ftonus, þe which abidip ſtil vnto þe day þat is nowe. And þe wodenelle of þe Lord is turned awey fro hem; and þe name of þe place is clepid unto þis day þe valey of Achor.

Capitulum VIII.

i Seyde forſoþe þe Lord vnto Josue, Ne drede þow, ne be feerd; tak wiþ þee al þe multitude of fiȝters, and riſyngre ſty vp into þe burgh toun of Hay; loo, Y haue taak into þin hoond his kyng, and puple, and cytee, and loond.

ii And þou ſhalt do to þe citee of Hay and to his kyng, as þow didiſt to Jericho, and to þe kyng of it; þe pray forſoþe and alle þe lyuyngre beeſtis ȝe ſhulen taak to ȝow; put buſhementis to þe cyte bihynde it.

iii And Josue roos, and al þe ooft of fiȝters wiþ hym, for to ſtye vp into Hay; and he ſente þe nyȝt þretti þowsand choſen of ſtronge men;

iv and he comaundide to hem, ſeiyng, Putte ȝe buſhementis bihynde þe cytee, ne ferþer goo ȝe awey; and ȝe ſhulen be al redi;

v forſoþe Y and þat oþer multitude þat is wiþ me, 'fro forn aȝens we ſhulen come aȝens þe cite; and whanne þei weren gon out aȝens vs, as we diden before, we ſhulen flee, and turne backis, vi to þe tyme þat þei purſuwyngre more along fro þe cyte ben drawnen a ferre; forſoþe þei ſhulen wene vs to flee as before. Vs þanne fleyngre and hem purſuyngre, vii ȝe ſhulen ryſe fro þe buſhement, and ȝe ſhulen waſt þe cytee; and þe Lord ȝoure God Ihal taak it into ȝoure hoondis.

viii And whanne ȝe han taak it, fette ȝe it a fier; so alle þingis ȝe ſhulen doo, as Y haue comaundide.

ix And he lefte hem, and þei wenten to þe place of þe buſhement, and þei ſeten betwixe Bethel and Hay, at þe west cooſt of þe cytee of Hay. Forſoþe Josue þat nyȝt dwellide in þe mydil of þe puple.

x And ryſyngre eerly he tolde felawis, and he ſtyede wiþ þe eldren in þe frownt of þe ooft, bifet wiþ help of fiȝters.

xi And whanne þei weren comen, and hadden ſtyed vp fro aȝens of þe cytee, and þei ſtoden at þe norþ cooſt of þe cytee, bitwix þe whiche and hem was a mydil valey.

xii Forſoþe fyue þousand men he chees, and putte in þe buſhement bitwix Bathauen and Hay, fro þe west paart of þe fame cyte.

xiii Forſoþe al 'þat oþer ooft at þe norþ made redi þe poynt, fo þat þe laſt of þe multitude atteyneden þe west cooſt of þe cyte. Josue þanne wente þat nyȝt, and stood in þe mydil of þe valey;

xiv þat whanne þe kyng of Hay had ſeen, he hiede eerli, and wente out wiþ al þe ooft of þe cyte, and he dresside þe poynt aȝens þe deſeert, vnknowyngre þat bihynde þe bak weren hid buſhementis.

xv Forſoþe Josue and al þe multitude of Yrael ȝauen ſteede to þe place, feynyngre dred, and fleyngre bi þe weie of wildirneſſe;

xvi and þei criyngre out to gidre, and hem ſelf to gidre gladly clepyngre purſueden hem. And whanne þei weren goo fro þe cyte, xvii and not oon forſoþe in þe cyte of Hay and Bethauen was laſt, þat purſuwede not Yrael, as þei breken out leeuyngre þe borgh towns open, xviii þe Lord feide to Josue, Heue vp 'þe ſheeld þat is in þin hoond, aȝens þe cyte of Hay; for to þee Y Ihal taak it. And whanne he hadde houen vp þe ſheld fro aȝens þe cytee, xix þe buſhementis þat weren hid, ryſen anoon, and goyngre to þe cyte token, and ſett it a fier.

xx Forſoþe þe men of þe cyte, þat purſuweden Josue, beholdyngre and feynyngre þe ſmook of þe cite vnto heuene ſtie vp, þei myȝten no more hidir and bidir fleyngre atwynne, namelich whanne þei þat feyneden flȝt, and wenten to wildirneſſe, aȝens þe purſuwers mooſt myȝtili hadde wiþ ſtonden.

xxi And feynyngre Josue and al Yrael, þat þe cyte was takun, and ſmook of þe cyte ſtiede vp, turned aȝen ſmoot þe men of Hay.

xxii Forſoþe and þei þat token, and hadden ſett þe cyte a fier, goon out fro þe cyte aȝens her mydlis of enemyes, þei bigunnen to ſmyt; and whanne on eipir partye aduersaries weren flayn, fo þat no man of so myche a multitude were ſaad, xxiii forſoþe þe kyng of Hay þei token lyuyngre, and offerden to Josue.

xxiv Panne alle flayn þat Yrael to deſeert goyngre purſuweden, and in þe fame place bi ſwert fallynge, þe sones of Yrael turneden aȝen ſmyten to þe cyte.

xxv Forſoþe þere weren þat in þe fame dai dieden, fro man vnto womman, twelue þowsand of men, of al þe cyte of Hay.

xxvi Forſoþe Josue wiþdrewen not þe hoond, þat in hiȝþ he putte vp holdyngre þe ſheeld, to þe tyme þat alle þe dwellers of Hay weren flayn.

xxvii Forſoþe þe beeſtis and þe praye of þe cyte þe sones of Yrael dyuydeden to hem ſilf, as þe Lord hadde comaundid to Josue;

xxviii þe which brente þe cyte, and made it an euerlaſtyngre toumbe.

xxix Forsoþe þe kyng of it he hongid in a gybet, vnto euen and þe funne goyng doun. And Jofue comaundide, and þei putten doun þe careyn of hym fro þe cros; and þei þrewen in þat entre of þe cytee, þrown togidre vpon hym a greet heep of stonus, þe which abidip stil vnto þe day þat is nowe. xxx Panne Jofue bilde vp an auter to þe Lord God of Yrael in þe hil of Hebal, xxxi as Moyfes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, hadde comaundid to þe sones of Israel, and it was wryten in þe volym of þe lawe of Moyfes, an auter of stonus vnhewid, þe whiche yren haþ not towchid. And he offerde vpon it brent sacrifice to þe Lord, and he offrede pefible flayn sacrifices; xxxii and wroot vpon þe stonus short declaracioun of þe lawe of Moyfes, þat he tolde before þe sones of Yrael. xxxiii Forsoþe al þe puple, and þe more þurȝ birþ, and duykis, and iugis stoden on eiþer paart of þe arke, in þe fyȝt of preftis and Leuytis, þat beren þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord; as þe comlynge, so and þe wiþyn gotten; þe half paart of hem biside þe hil of Garyfym, and half biside þe hil of Hebal, as Moyfes comaundide, þe feruaunt of þe Lord. And first forsoþe he blessede to þe puple of Yrael.
 xxxiv After þes þingis he radde alle þe wordis of bleſſynge, and curfyng, and alle þat weren wryten in þe volym of þe lawe.
 xxxv No þing of þes þingis, þat Moyfes comaundide, he left vntowchyd; but alle þingis he openyde before al þe multitude of Yrael, þe wymmen, and litil children, and comlyngis, þat among hem dwelliden.

Capitulum IX.

i The whiche þingis herd, alle þe kyngis biȝond Jordan, þat dwelten in mountens, and in þe wilde feeldis, and in þe see fydes, and in þe brenke of þe greet see, and þes þat dwelten biside Liban, Ethe, and Amorre, Chanane, and Phareze, and Euee, and Jebufe, ii ben gedryd togidre for to fiȝt aȝens Jofue and Israel, wiþ oon inwit, and wiþ 'þe same accord.
 iii And þei þat dwelten in Gabaon, herynge alle þingis þat Jofue hadde doo to Jerycho and to Hay, iv and fellich þenkynge, token to hem meetis, olde fackis to þe affis on puttyng, and rent wyn botels and sowed,
 v and ful olde shoon, 'þe whiche to þe doom of oldnes ben sowid wiþ patchis; þei cloþiden wiþ oold cloþes; forsoþe þe looues, þat þei been for lyuelood 'bi þe weye, weren hard and in gobetis broken.
 vi And þei wenten to Jofue, þat þanne dwellide in þe tentis of Galgale, and seiden to hym, and to al Yrael togidre, Fro a long loond we han comen, pees coueytyng to make wiþ ȝow.
 vii And þe men of Israel answarden 'to hem, and seiden, Lest perauenture in þe loond, þat to vs is owed bi lot, ȝe dwellen, and we mowen not make boond of pees wiþ ȝow.

 viii And þei to Jofue, ȝi seruauntis, þei feyn, we ben. To whom Jofue forsoþe, Who, he seiþ, ben ȝe, and whens ben ȝe comen?
 ix ȝei answerden, Fro a ful ferre cuntre ȝi seruauntis ben comen in þe name of þe Lord ȝi God, we han herd þe loos of his power, alle þingis þat he haþ doo in Egipt.
 x and to þe two kyngis of Ammorreis biȝonde Jordan;
 to Seon þe kyng of Esebon, and to Og þe kyng of Basan, þat weren in Aftaroth.
 xi And seiden to vs þe elders and alle þe dwellers of oure loond, Takiþ in ȝoure hoondis meetis for þe moost long weye; and aȝen come ȝe to hem, and feie ȝe, ȝoure seruauntis we ben; boond of pees make ȝe wiþ vs.
 xii And loo! þe looues, whanne we wenten out of oure howlis for to come to ȝow, we token hoote, nowe þei ben maad drye, and of greet eeld to breek; xiii þe botels of wyn newe we fulfilliden, nowe þei ben brooke and loosid; clopis and shoon, wiþ þe whiche we ben cloþid, and 'þe whiche we han in feet, for þe lengþ of lenger weye ben to troden, and almeest wered.
 xiv ȝei token þanne of þe meetis of hem, and þe mouȝ of þe Lord ȝei askeden not.
 xv And Jofue wiþ hem made pees. And þe boond 'of pees goon yn he bihiȝte, þat þei shulden not be slayn; forsoþe þe princes of þe multitude fworen to hem.
 xvi Forsoþe after þree daies of þe goon yn couenaunt, þei herden, þat in nyȝ ȝei dwelten, and þei weren to comen among hem.
 xvii And þe sones of Yrael meueden tentis, and camen into þe citees of hem þe þridde day, of þe whiche þes ben þe names, Gabaon, and Saphyra, and Beroth, and Charyathiarym.
 xviii And þei smyten not hem, forþi þat þe princis of þe multitude hadden fworn to hem in þe name of þe Lord God of Yrael. And so grutchide al þe comoun aȝens þe princis;
 xix þe whiche answarden to hem, We han fworn to hem in name of þe Lord God of Yrael, and þerfor we mowen not hem towche;
 xx but þis we shulen doo to hem, be þei refuered forsoþe þat þei lyuen, leſt aȝens vs be wrappē of þe Lord be styrid, if we forsweren vs to hem; xxi but so lyue þei, þat in to þe vſes of al þe multitude, trees þei kutten, and watriis þei beren. þe whiche spekyng þes þingis, xxii Jofue clepide Gabonytis, and seide to hem, Whi wolden ȝe difseyue vs bi gijl, for to seie, Ful ferre we dwellen fro ȝow, siþ in þe mydil of vs ȝe ben?
 xxiii And so vnder curfyng ȝe shulen be, and þere shal not fayl of ȝour lynage, kyttyng trees, and watriis berynge, in to þe hows of my God.

xxiiii þe whiche answerden, It is told to vs þi seruauntis, þat þe Lord þi God hadde bihoott to Moyses, his seruaunt, þat he shulde taak to ȝow al þe loond, and scatre alle þe dwellers of it; we þerfor moyche dredden, and purueiden to oure lyues, constreyned wiþ ȝoure dred, and þis counseil we maden.

xxv Forsoþe nowe in þin hoond we ben; þat to þee ryȝt and good is seen, do þow to vs.

xxvi þan Josue dide, as he feide, and delyuerde hem fro þe 'hoondis of þe sones of Israel, þat þei weren not flayn.

xxvii And Josue demyde in þat day hem to be into seruyse of al þe puple, and of þe auter of þe Lord, kuttyng trees and watres berynge, vnto þe tyme þat is nowe, in þe place þat þe Lord haþ chosun.

Capitulum X.

i The whiche þingis, whanne hadde herd Adonyfedech, kyng of Jerusalem, þat is, þat Josue hadde taak Hay, and hadde vndurturned it; forsoþe as he dide to Jericho and to þe kyng of it, so he dide to Hay and to þe kyng of it; and þat Gabonytis weren ouerflowen to Israel, and weren bounden in pees wiþ hem, ii he dradde greetly; forsoþe a greet cite was Gabaon, and oon of þe kyngis citees, and more þan þe burgh toun Hay, and alle þe fȝeters of it moost stonge.

iii Panne sente Adonyfedech, kyng of Jerusalem, to Ocham, kyng of Ebron, and to Pharam, kyng of Herymoth, and to Japhye, kyng of Lachis, and to Addabir, king of Eglon, seiyng, iv Sty ȝe vp to me, and bryngþ help, and out fȝete we Gabaon, for he is ouerflowen to Josue, and to þe sones of Yrael.

v Panne þei gedrid styeden vp, fyue kyngys of Amorreis, kyng of Jerusalem, kyng of Ebron, kyng of Herymoth, kyng of Lachis, kyng of Eglon, togidre wiþ her hooftis; and þei settiden tentis about Gabaon aȝenfȝytynge it.

vi Forsoþe þe dwellers of þe citee of Gabaon bisegid, senten to Josue, þat panne dwellide in tentis at Galgalam, and feide to hym, Ne wiþ drawe þou þin hoond fro þe help of þi seruauntis; fty vp anoon, and delyuer vs, and bryng help; forsoþe þere ben comen to gidre aȝens vs alle þe kyngis of Amorreis, þat dwellen in mounteyns.

vii And Josue stiede vp fro Galgalis, and al þe oost of fȝeters wiþ hym, moost stonge men.

viii And þe Lord feide to Josue, Drede þow not hem, forsoþe into þin hoondis Y haue taken hem; noon of hem to þee shal mowe aȝenstoond.

ix And so Josue felle on hem feerlich, al nyȝt stiynge vp fro Galgalis;

x and þe Lord disturbide hem fro þe face of Yrael, and defowlide bi a greet veniaunce in Gabaon; and pursuued hem bi weye of þe stiynge vp of Betheron, and smoot vnto Azecha and Macea.

xi And whanne þei floweren þe sones of Yrael, and weren in þe goyng doun of Betheron, God sente vpon hem greet stonus fro heuene, vnto Azecha; and ben deed manye mo wiþ stonous of hawl, þan whom wiþ swerd had smytun þe sones of Yrael.

xii þan Josue spak to þe Lord, in þe day þat he took Ammorre in þe fȝt of þe sones of Yrael; and feide before hem, Sunne, aȝens Gabaon be þow not meued, and mone, aȝens þe valey of Haylon.

xiii And þe sunne and þe mone stoden, to þe tyme þat þe folk vengide hem self of her enemyes. Is not þis wryten in þe book of riȝtwise men? And so stood þe sunne in þe mydil of heuene, and hyede not to goo doun þe space of o day;

xiv þere was not before ne afterward so loong a day; obeishynge þe Lord to þe voyce of man, and fȝtynge for Yrael.

xv And Josue turnede aȝen, wiþ al Yrael, into þe tentis of Galgala.

xvi Forsoþe fyue kyngis floweren, and hidden hem in þe spelunk of þe citee of Macea.

xvii And it is told to Josue, þat þere weren foundun fyue kyngis lurkinge in þe spelunk of þe cite of Macea.

xviii þe which comaundide to felawis, and seiþ, Ouerturne ȝe greet stonus at þe mouȝ of þe spelonk, and putte ȝe redi men, þat kepen hem clofid;

xix ȝe forsoþe wole ȝe not stooned, but pursue ȝe enemyes, and al þe eendis of hem fleynge sleeþ; ne lette ȝe hem goon into þe locours of ȝoure citees, 'þe whiche þe Lord ȝoure God haþ taak into ȝoure hoondis.

xx Slayn þanne þe aduersaries wiþ a greet veniaunce, and vnto þe deep almeſt consumpt, þilk þat fro Israel myȝten flee, wenten into þe strengþid citees.

xi And al þe oost turnede aȝen to Josue, in Macea, where þanne weren þe tentis, þei hoole and in hoole nouembre; and no man aȝens þe sones of Yrael was hardy to grucche.

xxii And Josue comaundyde, seiyng, Opyn þe mouȝ of þe spelonk, and bryngiþ to me fyue kyngis þat in it lorken.

xxiii And þe seruauntis diden, as to hem was comaundid; and þei brouȝten to hym fyue kyngis fro þe spelonk; þe kyng of Jerusalem, þe kyng of Ebron, þe kyng of Heremoth, þe kyng of Lachis, þe kyng of Eglon.

xxiv And whanne þei weren brouȝt out to hym, he clepide alle þe men of Yrael, and seiþ to þe pryncis of þe oost, þat wiþ hym weren, Goþ, and puttiþ ȝoure feet vpon þe neckis of þes kyngis. þe which whanne þei hadden goon, and troden þe neckis of hem ſuget wiþ þe feet, xxv eft he seiþ to hem, Wole ȝe not drede, ne be ȝeafeerd, take ȝe coumfort, and be ȝe stonge; forsoþe so þe Lord shal doo to alle ȝoure enemyes, aȝens whom ȝe shulen fiȝt.

xxvi And Josue smoot, and flewȝ hem, and hongide vpon fyue stokkis; and þei weren hongid vnto þe euen.

xxvii And whanne þe sunne cam down, he comaundide to felows, þat þei doon hem doun fro þe gibetis; þe whiche doon doun, þei brewen hem into þe spelonk, in þe which þei lorkiden; and þei puttiden vpon þe mouȝ of it greet stoonus, þat abiden stiȝ to þe tyme þat is nowe.

xxviii Forsoþe þe same day Josue took Macea, and smoot in mouȝ of swerd; and þe kyng of it, and alle his dwellers he flewȝ; and he lefte not in it, nameli, litil relikis; and he dide to þe king of Macea as he dide to þe kyng of Jericho.

xxix He wente wiþ al Yrael fro Macea into Lebna, and he fauȝt aȝens it,

xxx þe which þe Lord took, wiþ his kyng, in þe hoond of Israel; and þei smyten þe cite in þe mouȝ of swerd, and alle þe dwellers of it, and þei lefsten not in it eny relikis; and þei diden to þe kyng of Lebna as þei diden to þe kyng of Jericho.

xxxi Fro Lebna he paſſide into Lachis, wiþ al Yrael;
and þe oost dispoſid bi enuyroun, aȝensfauȝt it.

xxxii And þe Lord took Lachis in þe hoond of þe fones of Yrael; and he took it þat oþer day, and smoot in mouȝ of swerd, and eche liȝ þat was in it, as he dide to Lebna.

xxxiv Pat tyme stiede vp Yram, þe kyng of Gazer, for to helpe Lachis; whom Josue smoot wiþ al his puple vnto þe dep.

xxxv And wente fro Lachis vnto Eglon, and enuyrounde,

xxxvi and out fauȝt it þe same day; and smoot in mouȝ of swerd alle þe lyues þat weren in it, after alle þingis þat he dide to Lachis.

xxxvii Forsoþe he stiede wiþ al Yrael fro Eglon vnto Ebron, and fauȝt aȝens it, xxxviii and took, and smoot in mouȝ of swerd; þe kyng forsoþe of it, and alle þe burȝ towns bi enuyroun he smoot in mouȝ of swerd; he lafste not in it eny relikis; as he dide to Ebron so he dide to Ebron, al þingis þat in it he foond waſtyng wiþ swerd.

xxxix Pens turned aȝen into Dabir, he took it, and waastid;

xl þe kyng forsoþe of it, and alle þe burȝ towns bi enuyroun he smoot in mouȝ of swerd; he lafste not in it eny relikis; as he dide to Ebron, and Lebna, and to þe kyngis of hem, so he dide to Dabir and to þe kyng of it.

xli And so Josue smoot al þe mounteyn loond, and souȝ, and feeldi, and Assedoch wiþ his kyngis; and he lafste not in it eny relikys, but alle þat myȝten breeȝ he flowȝ, as þe Lord God of Yrael comaundide to hym; xlii fro Cades Barne vnto Gazam, and al þe loond of Jofson vnto Gabaon,

xliii alle þe kyngis and regiouuns of hem, wiþ o feersnes he took, and waſtide; forsoþe þe Lord God of Ifrael fauȝt for him.

xliii And he turnede aȝen wiþ al Yrael to þe place of þe tentis in Galgala.

Capitulum XI.

i The whiche þingis whanne herd Jabyn, þe kyng of Afor, he fente to Jodab, kyng of Madiam, and to þe kyng of Semeron, and to þe kyng of Acsaph, ii and to þe kyngs of þe norþ, þat dwelten in mounteyns, and in þe pleyn aȝens þe souȝ of Seneroth, and in þe wijld feeldis, and regiouuns of Dor, bisidis þe see,

iii and to Chanane fro þe eest and west, and Ammorre, and Ethee, and Phereze, and Jebuse in þe mounteyns, and Euee, þat dwelt in þe rotis of Hermon, in þe loond of Masphe.

iv And alle wenten out wiþ her companyes, ful myche puple, as þe grauel þat is in þe brenk of þe see, and hors, and chaaris, of multitude wiþ outen noumbre.

v And alle þes kyngis camen to gydre in oon at þe watriis of Meron, for to fiȝt aȝens Yrael.

vi And þe Lord seide to Josue, Ne drede þow hem, to morwe forsoþe þis same our Y schal taak hem alle to be woundid in þe fiȝt of Yrael; þe hors of hem þow shalt kut of þe synewis at þe knees, and þe chaaris þow shalt brenne wiþ fier.

vii And Josue cam, and al his oost wiþ hym, aȝens hem, at þe watriis of Meron fodeynlich, and felle vpon hem.

viii And þe Lord took hem into þe hoondis of Yrael; þe whiche smyten hem, and purſuden vnto greet Sydon, and to watriis of Maserephoh, and to þe feeld of Masphe, þat is at þe eft part of it. So he smoot alle, þat noon of hem relikis he lefste;

ix and he dide as þe Lord comaundide to hym; þe hors of hem he kuttide þe finewis at þe knee, and þe charys he brente.

x And turned aȝen anoon he took Afor, and þe kyng of it he smoot wiþ swerd; forsoþe Afor bi oold tyme among alle þese rewmes heelde þe princehod.

xi And he smoot alle lyues þat þere dwelten, he lefste not in it eny relikis, but vnto þe deeȝ alle þingis he waſtide; and þat cytee he deſtruyede wiþ brennyngē.

xii And alle þe citees bi enuyroun and þe kyngis of hem he took, and smoot, and dide awey, as Moyſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, comaundide to hym, xiii wiþ out þe citees þat weren in þe hillis, and in þe hillokis set; and þe oþer Yrael brente vp; oon onelich, þe 'moost strengþid, Azor, flawme brente vp.

xiv And al þe praye of þes citees, and beeſtis, þe fones of Yrael dyuydeden to hem self, alle þe enemyes flayn.

xv As þe Lord comaundide to his feruaunt Moyſes, so Moyſes comaundide to Josue, and he alle þingis fulfillide; and he paſſide not biſide of alle þe maundementis, forsoþe ne o word, þat þe Lord comaundide to Moyſes.

xvi And so Josue took al þe mounteyn loond, and þe souþ loond, and Gofen, and þe pleyn, and þe west cooſt, and þe hil of Yrael, and þe wijld feeldis of it;
xvii and a paart of þe hil þat stieþ vp to Seyr vnto Baalgath, bi þe pleyn of Libany vndur þe hil of Hermon; alle þe kyngis of hem he took, and smoot, and flewȝ.

xviii Myche tyme fauȝt Josue aȝens þes kyngis; xix þere was no cyte, þat took hym not to þe fones of Yrael, saue Euee þat dwellid in Gabaon; alle wiþ fiȝtyng he took.

xx Forsoþe þe ſentence of þe Lord it was, þat þe hertis of hem weren ful hardid, and ſhulde fiȝte aȝens Yrael, and falle, and þei ſhulde not diſerue eny mercy, but ſhulden perifhe, as þe Lord hadde comaundid to Moyſes.

xxi In þat tyme Josue cam, and flewȝ Enachym, fro þe mownteyns of Ebron, and Dabir, and Anab, and of al þe hil of Juda, and of Yrael, and þe cytees of hem he dide awey.

xxii He lefte not eny of þe ſtok of Enachym in þe loond of þe fones of Yrael, out taak þe cytees of Gaza, and Geth, and Azoto, in þe whiche aloon þei ben left.

xxiii Panne Josue took al þe loond, as þe Lord ſpak to Moyſes, and took it into poſſeffioun to þe fones of Yrael, after paarties and her lynagis; and þe loond reſtyde fro bateil.

Capitulum XII.

i Thes ben þe kyngis whom þe fones of Yrael ſmyten, and weeldiden þe loond of hem, byȝond Jordan, at þe fonne arifynge, fro þe ſtreem of Arnon vnto þe hil of Hermon, and al þe eſt cooſt þat biholdip þe wildernes.

ii Seon, kyng of Amorreis, þat dwellid in Eſebon, hadde lordſhip fro Aroer, þat is ſet vpon þe brenk of þe ſtreem of Arnon, and of þe mydil paart in þe valey, and of half Galaad, vnto þe ſtreem of Jaboȝ, þat is þe teerme of þe fones of Amon, iii and fro þe wildernes vnto þe ſee of Cenoroth, aȝens þe eſt, and vnto þe ſee of deſeert, þat is þe mooſt falt ſee, at þe eſt cooſt, bi þe weye þat ledip to Bethesfymoth, and fro þe souþ paart þat vnderlieþ to Aſfedoch, vnto Phasga.

iv Þe teerme of Og, kyng of Basan, of þe relikis of Raphaym, þat dwelten in Aſtaroth and in Edram, v and he hadde lordſhip in þe hil of Hermon, and in Salacha, and in al Basan, vnto þe teermes of Geſfury and Machati, and of þe half paart of Galaad, and þe teerme of Seon, kyng of Eſebon.

vi Moyſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, and þe fones of Yrael ſmyten hem; and Moyſes took þe loond of hem into poſſeffioun to Rubenytis and to Gaditis and to þe half lynage of Manaffe.

vii þes ben þe kyngis of þe loond, whom Josue ſmoot and þe fones of Yrael biȝond Jordan, at þe west cooſt, fro Algad in þe feeld of Liban, vnto þe hil whos paart ſteieþ into Seyr; and 'Josue took it into poſſeffioun to þe lynagis of Yrael, to eche her paartis, viii as wel in mounteyns, as in pleyn and wijld feeldis;

in Aſteroth, and in þe wildernes, and in þe souþ was Ethee, and Ammorree, Cananee, and Phereze, Euee, and Jebufee.

ix Þe kynge of Jericho, oon; þe kyng of Hay, oon, þat is of þe ſide of Betel;

x þe kyng of Jerufalem, oon; þe kyng of Ebron, oon;

xi þe kyng of Herymoth, oon; þe kyng of Lachis, oon;

xii king of Eglon, oon; king of Gazer, oon;

xiii king of Dabir, oon; kyng of Gader, oon;

xiv kyng of Herma, oon; kyng of Hedreth, oon;

xv kyng of Lebna, oon; kyng of Odollam, oon;

xvi kyng of Maceað, oon; kyng of Betel, oon;

xvii kyng of Thaphua, oon; kyng of Affer, oon;

xviii kyng of Affeth, oon; kyng of Saron, oon;

xix kyng of Madan, oon; kyng of Azor, oon;

xx kyng of Sameron, oon; kyng of Axaph, oon;

xxi kyng of Thenach, oon; kyng of Maggedo, oon;

xxii kyng of Cetes, oon; kyng of Jachanaen of Carmel, oon;

xxiii kyng of Dor and of þe prouynce of Dor, oon; kyng of þe Gentils of Galaad, oon; xxiv kyng of Therfa, oon; alle þe kyngis, oon and bretti.

Capitulum XIII.

i Josue was old and of greet age; and þe Lord ſeyde to hym, Pow haſt eeldid, and art of loong age; and þe mooſt wide loond is left, þat not ȝit is dyuydid bi lot;

ii þat is, al Galile Philistiym, and al Geſfury, iii fro þe trubli flood þat weetiþ Egipt, vnto þe teermys of Accharon aȝens þe norþ; þe loond of Chanaan, þat in fyue litil kyngis of Philistiym is dyuydid, Gazeus, and Azotyus, Aſcalonytes, Getheus, and Accharonytes.

iv At þe souþ forſoþe ben Euees, al þe loond of Chanaan, and fro Mara of Sydonys, vnto Aſſeſha, and þe teermes of Ammorrei,

v and his niȝ cooftis; forſoþe þe regiouн of Liban aȝens þe eſt, fro Baalgat, vndur þe hil of Hermon, to þe tyme þat þou goo into Emath, vi of alle þat dwelliden in þe hil, fro Liban vnto þe watriſ of Mafferephoth, and al Sydonys; Y am, þat ſhal doon awey hem fro þe face of þe fones of Yrael; come it panne in to þe paart of þe herytage of Yrael, as Y haue comaundid to þee.

vii And nowe diuyde þe loond into poſſeffioun to nyne lynagis, and to þe half lynage of Manaffe, viii wiþ þe which Ruben and Gad weeldiden þe loond, þat Moyſes, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, biȝond þe flodis of Jordan took to hem, at þe eſt cooſt;

ix fro Aroer, þat is set in þe brenk of þe streeme of Ernon, in þe mydil of þe valey, and al þe wijld feeldis of Medaba, vnto Dibon, x and alle þe citees of Seon, þe kyng of Amorreis, þat fauȝt in Esebon, vnto þe teermes of þe sones of Amon, xi and Galaad, and to þe teermys of Geffuri and Machati, and al þe hil of Hermon, and al Bafan vnto Selecha; xii al þe kyngdom of Og in Bafan, þat regnede in Astaroth, and in Edraym; and he was of þe relikis of Raphaym; and Moyses smoot hem, and dyde hem awey.
 xiii And þe sones of Yrael wolden not destruye Geffery and Machati; and dwelliden in þe mydil of Yrael vnto þe day þat is nowe.
 xiv Forsoþe to þe lynage of Leuy he ȝaued no possessioun, but þe sacryfices, and þe slayn offryngis of þe Lord God of Yrael; þat is his herytage, as he haþ spokun to hym.

 Myfor, and Jazer, and Jecfon, and Maspha; citees foure, wiþ her suburbs.
 xl Alle þe cytees of þe sones of Merary, bi meynees and her kynredis, twelue.
 xli And so alle þe citees of Leuytis, in þe mydil of þe possessioun of þe sones of Yrael, weren eiȝt and fourti, wiþ her suburbs,
 xlvi eche bi meynees delid.

xlvi And þe Lord God haþ ȝouun to Yrael al þe loond þat he swore hym self to ȝeue to faders of hem, and þei weeldiden it, and dwelten in it.

xlvii And of hym is ȝouun pees in alle naciouns bi enuyroun; and noon of þe enemyes is hardi to wiþtoond hem, but alle ben brouȝt into þe lordship of hem.

xlviii Forsoþe ne o word þat to hem he bihiȝte hym self to be to ȝeue, was maad in veyn, but in dedys alle þingis ben fulfillyd.

Capitulum XXII.

i The same tyme Jofue clepide Rubenytis, and Gadditis, and half þe lynage of Manasse, ii and seide to hem, ȝe han doo alle þingis þat to ȝou comaundide Moyse, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, and to me in alle þingis ȝe han obeishid;

iii ne ȝe han left youre briþeren long tyme vnto þe present day, kepynge þe heest of þe Lord ȝoure God.

iv For þanne þe Lord ȝour God haþ ȝeue to ȝou briþeren rest and pees, as he haþ bihooot, turne ȝe aȝen, and gooþ yn to ȝour tabernaclis, into þe loond of ȝour possessioun, þat took to ȝow Moyse, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, biȝond Jordan;

v so oonli þat ȝe kepen attentifly, and in dede fulfil, and þe maundement and þe lawe, þat comaundide to ȝow Moyse, þe seruaunt of þe Lord; þat ȝe louen þe Lord ȝoure God, and goon in alle his weies, and kepe wel þe heestis of hym, and drawe to hym, and serue in al herte, and in alle ȝoure soule.

vi And Jofue bleffide to hem, and lafte hem, þe whiche ben turned aȝen into her tabernaclis.

vii And Moyse ȝaf to þe half lynage of Manasse possessioun in Basan; and þerfor to þe half þat lefte ouere, Jofue ȝaf lot among his oþer briþeren biȝond Jordan, at þe west cooþ. And whanne he shulde leeue hem into her tabernaclis, and hadde blesſid hem, viii he feide to hem, In myche substaunce and rythes turne ȝe aȝen to ȝour feetis; wiþ filuer, and gold, and bras, and yren, and manyfold cloþinge; deuyde ȝe þe praye of enemyes wiþ ȝour briþeren.

ix And þe sones of Ruben, and þe sones of Gad, and þe half lynage of Manasse turneden aȝen, and wenten fro þe sones of Yrael fro Silo, þat is set in Chanaan, þat þei goon into Galaad, þe loond of her possessioun, þat þei hadden after þe heest of þe Lord in þe hoond of Moyse.

x And whanne þei weren comen to þe mynde hyllis of Jordan, into þe loond of Chanaan, þei bildiden biȝde Jordan an auter of mychilnes wiþ out mesure.

xi þe which whanne þe sones of Yrael hadden herd, and to hem certeyn messangeris hadden toold, þe sones of Ruben, and of Gad, and þe half lynage of Manasse to haue bilde an auter in þe loond of Chanaan, vpon Jordans mynde hillis, aȝens þe sones of Yrael, xii alle þei camen togidre in Cylo, þat þei stien vp, and fiȝten aȝens hem.

xiii And in þe mene tyme þei senten to hem into þe loond of Galaad, Phynees, þe sone of Eleazar, preest, xiv and ten princes wiþ hym; eche of eche lynages.

xv Pe whiche camen to þe sones of Ruben, and of Gad, and of þe half lynage of Manasse, vnto þe loond of Galaad, and feiden to hem, xvi þes þingis fendiþ al þe puple of þe Lord; What is þis transgressioun? Whi han ȝe forfakun þe Lord God of Yrael, bildyng a sacrilege auter, and fro þe heriynge of hym goyng a wey?

xvii Wheþer litil it is to ȝou þat ȝe synneden in Belphegor, and vnto þe day þat is nowe þe spot of þis hidows gilt in ȝou dwelliþ, and many of þe puple han faldoun?

xviii And ȝe to day han forfakun þe Lord, and to morwe in to al Ifrael þe wrap of hym shal wexe wood.

xix And if ȝe wenin þe loond of ȝoure possessioun to be vnclene, goop to þe loond, in þe which is þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and dwelle ȝe among vs, oonly þat fro þe Lord ȝe goon not awei, and fro oure felawship, an auter bilden vp biſide þe auter of þe Lord oure God.

xx Wheþer not Achor, þe sone of Zare, paſſide biſide þe heeft of þe Lord, and vpon al þe puple of Yrael þe wrap of hym felle? And he was o man; and wolde God he alone hadde perifhid in his hidows gilt.

xi And þe sones of Ruben, and of Gad, and of þe half lynage of Manasse, anſwerden to þe princes of þe meſſage of Yrael, xxii Be moost strong Lord God of Ifrael he hap knowun, and Yrael togidre shal vndurstoond; if bi inwit of trespassyng þis auter we han maad vp, keep he vs not, but punylhe nowe;

xxiii and if bi þat mynde we han doon, þat brent sacrifices, and sacrifice, and peſible flayn offryngis vpon it we han put, he ſeche, and deme;

xxiv and not more bi þat þenkyng and treet þat we shulen ſay, To morwe shulen ſeye ȝoure ſones to oure ſones, What to ȝow and to þe Lord God of Yrael?

xxv Pe Lord hap put a teerme bitwix vs and ȝow, O ſones of Ruben and ſones of Gad, Jordan flood; and þerfor ȝe han no part in þe Lord; and bi þis occaſion ȝoure ſones shulen turne a wey oure ſones fro þe dred of þe Lord.

xxvi And so we troweden better, and feiden, Make we out to vs an auter, not into brent sacrifices, ne to flayn offryngis to be offrid, xxvii but into witneſſyng bitwix vs and ȝow, and ȝoure children and progenye and oure, þat we ſeruen to þe Lord, and of oure riȝt ben to offre brent sacrificis, and flayn offringis, and peſible oofſtis; and ȝoure ſones feyn not to morwe to oure ſones, Pere is not paart to ȝou in þe Lord.

xxviii And if þei wolen ſeye, þei shulen anſwere to hem, Loo! þe auter of þe Lord, þat maden oure fadres, not into brent sacrificis, ne into sacrifices, but into oure and ȝoure witneſſyng euerlaſtyng.

xxix God shilde fro vs þis hidows gilt, þat we goon a weye fro þe Lord, and his ſteppis we forsaken, an auter made out to brent sacrificis, and sacrificis, and flayn offryngis to ben offred, biſide þe auter of þe Lord oure God, þat is maad out before þe tabernacle of hym.

xxx þe whiche þingis herd, Phinees, þe preest, and princis of þe meſſage of Yrael, þat weren wiþ hym, ben pleſid; and þe wordis of þe ſones of Ruben, and of Gad, and of half lynage of Manasse gladli þei token.

xxxi And Phynees, þe ſone of Eleazar, preest, feide to hem, Now we witen, þat wiþ ȝou is þe Lord; for alien ȝe ben fro þis trespas, and ȝe han delyuerd þe ſones of Yrael fro þe hoond of þe Lord.

xxxii And he turned aȝen wiþ þe princis fro þe ſones of Ruben and of Gad, fro þe loond of Galaad of þe cooſtis of Chanaan, to þe ſones of Yrael; and tolde to hem.

xxxiii And þe word pleſide to alle men herynge; and þe ſones of Yrael preyſiden God, and feiden, þat no more þei ſhulden goo vp aȝens hem, and fiȝte, and do aweie þe loond of þe possesſioun of hem.

xxxiv And þe ſones of Ruben and þe ſones of Gad clepen þe auter, þat þei hadde nadden maad, Oure Witneſſyng, þat þe Lord he be God.

Capitulum XXIII.

i Ouerturnd forſoþe myche tyme after þat þe Lord hadde ȝeue pees to Israel, ſugettid alle naciouns in enuyroun; and Josue now of long lijf, and of ful old age, ii Josue clepid al Yrael, and þe more þurȝ birþ, and princis, and dukys, and maylris, and feide to hem, I haue eeldid, and am of more goon forþ age;

iii and ȝe biholden alle þingis þat þe Lord ȝoure God hap doon to alle naciouns bi enuyroun, what maner wife for ȝou he hap fouȝten.

iv And nowe for he hap dyuydid to ȝou bi lot al þe loond, fro þe est paart of Jordan vnto þe greet ſee, and manye ȝit naciouns ouerleeuuen, v þe Lord ȝoure God shal ſcater hem, and doo awey fro ȝoure face; and ȝe shulen weelde þe loond, as he hap bihoot to ȝow.

vi Oonly takiþ comfort, and beþ bisy, þat ȝe kepen alle þingis þat ben writun in þe volym of þe lawe of Moyles, and þat ȝe bowen not aside fro hem, ne to þe riȝt ne to þe left, vii leſt after þat ȝe goon into þe gentylis, þat among ȝou ben to come, ȝe ſweren in þe name of þe goddis of hem, and ferue to hem, and honoure hem.

viii But cleue ȝe to þe Lord ȝoure God, þe which þing ȝe han doon vnto þis day;

ix and þanne þe Lord God shal doo awey in ȝoure ſiȝt greet gentilis, and mooft stronge; and no man shal wiþſtoond to ȝow.

x Oon of 3ou shal pursue a þousand men of enemyes, for þe Lord 3oure God for 3ou he shal fiȝt, as he haþ bihoot.
 xi Bis oonli moost bisiȝt be ȝe war before, þat ȝe louen þe Lord 3oure God.
 xii And if þat ȝe wolen drawe to þe errours of þes gentilis þat among 3ou dwellen, and wiþ hem mengiþ maryagis, and frenships cowple, xiii nowe þanne wite ȝe, þat þe Lord 3oure God do hem not a wey bifore 3oure face, but to 3ow þei shulen be in to a diche, and grene, and hurtynge of 3oure side, and a ftaak in 3oure eyen, to þe tyme þat he doo 3ou a wey, and scater fro þis best loond, þat he haþ taak to 3ou.
 xiv Loo! I to day goo into þe weie of al erþe; and wiþ al inwit ȝe shulen knowe, þat of alle þe wordis 'þe whiche 'þe Lord haþ bihoot hym self to be to doo to 3ou, he haþ not passid bisiȝt oon in veyn.
 xv Panne as he haþ fulfillid in dede þat he haþ bihoot, and welsumli alle þingis ben comen, so he shal bryngē vpon 3ow what þing of yuels he haþ brett, to þe tyme þat he do 3ow a wey, and scater fro þis best loond, þat he haþ taak to 3ou.
 xvi Forbi þat ȝe han bisiȝt passid þe couenaunt of þe Lord 3oure God, þat he haþ couenauntid wiþ 3ow, and ȝe han serued to alien goddis, and honourde hem, soone and swiftli shal aryse in 3ow þe woodnes of þe Lord; and ȝe shulen be takun a wey fro þis best loond, þat he haþ taak to 3ow.

Capitulum XXIIII.

i And Josue gedride al þe lynages of Yrael in Sechym;
 and clepide þe more þurȝ birþ, and princes, and iugis, and maystris; and stoden in þe liȝt of þe Lord.
 ii And to þe puple þus he spak, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Biȝond þe flood dwelten oure fadres fro þe bigynnynge, Thare, þe fader of Abraham, and Nanchor, and serueden to alien goddis.
 iii I haue taak 3oure fader Abraham fro þe eendis of Mefopotanye, and haue brouȝt hym in to þe loond of Chanaan; Y haue multiplied his seed, and ȝaf to hym Ysaac;
 iv and to hym eft I ȝaf Jacob and Esau; of þe whiche to Esau Y ȝaf þe hil of Seyr to weeld; Jacob forsoþe and his sones descendiden into Egipt.
 v And Y sente Moyses and Aaron, and smoot Egipt bi manye signes and wondris, vi and ladde out 3ou and 3oure fadres fro Egipt. And ȝe camen to þe see, and Egipciens pursueden 3oure fadris wiþ charis, and rydynge, vnto þe Reed See.
 vii And þe sones of Yrael cryeden to þe Lord, þe whiche putte derknes bitwix 3ow and þe Egipciens, and brouȝte vpon hem þe see, and couerde hem. 3oure eyen han seen alle þingis, þat Y haue doo in Egipt.
 And ȝe han dwelt in wildirnes myche tyme.

viii And 'I haue brouȝt 3ow in to þe loond of Amorrey, þat dwellid byȝond Jordan; and whanne þei shulden fyȝt aȝens 3ou, Y took hem into 3oure hoondis, and ȝe weldiden þe loond of hem, and flewen hem.
 ix Forsoþe Balac, þe sone of Sephor, þe kyng of Moab, roos, and fauȝt aȝens Israel; and he sente, and clepide Balaam, þe sone of Beor, for he shulde curse to 3ou.
 x And I wolde not here hym, but aȝenward bi hym I bleſſide to 3ou, and delyuerde 3ow fro his hoondis.
 xi And ȝe passiden ouer Jordan, and camen to Jericho; and men of þat citee fauȝten aȝens 3ow, Amorre, and Phereze, and Chanane, Ethee, and Gergeſe, and Euee, and Jebuse; and I took hem into 3oure hoondis.
 xii And I sente before 3ou hors fleeȝis, and I keſte hem out fro her placis, þe two kyngis of Amorreis, not in fwerd and in þi bowe.
 xiii And Y haue ȝyue to 3ou þe loond, in þe which ȝe han not trauayld, and citees 'þe whiche ȝe han not bild, þat ȝe shulen dwelle in hem, vynes and olyues, 'þe whiche ȝe han not plauntid.
 xiv Nowe þanne drede ȝe þe Lord, and serue ȝe to him wiþ perfit herte and moost trewe; and doþ awey goddis, to þe whiche 3oure faders serueden in Mefopotanye and in Egipt; and serue ȝe to þe Lord.
 xv Forsoþe if yuel it femeþ to 3ou, þat ȝe seruen to þe Lord, choys is 3ouun to 3ou; chese ȝe to day to 3ou, þat plesiþ, to whom moost cheefly ȝe owen to serue; wheþer to goddis, to þe whiche han serued 3oure faders in Mefopotanye, or to þe goddis of Amorreys, in whos loond ȝe dwellen; forsoþe I and myn hows shulen serue to þe Lord.
 xvi And al þe puple answeriþ and seiþ, Awey be fro vs þat we forsaken þe Lord, and seruen to alien goddis.
 xvii þe Lord oure God he ladde vs out and oure fadris fro þe loond of Egipt, fro þe hows of seruage, and vs seynge dide greet toknes; and kepte vs in al þe weie, bi þe whiche we wenten, and in alle puplis, bi þe whiche we passiden;
 xviii and keſte out alle gentils, Amorre, þe dweller of þe loond, þat we ben comen yn. We shulen þefor serue to þe Lord, for he is þe Lord oure God.
 xix And Josue leide to þe puple, ȝe shulen not mowe serue to þe Lord; God forsoþe is holi, and a strong louer, ne forȝyueþ to 3oure hidows synnes and giltis.
 xx If ȝe leue þe Lord, and seruen to alien goddis, he shal turne hymself, and tourment 3ou, and turne vpsedoun, after þat he haþ ȝeue to 3ow good þingis.
 xxi And þe puple feide to Josue, It shal not be so, as þou spekiſt, but to þe Lord we shulen serue.
 xxii And Josue to þe puple, Witneſſis, he seiþ, ȝe ben, þat 3ou self han choofun to 3ou þe Lord, þat ȝe seruen to hym. And þei answerden, Witneſſis. xxiii Now þanne, he seiþ, do ȝe awey alien goddis fro þe myddil of 3ou, and bowe 3oure hertis to þe Lord God of Yrael.

xxiiii And þe puple seide to Josue, To þe Lord oure God we shulen serue, and obeishyng we shulen be to þe heeftis of hym.
 xxv Panne Josue smoot boond of pees in þat day, and purposide to þe puple heeftis and domys in Sichem.
 xxvi And he wroot alle þes wordis in þe volym of þe lawe of God. And he took a ful greet stoon, and putte it vndur an ook, þat was in þe seytuarye of þe Lord.
 xxvii And he feide to al þe puple, Loo! þis stoon shal be to ȝow into witnessynge, þat ȝe han herd alle þe wordis of þe Lord, þe whiche he haþ spokun to ȝou, leste perauenture afterward ȝe wolden denye, and leize to þe Lord ȝoure God.
 xxviii And he lefte þe purple, eche into his possessioun.
 xxix And after þes þingis dyede Josue, þe fone of Nun, þe feruaunt of þe Lord, of an hundryd and of ten ȝeer.
 xxx And þei biryeden him in þe eendis of his possessioun, in Thanathfare, þat is set in þe hil of Effraym, fro þe norþ part of þe hil of Gaas. xxxi And Yrael seruede to þe Lord alle þe days of Josue, and of þe eldren, þat long tyme lyueden after Josue, and þe which knewe alle þe werkis of þe Lord, þat he dide in Israel.
 xxxii Forsoþe þe boones of Joseph, þe whiche þe fones of Yrael token fro Egipt, þei birieden in Sichem, in a paart of þe feeld þat Jacob bouȝte of þe fones of Emor, fader of Sychem, for an hundrid ȝonge sheep; and it was into possessioun of þe fones of Joseph.
 xxxiii Forsoþe Eleazar, þe fone of Aaron, preest, diede; and Phynees and his fones birieden him in Gabaa, þat is ȝyue to hym in þe mount of Effraym.

Here endiþ Jofue, and now bigynneþ Judicum.

JUDICUM.

Here bigynneþ þe bok of Judicum.

Capitulum I.

i Aftir þe deep of Josue þe fones of Israel counseilden þe Lord, seyynge, Who shal stye vp bifore vs aȝens Chanane, and be duk of bateil?
 ii And þe Lord seide, Judas shal stie vp; loo! I haue taak þe loond in his hoond.
 iii And Juda seiþ to Symeon, his broþir, Sty vp wiþ me in my lot, and fiȝt aȝens Chanane, þat I goo wiþ þee in þi lot. And Symeon wente wiþ hym; iv and Juda stiede vp. And þe Lord took Chanane and Phereze in to þe hoondis of hem, and þei smyten in Bezech ten þousand of men.
 v And þei foonden Adonybezech in Besech, and þei fouȝten aȝens hym, and smyten Chanane, and Phereze.
 vi Adonybezech forsoþe fleiȝ, whom purfuyng þei, token, kit of þe ouermost partis of þe hoondis of hym, and of feet.

vii And Adonybezech seide, Seuenti kyngis, kut of þe ouermore paartis of hoondis and of feet, gedreden vndur my bord relyues of meetis; as I haue doo, so þe Lord haþ doo to me. And þei brouȝten hym into Jerusalem, and þere he died.
 viii Panne þe fones of Juda ouercomyng Jerusalem token it, and smyten in mouȝ of swerd, takynge al þe citee to brennyng.
 ix And afterward descendyng þei fouȝten aȝens Chanane, þat dwellyd in þe mounteyns, and at þe souþ, in þe wijld feeddis.
 x And Judas goynge aȝens Chanane, þat dwellid in Ebron, whos name was bi old tyme Caryatharbe, smoot Sifay, and Achyman, and Tholomay.
 xi And þens goon, wenten to þe dwellers of Dabir, whos name was old Cariathsepher, þat is, þe citee of lettris.
 xii And Caleph feide, Who smytiȝ Carythsepher, and wastiȝ it, I shal ȝyue to hym a wif, Axam, my douȝter.
 xiii And whanne Othonyel, þe fone of Senech, þe lasse broþer of Caleph, hadde taak it, he ȝaf to hym a wif, Axam, hys douȝter.
 xiv Þe which goynge in þe weie, hir man moneftide, þat shal shulde axe hir fader a feeld; þe which whanne shal hadde ſȝid, fittyng in an asse, Caleph seide to hir, What haft þou?
 xv And shal answarde, ȝif to me a bleffynge, for a dry erþe þou haft ȝyue to me; ȝif and a moyſt wiþ watriſ.
 And Caleph ȝaf to hir moyſt aboue, and moyſt byneþe.
 xvi Forsoþe þe fones of Cyney, cofyn to Moiſes, stieden vp fro þe citee of palmes wiþ þe fones of Juda, into þe deseert of his lot, þat is at þe souþ of Arach; and þei dwelliden wiþ him.
 xvii And Judas wente wiþ Symeon, his broþer; and þei smyten to gidre Chanane, þat dwellid in Sephat, and þei flewen hym; and þe name of þe cytee was clepid Horma, þat is, cursynge.
 xviii And Judas took Gazam wiþ his eendis, and Ascalonem, and Accharon wiþ his teermys.
 xix And þe Lord was wiþ Judas, and þe mounteyns he weelidide; and he myȝte not doo awey þe dwellers of þe valei, for þei aboundiden in chaarys ful of weepnes in maner of ſibis.
 xx And þei ȝyuen to Caleph Ebron, as Moiſes feide, þe which dide awey fro it þre fones of Enach.
 xxi Jebuse forsoþe, þe dweller of Jerusalem, þe fones of Beniamyn, diden not awey; and Jebuse dwelt wiþ þe fones of Beniamyn in Jerusalem vnto þe day þat is nowe.
 xxii Forsoþe þe hows of Joseph stiede in to Bethel, and þe Lord was wiþ hem.
 xxiii For whanne þei segedyn þe cite, þat before was clepid Luza,
 xxiv þei seeyȝin a man goynge out of þe cytee, and þei feiden to hym, Shewe to vs þe entre of þe cytee, and we shulen do wiþ þee merci.

xxv Be which whanne he hadde shewid to hem, þei smyten þe citem in mouȝt of þe fwerd; forsoþe þilk man and al his kynrede þei leften.
xxvi Be which left wente into þe loond of Sechym, and bilde þere a citem, and clepide it Luzam; þe which is clepid so vnto þe day þat is nowe.
xxvii Forsoþe Manasses dide not awey Bethsan, and Thanael wiþ his lytyl touns, and þe dwellers of Endor, and Geblaam, and Magedo wiþ his litil touns; and Chanane bigan to dwel wiþ hem.
xxviii Forsoþe after þat Yrael is comfourtayd, he made hem tributaries, and doon a wey wold he not.
xxix Forsoþe Effraym flewe not Cananee þat dwellid in Gazer, but dwellid wiþ hym.
xxx Zabulon dide not a wey þe dwellers of Cethron and of Naalon; but Chanane dwelt in þe mydil of hym, and is maad to hym tributarie.
xxxi Forsoþe Afer dide not aweye þe dwellers of Cho, and of Sidon, Alab, and Azenbus, and Alba, and Aphe, Chaaloa, and Pha, and Roab; xxxii and he dwellid in þe mydil of Chananei, þe dweller of þe lond, ne he flewȝ him.
xxxiii Neptalm dide not awei þe dwellers of Bethsames, and of Bethanach; and he dwellide among Chanane, þe dweller of þe lond; and Bethsamites and Bethanites weren to him tributaries.
xxxiv And Amorre artide þe sones of Dan in þe hil, ne he ȝaf to hem place þat to þe pleyner þei myȝten descende; xxxv and he dwelte in þe hil of Hares, þat is to feye, Witnellinge, in Hailon, and Salaby. And þe hond of þe hous of Joseph is aggregid aȝens Amorre, and he is maad to hym tributarie.
xxxvi Forsoþe þe terme of Amorre was fro þe stiynge vp of Scorpioun, and Petra, and þe heiȝer places.

Capitulum II.

i And þe aungel of þe Lord stiede vp fro Galgala to þe place of wepers, and seip, I haue ladde ȝou out of Egyp, and brouȝt into þe loond, for þe which Y swore to ȝoure faders, and haue bihoot, þat Y shulde not maak in veyn my couenaunt wiþ ȝow into wiþ outen eend; ii so oonly þat ȝe smyten no boond of pees wiþ þe dwellers of þis loond, and þat ȝe turnen vpsedoun þe auters of hem; and ȝe wolden not here my vois. Why þes þingis han ȝe doon?
iii 'Wheþer for Y wolde not do awey hem fro ȝoure face, þat ȝe han enemyes, and þe goddis of hem ben to ȝou into fallynge.
iv And whanne þe aungel of þe Lord hadde spoken þes wordis to alle þe sones of Yrael, þei rereden vp her vois, and wepten;
v and þe name of þat place is clepid, of wepers, or of terys; and þei offerden her oofcis to þe Lord.

vi Jofue þanne lefte þe puple; and þe sones of Yrael wenten a wey, echoon into his possessioun, þat þei holden it.
vii And þei ferueden to þe Lord alle þe days of Jofue, and of þe eldren þat loong tyme after hym lyueden, and knewe alle þe greet werkis of þe Lord, þe whiche he dide wiþ Yrael.
viii And Jofue, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, þe sone of Nun, of an hundrid and ten zeer died; ix and þei birieden hym in þe eendis of his possessioun, in Thanathfare, in þe hil of Effraym, fro þe norþ coost of þe hil of Gaas.
x And al þat generacioun is gedrid to her fadris; and ober risen, þat knewen not þe Lord, and þe werkis þat he dide wiþ Yrael.
xi And þe sones of Yrael diden yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and ferueden to Baalym, and Astaroth; xii and laften þe Lord God of her fadris, þat ladde hem out of þe loond of Egyp, and folweden alien goddis, goddis of þe puple þat dwelten in 'þe viroun of hem; and þei honourden hem, and to wrapþ stiriden þe Lord, xiii leuyng hym, and seruyng to Baal and to Astaroth.
xiv And þe Lord, wroop aȝens Israel, took hem into þe hoondis of destroyers, þe whyche token hem, and solden to enemyes, þat dwelten bi enuyroun; ne þei myȝten aȝenstoond her aduersaries;
xv but whidir eueri þei wolden goo, þe hoond of þe Lord was vpon hem, as he spak and swore to hem; and hugely þei ben tourmentid.
xvi And þe Lord areride iugis, þat shulden delyuer hem fro þe hoondis of wafters, xvii but and hem þei wolden not here, doyng fornycacioun wiþ alien goddis, and honouryng hem. Soone þei forsoken þe wey, bi þe which þe faders of hem wenten; and herynge þe heestis of þe Lord, alle þingis þei diden contrarie.
xviii And whanne þe Lord hadde reryd iugys in þe dais of hem, he was bowid bi mercy, and he herde þe weilyngis of þe tourmentid, and he delyueride hem fro þe deeþ of wafters.
xix Forsoþe after þat þe iuge was deed, þei turneden aȝen, and manye þingis diden more þan diden þe faders of hem, folwynge alien goddis, and seruyng to hem, and honouryng hem; þei laften not her fyndyngis, and þe mooft hard weye bi þe which þei weren wonyd to goo.
xx And þe woodnes of þe Lord is wroop aȝens Israel, and seip, For þis folk haþ maad at nouȝt my couenaunt þat Y couenauntide wiþ þe faders of hem, and my vois he dispyside to here;
xi and Y shal not doo awey þe Gentilis, þe whiche Jofue lafte, and is deed; xii þat in hem Y haue knoulechynge of Yrael, wheþir þei kepen þe weie of þe Lord, and goon in it, as kepten þe faders of hem, or noon.

xxiii Panne þe Lord lafte alle þese naciouns, and wold not anoon ouerturne, ne took into þe hoondis of Jofue.

Capitulum III.

- i Thes ben þe Gentilis, þat þe Lord lafte, for to lerne Israel in hem, and alle þat knewen not þe bateils of Chananees;
- ii and afterward þe sones of hem shulden lerne to ftryue wiþ enemies, and to haue vfang of fiȝtyng in batayl.
- iii þe fyue princes of Philistynys, and al Chanane, and Sydon, and Euee þe whiche dwelten in Liban hil, fro þe hil of Baal of Hermon vnto þe entre of Emath.
- iv And he lafte hem, þat in hem he myȝte haue experiens of Yrael, wheþer þei wolen here þe heestis of þe Lord, þe which haþ comaundid to þe faders of hem by þe hoondis of Moyfes, or noon.
- v And so þe sones of Yrael dwelten in þe mydil of Chananei, Ethei, and Amorre, and Pherezei, and Euei, and Jebusei.
- vi And wyues þei token douȝtres of hem, and þei token her douȝtris to þe sones of hem, and serueden to þe goddis of hem.
- vii And þei diden yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and forȝeten of þe Lord her God, seruyng to Baalym, and to Astaroth.
- viii And þe Lord, wroþ aȝens Yrael, took hem into þe hoondis of Chufanrafathaym, kyng of Mesopotanye, and þei serueden to him eiȝt ȝeer.
- ix And þei crieden to þe Lord, þe which areryde to hem a saueour, and delyuerde hem, þat is, Othonyle, þe sone of Cenez, þe laſfe broþer of Caleph.
- x And þe spiryt of þe Lord was in hym, and he demyde Israel. And he wente out to fiȝt, and þe Lord took into þe hoondys of hym Chufanrafathaym, þe kyng of Syrie, and oppresseide hym.
- xi And þe loond restid fourti ȝeer; and Othonyle, þe sone of Cenez, died.
- xii Forþoþe þe sones of Yrael addiden to doon yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord; þe which coumfortide aȝens hem Eglo, þe kyng of Moab, for þei diden yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord.
- xiii And he cowplid to hem þe sones of Amon and of Amalech; and he wente, and smoot Yrael, and he weeldide þe citee of Palmyrs.
- xiv And þe sones of Yrael serueden to Eglon, þe kyng of Moab, eiȝteen ȝeer.
- xv And aftirward þei cryeden to þe Lord; þe which reryde to hem a saueour, Aod bi name, þe sone of Gera, sone of Gemyny, þe which eiper hoond viðe for þe riȝt. And þe sones of Yrael fenden bi hym ȝiftis to Eglon, þe kyng of Moab;
- xvi þe which maade to hym a swerd bitynge in eche side, hauynge in þe mydil a pomel of lengþe of þe palm of an hoond; and he is gird wiþ it vndur þe coot armure, in þe riȝt hipe.

xvii And he offerde ȝiftis to Eglon, þe kyng of Moab; forþoþe Eglon was myche fat.

xviii And whanne he hadde offerd to hym ȝiftis, he folwide felawis þat wiþ hym camen;

xix and turned aȝen fro Galgalis, where weren þe mawmettis, seide to þe kyng, A preue word Y haue to bee, O kyng. And he comaundide silence. And alle men goon out, þat weren a bout hym, xx Aod wente into hym; forþoþe he sat in þe somer sowpyng place alone. And he seide, Be word of God Y haue to bee. Pe which anoon roos fro þe troon.

xxi And `Aod strauȝte out þe left hoond, and he took þe swerd fro his riȝt hipe; and he piȝte into his wombe so strongly, xxii þat þe pomel folwide þe yren in þe wound, and þat wiþ moost fat grees it was streyned; ne he drewe out þe swerd, but so as he smoot, he lafte in þe bodi; and anoon bi þe pruyetees of kynde þe tordis of þe wombe bursten out.

xxiii Forþoþe Aod, clofyde moost bisilich þe doris of þe sowpyng place, and fastnyd wiþ lok, wente out bi þe pofters.

xxiv And þe seruauntis of þe kyng goon yn, feyzen þe ȝatis of þe sowpinge place clofid, and seiden, Perauenture he purgiþ þe wombe in þe somer sowpyng place.

xxv And abidyng long, to þe tyme þat þei weren aþhamyd, and feyng þat no man opnyde, þei token þe keye, and opnyng þei foonden her lord liggyng deed in þe erþe.

xxvi Forþoþe Aod, while þei weren disturbid, flowȝ awey, and he paſſide þe place of mawmettis, whens he turnede aȝen; and he cam into Seyrath.

xxvii And anoon he sownede wiþ tromp in þe hil of Effram; and þe sones of Yrael dessendiden wiþ hym, hym goyng in þe frout.

xxviii Pe which seide to hem, Folwe ȝe me, forþoþe þe Lord haþ taak oure enemyes, Moabitis, into oure hoondis. And þei wenten doun after hym, and þei occupyeden þe foordis of Jordan, þat ouersenden in to Moab. And þei sufferden not eny man to paſſe ouere, xxix but þei smyten Moabites þat tyme about ten þowſand, alle myȝti and stronge men; noon of hem myȝte aſcaape.

xxx And Moab is mekid þat day vndur þe hows of Yrael, and þe loond restide foure scoor ȝeer.

xxxi After þis was Sangar, þe sone of Anath, þat smoot of Philistiyim six hundrid men wiþ a ſhaar; and he forþoþe defendide Israel.

Capitulum III.

i And þe sones of Yrael addeden to doo yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, after þe deeþ of Aod.

ii And þe Lord took hem in to þe hoondis of Jabyn, kyng of Chanaan, þat regnede in Asor, and hadde a duk of his oost, Siferam bi name; and he dwellyd in Arofeth of Gentilis.

iii And þe fones of Yrael crieren to þe Lord; forsoþe he hadde nyne hundred chaaris, ful of wepenes, þe maner of sibis, and bi twenti zeer greetli he oppresside hem.

iv Forsoþe Delbora was a prophetesse, wif of Laphidoth, þat demyde þe puple in þat tyme; v and she sat vndur þe palm tree, 'þe which bi name of hir was clepid, bitwix Rame and Bethel, in þe mount of Effraym; and þe fones of Yrael stieden vp to hir into al doom.

vi Þe whiche fente, and clepide Barach, þe fone of Abynoen, of Cedes of Neptalym, and she feide to hym, Þe Lord God of Yrael hab comaundide to þee, Go, leed þe oost into þe hil of Thabor, and tak wiþ þee ten þousand of fyȝtynge men of þe fones of Neptalym and of þe fones of Zabulon.

vii Forsoþe I shal bryng to þee, in þe place of þe streem of Cyson, Sifaram, prince of þe oost of Jabyn, and þe chaaris of hym, and al þe multitude; and Y shal taak hem in þin hoond.

viii And Barach feide to hyr, If þow comest wiþ me, Y shal goo; if þow wolt not come wiþ me, Y shal not goo.

ix Þe which feide to hym, Forsoþe Y shal goo wiþ þee; but in þis while victory shal not be witid to þee; for in þe hoond of a womman Sifara shal be taak. And so Delbora roos, and wente wiþ Barach in to Cedes.

x Þe which, clepid Zabulon and Nepthalym, stiede vp wiþ ten þousand of fyȝtynge men, hauynge Delbora in his felawhip.

xi Forsoþe Aber Cynee wente a wey sumtyme fro oþer Cynees his briþeren, þe fones of Obbab, cosyn of Moyfes; and he streiȝte tabernaclys vnto þe valey, þat is clepid Sennym, and was biſide Cedes.

xii And it is told to Cysare, þat Barach, þe fone of Abynem, hadde stied vp into þe hil of Thabor.

xiii And he gedryd nyn hundryd chaaris, ful of wepenys, maner of sibis, and al þe oost fro Arofeth of gentilis to þe streem of Cyson.

xiv And Delbora feide to Barach, Rife, þis is forsoþe þe day, in þe which þe Lord hab taak Sifaram into þin hoondys; loo! he is bi leder. And so Barach descendide fro þe hil of Thabor, and ten þowſand of fyȝtynge men wiþ hym.

xv And þe Lord feiryde Sifaram, and alle þe chaaris of hym, and al þe multytude, in þe mouþ of swerd, at þe fiȝt of Barach, in so myche þat Sifara of þe chaar lepynge doun on his feet, fliȝ.

xvi And Barach purſuede þe fleynge chaaris and þe oost vnto þe see vnto Arofeth of Gentilis; and al þe multitude of enemyes fallen doun vnto þe deeþ.

xvii Sifara forsoþe fleynge cam to þe tent of Jahel, wif of Aber Cynei; forsoþe þere was pees bitwix Jabyn, þe kyng of Afor, and þe hows of Aber Cynei.

xviii Jahel þanne goon out in to aȝen comynge of Sifare, feide to hym, Com into me, my lord; ne drede pow. Þe which goon into þe tabernacle of hyr, and couerd of hir wiþ a mantel, xix he feide to hir, ȝif to me, Y biseche, a litil of water, for Y priste myche. Þe which openyde a botel of mylk, and ȝaf to hym to drynk, and couerde hym.

xx And Sifara feide to hir, Stoond before þe dore of þe tabernacle, and whanne þere comeþ eny man, alkinge þee, and seiyng, Wheþer here is eny man? þou shalt answere, Noon is.

xxi And so Jahel, þe wif of Aber, took a neyl of þe tabernacle, takyng þere wiþ an hamer; and she goon out priuelich, and wiþ silence putte vpon þe templis of his heed a neyl, and smyten wiþ an hamer piȝt doun into þe brayn vnto þe erþe; þe whych, felawshipyng sleep to deeþ, faylide, and died.

xxii And lo! Barach folwynge Sifaram cam; and Jahel, goon into aȝen comynge of hym, feide to hym, Com, and Y shal shewe to þee a man, whom þow sechist. Þe whych, whanne he hadde goo in to hir, he sawȝ Sifaram liggyng deed, and a neyl piȝt into his templis.

xxiii God þerfor lowide in þat day Jabyn, þe kyng of Chanaan, bifore þe fones of Yrael; xxiv þe whiche woxen eche day, and wiþ strong hoond beren doun Jabyn, þe kyng of Chanaan, to þe tyme þat þei hadden doo hym awey.

Capitulum V.

i And Delbora and Barach, þe fone of Benoem, songen in þat day, seiyng, ii ȝe þat wilfully offerden of Yrael ȝoure lyues to peryl, blisſiþ to þe Lord.

iii Here, ȝe kyngis; persevye, ȝe princes, wiþ eeris; Y am, Y am, 'þe whiche to þe Lord shal synge, and seye salm to þe God of Yrael.

iv Lord, whanne þow wentist out fro Seyr, and passidist bi þe regiouns of Edom, þe erþe is meued, and heuens and clowdis droppeden wiþ watriss;

v hillis floweden fro þe face of þe Lord, and Synai fro þe face of þe Lord God of Israel.

vi In þe dais of Sangar, fone of Anath, in þe dais of Jahel, restiden þe paþbis, and þo þat wenten in bi hem ȝeden a wey bi streyt beryd paþbis out of þe weye.

vii Stronge men seseden in Yrael, and restiden, to þe tyme þat Delbora roos, moder in Yrael.

viii Newe bataylis hab chofun þe Lord, and þe ȝatis of enemyes he ouerturnede; swerd and speer aperyde not in fourti þowſand of Yrael.

ix Myn herte shal loue þe princis of Yrael; ȝe þat bi propre wil han offrid ȝou to peryl, blisſiþ to þe Lord;

x ȝe þat stien vp vpon shynynge affis, and fittis aboue in doom, and goon in þe weye, spekiþ.

xi Where þe chaaris ben hurtlid, and þe oost of þe enemyes is queynt, þere þe riȝtwisnessis of þe Lord ben told, and mercy into þe stroonge men of Yrael; þanne þe puple of þe Lord cam doun to þe ȝatis, and hadde þe prynfhod.

xii Rysfe, ryse, Delbora, ryse, and spek þe dyte of songe; ryse, Barach, and þou, sone of Abynoem, tak þi chaytyues.

xiii Þe relyues of þe puple ben saued; þe Lord in stronge men haþ fouȝten.

xiv Fro Effraym he haþ doon hem a wey into Amalech, and after hym fro Beniamyn in to þi puplis, O Amalech. Fro Machir princis descendiden, and fro Zabulon, þat oost shulden lede to fȝit.

xv Dukis of Ysachar weren wiþ Delbora, and þe steeppis of Barach þei folweden, þe whiche, as into heuedi fallynge and helle, he ȝaf hym silf to peryl. Ruben aȝens hym diuydide, of greet willi men is foundun struyngue.

xvi Whi dwellift þow bitwix two teermys, þat bow here þe noysis of flockis? Ruben aȝens hym dyuydide, of greet willi men is foundun a strijf.

xvii Gad biȝonde Jordan restide, and Dan tentide to shippis. Afer dwellid in þe brenk of þe fee, and in hauens abood.

xviii Forsoþe Zabulon and Neptalym offerden her lyues to deeþ, in þe regioun of Moreme.

xix Kyngis camen, and fouȝten; fouȝten þe kyngis of Chanaan in Thanath, biȝide þe watriis of Magedan; and neuerþelater no þing token þe praytakers.

xx Fro heuene it is fouȝten aȝens hem; sterrys dwellynge in ordre and in her course aȝens Sysaram fouȝten.

xxi Þe strem of Syfon drowȝ þe careyns of hem, þe strem of Cadunym, strem of Cyfon. Treed þou, my soule, stroonge men.

xxii Cleas of hors fallen hem fleyng wiþ feerse, and bi heedlynge fallinge þe moost stroonge men of enemyes.

xxiii Curfe ȝe to þe loond of Meroth, seide þe aungel of þe Lord, curse ȝe to þe dwellers of it, for þei camen not to þe help of þe Lord, in to þe help of þe moost stroonge men of hym.

xxiv Bleffid among wymmen Jahel, þe wif of Aber Cynei; be she bleffid in hir tabernacle.

xxv To þe askynge water sche ȝaf mylk, and in þe viole of pryncis she brouȝte forþ butter.

xxvi Þe left hoond she putte to þe nayl, and þe riȝt to þe hamers of smybis; and she smoot Cisaram, fechynge in þe heed þe place of þe wound, and þe temple myȝtilich brillynge.

xxvii Bitwix þe feet of hir he felle, failid, and dyede; and he was wrappid before þe feet of hir, and he lay out of lijf, and wretchedful.

xxviii Bi þe wyndow biholdynge ȝollide þe moder of hym; and fro þe lowpynge place she spak, Whi tarieþ to turne aȝen þe chaar of hym? Whi taryeden þe feet of þe foure whelid cartis of hym?

xxix 'Oon wiser þan þat oþer wiffis of hym to þe moder in lawe þes wordis answerde, xxx Perauenture now he dyuydip spuylis, and þe moost feyr of wymmen is chosun to hym; cloþis of dyuers colours to Sysare ben taak into praye, and dyuerse portenaunce to neckis to be anourned is born to gidre.

xxxi So perischen alle þin enemyes, þou Lord; forsoþe þoo þat louen bee, as þe sunne in his rysynghe shyneþ, so glitteren þei. And þe loond restide bi fourti ȝeer.

Capitulum VI.

i The sones forsoþe of Yrael diden yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, þe which took hem in þe hoond of Madian seuen ȝeer.

ii And þei ben oppresſid greetli of hem; and þei maden to hem caaues, and spelunkis in hillis, and moost defensable placis to wiþstonden.

iii And whanne Israel wex fears, 'Madian stiede vp, and Amalech, and oþer of þe est naciouns;

iv and anentis hem pitchinge tentis, as þei weren in grasse, alle þingis þei waftiden vnto þe entre of Gaze, and no þing perteynyng to þe liȝt vterli þei laften in Yrael, ne sheep, ne oxe, ne asses.

v Forsoþe þei and alle þe flockis of hem camen wiþ her tabernaclis, and at þe licknes of locustis alle placis fulfillide þe vnnoumbrable multitude of men and of camels, and waftyng what euere þing þei touchiden.

vi And Yrael is mekid greetli in þe siȝt of Madian.

vii And he cryede to þe Lord, askynge help aȝens Medianitis;

viii þe which fente to hem a man prophete, and spak, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Y haue maad ȝou to come doun fro Egipt, and haue brouȝt ȝou out fro þe hous of seruage.

ix and delyuerd fro þe hoond of Egipciens, and of alle þe enemyes þat tormentiden ȝow; and haue browun hem out at ȝoure entree, and haue taak to ȝow þe loond of hem;

x and seide, I þe Lord ȝoure God; ne drede ȝe þe goddis of Amorreis, in whos loond ȝe dwellen; and ȝe wolden not here my vois.

xi Forsoþe þe aungel of þe Lord cam, and sat vndur þe ook, þat was in Effra, and perteyned to Joas, þe fader of þe meyne of Ezry. And whanne Gedeon, þe sone of hym, shoclide out, and purgide whetis in þe pressyng place, þat he fleiȝ Madian, xii þe aungel of þe Lord apperide to hym, and seiþ, þe Lord wiþ þee, moost stroong of men.

xiii And Gedion seide to hym, Y biseche, my lord, if þe Lord is wiþ vs, whi þanne han taak vs alle þes yuels? Where ben þe merueyls of hym, þe whiche oure faders tolden, and seiden, þe Lord haþ lad vs out of Egipt? Now forsoþe he haþ forsakun vs, and takun in þe hoond of Madian.

xivii And þe Lord bikelde to hym, and seiþ, Go in þis þi strengþ, and þou shalt delyuer Yrael fro þe hoond of Madian; wite þow, þat Y haue sent þee.

xv Pe which answerynge seiþ, My lord, Y biseche, in what shal Y delyuer Yrael? Loo! my meyne is lowest in Manasse, and Y leeft in þe hows of my fader.

xvi And þe Lord seide to hym, I shal be wiþ þee, and þow shalt smyte Madian as o man.

xvii And he, If Y haue foundun, he seiþ, grace before þee, ȝif to me a tokne, þat þou be, 'þe which spekist wiþ me;

xviii ne goo þou hens, to þe tyme þat I turne aȝen to þee, bryngynge sacrifice, and offryng to þee. Pe which answerde, Y shal abide þi comynge.

xix And so Gedeon wente in, and seþide a kydd, and of a busshel of flour þerf looues, and flesh puttyng in þe leep; and þe flesh broþþe puttyng in to þe pot, he took alle þingis vndur þe ook, and offerde to hym.

xx To whom he aȝend he aȝengel of þe Lord, Tak þe flesh, and þe þerf looues, and putte vpon þe stoon, and þe broþþe heelde þere vpon. And whanne he hadde doo so, xxi þe aȝengel of þe Lord streiȝte out þe vttermoȝt part of þe zeerde þat he heelde in hoond, and he touchid þe flesh, and þe þerf looues; and fier stiede up fro þe stoon, and consumede þe flesh, and þe þerf looues. Forsoþe þe aȝengel of þe Lord vanyfliȝde a wey fro þe eyen of hym.

xxii And Gedeon seyng þat it was þe aȝengel of þe Lord seiþ, Wo me, Lord God, for Y haue seen þe aȝengel of þe Lord face to face.

xxiii And þe Lord seide to hym, Pees wiþ þee; ne drede þow, þou shalt not dye.

xxiv Panne Gedeon bilde þere an auter to þe Lord, and he clepide it þe Pees of þe Lord, vnto þe day þat is now. And whanne ȝit he hadde be in Effra, þat is þe meyne of Ezry, xxv þat nyȝt þe Lord seide to hym, Tak þe bole of þi fader, and another bole of seuen zeer, and þou shalt distruye þe auter of Baal, þat is of þi fader, and þe wode, þat is about þe auter, hew doun;

xxvi and þou shalt bilde an auter to þe Lord þi God in þe ouermost of þis stoon, vpon þe which þou puttist before sacrifice; and þou shalt take þe secounde bole, and offer brent sacrifice vpon þe hepe of wode, þat þow hast kut of þe wode.

xxvii Panne Gedeon taken to ten men of his seruauntis, dide as þe Lord comaundide to hym. Forsoþe dredyng þe hows of his fader, and þe men of þat cytee, by day he wold not doon, but alle þingis þe nyȝt he fulfilde.

xxviii And whanne þe men of his burgh toun erly weren ryfen, þei seen þe auter of Baal destryued, and þe 'mawmet woode hewun doun, and another bole set vpon þe auter, þat þanne was bild vp.

xxix And þei seiden to gidre, Who hap doon þis? And whanne þei souȝten þe doer of þe dede, it is seide, Gedeon, þe sone of Joas, dide alle þese þingis.

xxx And þei seiden to Joas, Bryng forþ þi sone hider, þat he be deed, for he hap destryued þe auter of Baal, and hewen doun þe wode.

xxxi To whom he answerde, Wheþer ȝe ben wrechers of Baal, þat ȝe fiȝten for hym? who is þe aduersarye of hym, dye he, before þe morwetide liȝt come; if he is God, venge he hymself of hym þat hap deluen vp þe auter of hym.

xxxii Fro þat day Gedeon is clepid Jeroboal, forþi þat Joas seide, Baal take veniaunce of hym þat haþ doluen down þe auter of hym.

xxxiii Perfor al Madian, and Amelech, and þe este puplis ben gedrid to gidre, and passyng ouer Jordan settiden tentis in þe valey of Jezrael.

xxxiv Forsoþe þe spyryt of þe Lord cloþide Gedeon; þe which criyng wiþ tromp clepide to gidre þe hows of Abiezer, for he shulde folwe hym.

xxxv And he sente messangers into al Manassen, þe which and he folwide hym; and oþer messangers into Aser, and Zabulon, and Neptalm, þe whiche aȝen camen to hym.

xxxvi And Gedeon seide to þe Lord, If þow makist saaf bi myn hoond 'þe puple of Israel, as þow haft spokun, xxxvii Y shal put þis fleese of wul in þe floore; if dewe in þe fleese alone were, and in al þe erþe drouȝþ, Y shal wyte, þat bi myn hoond, as þou haft spokun, þow shalt delyuer Yrael.

xxxviii And it is doo so. And fro þe niȝt rysynge, þrurst out of þe fleese, he fulfillede an holwȝ vesse wiþ dew;

xxxix and eft he seide to þe Lord, Ne wexe not wroþ þi woodnes aȝens me, if ȝit ones Y tempte a tokne fechynge in þe fleese; Y preye, þat oonli þe fleese be drye, and al þe erþe wiþ dew moyſt.

xl And þe Lord dide þat nyȝt, as he axide; and þere was drouȝþ in þe fleese alone, and dewe in al þe erþe.

Capitulum VII.

i Thanne Jeroboal, þe which and Gedeon, fro nyȝt rysynge, and al þe puple wiþ hym, cam to þe wel þat is clepid Arad. Forsoþe þe tentis of Madian weren in þe valey, at þe norþ cooþ of þe hiȝe hil.

ii And þe Lord seide to Gedeon, Myche is þe puple wiþ þee, and leſt Yrael glorie aȝens me, Madian shal not be taak into þe hoondis of hym, and leſt he seye, Bi my strenghþis I am delyuerd.

iii Spek to þe puple, and alle herynge, preche, Who is feerful and dredy, turne he aȝen. And þere wenten aȝen fro þe hil of Galaad, and ben turned aȝen of þe puple two and twenti þowſand of men; and onely ten þowſand beden stil.

iv And þe Lord seide to Gedeon, ȝit þere is myche puple; lede hem to þe watris, and þere I shal preue hem, and of whom Y shal seye to þee, þat goo wiþ þee, he goo; whom I shal defende to goo, he turne aȝen.

v And whanne þe puple was goon doon to þe watriss, þe Lord seide to Gedeon, Pilk þat wiþ hoond and wiþ tonge lapen þe watriss, as houndis ben woned to lape, þou shalt feuere hem aside; forsoþe þilk, þat bowiden þe knees drynkyng, in þat oþer paart shulen be.
vi And so was þe noumble of hem, þat wiþ hoond þrowynge to þe mousp watriss hadden lapid, þre hundrid men; forsoþe al 'þat oþer multitude þe knee bowid dronke.
vii And þe Lord seiþ to Gedeon, In þree hundrid men, þat lapiden watriss, Y shal delyuer ȝou, and taak Madian in þin hoond; forsoþe al 'þat oþer multitude be turned aȝen into his place.
viii And so metis taken for þe noumble, and trompis, al 'þat oþir multitude he comaundide to goon to her tabernaclis; and he, wiþ þre hundrid men, ȝaf hym silf to þe bateil. Forsoþe þe tentis of Madian weren vndur in þe valey.
ix Þe same nyȝt þe Lord seide to hym, Rise, and go doun into þe tentis, for Y haue taak hem in þin hoond; x forsoþe if alone þou dredist to goo, go doun wiþ þee Phara, þi child.
xi And whanne þou herilst what þei speken, þanne þin hoondis shulen be coumfortid, and sikerer þou shalt goo doun to þe tentis of þe enemys. Panne descendide he, and Phara, his child, into a paart of þe tentis, where weren þe watchis of armed men.
xii Forsoþe Madian, and Amalech, and alle þe este puplis shed layen in þe valey, as multitude of locustis; forsoþe camels vnnoumbrable þere weren, as grauel þat lieþ in þe brenk of þe fee.
xiii And whanne Gedeon was comen, a man tolde a sweuen to his neiȝbore, and in þis maner he toold þat he sawȝ, Y sawȝ a sweuen, and it seemed to me, as a loof of barlich maad vndir asshen to be trendlid, and into þe tentis of Madyan to goo doun; and whanne it were comyn to þe tabernacle, it smoot it, and turnede vpfedoun, and al doun to þe erþe euenede. xiv He, to whom he spak, answerde, Bis is noon opere þing, but þe swerd of Gedeon, lone of Joas, a man of Israel; forsoþe þe Lord hab takun into þe hoondis of hym Madian and alle þe tentis of it.
xv And whanne Gedeon hadde herd þe sweuen, and þe remenyng of it, he heryede, and, turned aȝen to þe tentis of Yrael, seiþ, Rysse ȝe; forsoþe þe Lord hab takun into oure hoondis þe tentis of Madian.
xvi And he dyuydide þre hundrid men in þre parties, and he ȝaf trompis in þe hoondis of hem, and voyd wyn pottys, and laumpis in þe myddis of þe pottis.
xvii And he seide to hem, What ȝe seen me doon, þat doo ȝe; Y shall goo into a paart of þe tentis, and what Y shal doo, folwiþ.

xviii Whanne þe trompe fulsowneþ in myn hoond, forsoþe ȝe bi þe enuyroun of þe tentis trompiþ, and crieþ to gidre, To þe Lord and to Gedeon.
xix And Gedeon wente in, and þre hundred men þat weren wiþ hym, into a part of þe tentis, bigynnynge þe watchis of þe mydnyȝt; and, þe kepers reryd, þei bigunned wiþ trompis to cryen, and clappen togidre bitwix hem seluen þe wyn pottis.
xx And whanne bi enuyroun of þe tentis in þre placis þei fulsowneden, and þe stenys hadden broken, þei heelden wiþ þe left hoondis þe laumpis, and wiþ þe riȝt þe sownyng trompis; and þei crieden, Þe swerd of þe Lord and of Gedeon;
xxi stondyne eche in his place, by enuyroun of þe enemys tentis. And so alle þe tentis ben disturblid; and criyng out and ȝellynge, flowen; xxii and neuerþelater þe þre hundryd men stoden to stedfastli, sownyng wiþ trompis. And þe Lord sente yn swerd in alle þe tentis, and þei kutten of hem seluen bi fleyng echon oþer, fleyng into Bethfaka, and bi þe cop of þe brenke, fro Elmonla into Thebbath.
xxiii þe men of Israel forsoþe criyng togidre, of Neptalym, and Aser, and al Manasse, 'purſueden Madian; and þe Lord ȝaf to þe puple of Yrael victory in þat day.
xxiv And Gedeon sente messangers into al þe hil of Effraym, seiynge, Comiþ doun into aȝen metynge of Madian, and occupieþ þe watres vnto Bethhem and Jordan. And al Effraym crie, and forn occupiede þe watres and Jordan vnto Bethhara.
xxv And two men of Madian takun, Oreb and Zeb, he flowȝ; Oreb in þe stoon of Oreb, forsoþe Zeb in þe preffynge place of Zeb; and þei purſueden Madian, þe heedys of Oreb and of Zeb beryng to Gedeon, ouer þe floodis of Jordan.

Capitulum VIII.

i And þe men of Effraym feiden to hym, What is þis þat þou woldest doo, þat þou clepedist not vs, whanne þou shuldist go to fiȝt aȝens Madian? chidyng stronglich and almeȝt violence brynggyng yn.
ii To whom he answerde, What siche þing forsoþe myȝte Y doo, what ȝe han doon? Wheþer is not betere þe graape of Effraym þan þe vendage of Abiether?
iii Into ȝoure hoondis þe Lord hab takun þe princis of Madian, Oreb and Zeb. What siche þing miȝte Y doo, what þing ȝe han doo? Pe which þing whanne he hadde spoken, þe spyryt of hem took rest, bi þe which þei bolneden aȝens hym.
iv And whanne Gedeon was comyn to Jordan, he passide it wiþ þre hundrid men, þat weren wiþ hym; and for werynes, fleyng þei myȝten not purſue.
v And he seide to þe men of Socchoth, Y biseche, ȝyueþ looues to þe puple, þat is wiþ me; for greetlich þei defauten, þat we mowen pursue Zebee and Salmana, kyngis of Median.

 vi Þe princis of Soccoth answerden, Perauenture þe palmes of þe hoondis of Zebee and of Salmana ben in þin hoond, and þerfor þow aſkist, þat we ȝeuen to þin ooft looues.
 vii To whom he seiþ, Whanne þerfor þe Lord shal taak into myn hoondis Zebee and Salmana, and whanne Y were turned aȝen ouercomer in pees, Y shal to-teren ȝoure flesh wiþ þornes and breris of deseert.
 viii And þens goyng he cam into Phanuel; and he spak to þe men of þat place lijk þingis, and to whom þei answerden, as answerden þe men of Soccoth.
 ix And to hem he seide also, Whanne Y were turned aȝen ouercomer in pees, Y shall deſtruy his tour.
 x Zebee forſoþe and Salmana restiden wiþ al her ooft; forſoþe fifteen þowfand men abiden stil of alle þe cumpanyes of þe eft puplis, fleyn an hundryd and twenty þousandis of fr̄ȝters and of drawers out ſwerd.
 xi And Gedeon ſtiyng vp bi þe weye of hem þat dwelliden in tabernaclis at þe eeft cooſt of Nobee and Lecaa, he ſmoot þe tentis of þe enemyes, þat weren fiker, and no þing of aduersyte ortroweden.
 xii And Zebee and Salmania floweren, whom purſuyng Gedeon took, diſturblid al þe ooft of hem.
 xiii And he turnyng aȝen fro þe bateyl before þe funne ryfynge, xiv he took a child of þe men of Soccoth; and he aſkyde hym þe names of þe pryncis, and of þe eldren of Soccoth; and he diſcriuyde feuenti and feuen men bi noumbre.
 xv And he cam to Socoth, and feide to hem, Loo Zebee and Salmania! vpon þe whiche ȝee myſſeyden to me, ſeynge, Perauenture þe hoondys of Zebee and Salmania in þin hoondis ben, and þerfor þou aſkist, þat we ȝeuen to þe men, þat ben wery and han defautid, looues.
 xvi He took þanne þe eldre of þe cyte, and þornes of deseert and breris, and torente wiþ hem, and diſtruyede þe men of Socoth;
 xvii forſoþe þe tour of Phanuel he turnede vpſedoun, flayn þe dwellers of þe cyte.
 xviii And he feide to Zebee and to Salmania, What weren þe men, whom ȝe floweren in Thabor? Pe whiche answerden, Lijk þee, and oon of hem as þe fone of a kyng.
 xix To whom he, My briþeren þei weren, þe fones of my moder; God lyueþ, if ȝe hadden kepte hem, Y wolde not haue flayn ȝow.
 xx And he feide to Jepter, his fyrfot gotun, Ryse, and fle hem. Pe which drewe not out þe ſwerd; forſoþe he dredde, for a child he was ȝit.
 xxi And Zebee and Salmania leyden, þow rylē, and fal into vs; for after age and strengþ þow art of a man. Gedeon roos, and flewe Zebee and Salmania, and took þe ȝurnementis, and billis, wiþ þe whiche þe neckis of kyngis chameſ ben wonyd to be anourned.

 xxii And alle þe men of Yrael feiden to Gedeon, Haue lordſhip of vs, þow, and þi fone, and þe fone of þi fone; for þow haſt delyuerd vs fro þe hoond of Median.
 xxiii To whom he seiþ, I shal not haue lordſhip of ȝou, ne my fone shal haue lordſhip in ȝou, but þe Lord shal haue lordſhip.
 xxiv And he feide to hem, Oon alkyng Y aſke of ȝow, ȝeueþ to me þe eere ryngys of ȝoure praye; forſoþe Yſmaelitis weren woned to han golden eereryngis.
 xxv Þe whiche answerden, Mooſt glaadly we shulen ȝeue. And ſpredyng a brood vpon þe erþe a mantil, þei þrewen forþ in it þe eere ryngys of þe praye; xxvi and þe weigþ of þe aſkid eereryngis was a þousand and feuenti ſiclis of gold, wiþ outen þe ȝurnementis and brochis and purpur clooþ, þe which þe kyngis of Median weren wont to vſe, and biſide þe goldun beeȝis of chameſ.
 xxvii And Gedeon maad of it a coop, and putte it in Effra his citee; and al Yrael dide fornycacioun in it; and it was maad to Gedeon and to alle þe hows of hym into fallynge.
 xxviii Forſoþe Median is mekid before þe fones of Yrael, ne þei myȝten more ouer reer vp þe nollis; but þe loond reſtide bi fourty ȝeer, in þe which Gedeon was in dignyte.
 xxix And fo Joroboal, þe fone of Joas, ȝede, and dwelte in his hows; xxx and he hadde feuenti fones, þat camen out of þe hype of hym, forþi þat he hadde many wyues.
 xxxi Forſoþe þe fecoundarye wif of hym, þat he had in Sichem, gat hym a fone, Abymalech bi name.
 xxxii And Gedeon, þe fone of Joas, is deed in a good age, and biryed in þe ſepulcre of Joas his fader, in Efra, of þe meyne of Ezry.
 xxxiii Forſoþe after þat Gedeon is deed, þe fones of Israel ben turned awey, and han doo fornycacioun wiþ Baalym; and þei ſmyten wiþ Baal couenaunt of pees, xxxiv þat he were to hem into God, ne þei recordiden of þe Lord her God, 'þe which delyuerde hem fro þe hoond of alle her enemyes bi enuyroun;
 xxxv ne þei diden mercy wiþ þe hows of Jeroboal Gedeon, after alle þe good þingys þat he dide to Yrael.

Capitulum IX.

i Abymalech, þe fone of Jeroboal, ȝeed forſoþe into Sichem to þe briþeren of his moder; and he ſpakte to hem, and to al þe kynrede of þe hows of his modir, ſeynge, ii Spek to alle þe men of Sychem, Wheþer is it betere to ȝou, þat feuenti men, alle þe fones of Jeroboal, han lordſhip of ȝow, oþer o man be lord to ȝow? and to gidre bihold ȝe, for ȝoure boon and ȝoure flesh Y am.

iii And þe briþeren of his moder speken of hym to alle þe men of Sichem alle þes wordes; and þei boweden þe herte of hem after Abymalech, seyinge, Oure broþer he is.
iv And þei zauen to hym feuenti pownde of siluer of þe heben temple of Baal Berith; þe which hiride to hym of it nedî men and vagaunt, and þei folweden hym.
v And he cam into þe hows of his fader in Ephra, and he flewȝ his briþeren þe sones of Jeroboal, feuenti men, vpon o stoon. And Joatham, þe sone of Jeroboal, þe leest, abood stil, and is hid.
vi And alle þe men of Sichem, and al þe meynee of þe cite of Mello, ben gedred to gidre, and wenten, and ordeyneden hem a kyng, Abymalech, biſide þe ook þat stood in Sichem.
vii Pe which, whanne was told to Joatham, he ȝede, and stood in þe cop of þe hil of Garyfym, and, arerid vp þe voice, cryede, and seyde, Here ȝe me, men of Sichem, so þat God here ȝou.
viii Treeſe wenten for to anoynte vpon hem a kyng; and þei feiden to þe olyue, Comaund þou to vs.
ix Pe whiche anſwerde, Wheþer may Y forſake my fatnes, þe whiche and Goddis vſen and men, and come, þat bitwix trees Y be auaunſid?
x And þe trees feiden to þe fige tree, Com þou, and tak kyngdom vpon vs.
xi Pe which anſwerde to hem, Wheþer may Y forſake my fwetnes and mooſt fwete fruytis, and goo þat bitwix oþer trees Y be auaunſid?
xii And þe trees speken to þe viyn, Com, and comaunde to vs.
xiii Pe which anſwerde, Wheþer may Y forſake my wyn, þat gladiþ God and men, and bitwix oþer trees be auaunſid?
xiv And alle þe trees feiden to þe þorn, Com, and comaund þow vpon vs.
xv Pe whiche anſwerde to hem, If verreily me kyng ȝe han ordeynde to ȝou, comeþ, and vnder my fhadewe restiþ; forſoþe if ȝe wolen not, go out fier fro þe þorn, and deuowre þe feedis of Liban.
xvi Nowe þanne if riȝtly and wiþouten synne ȝe han ordeynde vpon ȝou a kyng, Abymalech, and wel han doo wiþ Jeroboal, and wiþ þe hows of hym, and han ȝolden while to his benfeetis, xvii þe which fauȝt for ȝou, and his lijf ȝaf to peryls, for to delyuer ȝou fro þe hoond of Madian;
xviii þe whiche ȝe nowe han rysyn aȝens þe hows of my fader, and han flayn his sones, feuenti men, upon o stoon, and han ordeynde a kyng, Abymalech, þe sone of þe werk womman of hym, vpon þe dwellers of Sichem, forpi þat ȝoure broþer he be;
xix if þanne riȝtly and wiþ outen vice ȝe han doo wiþ Jeroboal and þe hows of hym, to day glade ȝe in Abymalech, and he glade in ȝou;
xx forſoþe if fhrewidli, fier goo out of hym, and waافت þe dwellers of Sichem, and þe burȝ toun of Mello; and go out fier fro þe men of Sichem, and fro þe burȝ toun of Mello, and deuowre Abymalech.

xxi Pe whiche þingis whanne he hadde feid, he fleiȝ, and wente into Bereram, and dwelte þere, for drede of Abymalech, his broþir.
xxii And Abymalech regnede vpon Yrael þre zeer.
xxiii And God fente þe worst spiryte bitwix Abymalech and þe dwellers of Sichem, þe whiche bigunne to wlaat hym, xxiv and þe hidows gilt of þe flauȝter of þe feuenti sones of Jeroboal, and þe shedyng of blod of hem, to ȝeelde into Abymalech, his broþir, and into þe toþer princis of Sichemytis, þat hym helpeden.
xxv And þei puttiden aspies aȝens hym in þe cop of hillis; and while þei biden þe comynge of hym, þei hawntiden þeftis, takyng prayes of þe goers byſide; and it is told to Abymalech.
xxvi Forſoþe Gaal, þe sone of Obed, wiþ his briþeren cam, and paſſide into Siccam; at whos comynge reryd þe dwellers of Sichem, xxvii wenten out into feeldis, waſtyng vynes, and grapis tredyng; and þe querys maad of fyngers þei wenten into þe temple of her God, and bytwix meetis and drynkis þei curseden to Abymalech, xxviii criyng Gaal, þe sone of Obed, Who is þis Abymalech? And what is Sichem, þat we feruen to hym? Wheþer is not he þe sone of Jeroboal, and set a prince, Zebul his feruaunt, vpon þe men of Emor, þe fader of Sichem? Whi þanne shulen we ferue to hym?
xxix Wolde God eny man ȝeue þis puple vnder myn hoond, and I shulde doo a wey fro þe mydil Abymalech. And it is feid to Abymalech, Gedre a multitude of ooft, and com.
xxx Forſoþe Zebul, þe prince of þe cytee, herd þe wordis of Gaal, þe sone of Obed, is ful wroþ; xxxi and fente preueli to Abymalech messagers, seiyng, Loo! Gaal, þe sone of Obed, cam into Siccam wiþ his briþeren, 'and aȝen fiȝtiþ þe cytee aȝens þee; xxxii aryse also þe nyȝt wiþ þe puple, þat is wiþ þee, and lurk in þe feeld; xxxiii and firſt eerli ryſyng þe funne, fal vpon þe cite; forſoþe hym goyng out aȝens þee wiþ his puple, do to hym þat þow mayſt.
xxxiv And so Abymalech wiþ al his ooft roos þe nyȝt, and sette bushementis biſide Siccam, in foure placis.
xxxv And Gaal, þe sone of Obed, wente out, and stood in þe entre of þe ȝate of þe cytee. Forſoþe Abymalech roos, and al þe ooft wiþ hym, fro þe place of þe bushementis.
xxxvi And whanne Gaal hadde seen þe puple, he feide to Zebul, Loo! fro þe hillis a multitude descendiþ. To whom he anſwerde, Pe fhadewis of hillis þow feest as mennis heedis, and by þis errour þou art defseyued.

xxxvii And eft Gaal seiþ, Loo! þe puple fro þe nouel of þe erþe comeþ doun, and o cumpayne commenþ bi þe weye þat bisholdiþ þe ook.
 xxxviii To whom seide Zebul, Where is nowe þi mowþ, bi þe which þou speek, Who is Abymalech, þat we feruen to hym? Wheþer is not þis þe puple, whom þou despisedist? Go out, and fîȝt aȝens hym.
 xxxix Gaal þanne wente, abydyng þe puple of Sichemys, and fauȝte aȝens Abymalech.
 xl þe which purfuede hym fleynge, and in þe cytee preste; and þere fallen of þe parti of hym many vnto þe ȝate of þe cytee.
 xli And Abymalech sat in Rana; Zebul forsoþe Gaal and his felaws he putte out of þe cytee, ne in it he suffredre to dwelle.
 xlvi Panne þe day folowyng þe puple ȝede out into þe feeld; þe which whanne it was toold to Abymalech, xlvi he took his oost, and dyuydide in þre compaines, settynge busshementis in þe feeldis; and seyng þat þe puple wente out of þe cytee, he roos, and felle into hem wiþ his oost, xlviii aȝenfîȝtyng and biseegyng þe cytee. Forsoþe two compaines, opynly rennyng hidir and þidir bi þe feeld, þe aduersaries purfueden.
 xlvi Forsoþe Abymalech al þat day ouercam þe cytee, þe which he took, flayn þe dwellers of it, and it destryed, so þat salt in it he sprengide.
 xlvi þe which þing, whanne hadden herd þei þat dwelten in þe tour of Sychemys, wenent into þe temple of her god Beryth, where a boond of pees wiþ hym þei couenauntiden; and of it þe place took name, þe which was greetli strengþid.
 xlvii And Abymalech heryng þe men of þe tour of Sichemys togidre gedred in o glob, `or company, xlviii stiede vp into þe hil of Selmon wiþ al his puple;
 and takun to an axe he kytte of a braunce of a tree,
 and putte on þe shuldur beryng, he seide to felawis, Pat ȝe seen me doo, þat anoon doo ȝe.
 xlxi Panne ftryuyngly of þe trees kuttyng of braunchis bei foleweden þe duyk; þe whiche enuyrounynge þe place of focour, brenten vp; and so is doon, þat þur smook and fier a þowland men weren flayn, men togidre and wymmen, of þe dwellers of þe tour of Sichem.
 l Forsoþe Abymalech pens goyng cam to þe burgh toun Thebes, þe which enuyrounnyng bisegide wiþ oost.
 li Forsoþe þe tour was hiȝe in þe mydil cytee, to þe which flowen togidre men and wymmen, and alle þe princis of þe cytee, closid moost fastly þe ȝate; and vpon þe roof of þe tour stondynge by þe pynnaclis.
 lii And Abymalech comynge nyȝ biside þe tour fauȝt strongli, and neȝyng to þe dore, he was about to put vndir fyre;

liii and, loo! a womman þe brekyng of a mylnstoon from aboue þrowynge hurtlde to þe heed of Abymalech, and brak his brayn.
 liiii þe which clepide anoon his squyer, and seiþ to hym, Drawe out þi swerd, and smyte me, leſt perauenture it be seid, þat of a womman I am flayn. þe which, fulfilyng þe heest, flewȝ him; lv and him flayn, alle þat wiþ hym weren of Yrael ben turned aȝen to her feetis.
 lii And God ȝeeldide þe yuel þat Abymalech dide aȝens his fader, flayn his feuenti breþeren. lvii And to þe Sichemys is ȝoldun þat þei wrouȝten, and is comen vpon hem þe curfyng of Joatham, sone of Jeroboal.

Capitulum X.

i Aftir Abymalech roos a duyk in Yrael, Thola, þe sone of Phua, þe faders broþir of Abymalech, a man of Ysachar, þat dwellide in Sanyr, of þe hil of Effraym; ii and he demyde Israel þre and twenti ȝeer, and he is deed, and biried in Sanyr.
 iii To whom cam after Jayr Galadites, þat demede Israel bi two and twenti ȝeer; iv hauyng þreti sones, fittyng vpon þreti coltis of assis, and princis of þreti cytees, þe whiche of þe name of hym ben clepid Anochiayr, þat is, þe burghis of Jayr, vnto þe day þat is nowe, in þe loond of Galaad.
 v And Jayr is deed, and biryed in þe place to þe which is þe name Camon.
 vi Forsoþe þe sones of Yrael to oold synnes ioynynge newe, diden yuels in þe fîȝt of þe Lord, and ferueden to mawmettis, Baalym and Astaroth, and to goddis of Syrye, and of Sidon, and of Moab, and of þe sones of Amon, and of Philistiy; and þei laften þe Lord, and heryeden not hym.
 vii Aȝens whom þe Lord wexe wroþ, and took hem into þe hoondis of Philistiy, and of þe sones of Amon.
 viii And þei ben tormentid, and hidously oppresſid bi eiȝteen ȝeer, alle þat dwelliden biȝonde Jordan in þe loond of Amorre, þat is in Galaad, ix in so mych, þat þe sones of Amon, Jordan ouerpasseſid, wastiden Judam and Beniamyn and Effraym; and Yrael is tormentid wel myche.
 x And criyng to þe Lord þei seiden, We han synned to þee, for we han forsakun oure God, and ferueden to Baalym.
 xi To whom þe Lord spak, Wheþer not þe Egipciens, and Amorreis, and þe sones of Amon, and of Philistiy,
 xii Sidoneus forsoþe, and Amalech, and Chanaan oppresſiden ȝou, and ȝe han cried to me, and Y haue delyueryd ȝou fro þe hoondis of hem?

xiii And neuerþelater ȝe han forsake me, and heried alien goddis; þerfor I shal not adde, þat eny more I delyuer ȝou.
 xiv Goþ, and inwardli clepiþ þe goddis 'þe whiche ȝe han chosen; delyuer ȝei ȝou in þe tyme of angwisch.
 xv And þe fones of Yrael seiden to þe Lord, We han synned; ȝeeld þow to vs what euere þing plesiþ to ȝee; oneli nowe delyuer vs.
 xvi ȝe whiche ledynge alle þingis fro her cooftis, þrewen out þe mawmettis of alien goddis, and ferueden to þe Lord; þe which forewide vpon þe wrecchidnes of hem.
 xvii And so þe fones of Amon criyng togidre in Galaad piȝten tentis, aȝens whom þe fones of Yrael gedryd in Masphat settent tentis.
 xviii And þe princis of Galaad seiden eche to his neigbors, He, þat first of ȝou aȝen þe fones of Amon bigynneþ to fiȝt, shal be þe duyk of þe puple of Galaad.

Capitulum XI.

i There was also in þat tyme Jeptee Galadites, a man moost strong and fyȝter, þe sone of a womman strompet, þat is born of Galaad.
 ii Forsoþe Galaad hadde a wif, of whom he took fones, þe whiche aftirward þat bei weren waxen, kesten out Jeptee, feiyng, Eyre in þe hows of oure fader þou shalt not mowe be, for of avowtress modir þou art born.
 iii Whom he fleynge and shonnyng dwellide in þe loond of Tob; and þere ben gedrid to hym ned men and stelynge, and as prince þei sueden.
 iv In þoo days fouȝten þe fones of Amon aȝens Yrael; v þe whiche þarpli instoodynge, þe more þurȝ birþ wenten fro Galaad for to take into her help Jeptee of þe loond of Tob; vi and þei seiden to hym, Com, and be oure prince, and fiȝt aȝens þe fones of Amon.
 vii To whom he answeerde, Ben not ȝe, þat hatiden me, and kesten out fro þe hows of my fader, and nowe ȝe ben comen to me þurȝ nede constreyned?
 viii And þe princis of Galaad seiden to Jepte, For þis caufe þanne nowe to þee we ben comen, þat þou goo wiþ vs, and fiȝt aȝens þe fones of Amon, and be duyk of alle þat dwellen in Galaad.
 ix Forsoþe Jeptee seide to hem, If vereyli ȝe ben comen to me, þat I fiȝte for ȝow aȝen þe fones of Amon, and þe Lord take hem into myn hoondis, shal Y be ȝoure prync?
 x þe whiche answerden to hym, þe Lord, þat þes þingis heriþ, he meene and witnes is, þat oure biheefstis we shulen doo.
 xi And so Jeptee ȝede wiþ þe princis of Galaad, and þe puple made hym þeir prince; and Jeptee spak alle his wordis before þe Lord in Maspha.

xii And he fente messagers to þe kyng of þe fones of Amon, 'þe which of his persone shulde seye, What to me and to þee is, for þou art comun aȝens me, þat þou waste my loond?'
 xiii To whom he answeerde, For Yrael took my loond, whanne he stiede vp fro Egipt, fro þe cooftis of Arnon vnto Jaboth and Jordan, nowe þanne wiþ pees ȝeeld to me it.
 xiv Bi whom eft Jeptee fente, and comaundide to hem, þat þei shulden seye to þe kyng of Amon, xv Pes þingis seiþ Jeptee, Yrael took not þe loond of Moab, ne þe loond of þe fones of Amon; xvi but whanne fro Egipt þei styeden, he ȝede bi wildernes vnto þe Reed See, and cam into Cades; xvii and he fente messagers to þe kyng of Edom, feiyng, Let me, þat I passe bi þi loond; þe which wold not assente to his preiers. And he fente to þe kyng of Moab, þe which and he dispiside to ȝyue passyng; and so he abood in Cades, xviii and enuyrounde afide þe loond of Edom, and þe loond of Moab; and he cam to þe eest coof of þe loond of Moab, and he sette tentis biȝonde Arnon, and he wold not entre þe teermys of Moab; forsoþe Arnon is niȝ coof to þe loond of Moab.
 xix And so Yrael fente messagers to Seon, þe kyng of Ammorreis, þat dwellide in Esebon; and seide to hym, Leete me, þat Y passe bi þi loond vnto þe flood.
 xx þe which and he, dispisyng þe wordis of Yrael, leete hym not passe bi his teermys, but a multitude wiþ outen eend gedrid wente out aȝens hym into Geffa, and strongli wiþftood.
 xxi And þe Lord took hym into þe hoondis of Yrael wiþ al his oost; þe which smoot hym, and weeldide al þe loond of Ammorree, þe dweller of þat regiouin, xxii and al þe coftus of it fro Arnon vnto Jaboch, and fro þe wildernes vnto Jordan.
 xxiii þe Lord þan God of Yrael turnede vpsedoun Amorre, fiȝtyng aȝens hym to his puple Yrael. And þou nowe wolt weelde þe loond of hym?
 xxiv Wheþer not þoo þingis, 'þe whiche weeldiþ Camos, þi god, to þee þurȝ riȝt ben owid? Forsoþe þingis þat þe Lord oure God ouercomer heelde, in oure possellioun shulen falle;
 xxv but perauenture þow be betere þan Baalach, þe sone of Sephor, kyng of Moab, opere þou mayft teche, þat he stroue aȝens Yrael, and fauȝte aȝens hym, xxvi whanne he dwelte in Esebon, and in þe litil touns of it, and in Aroer and hys litil touns, and in alle þe cytees beȝonde Jordan, by þre hundred ȝeer. Whi so mych tyme no þing vpon þis askynge þou asaydist?
 xxvii þerfor I synne not in þee, but þou aȝens me doſt yuel, bryngyng into me bataylys not ryȝtwise; deme þe Lord, domylman of þis day, bitwexe Yrael and þe fones of Amon.

xxviii And þe kyng of þe sones of Amon wold not assente to þe wordis of Jeptee, 'þe whiche bi messagers he fente.
 xxix Panne is doon vpon Jeptee þe spyrif of þe Lord, and he enuyrounnynge Galaad and Manasse, Maspha and Galaad, and þens paffynge to þe sones of Amon, xxx he vowede avowe to þe Lord, seiyng, If þou takist þe sones of Amon into myn hoondis, xxxi who so euere first were gon out fro þe ȝatis of myn hous, and aȝen comeþ to me turnyng aȝen wiþ pees fro þe sones of Amon, I shal offre hym brent sacrifice to þe Lord.
 xxxii And Jeptee paffide forþ to þe sones of Amon, for to fiȝte aȝens hem, whom þe Lord took into þe hoondis of hym; xxxiii and he smoot fro Aroer for to þat þou come into Mennyth, twenti citees, and vnto Abel, þat is wiþ vynes set, wiþ a wel greet veniaunce; and þe sones of Amon ben mekid of þe sones of Yrael.
 xxxiv Forsoþe to Jeptee turnyng aȝens into Maspha, his hous, aȝencam to hym his oonli goten douȝter wiþ tymbrys and chorys; forsoþe he hadde noon oper free children.
 xxxv Pe whiche seen, he kitte his cloþis, and seip, Allas! douȝter myn, þou haft difseyued me, and bi self art difseyued; forsoþe Y haue openyd my mouȝt to þe Lord, and I shal not mowe doo oper þing.
 xxxvi To whom she answeerde, Fader myn, if þou haft openyd bi mouȝt to þe Lord, do to me what euere þing þou haft bihooot, grauntid to þee veniaunce and victorye of þin enemyes.
 xxxvii And she feide to þe fader, Þis oonli ȝif to me, þat I praye; leete me, þat two monþis Y enuyroun þe hillis, and weyle my maydenhod wiþ my felawis.
 xxxviii To whom he answeerde, Go. And he lafte hir two monþis. And whanne she was goon wiþ felawis and hir compeers, she wepte hyr maydenhod in þe hillis.
 xxxix And fulfillid two monþis, she is turned aȝen to hir fader, and he dyde to hire, as he auowide; þe whiche knewe not man. Perfor maner spronge in Yrael, and vsage is kept, xl þat after þe ferle of o ȝeer þe douȝtris of Yrael comen to gidre in oon, and weylen þe douȝter of Jeptee Galadyte foure dayes.

Capitulum XII.

i Loo! forsoþe in Effraym is sprongun a debate; forsoþe þe goers aȝen þe norþ feiden to Jeptee, Whi goyng to be fiȝt aȝens þe sones of Amon þou woldist not clepe vs, þat we wenten wiþ þee? Perfor we shulen brenne þin hows.
 ii To whom he answeerde, An hydows debate was to me and my puple aȝen þe sones of Amon, and ȝow Y clepyde, for ȝe shulden ȝyue help to me, and ȝe wolden not doon.

iii Pe which biholdynge Y putte in myn hondis my lijf, and Y paffide to þe sones of Amon, and þe Lord took hem into myn hoondis; what haue Y differued, þat aȝens me ȝe ryfen into batayl?
 iv And so clepid to him alle þe men of Galaad, he fauȝt aȝens Effraym; and þe men of Galaad smyten Effraym; for he feide, Fugitiue is Galaad fro Effraym, and dwelliþ in mydil of Effraym and Manasse.
 v And Galadites men occupiden þe forþis of Jordan, bi whiche Effraym was for to turne aȝen. And whanne a man of þe noumber of Effraym fleynge was comyn to þo fordis, and hadde seyde, Y preye, þat ȝe leten me paffe; Galaaditis feiden to hym, Wheþer art þou an Effrate? Pe which seiyng, Y am not, vi þei askiden hym, Seye þanne Sebolech, þat is to mene, an eere. Pe which answeerde, Shebolech, bi þe fame lettre an eere not myȝti to bryngen out. And anoon takyn bei kyttiden his þroot in þat goyng ouer Jordan; and þere fallen in þat tyme of Effraym two and fourti bowlandis.
 vii And so Jeptee demyde Galaadites of Yrael sexe ȝeer; and he is deed, and biryed in his citee of Galaad.
 viii After bis demyde Yrael Abethfan of Bethleem, ix þat hadde pretti sones, and so feele douȝtris, þe whiche sendyng out to housbondis he ȝaf, and of þe same noumber to his sones he took wyues, bryngynge yn to his hows; þe whiche feuen ȝeer demyde Yrael, x deed, and byryed in Bethlehem.
 xi To whom cam aftir Degelon Zabulonyt, and demyde Yrael ten ȝeer, xii and is deed, and byryed in Zabulon.
 xiii After hym demyde Yrael Abdom, þe sone of Elel, Pharaton;

xiv þe which hadde fourty sones, and pretti of hem sones sones, stiynge vp vpon feuenti coltis of assis, and he demyde Yrael eiȝt ȝeer;
 xv and he is deed, and biryed in Pharaton, þe loond of Effraym, in þe hil of Amalech.

Capitulum XIII.

i And eft þe sones of Yrael diden yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, þe which took hem in to þe hoondis of þe Philisteins fourti ȝeer.
 ii And þere was a maner man of Saraa, and of þe lynage of Dan, Manue bi name, hauyng a wijf bareyn.
 iii To whom aperyde þe aungel of þe Lord, and feide to hyre, Bareyn þou art, and wiþ out free children; but þou shalt conseyue, and bere a sone.
 iv Be war þanne, left þou drynke wyn and siper, ne eny þing vnclene þou eete;
 v for þou shalt conseyue, and bere a sone, whos heed shal no rasure towche; forsoþe he shal be a Nazare of God from his childhod, and fro þe wombe of þe moder; and he shal bygynne to delyuer Yrael fro þe hoond of þe Philistiens.

vi þe which, whanne she was comen to hire housbond, feide to hym, A man of God cam to me, hauyng an aungelis chere, feerful wel myche; whom whanne Y hadde askid, who he was, and whennus he was comen, and what name he were clepid, he wolde not to me feye;

vii but þus he answerde, Loo! þou shalt conseyne, and bere a sone; be war þat þou drynke no wyn ne ſiper, ne eete eny þing vnclene; forſoþe he shal be a Nazare child of þe Lord, fro his ȝonȝþ and fro þe wombe of þe moder into þe day of his deep.

viii And so Manue preyede þe Lord, and ſeȝþ, Y bifeche, Lord, þat þe man of God, 'þe whiche þou ſentist, com eft, and teche vs, what we Owen to doo of þe child, þat is to be born.

ix And þe Lord herde Manue preyng; and eft aperide þe aungel of þe Lord to his wif fittyng in þe feed; forſoþe Manue hir housboond was not wiþ hir.

x þe which, whanne she hadde ſeen þe aungel, hiede, and ranne to hir man, and tolde to hym, ſeynge, Loo! þe man aperide to me, whom before I ſawȝ.

xi þe which roos, and folewide his wif; and comynge to þe man he ſeide to hym, Art þow þe which ſpak to þe womman? And he ansverde, Y am.

xii To whom Manue, Whanne, he ſeȝþ, þi word were fulfillid, what wolt þou, þat þe child doo, or fro what þing ſhal he kepe hym ſilf?

xiii And þe aungel of þe Lord ſeide to Manue, Fro alle þingis þat Y ſpak to þi wif, abſteine he hym.

xiv And what euer þing growiþ of þe vyn eete he not, wyn and ſipir drynk he not, noon vnclene þing eete he; and þat Y haue comaundid to hym, fulfill he and kepe.

xv And so Manue ſeide to þe aungel of þe Lord, Y bifeche þee, þat þou aſſente to my preiers, and we make to þee a kidde of þe ſhe geet.

xvi To whom ansverde þe aungel, If þou me confreyneſt, Y ſhal not eete þi looues; forſoþe if þou wolt doo brent ſacrifice, offre þou þat to þe Lord. And Manue wift not, þat it was þe aungel of þe Lord.

xvii And he ſeide to hym, What is name to þee, þat if þi word were fulfillid, we doon worſhip to þee?

xviii To whom he ansverde, Whi alkiſt þou my name, þat is merueylous?

xix And so Manue took a kidde of þe geet, and ſacrifices of licours, and putte vpon þe ſtoon, offryng to þe Lord þat doþ merueylous þingis. Forſoþe he and þe wif of hym biheelden.

xx And whanne þe flawme of þe auſter ſtiede into heuene, þe aungel of þe Lord togidre in þe flawme ſtiede vp. þe which þing whanne Manue hadde ſeen and his wif, redi þei fallen into þe erþe.

xi And na more to hym aperide þe aungel of þe Lord. And anoon Manue vndurſtood to be þe aungel of þe Lord.

xxii And he ſeide to hys wif, Bi deeþ die we, for we han ſeen þe Lord.

xxiii To whom anſwerde þe womman, If þe Lord wold flee vs, of oure hoondis brent ſacrifice and offryngis of licours he wold not haue take; but alle þes þingis he wold not haue ſhewid to vs, ne þo þingis þat ben to com haue feid.

xxiv And so she beere a child, and clepide þe name of him Sampson; and þe child wexe, and þe Lord bleſſide to hym.

xxv And þe ſpyrit of þe Lord began to be wiþ hym in þe tentis of Dan, bitwix Saraa and Eſkahol.

Capitulum XIII.

i Sampſon þanne deſſendide in Thannatha, and feynge þere a womman of þe douȝtris of Philistien, ii ſtiede vp, and tolde to his fader and his moder, ſeynge, Y ſawȝ a womman in Thannatha of þe douȝtris of Philistiens, whom, Y bifeche, þat þou take to me wif.

iii To whom ſeiden þe fader and his moder, Wheþer is þere no womman in þe douȝtres of þi briþeren and in al þi puple, for þou wolt take a wif of Philistien, þat ben vncircumcidid? And Sampſon ſeide to his fader, Þis tak to me, for ſhe pleſide to myn eyen.

iv His fader and moder wiften not, þat þe þing ſhulde be doo of þe Lord; and he ſhulde ſeche occaſion aȝens þe Philistien; forſoþe þat tyme Philistien lordſhipide to Yrael.

v And so Sampſon deſſendide wiþ his fader and moder in to Thannatha; and whanne þei weren comen to þe vynes of þe Bourȝ toun, and þere aperide a feers whelp of a lyoun and rorynge, and aȝen cam to hym.

vi þe ſpyrit of þe Lord forſoþe felle into Sampſon, and he taar þe lioun, as he ſhulde to-teeṛ out a kide, into gobetis, no þing vtterli hauyng in hoond; and þat to fader and moder he wold not ſhewe.

vii And he deſſendide, and ſpak to þe womman, þat pleſide to his eyen.

viii And after a fewe days turnyng aȝen for to take hir, he wente aside for to ſe þe careyn of þe lioun; and loo! a swarm of beeſe was in þe mouȝ of þe lioun, and an hony coombe.

ix þe which whanne he hadde takun in hoondis, he ete in þe weye; and comynge to his fader and moder, he ȝaf to hem part, þe which and þei eten; and neuerþelater he wolde not ſhewe to hem, þat þe hony he took of þe mouȝ of þe lioun.

x And so his fader deſſendide to þe womman, and made to his ſone Sampſon a feest; forſoþe ſo ȝong men weren wont to doo.

xi Whanne þanne þe cyteſeyns of þat place hadden ſeen him, þei ȝouen to him bord felawis þretti, 'þe whiche ſhulden be wiþ hym.

xii To whom spak Sampson, Y shal purpose to ȝow a dawtous word, þe which if ȝe soylen to me wiþ ynne seuen dais of þe feest, Y shal ȝyue to ȝou þretti lynnен cloþis, and so fele cootis;

xiii forsoþe if ȝe mowen not affoyle, ȝe shulen ȝyue to me þretty lynnен cloþis, and of þe fame noumbrе cootis. Pe whiche answerten to hym, Purpos þe probleme, þat we heren.

xiv And he seide to hem, Of þe eter ȝede out meeþe, and of þe strong wente out swetnes. And þei miȝten not bi þre days soylen þe propoficioun.

xv And whanne þe seuenþe day was nyȝ, þei seiden to þe wif of Sampson, Faage to þi man, and meue hym, þat he shewe to þee what bitokeneþ þe probleme. Pe which þing if þou wold not doo, we shulen brenne þee and þe hows of þi fader. Wheþer þerfor ȝe han clepid vs to þe brydale for to robbien?

xvi Pe which Ihedde anentis Sampson teeris, and pleynede, seiyng, Pow hatidist me, and not louest, and þerfor þe redels, þat pow hast purposid to be fones of my purple, þou wolt not to me expowne. He answerten, To my fadir and moder I wold not feye, and to þe shal I mowe shewe?

xvii Perfor seuen days of þe feest she wepte anentis hym, at þe last þe seuenþe dai whanne she was heuy to hym, he expownede. Pe which anoon tolde to his citefeyns.

xviii And þei seiden to him þe seuenþe day before þe funne goynge doun, What is swetter þan hony, and what is stronger þan a lyoun? Pe which seide to hem, If ȝe hadden not erid in my she calf, ȝe shulden not haue founden my propoficioun.

xix And so þe spyrtyt of þe Lord felle into hym; and he wente doun to Aschalonen, and he smoot þere pretti men, of whom þe takun cloþis he ȝaf to hem þat þe redilis foileden; and wroþ wel myche he stiede vp into þe hows of his fader.

xx Forsoþe þe wif of hym took an housboond, oon of his freendis and wowers.

Capitulum XV.

i Aftir a litil forsoþe of tyme, whanne þe dais of whete rypynge stooden yn, cam Sampson wilnynge to se his wif, and he brouȝte to his a kide of þe she geet; and whanne he wold goo into þe bedde of his, as he was wont, þe fadir of his defendide hym, ii seiyng, Y wende þat þou haddist hatid hyr, and þerfor Y took his to þi freend; but she haþ a syster, þat is ȝonger and feyrer þan she, be she to þee for his a wif.

iii To whom Sampson answerte, Fro þis day blame shal not be in me aȝens þe Philistiens, Y shal do to ȝow forsoþe yuels.

iv And he ȝede, and took þre hundryd foxys, and þe taylis of hem he ioynede to þe taylis, and broondis he boond in 'þe myddil, v þe whiche teendynge wiþ fier he lafte, and hidir and þidir þei runnen; þe whiche anoon wenten into þe cornys of þe Philistiens, þe whiche sette a fier, and þe fruytis, now brouȝt to gidre, and þe ȝit stoondynge in þe stobil, ben brent, in so mych þat vynes and olyues þe flawm waftide.

vi And þe Philistiens seiden, Who haþ doon þis þing? To whom it is seide, Sampson, þe sone in lawe of Thannath, for he took his wif, and ȝaf to another, þes þingis he haþ wrouȝt. And þe Philistiens stieden vp and brenten as wel þe womman as his fader.

vii To whom seip Sampson, Al be it þat þes þingis ȝe han doon, neuerþelater ȝit of ȝou Y shal aske a veniaunce, and þanne Y shal reste.

viii And he smoot hem wiþ a greet veniaunce, so þat astonyinge þei putten on þe calf of þe leg to þe hipe; and he deffendynge dwellide in þe spelunk of þe stoon of Ethan.

ix Pan Philistiens stiynge vp into þe loond of Juda settin tentis in þe place, 'þe which afterward is clepid Lethi, þat is, a cheek boon, where þe ooft of hem is hellid.

x And þei of þe lynage of Juda seiden to hem, Whi han ȝe stied vp aȝens vs? Pe whiche answerten, þat we bynden Sampson we ben comen, and we ȝeelden to hym þat in vs he haþ wrouȝt.

xi Panne þre þousand of men of Juda deffendiden to þe den of þe flynt of Ethan; and þei seiden to Sampson, Wolt þou not, þat þe Philistiens comaunden to vs? Whi þis þing woldist þou doo? To whom he seip, As þei diden to me, Y dide to hem.

xii To bynden þee, þei seyn, we ben comen, and to take into þe hoondis of Philistiens. To whom answerten Sampson, Swerip, and bihotip to me, þat ȝe shulen not flee me.

xiii And þei seiden, We shulen not flee þee, but bounden we shulen ȝyue. And þei bounden hym wiþ two newe coordis, and token hym fro þe stoon of Ethan.

xiv Pe which whanne was comen to þe place of þe cheek boon, and Philistiens criyng out weren aȝen comen to hym, þe spyrtyt of þe Lord felle into him, and as ben wont at þe smelle of fier trees to be waastid, so and þe boondis, wiþ þe whiche he was bounden, ben scaterid and loosid.

xv And takynge a foundun cheek boon, þat is, þe cheeklap of an asse, þat lay, he flewȝ wiþ it a þousand men;

xvi and seip, In þe cheek boon of an asse, þat is, in þe iow of þe colt of assis, I haue doon hem a wey, and smyten a þousand men.

xvii And whanne þes wordis syngynge he hadde fulfillid, he þrewe a wey þe iow fro þe hoond; and he clepide þe name of þat place Ramathlei, þat is to mene, þe heuynge vp of þe cheek boon.

xvii And þrestynge wel mych he criede to þe Lord, and seip, Pou hast ȝeuen in þe hoond of þi seruaunt þis moost helþe and victorie; and loo! for þrest I dye, and I shal falle into þe hoondis of þe vncircumeidid.
xix And so þe Lord opnede a woong tooþ in þe cheek boon of þe ase, and watriis wenten out of it, þe whiche drunkun he fedde þe spiryt, and strengþis took aȝen; and þerfor is clepid þe name of þat place a Welle of þe inwardli clepynge fro þe cheek boon vnto þis day þat is nowe.
xx And he demyde Yrael in þe dais of þe Philistiens twenti ȝeuer.

Capitulum XVI.

i He ȝede forsoþe into Gazam, and þere he sawȝ a womman strompet, and wente yn to hir.
ii Þe which þing whanne Philistiens hadden seen, and was pupplishid anentis hem, Sampson to haue comen into þe citee, þei segeden hym about, kepers put in þe ȝatis of þe citee; and þere al nyȝt wiþ silence abidyng, þat þe morwetide comen him goyng out þei myȝten flee.
iii Forsoþe Sampson slept vnto mydnyȝt; and þens ryfynge he took boþ leeues of þe ȝate, wiþ her postes and lok; and put on þe shuldres he beer to þe cop of þe hil þat biholdiþ Ebron.
iv After þes þingis he louede a woman þat dwellide in þe valey of Soreth, and she was clepid Dalida.
v And þere camen to hyr princis of Philistiens, and feiden, Bigijl hym, and lern of hym, in what he haþ so myche strengþ, and in what maner wife hym we mowen ouercome, and bounden tourmente; þe which þing if þou doft, we shulen ȝyue to þee ech a þousand hundrid platis of siluer.
vi Panne Dalyda spak to Sampson, Sey to me, I biseche, in what is bi moost strengþ, and what þing be wiþ þe which boundun þou maist not breek?
vii To whom answarde Sampson, If wiþ ȝeuen senewy coordis not ȝit dried and ȝit moylt Y were boundun, Y shal be feble as ober men.
viii And þe princis of þe Philistiens brouȝten to hir ȝeuen coordis, as she feide; wiþ þe whiche she bounden hym, ix lurkyng anentis hir bufflementis, and in þe bed place abidyng þe ende of þe þing. And she criede to him, Philistien vpon þee, Sampson! Þe which brak þe boondis, in what maner wife a man wold breeke þe breed of a top of flexe, þat is sponnen wiþ spotel, whanne þe smelle of fier it haþ takun; and it is not knowun in what þing his strengþ was.
x And Dalida feide to hym, Loo! þow haft bigilid me, and fals þou haft spokyn; namely nowe shewe to me, wiþ what þing þow owilst to be boundun.

xii To whom he answarde, If I were boundun wiþ newe coordis, 'þe whiche weren not ȝit in werk, I shal be feble, and of ober men lijk.
xiii Wiþ þe which eft Dalida boond him, and criede, Philistien vpon þee, Sampson! in þe bed place bufflementis maad redi. Þe which so brak þe boondis as þredis of webbis.
xvii And Dalida eft seide to hym, Howe long shalt þou bigile me, and fals þow shalt speek? Shewe where wiþ þou owilst to be boundun. To whom answarde Sampson, he seip, If ȝeuen heerys of myn heed wiþ warp þreed þou plattist, and a nayl wiþ hem about bounden to þe erþe þow ficchist, I shal be feble.
xviii Þe which þing whanne Dalida hadde doo, she feide to hym, Philistien vpon þee, Sampson! Þe which aryfynge fro sleep, drowȝ out þe nayl, wiþ heiris and warp.
xix And Dalida seide to hym, What maner wife þou seist, þat þou louest me, whanne þin ynwit is not wiþ me? Bi þre ſibis þou haft lowen to me, and þou woldist not seye to me, in what þing is þi moost strengþ.
xvi And whanne she was heuy to hym, and bi manye dais to hym bisili cleuede, space to refeten not ȝyuyng, hyre liȝt failide, and vnto þe deeþ is feblid.
xvii Panne openyngе þe trewþ of þe þing, he feide to hir, Yren neuer wente vpon myn heed, for þi Nazare, þat is, facrid to þe Lord, Y am fro þe wombe of my moder; if myn heed were shauen, my strengþ shal goon awey fro me, and shal fayl, and be as ober men.
xviii And she feyng þat he hadde knowlechid to hir al his inwit, she fente to þe princis of Philistiens, and badde, Styre ȝe vp ȝyȝt oons, for nowe to me he haþ openyd his herte. Þe whiche stieden vp, takun to þe money þat þei bihiȝten.
xix And she made hym sleep vpon hir knees, and in her bosum to leyn þe heed; and she clepide þe barbour, and he shoofe ȝeuen heiris of hym; and she biganne to browe hym awey, and fro hir to putte; forsoþe anoon strengþ fro hym wente.
xx And she feide, Philistiens vpon þee, Sampson! Þe which fro sleep ryfynge, feide in his inwit, I shal goo out, as I dide before, and me I shal shaaake out; vnknowinge þat þe Lord was goon awey fro hym.
xxi Whom whanne Philistiens hadden cauȝt, anoon þei drewen out his eyen, and ladden hym boundun wiþ cheyns to Gazam, and cloſid in prisoun þei maden to grynde.
xxii And nowe his heiris bigunnen to growe aȝen;
xxiii and þe princis of Philistiens camen to gidre in oon, for to offre oofis of greet worship to Dagon, her god, and for to eete, seyinge, Oure god haþ takun oure enemye Sampson into oure hoondis.
xxiv Þe which allo þe puple leyng preyfleden her god, and þe fame þing feiden, Oure god haþ taken into oure hoondis oure aduersarie, 'þe which haþ doon a wey oure loond, and flayn many.

xxv And þei ioynge bi feestis, nowe taken meetis, þei comaundiden, þat Sampson shulde be clepid, and biforn hem pleye; þe which lad out fro þe prisoun pleyde beforne hem; and þei maden hym stondit bitwen two pileers.

xxvi Þe whiche seide to þe child gouernynge his goyngis, Leet me, þat I towche þe pileers on þe whiche stoondit al þe hows, þat Y lene vpon hem, and a litil while reste.

xxvii Forsoþe þe hows was ful of men and of wymmen, and þere weren þe princis of Philistiens, and of þe roof and soleer abouthe þre þowfand of eiper kynde, bidyng Sampson pleynge.

xxviii And he seip, þe Lord inwardli clepid, Lord, my God, haue mynde of me, and ȝeeld to me nowe þe fornhad strengþ, my God, þat I wreche me on myn enemyes, and for þe lesyng of two liȝtis o veniaunce I take.

xxix And catchyng þe twey pileers, to þe whiche al þe hows stood, and þe toþer of hem wiþ þe riȝt, and þe toþer wiþ þe left holdynge, xxx seip, Die my liȝf wiþ Philistien! And þe pileers strongly smyten to gidere, þe hows felle vpon alle þe princis, and þe toþir multitude, þat þere was; and many mo he flewȝ diynge, þan beforne he flewȝ on lyue.

xxxi And his breþeren comynge doun, and al his kynrede, token hys bodi, and byrieden it bitwix Saraa and Eschahol, in þe brielis of his fader Manue; and he demyde Yrael twenti ȝeer.

Capitulum XVII.

i A maner man þere was in þat tyme of þe hil of Effraym, Mychas bi name.

ii Þe which seide to his moder, Þe þousand hundryd platis of siluer, 'þe whiche þow feueredist to þee, and vpon þe whiche me herynge þou swore, loo! Y haue, and anentis me ben. To whom the answerde, Bleſſid my sone to be Lord.'

iii Panne he ȝeeldide hem to his moder; þe which seide to hym, I haue sacrid and auowid þis siluer to be Lord, þat of myn hoond my sone tak, and mak a grauen þing and a ȝotun; and now I take it to þee.

iv Panne he ȝeeld to his moder; þe which took two hundrid platis of siluer, and ȝaf hem to þe siluer smiþ, þat he make of hem a grauen þing and a ȝotun, þe which was in þe hows of Mychee.

v Þe which a litil hows forsoþe in it to God feuerde; and made a coope, and theraphyn, þat is, þe preftis cloop, and mawmettis; and he fulfillid þe hoond of oon of his sones, and he is maad to hym a preft.

vi In þo dais was no kyng in Israel, but echon, what femyd to hym riȝt, þat he dide.

vii And þere was anoþer ȝonglyng of Bethlem of Juda, of þe kynrede of him, and he was a Leuyte, and dwellide þere.

viii And gon out of þe cytee of Bethlem pilgrimage he wold, where euere he founde profijt to hym. And whanne he was comen in to þe hil of Effraym, and weye makyng hadde bowid doun a litil in to þe hows of Myche, ix he is askid of hym, Whens comest þou? Þe which answerde, A Leuyte Y am of Bethlem of Juda, and I goo, þat I dwelle where I shal mowe, and biholde to be profitable to me.

x Dwel, he seip, anentis me, and be to me fader and preft; and I shal ȝyue to þee bi eche ȝeer ten platis of siluer, and dowble clopinge, and what þingis ben necessarye to lifflod.

xi And he aſentide, and dwellyde anentis þe man; and was to hym as oon of þe sones.

xii And Mycha fulfillid þe hoond of hym, and hadde a child preft anentis hym, xiii seiyng, Nowe I woot, þat God wol doo wel to me, hauyng a preft of Leuytis kynde.

Capitulum XVIII.

i In þo days was no kyng in Yrael; and þe lynage of Dan souȝte posseſſioun to hym, þat he myȝte dwelle in it; forsoþe vnto þat day amouge oþere lynagis he hadde takun no lot.

ii Panne senten þe sones of Dannys stok, and of his meyne, fyue moost stronge men fro Saraa and Eschahol, þat þei aspien þe loond, and bisily biholden. And þei seiden to hem, Goþ, and biholdit þe loond. Þe whiche, whanne goyng þei weren comen into þe hil of Effraym, and weren goon into þe hows of Myche, þei restiden þere.

iii And knowynge þe voys of þe ȝonglyng Leuyte, and vfyng þe restyng place of hym, þei seiden to hym, Who brouȝte þe hidir? What here doft þow? For what cause hidir come þou woldist?

iv Þe which answerde to hem, Þes þingis and þes þingis Mychas haþ ȝeu[n] to me, and me bi meed haþ hyrid, þat I be to hym a preft.

v And þei preiden hym, þat he shulde counseyl þe Lord, and wite þei myȝten, wheþir welsum weye þei shulden goo, and þe þing shulde han effecte.

vi Þe which answerde to hem, Goþ wiþ pees, þe Lord haþ biholden ȝoure weye, and þe gaat þat ȝe goon.

vii And so goyng þe fyue men camen to Lachis; and þei seen þe purle dwellinge in it wiþouten eny drede, after þe vſage of Sydonyes, sikir and in rest, no man to hem vtterli wiþtondynge, and of greet ritchessis, and fer fro Sidon, and fro alle men feuerd.

viii And þei turneden aȝen to her briþeren in Saraa and Eschahol; and what þei hadde doo to hem aſkyng, ix þei answerden, Ryȝip, and stie we vp to hem; forsoþe we han seen þe loond ful riche and plenteuous; wolip not leeue, woleþ not ceese, goo we, and weeld we it; no traueyle it shal be;

x we shulen goo into þe sikyr, in to þe regyoun moost brood; and þe Lord shal taak to vs þe place, in which is scarsnesse of no þing of hem þat ben gotten in þe erþe.
xi Panne wenten of þe kynrede of Dan, þat is, of Saraa and Escahol, six hundrid men gird wiþ armes of werre.
xii And þei stiynge vp dwelliden in Cariathiarym of Jude, þe which place fro þat tyme took name of þe Tentis of Dan, and is bihynde þe bak of Kyriathiarym.
xiii þens þei paſſiden into þe hil of Effraym; and whanne þei weren comen to þe hows of Myche, xiv feiden þe fyue men, þat before hoond weren sent to þe loond of Lachis to ben biholden, to her ober briþeren, Knowe ȝe, þat in þes howſis be ephot, and theraphyn, and grauen þing and ȝoten; seeþ what plesiþ to ȝou.
xv And whanne a litil þei hadden bowid doun, þei wenten into þe hows of þe ȝonglynge Leuyte, þat was in þe hows of Myche, and þei salutiden hym wiþ pefible wordis.
xvi Forsoþe fixe hundrid men, so as þei weren armed, stoden before þe dore.
xvii And þei, þe whiche weren goon into þe hous of þe ȝong man, þe grauen þing and ȝoten, and ephot, and theraphyn þei enforſiden to taak; and þe preeſt stood before þe dore, þe fixe hundrid men moost stronge not ferre abidyng.
xviii Panne 'þo ilk þat entriden token þe grauen þing, ephot, and þe mawmetis, and þe ȝoten; to whom feide þe preeſt, What doon ȝe?
xix To whom þei anſwerden, Whist, and put fynger vpon þi mouþ, and com wiþ vs, þat we han þee fader and preeſt. Wheþer is it beter to þee, þat þou be a preeſt in þe hows of o man, oþir in o lynage and meyne in Yrael?
xx þe which þing whanne he hadde herd, he assentyde to þe wordis of hem, and took ephot, and þe grauen þing, and mawmetis, and wiþ hem wente.
xxi þe whiche whanne weren goon, and before hem hadden maad children and beestis to goon, and al þat was precious, xxii and now whanne fro þe hows of Myche þei weren ferre, þe men þat dwelliden in þe howſis of Myche, to gidre criyng folweden, xxiii and after þe bak bigunne to crien. þe whiche whanne þei hadden beholdun, þei feiden to Myche, What to þee wolt þow? whi criest þow?
xxiv þe whiche anſwerde, My goddis þat I made to me, ȝe han takun, and a preeſt, and alle þingis þat Y haue; and ȝe seyn, What is to þee?
xxv And þe sones of Dan feiden to hym, Be war, leſt eny more þou speke to vs, and men styred wiþ corage comen to þee, and þou þi ſilf wiþ al þin hows perishe.
xxvi And so þe bigunne weie þei wenten. Forsoþe Mycha feynge, þat þei weren strenger þan him ſelf, he turnyde aȝen into his hows.

xxvii Forsoþe fixe hundrid men token þe preeſt and þat we aboue feiden, and camen into Lachis to þe puple restyng and fiker; and þei smyten hem in mouþ of ſword, and þe cite wiþ brennyng he token, xxviii no man vtterly berynge ſokour, forþi þat ferre þei dwelten fro Sydon, and wiþ noon of men þei hadden eny þing of felawhip and of erand. Forsoþe þe citee was fet in þe regioun of Roob; þe which eft makynge out dwelliden in it;
xxix þe name of þe citee is clepid Dan after þe name of his fader, whom Israel gat, 'þe which before Lachis was feid.
xxx And þei putten to hem a grauen þing, and Jonathan, þe fone of Geron, fone of Moyſy, and þe fones of hym, preſtis in þe lynage of Dan, vnto þe day of his chetifite.
xxxi And þere dwellide anentis hem þe mawmet of Myche, al þe tyme þat þe hows of God was in Sylo.

Capitulum XIX.

i In þo days was no kyng in Yrael. A maner man Leuyte was dwellinge in þe ſide of þe hil of Effraym, þe which took a wif in Bethlem Juda.
ii þe which lafte hym, and is turned aȝen into his fader hows of Bethlem, and the dwellide anentis hym foure moneþis.
iii And his man folwede hyr, wolnyng to be reconſeild to his, and to ſoftli treten, and to bryngre aȝen wiþ hym; hauyng in ledynge a child, and two affis. þe which took hym, and brouȝte hym into þe hows of hyr fader; þat whanne his fader in lawe hadde herd him, and ſeen, glad he aȝens cam to hym, and clepide þe man.
iv And þe fone in lawe dwellide in þe hows of þe fader in lawe þre days, etynge and drynkyng wiþ hym homeli.
v Forsoþe þe ferþe day fro nyȝt ryfynge wold goo forþ; whom wiþ heelde þe fader in lawe, and ſeip to hym, Taſt raþer a litil of breed, and comfort þe stomak, and ſo þow ſhalt goo.
vi And þei ſeten, and eten to gidir, and dronken. And þe fader of þe womman ſeide to his fone in lawe, Y bifeche þee, þat þis day here þou dwelle, and to gider we gladen.
vii And he ryfyn ganne to wiln to goo forþ; and neuerþelater þe fader in lawe bifyl heelde hym aȝen, and anentis hym he made hym to dwelle.
viii Forsoþe erely bigunne þe Leuyte made redi þe weye; to whom þe fader in lawe eft, I bifeche, he ſeip, þat a litil of meet þou take, and ſtrengþis nomen to þe tyme þat ful ſprynge þe day, and after go þow forþ. þei eten þanne to gider.
ix And þe ȝonglynge roos for to goo wiþ his wif and child; to whom eft ſpak þe fader in lawe, Behold, þat þe day is more bowid to þe funne goyng doun, and neiȝeb to þe euen; dwel anentis me also þis day, and lede a myrye day, and to morwe þou shalt goo forþ, þat þou goo into þin hows.

x Þe sone 'in lawe wolde not assente to his wordis; but anoon wente, and cam azens Jebuse, þat bi anoþer name is clepid Jerufalem, ledyng wiþ hym two assis chargid, and a secoundarie wijf.

xi And nowe þei camen nyȝ biȝide Jebus, and þe day was turned into nyȝt. And þe child feide to his lord, Com, I biseche, and bowe we down to þe citee of Jebusees, and dwelle we in it.

xii To whom answarde þe lord, I shal not goo into þe burgh toun of an alien folk, þat is not of þe fones of Yrael, but I shal passe to Gaba; xiii and whanne þider I shal come, we shulen dwelle in it, opir certeyn in þe citee of Rama.

xiv Panne þei paſſiden Jebus, and þe bigunnen weie þei wenten. And þe funne wente doun to hem biȝide Gaba, þat is in þe lynage of Beniamyn;

xv and þei turnened biȝide to it, þat þei myȝten dwelle þere. Whider whanne þei entreden, þei feeten in þe strete of þe cytee, and no man hym wold refseyue in hows.

xvi And, loo! an oold man aperyde to hem turnyng aȝen fro þe feeld, and fro his werk at euen, þe which and he was of þe hil of Effraym, and a pilgrime dwellide in Gaba. Forsoþe þe men of þat regiouн weren þe fones of Gemyny.

xvii And areryd vp þe eyen, þe oold man sawȝ a man fittyng wiþ his litil chargis in þe strete of þe cytee, and feide to hym, Whens comest þow? and whidre goſt þow?

xviii þe which answarde to hym, We ben comen fro Bethlem Juda, and we goon to oure place, þat is in þe side of þe hil of Effraim, fro whennus we ȝeden to Bethlem; and nowe we goon to þe hows of God, and no man vndur his roof refseyue vs, xix hauyng chaf and hay into þe fodre of assis, and breed and wyn into myn, and of þin handmaydenys vñis, and of þe child þat is wiþ me; no þing we nedē, but hows.

xx To whom answarde þe oold man, Pees be wiþ þee; I shal make redi alle þingis, þat ben necessarye; oonli, I biseche, ne bide þow in þe strete.

xxi And he brouȝte hym into his hows, and fodre to assis he ȝaf; and after þat þei weſſhen her feet, he took hem into metþip.

xxii Hem etynge, and after þe traueyl of þe weye wiþ meet and drynke fillinge þe bodies, camen men of þat cytee, þe fones of Belial, þat is, wiþ outen ȝok, and enuyrownynge þe hows of þe oold man þei bigunnen to knoke þe ȝatis; criyng to þe lord of þe hows, and feyng, Bryng out þe man þat is goon into þin hows, þat we myſfen hym.

xxiii And þe oold man wente oute to hem, and seiþ, Wolip not, breþeren, wolip not doon þis yuel; for a man is goo into myn hows; and cees ȝe fro þis foly.

xxiv I haue a douȝter mayden, and þis man haþ a secoundarie wijf; I shal brynge hem out to ȝow, þat ȝe lowen hem, and ȝoure lust ȝe fulfil; oonli, I byſeche, ne þis hidows gilt azens kynde ȝe worchen in þe man.

xxv þei wolden not assente to his wordis; þe which þing biholdynge þe man broute out to hem his secoundarie wijf, and to hem he took hir to be scorned. þe which whanne al nyȝt þei hadden myſfid, þei laſten hir eerly.

xxvi And þe womman, goyng aweie þe derknessis, came to þe dore of þe hows, where dwellide hir lord, and þere she felle down.

xxvii þe morwe tide doon, þe man roos, and openede þe dore for to fulfil þe bigunne weye; and, loo! his secoundarie wijf lay at þe dore, ſpred þe hoondis in þe þrefwold.

xxviii To whom he wenynge hir to riste ſpak, Ryſe, and goo we. þe which no þing answeryng, vndurftondynge þat she was deed, took hir, and putte on þe aſſe; and he is turnyd aȝen into his hows.

xxix þe which whanne he was goon yn, he cauȝte a ſword, and þe careyn of þe wijf wiþ hir bonys in twelue parties and gobetis hewynge, he ſente into alle þe teermys of Yrael.

xxx þe which whanne alle þei hadden ſeen, þei crieden to gidre, Neuer ſiche þing is don in Israel, fro þat dai þat oure faders ſtieden vp fro Egipt vnto þe tym þat is nowe; ȝyueþ ſentens, and in comoun deme ȝe, what is nede to þe deed.

Capitulum XX.

i And þe fones of Yrael wenten out, and to gidre gedreden as o man, fro Dan vnto Bersabee, and fro þe loond of Galaad to þe hows of Mafpha;

ii and alle þe corneres of þupilis, and alle þe lynages of Yrael camen to gidre into þe chirche of þe puple of God, foure hundryd þowſandis of foot men fiȝters.

iii And it was not vnknowun to þe fones of Beniamyn, þat þe fones of Yrael hadden ſtied vp into Mafpha. And a Leuyte, þe houſboond of þe flayn womman, aſkid, what maner wyſe fo myche hidows gilt were doon, iv he answarde, I cam into Gabaa of Beniamyn wiþ my wijf, and þidre I turnede.

v And loo! þe men of þat cytee enuyrounden at nyȝt þe hows, in þe which Y dwelite, willyng to flee me, and my wijf traueylynge wiþ vntrowable woodnes of lust, and þefor she is deed.

vi þe which taken Y hewȝ into gobetis, and I ſente partis into alle þe teermys of ȝoure poffessioun; for neuer fo myche felony and fo myche trespass worþi to be punyſſhid is doon in Israel.

vii ȝe ben nyȝ to alle þe sones of Yrael; demeþ, what ȝe owen to doon.

viii And stondynge al þe puple as wiþ word of o man answerd, We shulen not goon aȝen into oure tabernaclis, ne eny man shal goo into his hows; ix but þis aȝens Gabaa in comoun we shulen doo.

x Ten men ben chosun of an hundrid, of alle þe lynagis of Yrael, and an hundrid of a þowland, and a þousand of ten þowlandis, þat þei beren to þe oost metis, and we fiȝtyng mowen aȝens Gabaa of Beniamyn ȝeelden to hym for þe hidows gilt, þat he deserueþ.

xi And al Yrael cam to gidre to þe citee, as o man, in þe same þouȝt and wiþ o counseil.

xii And þei fenten messageris to al þe linage of Beniamyn, 'þe whiche shulden seye, Whi so myche felonye is foundun in ȝou?

xiii Takiþ þe men of Gabaa, þat þis trespassse han doo, þat þei dyen, and yuel be doo awey fro Yrael. Þe whiche wolden not here þe mawndement of þe sones of Yrael, her briȝeren,

xiv but of alle þe cytees, þat weren of her lot, camen togidre in Gabaa, þat to hem þei myȝten bere helpe, and aȝens al þe puple of Yrael fiȝten.

xv And þere ben founden fyue and twenti þowlandis of Beniamyn, of men drawynge out swerd, xvi biside þe dwellers of Gabaa, þat weren feuen hundryd moost myȝti men, so wiþ þe lift as wiþ þe riȝt fiȝtyng, and so wiþ flyngis stones at certeyn þrowynge, þat an heer forsoþe þei myȝten smyte, and in to noon oþer partie þe strook of þe stoon shulde be born a weye.

xvii Forsoþe of þe men of Yrael, wiþ outen þe sones of Beniamyn, ben foundun foure hundrid þowlandis of men drawynge out þe swerd and redi to þe fiȝt.

xviii ȝe whiche ryfynge camen into þe hows of God, þat is in Silo; and þei counseyliden hym, and seiden, Who shal be in oure oost prince of þe strijf aȝens Beniamyn?
To whom þe Lord answeerde, Judas be he ȝoure duyk.

xix And anoon þe sones of Yrael ryfynge eerly settent tentis aȝens Gabaa.

xx And þens goynge forþ to þe fiȝt aȝens Beniamyn, þei bigunnen to fiȝt aȝens þe cytee.

xxi And þe sones of Beniamyn goon out fro Gabaa, flowen of þe sones of Israel þat day two and twenti þowlandis of men.

xxii And eft þe sones of Yrael and in strengþ and in noumbr trustynge, in þe same place in which raeþ þei stryuen, þei dresseden þe sheltroun;

xxiii so neuerþelater þat before þei stieden, and wepten before þe Lord vnto þe nyȝt, and counseilden hym, and seiden, Shal I more goon forþ to fiȝten aȝens þe sones of Beniamyn, my briȝeren, or nay? To whom he answeerde, Stieþ vp to hem, and goþ into þe strijf.

xxiv And whanne þe sones of Yrael þe toþer day aȝens Beniamyn to þe batayl weren goon, xxv þe sones of Beniamyn breken out fro þe ȝatis of Gabaa, and aȝen comyng to hem, so mych flauȝter þei mich wexen wood in hem, þat eiȝt and twenti þousandis of men drawynge out swerdis þei þrewen doun.

xxvi For what þing alle þe sones of Yrael camen into þe hows of God, and fittyng þei wepten before þe Lord, and þei fastiden þat day vnto euen; and þei offreden to him brent sacrifices and peſible fleyn sacrificis, xxvii and vpon her staat þei askiden. þat tyme was þere þe arke of þe boond of pees of God in Sylo;

xxviii and Phynees, þe sone of Eliazar, sone of Aaron, was prouost of þe hows. 'Panne þei counseilden þe Lord, and seiden, Shulen we more goon out to þe fiȝt aȝens þe sones of Beniamyn oure briȝeren, oþir resten?
To whom seip þe Lord, Stieþ vp, forsoþe to morwe I shal taak hem into ȝoure hoondis.

xxix And þe sones of Yrael putten busshementis bi þe enuyroun of þe cytee of Gabaa;

xxx and þe þridde siþe as oons and twytes aȝens Beniamyn þe oost brouȝte forþ.

xxxi But and þe sones of Beniamyn hardili breken out of þe cytee, and þe aduersaries fleynge lenger þei purſueden, so þat þei woundiden of hem, as þe first day and þe fecounde, and flowen bi two paþis þe turninge backis; of þe whiche oon beer into Bethel, and þe toþir into Gabaa. And þei þrewen doun abouþ pretti men; xxxii forsoþe þei wenden in þe wont maner to flee hem; þe whiche feynyng fliȝt at þe bigynnyng, wenten in counseil for to drawe hem a wey fro þe cytee, and as fleynge to bryngen to þe forleide paþis.

xxxiii And so alle þe sones of Yrael ryfynge fro her feetis tiȝten shiltroun in þe place þat is clepid Baalthamar. Forsoþe þe busshementis, þat about þe cytee weren, 'lil melome hem feluen bigunnen to opne, and fro þe west parti of þe cytee to goon forþ.

xxxiv But and oþere ten þousandis of men of Yrael dwellers of þe cytee terreden to stryues; and þe bateil is aggregid aȝens þe sones of Beniamyn, and þei vndurstoden not, þat on alle sidis to hem stood yn deepþ.

xxxv And þe Lord smoot hem in þe fiȝt of þe sones of Yrael, and þei flowen of hem in þat day fyue and twenti þowlandis and an hundrid men, alle fiȝters and drawinge out swerd.

xxxvi Forsoþe þe sones of Beniamyn, whanne þei hadden seen hem self to be þe neþermore, þei bigunne to flee. þe whiche þing biholdynge þe sones of Yrael, ȝeuen to hem place to flee, þat þei miȝten come to þe maad redi busshementis, 'þe whiche bifyde þe cytee þei settent.

xxxvii ȝe whiche whanne hadden ryse fodeynly fro þe hidilis, and Beniamyn ȝaf backis to þe fleers, þei wenten into þe cytee, and smyten it in mouȝ of swerd.

xxxviii Forsoþe þe sones of Yrael hadden ȝeuen a tokne to hem þat weren sett in busshementis, þat after þat þei hadden take þe cytee, fier þei shulden teend, and þe smook stiynge vp into heiȝt, þei shulden shewe þe cytee takun.

xxxix þe which þing whanne þe sones of Yrael put in bat strijf shulden biholde; forsoþe þe sones of Beniamyn wenden hem to fleeñ, and more bisiþ folweden, fleyñ of þe oost of hem þretti men;

xl and þei seen as a piler of smook fro þe citem to stien vp; forsoþe Beniamyn biholdynge bihynde, whanne he fawȝ þe cytee takun, and þe flawmis to be born into heiȝt, xli þe whiche beforehond feyneden fliȝt, turnede þe face strongly wiþstoden. þe which þing whanne þe sones of Beniamyn hadden seen, þei ben turned in fliȝt, xlii and to þe weye of deseert þei bigunne to goon; forsoþe bider hem aduersaries pursuyng, but and þes, þat settent þe toun on fier, ajen comynge to hem.

xliii And so it is doon, þat on eiþer parti þei ben slayn of enemys, ne þere was eny reste of men dyng; and þei fallen, and ben þrownen down at þe eest cooſt of þe cytee of Gabaa.

xliii Forsoþe þere weren, þat in þe same place ben slayn, eiȝteen pouſandis of men, al moost stronge fighers.

xlv þe which þing whanne hadden seen þat leſten of Beniamyn, þei flowen into wildernes, and wenten to þe stoon, whos name is Remmon. Forsoþe in þat fliȝt opynli hidir and bider rennyng and into dyuerſe placis goyng þei flowen fyue pouſandis of men; and whanne ferþer þei wenten, þei pursueden hem, and flewen also opere two pouſandis.

xlivi And so is doo, þat alle þat fallen of Beniamyn in dyuerſe placis, weren fyue and twenti þouſandis, fighers at batayls moost redy.

xlivii And so þere laſten of al þe noumber of Beniamyn, þat myȝten ſcape, and fleeñ into wildernesſe, ſixe hundred men; and þei settent in þe stoon of Remmon foure moneþis.

xliiii Forsoþe þe sones of Yrael goon out, ſmyten wiþ fwerd al þe relif of þe cyte, fro man vnto beest; and alle þe citees and lytil touns of Beniamyn deuowryng flawm waſtide.

Capitulum XXI.

i The sones forsoþe of Yrael hadden fworn in Maspha, and feiden, Noon of vs ſhal ȝyue to þe sones of Beniamyn of his douȝtris a wif.

ii And alle þei camen to þe hows of God in Sylo, and in þe ſiȝt of hym ſittynge vnto euен þei rereden a voys, and wiþ greet ȝeelyng bigunnen to wepe, feiynge, iii Whi, Lord God of Yrael, þis yuel ys doo in þi puple, þat þis day o lynage be doon awei fro vs?

iv Forsoþe þe toþir day eerli ryſyng þei maden vp an auter, and offreden þere brent ſacrificis and peſible fleyñ offryngis, v and feiden, Who ſtiede not vp in þe oost of þe Lord of alle þe lynagis of Yrael? Forſoþe wiþ greet ooþ þei bounden hem feluen, whanne þei were in Maſpha, hem to be flayn þat þennus were.

vi And lad by openkyng þe sones of Yrael vpon her brother Beniamyn, þei bigunnen to feyn, Pere is doon awey o lynage fro Irael;

vii whens shulen þei taake wyues? forſoþe alle in comyn we han fworn vs not to ȝyue oure douȝtres to hem.

viii And þerfor þei feiden, Who is of alle þe lynagis of Israel, þat ſtiede not vp to þe Lord in to Maſpha? And loo! þere ben foundun dwellers of Jabis Galaad not haue ben in þat oost.

ix Forſoþe þat tyme, whanne þei were in Sylo, noon of hem is foundun þere.

x And fo þei ſenten ten þousand moost ſtronge men, and comaundiden to hem, Goþ, and ſmitiþ þe dwellers of Jabis Galaad in mouȝ of fwerd, as wel wymmen as þe litil children of hem.

xi And þis ſhal be, þat ȝe shulen kepe wel, alle of maal kynde and wymmen, þat han knowun men, ſleep; maydens kepe ȝe.

xii And þere ben foundun of Jabis Galaad foure hundryd maydens, þat knewen not þe bed of man; and þei brouȝten hem to þe tentis in Silo, in to þe loond of Chanaan.

xiii And þei ſenten messagers to þe sones of Beniamyn, þat weren in þe stoon of Remmon; and þei comaundiden to hem, þat þei shulden take hem in pees.

xiv And þe sones of Beniamyn camen in þat tyme, and ben ȝeuen to hem wyues of þe douȝtres of Jabis Galaad; forſoþe oþer þei founden, 'þe whiche lijk maner þei shulden take.'

xv And al Yrael greetli forowide, and dide openkyng vpon þe flauȝter of o lynage of Yrael.

xvi And þe more þurþ birþ feiden, What shulen we doo to þe toþer, þat han take no wyues? Alle þe wymmen in Beniamyn fallen togidre, xvii and wiþ greet bifynes to vs and myche ſtodye it is to puruey, leſt o lynage be doon awey fro Yrael.

xviii Oure douȝtres we mowen not ȝyue to hem, bounden bi ooþ and cursyng, in þe which we han feide, Cursid þat ſhal ȝyue of his douȝtris a wif to Beniamyn.

xix And þei token counſeil, and feiden, Loo, þe ſolempnete of þe Lord is in Silo, torn aboute bi þe ȝeer, þat is fet at þe norþ of þe cytee of Bethel, and at þe eest cooſt of þe weye þat goþ fro Bethel to Siccymam, and to þe ſouȝ of þe burȝ toun of Lebona.

xx And þei comaundiden to þe sones of Beniamyn, and feiden, Goþ, and lurkiþ in þe vynes;

xxi and whan ȝe ſeen þe douȝtris of Sylo at þe dauncis to be lad aftir þe maner to goo forþ, goþ out ſodeynly out of þe vines, and takþ hem, eche sondry wyues, and goþ into þe loond of Beniamyn.

xxii And whanne þe faders of hem and briþeren comen, and aȝens ȝou bigynnen to pleyne and chiden, we shulen seye to hem, Haþ mercy on hem; forsoþe þei rauysheden not hem bi lawe of fȝters and of ouercomers; but to hem preyng, þat þei myȝten take, ȝe han not ȝeuen; and on ȝoure parti is þe synne.

xxiii And þe sones of Beniamyn diden as to hem was comaundid, and after her noumbe þei rauysheden to hem, of hem þat ladden dauncis, sondry wyues. And þei wenten into her possessioun, bilden ge vp cytees, and dwellynge in hem.

xxiv Forsoþe þe sones of Yrael turneden aȝen, bi lynagis and meynees, into her tabernaclis.

xxv In þo days was no kyng in Yrael, but ech on þat to hym semyde ryȝt, þat dide he.

Here endip þe book of Judicum, and nowe bigynneþ þe book of Ruth.

RUTH.

Here bigynneþ þe bok of Ruth.

Capitulum I.

i In þe days of oon iuge, whanne þe iugis weren before in power, þere is maad greet hungre in þe erþe; and o man of Bethlem Juda wente for to pilgrimage in þe regioun of Moabitide, wiþ his wif and his two free children.

ii And he was clepid Elymalech, and þe wif of hym Noemye, and þe two sones, þe toon Maalon, and þe toþer Chelion, Effratee of Bethlem Juda; and þei goon into þe regioun of Moabitide, dwelliden þere.

iii And Elymalech, þe housboond of Noemie, is deed, and she lafte wiþ þe sones;

iv þe welche token Moabyte wyues, of whom oon was clepid Orpha, and þe toþer Ruth. And þei dwelliden ten ȝeer þere, v and boþ been deed, Maalon þat is, and Chelyon; and þe womman laft priued two free children and housboond.

vi And she roos for to goo into þe cuntry wiþ hir eiþer douȝter in lawe fro Moabitis regioun; forsoþe she hadde herd, þat þe Lord hadde biholden hir puple, and hadde ȝouun hem metis.

vii And so she wente out fro þe place of hir pylgrimage wiþ eiþer douȝter in lawe; and nowe in þe weie set of turnynge aȝen into þe loond of Juda, viii she seide to hem, Goþ in to þe hows of ȝoure moder; þe Lord do wiþ ȝou mercy, as ȝe han do wiþ þe deed, and wiþ me;

ix ȝif he to ȝow to fynde rest in þe howses of þe men, þe welche ȝe ben to take. And she kiffide hem. Þe welche wiþ arerid vois bigunne to wepe, x and seyn, Wiþ þee we shulen goo to þi puple.

xi To whom she answeerde, Turneþ aȝen, my douȝtren, whi comen ȝe wiþ me? Y haue no mo fonyis in my wombe, þat men of me ȝe mowen hope;

xii turneþ aȝen, my Moabitis douȝtren, and goþ; forsoþe nowe I am waftid bi eeld, ne able to þe boond of matrymonye; also if Y myȝt þis nyȝt conceyue, and bere sones, xiii þouȝ ȝe wolden abide to þe tyme þat þei wexen, and fulfillen þe zeeris of mannes age, before þat ȝe wedden ȝe shulen be oold wymmen; wolþ not, Y biseche, my douȝtren, for ȝoure angwyl greuiþ me more, and þe hoond of þe Lord is goon out aȝens me.

xiv ȝanne arerid þe voice, eft þei bigunne to wepe. Orpha kiffide her moder in lawe, and turnede aȝen, Ruth cleuede to her moder in lawe.

xv To whom feide Noemye, Loo! þi cosyn is turned aȝen to her puple, and to her goddis; go þou wiþ hir.

xvi þe whiche answeerde, Ne contrarye þou me, þat Y forfake þee, and goo a wey; whidir euere þou goest, I shal goo, and where þow abidist, and I togidre shal abyde; þi puple my puple, and þi God my God;

xvii what erþe þee takþ diyng, in it I shal die, and þere I shal take place of biriyng; þes þingis God do to me, and þes þingis adde, if not oonly deþ me and þee feuere.

xviii Seynge ȝanne Noemye, þat wiþ stedfaſt inwit Ruth hadde demed to goo wiþ hir, wold not contrarye, ne more mouynge þe turnynge aȝen to hyrs.

xix And þei wenten forþ to gidre, and þei camen into Bethlem; þe welche goon into þe cytee, swift loos anentis alle men wex opyn, and þe wymmen feiden, þis is þe ilk Noemy.

xx To whom she seip, Ne clepe ȝe me Noemy, þat is to seye, fayr, but clepiþ me Mara, þat is, bittir; for wiþ bitternes mych þe Almyȝti hab fulfillid me.

xi Ful I wente out, and voyd þe Lord haþ brouȝt me aȝen; whi ȝanne clepe ȝe me Noemy, whom þe Lord haþ mekyd, and þe Almity haþ tourmentid?

xxii ȝanne cam Noemy wiþ Ruth Moabite, hir douȝter in lawe, fro þe loond of hir pilgrimage, and is turned aȝen into Bethleem, whanne firſt men repiden barly.

Capitulum II.

i There was forsoþe a man, cosyn of Elymelech, a myȝti man and of greet rytches, Booz bi name.

ii And Ruth Moabite seide to her moder in lawe, If þow comaunde, Y shal goo in to þe feeld and gedre eeris þat fleen þe hoondis of repers, where euere Y shal fynde grace of an houſholder mercysable in me. To whom she answeerde, Goo, my douȝter.

iii And so she ȝede, and gedride eeris after þe backis of reperis. It felle forsoþe, þat þilk feeld hadde a lord, Booz bi name, þat was of þe kynrede of Elymelech.

iiiii And loo! he cam fro Bethlem. And he feide to his repers, þe Lord wiþ ȝou. þe whiche anfwerde to hym, þe Lord blesse to þee.
 v And Booz feide to þe ȝong man þat was before in rewlynge to þe repers, Whos is þis child womman?
 vi þe which anfwerde, Þis is a Moabite, þat cam wiþ Noemy fro Moabites regioun; vii and she preyede, þat she miȝte gedre eeris leeuyng, folwewyng þe steppis of þe repers; and fro eerly vnto nowe she stondip in þe feeld, ne forsoþe at o moment she turnede aȝen to þe hows.
 viii And Booz seiþ to Ruth, Here, douȝter; ne goo þou into annoþer feeld to gedre, ne goo a wey fro þis place, but be þou ioyned to my children wymmen, ix and where þei repen, folwe; forsoþe Y haue comaundid to my children, þat noon be heuy to þee; but if also þou þrustist, go to þe litil costrils, and drynk watris, of þe whiche my children drenken.
 x þe which fallynge into hir face and lowtyng on erþe feide to hym, Whens to me þis, þat I fynde grace before þin eȝen, þat þou deyn to knowe me a pilgryme womman?
 xi To whom he anfwerde, Alle þingis ben toold to me, þat þou didist to þi moder in lawe after þe deb of þi man, and þat þou forsokist þi fader and þi moder, and þe loond in þe which þou ert born, and cam to þe puple, whom before þou knewe not.
 xii þe Lord ȝelde to þee for þi werk, and fulle mede resseyue þou of þe Lord God of Yrael, to whom þou art comen, and vndre whos weenges þou haft flowen.
 xiii þe which seiþ, Y haue founde grace before þin eyen, my lord, 'þe which hast coumfortid me, and spoken to þe herte of þin hoond womman, 'þe which am not lijk of oon of þi children wymmen.
 xiv And Booz feide to hir, Whanne our of etyng shal be, com hidre, and eet breed, and weet þi morsel in eysel. And so she sat at þe side of þe repers, and made to hir potage, and she eet, and is fild, and took þe relifes.
 xv And þens she roos, and after þe maner she gedride eeris. Forsoþe Booz comaundide to his children, seiyng, Allo if wiþ ȝow she wol repe, defende ȝe hir not, xvi and of ȝoure forsoþe hoondfuls þrowiþ o purpose, and suffre ȝe to abide stil, þat wiþ out shame she gedre; and gedryng no man vndirnymme.
 xvii þan she gedride in þe feeld vnto euen; and þat she gedredre wiþ a ȝeerde betyng and shakynge out, she foond of barli as þe mefure of ephi, þat is, þre buſhels.
 xviii þe whiche berynge she turnede aȝen into þe citee, and shewide to hir moder in lawe; also she brouȝte forþ, and ȝaf to hir þe relif of hir meet, wiþ þe which she was fild.
 xix And þe moder in lawe feide to hir, Where to day haft þou gadrid, and where haft þou doo werk? Be he bleſſid, þat hadde mercy of þee. And she shewide to hir, anentis whom she wrouȝte; and þe name of þe man she feide, þat Booz he was clepid.

xx To whom anfwerde Noemy, Bleſſid be he of þe Lord, for þe fame grace þat he haþ ȝeuen to men o lyue, he haþ kept and to þe deed. And eft she seiþ, Oure nyȝ kyn is þe man.

xxi And Ruth, Forsoþe þis he seiþ and comaundide to me, þat so long I shulde be ioyned to þe repers of hym, to þe tyme þat alle þe cornys ben open.

xxii To whom feide þe moder in lawe, Betere it is, douȝter myn, þat wiþ þe childre wymmen of hym þou goo out to repe, left in anoþer feeld eny man wiþstoonde to þee.

xxiii And so she is ioyned to þe childre wymmen of Booz; and as long wiþ hem she repide, to þe tyme þat þe barli and þe whete weren leid in þe beerns.

Capitulum III.

i Aftyr forsoþe þat she was turned aȝen to hir moder in lawe, she herde of hir, Dowȝter myn, Y shal feche to þee reft, and Y shal puruey þat it wel be to þee.

ii Þis Booz, to whos wymmen children þou art ioyned in þe feeld, is oure nyȝ kyn, and in þis nyȝt he wynnewiþ þe flore of his barli.

iii Be wasshen þanne, and anoynt, and cloþid wiþ þe more worshipful cloþis, and go doun into þe flore; se bee no man, to þe tyme þat etyng and drynkyng he haue eendid.

iv Forsoþe whanne he goþ to sleepe, mark þe place in þe which he sleepiþ; and þou shalt com and discouere þe mantil, wiþ whych he is couerd, fro þe parti of þe feet, and þou shalt þrowe þee doun, and þere ligge. Forsoþe he shal seye to þee, what þou owist to doo.

v þe which anfwerde, What euere þing þou shalt comaunde, I shal doo.

vi And she wente doun into þe floor, and dide alle þingis þat þe moder in lawe comaundide to hir.

vii And whanne Booz hadde eten and dronken, and was maad gladder cheryd, and was goon to sleepe biside þe heep of handfullis, she cam, and hidde hir; and discouerd þe mantil fro his feet, she þrewe hir self doun.

viii And loo! nowe at mydnyȝt dradde þe man, and is disturblid; and he sawȝ a womman liggyng at his feet, ix and seiþ to hir, What art þou? She anfwerde, I am Ruth, þin hoond womman; spreid þi mantil vpon þi feruaunt, for þou art nyȝ.

x And he, Bleſſid, he seiþ, þou art of þe Lord, douȝtre, and þe rafter mercy bi þe affirmore þou haft ouerpassid; for þou haft not folwid ȝonge pore men oþer riche.

xi Wol þou not þanne drede, but what euere þing þou feist to me, I shal doo to þee; forsoþe al þe puple woot, þat dwelliþ wiþ ynne þe ȝatis of my cytee, þee to be a womman of vertue.

xii Ne I denye me to be nyȝ, but þere is anoþer nerre þan Y; xiii rest þis nyȝt, and morwetide doon, if he wole take þee bi riȝt of affynyte, þe þing is wel doo; forsoþe if he wol not, I wiȝ out eny dowt shal take þee, þe Lord lyueþ; sleep vnto þe morwetide.
 xiv And so she slept at his feet vnto þe goynge a wey of þe niȝt, and so she roos before þat men knewen hem self to gidre. And Booz feide, Bewar, leſt eny man knowe, þat hidir þou art comen.
 xv And eft, Spreed, he seiþ, þi mantil, wiȝ which þou art couerd, and hold wiȝ eþir hoond. Þe which spredyng and holdynge he mesuride ſixe bushels of barli, and put vpon him; þe which berynge wente into þe cyte, xvi and cam to him moder in lawe. Þe which feide to him, What haſt þow doon, douȝter? And she toold to hyr alle þingis, þat þe man dide to him;
 xvii and seiþ, Loo! ſexe bushels of barley he haþ ȝeuен to me; and seiþ, Y wol not þee to turne aȝen void to þi moder in lawe.
 xviii And Noemy feide, Abide, douȝter, to þe tyme þat we feen what yſſu þe þing wol han; forsoþe ne þe man ſhal ceefe, but he fulſille þat he haþ ſpoken.

Capitulum III.

i Booz þanne wente vp to þe ȝate, and sat þere; and whanne he hadde ſeen þe nyȝ kyn paſſe biſide, of þe which before word is had, he feide to hym, Bowe aſide a litil, and ſit here, clepyng hym bi his name. Þe which turnede a ſide, and fat.
 ii Forſoþe Booz takyng ten men of þe eldre of þe citee feide to hem, Sittij here.
 iii þe which ſittyng, he ſpak to þe nyȝ kyn, Noemy ſoolde a parti of þe feed of oure broþer Elymalech, þe which is turnyd aȝen fro Moabitis regyon, iv þe which þing Y wold þee to here, and to þee ſeyn before al men ſittyng and þe more men þurȝ birþ of my puple. If þou wolt weeld þe feed bi ryȝt of niȝ kynrede, bye and weeld; forſoþe if it to þee diſpleſe, þat fame þing ſhewe to me, þat I wite what I owe to do; forſoþe no man is nyȝ kyn, out taak þee þat art formere, and me þat am ſecounde. And he anſwerde, I þe feelde ſhal bye.
 v To whom feide Booz, Whanne þow biest þe feed of þe hoond of þe womman, forſoþe Ruth Moabite, þat was þe wif of þe deed, þou owiſt to take, þat þow rere þe name of þi nyȝ kyn in his erytage.
 vi þe which anſwerde, I leeue þe riȝt of my nyȝ kynrede; forſoþe ne Y owe to doon aweie þe after comynge of my meyne; þou my priuelege vſe, þe which Y knowleche me gladly to want.
 vii Forſoþe þis was þe manere in oold tyme in Yrael bitwixe nyȝ kyn, þat if eny tyme oon to anoþere laſte his riȝt, þat þe grauntyng were ſtable, þe man loofide his ſho, and ȝaf to his nyȝ kyn; þat was witneſſyng of þe leuynge in Yrael.

 viii ȝanne feide Booz to his nyȝ kyn, Tak þi ſho to me; þe which anoon he loofide fro his foot.
 ix And he to þe more þurȝ birþ and to al þe puple, Witneſſis ȝe ben, he ſeip, to day, þat Y owe to weelde alle þat were of Elymalech, and Chelyon, and Maalon, ȝyuynge Noemy; x and Y ſhulde take Ruth Moabite, þe wif of Maalon, into weddynge, þat I rere þe name of þe deed in his erytage; leſt þe name of hym fro his meyne and breþeren and puple be doon a wey. Forſoþe ȝe of þis þing ben witneſſis.
 xi Al þe puple anſwerde, þat was in þe ȝate, and þe more þurȝ birþ, We ben witneſſis; þe Lord make þis womman, þat goþ into þin hows, as Rachel and Lya, þat edifiden þe hows of Yrael, þat ſhe be exſaumple of vertu in Effrata, and ſhe haue a ſolempne name in Bethlem;
 xii and þin hous be maad as þe hous of Phares, whom Thamar beere to Juda, of þe feed þat þe Lord ſhal ȝeue to þee of þis child womman.
 xiii And so Booz took Ruth, and took her to wif; and he wente yn to her, and þe Lord ȝaf to her, and ſhe conſeyued, and beer a child.
 xiv And wymmen feide to Noemy, Blifſid þe Lord, which haþ not ſuffrid, þat þe ſuccellour of þi meyne ſhulde fail, and his name ſhulde be clepid in Israel;
 xv and þou haue þat coumfort þi lijf, and noriſhe þin eeld. Forſoþe of þi douȝter in lawe is born, þat ſhal loue þee, and mych betere is to þee, þan þouȝ þou haddiſt ſeuен ſones.
 xvi And Noemy putte þe takun child in her bosum; and vſide þe office of norshe, and of berer.
 xvii Forſoþe þe wymmen neiȝbours to gidre þankynge to her, and ſeiyng, Þe fone of Noemy is born, clepeden his name Obeth. Pis is þe fader of Yſay, fader of Dauyd.
 xviii Þes ben þe generacions of Phares; Phares gat Eſrom; xix Eſrom gat Aram; Aram gat Amynadab; xx Amynadab gat Naafon; Naafon gat Salmon;
 xxi Salmon gat Booz; Booz gat Obeth;
 xxii Obeth gat Yſay; Yſay gat Dauyd þe kyng.

Here eendib Ruth.

I. KYNGIS.

Here bigynneþ þe prolog of þe foure bokis of Kyngis.

The tunge forſoþe of Syrus, and of Caldeis, witneſſib to ben anentis þe Ebewis two and twenti lettris, þe whiche of a greet parti niȝ cooftieþ to Ebew; for and þei two and twenti elementis han in þe ſame ſown, but in dyuerſe printis. Samarytans alſo þe fyue bokis of Moyses wryten in as feele lettris, oonli in figuris and printis dyuersyng; and it is certeyn Esdras, þe scribe and þe doctour of þe lawe, after Jerusalem takun, and þe restorynge of þe temple vndur Zorobabel, to han foundun oþer lettris, þe whiche we nowe vsen; whanne vnto þat tyme weren þe same printis of Samarytans and of Ebrews. Forsoþe in þe book of Noumbris þis same noumbryng vnder þe noumber of Leuitis and prestis mistili is shewid; and þe name of þe Lord Tetragramaton in summe Grece volyms vnto his day we han founden wiþ oold lettris expressyd. But and þe Salmys sixe and þretti, and þe hundrid tenþe, and þe hundryd enleueþ, and þe hundrid eiȝtenþ, and þe hundrid foure and fourtiþ, albeit þat þei ben wryten wiþ dyuerse metre, neuerþelater þei ben weuyd wiþ þe abece of þe same noumber; and þe Lamentaciouns of Jereme, and þe Preier of hym, and forsoþe þe Proverbis of Salomon, in þe eend, fro þat place in whiche he seiþ, A strong woman who shal fynde, wiþ þe same abicees or markyngis ben noumbrid. Forsoþe fyue dowble lettris ben anentis þe Ebrewis, Caph, Men, Nun, Phe, Sade; forsoþe oþer wise þei writen bi þes þe bigynningis and þe mydils of wordis, oþer wise þe eendis. Wherfore and fyue bokis, Samuel, Malachym, Dabreiamyn, Esdras, Jereme wiþ Cynoth, þat is, his Lamentaciouns, ben eymyd of sum men dowble bookis. What maner wife perfor two and twenti elymentis ben, bi þe whiche we wryten Ebewly al þat we speken, and mannes voyce wiþ þe bigynningis of hem is takun, so two and twenti volyms ben noumbrid, bi þe whiche as bi lettris and bigynningis þe tendre and þe ȝit fowkyng childhod of þe riȝtwise man is tauȝt in þe doctrine of God. Þe first book anentis hem is clepid Brefþ, which we Genesis seyn; þe secunde, Ellefmoþ, 'þe which Exodus is clepid; þe þridde is Vagetra, þat is Leuytik; þe ferþ, Vagedaber, 'þe which we clepen Noumber; þe fifþ Abdabarym, 'þe which is before notid Deutronomy. Þes ben þe fyue bokis of Moyses, 'þe whiche þei clepen proprely Thorath, þat is, þe lawe. Þe secounde ordre of þe prophetis þei maken, and bigynnen fro Jesu, þe lone of Naue, 'þe which anentis hem is leid Jofue Bennun. þens þei vndurweyden Sophym, þat is, þe book of Jugis; and into þe same þei putten in Ruth, for in þe days of Jugis don is toold his storie. Þe þridde folowiþ Samuel, þe which we seyn þe Firste and þe Secounde of Rewmys; þe ferþ, Malachim, þat is, of Kyngis, þe which is conteyned in þe þridde and þe ferþ volym of Rewmys; and mych betere it is to seye Malachym, þat is, of Kyngis, þanne Malathot, þat is, of Rewmes; forsoþe not of many folk he discriueþ rewmes, but of oon Yrael puple, þat is conteyned in twelue lynagis. Þe fifþ is Ylai; þe sixt Jereme; þe feuenþ Ezechiel; þe eiȝtiþ þe book of þe twelue prophetis, 'þe which anentis hem is clepid Thariafra. Þe þridde ordre weeldiþ Agiographa, þat ben holi wryten enfaumplis. And þe first book bigynneþ fro clepen Parablis, þat is, Masloth; þe ferþ Ecclesiaſten, þat is, Coelech; þe fifþ is Soonge of Songis, whom þei before noten bi title Syrassyrym; þe fixte is Danyel; þe feuenþ Dabreiamyn, þat is, þe wordis of days, þe whiche more nameli we mowen clepe þe Cronycle of al Goddis story, þe which book anentis vs is wryten Paralypomynon þe First and þe Secounde; þe eiȝtiþ Esdras, þe which and he lijk maner, anentis Grekis and Latyns, in two bokis is dyuydid; þe nynþe Ester. And so ben maad togidre þe bokis of þe oold lawe two and twenti, þat is, of Moyses fyue, of Prophetis eiȝte, of Agiografis, þat ben exprefse exfaumplis to holynes, nyne; al be it þat summe wryten Ruth and Synoth among þe Agiographis, and þes bookis in her noumber þei wenien to be to noumbrid, and bi þat to ben of þe oold lawe foure and twenti bookis; þe whiche vndre noumber of foure and twenti eldris þe Apocalips of Joon bryngiþ yn, honouryng þe loomb, and offryng her crownes, þe cheerys born doun, hem stondynge before þe foure beeftis eyed before and behynde, þat is, biholdynge into þat þat is passid, and into þat þat is to comen, and criyng wiþ contynuel voyce, Holy, Holy, Holi, Lord God Almyȝti, þat was, and þat is, and þat is to comen! Þis prologue of Scripturis as an helmyd bigynnyng to al þe bokis 'þe whiche fro Ebewe we han turned into Latyn, may acoorde, þat we mowen knowe þat what euere þing out of þes is, it is to be put among þe Apographase, þat is, among þo þings whos autor is not knowun of al holi chirch. Perfore Sapiens, þat comounli is wryten in of Salomon, and of Jesu, þe lone of Syrak, and þe book of Judith, and Toby, and Pastor, ben not in þe canoun. I foond þe Fyrst book of Machabeis Ebewe; þe Secounde is Greke, þat may be proued of þat settynge. Þe whiche þings whanne þei so han hem, þou reder, Y biseche þee, ne eyme þou my traueyle þe repreuyng of oold men. In þe tabernacle of God ech man offrep þat he may; oþer men gold, and filuer, and precious stones; oþer men bise, and purpur, and cocko offren, and iacynct. Wiþ vs is wel doon, if we offren skynnys and heeris of þe geet; and neuerþelater þe Apostle oure more contemptible þings shewiþ more nedeful. Wherfor and al þe fayrnelle of þe tabernacle, and þe distinccioun of þe present, and of þe chirche to comen, bi eche spicis is couered wiþ skynnys, and wiþ herys; þo þat ben Fowler þings letten þe brennyng of þe funne, and þe harme of wederis. Panne rede þow first Samuel, and myn Malachym, myn forsoþe, myn; what euere þing forsoþe ofter turnyng and in amendyng more bifili and we han lernyd, and we holden, oure is, oure is. And whanne þou vndurstoondist þat before hoond þou knewe not, or eyme þou me a remenour, if þou art kynde, or a leeyer bilden, if þow art vnkynde; al be it þat Y haue no conscience to myself, me to haue chaungid eny þing fro Ebews trewþ. Certeyne, if þow ert of hard bileue, rede Greke bokis and Latyns, and ley togidre wiþ þes litol werkis, 'þe whiche aboue we han out toold; and where euere þow see bitwix hemself to disconde, ask eny of þe Ebrews, to whom more þou owist to ȝeue feiþ, and if oure þingis he stable, I trowe þat þou shalt not eyme hym a lyer, for in þe same place wiþ me lijk maner he dyuyne. But and ȝow, wymmen seruaunts of Crist, Y preye, þe whiche anoynten þe heed of þe Lord, doun syttinge wiþ þe moost precyous myrre of bileyue, þe whiche lechen not þe Saueour in sepulcre, for whom nowe Crist haþ stied vp to þe fader, þat aȝens þe berkyng houndis þat aȝens me wiþ wood mouþ waxen cruel, and goon about þe cytee, and in þat demen hem self wylfe, if to oþer þey bacbiten, þat ȝe aȝen putten þe targetis of ȝoure preyers. I, knowynge my lownes, of þat sentence euere more Y shal recorde, I seyde, I shal kepe my weyes, þat I trespassse not in my tungue; Y haue put to my mouþ warde, whanne þe synful stood aȝens me; Y bicam downmbe, and am lowid, and heelde my pees fro good þingis.

Here endiþ þe prolog of þe foure bokis of Kyngis, and nowe bygynneþ þe first book.

Capitulum I.

i There was a man of Ramathaym of Sophym, of þe hil of Effraym, and þe name of hym Elchana, þe sone of Jeroboam, sone of Elyuth, sone of Thau, sone of Suph, Eufrate.
ii And he hadde two wyues; name to þe toon Anna, and name to þe secounde Phenenna; and þere weren of Phenenne sonys; forsoþe of Anne þere weren noon free children.
iii And þat man stiede fro his cytee vp þe ordeynd days, for to honour and sacrifice to þe Lord of oostis in Sylo. Forsoþe þere weren þe two sonys of Hely, Ophny and Phynees, preefis of þe Lord.
iv Þe day þanne cam, and Elchana offerde, and ȝaf to Phenenne his wif, and to alle his children and douȝtren parties;
v forsoþe to Anne he ȝaf o party drerye, for he louede Anne; forsoþe þe Lord hadde clofid his wombe.
vi Forsoþe his enemye tourmentide him, and hugely angwishide, in so mych þat she putte to reprove, þat þe Lord hadde clofid his wombe.
vii And so she dyde bi ech ȝeer, whanne, turnynge aȝen þe tyme, þei styeden vp into þe hows of þe Lord; and she so terryde hyr. Forsoþe she wepte, and took no meeete.
viii Panne feide to hyr Helchana, his man, Anna, whi wepist þow, and whi etist þow nouȝt, and for what cause is tourmentid þin herte? Wheþer am Y not betere to bee þan ten sones?
ix Forsoþe Anna roos, after þat she hadde eetyn in Silo and dronken. And Hely þe preest fittyng vpon a litil feete, before þe postis of þe hows of þe Lord, x whanne Anna was in bitter inwit, she preiede þe Lord, wepynge largeli;

xi and a vowe she vowide, seiyng, Lord God of oostis, if biholdynge þow see þe tourmentynge of þi seruaunt, and were recordid of me, ne forȝetist þin hoondmaydyn, and ȝyueft to þi seruaunt maal kynde, I shal ȝyue hym to þe Lord alle þe days of his lijf, and rasour shal not stie vpon his heed.
xii Forsoþe it is doon, þat whanne she multiplieide preiers before þe Lord, þat Heli weytide his mouþ.
xiii Forsoþe Anna spak in her herte, and oonli þe lippis of her weren meued, and þe vois of hire was not fulli herd. Heli þelper eymyde his dronen, xiv and seide to hyr, Howe long shalt þou be dronen? Defye a litil wiȝt þe wyn, bi þe which þou art dronen.
xv Anna answerynge, Nay, she seiþ, my lord, for a womman wel mych wretchesful Y am; for wyn and al þat may make dronen Y dranke not, but I haue held out my soule in þe siȝt of þe Lord; xvi ne hoold þou þin handwomman as oon of þe douȝtres of Belial, for of þe multitude of sorwe and of my mournynge Y haue spokun vnto nowe.
xvii Panne Heli seiþ to her, Go in pees, and God of Yrael ȝeue to þee þe askynge þat þou haft preied hym.
xviii And she feide, Wolde God þin handwoman fynde grace in þin eyen. And þe womman ȝede into her weye, and eete; and þe cheeris of her ben not more ouere into dyuerse þingis chaungid.
xix And þei arysen eerly, and anowreden before þe Lord; and ben turned aȝen, and camen into her hows in Ramatha. Forsoþe Helchana knewe Anne his wif; and þe Lord is recordid of her.
xx And doon it is after þe cercle of dais, Anna conceyued, and bear a child, and clepide his name Samuel; forþi þat she hadde askid hym of þe Lord.
xxi Forsoþe his man Helchana stiede vp, and al his hows, for to offre to þe Lord a solempne oost, and his vowe.
xxii And Anna affendide not; forsoþe she feide to his man, Y shal not goo, to þe tyme þat þe child be wened, and I bryngre hym, and he apere before þe siȝt of þe Lord, and dwelle þere contynuely.
xxiii And Helchana, his man, seiþ to her, Do þat is seen to þee good, and dwel to þe tyme þat þow wene hym; and I preye, þat þe Lord fulfille his word. Panne þe woman abood, and ȝaf his sone mylk, to þe tyme þat he shulde meue hym away fro þe mylk.
xxiv And she brouȝte hym wiþ her, after þat she hadde wened hym, wiþ þre calues, and þre bushelis of meeple, and a vessel of wyn; and she brouȝte him to þe hows of þe Lord in Sylo. Forsoþe þe child ȝit was a lytil faunt.
xxv And þei flewen a calf, and offreden þe child to Hely.
xxvi And Anna seiþ, I biseche, my lord, þi soule lyueþ; Y am þat womman, þat stood before þee here, preyinge to þe Lord;

xxvii for þis child I preyede, and þe Lord haþ ȝeuen to me þe askyng þat I askyde hym; xxviii þerfor and I haue lent hym to þe Lord alle þe dais, in þe whiche he were lent to þe Lord. And þere þei honourden þe Lord.

Capitulum II.

i And Anna honourde, and seiþ, Gladid out is myn herte in þe Lord, and areryd is myn horn in my God; maad large is my mouþ vpon myn enemyes, for Y am glade in þin ȝyuer of heelþ.
ii Þere is noon holy as is þe Lord; forsoþe ne þere is oþer wiþ out þee, and þere is not strong as our God.
iii Wole ȝe not multiplie to speke heiȝe þingis, gloriynge; go þere a wey oold þingis fro ȝoure mouþe; for þe God of sciencis Lord is, and to hym ben before maad redi þouȝtis.
iv Þe boowe of stronge men is ouercomen, and feble ben gird wiþ strengþ.
v Þe fillid before for looues han leyd hem self, and þe hungry ben fulfillid; to þe tyme þat þe bareyn bere wel many, and she þat many sones hadde, is feblid.
vi Þe Lord mortifieþ, and quykeneþ; bryngiþ doun to hellis, and aȝen bryngiþ.
vii Þe Lord makiþ pore, and richeþ; and mekiþ, and vndurreriþ.
viii He bryngiþ vp fro powdre þe nedye, and fro dryt he heueþ vp þe pore, þat he sitte wiþ princis, and þe feet of glorie he holde; of þe Lord forsoþe ben þe vttermoost parties of þe erþe, and he haþ put vpon hem þe world.
ix Þe feet of his halowis he shal kepe, and vnpyteuous men in derknessis shulen waxe stille; for in his owne strengþ shal not be strengþid a man.
x Þe Lord shulen drede þe aduersaries of hym, and vpon hem in heuenes he shal þondre; þe Lord shal deme þe eendis of erþe, and he shal ȝyue empyre to his kynge, and he shal hieȝ þe horn of his Crift.
xi And Helchana wente in Ramatha, into his hows; forsoþe þe child was seruaunt in þe siȝt of þe Lord before þe face of Hely þe preest.
xii Forsoþe þe sones of Hely þe sones of Belial, not knowyng þe Lord, xiii ne þe office of preeftis to þe puple; but who so euere hadde offerd þe slayn sacrifice, þe child of þe preeft cam, while þe flesh were soþen, and hadde a flesh hook þre topid in his hoond;
xiv and he putte it into þe leede, or into þe cawdroun, or into þe pot, or into þe greet panne; and al þat þe fleshhook reryde, þe preeft took to hym self; so þei diden to al Israel of men comyng in Silo.
xv Also or þat þei brenten þe fat, þe child of þe preeft cam, and seide to þe offrere, ȝif to me flesh, þat I seeþe to þe preeft; I shal not take forsoþe soþen flesh, but rawe.

xvi And þe offrere seide to hym, Be brent first after þe maner to day þe talwȝ, and tak to þee as mych as þi soule desireþ. þe which answerynge seide to hym, Nay, forsoþe nowe þow shalt ȝyue; ellis I shal tak bi forse.
xvii Perfor þe synne of þe children was greet wel mych before þe Lord; for þei drowen a wey men fro þe sacrifice of þe Lord.

xviii Forsoþe Samuel seruede before þe face of þe Lord, a child gird wiþ a surplesse.

xix And a litil coote his moder made to hym, þe which she brouȝt þe ordeyned days, stiynge vp wiþ her man for to offre a solempne ooft, and her vowe.

xx And Hely bleffide to Elchana and to his wif; and he seide to hym, þe Lord ȝeelde to þee seed of þis womman, for þe encrees þat þou haft lent to þe Lord. And þei wenten into her place.

xxi Panne þe Lord visitide Anne, and she conseuyede, and bare þre sones and two douȝtren. And þe child Samuel is magnyfied anentis þe Lord.

xxii Forsoþe Hely was wel oold, and he herde alle þingis þat his sones diden in al Yrael, and what maner wife þei slepten wiþ wymmen, þe whiche weyteden at þe dore of þe tabernacle.

xxiii And he seide to hem, Whi doon ȝe siche maner þingis, þe which I here werfst þingis of al þe puple?

xxiv Wole ȝe not, my sones; it is not good loos þat Y here, þat ȝe maken to trespass þe puple of þe Lord.

xxv If a man synneþ in a man, God may be plesid to him; forsoþe if in to þe Lord a man synneþ, who shal preye for hym? And þei herden not þe voyce of her fader, for God wold sleen hem.

xxvi Forsoþe Samuel þe child profitide, and wexe; and he plefide boþ to God and to men.

xxvii Forsoþe þere cam a man of God to Heli, and seiþ to hym, Pes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Wheþer not apertly Y am shewid to þe hows of þi fader, whanne þei weren in Egipt, in þe hows of Pharao?

xxviii And I cheeþ him of alle þe lynagis of Yrael to me in to preeft, þat he shulde stie vp to myn auter, and brenne to me encense, and beer before me ephot; and I haue ȝouen to þe hows of þi fader alle þingis of þe sacrifices of þe sones of Yrael.

xxix Whi wiþ þe heele ȝe han þrowen awey my slayn sacrifice, and my ȝiftis, þat I haue comaundid to be offred in þe temple; and more þou haft honourede þi sones þan me, þat ȝe myȝten eete þe cheefe þingis of al þe sacrifice of Yrael, my puple?

xxx Perfor seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Spekyng I haue spoken, þat þin hows and þe hows of þi fader serue in my siȝt into wiþ out ende; forsoþe nowe seiþ þe Lord, Awey be þat fro me; but who so euere honouriþ me, Y shal glorifie hym; forsoþe who dispisen me, shulen be vnnoble.

xxxi Loo! þe dais comen, and I shal kut of þin arme, and þe arme of þe hows of þi fadre, þat þere be not an oold man in þin hows.

xxxii And þou shalt see þin enemye in þe temple, in alle þe welsum þingis of Yrael; and þere shal not be an oold man in þin hous alle dais.

xxxiii Neuerþelater I shal not doo awey fulli fro þee a man fro myn auter, but þat þin eyen faylen, and þi lijf fayle; and a greet parti of þin hows shal die, whanne to mannes age it shal come.

xxxiv Forsoþe þis shal be þe tokne, þat is to come to þi two sony, Ophny and Phynees, in o day þei shulen die boþe.

xxxv And I shal rere to me a trewe preest, þat after myn herte and soule shal doo; and I shal bilde to hym a trewe hows, and he shal goo before my Crist alle days.

xxxvi Forsoþe it is to come, þat who so euere abidiþ stil in þin hows, he come þat it be preyed for hym, and he offre a silueren peny, and a round kaak of breed, and feye, Lete me, Y biseche, to o preefe paarte, þat I eete a morsel of breed.

Capitulum III.

i Child forsoþe Samuel mynstred to þe Lord before Hely, and þe sermoun of þe Lord was precious; in þo dais was noon opyn visioun.

ii It was maad þann on a day, Heli leye in his place, and his eyen daswiden, and he myȝte not see þe lanterne of God, before it were quenchid.

iii Forsoþe Samuel slepte in þe temple of þe Lord, where was þe arke of God.

iv And þe Lord clepide Samuel; þe which answerynge seiþ, Loo! I.

v And he ranne to Hely, and feide to hym, Loo! Y; þou haft clepid forsoþe me. Þe which feide, I haue not clepid þee; turn aȝen and sleep. And he ȝede and slept.

vi And þe Lord eft leyde to to clepe Samuel; and Samuel ryfynge ȝede to Heli, and feide, Loo! Y; for þou haft clepid me. Þe which answeryde, Y haue not clepid þee, sone myn; turn aȝen and sleep.

vii Forsoþe Samuel ȝit not knewe þe Lord, ne þe sermoun of þe Lord was openyd to hym.

viii And þe Lord leide to, and ȝit clepide Samuel þe þridde tyme; þe which ryfynge ȝede to Hely, and seiþ, Loo! Y; for þou haft clepid me. Panne Hely vndurstood, þat þe Lord clepide þe child; ix and he seiþ to Samuel, Go and sleep; and if herafter he clepe þee, þou shalt seye, Spek, Lord, for þi seruaunt heriþ. Panne Samuel wente and slept in his place.

x And þe Lord cam, and stood, and clepide as he clepide þe secounde tyme, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuel seiþ, Spek, Lord, for þi seruaunt heriþ.

xi And þe Lord feide to Samuel, Loo! Y doo a word in Yrael, þe which who so euere heriþ, boþe his eeris shulen tynclen.

xii In þat day I shal arere aȝens Hely alle þingis, þe whiche I haue spokun vpon þe hows of hym; Y shal bigynne, and fulfille.

xiii Forsoþe I feide before to hym, þat I was to deme his hows wiþout ende for wickidnes; for þi þat he knewe his sonys vnworþili to doon, and vndurnam hem not.

xiv Perfore Y swore to þe hows of Hely, þat þe wickidnes of hys hows shal not be doon a seep before wiþ flayn sacrifices and ȝiftis vnto wiþ out ende.

xv Forsoþe Samuel slepte vnto þe morwe, and he openyde þe dorys of þe hows of þe Lord; and Samuel dredde to shewe þe vifyoun to Hely.

xvi Panne Hely clepide Samuel, and feide, Samuel, my sone. Þe which answerynge seiþ, Y am redy.

xvii And he askide hym, What is þe word þat þe Lord haþ spoken to þee? Y preye þee, ne hele þou fro me; þes þingis do to þee God, and þes þingis adde, if þou hidist fro me a word of alle þe wordis þat ben seyd to þee.

xviii And Samuel shewide to hym alle þe wordis, and hidde not fro hym. And he answerde, A Lord he is; þat good is in his eyen, do he.

xix Forsoþe Samuel wexe, and þe Lord was wiþ hym, and þere felle not into þe erþe of alle þe wordis of hym.

xx And alle Yrael knewȝ fro Dan vnto Bersabee, þat Samuel was þe feiþful prophet of þe Lord.

xxi And þe Lord addide þat he shulde apere in Sylo, for þe Lord was shewid to Samuel in Sylo after þe word of þe Lord; and þe word of Samuel felle 'into al Yrael.

Capitulum III.

i And it is doon in þo days Philistien camen togidre into fiȝt; forsoþe and Yrael wente out into batayl to meet Phylistien, and he sette tentis bisyde þe stoon of help. Forsoþe Philistien camen into Aphet, ii and maden shiltroun aȝens Yrael. Forsoþe, þe strij bigun, Yrael turnede backis to þe Philistiens; and þere ben flayn in þat strij pasmele bi feeldis as foure bowsandys of men;

iii and þe puple is turnede aȝen to þe tentis. And þe more þurȝ birþ of Yrael seyden, Whi haþ þe Lord smyten vs to day before Philistien? Brynge we forþ to vs fro Sylo þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and come it in þe myddil of vs, þat it saue vs fro þe hoond of oure enemyes.

iv Panne þe puple senten into Sylo, and token þens þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord of oostis, fittyng vpon cherubym. And þe two sones of Hely, Ophny and Phynees, weren wiþ þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord.

v And whanne þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord was comen into þe tentis, al Yrael cryede out wiþ a greet crye, and þe erþ þurȝ sownede.

vi And Philistien herden þe voys of þe crye, and feiden, Forsoþe what is þis vois of greet crye in þe tentis of Ebrewis? And þei knewen, þat þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord was comen into þe tentis. vii And Philistien dredden, seiyng, God is comen into þe tentis; and inwardly þei weilden, seiyng, Woo to vs! forsoþe þere was not so mych gladyng ȝesterday, ne before ȝistiday;
viii woo to vs! who þhal kepe vs fro þe hoondis of þes heiȝe goddis? þes ben þe goddis þat smyten Egyp bi al veniaunce in deseert.
ix Takip coumfort, and 'be ȝe men of Philistien, ne serue ȝe to Ebrewis, as þei serueden to vs; takip coumfort, and fiȝtip.
x Panne Philystien fouȝten, and Yrael is hewen down, and echon fleeȝ into his tabernacle; and þere is doon a wel greet veniaunce, and þere fallen of Yrael pretti bowsandis of foot men.
xi And þe arke of God is taken, and þe two sones of Hely ben deed, Ophny and Phynees.
xii Forsoþe rennyng a man of Beniamyn fro þe fheltroun cam into Sylo in þat day, rent þe clooþ, and spreynt wiþ powdre þe heed; xiii and whan he was comen, Hely sat vpon þe litil feet aȝens þe weye abidyng; forsoþe his herte was dredyng for þe arke of þe Lord. Forsoþe þat man after þat he is goon yn, toolde to þe cytee, and al þe cytee ȝellide.
xiv And Hely herde þe sown of þe crye, and seide, What is þis sown of þis noyse? And he hiede, and cam, and toold to Hely.
xv Forsoþe Hely was of nynty and eiȝt ȝeer, and his eyen dasweden, and he myȝt not se. xvi And he seyde to Hely, Y am þat am comen fro þe batayl, and Y þat haue flowen fro þe shiltroun to day.
To whom he seiþ, What is doon, sone myn?
xvii Answerynge forsoþe he þat toold, seiþ, Yrael haþ flowen before þe Philistiens, and a greet fallyng is doo in þe puple; also and þi two sones been deed, Ophny and Phynees, and þe arke of God is takun.
xviii And whanne he hadde nemnyd þe arke, he felle fro þe litil feet backward biside þe dore, and þe scullis brokun, he is deed. Forsoþe an oold man he was, and of greet age; and he demyde Yrael fourti ȝeer.
xix His douȝtre in lawe forsoþe, þe wijf of Phynees, was wiþ child, and nyȝ to þe beryng; and þe messenger herde þat þe arke of God was takun, and hir fader in lawe deed, and hir man, þe bowide hir self, and bare child; forsoþe þere fallen in hir fodeyn forwis.
xx Forsoþe in þat moment of her deeþ feiden to hir, þat stoden about hir, Ne drede þow, for a sone þow hast born. Þe which answarde not to hem, forsoþe ne took hede.
xxi And þe clepide þe child Hicaboth, seiyng, Translatid is þe glorye of þe Lord fro Israel, for takun is þe ark of God; and for hir fader in lawe and for hir man þe seiþ, xxii Translatid is þe glorie of God fro Yrael; forþi þat þe arke of God was takun.

Capitulum V.

i Philistien forsoþe token þe arke of God, and beren it fro þe stoon of help into Azoth.
ii And Philistien token þe arke of God, and brouȝten it into þe temple of Dagon, and setten it beside Dagon.
iii And whanne Azothis weren ryfen eerli þe toþer day, loo! Dagon lay redi in þe eerþ before þe ark of þe Lord. And þei token Dagon, and setten it aȝen in his place.
iv And eft, eerly þe toþer day rysynge, þei fonden Dagon liyng vpon his face in þe erþ before þe arke of þe Lord. Forsoþe þe heed of Dagon, and þe two palmyrs of his hoondis weren kut awey vpon þe þreshwold; forsoþe þe stok of Dagon aloone lafte in his place.
v For þis cause þe preestis of Dagon, and alle þat goon into his temple, treden not vpon þe þreshwold of Dagon in Azoth vnto þe day þat is nowe.
vi Forsoþe þe hoond of þe Lord is greggid vpon þe Azothis, and he waſtide hem, and he smoot Azothe and his coostis in þe more priue party of þe arſis; and þe towns and feeldis booyleden out in þe mydil of þat regiou[n], and myis ben born; and þere is doon a greet confusioun of deeþ in þe cytee.
vii Men forsoþe of Azoth seyng fiche a maner veniaunce feiden, Dwel not þe arke of God of Yrael anentis vs; for hard is his hoond vpon vs, and vpon Dagon oure god.
viii And seendyng þei gedreden to hem self alle þe maystris of Philistiens, and feiden, What shulen we doo of þe arke of God of Yrael? And Gethey answerten, Þe arke of God of Yrael be turned about; and þei turneden about þe arke of God of Yrael.
ix Forsoþe hem turnyng it about, þe hoond of þe Lord of a greet flauȝter wel mych was doon vpon alle þe cytees; and he smoot þe men of ech cytee fro litil vnto more, and þe arſroppis of hem goyng out stonken; and Gethey wenten into counseil, and maden to hem leþeren feetis.
x Panne þei senten þe arke of þe Lord into Acharon.
And whanne þe arke of þe Lord was comen into Acharon, Acharonytis cryeden out, seiyng, Pei han brouȝt to vs þe arke of God of Yrael, þat he fle vs and oure puple.
xi Pei fenten þanne, and gedriden togidre alle þe maystris of Philistiens; þe which feiden, Leeue ȝe þe arke of God of Yrael, and be it turned aȝen into his place, and fle it not vs wiþ oure puple. Forsoþe dred of deþ was maad in alle þe cytees, and moost greuous was greetli þe hoond of þe Lord.

xii Forsoþe þe men, þat weren not deed, weren smyten in þe priuyer party of þe arfis, and þe ȝellynge of ech cytee stiede vp into heuene.

Capitulum VI.

- i Was þanne þe arke of þe Lord in þe regiouen of þe Philistiens feuen moneþes;
- ii and after þes þingis Philistiens clepiden þe preestis and dyuynours, seiyng, What shal we doon wiþ þe arke of God? Shewe ȝe vs, what maner wylle we shulen fende it aȝen 'in to his place.
- iii ȝe whiche seiden, If ȝe fenden aȝen þe arke of God of Yrael, wole ȝe not leeue it voyde, but þat ȝe owen, ȝeldeþ to hym for þe synne; and þanne ȝe shulen be heelid, and ȝe shulen knowe, whi þat his hoond goþ not a wey fro ȝow.
- iv ȝe whiche seiden, What is þat for þe trespass we owen to ȝeeld to it?
- v And þei answarden, After noumber of prouyncis of Philistiens fyue golden arfis ȝe shulen make, and fyue golden myis; for o plage was to ȝow alle and to ȝoure maistris. And ȝe shulen make a licnesse of ȝoure arfis, and a licnesse of þe myis þat han waftid þe loond; and ȝe shulen ȝyue to þe God of Yrael glorye, if perauenture he releue his hoond fro ȝou, and fro ȝoure goddis, and fro ȝoure loond.
- vi Whi aggreggen ȝe ȝoure hertis, as Egipt aggregide, and Pharao his hert? Wheþer not after he is smyten, þanne he lafte hem, and þei ȝeden a wey?
- vii Nowe þanne takip, and makip a newe weyn, and ioyneþ two kyen þat han calued late, in þe weyn, to whom is not put on ȝok; and reclosip her calues at home.
- viii And ȝe shulen take þe arke of þe Lord, and putte in þe weyn; and þe goldun vessels þat ȝe han payed out to it for þe trespass, ȝe shulen put in a litle cofre at þe side of it; and leeue ȝe it, þat it goo.
- ix And ȝe shulen biholden, forsoþe and if bi þe weye of her coofcis it stie vp aȝen Bethsames, it haþ doo to ȝou þis greet yuel; forsoþe if not, we shulen wytte þat þe hoond of it haþ not towchid vs, but by hap it haþ fallun.
- x þanne þei diden þis wife; and takyng two kyen þat ȝauen calues sowke, þei ioyneden to þe wayn; forsoþe þe calues of hem þei clofiden at home.
- xi And þei putten þe arke of God vpon þe wayn, and þe little coofre þat hadde þe golden myis, and þe licnes of arfis.
- xii Forsoþe þe kyen ȝeden euen ryȝt bi þe weye þat ledip to Bethsames; and in o weye þei wenten goynge and loowynge, and þei bowden not asyde ne to þe ryȝt ne to þe left; but and þe maylris of Philistyens folweden vnto þe teermys of Bethsames.

xiii Forsoþe Bethsamytis repiden whete in þe valey, and rerynge vp þe eyen þei seen þe arke, and þei ioyeden, whanne þei hadden seen.

xiv And þe wayn cam into þe feeld of Josue Bethsamyte, and stood þere. Forsoþe a greet stoon was þere; and þei heweden þe trees of þe wayn, and þe kien þei putten vpon, þe brent sacrifice to þe Lord.

xv Forsoþe Leuytis putten down þe arke of God, and þe litil coofre þat was biside it, in þe which weren þe golden vessels; and þei putten vpon þe greet stoon. Forsoþe Bethsamytis men offreden brent sacrifice, and flewen sacrifices in þat day to þe Lord.

xvi And þe fyue maylris of Philistiens seen, and ben turned aȝen into Acharon in þat day.

xvii Forsoþe þes ben þe golden arfis, ȝe whiche Philistiens for þe trespass solden to þe Lord; Aȝot oon, Gaza oon, Ashalon oon, Geth oon, Acharon oon; xviii and goldun myis after þe noumber of Philistiens cytees, of þe fyue prouyncis, fro wallid cytee vnto toun þat was wiþ outen wal, and vnto greet Abel, vpon þe which he putte þe ark of þe Lord, þat was vnto þat day in þe feeld of Josue Bethsamyte.

xix Forsoþe he smoot of þe men of Bethsamyte, for þat þei hadden seen þe arke of þe Lord, and he smoot of þe puple feuenti men, and fifti þowsandis of þe raskeyl. And þe puple weyliden, whanne þe Lord hadde smyten wiþ a greet veniaunce þe comoun puple.

xx And þe men of Bethsamyte seiden, Who shal mowe stoon in þe siȝt of þis holy Lord God, and to whom shal he stye vp fro vs?

xi And þei lanten messagerys to þe dwellers of Caryathyarym, seiyng, Philistiens han brouȝt aȝen þe arke of þe Lord; comeþ doun, and bryngip it aȝen to ȝow.

Capitulum VII.

i Thanne þe men of Caryathyarym camen, and brouȝten aȝen þe arke of þe Lord, and beren it into þe hows of Amynadab in Gabaa. And þei halweden Eleazer his sone, for he shulde kepe þe arke of þe Lord.

ii And it is doon, fro what day þe arke of þe Lord dwellide in Caryathiarym, multiplied ben þe days; forsoþe nowe was þe twentipe ȝeer; and al þe hows of Yrael restide after þe Lord.

iii Forsoþe Samuel seiþ to al þe hows of Yrael, seiyng, If in al ȝoure herte ȝe turnen to þe Lord, doþ awey alien goddis fro þe mydil of ȝow, Baalym and Astaroth; and makip redi ȝoure hertis to þe Lord, and serueþ to hym alone; and he shal delyuere ȝow fro þe hand of Philistyens.

iv þanne þe sones of Yrael token awey Baalym and Astaroth, and serueden to þe Lord alone.

v Forsoþe Samuel seide, Gederip al Yrael in to Maspheat, þat Y preye þe Lord for ȝou.

vi And þei camen togidre in Masphat, and þei drewen water, and heelden out in þe riȝt of þe Lord; and þei fastiden in þat day, and seiden, To þee we han synned, Lord. And Samuel demyde þe fones of Yrael in Masphat.

vii And Philistiens herden þat þe fones of Yrael weren gedryd in Masphat; and þe satrapis of Philistiens stieden vp to Yrael. Þe which bing whanne þe fones of Yrael hadden herd, þei dredden fro þe face of Philistiens.

viii And þei feiden to Samuel, Ne ceese þow for vs to crye to þe Lord oure God, þat he faue vs fro þe hond of Philistiens.

ix Forsoþe Samuel took o fowkyng loomb, and offred it into hool brent sacrifice to þe Lord. And Samuel criede to þe Lord for Yrael; and þe Lord herde hym.

x Forsoþe it is doon, whanne Samuel offredre brent facryfice, Philistiens to-goon into batayl aȝens Yrael. Forsoþe þe Lord þundryde wiþ greet crakkyng in þat day vpon þe Philistiens, and he feeride hem; and þei ben flayn fro þe face of Yrael.

xi And þe fones of Yrael goon out fro Masphat, purfueden Philistiens, and smyten hem vnto þe place þat was vndur Betaar.

xii Forsoþe Samuel took a stoon, and putte it betwix Masphat and betwix Sen; and he clepide þe name of þat place þe stoon of help. And he seide, Hidir to þe Lord hab̄ holpen to vs.

xiii And Philistiens ben mekid, and no more ouer þei leiden to þat þei camen into þe teermys of Yrael. And so is doon þe hond of þe Lord vpon Philistiens alle þe days of Samuel.

xiv And þe cytees þat þe Philistiens token fro Yrael, ben ȝolden aȝen to Yrael, fro Accharon vnto Geth and his teermys; and he delyueride Yrael fro þe hond of Philistiens; and pees was bitwix Yrael and Ammorre.

xv Forsoþe Samuel demyde Yrael alle þe days of his liȝf; xvi and wente bi eche ȝeer enuyrounyng Bethel, and Galgal, and Masphat, and he demyde Yrael in þe forseid placis;

xvii and turned aȝen in to Ramatha, forsoþe þere was his hows; and þere he demyde Yrael, and he bildide vp þere also an auter to þe Lord.

Capitulum VIII.

i Forsoþe it is doon whanne Samuel wexe oold, he putte his fones domefmen of Yrael.

ii And þe name of his first geten fone was Joel, þe name of þe secounde Abya, domysmen in Bersabe.

iii And þe fones of hym wenten not in his weyes, but boweden aside after aueryce, and þei token ȝiftis, and þei perueridene doom.

iv ȝann alle þe more þurȝ birþ of Yrael gedrid, camen to Samuel in Ramatha.

v And þei seiden to hym, Loo! þou art waxen oold, and þi fones goon not in þi weyes; ordeyn to vs a kyng, þat he deme vs, and as alle nacyouns han.

vi And þe word disfleside in þe eyen of Samuel, forþi þat þei hadden seid, ȝif to vs a kyng, þat he deme vs. And Samuel preide to þe Lord.

vii Forsoþe þe Lord seide to Samuel, Here þe voys of þe puple in alle þingis þat þei speken to þee; forsoþe þei han not þroun a wey þee, but me, leſt Y regne vpon hem.

viii Aftir alle her werkis þat þei han doo, fro þe day þat Y ladde hem out of Egipt vnto þis day, as þei forfaken me, and ferueden to alien goddis, so þei doon also to þee.

ix Nowe þanne here þe voyce of hem; neuerþelater take hem togidre to witnesse; and sey before to hem þe riȝt of a kyng, þe which is to regne vpon hem.

x And so Samuel seide alle þe wordis of þe Lord to þe puple, þat askiden of him a kyng;

xi and seip, ȝis shal be þe riȝt of a kyng, þat is to comaunde to ȝou; ȝoure fonyngs he shal take, and putte in his charys; and he shal make to hym ryders, and before renners of his long cartis;

xii and he shal ordeyn to hym rewlers of þowsandis, and rewlers of hundridis, and ereres of his feeldis, and repers of cornys, and smyþis of aarmys, and of his charis.

xiii Forsoþe ȝoure douȝtres he shal make to him oynement makers, and fier makers, and cloþmakers.

xiv Forsoþe ȝoure feeldis and vynes and olyues, þe best he shal take, and ȝyue to his feruauntis.

xv But and ȝoure cornys, and þe rentis of vynes he shal tiȝe, þat he ȝyue to geldyngis and to his feruauntis.

xvi Forsoþe ȝoure feruauntis and hoondwymmen, and þe best ȝonge men and affis he shal take awey, and putte in his werk.

xvii Forsoþe ȝoure flockis he shal tiȝe, and ȝe shulen be to him feruauntis.

xviii And ȝe shulen crye in þat day fro þe face of ȝoure kyng, whom ȝe han chosun to ȝow; and þe Lord shal not here ȝou in þat day, for ȝe han askid to ȝou a kyng.

xix Forsoþe þe puple wolden not here þe vois of Samuel, but feiden, Nay, forsoþe a kyng shal be vpon vs;

xx and we forsoþe shulen be as oper folk of kynde, and ȝoure kyng shal deme vs, and he shal go out before vs, and he shal fiȝt ȝoure batayl for vs.

xi And Samuel herde alle þe wordis of þe puple, and spak hem in þe eeris of þe Lord.

xxii Forsoþe þe Lord seide to Samuel, Here þow þe voys of hem, and set vpon hem a kyng. And Samuel seiȝ to þe men of Yrael, Goo ech man into his cytee.

Capitulum IX.

i And þere was a man of Beniamyn, Cys bi name, þe sone of Abyel, sone of Seor, sone of Bethor, sone of Aphya, sone of þe man of Gemyny, stronge bi strengþ.
ii And þer was to hym a sone, Saul bi name, chofyn and good; and þere was not a man of þe sones of Israel betere þan he; fro þe shuldre and aboue he peeryde aboue al þe puple.
iii Forsoþe þe shee assys of Cys, fadre of Saul, weren lost. And Cys seide to Saul his sone, Tak wiþ bee oon of þe children, and ryfyng go, and seche þe she assis.
iv Þe which whanne þei hadden passid bi þe mount of Effraym, and bi þe loond of Saliza, and þei hadden not foundun, þei passiden also bi þe loond of Salym, and þere was noon; bot and by þe loond of Gemyny, and þei founden not.
v Forsoþe whanne þei weren comen into þe loond of Suph, and hadden not foundun, Saul seide to his chijld þat was wiþ hym, Come, and turne we aȝen; left perauenture my fadre leeue þe she assis, and be bysie for vs.
vi Þe which seiþ to hym, Loo! þe man of God is in þis cytee, a noble man; al þat he spekiþ, wiþ out dout it comeþ. Now þanne goo we þidre, if perauenture he shewe to vs of oure weye, for þe which we ben comen.
vii And Saul feyde to his child, Loo! we shulen go; what shulen we bryng to þe man of God? Breed fayliþ in oure sackis, and a lepe we han not, þat we ȝyuen to þe man of God, ne eny ober þing.
viii Eft þe child answarde to Saul, and seiþ, Loo! þere is founden in myn hoond þe feerþ part of a ficle of filuer; and ȝyue we to þe man of God, þat he shewe to vs oure weye.
ix Sumtyme in Yrael þus spak echon goyng to counfeyle God, Comeþ, and goo we to þe seer; forsoþe he, þat to day is feid a prophet, sumtyme was clepid seer.
x And Saul seide to his child, Alþerbest is þi word; com, go we. And þei wenten into þe cyte, in þe which was þe man of God.
xi And whanne þei stieden vp þe hil of þe cithee, þei founden children wymmen goyng out to drawe watir, and þei seiden to hem, Wheþer here is þe seer?
xii Þe which answerynge feiden to hem, Here he is, loo! before þee; hye nowe, forsoþe to day he cam into þe cytee; for to day is sacrifice of þe puple in þe heiȝe.
xiii Goyng into þe cyte anoon ȝe shulen fynde hym, or he stie vp into þe hiȝe for to eete; forsoþe ne þe puple is to eete to þe tyme þat he come, for he shal blesse to þe oost, and þere after shulen eete þat ben clepid. Nowe þanne stieþ vp, for to day ȝe shulen fynde hym.
xiv And þei stieden vp into þe cytee. And whanne þei wenten in þe mydil of þe cyte, Samuel aperyd goyng out metyng to hem, þat he stye vp into þe heiȝe.
xv Forsoþe þe Lord hadde toold þe litil eer of Samuel before o day, þat Saul cam, seiyng, xvi Þis fame our þat nowe is to morwe, Y shal seende to þee a man of þe loond of Beniamyn, and þow shalt anoynyt hym duyk vpon my puple Yrael, and he shal saue my puple fro þe hoond of Philistyns; for I haue biholden my puple, forsoþe þe crye of hem is comen to me.

xvii And whanne Samuel hadde beholden Saul, þe Lord seide to hym, Loo! þe man þat I seide to þee; þis shal lordship to my puple.
xviii Forsoþe Saul neȝede to Samuel in þe mydil of þe ȝate, and seiþ, Shewe to me, Y preye, where is þe hows of þe seer?
xix And Samuel answarde to Saul, seiyng, Y am þe seer; stiþ vp before me into þe heiȝ, þat þou eete wiþ me to day, and Y shal leeue þee þe morwetide, and alle þingis þat ben in þin herte Y shal shewe to þee.
xx And of þe assis 'þe which þre days hens þou lostist, ne be þow bysý, for þei ben foundun; and of whom shulen be alle þe best þingis of Yrael, wheþer not to þee, and to al þe hows of þi fader?
xxi Forsoþe Saul answerynge seiþ, Wheþer not þe sone of Gemyny Y am, of þe leest lynage of Yrael, and my kynrede þe last among alle þe meynees of þe lynage of Beniamyn? Whi þanne haft þou spoken to me þes wordis?
xxii And so Samuel takyng Saul, and hys child, brouȝte hem into þe hows of þre benchis, and he ȝaf to hem a place in þe cheefe of hem þat weren boden to meet; forsoþe þere weren as þretti men.
xxiii And Samuel seide to þe cook, ȝif þow þe part þat I ȝaf to þee, and comaundide, þat þow shulde lay aside anentis þee.
xxiv And þe cook reryde þe shuldre, and putte before Saul. And Samuel seide, Loo! þat is laft, put before þee, and ete; for of purpos it is kept to þee, whanne Y clepide þe puple. And Saul eet wiþ Samuel in þat day.
xxv And þei wenten down fro þe heiȝ into þe burȝ town; and he spak wiþ Saul in þe folere, and he beddide Saul in þe folere, and he slepte.
xxvi And whanne eerly þei weren rySEN, and nowe þe day wexe liȝt, Samuel clepide Saul into þe folere, seiyng, Ryle, þat Y leeue þee. And Saul roos, and boþe þei wenten oute, he, þat is, and Samuel.
xxvii And whanne þei weren goo down in þe vttermoȝt parti of þe cytee, Samuel seide to Saul, Sey to þe child, þat he goo before vs, and passe forþ; forsoþe þow stoond stil a litil, while þat Y shewe to þee þe word of þe Lord.

Capitulum X.

i Samuel forsoþe took a 'litil brytil vefel of oyle, and heelde out on his heed, and he kisſide hym, and seiþ, Loo! þe Lord haþ anoynytide þee vp on his erytage into a prince; and þow shalt delyuer his puple fro þe hoondis of her enemyes, 'þe which ben in enuyroun of it. And þis to þee a tokne, for þe Lord haþ anoyntide þee into a prince;

ii whanne þow gost to dai fro me, þow shalt fynde two men byſide þe sepulcre of Rachel, in þe cooftis of Beniamyn, in þe mydday, feermynge greet dichis; and þei shulen seye to þee, Þe he assis ben foundun, to þe whiche to be souȝt þou wentist; and þi fader, þe meen while þe assis laſt, is bify for ȝow, and seiþ, What shal Y do of my sone?

iii And whanne þou gost þens, and ferþer passist, and comest to þe ook of Thabor, þre men shulen fynde þee bere, stiynge vp to God into Bethel, oon berynge þre kyddis, and anoþer berynge þre kakis of breed, and anoþer berynge a galoun of wyn.

iv And whanne þei saluten þee, þei shulen ȝyue to þee two looues, and þow shalt take of þe hoond of hem.

v After þes þingis þou shalt come into þe hil of þe Lord, where is þe stacioun of Phylistynes; and whanne þow were goon into þe cytee, þere þow shalt haue metyng a floc of prophetis comyng doun fro þe heeȝ, and before hem a sawtrye, and a tymbre, and a trompe, and an harp, and hem propheciyng.

vi And þe Spyrit of þe Lord shal leep into þee, and þow shalt prophecy wiþ hem, and þow shalt be chaungid into anoþer man.

vii Whanne þanne alle þes toknes comen to þee, do what euere þingis fyndiþ þin hoond, for þe Lord is wiþ
þee.

viii And þow shalt goo doun before me in Galgala; forsoþe Y shal come down to þee, þat þow offre an offryng, and offre peſible flayn sacrificis; ſeuен days þow shalt abide, to þe tyme þat Y come to þee, and ſhewe to þee what þow doo.

ix And so whanne he hadde turned his ſhuldre, þat he ȝede fro Samuel, God wiþ ynne chaungide to hym anoþer herte, and alle þes toknes camen in þat day.

x And þei camen to þe forſeyd hil, and loo! a companye of prophetis metyng to hym; and þe Spyrit of þe Lord leepe yn vpon hym, and he prophecie in þe mydil of hem.

xi Forſoþe feynge alle, þat knewen hym ȝiftydary and þe þridde day hens, þat he was wiþ prophetis, and prophecie, feiden togidre, What nowe þing falliþ to þe ſone of Cys? Wheþer and Saul among þe prophetis?

xii And anoþer anſwerde to be toþir, feiyng, And who is þe fadre of hym? Perfor it is turnyd into a prouerbe, Wheþer and Saul among þe prophetis?

xiii Forſoþe he cefide to prophecie, and cam to þe heiȝ.

xiv And þe broþer of þe fader of Saul faide to hym, and to his child, Whidre 'wenten ȝe? Þe whiche anſwerde, To feche þe the assis; þe whiche whanne we hadden not founde, we camen to Samuel.

xv And his fader broþer feide to him, Shewe to me what Samuel feide to þee.

xvi And Saul seiþ to his fader broþir, He ſhewide to vs, for þe the assis weren founden. Forſoþe of þe word of þe kyngdam he ſhewide not to hym, þe which Samuel ſpakte to hym.

xvii And Samuel clepide togidre þe puple to þe Lord in Masphat;

xviii and seiþ to þe ſones of Yrael, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Y haue ladde out Yrael fro Egipt, and Y haue delyuerde ȝow fro þe hoond of Egipciens, and fro þe hoond of alle kyngis þat tourmentiden ȝow.

xix Forſoþe ȝe to day han browun a wey ȝoure God, þe which alone ſaueþ ȝow fro alle yuels, and ȝoure tribulacions; and ȝe han feiden, Nay, but a kyng ordeyn vpon vs. Nowe þanne ſtondiþ before þe Lord bi ȝoure lynagis, and by meynees.

xx And Samuel appliede alle þe lynagis of Yrael, and þe lot felle vpon þe lynage of Beniamyn.

xi And he apliede þe lynage of Beniamyn, and þe kynredis of hym; and lot felle vpon þe kynrede of Metry, and cam vnto Saul, þe ſone of Cys. þanne þei ſouȝten hym, and he is not founden þere.

xxii And þei counfeilden after þes þingis þe Lord, forſoþe wheþer he were to come þidre. And þe Lord anſwerde, Loo! he is hidde at home.

xxiii And so þei runnen, and token hym þens; and he ſtood in þe mydil of þe puple, and he was heiȝer þan al þe puple fro þe ſhuldres and aboue.

xxiv And Samuel ſeiþ to al þe puple, Certis ȝe ſeen whom þe Lord haþ chofun; for þere is noon lijk to hym in al þe puple. And al þe puple criede, and ſeiþ, Lyue þe kyng!

xxv Forſoþe Samuel ſpakte to þe puple þe lawe of þe rewme, and wroot in þe book, and leyde vp before þe Lord. And Samuel laſt al þe puple, eche into her hows;

xxvi but and Saul wente into his hows in Gabaath; and wente wiþ hym a paart of þe oost, of whom God hadde towchid þe hertis.

xxvii Forſoþe þe ſones of Belial feiden, Wheþer þis ſhal mowe ſaue vs? And þei diſpysiden hym, and brouȝten not to hym ȝiftis; forſoþe he feynde, as þouȝ he herde not.

Capitulum XI.

i And it is doon as after a moneþ, Naas Amonite ſtiede vp, and bigan to fiȝt aȝens Jabel Galaath. And alle þe men of Jabel feiden to Naas, Haue þow vs boundun in pees, and we shulen ferue to þee.

ii And Naas Amonite anſwerde to hem, In þis I ſhal ſmyte wiþ ȝou boond of pees, þat I drawe out þe ryȝt eyen of ȝow alle, and Y put ȝou reproue in al Yrael.

iii And þe eldres of Jabel feiden to hym, Graunt to vs ſeuен days, þat we ſenden meſſagers to alle þe teermes of Yrael; and if þere weren not þe which defende vs, we shulen goon out to þee.

iv þanne meſſagers camen into Gabaath of Saul, and ſpeken þe wordis, herynge þe puple; and al þe puple reryde her voys, and wepte.

v And, loo! Saul cam, folowyngē þe oxen fro þe feeld; and seiþ, What hap þe puple, þat he wepiþ? And þei toolden to hym þe wordis of þe men of Jabels.

vi And þe Spyrit of þe Lord leepe into Saul, whanne he hadde herd þes wordis, and þe woodnesse of hym wrappid wel mych.

vii And takyngē to eiþer oxe he hewȝ into gobetis, and sente into alle þe teermys of Yrael, bi þe hoond of þe messageers, seiynge, Who so euere gōt not out, and hap not folwid Saul and Samuel, þus shal be doo to þe oxen of hym. Panne þe dred of þe Lord cauȝte þe puple, and þei wenten out as o man.

viii And he noumbred hem in Beseth; and of þe sones of Yrael weren þre hundrid þowfandis; of þe men forsoþe of Juda þretti þowfandis.

ix And þei seiden to þe messagers þat camen, So ȝe shulen seie to þe men þat ben in Jabels of Galaath, To morwe shal be to ȝow helþ, whanne þe sunne hetiþ. Panne þe messagerys camen, and toolden to þe men of Jabels; þe whiche weren glad, x and seiden, To morwe we shulen goo out to ȝow, and ȝe shulen doo to vs al þat shal plese to ȝow.

xi And it is doon, whanne þe morwe was comen, Saul sette þe puple in þre parties; and he wente into þe mydil tentis in þe morwetide watche, and he smoot Amon `vnto þe tyme þat þe day hetide; forsoþe þe toþer ben scatrid, so þat þere weren not laft in hem tweyn togidre.

xii And þe puple seiþ to Samuel, Who is he þis, þat seide, Saul shal not regne vpon vs? ȝif ȝe þe men, and we shulen flee hem.

xiii And Saul seiþ, Pere shal not be flayn eny man in þis day, for to day þe Lord hap doon helþ in Yrael.

xiv Forsoþe Samuel seide to þe puple, Comeþ, and goo we into Galgala, and renewe we þere þe rewme.

xv And al þe puple ȝede to Galgala, and þei maden þere Saul a kyng before þe Lord in Galgala; and þei offreden pefyble flayn sacrifice to þe Lord. And Saul gladdide þere, and alle þe men of Yrael wel mych.

Capitulum XII.

i Forsoþe Samuel seide to alle Yrael, Loo! I haue herd ȝoure voys aftir alle þingis þat ȝe han spokun to me, and I haue ordeyned vpon ȝou a kyng;

ii and nowe þe kyng gōt before ȝow. Forsoþe Y haue eeldid, and waxen hoor; forsoþe my sones ben wiþ ȝow; also conuersaunt before ȝou fro my ȝongþ vnto þis day.

iii Loo! Y am redi; spek ȝe to me before þe Lord, and before þe crift of hym; wheþer oxe of eny man Y took, or aſſe; if eny man Y chalengide; if Y opprefſide eny man; if of þe hoond of eny man Y took ȝift; and Y shal dispise it to day, and restore to ȝow.

iv And þei seiden, Pow haſt not chalengid vs, ne opprefſid, ne takyn eny þing of þe hoond of eny man.

v And he seide to hem, Witnesse is þe Lord aȝens ȝow, and witnesse þe crift of hym in þis day; for ȝe han not founden in myn hoond eny þing. And þei seiden, Witneſſe.

vi And Samuel seiþ to þe puple, Þe Lord, þat made Moyſen and Aaron, and ladde ȝoure fadres fro þe loond of Egipt, is nyȝ;

vii now þanne stondiþ, þat in doom I stryue aȝens ȝow before þe Lord, of alle þe mercyes of þe Lord, þat he hap done wiþ ȝow, and wiþ ȝoure fadres.

viii What maner wife Jacob wente into Egipt, and ȝoure fadres crierden to þe Lord; and þe Lord sente Moyſes and Aaron, and ladde ȝoure fadres out of Egipt, and sette hem in þis place.

ix Þe whiche forȝeten of þe Lord, her God; and he took hem in þe hoond of Cyſar, mayſter of þe knyȝthod of Asor, and in þe hoond of Philistiens, and in þe hond of þe king of Moab; and þei fouȝten aȝens hem.

x Forsoþe aftyrward þei cryeden to þe Lord, and seiden, We han synned, for we han forlakun þe Lord, and ferueden to Baalym and Aſtaroth; nowe þanne delyuer vſ fro þe hoond of oure enemyes, and we shulen ferue to þee.

xi And þe Lord sente Jeroboal, and Bedan, and Barach, and Jepte, and Samuel; and he delyuerde ȝow fro þe hoond of ȝoure enemyes bi enuyroun; and ȝe han dwel lid trufily.

xii Forsoþe seyngē þat Naas, þe kyng of þe sones of Amon, was comen aȝens ȝow, ȝe seiden to me, Nay, but þe kyng shal comaunde to vs; whanne þe Lord ȝour God shulde regne in ȝow.

xiii Nowe þanne ȝoure kyng is redi, whom ȝe han chosen and aſkid; loo! þe Lord hap ȝeuen to ȝow a kyng.

xiv If ȝe dreden þe Lord, and ferueþ to hym, and heriþ þe voys of hym, and whettiþ not þe mouȝ of þe Lord; and ȝe shulen ben, and þe kyng þat comaundiþ to ȝow, folowyngē þe Lord ȝoure God.

xv Forsoþe if ȝe heren not þe voys of þe Lord, but whettiþ out þe word of hym, þe hoond of þe Lord shal be vpon ȝow, and vpon ȝoure fadres.

xvi But nowe stondiþ, and seeþ his greet þing þat þe Lord is to doo in ȝoure ſiȝt.

xvii Wheþer not repynge tyme of whete is to day? Y shal inwardly clepe þe Lord, and he shal ȝyue voicis, and reynes; and ȝe shulen wite, and feen, for greet yuel ȝe han doo to ȝow in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord, aſkyngē vpon ȝow a kyng.

xviii And Samuel criede to þe Lord, and þe Lord ȝaf voicis and reynes in þat day. And al þe puple dredde wel mych þe Lord and Samuel;

xix and al þe puple seide to Samuel, Prey for þi feruauntis to þe Lord þi God, þat we dyen not; forsoþe we han addid to alle oure synnes yuel, þat we aſken to vſ a kyng.

xx Forsoþe Samuel seide to þe puple, Wole ȝe not drede; ȝe han doon alle þis yuel; neuerþelater wole ȝe not goo awey fro þe bak of þe Lord, but serueþ to þe Lord in al ȝoure herte;
 xxi and wole ȝe not bowe aside after veyn þingis, þat þulen not profyt ȝou, ne þulen delyuer ȝou; for veyn þingis þei ben.
 xxii And þe Lord shal not forsake his puple for his greet name; for þe Lord haþ sworn to make ȝow to hym a puple.
 xxiii Forsoþe God sheelde þe synne fro me in þe Lord, þat I ceese to prey for ȝow; and I shal teche ȝow a riȝt weye and good.
 xxiv Perfor dredip þe Lord, and serueþ to hym in treuþ, and of al ȝoure herte; forsoþe ȝe han seen þe greet dedis, 'þe which he haþ doon in ȝow; xxv and if ȝe ben stedfast in malice, and ȝe and ȝou kyng to gidre þulen perishe.

Capitulum XIII.

i A sone of o ȝeer was Saul whanne he began to regne; forsoþe two ȝeer he regnede vpon Israel.
 ii And Saul chees to hym þre þowfandis of Yrael, and þere weren 'in Machynas wiþ Saul two þowfandis, in þe hil of Bethel; forsoþe a þowfand wiþ Jonatha in Gabaa Beniamyn; forsoþe þe toþer puple he fente aȝen echon into her tabernaclis.
 iii And Jonathas smoot þe stacioun of Philistiens, þat was in Gabaa. þe which þing whanne Philistiens hadden herd, Saul criede wiþ a trompe in al þe loond, feyng, Heren þe Ebrevis.
 iv And al Yrael herde siche a maner loos, Saul haþ smyten þe stacioun of Philistiens; and Yrael areride him aȝens þe Philistiens; þanne þe puple criede after Saul in Galgala.
 v And Philistiens ben gedrid to fiȝt aȝens Yrael; þretti þousandis of charys, and sexe þousandis of horsmen, and þe toþer comoun, as mych grauel þat is in brenk of þe fee; and þei stiynge vp setten tentis 'in Machynas, at þe este of Bethauen.
 vi þe which þing whanne þe men of Yrael hadden seen, hem feluen in streit set, forsoþe þe puple was tourmentid, and þei hidden hem self in dennys, and in hidils, in stonyis forsoþe, and in dichis, and in cysternes.
 vii Forsoþe Hebrewis passiden Jordan, þe loond of Gad, and of Galaad. And whanne ȝit Saul was in Galgala, al þe puple is feerd þat folwide hym.
 viii And he abood Samuel seuen days 'after þe couenaunt, and Samuel cam not in Galgala; and þe puple is flyden fro hym. ix Panne seiþ Saul, Bryngiþ to me brent sacrifice and pefible; and he offredre brent sacrifice.
 x And whanne offrynge he hadde fulfillid þe brent sacrifice, loo! Samuel cam; and Saul wente out to mete hym, for to salute hym.

xi And Samuel spak to hym, What haft þou doon? Saul answeerde, For I sawȝ þat þe puple shulde flyde awey fro me, and þou cam not after þe couenauntid dais; forsoþe þe Philistiens weren gedryd into Machynas; xii Y seide, Nowe Philistiens shulen come to me in Galgala, and þe face of þe Lord I haue not plesid; þurȝ nede constreined Y haue offrid brent facryfice to þe Lord.
 xiii And Samuel seide to Saul, Folily þow haft doon, ne þou haft kept þe heefis of þe Lord bi God, þe whiche he haþ comaundid to þee; þe which þing if þou haddist not doon, riȝt nowe þe Lord hadde maad redi bi kyngdom vpon Yrael into wiþouten ende; xiv but bi kyngdom shal no more ryse togidre. Panne þe Lord souȝte a man after his herte; and þe Lord haþ comaundid to hym, þat he were a duyk vpon his puple, forbi þat þou haft not kept þe þingis þat þe Lord comaundide.
 xv Forsoþe Samuel roos, and stiede vp fro Galgalis in Gabaa of Beniamyn; and þe toþer puple stieden vp after Saul, metyng to þe puple þat ouercamen hem; comyng fro Galgala in Gabaa, in þe hil of Beniamyn.
 And Saul noumbred þe puple, þat weren foundun wiþ hym as sixe hundryd men.
 xvi And Saul, and Jonathas his sone, and þe puple þat was foundun wiþ hem, was in Gabaa of Beniamyn; forsoþe Philistiens seeten togidre 'into aspijs, for to fiȝten.
 xvii And þere wenten out for to fiȝte fro þe tentys of Philistiens þre companyes; o cumpanye wente aȝens þe weye of Effraym to þe loond of Saul; xviii forsoþe anoper wente bi þe weye of Betheron;
 forsoþe þe þridde turnede hem to þe weye of þe teerme in þe loond of Saba, 'ftondyne nyȝ to þe valey of Seboym aȝens þe deseert.
 xix Forsoþe þere was not an yren smilþ foundun in al þe loond of Yrael; forsoþe Philistiens shunneden, left perauenture þe Hebrews maden fwerd or speer.
 xx Panne al Yrael descendide to Philistium, þat echon sharpe his shaar, and diggyng yren, and axe, and purgyng hook;
 xxi for eggys of þe lharis, and of diggyng yrens, and of forkis, and of þe axis weren blunt, vnto a prik to menden.
 xxii And whanne þe day of þe batayl was comen, þere is not founden fwerd and speer in hoond of þe puple þat was wiþ Saul and Jonatha, out takun Saul, and Jonatha hys sone.
 xxiii Forsoþe þe stacioun of Philistym wente out, for to stye ouer into aspijs to fiȝt.

Capitulum XIV.

i And it felle on a day, þat Jonathas, þe sone of Saul, seide to þe ȝong man his squyer, Com, and goo we to þe stacioun of Philistyens, þat is biȝonde þat place; to his fader forsoþe þat same þing he lhewide not.

ii Forsoþe Saul dwellide in þe vttermoost parti of Gabaa, vndur a poomgarnet tree, þat was in þe feeld of Gabaa; and þere was a puple wiþ hym as of sexe hundred men.
iii And Achias, þe sone of Achitob, þe broþer of Ychabod, þe sone of Phynees, þat was comen of Hely, þe preeft of þe Lord in Silo, beere þe prestis coope; but and þe puple knewe not whider Jonathas was goon.
iv Forsoþe þere weren bytwixe þe stiyngis vp, bi þe whiche Jonathas enforþide to goo to þe stacyouns of Philistiens, heiȝe stonyis on eiþer side, and as in maner of teeþ little rochis hens and þens before brokun; name to þe oon Boofez, and to þe toþer þe name Sene; v o litil roche ful heeȝ at þe norþ aȝens Machynas to fiȝten, and anoþer at þe souþ aȝens Gabaa.
vi Jonathas forsoþe feide to þe ȝong man his squyer, Come, and passe we to þe stacioun of þes vncercumcidide, if perauenture þe Lord do for vs; for it is not to þe Lord hard to faue, or in many or in fewe.
vii And his squyer feide to hym, Do alle þingis þat plesen to þin inwit; go whider þow coueytist, I shal be wiþ þee where euere þou wolt.
viii And Jonathan seiþ, Loo! we goon to þes men; and whanne we aperen to hem, ix if þis maner þei speken to vs, Dwel ȝe, to þe tyme þat we comen to ȝou; stonde we in oure place, ne stye we vp to hem.
x Forsoþe if þei seyn, Sty ȝe vp to vs; stye we vp, for þe Lord haþ takun hem in oure hoondis; þis shal be to vs a tokne.
xi And so eiþer aperide to þe stacioun of Philistiens; and Philistiens seiden, Loo! þe Hebrewis goon out fro þe caues, in þe whiche þei weren hid.
xii And þe men speken fro þe stacioun to Jonathan and to his squyer, and seiden, Stieþ vp to vs, and we shulen lhewe ȝou a þing. And Jonathas seiþ to his squier, Stie we, folwe me; forsoþe þe Lord haþ taken hem into þe hoondis of Yrael.
xiii Forsoþe Jonathas styeþ crepynge wiþ hoondis and feet, and his squyer after hym; and whanne þei hadden seen þe face of Jonathan, oþer fallen before Jonathan, oþer his squyer flowȝ, folowynge hym.
xiv And þe first veniaunce is doon, þe which smoot Jonathas and þe squyer of hym as of twenti þousand men, in þe half party of an akir þat a peyre of oxen in a day is wont to ere.
xv And a myracle is doon in þe tentis, bi þe feeldys, but and al þe puple of þe stacioun of hem þat weren at robbynge, wexe astonyed, and þe tentis ben disturblid; and it felle as a myracle fro God.
xvi And þe weyters of Saul, þat weren in Gabaa of Beniamyn, bihelden, and, loo! a multitude þrouwun doun, and hidir and þider down fleyng.

xvii And Saul seiþ to þe puple þat weren wiþ hym, Enserchilþ, and lokiþ, who ȝede awey fro vs. And whanne þei hadden souȝt, it is founden not to be neeȝ Jonathas and his squyer.
xviii And Saul seiþ to Achyam, Applye þe arke of þe Lord; forsoþe þe arke of God was þere in þat day wiþ þe sonys of Israeþ.
xix And whanne Saul spak to þe preeft, greet noyse is out sprongen in þe tentis of Philistyen; and it wexe litilmele, and clearerlike it sownyde. And Saul seiþ to þe preeft, Wiðdrawe þin hoond.
xx Panne Saul and þe puple þat was wiþ hym criede togidre; and þei camen to þe place of þe strijf, and, loo! þe swerd of echon was turned to his neiȝbour, and a greet flauȝter wel mych.
xxi But and þe Hebrewis þat weren wiþ Philistiens ȝistiday and before ȝisterday, and stieden vp wiþ hem in þe tentis, ben turned for to ben wiþ Yrael, þat weren wiþ Saul and Jonatha.
xxii Forsoþe alle þe Israelitis, þe whiche hadden hid hem filf in þe hil of Effraym, herynge þat Philistiens weren flowen, felawshipten hem seluen wiþ hern in þe batayl, and weren wiþ Saul as twenti þousandis of men.
xxiii And þe Lord sauyde Israel in þat day. Forsoþe þe fiȝt camen vnto Bethauen.
xxiv And men of Yrael ben felawshipt to hem seluen in þat day; forsoþe Saul swore to þe puple, seyng, Cursid be þe man þat etiþ breed vnto euen, to þe tyme þat I be vengid of myn enemyes.
xxv And al þe puple eete no breed. And alle þe comouns of þe loond camen into a waft wody place, in þe which was hony on þe face of þe feeld.
xxvi And so al þe puple wente into þe place of heiȝe trees, and þere apperide flowing hony; and no man applide þe hond to his mouþ; forsoþe þe puple dredde þe ooþ.
xxvii Forsoþe Jonathas herde not, whanne his fader swore to þe puple; and he strauȝt out þe cop of þe ȝeerde, þat he hadde in þe hoond, and he wette into þe honycombe; and he turnede his hoond to his mouþ, and þe eyen of hym ben liȝtned.
xxviii And answerynge oon of þe puple seiþ, Bi fader haþ constreynd þe puple wiþ ooþ, seiynge, Cursid be þe man þat etiþ breed to day. Forsoþe þe puple faylide.
xxix And Jonathas seide, My faþer haþ disturblid þe loond; ȝoure self han seen, for myn eyen ben liȝtned, forþi þat Y taastide a litil of þis hony; xxx myche more if þe puple hadde eeten of þe preiȝe of her enemyes, þat þei foonden; wheþer not more veniaunce hadde be doo in Philistees?
xxxi Panne þei smyten in þat day þe Philistees fro þe place of engynes vnto Hailon. Doun weried is þe puple wel miche; xxxii and turned to þe praye, took sheep, and oxen, and calues, and flewen in þe lond; and þe puple eete wiþ blood.

xxxiii And þei toolden to Saul, seiyng, þat þe puple hadde synned to þe Lord, etynge wiþ blood. Þe which seiþ, ȝe han trespasside; turneþ to me ryȝt nowe a greet stoon.

xxxiv And Saul seide, Beþ ȝe scattered into þe comouns, and seye ȝe to hem, þat echon brynge to me his oxe and weþer; and fleeþ vpon it, and etiþ, and ȝe shulen not synne to þe Lord, etynge wiþ blood. And so al þe puple brouȝte echon an oxe in his hoond vnto nyȝt, and þei flowen þere.

xxxv And Saul bildide vp an auter to þe Lord; and þanne first he bigan to bilde an auter to þe Lord.

xxxvi And Saul seide, Falle we vpon þe Philistens bi nyȝt, and wauste we hem vnto þe morwetide liȝt; ne leeue we of hem a man. And þe puple seide, Al þat good is seen to þee in þin eyen, do. And þe preest seiþ, Neiȝ we hider to God.

xxxvii And Saul counfeylide þe Lord, seiyng, Wheþer þhal Y pursue Philistym, if þou taake hem into þe hoondis of Yrael? And he answarde not to hym in þat day.

xxxviii And Saul seide, Aplieþ hidir alle þe corners of þe puple, and witiþ, and seeþ, bi whom falliþ þis synne to day.

xxxix þe Lord þe faueour of Yrael lyueþ; for if bi Jonathan my sone it is doon, wiþ out aȝen drawyng he þhal die. To þe which no man aȝen seide to hym of al þe puple.

xl And he seide to al Yrael, Be ȝe feuerd into o parti, and Y wiþ Jonathan my sone þhal be in o parti. And þe puple answarde to Saul, þat good is seen in þin eyen, do.

xli And Saul seide to þe Lord God of Israel, Lord God of Yrael, ȝyue dom, what is, þat þou answerset not to þi seruaunt to day? If in me, or in Jonathan my sone, is þis wickidnes, ȝyf shewyng; and if þis wickidnes is in þi puple, ȝif holynes. And Jonathas and Saul ben taken; forsoþe þe puple ȝede out.

xlii And Saul seiþ, Leyeþ lot betwix me and Jonathan my sone. And Jonathas is taken.

xliii Forsoþe Saul seide to Jonathan, Shewe to me what þow haft doon. And Jonathas shewide to hym, and seiþ, Taastyng Y taftide in þe cop of þe zeerd þat was in myn hoond a litil of hony, and loo! Y dye.

xliii And Saul seiþ, þes þingis do to me God, and þes þingis adde, for bi deep þou shalt dye, Jonathan.

xlv And þe puple seide to Saul, þanne wheþer Jonathas shulde dye, þat haþ doo þis greet helþ in Yrael? þat is felony; þe Lord lyueþ, oon heer of þe heed of hym shal not fal into þe erþe, for wiþ God he haþ vrouȝt to day. þanne þe puple delyuerd Jonathan, þat he diede not.

xlii And Saul wente a wey, and purfuede not Philistym; forsoþe Philisteis wenten a wey into her placis.

xlvii And, þe rewme stablid vpon Yrael, Saul fauȝt bi enuyroun aȝens alle his enemies, aȝens Moab, and þe fones of Amon, and Edom, and þe kyngis of Saba, and þe Philisteis; and whidir euer he turnede hym silf, he venkusede.

xliiiii And, þe oost gedrid, he smoot Amalech, and he delyuerde Yrael fro þe hoond of his wastours.

xliiiiiii Per weren forsoþe þe fones of Saul, Jonathas, and Jefuy, and Melchisona; names of his two douȝters, name of þe first gotten Merob, and name of þe lasse Mycol.

i And name of þe wijf of Saul Achynoem, þe douȝter of Achymaas; and þe name of þe prince of his chualrye Abner, þe sone of Ner, cosyn germeyn of Saul.

ii Forsoþe Cys was þe fader of Saul, and Ner, þe fader of Abner, þe sone of Abyel.

iii Forsoþe þere was strong batail aȝens Philisties alle þe days of Saul; wherfor whom euere Saul fawȝ a strong man and able to bateil, he felawhipide him to him silf.

Capitulum XV.

i And Samuel seide to Saul, þe Lord sente me, þat I anoynte þee into kyng vpon his puple Yrael; nowe þanne here þe voys of þe Lord.

ii þes þingis seiþ þe Lord of oostis, I haue remembred alle þingis þat Amalech dide to Yrael; what maner wyse he wiþstood to hym in þe weye, whanne he shulde stye vp fro Egipt.

iii Nowe þanne go, and smyte Amalech, and destruy alle þe þingis of hym; ne spare þou to hym, ne coueyt þou eny þing of his þingis; but fle fro man vnto womman, and litil child, and soukyng, oxe, and sheep, and camel, and asse.

iv And so Saul comaundide to þe puple, and noumbred hem as loombs two hundrid þousandis of foot men, and ten þowsandis of þe men of Juda.

v And whanne Saul was comen vnto þe cyte of Amalech, he leyde out afpies in þe streem.

vi And Saul seide to Cynee, Goh hens, gop a wey, and departiþ fro Amalech, leſt perauenture I enwrappe þee wiþ hem; forsoþe þou didist mercy wiþ alle þe fones of Yrael, whanne þei stieden vp fro Egipt. And Cynee wente a wey fro þe mydil of Amalech.

vii And Saul smoot Amalech fro Euila, to þe tyme þat he cam to Sur, þat is fro þe regioun of Egipt.

viii And he took Agage, þe kyng of Amalech, on lyue; forsoþe al þe comoun he flewȝ in þe mouȝ of swerd.

ix And Saul sparide, and þe puple, to Agag, and to þe best flockis of sheep, and of drouys, and to clopis, and to weþeris, and to alle þingis þat weren fayre; ne þei wolden scatere hem; forsoþe what þing was foul and reprovable þat þei destruyden.

x Forsoþe þe word of þe Lord is doon to Samuel, seiyng, xi It opinkiþ me, þat I haue ordeyned Saul a kyng; for he haþ forsokyn me, and my wordis he haþ not fulfillid in dede. And Samuel is sory, and cryede to þe Lord al nyȝt.

xii And whanne fro niȝt Samuel was rySEN þat he go to Saul eerli, it is toold to Samuel, for Saul was comen into Carmeel, and hadde arerid to hym an out fhyngne tokne of victory in maner of a bow, and turned was passid, and goon doun into Galgala. Panne Samuel cam to Saul, and Saul offred brent sacrifice to þe Lord of þe cheef of þe preiys, þat he brouȝte fro Amalech.

xiii And while Samuel was comen to Saul, Saul seide to hym, þou bleſſid of þe Lord, Y haue fulfillid þe word of þe Lord.

xiv And Samuel seide, And what is þis voys of flockis þat rengiþ in myn eeris, and of droues þat I here?

xv And Saul seiþ, Fro Amalech men han brouȝt þes þingis, forſoþe þe puple ſparede to þe betre ſheep and drouys, for þei ſhulden be offrid to þe Lord þi God; þe toþer forſoþe we flewen.

xvi And Samuel seide to Saul, Suffre me, and I ſhal ſhewe to þee what þingis þe Lord haþ ſpoken to me to nyȝt. And he ſeid to hym, Spek.

xvii And Samuel seiþ, Wheþer not, whanne þou were a litil child in þin owne eyen, and þou art maad heed in þe lynage of Yrael, and þe Lord anoyntide þee into kygynge vpon Yrael; xviii and þe Lord ſente þee into þe weye, and seiþ, Go, and fle þe synful men of Amalech, and þou ſhalt fiȝt aȝens hem vnto þe flauȝter of hem.

xix Whi þanne haſt þow not herd þe voys of þe Lord, but turnedift to þe prey, and didiſt yuel in þe eyen of þe Lord?

xx And Saul seiþ to Samuel, If I haue herd þe voys of þe Lord, and haue goon in þe weye bi þe which þe Lord ſente me, and haue brouȝt Agag, þe kyng of Amalech, and Amalech Y flewe.

xi Forſoþe þe puple took of þe praye, ſheep and oxen, þe cheef of hem þat ben flayn, þat bei offren to þe Lord her God in Galgalis.

xxii And Samuel seiþ, Wheþer wole þe Lord brent ſacrifices or flayn offryngis, and not more þat it be obeishid to þe voice of þe Lord? Forſoþe betre is obeishaunce þan flayn ſacrificis, and to take heed more þan to offre þe fatnes of weþeris;

xxiii for as synne of denyyng bi deuelis is to repugne, and as hidows trespas of mawmetrye to wiln not affent. Forþi þanne þat þow haſt þrowen aweye þe word of þe Lord, þe Lord haþ þrowen awey þee, þat þow be not kygynge.

xxiv And Saul seide to Samuel, Y haue synned, for I haue broken þe word of þe Lord, and bi wordis, dredyng þe puple and obeishynge to þe voyce of hem;

xxv but nowe, Y bifeche, bere my synne, and turne aȝen wiþ me, þat I honoure þe Lord.

xxvi And Samuel seiþ to Saul, Y ſhal not turne aȝen wiþ þee, for þow haſt þrowen a wey þe word of þe Lord, and þe Lord haþ þrowen a wey þee, þat þow be not kygynge vpon Israel.

xvii And Samuel turnede forto goo awey; forſoþe he cauȝte þe cop of þe mantil of hym, þe which also is rent.

xviii And Samuel feide to hym, Þe Lord haþ kyt þe kyngdom of Yrael fro þee to day, and haþ takyn it to þi neiȝbore beter þan þow;

xix forſoþe to þe ouercomer in Yrael he ſhal not ſpare, and þurȝ a þenkyng he ſhal not be bowid; forſoþe ne a man he is þat he do oþenkyng.

xx And he ſeiþ, Y haue synned; bot nowe honour me before þe eldren of my puple, and before Yrael; turne aȝen wiþ me, þat I honour þe Lord þi God.

xxi Panne Samuel, turned aȝen, folwide Saul, and Saul honourede þe Lord.

xxii And Samuel seide, Bringiþ to me Agag, þe king of Amalech. And offrid is to him Agag alþerfatteſt tremblynge. And Agag seide, So wheþer 'not ſeuereþ bitter deþ?

xxiii And Samuel ſeiþ, As þi ſwert haþ maad wymmen wiþouten free children, ſo þi moder ſhal be wiþ out free children among wymmen. And Samuel hewide hym into gobbetis before þe Lord in Galgalis.

xxiv Forſoþe Samuel ȝede into Ramatha; forſoþe Saul ſtiede vp into his hows in Gabaa.

xxv And Saul ſawȝ no more Samuel vnto þe day of his deþ; neuerþelater Samuel weilde Saul, for it oþouȝt þe Lord, þat he hadde ordeynyd Saul kyng vpon Israel.

Capitulum XVI.

i And þe Lord ſeide to Samuel, How long þow weilst Saul, whanne Y haue þrowun hym a ferre, þat he regne not vpon Israel; fil þin horn wiþ oyle, and come, þat Y ſende þee to Yfaye Bethlamyte; forſoþe Y haue purueyd in þe ſonyſ of hym a kyng to me.

ii And Samuel ſeiþ, Howe ſhal Y goo? forſoþe Saul ſhal here, and he ſhal flee me. And þe Lord ſeiþ, A calf of þe droue þow ſhalt take in þin hoond, and fey, To offre to þe Lord Y am comen.

iii And þou ſhalt clepe Yfaye to þe flayn ſacrifice, and I ſhal ſhewe to þee what þou doo; and þou ſhalt anoynt whom euer Y ſhal ſhewe to þee.

iv Panne Samuel dide, as þe Lord ſpak to hym; and he cam into Bethlehem, and þe eldrys of þe cytee aȝen comynge to hym wondriden, and feiden, Wheþer peſible is þin yncomynge?

v And he ſeiþ, Peſible; to offre to þe Lord Y am comen; be ȝe halowid, and comeþ wiþ me, þat I offre. Panne he halowid Yfaye, and hys ſones, and clepide hem to þe ſacrifice.

vi And whanne þei weren comen yn, he ſawȝ Elyab, and ſeiþ, Nowe before þe Lord is þe crift of hym.

vii And þe Lord ſeide to Samuel, Ne behold þou þe cheere of hym, ne þe heiȝte of his stature; for Y haue þrowun hym aweye, ne aftir þe lokynge of men Y deme; forsoþe a man seip þo þingis þat ben opyn, forsoþe þe Lord lokip þe herte.

 viii And Yfaye clepide Amynadab, and brouȝte hym before Samuel; þe which seide, Ne þis þe Lord haþ chosun.
 ix Forsoþe Yfaye brouȝte forþ Sama; of whom he seip, Also þis þe Lord haþ not chosun.
 x And so Yfaye brouȝte forþ his feuen sones before Samuel; and Samuel seip to Yfaye, Þe Lord haþ not chosun of þes.
 xi And Samuel seide to Yfaye, Wheþer nowe fulfillid ben þe sones? Þe which answarde, ȝit anoþer þere is, a litil child, and fedip sheep. And Samuel seip to Yfaye, Send, and bryng forþ hym; forsoþe ne we shulen fitte, before þat he come hidir.
 xii Panne he sente, and brouȝte hym forþ; forsoþe he was rodi, and fayr in ȝist, and sembli in face. And þe Lord seip, Rise, and anoynt hym; forsoþe he it is.
 xiii þanne Samuel took an horn of oyle, and anoyntide hym in þe myddis of þe briþeren of hym; and þe Spirit of þe Lord is ful fent into Dauyd fro þat day and þerafter. And Samuel ryfynge wente into Ramatha. xiv And so þe Spririt of þe Lord wente awey fro Saul, and þe shrewid spririt fro þe Lord ȝhook hym.
 xv And þe seruauntis of Saul seiden to hym, Loo! þe yuel spiryt of þe Lord shakiþ þee; xvi comaunde þe lord oure kyng, and þi seruauntis þat before þee ben, sechen a man kunninge to pleye wiþ harpe, þat whanne þe yuel spririt of þe Lord takiþ þee, he pleye wiþ his hoond, and liȝter þou bere.
 xvii And Saul seip to his seruauntis, Purueieþ to me sum man wel harpynge, and bryngiþ hym to me. xviii And answerynge oon of þe children seip, Loo! I sawȝ þe sone of Yfaye Bethlemyte, kunninge to harpe, and moost myȝti bi strengþ, a man curaiows in batayl, and wyse in wordis, and a fayre man; and þe Lord is wiþ hym.
 xix Panne Saul sente messagers to Yfaye, seiyng, Send to me Dauiþ þi sone, þe which is in þe lefewis.
 xx And so Yfay took an asse ful of louuys, and a galoun of wyn, and o kyd of þe she geet; and he lente bi þe hoond of Dauid his sone to Saul.
 xxi And Dauid cam to Saul, and stood before hym; and he louyde hym ful mych, and is made a squyer of hym.
 xxii And Saul lente to Yfaye, seiyng, Stoond Dauyd in my ȝist, forsoþe he haþ foundun grace in myn eyen.
 xxiii þanne whanne euere þe yuel spririt of þe Lord cauȝte Saul, Dauid took an harp, and smoot wiþ hys hoond, and Saul was refourmyd, and liȝter he hadde;
 forsoþe þe yuel spiryt wente a wey fro hym.

Capitulum XVII.

i Forsoþe Philisteis gedrynge her cumpanyes into batayl camen to gidre in Socoth of Judee, and þei setten tentis betwix Socoth and Azecha, in þe cooftis of Domyn.
 ii Forsoþe Saul and þe men of Yrael gedrid camen in þe valey of Therebynt, and dressiden sheltroun to ȝiȝt aȝens þe Phylisteis.
 iii And Philisteis stoden vpon þe hil on þis partye, and Israel stood vpon an hil, and on þe toþer perty a valey þat was bitwix hem.
 iv And a bastard man wente out fro þe tentis of Philistiens, Goliath of Geth bi name, in heiȝte of sexe cubitis and a span;
 v and a stelyn helm vpon his heed; and he was cloþid wiþ a maylid hawberioun; forsoþe þe weiȝt of his hawberioun was of fyue þousand siȝlys of steel; vi and stelyn legharneis he hadde in þe hipis, and a stelyn sheeld couerde þe shuldris of hym.
 vii Þe shaft of his speer was as þe beem of websters;
 forsoþe þat yren of his speer hadde sexe hundred siȝlis of yren; and his squyer wente before him.
 viii And stondinge he criede aȝens þe cumpanyes of Israel, and he seide to hem, Whi ben ȝe comyn redi to batail? Wheþer Y am not a Philistee, and ȝe þe seruauntis of Saul? Cheſiþ of ȝou a man, and come he doun to a synguler strij; ix if he may ȝiȝt wiþ me, and smytiþ me, we shulen be to ȝou seruauntis; forsoþe if Y shal haue þe maystrye, and smyte hym, ȝe shulen be seruauntis, and serue to
 vs.
 x And þe Philistee seide, I haue ȝeue reproof to þe cumpanyes of Yrael to day; ȝyueþ to me a man, and go he yn wiþ me a synguler strij.
 xi Forsoþe Saul herynge and alle þe Yraelitis þe wordis of þis maner Philistee, þei weren stonyed, and dradden ful mych.
 xii Forsoþe Dauyd was þe sone of an Effratee man, of þe which it is aboue seid, of Bethlem Juda, to whom þe name was Yfaye, þe which hadde eiȝt sonyis; and he was a man in þe days of Saul olde, and of greet age amone men.
 xiii Forsoþe þe þre more sonyis of hym wenten after Saul into batayl; and þe names of þe þre sonyis of hym, þat wenten to batayl, Heliab, þe first gotten, and þe secounde, Amynadab, forsoþe þe þridde, Samma.
 xiv Forsoþe Dauyd was þe leeft. þanne þe þre more folwynge Saul,
 xv Dauyd wente, and turnede aȝen fro Saul, for to fede þe flok of his fadre in Bethleem.
 xvi Forsoþe þe Philistee cam forþ eerli, and at euen ȝtondyne repreuyde þe children of Yrael fourti days.
 xvii Forsoþe Yfaye seide to Dauyd his sone, Tak to þi briþeren powned corn, of þe mesure of ephi, and þes ten louuys, and renne into þe tentis to þi briþeren; xviii and ten cheſiþ þes þou shalt bere to þe tribune; and þi briþeren þou shalt visit, if þei ryȝt doon, and wiþ whom þei ben ordeynyd, lern.

xix Forsoþe Saul, and þei, and alle þe sonys of Yrael in þe valey of Therebynt aȝens Philistis.
xx And so Dauid roos eerli, and commendide þe flok to þe keper, and chargyd ȝeed, as Ysay comaundide to hym; and cam to þe place of Magala, and to þe oost, þat, goon out to fȝt, criede out in þe strij.
xi Forsoþe Irael hadde dressid sheltrown; but and aȝens hem Philistis weren redy.
xii ȝanne Dauid leuyng þe veffels, þe whiche he brouȝte, vndre þe hoond of a keper at þe fardels, he ran to þe place of þe strij, and he askide, if alle þingis riȝt weren doon anentys his briþeren.
xiii And whanne ȝit he spak to hem, aperyde þat bastard man, Goliath bi name, Philistee of Geth, stiynge fro þe tentis of Philistis; and hym spekyng þes fame wordis, Dauyd herde.
xiv Forsoþe alle þe Yfaelitis whanne þei hadden seen þe man, þei floweren fro his face, dredyng hym greetli.
xv And echon of Israel seide to oþer, Wheþer þou haft seen þis man þat styeþ vp? forsoþe to ȝyue reprofe to Yrael he stieþ vp; þerfor þe man þat smytih hym, þe kyng shal make riche wiþ greet ricchessis; and his douȝter he shal ȝyue to hym, and þe hows of his fadre he shal make wiþ out tribute in Yrael.
xvi And Dauid seide to þe men þat stoden wiþ hym, seiyng, What shal it be ȝouun to þe man þat smytih þis Philistee, and bereþ awey reprofe fro Israel? forsoþe who is he þis Philistee vncircumcidid, þe which reproueþ þe shiltrouns of þe God lyuyng?
xvii Forsoþe þe puple toolde to hym þe same word, seiyng, Ȧes þingis shulen be ȝeue to þe man þat smitiþ hym.
xviii Ȧe which þing whanne Heliab, his more broþer, hadde herd, hym spekyng wiþ oþer, is wrooþ aȝens Dauid, and seip, Whi art þou comen, and whi haft þow forsaken þes fewe sheep in deseert? I haue knownen þi pride, and þe shrewidnesse of þin herte; for þat þou myȝtis fe þe bateil, þou art comen doun.
xix And Dauid seip, What haue I doon? Wheþer is it not a word?
xx And he bowide a syde a litil fro hym to an oþer; and he leide þe same word, and þe puple anwerde to hym word as before.
xxi Forsoþe þe wordis þat Dauid spak, ben herd, and toold in þe fȝt of Saul.
xxii To whom whanne he was brouȝt, he spak to hym, Ne falle not doun þe herte of eny man in hym, and þi seruaunt shal goo, and fȝt aȝen þe Philistee.
xxiii And Saul seip to Dauid, Pou mayst not wiþstoond to þis Philistee, ne fiȝte aȝens hym, for a child þou art; forsoþe þis man is a fiȝter fro his ȝongþ.
xxiv And Dauid seide to Saul, Bi seruaunt fedde þe flok of his fader, and þere cam a lioun or a beere, and took a weþer fro þe mydil of þe flok; xxxv I pursued hem, and smoot, and delyuerde fro þe mouȝ of hem; and þei rySEN aȝens me, and I cauȝte þe chaul of hem, and straungle, and flowȝ hem.

xxxvi Forsoþe and a lioun and a beere flewe Y þi seruaunt; þerfore shal be and þis Philistee vncircumcidid as oon of þes. Now Y shal goo, and take a wey þe shenþip of þe puple; for who is þis Philistee vncircumcidid, þat is hardy to myssey to þe oost of þe lyuyng God?
xxxvii And Dauid seiþ, Be Lord þat haþ delyuerd me fro þe mouȝ of þe lioun, and fro þe hoond of þe beere, he shal delyuer me fro þe hoond of þis Philistee. Forsoþe Saul seide to Dauid, Go, and þe Lord be wiþ þee.
xxxviii And Saul cloþide Dauid wiþ his cloþis, and putte on a stelen helm vpon his heed, and cloþide hym wiþ an hawberiouȝ.
xxxix Panne Dauid gyrd wiþ his swerd vpon his cloþinge, began to asaye if armyd he myȝte goo; forsoþe he hadde not þe custome. And Dauid seide to Saul, I may not þus goo, for and vse I haue not. And he putte doun þo þingis, xl and he took his staf, þat euermore he hadde in hondis. And he cheese to hym fyue moost clear stonus of þe streem; and he putte hem into þe sheeþerdis scrip þat he hadde wiþ hym; and he took a flynge in hoond, and ȝeed forþ aȝens þe Philistee.
xli Forsoþe þe Philistee ȝeed, comynge and neiȝyng aȝens Dauyd; and his squyer before hym.
xlii And whanne þe Philistee hadde inwardly beholden hym, and seen Dauyd, he despiseþ hym; forsoþe he was a ȝong man, rodi, and fayre in fȝt.
xliii And þe Philistee seide to Dauyd, Wheþir I am a dog, þat þou comest to me wiþ a staf? And þe Philistee curside Dauid in his goddis; xliii and seide to Dauyd, Com to me, and Y shal ȝeue þi flesh to þe fowlis of heuene, and to þe beestis of þe erþe.
xlv Forsoþe Dauid seide to þe Philistee, Pou comest to me wiþ swerd, speer, and sheeld; forsoþe Y come to þee in þe name of þe Lord God of ooftis, God of þe cumpanyes of Israel, to whom þou haft reproynd to day.
xlvi And þe Lord shal ȝeue þee in myn hoond, and I shal smyte þee, and take awey þin heed fro þee; and I shal ȝyue þe careyns of þe tentis of Philistis to day to þe fowlis of heuene, and to þe beestis of þe erþe; þat al þe erþe wyte, for þe Lord God is in Yrael, xlvii and al þis chirche knewe, for not in swerd ne in speer saueþ þe Lord; forsoþe of hym is þe batayl, and he shal take ȝou in to oure hondis.
xlviii ȝanne whanne þe Philistee was rySEN, and cam, and neijede aȝens Dauid, Dauid hyede, and aȝen cam to þe fȝt forn aȝens of þe Philistee.
xlix And he putte his hoond into þe scrip, and took a stoon, and leyde in þe flynge, and, berynge it about, he smoot hym in þe foreheed; and þe stoon is piȝt in þe forhed of hym, and he felle into his face vpon þe erþe.

i And Dauid hadde þe maystrie aȝens þe Philistee in flynge and stoon, and þe smyten Philistee he flewȝ.
 And whanne Dauid hadde no fwerd in þe hoond, ii he ran, and stood vpon þe Philistee, and took his fwerd, and drewȝ it out of his sheeþ; and he flewȝ hym, and girde of his heed. Forsoþe seyng þe Philisteis þat þe strengest of hem was deed, þei flownen.
 iii And ryfynge þe men of Yrael, and of Juda criden out, and purfueden þe Philisteis, for to þe while þat þei camen into þe valey, and vnto þe ȝate of Acharon. And þere fallen woundid of þe Philisteis, in þe weye of Sarym, and vnto Geth, and vnto Acharon.
 ivi And þe sonis of Yrael turnyng aȝen, after þat þei hadden purfued þe Philisteis, þei affeilden þe tentis of hem.
 ivii Forsoþe Dauyd takynge þe heed of þe Philistee, brouȝte it into Jerusalem; forsoþe þe armys of hym he putte in his tabernacle.
 iviii Forsoþe þat tyme þat Saul sawȝ Dauyd goynge out aȝens þe Philistee, he seiþ to Abner, þe pryncie of his chyualrie, Abner, of what stok descendide þis ȝong man? And Abner seide, Lyueþ þi soule, kyng, I knewȝ not.
 ivi And þe kyng seiþ, Alk þou, whos sone is þis child.
 ivii And whanne Dauyd was comen aȝen, þe Philistee smyten, Abner took hym, and brouȝte hym yn before Saul, hauynge in þe hoond þe heed of þe Philistee.
 iviii And Saul seiþ to hym, Of what progenye art þou, O þou ȝong man? And Dauid seide, Pe sone of þi seruaunt, Yfaye Bethlemyte, Y am.

Capitulum XVIII.

i And it is doon, whanne he hadde endid to speke to Saul, þe foule of Jonathas is glewid to gidre to þe foul of Dauid, and Jonathas louyde hym as his owne lijf.
 ii And Saul took hym in þat day, and grauntide not to hym, þat he turne aȝen into þe hows of his fadre.
 iii Forsoþe Jonathas and Dauid wenten into þe couenaunt of pees; forsoþe he louyde hym as his lijf; ivi forwhi Jonathas spuylide hym self þe coote, þat he was clopid, and ȝaf it to Dauid, and his oþer clopis, vnto his `bowe and fwerd, and vnto þe knyȝtis girdil.
 v Forsoþe Dauyd wente out to alle ȝingis, what euere Saul sente him, and wiseli he gouernde hym self; and Saul putte hym vpon men of batayl, and he was acceptid in þe eyen of al þe puple, and moost in þe ȝisȝ of þe seruauntis of Saul.
 vi Forsoþe whanne Dauid turnede aȝen, þe Philistee smyten, and beer þe heed of hym into Jerusalem, þe wymmen wenten out fro alle þe cytees of Yrael, syngynge, and dauncis ledynge, into aȝencomynge of Saul þe kyng, in tymbers of gladnes, and in trumbris.
 vii And þe wymmen songen before, pleynge, and seyng, Saul haþ smyten a þousand, and Dauyd ten þowsandis.

viii And Saul is wrooþ ful mych, and þis word displeide in þe eyen of hym; and seide, Pei han ȝouun to Dauid ten þousandis, and to me a þousand þei han ȝouun; what to hym is more ouere but oneli þe rewme?
 ix Panne not wiþ riȝt eyen Saul bihelde Dauid, fro þat day and þerafter.
 x Forsoþe after þe toþer day þe yuel spiryt of God aseilide Saul, and he straungeli spak in þe myddis of his hows. Forsoþe Dauid harpide wiþ his hoond, as bi eche days; and Saul heelde a speer, xi and keft it, wenynge þat he myȝt pitche to gidre Dauid wiþ þe wal; and Dauyd bowide a side fro þe face of hym þe secounde tyme.
 xii And Saul dredde Dauid, forþi þat þe Lord was wiþ hym, and fro hym goon awey.
 xiii Panne Saul moued hym a wey fro hym, and made hym a leder vpon a þousand men; and he wente out and cam yn in þe ȝisȝ of þe puple.
 xiv Forsoþe in alle his weyes Dauid wiseli dide, and þe Lord was wiþ hym;
 xv and so Saul sawȝ þat he was wel mych wiys, and began to shunne hym.
 xvi Forsoþe al Yrael and Juda louyde Dauyd; forsoþe he ȝede yn and ȝede out before hem.
 xvii And Saul seide to Dauid, Loo! my more douȝter Merob, hir Y shal ȝeue to bee a wijf; oneli be a strong man, and fist þe bateils of þe Lord. Forsoþe Saul trowide, seyng, Be not myn hoond in hym, but be vpon hym þe hoond of Philisteis.
 xviii Forsoþe Dauyd seide to Saul, Who am Y, or what is my lijf, or þe kynrede of my fadre in Israel, þat Y be maad þe sone in lawe of þe kyng?
 xix It is doon forsoþe þe tyme whanne Merob, þe douȝter of Saul, shulde be ȝeuen to Dauid, ȝeuen is Hadriel Molatite wijf.
 xx Forsoþe Dauyd louyd Mychol, þe toþer douȝter of Saul; and it is toold to Saul, and it pleside to hym.
 xxi And Saul seide, Y shal ȝyue hir to hym, þat it be maad to hym into cлаundre, and be vpon hym þe hoond of Philisteis. Panne seide Saul to Dauyd, In two ȝingis þow shalt be my sone in lawe to day.
 xxii And Saul comaundide to his seruauntis, Spek ȝe to Dauiþ pruely fro me, seyng, Loo! þou plesist to þe kyng, and alle þe seruauntis of hym louen þee; now banne be þow þe sone in lawe of þe kyng.
 xxiii And þe seruauntis of Saul speken in þe eeris of Dauid alle þes wordis. And Dauid seiþ, Wheþer litil it feme to ȝow to be þe sone in lawe of þe kyng? Forsoþe Y am a pore man, and a þinne.
 xxiv And þe seruauntis of Saul toolden aȝen, seyng, Sich maner wordis spak Dauid.
 xxv Forsoþe Saul seide, Ȣus spekiþ to Dauid, Pe kyng nedisþ no spoleilis, but oonli an hundred terlis of Philisteis, þat veniaunce be doon of þe enemyes of þe kyng. Forsoþe Saul þouȝte to betray Dauid into þe hoondis of Philisteis.

xxvi And whanne his seruauntis hadden aȝen toold to Dauid þe wordis þat Saul hadde seid, þe word pleside in þe eyen of Dauyd, þat he were maad þe sone in lawe of þe kyng.

xxvii And after a fewe days Dauyd rysynghe wente into Acharon, wiþ þe men þat wiþ hym weren, and smoot of þe Philisteis two hundrid men; and brouȝte þe ȝerdis of hem, and noumbride hem to þe kyng, þat he were be sone in lawe of þe kyng. And so Saul ȝaf to hym Mychol, his douȝter, wif.

xxviii And Saul sawȝ, and vndurstood, þat þe Lord was wiþ Dauid.

xxix Forsoþe Mychol, þe douȝter of Saul, lound hym, and Saul began more to drede Dauyd; and Saul is maad þe enemye of Dauyd alle days.

xxx And þe princis of Philisteis wenten out; forsoþe fro þe bigynnynghe of þe goyng out of hem Dauyd wiselyer beer hym self þan alle þe men of Saul; and solempne is maad þe name of hym ful myche.

Capitulum XIX.

i Saul spak to Jonathan, his sone, and to alle his seruauntis, þat þei shulden flee Dauid; forsoþe Jonathas, þe sone of Saul, lound Dauyd mych.

ii Jonathas shewide to Dauid, seiyng, Saul, my fader, fechisþ to flee þee, wherfor keep þe wel; Y bisiche, dwel; and þou shalt dwel priueli, and be hyd.

iii Forsoþe Y goyng out shal stoond biside my fadre in þe feeld, where euer he were; and I shal spek of þee to my fadre, and what euere þing Y shal see, Y shal telle to þee.

iv Panne Jonathas spak good þings of Dauid to Saul, his fader, and seide to hym, Ne synne þou, kyng, into þi seruaunt Dauid, for he haþ not synned to þee, and þe werkis of hym ben goode to þee mych;

v and he haþ put his lijf in þin hoond, and smoot þe Philistee. And þe Lord haþ doo greet helþ to al Yrael; þou haft seen and gladdisþ; whi þanne synneth þou in þe giltis blood, fleyng Dauyd, þat is wiþ out blame?

vi Þe which þing whanne Saul hadde herd, pleside bi þe voys of Jonathe, swore, Þe Lord lyueþ, for he shal not be flayn.

vii And so Jonathas clepide Dauid, and shewide to hym alle þes wordis. And Jonathas brouȝte yn Dauid to Saul, and he was before hym, as he was ȝistirday and þe þridde day before.

viii Forsoþe eft is moued batayl; and Dauyd goon out fauȝt aȝens Philisteis, and he smoot hem bi a greet veniaunce, and þei floweren fro þe face of hym.

ix And þe yuel spirit of þe Lord is doon in Saul; forsoþe he sat in his hows, and helde a spere; forsoþe Dauid harpid in his hoond.

x And Saul enforuide to fitche to gidre wiþ a spere Dauid in þe wal; and Dauid bowide a side fro þe face of Saul; forsoþe þe speer, þe wound pruyed, is born into þe wal; and Dauid fleȝe, and is faued þat nyȝt.

xi Panne Saul fente his cruel seruauntis þe nyȝt into þe hows of Dauid, þat þei myȝten kepe hym, and sleen in þe morwe. Þe which þing whanne Mychol, his wif, hadde toold to Dauide, seiyng, But if þou faue þee þis nyȝt, to morwe þou shalt die;

xii She putte hym down bi þe wyndowe. Forsoþe he ȝede a wey, and fleȝe, and is fauid.

xiii Forsoþe Michol took an ymage, and putte it vpon þe bed, and an heery skyn of þe she geet she putte vpon þe heed of it, and couerde it wiþ cloþis.

xiv Forsoþe Saul fente seruauntis þat shulden taak Dauyd, and it is answerd, þat he was like.

xv And eft Saul fente messagers, þat þei seen Dauid, seiyng, Brynge ȝe hym to me in þe bed, þat he be flayn.

xvi And whanne þe messagers weren comen, it is foundun a simulacre vpon þe bed, and skynnys of she geet at þe heed of it.

xvii And Saul seide to Mychol, Whi haft þou þus bigilid me, and haft laft myn enemye, þat he flee? And Mychol answerde to Saul, For he spak to me, seiyng, Let me goon, ellis Y shal flee þee.

xviii Forsoþe Dauid fleyng is fauyd; and he cam to Samuel in Ramatha, and he toolde to hym alle þings þat Saul dide to hym; and he and Samuel wenten a wey, and dwelten in Naioth.

xix Forsoþe it is toold to Saul of seieres, Loo! Dauyd in Naioth in Ramatha.

xx Panne Saul lente catchepolis forto take Dauid; þe whiche whanne þei hadden seen þe compayne of prophetis propheciyng, and Samuel stondyng vpon hem, þe Spirit of þe Lord is doon in hem, and also þei bigunned to prophecien.

xxi Þe whiche whanne was toold to Saul, he fente and oþer messagers; also þei propheciden. And eft Saul fente þe þridde messageris, þe whiche and þei propheciden.

xxii And Saul, wroþ wiþ wræþfulnes, he ȝede also into Ramatha; and he cam vnto þe greet cistern þat is in Sochoth, and alkide, and leide, In what place ben Samuel and Dauid? And it is feyd to hym, Loo! in Naioth þei ben in Ramatha.

xxiii And he ȝede into Naioth in Ramatha; and is doon also vpon hym þe Spirit of þe Lord; and goyng yn he wente, and propheciede, for to he cam in Naioth in Ramatha.

xxiv And also he spuylide hym self his cloþis, and propheciede wiþ oþer before Samuel, and he propheciede nakid al þat day and nyȝt. Wherof ȝede out a prouerbe, Wheper and Saul among þe prophetis?

Capitulum XX.

i Forsoþe Dauid fleiȝ fro Naioth, þat is in Ramatha, and comynge spak before Jonatha, What haue I doon, what haue I doon? what is my wickidnes, and what my synne into þi fader, for he sechisþ my lijf?

ii Þe which seide to hym, A wey be it fro þee, þou shalt not die, forsoþe ne my fader shal do eny þing greet or litil, but before he shewe to me; þanne þis word oonli my fader haþ heelid fro me, forsoþe þis shal not be.

iii And eft he swore to Dauid. And he seiþ, Sopeli þi fadre woot, þat I haue foundun grace in þin eyen, and he shal seye, Jonathas wite not þis, leſt perauenture he be sory; but alſo þe Lord lyueþ, and lyueþ þi foule, for in o degree oonli, þat I so seye, Y and deeþ ben dyuydidi.

iv And Jonathas seiþ to Dauid, What euere þing þi foule seiþ to me, I shal doo to þee.

v And Dauid seide to Jonathan, Loo! kalendis ben to morwe, and I of maner am wont to ſitte biſide þe kyng to eete; leete me þanne, þat I be hid in þe feeld vnto þe euen of þe þridde day.

vi And if biholdynge þi fader aſke me, þou shalt anſwere to hym, Dauid preide me for to goo ſwiftly into Bethlem, his citee, for ſolempne flayn ſacrifices ben þere to alle þe men of his lynage.

vii And if he seye, Wel, pees ſhal be to þi ſeruaunt; forſoþe if he were wrooþ, wite þou, þat fulfillid is þe malice of hym.

viii Do þanne mercy vnto þi ſeruaunt, for þow haſt maad me þi ſeruaunt to goo in couenaunt of pees of þe Lord wiþ þee; forſoþe if in me is eny wickidnes, þou fle me, and ne lede þou me into þi fader.

ix And Jonathas seiþ, God ſheelde þis fro me, forſoþe ne it may be doon, þat if certeynli I knowe to be fulfillid þe malice of my fadre aȝens þee, Y telle not to þee.

x And Dauid anſwerde to Jonathas, Who ſhal telle aȝen to me, if eny þing perauenture þi fader ſhal anſwer to þee hard of me?

xi And Jonathas seide to Dauid, Come, and goo we out into þe feelde. And whanne boþe weren goon into þe feelde, xii Jonathas seiþ to Dauid, Lord God of Yrael, if I ferche þe ſentence of my fader to morwe, or oþer morwe, and eny þing of good were vpon Dauid, and anoon ſende not to þee, and make knowun to þee, xiii þis God doo to Jonatha, and þes þingis adde. Forſoþe if þe malice of my fader dwelle ſtedfastly aȝens þee, Y ſhal telle þin eer, and leete þee, þat þou go in pees; and þe Lord be wiþ þee, as he was wiþ my fader.

xiv And if Y ſhal lyue, þou do to me þe mercies of þe Lord; forſoþe if I ſhal dye, þou ſhalt not do awey þi mercy fro myn hows vnto wiþ outer eende;

xv opere if I ſhal not doo, whanne þe Lord ſhal drawe out bi þe rotis þe enemyes of Dauid, echon fro þe erþe, do he awey Jonathan fro his hows, and ſeche þe Lord fro þe hoond of þe enemyes 'of Dauid.

xvi þanne Jonathas couenauntide a couenaunt of pees wiþ þe hows of Dauid, and þe Lord ſouȝte fro þe hoond of þe enemyes 'of Dauid.

xvii And Jonathas addide to myche bynde Dauid bi ooþ, forþi þat he louide hym; forſoþe as his lijf, ſo he louyde hym.

xviii And Jonathas feide to hym, To morwe ben kalendis, and þou ſhalt ben aſkid after; forſoþe þi fytyngfe ſchal be aſkid after vnto after to morwe.

xix þanne þou ſhalt come doun haſtily, and come into þe place, where þou art to be hid in þe day, whanne it is leueful to worche; and þou ſhalt ſitte biſide þe ſtoon, to whom name is Ezel.

xx And Y ſhal ſende þre arowis biſide it, and ſhal þrowe as hauntyngfe me to a prik.

xxi Forſoþe and Y ſhal ſende a child, ſeiyngfe to hym, Go, and bryng to me þe arowis. If I ſeye to þe child, Loo! þe arowis ben wiþ ynne þee, tak hem; com þou to me, for pees is to þee, and no þing is of yuel, lyueþ þe Lord.

xxii Forſoþe if þus Y ſhal ſpeke to þe child, Loo! þe arowis ben beþonde þee; goo in pees, for þe Lord haþ laſt þee.

xxiii Of þe word forſoþe þat we han ſpokun, Y and þou, þe Lord be bitwix me and þee vnto wiþ outer eende.

xxiv þanne Dauid is hid in þe feelde; and þe kalendis camen, and þe kyng ſat to eete breed.

xxv And whanne þe kyng hadde fitten vpon his chayer after þe confuetude, þat was befide þe wal, Jonathas roos, and ſat, and Abner on þe ſide of Saul, and voyde aperyde þe place of Dauid.

xxvi And Saul ſpak not eny þing in þat day; forſoþe he þouȝte, þat perauenture was comen to hym, þat he was not cleen ne puriſed.

xxvii And whanne þe ſecounde day after þe kalendis hadde liȝtid, eft aperide void þe place of Dauid. And Saul ſeide to Jonathas his ſone, Why comeþ not þe ſone of Yſaye, ne ȝesterday, ne 'to day for to eete?

xxviii And Jonathas anſwerde to Saul, He preide me enteerly, þat he myȝte goo into Bethleem;

xxix and seiþ, Lete me, for ſolempne ſacrifice is yn my citee; oon of my briþeren haþ clepid me; nowe þanne if Y haue foundun grace in þin eyen, Y ſhal goo foone, and ſe my briþeren; for þis caufe he cam not to þe bord of þe kyng.

xxx Forſoþe Saul, wrooþ aȝens Jonathan, ſeide to hym, þou ſone of a womman wilfuli catchinge a man, wheþer I knowe not, þat þou louest þe ſone of Yſay into þi confuſion, and into þe confuſyon of þi ſhenful moder?

xxxi Forſoþe alle þe days in whiche þe ſone of Yſay ſhal lyue vpon þe erþe, ſhal not be ſtable þou ne þi rewme; and ſo nowe ſend, and bryng hym to me, for þe ſone of deeþ he is.

xxxii Forsoþe Jonathas answerynge to Saul his fader seip, Whi þhal he dye? what haþ he doon?
 xxxiii And Saul cauȝte a speer forto smyte hym, and Jonathas vndurstood, þat it was fulli termyned of his fader, þat Dauyd shulde be slayn.
 xxxiv Panne Jonathas roos fro þe bord in wrappes of woodnes, and eete not breed in þe fecounde day of kalendis; forsoþe he forowide vpon Dauid, forþi þat his fader hadde shent hym.
 xxxv And whanne þe morwetide hadde liȝtid, Jonathas cam into þe feeld, after þe couenaunt of Dauid, and a litil child wiþ him.
 xxxvi And he seip to his child, Go, and bryng to me þe arowis þat I brewe. And whanne þe child hadde runnen, he þrewe an oper arowe ouer þe child.
 xxxvii And so þe child cam to þe place of þe darts þat Jonathas sente; and Jonathas crieede bihynde þe bak of þe child, and seip, Loo! þere is not þe arowe, but biȝonde þee.
 xxxviii And Jonathas crieede eft bihynde þe bak of þe child, seiyng, Hiȝe swiftli, ne stond þou. Panne þe child of Jonathas gedride þe arowis, and brouȝte to his
 lord,
 xxxix and what shulde be doo vterly he knewe not;
 forsoþe oonli Jonathas and Dauyd knewen þe þing.
 xl Panne Jonathas ȝaf his aarmis to þe child, and seyde to hym, Go, and bere into þe cytee.
 xli And whanne þe child was goon, Dauid roos fro þe place þat bowiþ to þe souþ; and fallynge redi into þe erþe, honourde þe þridde tyme, and kiffynge hem seluen eiþer oþir, þei wepten togidre; forsoþe Dauid more largeli.
 xlvi Panne Jonathas seide to Dauid, Go in pees; what euer þing we han sworn boþe in þe name of þe Lord, seiyng, þe Lord be bitwix me and þee, and bitwix my seed and þi seed vnto wiþ outen eende. And Dauid roos, and wente a wey, but and Jonathas wente into þe cytee.

Capitulum XXI.

i Dauid forsoþe cam into Nobe to Achymalech þe preeft; and Achymalech was astonyed, forþi þat Dauid was comen; and he roos aȝens hym, and seide to hym, Whi þou alone, and no man is wiþ þee?
 ii And Dauid seip to Achymalech þe preeft, þe kyng comaundide to me a word, and seide, No man knowe þe þing, for þe whych þou art sent fro me, and what maner heefstis I haue ȝouen to þee; for and to þe children I haue ordeyned also into þat and þat place; iii nowe þanne if eny þing þou hast at hoond, or fyue looues, ȝif to me, or what euer þou fyndist.
 iv And answerynge þe preeft to Dauid seip to hym, I haue not leeuyd loouys at hoond, but oonli hooli breed; if cleen be þe children, moost fro wymmen, eete þei.

v And Dauyd answerde to þe preeft, and seide to hym, Forsoþe and if of wymmen it is askid, we han conteyned vs fro ȝesterday and before ȝesterday, whanne we wenten out, and þe vessells of þe children weren holy; forsoþe þis weye is polute, but and it to day þhal be halowid in þe vessells.

vi Panne þe preeft ȝaf to hym halwid breed, forsoþe ne þere was breed, but oonly loouys of proposiciooun, þe whiche weren born a wey fro þe face of þe Lord, þat þere ben set hoot loouys.

vii Forsoþe þere was þer a maner man of þe seruauntis of Saul in þat day wiþ ynne in þe tabernacle of þe Lord; þis fedde þe mulis of Saul; and þe name of hym Doeche Ydume, moost myȝti of þe sheepherdis of Saul.
 viii Forsoþe Dauyd seide to Achymalech, If þou haſt here at hoond speer, or swerd, ȝif to me; for my swerd and myn aarmys Y took not wiþ me; forsoþe þe word of þe kyng constreyned me.

ix And þe preeft feyde, Loo! heere þe swerd of Goliath Philistee, whom þou smoot in þe valey of Therebynt, it is wrappid wiþ a pal after þe preeftis coope; if þis þou wolt take, tak; forsoþe ne here is oþere wiþ outen it.
 And Dauid seip, Pere is not anoþer lijk to þis, ȝif to me
 it.

x And so Dauid roos, and fleiȝ in þat day fro þe face of Saul, and cam to Achis, þe kyng of Geth.

xi And þe seruauntis of Achis feiden to hym, whanne þei seen Dauid, Wheþer not þis is Dauid, kyng of þe loond? Wheþer not to þis fungen bi dauncys seiyng, Saul smoot o þousand, and Dauid ten þousandis?

xii Forsoþe Dauid putte þes wordis in his herte, and dredde ful mych fro þe face of Achis, þe kyng of Geth.

xiii And he chaungyde hys mouȝ before Achis, and he hurlide hidir and þider bitwix þe hoondis of hem, and he aȝen put into þe doris of þe ȝate, and his spotis floweden doun into þe beerd.

xiv And Achis seip to his seruauntis, Han ȝe seen a woode man? whi han ȝe brouȝt hym to me?

xv Wheþer faylen to ȝou woode men? whi han ȝe brouȝt hym yn, þat he wexe woode, me present? Letiþ hym goon hens, leſt he goo into myn hows.

Capitulum XXII.

i Dauid þanne ȝeed þens, and fleiȝ into þe spelunk of Odallam; þe which þing whanne þe briþeren of hym hadden herd, and al þe hows of his fadre, þei camen doun to hym þidir.
 ii And camen to gidre to hym alle þat were in angwylsh set, and oppresſid for oþer mennus monee, and for bitter inwit; and he is maad þe prince of hem, and þere weren wiþ hym as foure hundrid men.
 iii And Dauid wente þens into Masphat, þat is of Moab; and seide to þe kyng of Moab, Dwelle, Y preye, my fader and my moder wiþ ȝow, to þe tyme þat Y wite what God doo to me.

ivii And he laft hem before þe face of þe kyng of Moab; and þei dwelten anentis hym alle days, in þe whiche Dauid was in strong focour.

v And Gad, þe prophet, seide to Dauid, Wole þow not dwelle in þe place of strong focour; weend forþ, and goo into þe loond of Juda. And Dauid wente, and cam into þe wijlde wode of Areth.

vi And Saul herde, þat Dauyd apperyde, and men þat wiþ hym weren. Forsoþe Saul whanne he dwelt in Gabaa, and was in þe wode þat is in Rama, a speer in hoond holdynge, and alle his seruauntis stoden about hym, vii he seiþ to his seruauntis þat stoden nyȝ to hym, Heriþ me nowe, þe sones of Gemyny; wheþir to alle ȝou þe sone of Ysay shal ȝyue feedis and vynes, and alle ȝou shal make lederys of þousandis and leders of hundredis?

viii For ȝe alle han sworn togidre aȝens me, and þere is not þat aȝen telle to me; moost whanne and my sone hab ioyned couenaunt of pees wiþ þe sone of Ysay; þere is not þat forwiþ my while of ȝou, ne þat telle to me, forþi þat my sone hab reride my seruaunt aȝens me, weytynge to me vnto to day.

ix Forsoþe answerynge Doech Ydume, þat stood nyȝ, and was þe fyrst amoneg þe seruauntis of Saul, I sawȝ, he seiþ, þe sone of Ysay in Nobe, at Achimalech, þe sone of Achitob, þe preest; x þe which counseilede þe Lord for hym, and ȝaf meetis to hym, but and þe fwerd of Goliath Philistee he ȝaf to hym.

xi Panne þe kyng fente to cleepe Achymalech, þe sone of Achitob, þe preest, and al þe hows of his fader, of þe prestys þat waren in Nobe; þe whiche alle to þe kyng ben comen.

xii And Saul seiþ to Achymalech, Here, þou sone of Achitob. Þe which answerde, I am preest, lord.

xiii And Saul seide to hym, Whi han ȝe sworn togidre aȝens me, þou, and þe sone of Ysay, and þou haft ȝeuen to hym louuys and a fwerd, and þou haft counseil for hym þe Lord, þat he ryse aȝens me, dwellynge a spye vnto to day?

xiv And Achymalech answerynge to þe kyng seiþ, And who in alle þi seruauntis trewe as Dauid, and þe sone in lawe of þe kyng, and goyng at þin heest, and gloriuous in þin hows?

xv Wheþer to day I haue begun for hym to counsel þe Lord? A wey be þat fro me, ne trowe þe kyng aȝens his seruaunt sich a maner þing in al þe hows of my fader; forsoþe þi seruaunt wiste not eny þing vpon þis nede, opere litil or greet.

xvi And þe kyng seide, Bi deþ shal dye, Achymalech, þou, and al þe hows of þi fader.

xvii And þe kyng seiþ to þe outgoers in his nedis, þat stoden about hym, Turneþ, and fleeþ þe preestis of þe Lord, for þe hoond of hem is wiþ Dauid; wytyng þat he was flowen, and þei sheweden not to me. Forsoþe þe seruauntis of þe kyng wolden not strecche out her hoond into þe preestis of þe Lord.

xviii And þe kyng seiþ to Doech, Turn þou, and fal into þe preestis of þe Lord. And Doech Ydume turnede, felle into þe preestis, and hewȝ doun fyue and eiȝtiþ men in þat day, cloþid wiþ surplees.

xix Also he smoot Nobee, þe citee of preestis, in mouȝ of fwerd, men and wymmen, litil children and fowkyng, and oxe, and asse, and sheep, in mouȝ of fwerd.

xx Forsoþe oon ascapynge, sone of Achymalech, þe sone of Achitob, whos name was Abiathar, fleeȝ to Dauid, xxi and toolde to hym, þat Saul hadde slayn þe preestis of þe Lord.

xxii And Dauid seiþ to Abiathar, Forsoþe I wist in þat day, þat whanne þere was Doech Ydume, wiþ out dout he wold telle to Saul; I am gilty of alle þe soulis of þi fader.

xxiii Dwel wiþ me, ne drede þou; if eny man fechis my liȝ, shal seche and bi liȝ, and wiþ me þou shalt be kept.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And men toolden to Dauid, seiyng, Loo! Phylisteis fiȝten aȝens Seyla, and struyen þe floris of cornys.

ii Panne Dauid counseilde þe Lord, seiyng, Wheþer I shal goo, and smyte þes Phylisteis? And þe Lord seiþ to Dauid, Go, and þou shalt smyte Phylisteis, and saue Seylam.

iii And men seiden, þat weren wiþ Dauid, to hym, Loo! we here beynge in Juda dreden; myche more if we goon into Seilam aȝens þe companyes of Phylisteis.

iv Eft panne Dauid counseilde þe Lord; þe which answerynge seiþ to hym, Ryse, and go into Seilam; forsoþe I shal take þe Phylisteis in þin hoond.

v Panne wente Dauid and his men into Seilam, and fauȝt aȝens þe Phylisteis; and droue a wey þe beetis of hem, and smoot hem wiþ a greet veniaunce; and Dauid sauyde þe dwellers of Seilam.

vi Forsoþe þat tyme, þe which Abiathar, þe sone of Achymalech, fleeȝ, he descendide to Dauid into Seylam, hauyng wiþ hym þe preestis coope.

vii Forsoþe it is toold to Saul, þat Dauid was comen into Seylam; and Saul seiþ, þe Lord hab taken hym into myn hoondis, and cloſid is goon into þe cytee, in þe which ben ȝatis and lockis.

viii And Saul comaundide to al þe puple, þat to þe fiȝt bei shulden descende to Seilam, and bisege Dauid and his men.

ix Þe which þing whanne Dauid aȝen knewe, for Saul made redy to hym priueli yuel, he seide to Abiathar, þe preest, Cloþe þee þe preestis coope.

x And Dauid seip, Lord God of Yrael, þi seruaunt hab herd þe fame, þat Saul hab̄ disposid to come to Seyla, þat he turne vpfedoun for me þe cyte;
 xi if þe men of Seyla shulen take me into his hoondis, and if Saul shal come doun, as þi seruaunt hab̄ herd, Lord God of Yrael, shewe to þi seruaunt? And þe Lord seip, He shal come doun.
 xii And Dauid eft seide, If þe men of Seila shulen take me, and þe men þat ben wiþ me, into þe hoondis of Saul? And þe Lord seide, Þei shulen take.
 xiii Panne Dauid roos, and his men, as sex hundrid; and, goon out fro Seyla, hidir and þider weren vagaunt vncerteyn. And it is toold to Saul, þat Dauid hadde floweren fro Seila, and was fauid; for what skyl he laft to goon out.
 xiv Forsoþe Dauid dwellide in deseert, in moost defensable placis, and abood in þe hil of wildernes of Ziph, in þe derk hil; neuerþelater Saul souȝte hym alle days, and þe Lord took hym not into þe hoondis of
 hym.
 xv And Dauid sawȝ, þat Saul was goon out, for to seche his lijf. Forsoþe Dauid was in þe deseert of Ziph, in a wode.
 xvi And Jonathas, þe sone of Saul, roos, and wente to Dauid into þe wode, and coumfourtide þe hoondis of hym in God.
 xvii And he seide to hym, Ne drede þou; forsoþe ne þe hoond of Saul my fader shal fynde þee, and þou shalt regne vpon Yrael, and I shal be to þee þe secounde; but and Saul my fader woot þis.
 xviii Panne eiper smoot couenaunt of pees before þe Lord. And Dauid abood in þe wode; forsoþe Jonathas turnede aȝen into his hows.
 xix Forsoþe Zipheis stieden vp to Saul in Gabaa, seiyng, Loo! wheþer not Dauid lurkiþ anentis vs in moost siker placys of a wode, in þe hil of Achille, þat is at þe riȝt party of deseert?
 xx Nowe þanne, as þi soule hab̄ defyrid for to come doun, com doun; forsoþe `our shal be, þat we taken hym into þe hoondis of þe kyng.
 xxi And Saul seide, Bleſſid be ȝe of þe Lord, for ȝe han forewid my while.
 xxii Gob þanne, I praye, and more bisiþ makib redy beforne, and fleyer doþ, and weitiþ swiftly þe place, where be þe foot of hym, or who sawȝ hym þere, where ȝe han feid; forsoþe he aȝen þenkiþ of me, þat I felli aspye hym.
 xxiii Biholdib, and seeþ alle þe hidils of hym, in whiche he is hid, and turneþ to me at certeyn þing, þat I goo wiþ ȝou; þat if also into þe erþe he hide hym self, I shal þurȝ ferche hym in alle þe þousandis of Juda.
 xxiv And þei ryfynge wenten into Ziph before Saul.
 Forsoþe Dauid and his men weren in þe deseert of Maon, in þe wijld feeldis, at þe riȝt side of Jefymib.
 xxv Panne Saul wente and his felawis to seche hym, and it is toold to Dauid; and anoon he wente doun to a stoon, and abood in þe deseert of Maon; þe whiche þinge whanne Saul had herde, he purfuede Dauid in þe deseert of Maon.

xxvi And Saul wente and his men at þe side of þe hil on þe o partye; forsoþe Dauid and his men weren in þe side of þe hil on þe toþer party; wherfor Dauid dispeyryde hym self to mowe alkaap fro þe face of Saul. And so Saul and his men in maner of a coroun girdiden Dauid and his men, for to take hem.

xxvii And a messager cam to Saul, seiyng, Hyȝe, and come, for þe Philisteis han held hem seluen vpon þe
 loond.

xxviii Panne Saul turnede aȝen, cefyng to pursue Dauid; and he wente into þe aȝen comyng of þe Philisteis. For þat þei clepen þat place þe Dyuydynge Stoone.

xxix Panne Dauid stiede vp þens, and dwelte in moost siker placis of Engaddi.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And whanne Saul was turned aȝen, after þat he hadde purfued þe Philisteis, þei toolden to hym, seiyng, Loo!
 Dauid is in þe deseert of Engaddi.

ii Panne Saul, takynge to þre þousandis of chosen men of al Yrael, wente to aferche Dauid and his men, vpon moost heiȝ rochis, þat oneli to wijlde capretis ben þurȝ weyes.

iii And he cam to þe fooldys of sheep, þe which offred hemself to þe weye goer. And a spelunk was þere, þe which Saul wente yn, þat he purge þe wombe; forsoþe Dauid and his men lurkeden in þe innere parti of þe denne.

iv And þe seruauntis of Dauyd seiden to hym, Loo! þe day of which þe Lord spak to þee, I shal take to þee þin enemy, þat þou doo to hym as it plesib in þin eyen.
 Panne Dauid roos, and kytide of þe hemme of þe mantil of Saul stilly.

v After þes þingis þe herte of Dauid smoot hym, forþi þat he hadde kut a wey þe hemme of þe mantil of Saul.

vi And he seide to his men, Merciful be to me þe Lord, þat I doo not þis þing to my lord, þe crist of þe Lord, þat I putte myn hoond into hym, for þe crist of þe Lord he is. þe Lord lyueþ, for but þe Lord smyte hym, oþer þe day of hym come, þat he dye, oþer comyng doun into batayl perish, merciful be to me þe Lord, þat I putte not myn hoond into þe crist of þe Lord.

vii And Dauid brak togidre his men wiþ þes wordis, and suffred hem not, þat þei ryfynge into Saul; forsoþe Saul ryfynge fro þe denne, wente in þe weye begun.

viii Forsoþe Dauid roos after hym, and wente out of þe denne, and criede after þe bak of Saul, seiyng, My lord kyng! And Saul beheilde bihynde hym; and Dauyd bowynge hym self redi into þe erþe honourede.

ix And he seide to Saul, Whi herist þou wordis of men spekyng, Dauid sechib yuel aȝens þee?
 x Loo! to dai þin eyen seen, þat þe Lord took þee in myn hoond in þe denne, and I þouȝt for to flee þee, but myn eye sparide to þee; forsoþe I seide, I shal not stretche out myn hoond in my lord, `for þe crift of þe Lord he is.
 xi But more ouere, fader myn, se, and know þe hemme of þi mantil in myn hoond, for whanne I kut þe coope of þi mantil, I wold not stretch out myn hoond into þee; inwardly tak hede, and se, for þere is not in myn hoond euel ne wickidnes, ne I haue synned in þee; forsoþe þou aspyist my lijf, þat þou doo it awey.
 xii þe Lord deme bitwix me and þee, and þe Lord wreke me on þee; forsoþe myn hoond be not in þee, xiii as in þe oold prouerbe it is feid, Fro vnpiteous men goþ out vnpiteoufnesse; myn hoond forsoþe be not in þee.
 xiv Whom purſuyſt þou, kyng of Yrael? whom purſuifst þou? A deed dog þou purſuifst, and a quyk flyȝe.
 xv þe Lord be domesman, and þe Lord deme bitwix me and þee, and see, and deme my cause, and delyuere me fro þin hoond.
 xvi Forsoþe whanne Dauid hadde ful eendid spekyng siche maner wordis to Saul, Saul seide, Wheper þis is þi voys, sone myn Dauyd? And Saul reryde vp a voys, and wepte.
 xvii And to Dauid he seide, More riȝtwise þou art þan Y; forsoþe þou hast ȝoldun to me gode þingis; forsoþe I haue ȝoldun aȝen to þee yuel þingis.
 xviii And þow hast shewid to me to day, what goode þingis þou hast doo to me, what maner wife þe Lord took me in þin hoond, and þou flewȝ not me.
 xix Forsoþe who, whanne he fyndip his enemy, leeueþ hym in a good weie? But þe Lord ȝeelde to þee þis while, for þat, þat to day þou hast wrouȝt in me.
 xx And 'now, for I knowe, þat moost certeynl þou art to regne, and to haue in þin hoond þe kyngdom of Yrael, xxi swere to me in þe Lord, þat þou do not a wey my feed after me, ne doo a wey my name fro þe hows of my fader.
 xxii And Dauid swore to Saul. Panne Saul wente into his hows, and Dauid and his men stieden vp to more sykyr placis.

Capitulum XXV.

i Samuel forsoþe diede; and al Yrael is gaderid, and biweilide hym ful myche, and biryeden hym in his hows in Ramatha. And Dauid rifynge wente doun into þe deseert of Pharan.
 ii Forsoþe þere was a maner man in þe wildernesse of Maon, and þe possessioun of hym was in Carmele, and þat man ful myche greet, and þere weren to hym sheep þre þousandis, and a þousand goot; and it felle þat his flok shulde be clippid in Carmele.

 iii Forsoþe þe name of þat man was Naabal, and þe name of his wijf Abigail; and þat womman was moost wyis and feyr, forsoþe hir man hard and werfst and malicious; forsoþe he was of þe kynrede of Caleph.
 iv Whanne þanne Dauid in deseert hadde herd, þat Naabal clippide his flok, v he fente ten ȝonge men, and feide to hem, Stiep vp into Carmele, and ȝe shulen come to Naabal, and ȝe shulen salute hym in my name pesibly;
 vi and þus ȝe shulen seye, Pees be to my briberen and to þee, and pees to þin hows, and to alle, what euere þingis þou hast, be pees; of many ȝeiris be þou maad saaf, þou, and þin hows, and alle þin.
 vii I haue herd þat þi sheepherdis clippiden þi flockis, þat weren wiþ vs in deseert; neuere to hem we weren heuy, ne eny tyme faylide to hem eny þing of þe flok, al þe tyme þat þei weren wiþ vs in Carmele;
 viii ask þi children, and þei shulen shewe to þee. Nowe þanne fynden þi children grace in þin eyen; in a good day forsoþe we ben comen to þee; what euere þing þin hoond fyndip, ȝif to þi seruauntis, and to þi sone Dauid.
 ix And whanne þe children of Dauid weren comen, þei speken to Naabal alle þes wordis in þe name of Dauid, and helden her pees.
 x Forsoþe Naabal, answerynge to þe children of Dauid, seip, Who is Dauid? and who is þe sone of Ysay? To day han sprungun yn seruauntis þat fleen her lordis.
 xi Shal I þanne take my louys, and my watriis, and flesh of beeftis, þat I haue flayn to my clippers, and ȝife to men, whom I knowe not whennus þei ben?
 xii And so þe children of Dauid wenten aȝen bi her weye; and aȝen turned þei camen aȝen, and toolden to hym alle þe wordis þat Naabal hadde seid.
 xiii Panne Dauid seip to his children, Echon be gyrd wiþ his swerd. And echon ben gird wiþ her swerdis, and Dauid is gird wiþ his swerd; and þere folwedien Dauid as foure hundrid men, forsoþe two hundryd abiden stil at þe fardels.
 xiv Forsoþe to Abigail, þe wijf of Naabal, oon of hir children toold, leyyinge, Loo! Dauid fente messagers fro deseert, for þei wolden blesse to oure lord, and he wiþ stooðe hem; xv þese men weren good ynow 'to vs, and not heuy, ne eny þing þat eny tyme perishid al þe tyme we han dwellic wiþ hem in deseert;
 xvi for a wal þei weren to vs, as wel in nyȝt as in day, alle days þe whiche we fedden flockis anentis hem.
 xvii Wherfor behold, and biȝenk, what þou doo; for determyned is þe malice aȝens þi man, and aȝens þin hows; and he is þe sone of Belial, so þat no man may speke to him.
 xviii Panne Abigail hiȝede, and took two hundryd louys, and two botels of wyn, and fyue weperis soþen, and fyue buffhellis of brayid corn, and an hundrid buffhellis of dried grape, and two hundrid peyse of dried figis; and she putte vpon þe assis, xix and feide to hir children, Goþ before me; loo! after þe bak Y shal folwe ȝou. To Naabal forsoþe hir man she shewide it not.

xx Whanne þanne she was goon vpon þe asse, and cam doun at þe roote of þe hil, Dauid and his men camen doun into aȝen metynge of hyre; to whom and she aȝen cam.
xxi And Dauid seiþ, Verreili in veyn I haue kept alle þingis þat of þis man weren in deseert, and þere perisched not eny þing of alle þingis þat to hym perteyned, and he haþ soldun to me yuel for good.
xxii þes þingis do þe Lord to þe enemyes of Dauid, and þes þingis adde, if Y shal leeue of alle þingis þat to hym pertenen vnto þe morwe tide a piffer to þe wal.
xxiii Forsoþe whanne Abigail hadde seen Dauid, she hiȝede, and wente doun of þe asse, and felle doun before Dauid vpon hir face, and honourde vpon þe erþe.
xxiv And she felle at þe feet of hym, and seyde, My lord, in me be þis wickidnes; speke, Y biseche, þin hoondseruaunt in þin eeris.
xxv and here þe wordis of þi seruaunt; ne put, Y preye, my lord kyng, his herte vpon þis wickid man Naabal, for after his name he is a fool, and foli is wiþ hym; forsoþe I, þin hoond womman, sawȝ not þi children, whom, my lord, þou sentist.
xxvi Now þann, my lord, lyueþ þe Lord and lyueþ þi soule, þat haþ defendid þee, þat þou cam not into blood, and haþ sauȝd þin hoond to þee; and now as Naabal þin enemyes ben maad, and þat sechen to my lord yuel.
xxvii Wherfor tak þis bleſſynge, þat þin hoond womman haþ brouȝt to þee, my lord, and ȝyue to þe children þat folowen þee, my lord.
xxviii Do awey þe wickyndes of þi seruaunt; forsoþe þe Lord makyng shal make to þee, my lord, a trewe hows, for þe batayls of þe Lord, my lord, þou fiȝtist; malice þanne be þere not founden in þee alle þe days of þi liȝt.
xxix Forsoþe if þere arise any tyme a man purfuyng þee, and fechynge þi liȝt, þe liȝt of my lord shal be kept, as in a litol knytche of lyuyng men, anentis þe Lord þi God; forsoþe þe liȝt of þin enemyes shal be turned about as in þe birre, and þe cercle of a flynge.
xxx Whanne þanne þe Lord shal do to þee, my lord, alle þes gode þingis, þat he haþ spokyn of þee, and settiþ þee a duyk vpon Yrael.
xxxi þis shal not be to þee, my lord, into ȝoxyng and into scripil of herte, þat þou haſt ſhed gyltlesſe blood, or þi ſelf þou haſt vengid. And whanne þe Lord shal wel doo to þee, my lord, þow ſhalt recorde of þin hoond womman, and þou ſhalt wel doo to hir.

xxxii And Dauid ſeide to Abigail, Blifſid be þe Lord God of Yrael, þat ſente þee to day into myn aȝencomynge, and bleſſid þi ſpeche; xxxiii and bleſſid þou art, þat haſt defendid me, þat I ȝeðe not to day to þe blood, and vengide me bi myn hoond;
xxxiv ellis þe Lord God of Yrael lyueþ, þat haþ defendide me, þat Y dide not yuel to þee, but foone þow haðdiſt comen into aȝencomynge to me, þere ſhulde not han laſt to Naabal vnto þe morwetide liȝt a piffer to þe wal.
xxxv Panne Dauid took of þe hoond of hir alle þingis þat ſhe brouȝte to hym; and he ſeide to hir, Go in pees into þin hows; loo! I haue herd þi voys, and honourde þi face.
xxxvi Forſoþe Abigail cam to Naabal; and loo! þere was to hym a feest in his hows, as a feest of a kyng; and þe herte of Naabal myri, forſoþe he was drunken ful myche; and ſhe ſhewide not to hym word litil or greet vnto þe morwe.
xxxvii Forſoþe eerli, whanne Naabal hadde defied þe wyn, his wif ſhewide to him þes wordis; and þe herte of hym wiþ yn forþ is deed, and he is maad as a ſtoone.
xxxviii And whanne ten days weren paſſid, þe Lord ſmoot Naabal, and he is deed.
xxxix Pe which þing whanne Dauid hadde herd, Naabal deed, he ſeiþ, Blifſid is þe Lord, þat haþ vengid þe caufe of my reprooþ fro þe hoond of Naabal, and his ſeruaunt haþ kept fro yuel, and þe malice of Naabal þe Lord haþ solden into his heed. Þan Dauid ſente, and ſpak to Abigail, þat he take hir to hym into wif.
xl And þe children of Dauid camen to Abigail into Carmele, and ſpeaken to hir, ſeiyng, Dauid ſente vs to þee, þat he take þee into wif to hym.
xli Pe which aryſynge honourde redi into þe erþe, and ſeiþ, Loo! þi ſeruaunt be in to an hond womman, þat ſhe waſſhe þe feet of þe ſeruauntis of my lord.
xlii And Abigail hiȝede, and roos, and ſtiede vpon þe asse; and fyue childwymmen, hir feet folowers, wenten wiþ hir, and ſhe folowide þe meſſagers of Dauid, and is maad to hym a wif.
xliii But and Dauid took Achynoem fro Jezrael, and eiþer was þe wif of hym; xliv forſoþe Saul ȝaf Mychol his douȝter, þe wif of Dauid, to Phalti, þe ſone of Lays, þat was of Gallym.

Capitulum XXVI.

i And Ziphei camen to Saul in Gabaa, ſeiyng, Loo! Dauid is hid in þe hil of Achille, þe which is fro aȝens of þe wilderneſſe.
ii And Saul roos, and cam doun into þe deſeert of Ziph, and wiþ hym pre þousandis of men of þe chosun of Yrael, þat he ſeche Dauid in þe deſeert of Ziph.

iii And Saul sette tentis in Gabaa of Achille, þat was fro aȝens of þe wilderneſſe in þe weye. Forſoþe Dauid dwellide in deſeert. Forſoþe ſeynge þat Saul was comen after hym into deſeert, iii he ſente aſpies, and lernyde mooſt certeynli, þat þidre he was comyn.
 v And Dauyd roos pryueli, and cam to þe place where Saul was. And whanne he hadde ſeen þe place, in þe whiche Saul ſlepte, and Abner, þe ſone of Ner, prince of his chialrye, and Saul ſlepyng in þe tent, and þe toþer comouns bi þe enuyroun of hym, vi Dauid ſeip to Achymalech, Ethee, and to Abifay, þe ſone of Saruye, þe brother of Joab, ſeiyng, Who ſhal come doun wiþ me to Saul into þe tentis? And Abifai feide, Y ſhal goo doun wiþ þee.
 vii Panne Dauid and Abifai camen to þe puple þe nyȝt, and founded Saul liyng, and ſlepyng in þe tent, and a ſpeer piȝt at his heed in þe erþe; forſoþe Abner and þe puple ſlepyng in þe enuyroun of hym.
 viii And Abifai feide to Dauid, God haþ cloſid to dai þin enemye into þin hoondis; now þanne I ſhal ſtike hym wiþ a ſpeer in þe erþe oonyſ, and þe fecounde ſhal be no nede.
 ix And Dauid feide to Abifai, Pou ſhalt not fle hym, forſoþe who ſhal ſtretche his hoond into þe crift of þe Lord, and ſhal be innocent?
 x And Dauid feide, Pe Lord lyuiþ, for but þe Lord ſmyte hym, oþer þe day of hym come þat he die, oþer into batail comynge doun he perifſhe; xi merciful be to me þe Lord, þat I ſtretche not out myn hoond into þe crift of þe Lord; now þanne tak þe ſpeer, þat is at his heed, and þe cup of water, and go wee.
 xii Dauid took þe ſpeer, and þe cup of water, þat was at þe heed of Saul, and þei wenten awey, and þere was not eny man þat fawȝ, and vndurſtood, and awook, but alle þei ſlepten; for þe ſleep of þe Lord felle vpon hem.
 xiii And whanne Dauid was goon fro aȝens, and stood in þe cop of þe hil fro a fer, and þere was a greet myddil valey bitwix hem, xiv Dauid criede to þe puple, and to Abner, þe ſone of Ner, ſeiyng, Wheþer ert þou not anſwere?
 And Abner anſwerynge ſeip, Who art þou þat criest, and vnreſtift þe kyng?
 xv And Dauid ſeip to Abner, Wheþer ert þou not a man, and who oþer lijk þee in Yrael? whi þanne haſt þou not kept þi lord þe kyng? Forſoþe þere wente yn a man of þe folk, for he wolde fleeþ þi lord þe kyng; xvi it is not good, þis þat þou haſt doo; þe Lord lyuiþ, for ſonyſ of deeþ ȝe ben, for ȝe han not kept ȝoure lord, crift of þe Lord. Now þanne ſe, where be þe ſpeer of þe kyng, and where be þe cup of water, þat weren at þe heed of hym.
 xvii Forſoþe Saul knewe þe voys of Dauid, and feide, Wheþer is þis þi vois, my ſone Dauid? And Dauid ſeip, My vois, my lord kyng.

xviii And he ſeip, For what cauſe purſueþ my lord his ſerauant? What haue I doo, or what yuel is in myn hoond?
 xix Nowe þanne here, I preye, my lord kyng, wordis of þi ſerauant; if þe Lord ſtirip þee aȝens me, ſacrifice be ſmellið; forſoþe if þe ſones of men, curſid be þei in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord, þat han þrouwun me out to day, þat I dwelle not in þe heritage of þe Lord, ſeiyng, Go, and ſerue to alien goddis.
 xx And now be not ſhed out my blood in þe erþe before þe Lord; for þe kyng of Yrael is goon out þat he ſeche a quyk flīȝe, as a partritch is purſued in hillis.
 xxi And Saul ſeip, Y haue ſynned; turne aȝen, my ſone Dauid, namore forſoþe I ſhal myſdo to þee, forþi þat my liȝ was precious in þin eyen to day; forſoþe it ſemeþ þat folili I haue doo, and many þingis to myche I haue vñknowen.
 xxii And Dauid anſwerynge ſeip, Loo! þe ſpeer of þe kyng, go oon of þe children of þe kyng, and take it; xxiii forſoþe þe Lord ſhal ȝeeld to ech man after his riȝtwiſhes and feip; forſoþe þe Lord haþ takun þee to day into myn hoond, and I wold not ſtretche out myn hoond in þe crift of þe Lord; xxiv and as þi liȝ is maad greet to day in myn eyen, fo my liȝ be maad greet in þe eyen of þe Lord, and delyuer he me fro al angwiſh.
 xxv Panne Saul ſeip to Dauid, Bleſſid þou, ſone myn Dauid; forſoþe and doynge þou ſhalt doo, and myȝti þou ſhalt mowe. Panne Dauid wente into his weye, and Saul turnede aȝen into his place.

Capitulum XXVII.

i And Dauid ſeip in his herte, Sumtyme on a day I ſhal falle in þe hoond of Saul; wheþer is it not beter, þat I flee, and be fauid in þe lond of Philistis, þat Saul diſpeire, and ceeſe to ſeche me in alle þe cooſtis of Yrael; þanne flee we þe hoondis of hym.
 ii And Dauid roos, and wente, he and ſexe hundryd men wiþ hym, to Achis, þe ſone of Maoth, þe kyng of Geth.
 iii And Dauid dwellide wiþ Achis in Geth, he, and his men, and his hows; Dauid, and his two wyues, Achynoem Jezralite, and Abigail, þe wijf of Naabal Carmele.
 iv And it is toold to Saul, þat Dauid was flowen into Geth; and he addide no more for to ſeche hym.
 v Forſoþe Dauid feide to Achis, If I haue founden grace in þin eyen, a place be ȝouun to me in oon of þe citees of þis regioun, þat I dwelle þere; forſoþe whi þi ſerauant dwelliþ in þe citee of þe kyng wiþ þee?
 vi And so Achis ȝaf to hym in þat day Sichelech, for þe which cauſe Sichelech is maad of þe kyngis of Juda vnto þis day.

vii Forsoþe þe noumbre of þe dais, in þe whiche Dauid dwellide in þe regiouen of Philisteis, was of foure moneþis.

viii And Dauid stiede vp, and his men, and brouȝten prayes of Gethsury, and of Gethry, and of Amalachitis; forsoþe þes heþen dwelliden in þe loond bi oold tyme citees of Sur, vnto þe loond of Egyp.

ix And Dauid smoot al þe loond of hem, and he lafte not a lyuyng man and womman; and takyng sheep, and oxen, and assis, and camelis, and cloþis, he turnede aȝen, and cam to Achis.

x Forsoþe Achis seide to hym, In whom felle þou on to dai? Dauid answerde, Aȝens þe souþ of Jude, and aȝens þe souþ of Yranyel, and aȝens þe souþ of Ceny.

xi Man and womman Dauid lafte not on lyue, ne brouȝte into Geth, seiyng, Lest perauenture þei speken aȝens vs. Þese þingis dide Dauid, and þis was þe dom of hym, alle þe dais 'þe whiche he dwellide in þe regiouen of Philisteis.

xii þanne Achis leuyde to Dauid, seiyng, Forsoþe manye yuels he haþ wrouȝte aȝens his puple Yrael, þerfor a seruaunt he shal be to me for euere more.

Capitulum XXVIII.

i In þo dais forsoþe it is doon, Philisteis gadreden her companyes, þat þei weren redi before aȝens Yrael at batail. And Achis seide to Dauid, Witynge now wite þou, for wiþ me þou shalt goon out in þe tentis, þou and þi men.

ii And Dauid seide to Achis, Now þou shalt knowe what þi seruaunt is to doo. And Achis seiþ to Dauid, And I shal putte þee keper of myn heed alle dais.

iii Forsoþe Samuel is deed, and al Yrael biweilide hym, and biryede hym in Ramatha, his cytee. And Saul took a wey þe dyuynours and clepers of deuels fro þe loond, and flewȝ hem þat hadden chaarmers of deuels in þe wombe.

iv And Philisteis ben gadrid, and camen, and setten tentis in Siccymam; forsoþe and Saul gadrede al Yrael, and cam into Gelboe.

v And Saul sawȝ þe tentis of Philisteis, and dradde, and his herte quauyde ful myche.

vi And he counseilde þe Lord; and he answarde hym not, ne bi prestis, ne bi sweuens, ne bi prophetis.

vii And Saul seide to his seruauntis, Sechȝ to me a womman hauyng a charmynge goost; and I shal goo to hir, and aske bi hir. And his seruauntis feiden to hym, Þere is a womman hauyng a dyuynynge spirite in Endore.

viii þanne he chaungide his abite, and is cloþid wiþ oþere cloþis; and he ȝede, and two men wiþ hym; and þei camen to þe womman bi nyȝt. And he seiþ, Duyne to me in a chaarmynge spyrite, and rere to me whom Y shal seye to þee.

ix And þe womman seiþ to hym, Loo! þou hast knownen how greet þingis Saul dide, and what maner wyse he haþ putte out dyuynours, and clepers of deuels fro þe loond; whi þanne weytist þou to my lijf, þat I be flayn? x And Saul swore to hyre in þe Lord, seiyng, þe Lord lyuȝ; for þere shal not come to þee eny þing of yuel for þis þing.

xi And þe womman seide to him, Whom shal I rere to þee? þe which seiþ, Rere to me Samuel.

xii Forsoþe whanne þe womman hadde seen Samuel, she cryede wiþ a greet voys, and seide to Saul, Whi haſt þou putte þis to me? forsoþe þou ert Saul.

xiii And þe kyng seide to hyr, Wole þou not drede; what haſt þou seen? And þe womman seiþ to Saul, I sawȝ goddis stiynge vp fro þe erþe.

xiv And he seiþ to hir, What maner is þe fourm of hym? þe which seiþ, An oold man stiede vp, and he is cloþid wiþ a mantil. And Saul vndurstood þat it was Samuel; and he bowide hym self vpon his face in þe erþe, and honourde.

xv Forsoþe Samuel seide to Saul, Whi haſt þou vnrestid me, þat I be rerid? And Saul seiþ, I am artid to myche; forsoþe Philisteis fiȝten aȝens me, and God is goon a wey fro me, and wol not here me, ne bi þe hoond of prophetis, ne bi sweuens; þerfor I haue clepid þee, þat þou shewe to me what I shal doo.

xvi And Samuel seiþ, What askist þou me, siþ God haþ goon a wey fro þee, and goon to þin enemye?

xvii Forsoþe þe Lord shal doo to þee as he spak in myn hoond, and he shal kut bi kyngdam fro þin hoond, and ȝyue it to bi neiȝbor Dauid;

xviii for þou haſt not obeishid to þe vois of þe Lord, ne þou didist þe wrapphe of his woodnes in Amalech.

þerfor þat þat þou suffrist þe Lord haþ doo to þee to day;

xix and þe Lord also shal ȝeue Israel wiþ þee in þe hoond of Philisteis. Forsoþe to morwe þou and þi sones shal be wiþ me; but and þe Lord shal take þe tentis of Yrael in þe hoond of Philisteis.

xx And Saul anoon felle straȝt into þe erþe; he dradde forsoþe þe wordis of Samuel, and miȝt was not in hym, for he hadde not eten breed al þat dai and al niȝt.

xxi And so þat womman wente yn to Saul, and saȝ; forsoþe he was disturblid greetli; and she seide to hym, Loo! þin hoond womman haþ obeishid to þi vois, and I haue put my lijf in myn hoond, and I haue herd þi wordis, þat þou speek to me.

xxii Now þanne here þou þe vois of þin hoond womman, and I shal putte before þee a morsel of breed, and etyng þou wexe hool, and mowe goon þe weye.

xxiii þe which forsoke, and seiþ, I shal not ete. Forsoþe his seruauntis and þe womman constreyneden; and at þe laft, þe vois of hem herd, he roos fro þe erþe, and sat vpon þe bedde.

xxiiii Forsoþe þat womman hadde a foddred calf in þe hows, and she hiȝede, and flewȝ it; and takynge floure she mengide it, and boke þerf looues;
xxv and putte before Saul and his seruauntis, þe which whanne þei hadden eten, risen, and wenten þurȝ out al þat nyȝt.

Capitulum XXIX.

i Thanne alle þe companyes of Philisteis ben gadred in Aphech, but and Israel sette tentis vpon þe welle þat was in Jezrael.
ii Forsoþe and þe maistris of Philisteis wenten in hundredis and þousandis; forsoþe Dauid and his men weren in þe laſt companye wiþ Achis.
iii And þe princis of Philisteis feiden to Achis, What to hem ſelf wolē þes Ebrews? And Achis ſeip to þe princys of Philisteis, Wheþer knowe þe not Dauid, þat was seruaunt to Saul, kyng of Israel? and is anentis me manye days or ȝeeriſ, and I founde not in hym eny þing, fro þe dai þat he ouer fleiȝ to me vnto þis dai.
iv Forsoþe þe princis of Philisteis ben wrooþ aȝens hym, and feiden to hym, Þe man turne aȝen, and ſitt in his place, in þe which I haue ſett hym, and deſſende he not wiþ vs into batail, leſt he be maad to vs aduersarye, whanne we bigynnen to fiȝte; forsoþe what maner wife oþer wife he ſhal mowe pleſe his lord, but in oure heidis?
v Wheþer is not þis Dauid, to whom þei syngen in dauncis, feiynge, Saul haþ ſmyten in his þousandis, and Dauid in his ten þousandis?
vi Panne Achis clepide Dauid, and ſeide to hym, Þe Lord lyueþ; for riȝt þou ert, and good in my ſiȝt, and þi goynge out and þin incomynge wiþ me is in þe tentis, and I haue not founded in þee eny þing of yuel, fro þe dai þat þou cam to me vnto þis dai; but to þe maistris þou pleſift not.
vii Turn þanne aȝen, and go in pees, and offend þou not be eyen of þe maistris of Philisteis.
viii And Dauid ſeid to Achis, Forsoþe what haue I doo, and what haſt þou founded in me þi ſeruaunt, fro þe dai þat I was in þi ſiȝt vnto þis dai, þat I come not, and fiȝt aȝens þe enemyes of my lord þe kyng?
ix Forsoþe Achis answerynge ſpak to Dauid, I woot for þou art good, and in myn eyen as þe aungel of God; but þe princis of Philisteis feiden, He ſhal not ſtie vp wiþ vs into batail.
x Perfor ſife eerli, þou, and þi ſeruauntis þat camen wiþ þee; and whanne fro niȝt ȝe ſhulen riſe, and it bigynneþ to liȝte day, gooþ.
xi And fo Dauid roos fro niȝt, he and his men, þat he miȝt goo forþ eerli to þe loond of Philisteis, and turne aȝen; forsoþe Philisteis ſtieden vp into Jezrael.

Capitulum XXX.

i Whanne Dauid and his men were comen into Sichelech þe þriddē dai, Amalechites maden a bure fro þe ſoup partie into Sichelech; and þei ſmyten Sichelech, and þei brenten it wiþ fier.
ii And caitifis þei ladden wymmen fro it, fro þe leſt vnto þe greet; and þei flewen not eny man, but ladden wiþ hem, and wenten her weye.
iii Panne whanne Dauid was comen, and his men, to þe citee, and þei founded it brent wiþ fier, and her wyues, and her ſonyſ, and douȝtris to be ladde caitifes, iv Dauid and þe puple þat was wiþ hym rereden vp her voices, and weilden, to þe tyme þat teeris faileden in hem.
v Forsoþe and þe two wyues of Dauid were ladde caitife, Achynoem Jezraelite, and Abigail, þe wijf of Naabal of Carmele.
vi And Dauid forowide greetli; forsoþe al þe puple wold ſtoone hym, for bitter was þe lyif of eche man vpon her ſones and douȝtres. Forsoþe Dauid is coumfortid in þe Lord his God.
vii And he ſeip to Abiathar, þe preest, þe ſone of Achimalech, Aplie to me þe preefis coope. And Abiathar apliede to Dauid þe preefis coope; viii and Dauid counſeilde þe Lord, ſeiyng, Shal I purſue, or naye, þeſe þeues, and take hem? And þe Lord ſeide to hym, Purſue; forsoþe out of dout þou ſhalt take hem, and ſhake out þe praye.
ix Panne Dauid wente, he and ſexe hundred men þat were wiþ hym, and camen to þe ſtreem of Besor; and ſumme wery ſtoden ſtille.
x Forsoþe Dauid purſuede, he and fouru hundrid men; for þere ſtoden ſtille two hundred, þat weri myȝten not goon ouere þe ſtreem of Besor.
xi And þei founded an Egipcien man in þe feeld, and þei brouȝten hym to Dauid; and þei ȝeuen hym breed for to eete, and drynke water;
xii but and þe relif of a weȝt of dried figis, and two bundels of dried grapis. Þe whiche þingis whanne he hadde eten, þe ſpiryt of hym is turned aȝen, and he is refreſſhid; forsoþe he hadde not eten breed, ne drunken water þre dais and þre niȝtes.
xiii And fo Dauid ſeide to hym, Whos ert þou, or whens and whidir goſt þou? Þe which ſeip, An Egipcien child I am, and þe ſeruaunt of an Amalechite man; forsoþe my lord laſt me, for I bigan to ſikynyn þe þriddē dai hens.
xiv Forsoþe we wenten out of þe ſoup cooſt of Cerethi, and aȝens Judam, and to þe ſoup of Caleph, and Sichilich we han brent vp wiþ fier.
xv And Dauid ſeide to hym, Mait þou lede me to þis cumpanye? Þe which ſeip, Sweer to me bi God, þat þou ſhalt not flee me, and not take me into þe hoondis of my lord; and I ſhal lede þee to þis cumpanye. And Dauid ſwore to hym.
xvi Þe which whanne he hadde ladde hym, loo! þei ſeeten vpon þe face of al þe erþe, etinge and drinkynge, and as halowyng a feest dai, for al þe pray and spoilis þat þei token fro þe loond of Philisteis, and fro þe loond of Juda.

xvii And Dauid smoot hem fro euen `unto euen of þe toþer dai, and þere scapide not of hem eny man, but foure hundrid ȝonge men, þat stieden vp camelis, and flowen.

xviii Forsoþe Dauid delyuerde alle þingis þat Amalachitis token, and his two wyues he dilyuerde; xix ne þere failide eny man fro litil vnto Miche, as wel of sonys as of douȝtris, and of spoiliys; and what eure þingis þei hadden robbid, alle Dauid brouȝte aȝen; xx and took all þe flockis and drouys, and droue before his face. And þei seiden, ƿis is þe praye of Dauid.

xxi Forsoþe Dauid cam to þe two hundrid men, þat wery stoden stille, and myȝten not folowe Dauid; and he hadde comaundid hem to sitte stille biside þe stream of Besor; þe whiche wenten out to mete Dauid, and þe puple þat was wiþ hym. Forsoþe Dauid comynge nyȝ to þe puple, salutede hem peſiblī.

xxii And o man answerynge, werſt and wickid of þe men þat weren wiþ Dauid, feide, For þei camen not wiþ vs, we shulen not ȝyue to hem eny þing of þe praye, þat we han delyuerde, but suffice to echon his wif and sonis; þe whiche whanne þei han takun, goo þei a weye.

xxiii Forsoþe Dauid seide, Not so ȝe shulen doo, briþeren myn, of þese þingis þat þe Lord haþ taken to vs, and haþ kepte vs, and haþ ȝeuen þe þeuys, þat breken out aȝens vs, into oure hoondis, xxiv ne eny man shal here vs vpon þis word. Forsoþe euen part shal be of þe goynge down to batail, and of þe abidyng stille at þe fardels; and lijk maner þei shulen departe.

xxv And þis is maad fro þat day, and þere aftir a statute, and a decree, and as a lawe in Yrael vnto þis day.

xxvi Panne Dauid cam into Sichelech, and sente ȝiftis of þe praye to þe eldris of Juda, his neȝbours, feiynge, Takij blesfynge of þe praye of þe enemyes of þe Lord; xxvii to hem þat weren in Bethel, and þat in Ramoth, at þe souþ, and þat in Gether, xxviii and þat in Aroer, and þat in Sephamoth, and þat in Eschama, xxix and þat in Rethala, and þat in þe citees of Hierameli, and þat in þe citees of Ceny, xxx and þat in Arama, and þat in Lautuafaam, and þat in Athech, xxxi and þat in Ebron, and to ober, þat weren in þes places, in þe whiche Dauid hadde dwellid and his men.

Capitulum XXXI.

i Forsoþe Philisteis fouȝten aȝens Israel, and þe men of Yrael flowen before þe face of Philisteis, and þei flayn fallen in þe hyl of Gelboe.

ii And Philisteis fallen into Saul, and into þe sonys of hym, and þei smyten Jonathan, and Amynadab, and Melchisue, þe sonys of Saul.

iii And al þe charge of þe batayl is turned into Saul; and þere folweden hym men sheters, and he is woundid hydowly of þe archers.

iv And Saul feide to his squyer, Drawe out þi fwerd, and smyit me, leſt perauenture þes vncircumcidid men comen, and flee me, scornynge to me. And his squier wolde not; forsoþe he was agaist wiþ to mych gaistnes; and so Saul cauȝte his fwerd, and felle vpon it.

v Þe which þing whanne his squyer hadde seen, þat is, þat Saul was deed, also he felle on his fwerd, and is deed wiþ hym.

vi Panne Saul is deed, and his þree sonys, and his squyer, and alle his men in þat dai togidir.

vii Forsoþe seyng þe sonys of Yrael, þat weren biȝonde þe valey, and beȝonde Jordan, þat þe men of Yrael hadden flowen, and þat Saul was deed, and his sonys, þei laſten her citees, and flowen; and Philisteis camen, and dwelliden þere.

viii Forsoþe þe toþer dai doon, Philisteis camen for to spoyl out þe flayn men, and þei fonden Saul, and his þre sonys, liggyng in þe hil of Gelboe;

ix and þei girden of þe heed of Saul, and þei spoileden hym out of þe aarmys. And þei fenten into þe loond of Philisteis bi enuyroun, þat it were toold in þe temple of mawmnettis, and in puplis.

x And þei setten his aarmys in þe temple of Ascharoth; forsoþe þe bodi of hym þei hengen in þe wal of Bethfan.

xi Þe which þing whanne þe dwellers of Jabel Galaad hadden herd, alle þingis þat Philisteis hadden doo to Saul, xii alle þe moost stronge men ryſen, and wenten al nyȝt, and token þe careyns of Saul, and þe careyns of his sonys fro þe wal of Bethfan; and þe men of Jabel Galaad camen, and brenten hem wiþ fier.

xiii And þei token þe boonyis of hem, and biryeden in þe wode of Jabel, and fastiden feuen days.

Here endiþ þe first book of Kyngis, and now bigynneþ þe secounde.

II. KYNGIS.

Þe secounde boke of Kynges

Capitulum I.

i Forsoþe it is doon, after þat Saul is deed, þat Dauid is turned aȝen fro þe flauȝter of Amalech, and dwellide in Sichelech two days.

ii Forsoþe in þe bridde day aperide a ȝong man, of þe tentis of Saul, wiþ to-rent clooþ, and sprengid þe heed wiþ powdre; and as he came to Dauid, he felle vpon his face, and lowtide.

iii And Dauid seide to hym, Whens comyſt þou? þe which ſeiþ to Dauid, Fro þe tentis of Yrael I fleiȝ.
 iiiii And Dauid feide to hym, What is þe word þat is doon; ſhewe to me. þe which ſeiþ, þe puple fleiȝ fro þe batail, and many fallynge of þe puple ben deed; but and Saul, and Jonathas, his fone, han died.
 v And Dauid feide to þe ȝong man, þat toold to hym, Wherbi wost þou, þat Saul is deed, and Jonathas, his fone?
 vi And þe ȝong man ſeiþ, þat toold to hym, Bi hap I cam into þe hil of Gelboe, and Saul lenyde vpon his ſpeer;
 vii forſoþe chaaris and horfis neiȝeden to hym; and turned bihynde his rigge, and feynge clepide me. To whom whanne I hadde anſwerde, I am niȝ; viii he feide to me, Forſoþe who art þou? And I feide to hym, Amalechite I am.
 ix And he ſpak to me, Stood vpon me, and ſle me; for anguyſhis holden me, and ȝit al my foule is in me.
 x And Iſtondyne vpon hym I flewȝ hym; forſoþe I wifte þat he myȝte not lyue after þe fallynge; and I took þe diademē þat was in his heed, and þe beeȝ fro his arm, and I haue brouȝte it to þee, my lord, hidyr.
 xi Forſoþe Dauid takynge his cloþis kitte, and alle þe men þat weren wiþ hym;
 xii and þei weileden, and wepten, and fastiden vnto þe euen, vpon Saul, and Jonathan, his fone, and vpon þe puple of þe Lord, and vpon þe hows of Israel, forþi þat þei weren faln wiþ fwerd.
 xiii And Dauid feide to þe ȝonge man, þat toold to hym, Whens ert þou? þe which anſwerde, I am þe fone of an Amalechit man comlyngē.
 xiv And Dauid ſeiþ to hym, Whi draddist þou not to putte þin hoond for to flee þe crift of þe Lord?
 xv And Dauid clepyngē oon of his children ſeiþ, Goyngē nyȝ fal into hym. þe which ſmoot hym, and he is deed.
 xvi And Dauid ſeiþ to hym, Pi blood vpon þin heed; forſoþe þi mouȝ haþ ſpoken aȝens þee, feyngē, I flewȝ þe crift of þe Lord.
 xvii Forſoþe Dauid weilide þis maner a weilyngē vpon Saul, and vpon Jonathas, his fone.
 xviii And he comaundide, þat þei techen þe fones of Juda weilyngē, as it is writen in þe Book of Riȝtwise Men; xix and ſeiþ, Bihold, Israel, for, þes þat ben deed, vpon þin heiȝe þingis woundide; þe noble men of Yrael vpon þin hillis ben flayn. What maner wife fallen þe ſtrengþful?
 xx woleþ ȝe not telle in Geth, ne telle ȝe in þe gedryngis togidre of þe many weyes of Aschalon; leſt perauenture þe douȝtres of Philisteis gladen, ne ioyen þe douȝtris of þe vncircumcidid.
 xxi Hillis of Gelboe, ne dewe ne reyn come vpon ȝow, ne be þei feeldis of firſt fruytis; for þere is þrowen a wey þe ſheelde of ſtronge men, þe ſheelde of Saul, as þouȝ he hadde not ben anoyntid wiþ oyle.

 xxii Fro þe blood of þe flayn, fro þe talwȝ of ſtronge men, þe arowe of Jonathas neuer turnede aȝen bacward, and þe ſword of Saul is not turned aȝen in ydel.
 xxiii Saul and Jonathas loueli, and feyr in her lyif, forſoþe in deeþ þei ben not deuydide; ſwifter þan eglis, stronger þan liouns.
 xxiv Douȝtris of Yrael, vpon Saul wepiȝ, þe which cloþide þou wiþ reed in delicis, þe which ȝaf golden ournementis to ȝoure worshipynge.
 xxv What maner fallen ſtrong men in batayl? Jonathas in þin heiȝ þingis is flayn.
 xxvi I forwe vpon þee, broþer myn Jonatha, ful myche feir, and loueli ouere þe loue of wymmen; as a moder louȝ hir oneli fone, fo Y louede þee.
 xxvii What maner wife fallen ſtronge men, and perſhiden aarmes to fiȝten wiþ in batayl?

Capitulum II.

i Therfor after þes þingis Dauid counſeilde þe Lord, feyngē, Wheþer I ſhal goon vp into oon of þe cytees of Juda? And þe Lord ſeiþ to hym, Go vp. And Dauid feide to hym, Whedir ſhal I go vp? And he anſwerde to hym, Into Ebron.
 ii þanne Dauid ȝede vp, and his two wyues, Achynoem Jezraelite, and Abigail, þe wijf of Naabal of Carmele.
 iii But and þe men þat weren wiþ hym, Dauid ladde echon wiþ her hows; and þei dwelliden in þe burȝ touns of Ebron.
 iv And þe men of Juda camen, and anoyntiden þere Dauid, for he ſhulde regne vpon þe hows of Juda. And it is toold to Dauid, þat þe men of Jabs Galaad hadden biryede Saul.
 v þanne Dauid ſente messengeris to þe men of Jabs Galaad, and he feide to hem, Bleſſid be ȝe of þe Lord, þe whiche diden þis mercy wiþ ȝoure lord Saul, and biryeden hym.
 vi Forſoþe and nowe þe Lord ſhal ȝeelde to ȝou merci and treuȝ, but and Y ſhal ȝeelde grace, forþi þat ȝe diden þis word.
 vii Be ȝoure hoondis coumfortid, and be ȝe fones of ſtrengþ; forſoþe þouȝ ȝoure lord Saul be deed, neuerþelater þe hows of Juda haþ anoyntid me into a kyng to hem.
 viii Abner forſoþe, þe fone of Ner, prince of þe oost of Saul, took Hisbōfēch, þe fone of Saul, and ladde hym about bi þe tentis, ix and fette hym kyng vpon Galaad, and vpon Jethfuri, and vpon Jezrael, and vpon Effraym, and vpon Beniamyn, and vpon al Yrael.
 x Of fourti ȝeer was Hisbōfēch, þe fone of Saul, whanne he bigan to regne vpon Israel; and two ȝeer he regnede. Forſoþe oneli þe hows of Juda folwide Dauid.

xi And þe noumber of dais, þe which Dauid dwellide comaundynge in Ebron vpon þe hows of Juda, was of seuen ȝeris and of sexe monebis.

xii And Abner, þe sone of Ner, wente out, and þe children of Hisboseth, þe sone of Saul, fro þe tentis into Gabaon.

xiii Forsoþe Joab, þe sone of Saruye, and þe children of Dauid wenten out, and aȝen camen to hem biside þe fish poond in Gabaon. And whanne þei weren comen togidir in oon forn aȝens oþer, þese seeten on þe too parti of þe fish poond, and þei on þe toþer.

xiv And Abner seide to Joab, Rise children, and pleye þei before vs. And Joab answerde, Risen.

xv Panne ryfен and wenten twelue bi noumber of Beniamyn, of þe parti of Hylboseth, þe sone of Saul; and twelue of þe children of Dauid.

xvi And taken of echon þe heed of his peere, he piȝte doun a fwerd in þe fide of þe contrarie; and þei fallen doun to gidre. And þe name of þat place is clepid þe Felede of stonge men in Gabaon.

xvii And þere is sprongen an hard batail ynowȝ in þat day; and Abner is dryuen, and þe men of Yrael, of þe children of Dauid.

xviii Forsoþe þere weren þere þe þre sones of Saruye, Joab, and Abisay, and Asahel; ceertis Asahel was a moost swift renner, as oon of þe caprettis þat dwellen in wodis.

xix Forsoþe Asahel pursuede Abner, and bowide not aside, ne fro þe riȝt ne fro þe left, leeuynge to pursue Abner.

xx And so Abner bihelde bihynde his bak, and seiþ, Wheþer art þou not Asahel? Þe which answerde, Y am.

xxi And Abner seide to hym, Go to þe riȝt, or to þe left; and tak oon of þe ȝonge men, and tak to þee þe spooris of hym. Forsoþe Asahel wolde not leeue, but he confstreynde hym.

xxii And eft Abner spak to Asahel, Go a wey, and wole þou not sue me, left I be confstreynd to stike þee into þe erþe, and I shal not mowe rere my face to Joab, þi broþer.

xxiii Þe which dispiside to here, and wolde not bowe aside. Panne Abner, þe speer turned a wey, smoot hym in þe sheer, and stikide hym þurȝ, and he is deed in þe fame place; and alle þat wenten bi þe place, in þe which Asahel hadde fallen, and was deed, biden stille.

xxiv Forsoþe Joab and Abisay pursuyng Abner fleynge, þe sunne wente doun; and þei camen to þe hil of þe water kundit, þat is fro aȝens of þe valey, and of þe weye of deſpeir in Gabaon.

xxv And þe sones of Beniamyn ben gederid to Abner, and cluſtrid to gidir in o cumpanye þei stoden in þe cop of a litil hil.

xxvi And Abner criede to Joab, and seiþ, Wheþer vnto flauȝter þi fwerd shal be cruel? Wheþer knowist þou not, þat perilous be despeir? How long þou seist not to þe puple, þat he leeue to pursue his briþeren?

xxvii And Joab seiþ, Þe Lord lyueþ, for if þou haddist spoken eerli, þe puple purſuyng his briþeren hadde goon awey.

xxviii Panne Joab fulſownede wiþ þe trompe, and al þe oost stood; and nomore þei purſueden Yrael, ne wenten in strij.

xxix Forsoþe Abner and his men wenten awey bi þe wijlde feedlis of Moab al þat niȝt, and þei wenten ouer Jordan; and, paſſid alle Bethoron, þei camen to þe tentis.

xxx But Joab turned aȝen, Abner laft, gederide al þe puple; and þere failiden of þe children of Dauid ten and nyn men, out taken Asahel.

xxxi Forsoþe þe feruauntis of Dauid smyten of Beniamyn, and of þe men þat weren wiþ Abner, þre hundred and sexti, and þe whiche ben deed.

xxxii And þei token Asahel, and biryeden hym in þe biriels of his fader in Bethleem. And Joab, and þe men þat weren wiþ hym, wenten al niȝt, and in þat bigynnyng of day þei camen into Ebron.

Capitulum III.

i There is maad þanne a longe struyng togidre bitwixe þe hows of Dauid and þe hows of Saul; Dauid profitynge and euermore strenger þan hym self, forsoþe þe hows of Saul decrefyng eche dai.

ii And þere ben born sones of Dauid in Ebron; and his first geten was Amon, of Achinoem Jezraelite;

iii and after hym ȝeliab, of Abigail, þe wif of Naabal Carmeel; forsoþe þe þridde, Absolon, þe sone of Maacha, þe douȝter of Tholomay, þe kyng Jethisure;

iv forsoþe þe feerþe, Adonyas, þe sone of Agith; and þe fifþe, Saphacias, þe sone of Abital;

v forsoþe þe sexte, Jethraam of Egla, þe wif of Dauid. þes ben born to Dauid in Ebron.

vi Panne whanne þere was a batail bytwixe þe hows of Saul and þe hows of Dauid, Abner, þe sone of Ner, gouernende þe hows of Saul.

vii Forsoþe þere was to Saul a fecoundarie wif, Respha bi name, þe doȝter of Achay; and Abner wente into hir. And Hisboseth seide to Abner, viii Whi wentist þou in to þe fecoundarie wif of my fader? Þe which, ful miche wroþ for þe wordis of Hisboseth, seiþ, Wheþer þe heed of a dog Y am aȝens Juda to day, þe which haue doon merci vpon þe hows of Saul, þi fadre, and vpon briþeren, and þe next kyn of hym, and I haue not takyn þee into þe hondis of Dauid, and þou haft aȝen souȝt in me þat þou vndurnyme for a woman to day?

ix þes þingis doo God to Abner, and þes þingis adde to hym, but what maner wife þe Lord haþ swore to Dauid, so shal I doo wiþ hym, x þat þe kyngdom be ouerborn fro þe hows of Saul, and þe trone of Dauid be rerid vpon Israel and vpon Juda, fro Dan vnto Bersabe.

xi And he myȝte not answere to hym eny þing, for he dradde hym.
 xii Panne Abner fente messengeris to Dauid for hym self, seiyng, Whos is þe loond? and for þei shulden speke, Mak wiþ me frenships, and myn hoond shal be wiþ þee, and I shal brynge aȝen to þee al Israel.
 xiii Þe which seip, Alþerbest I shal doo wiþ þee frenships, but oþing I aske of þee, seiyng, Þou shalt not se my face, before þat þou brynge Mychol, þe douȝter of Saul, and so þou shalt come, and se me.
 xiv Panne Dauid fente messagers to Hisboseth, þe sone of Saul, seiyng, ȝeeld my wif Mychol, þat I weddide to me for an hundrid terfis of Philisteis.
 xv Panne Hisbotseth fente, and took hir fro hir man, Faltiel, þe sone of Lais; xvi and hir man folwide hir wepynge vnto Bahurym. And Abner seide to hym, Go and turn aȝen; þe which turnede aȝen.
 xvii Forsoþe Abner brouȝte in a word to þe eldris of Israel, seiyng, Boþ ȝesterday and þe þridde dai hens ȝe souȝten Dauyd, þat he regne vpon ȝou.
 xviii Nowe þanne doþ; for þe Lord spak to Dauid, seiyng, In þe hoond of my seruaunt Dauid I shal faue my puple Yrael fro þe hoond of Philisteis, and of alle his enemyes.
 xix Forsoþe Abner spak also to Beniamyn, and wente, for to speke to Dauid, in Ebron, alle þingis þat plesiden to Israel and to al Beniamyn.
 xx And he cam to Dauid, in Ebron, wiþ twenti men. And Dauid made to Abner, and to his men þat camen wiþ hym, a feest.
 xxi And Abner seide to Dauid, Y shal ryse, þat I gedre to þee, my lord kyng, al Yrael, and I goo in wiþ þe boond of pees, and þou comande to al, as þi soule desiriþ. Panne whanne Dauid hadde ladde out Abner, and he was goon in pees, xxii anone þe children of Dauid and of Joab camen, þe þeuis slayn, wiþ ful miche greet pray; forsoþe Abner was not wiþ Dauid, in Ebron, for nowe he hadde laft hym, and he was goon forþ in pees.
 xxiii And Joab, and þe oost þat was wiþ hym, aftirward camen; and so it is toold to Joab of tellers, Abner, þe sone of Ner, cam to þe kyng, and he lafte hym, and he wente awey in pees.
 xxiv And Joab wente yn to þe kyng, and seip, What haſt þou doon? Loo! Abner cam to þee; whi haſt þou laft hym, and he ȝede, and wente a wey?
 xxv Knowist þou not Abner, þe sone of Ner, for to þat he cam to þee, þat he defleyue þee, and knowe þin outgoyng and þin incomynge, and he shal knowe alle þingis þat þou dost?
 xxvi And so Joab, goon out fro Dauid, fente messengeris after Abner; and brouȝte hym aȝen fro þe cistern of Cyra, vnknowyng Dauid.
 xxvii And whanne Abner was turned aȝen into Ebron, Joab ladde hym aside to þe mydil of þe ȝaat, þat he speke to hym in trecherye; and he smoot hym þere in þe sheer, and he is deed, into wreche of þe blood of his broþer Asahel.

 xxviii þat whanne Dauid hadde herd þe þing doon, seip, Clene I am and my kyngdam anentis God vnto wiþ outen ende fro þe blood of Abner, þe sone of Ner; xxix and come it vpon þe heed of Joab, and vpon al þe hows of his fader; ne fail þere fro þe hows of Joab oon suffryng flux of feed, and a leprous, holdynge a spynkle, and a fallynge wiþ swerd, and a nedí breed.
 xxx Perfor Joab, and Abisay, his broþer, flewen Abner, forþi þat he hadde slayn Asahel, þe broþer of hem, in Gabaon, in þe bataile.
 xxxi And Dauid seide to Joab, and to al þe puple þat was wiþ hym, Kittib ȝoure cloþis, and beþ gird wiþ fackis, and weileþ before þe exequies of Abner. Forsoþe Dauid folwide þe beere.
 xxxii And whanne þei hadden biryden Abner in Ebron, kyng Dauyd reride his voys, and wepte vpon þe tounbe of Abner; forsoþe and al þe puple wepte.
 xxxiii And þe kyng, weilynge and mournyng Abner, seip, Not as slow men ben went to dye, þou diedist, Abner.
 xxxiv ȝin hoondis ben not boundun, and þi feet ben not greued wiþ fettris, but as men ben wont to fal before þe sonys of wickidnes þou felle. And doublynge togidre al þe puple wepte vpon hym.
 xxxv And whanne al þe multitude was comen to taak meet wiþ Dauid, ȝit cleer day, Dauid swore, seiyng, þes þingis doo to me God, and þes þingis adde, if before þe funne goyng doun I shal taast breed or eny oper þing.
 xxxvi And al þe puple herde; and alle þingis plesiden to hem þat þe kyng dide in þe siȝt of al þe puple;
 xxxvii and al þe comoun knewe, and al Israel in þat dai, for it was not doon of þe kyng, þat Abner, þe sone of Ner, were slayn.
 xxxviii And þe kyng seide to his seruauntis, Wheþer ȝe known not, for a prince and þe moost to dai in Israel haþ fallen?
 xxxix Forsoþe I ȝit delicate and anoyntid kyng; greetli þes men, sonis of Saruye, ben hard to me; þe Lord ȝeeld to þe doyng yuel after his malice.

Capitulum III.

i Forsoþe Hisboseth, þe sone of Saul, herde þat Abner hadde fald in Ebron; and þe hondis of hym ben feblid, and al Israel is disturblid.
 ii Forsoþe two men, princis of þeuis, weren to þe sone of Saul; name to þe toon Baana, and name to þe topir Reechab, þe sones of Remmon Berothit, of þe sonys of Beniamyn; forsoþe and Beroth is told into Beniamyn.
 iii And Berothitis flowen into Jethaym; and þei weren þere comelingis into þat tyme.

iii Forsoþe þere was to Jonathe, þe fone of Saul, a fone feble in feete; forsoþe he was fyue ȝeer oolde, whanne a messager cam fro Saul and Jonatha, of Jezrael. And so his nurish takyng hym fleiȝ; and whanne he hiede for to flee, he felle, and is maad halt; and he hadde name Myphibofech.

v Comynge þanne þe sones of Remmon Berothit, Reechab and Baana, wenten in, þe brennyng dai, þe hows of Hisboseth, þat slepte vpon his bed þe myddai; and þe womman þat kepte þe doris of þe hows purgyng whete, slepte fast.

vi Forsoþe þei wenten into þe hows vnwityngly, takyng eeris of whete; and Reechab, and Bana, his broþer, smyten hym in þe sheer, and flowen.

vii Forsoþe whanne þei weren goon into þe hows, he slepte vpon his bed in þe priue chaumbre; and smytyng þei flewen hym; and his heed taken of, þei wenten bi þe weie of desfeert al nyȝt.

viii And þei brouȝten þe heed of Hisboseth to Dauid, in Ebron, and þei seiden to þe kyng, Loo! þe heed of Hisboseth, þe fone of Saul, þin enemye, þat souȝte þi liȝf; and þe Lord habȝ ȝyuen to oure lord þe kyng veniaunce to dai of Saul and of his seed.

ix Forsoþe Dauid answerynge to Reechab, and Bana, his broþir, sones of Remmon Berothei, seide to hem, þe Lord lyueþ, þat habȝ delyuerd my soule fro al angwiflh;

x for hym þat toolde to me and seide, Deed is Saul, þe whych wende hym self welsum þingis to telle, I heelde, and flewȝ hym in Sichelech, to whom it hadde behouid me to ȝeue mede for þe meffage;

xi miche more nowe, whanne wickid men han flayn a giltles man in his hows vpon his bed, now I shal seche his blood fro ȝoure hoond, and doo a wey ȝou fro þe erþe.

xii And so Dauid comaundide to his children, and þei flewen hem; and kyttyng of þe hoondis and þe feet of hem, þei hongeden hem ouer þe fish poond in Ebron. Forsoþe þe heed of Hisboseth þei token, and bryeden it in Ebron, in þe sepulcre of Abner.

Capitulum V.

i And alle þe lynagis of Israel camen to Dauid, in Ebron, seiyng, Loo! we ben bi boon and bi flesh.

ii But and ȝistirdai and before ȝisterdai, whanne Saul was kyng vpon vs, þou were ledynge out and bryngynge aȝen Yrael; forsoþe þe Lord seide to þee, þou shalt fede my puple Israel, and þou shalt be duyk vpon Israel.

iii Forsoþe and þe eldris of Israel camen to þe kyng, in Ebron; and kyng Dauid smoot wiȝ hem couenaunt of pees in Ebron, before þe Lord; and þei anoyntiden Dauid into kyng vpon Israel.

iv A fone of þretti ȝeer was Dauid, whanne he bigan to regne, and fourti ȝeer he regnede;

v in Ebron he regnyde vpon Juda seuen ȝeer and sixe moneþis; forsoþe in Jerusalem he regnede þretti and þree ȝeer, vpon al Israel and Juda.

vi And þe kyng ȝeede, and al þe men þat weren wiȝ hym, into Jerusalem, to Jebuse, dweller of þe loond. And it is seid to Dauid of hem, þou shalt not go in hidre, but if þou take a wey þe blynde and þe halt, seiyng, Dauid shal not goo yn hidre.

vii Forsoþe Dauid took þe tote hil Syon; þat is þe citee of Dauid.

viii Forsoþe he purposide in þat dai mede to hym þat smoot Jebuse, and touchide þe goters of þe 'hows eues, and took a wey þe halt and þe blynde, hatyng þe liȝf of Dauid. Perfore it is seid in prouerbe, þe blynde and þe halt shulen not goon into þe temple.

ix Forsoþe Dauid dwellide in þe tote hil, and clepide it þe citee of Dauid; and he bielde bi enuyroun fro Mello, and wiȝ in forþ.

x And he wente profitynge and vndre growynge; and þe Lord God of oost was wiȝ hym.

xi Forsoþe Yram, þe kyng of Tir, sente messagers to Dauid, and cedre trees, and 'crafty men of trees, and crafti men of stonyis to þe wallys; and þei beeldiden þe hows of Dauid.

xii And Dauid knewe, for þe Lord hadde confermyd hym kyng vpon Israel, and for he hadde arerid out his kyngdam vpon his puple Yrael.

xiii Panne Dauid took ȝit secundarye wyues, and wyues of Jerusalem, after þat he was comyn fro Ebron; and þere ben born to Dauid and oþer sones and douȝtris.

xiv And þes þe names of hem þat ben born to hym in Jerusalem; Samua, and Sobab, and Nathan, and Salomon, xv and Jobaar, and Elisua, and Repheg, and Japhia, xvi and Elizama, and Helida, and Heliphelech.

xvii Panne Philisteis herden, þat þei hadden anoyntid Dauid kyng vpon Yrael, and þei alle stieden vp for to seche Dauid. þe which þing whanne Dauid hadde herd, wente doun in to a strengþ.

xviii Forsoþe Philisteis comynge ben heeld out in þe valey of Raphaym.

xix And Dauid counseilde þe Lord, seiyng, If I shal stie vp to Philisteis, and if þou shalt ȝyue hem in myn hoond? And þe Lord seide to Dauid, Sty, for takyng I shal ȝyue Philisteis in þin hoond.

xx Panne Dauid cam in Baal Pharaþym, and smoot hem þere, and seide, þe Lord habȝ dyuidid myn enemyes before me, as watriis ben dyuidid. Perfor þe name of þat place is clepid Baal Pharaþym.

xxi And þei laften þere her grauen þingis, þe whiche Dauid took, and his men.

xxii And ȝit þe Philisteis addiden for to stie vp, and þei ben held out in þe valey of Raphaym.

xxiii Forsoþe Dauid counseilde þe Lord, seiyng, If I shal stye aȝens þe Philisteis, and if þou shalt take hem into myn hoondis? þe which answerde, þou shalt not ſtye vp aȝens hem, but goo about bihynde þe bak of hem, and comynge to hem fro aȝens of þe peer trees.

xxiii And whanne þou herist noise of cry goyng in þe cop of þe peer trees, þanne þou shalt goo into batail; for þanne þe Lord shal goo out before þi face, þat he smyte þe tentis of Philisteis.
xxv And so Dauid dide as þe Lord comaundide to hym; and he smoot Philisteis fro Gabaa vnto þou come to Jezer.

Capitulum VI.

i Forsoþe Dauid eft gedrede alle þe chosen men of Israel, þreti þousandis.
ii And Dauid roos, and wente, and al þe puple þat was wiþ him of þe men of Juda, for to bryngre þe arke of God, vpon þe which is inwardli clepid þe name of þe Lord of oostis, fittyng in cherubyn vpon it.
iii And þei puttiden þe arke of God vpon a newe wayn, and þei token it fro þe hows of Amynadab, þat was in Gabaa. Forsoþe Oza and Hayon, þe sones of Amynadab, dryuen þe newe wayn.
iv And whanne þei hadden taken it fro þe hows of Amynadab, þat was in Gabaa, Hayon kepyng þe arke of God, wente before þe arke.
v Forsoþe Dauid and al Yrael pleiden before þe Lord, in alle forgid trees, and harpis, and syngynge instrumentis, and tymbris, and trumbris, and cymbalis.
vi Forsoþe after þat þei camen to þe corn flore of Nachor, Oza strauȝte out þe hoond to þe arke of God, and heelde it, for þe oxen wynseden, and boweden it.
vii And þe Lord is wroop bi indignacioun aȝens Ozam, and he smoot hym vpon þe fool hardynes; þe which is þere deed biside þe arke of God.
viii Forsoþe Dauid forwide, forbi þat þe Lord hadde smyten Ozam; and þe name of þat place is clepid þe Smyntyng of Oze into þis dai.
ix And Dauid dradde þe Lord in þat dai, seiyng, What maner wife shal goon into me þe arke of þe Lord?
x And he wolde not turne aside to hym þe arke of þe Lord in þe cite of Dauid, but he turnede it aside into þe hows of Obethedon Jethel.
xi And þe arke of þe Lord dwellid in þe hows of Obethedon Jethel þre moneþis; and þe Lord blesſide Obethedon, and al his hows.
xii And it is toold to þe kyng Dauid, þat þe Lord hadde blesſid Obethedon, and alle þingis of hym, for þe arke of God. And Dauid seide, I shal goo, and bryngre aȝen wiþ blesſyng into myn hows. Panne Dauid wente, and brouȝte þe arke of God fro þe hows of Obethedon into þe cytee of Dauid wiþ ioy; and þere weren wiþ Dauid feuen holi companyes, and þe flayn sacrifice of a calf.
xiii And whanne þei hadden stied ouer, þat baren þe arke of þe Lord, fexe paas, þei offreden an oxe and a weþer.

xiv And Dauid smoot in orgayns bounden to þe shuldres; and he lepe wiþ al his strengþ before þe Lord; forsoþe Dauid is gird wiþ a surples.
xv And Dauid, and al þe hows of Israel, brouȝten þe arke of þe testament of þe Lord in ioy, and in sown of trompe.
xvi And whanne þe arke of þe Lord was comen into þe cite of Dauid, Mychol, þe douȝter of Saul, biholdynge bi þe wyndow, sawȝ þe kyng vndurgoynge and lepyng before þe Lord; and she dispyside hym in hir herte.
xvii And þei brouȝten in þe arke of þe Lord, and þei puttiden it in his place, in þe myddis of þe tabernacle, þat Dauid hadde strauȝt out to hym; and Dauid offredre brent sacrifice and pesible before þe Lord.
xviii And whanne offryng brent sacrifice and pesible he hadde ful endid hem, he blesſide to þe puple in þe name of þe Lord of oostis.
xix And he partide to al þe multitude of Yrael, as wel to man as to womman, to echon o kaake of breed, and o roſtid gobet of oxe flesh, and tried floure fried wiþ oyle; and al þe puple wente echon into his hows.
xx And Dauid turned aȝen, þat he blesſe to his hows, and Mychol, þe douȝter of Saul, goon out into aȝen comynge of Dauid, seiþ, How glorious was þe kyng of Israel to dai discoueryng hym self before þe hoond wymmen of his seruauntis, and is maad nakid as if were maad nakid oon of þe knauys?
xxi And Dauid seide to Mychol, Pe Lord lyueþ, for I shal pleye before þe Lord, þat haþ chosen me raþer þan þi fader, and þan al þe hows of hym, and he haþ comaundid to me, þat Y were a ledere vpon þe puple of þe Lord of Israel;
xxii and I shal pleye, and fowlere Y shal be maad more þan I am maad, and I shal be meke in myn eyen, and wiþ 'hoond wymmen, of þe whiche þou haſt spoken, more glorious Y shal apere.
xxiii Perfor to Mychol, þe douȝter of Saul, is not born a fone vnto þe day of hir deeþ.

Capitulum VII.

i Forsoþe it is doon, whanne þe kyng hadde seeten in his hows, and þe Lord hadde ȝeuen to hym rest on al side fro alle his enemyes, ii he seide to Nathan þe prophete, Seest þou not, þat I dwelle in a cedre hows, and þe ark of God is put in þe mydil of skynnes?
iii And Nathan seide to þe kyng, Al þat is in þin herte goo and do, for þe Lord is wiþ þee.
iv Forsoþe it is doon in þat nyȝt, and loo! þe word of þe Lord to Nathan, seiyng, v Go, and spek to my seruaunt Dauid, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Wheþer þou shalt bilde to me an hows to dwelle yn?

vi Forsoþe ne in an hows I haue dwelid fro þe day þat I ladde out þe sones of Yrael fro þe loond of Egipt vnto þis dai; but I wente in tabernacle and in tente, vii þurȝ out alle placis, to þe whiche I passide wiþ alle þe sones of Israel? Wheþer spekyng I haue spokyn to oon of þe lynagis of Israel, to whom I haue comaundid, þat he fede my puple Israel, feyng, Whi haft þou not bildid to me a cedre hows?
viii And now þes þingis þow shalt seye to my seruaunt Dauid, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord of oostis, I took þee fro þe lefews folwyng flockis, þat þou were a duyk vpon my puple Israel, ix and I was wiþ þee 'in alle þingis, whidir euere þou wentist, and I flewȝ alle þin enemyes fro þi face, and I made to þee a greet name after þe name of greet men þat ben in erþe;
x and Y shal putt a place to my puple Israel, and I shal plaunte hym, and I shal dwelle wiþ hym, and he shal namore be disturblid, ne þe sones of wickidnes shulen adde þat þei tourmenten hym as before, xi fro þe day þat I ordeynede iugis vpon my puple Israel; and I shal ȝyue reft to þee fro alle þin enemyes. And þe Lord before seiþ to þee, þat þe Lord shal make to þee an hows; xii and whanne þi dais weren ful endyd, and þou slepist wiþ þi fadris, Y shal rere þi seed after þee, þat shal go out of þi wombe, and Y shal fastne þe kyngdom of hym.
xiii And he shal beelde an hows to my name, and Y shal stabe þe troon of his rewme vnto eueremore; xiv I shal be to hym into a fader, and he shal be to me into a sone; þe which if eny þing wickidli shal doo, I shal vndirnymme hym in þe ȝeerd of men, and in þe veniaunces of þe sonys of men.
xv Forsoþe my mercy I shal not take a weye fro hym, as I took a weye fro Saul, whom I meuyde a weye fro my face.
xvi And þin hows shal be feiþful, and þi kyngdam vnto wiþ outen eende before my face, and þi troon shal be stedefast contynuli.
xvii After alle þes wordis, and after al þis visioun, þus spak Nathan to Dauid.
xviii Forsoþe Dauid þe kyng wente in, and sat before þe Lord, and feide, Who am I, Lord God, and what myn hows, for þou haft brouȝt me hidir to?
xix But and þis litil is seen in þi siȝt, Lord my God; 'þat haft louyd me, but þou speke also of þe hows of þi seruaunt into ferre hens. Forsoþe þis is lawe fro Adam, Lord God; xx what þanne ȝit Dauid shal mowe adde, þat he speke to þee? Forsoþe þow knowist þi seruaunt, Lord God; xxi for þi word, and aftir þin herte, þou haft doon alle þes greet þingis, so þat þou shuldifft make knownen to þi seruaunt.

xxii Perfor þou art magnified, Lord God, for þere is not likj of þee, ne þere is God wiþ out þee, in alle þingis 'þe whiche we han herd wiþ oure eeris.

xxiii Forsoþe what is þere folk of kynde as þe puple of Israel in þe loond, for þe which God wente, þat he bie it to hym into a puple, and sette to hym a name, and make to hym greet þingis, and orrible vpon þe erþe, fro þe face of þi puple, whom þou haft brouȝt to þee fro Egipt folk and þe god of it?

xxiv And þow haft fastned to þee þi puple Israel into a puple euermore, and þou, Lord, art maad to hem into a God.

xxv Nowe þanne, Lord God, þe word þat þou haft spoken vpon þi seruaunt and vpon his hows, rere vnto euermore, and do as þou haft spoken;

xxvi and þi name be magnyfied vnto euermore, and be it feid, Lord of oostis God vpon Israel; and þe hows of þi seruaunt Dauid shal be stablid before þe Lord;

xxvii for þou, Lord of oostis, God of Israel, haft openyd þe eer of þi seruaunt, feyng, An hows I shal bilde to þee; þerfor þi seruaunt haþ founden his herte, þat he preye þee bi þis preyer.

xxviii Now þanne, Lord God, þou ert verrey God, and þi wordis shulen be foþ; forsoþe þou haft spokyn to þi seruaunt þese good þingis;

xxix bigyn þerfor, and bleſſe to þe hows of þi seruaunt, þat it be before þee into euermore; for þou, Lord God, spakist þes þingis, and bi þi bleſſyng þe hows of þi seruaunt shal be bleſſid into euermore.

Capitulum VIII.

i Forsoþe it is doon after þes þingis, Dauid smoot Philisteis, and mekide hem; and Dauid took a bridil of tribut of þe hoond of Philisteis.

ii And he smoot Moab, and he metide hem wiþ a litol coord euenyng to þe erþe; forsoþe he metid two litol coordis, oon to flee, and anoþer to quykne. And Moab is maad to Dauid seruyng vndir tribute.

iii And Dauid smoot Adadezer, þe sone of Roob, þe kyng of Soba, whanne he wente forþ þat he take lordship vpon þe flood of Effraten.

iv And take to Dauid on his partye a pouſand and feuene hundrid horfmen, and twenti pouſand of feet men, kut of bi þe knee alle þe ȝockis of charis; forsoþe he lafte of hem an hundrid charis.

v Forsoþe Ciria of Damasc cam to bere socour to Adadezer, þe kyng of Soba; and Dauid smoot of Ciria two and twenti pouſand of men.

vi And Dauid putte a strengþ in Cirya of Damask, and Cirya is maad to Dauid seruyng vndir tribute. And þe Lord kepte Dauid in alle þingis, to what euere þingis he wente forþ.

vii And Dauid took goldun aarmys and beeȝis, þat haddeñ þe seruauntis of Adadezer, and brouȝt hem into Jerusalem.

viii And Dauid þe kyng took fro Bethe, and fro Beroth, citees of Adadezer, ful myche brasse; of þe which Salomon made alle þe brasen vessels in þe temple, and þe brasen fee, and pilers, and auter.

ix Forsoþe Thou, þe kyng of Emath, herde þat Dauid hadde smyten al þe strengþ of Adadezer.

x And Thou sente Joram, his sone, to kyng Dauid, þat he salute hym, þankynge to gidre, and he doo gracis, forþi þat he haþ overcomen Adadezer, and smyten hym; forsoþe Thou was enemye to Adadezer; and in his hoond weren silueren vessels, and golden vessels, and brasen vessels.

xi Þe whiche and þoo halwide kyng Dauid to þe Lord, wiþ þe siluer and gold, 'þe whiche he hadde halwid of alle þe gentils, þe whiche he hadde dreuen out of Cyrie, xii and Moab, and þe sones of Amon, and of Philistis, and Amalech, and of þe spoylis of Adadezer, þe sone of Roob, kyng of Soba.

xiii Forsoþe Dauid made to hym a name, whanne he turnyde aȝen, Cirye taken, in þe valey of wodis slayn eiȝteen þousandis, and in Jebelem, at þre and twenti þousand.

xiv And he putte in Ydume kepers, and sette a strengþ, and al Ydume is maad seruynge to Dauid; and þe Lord kept Dauid in alle þingis, to what euer þingis he wente forþ.

xv And Dauid regnyd vpon al Yrael, and Dauid dide dome, and riȝtwysnes to al þe puple.

xvi Forsoþe Joab, þe sone of Saruye, was vpon þe oost; aftirward Josaphat, þe sone of Achilud, was chaunseleer;

xvii and Sadoch, þe sone of Achitob, and Achimalech, þe sone of Abiathar, weren prestis; and Saraias a scribe. xviii Forsoþe Banaias, þe sone of Joiaðe, was vpon archeris and alblasters, þat ben clepid Cerethi and Pherethi; forsoþe þe sones of Dauid weren prestes.

Capitulum IX.

i And Dauid seide, Wheþer wenist þou þat þere be eny man, þat is laft of þe hows of Saul, þat I do wiþ hym mercy for Jonatha?

ii Forsoþe þere was of þe hows of Saul a seruaunt, Cyba bi name; whom whanne þe kyng hadde clepid to hym silf, seide to hym, Ert þou not Cyba? And he answerde, Y am þi seruaunt.

iii And þe kyng seþ, Wheþer is þere on lyue eny man of þe hows of Saul, þat I doo wiþ hym merci of God? And Ciba seide to þe kyng, þe sone of Jonatha is on lyue, feble þe feet.

iv Where, he seþ, is he? And Ciba seide to þe kyng, Loo! he seþ, he is in þe hows of Machir, þe sone of Amyel, in Lodobar.

v Panne kyng Dauid fente, and took hym fro þe hows of Machir, þe sone of Amyel, fro Lodobar.

vi Forsoþe whanne Myphibosech, þe sone of Jonathan, þe sone of Saul, was comen to Dauid, he felle into his face, and lowtide. And Dauid seide, Myphibosech! Þe whiche answerde, I am nyȝ, þi seruaunt.

vii And Dauid seþ to hym, Ne dred þow, for doyng I shal do wiþ þee merci for Jonathan, þi fader; and I shal restore to þee alle þe feeldis of Saul, þi fader, and þou shalt eete breed in my bord euermore.

viii Þe whiche honouringe him seþ, Who am I, þi seruaunt, whom þou hast bisholdyn vpon a deed hownd lijk of me?

ix And so þe king clepide Cibam, þe child of Saul; and seide to hym, Alle þingis, what euere weren of Saul and al his hous, I haue ȝeuuen to þe sone of þi lord;

x wyrk þanne þe erþe to hym, þou, and þi sones, and þi seruauntis, and þou shalt brynge yn meetis to þe sone of þi lord, þat he be nurshid; Myphibosech forsoþe, þe sone of þi lord, shal eete euermore breed vpon my bord. Forsoþe þere weren of Ciba fifteen sonys and twenti seruauntis.

xi And Ciba seide to þe kyng, As þou hast comaundid, my lord kyng, to þi seruaunt, so þi seruaunt shal doo; and Myphibosech shal eete vpon þi bord, as oon of þe sonys of þe kyng.

xii Forsoþe Myphibosech hadde a litil sone, Mycha bi name; forsoþe al þe kynrede of þe hows of Ciba seruede to Myphibosech.

xiii But Myphibosech dwellide in Jerusalem; for of þe bord of þe kyng contynueli he eete, and he was halt eiþer foot.

Capitulum X.

i Forsoþe it is doon after þes þingis, þat Naas, þe kyng of þe sonys of Amon, diede; and Anon, his sone, regnede for hym.

ii And Dauid seide, I shal doo mercy wiþ Anon, þe sone of Naas, as his fader dide merci wiþ me. Panne fente Dauid comfortyng hym bi his seruauntis vpon þe fader deþ. Forsoþe whanne þe seruauntis of Dauid weren comen into þe loond of þe sonis of Amon, iii þe princis of þe sones of Amon feiden to Anon, her lord, Wenyst þou þat for þe worship of þi fader Dauid haþ sente to þee coumfortours; and not þerfor þat he aspie, and ferche þe citee, and turne it vpsedoun, Dauid haþ sente his seruauntis to þee?

iv And so Anon took þe seruauntis of Dauid, and shooue þe half part of þe beard of hem, and he kittide of þe mydil clopis of hem vnto þe arsis; and he lafte hem.

v Þe whiche whanne was toold to Dauid, he fente into aȝen comynge of hem, forsoþe þei weren men ful foul confoundid. And Dauid fente to hem, Dwelliþ in Jericho, to þe tyme þat ȝoure beard growe, and panne turneþ aȝen.

vi Forsoþe þe sones of Amon, seyng þat þei hadden doo wronge to Dauid, þei senten, and hireden bi mede Cyrie of Roob, and Cirye of Soba, twenty þousandis of foot men, and of þe kyng of Maacha a þousand men, and of Istob twelue þousandis of men.
vii Pe which þing whanne Dauid hadde herd, he fente Joab and al þe oost of fighsters.
viii Panne þe sonyis of Amon wenten out, and dressiden sheltrun before hym in þe entree of þe ȝate. Forsoþe Cire of Soba, and Roob, and Istob, and Maacha weren aside in þe feeld.
ix Panne Joab seyng þat a batail was maad redi aȝens hym, and fro aȝens and bihynde þe bac, he cheese to hym of alle þe chosen of Israel, and ordeynde sheltrun aȝens Cyre.
x Forsoþe þe toþer partye of þe puple he took to Abisai, his broþir, þe which dresside sheltrun aȝens þe sones of Amon.
xi And Joab seiþ, If Cyres han þe ouerhoond aȝens me, þou shalt be to me into help; forsoþe if þe sones of Amon han þe ouerhoond aȝens þee, I shal help to þee; xii be þou a strong man, and fighste we for oure puple, and for þe citee of oure God; forsoþe þe Lord shal do þat is good in his siȝt.
xiii And so Joab wente yn, and his puple þat was wiþ hym, strijff aȝens Cyres, þe whiche anoon floweren fro þe face of hym.
xiv Forsoþe þe sones of Amon, seyng þat þe Cyres weren floweren, and þei floweren fro þe face of Abisai, and wenten into þe citee; and Joab is turned aȝen fro þe sonis of Amon, and cam into Jerusalem.
xv Forsoþe seyng þe Cires þat þei hadden fallen before Israel, ben gadrid togidre.
xvi And Adidazer sente, and brouȝte out þe Cirys þat weren beþonde þe flood, and brouȝte forþ þe oost of hem; forsoþe Sabath, þe maistre of chyualrye of Adadezer, was þe prince of hem.
xvii And whanne it was toold to Dauid, he drewȝ to gidre al Israel, and passide ouere Jordan, and cam into Helama. And þe Cires dresseden sheltrun fro aȝens Dauid, and fouȝten aȝens hym.
xviii And Cyres floweren fro þe face of Israel; and Dauid flowȝ of Cires seuen hundred chares, and fourti þousandis of horfmen; and he smoot Sobach, þe prynce of chyualrye, þe which anoon is deed.
xix Forsoþe seyng alle þe kyngis, þat weren in þe strenghþ of Adadezer, hem to be vencusshid of Yrael, maden pees wiþ Israel, and serueden to hem; and Cires dradden to ȝeue help to þe sones of Amon.

Capitulum XI.

i Forsoþe it is doon, turnyng þe ȝeer þat tyme þe which kyngis ben wont to goo forþ to batails, Dauid sente Joab, and wiþ hym his seruauntis, and al Israel; and þei waſtiden þe sones of Amon, and bisegeden Raba; forsoþe Dauid abood stille in Jerufalem.

ii While þese þingis weren doo, it felle, þat Dauid roos on a dai fro his bed aftir mydday, and wente in þe folere of þe kyngis hows; and he sawȝ a woman wasshyng her fro aȝens vpon her folere; forsoþe she was a ful feyr woman.
iii Pan Dauid sente, and aſerchede, what was þe womman; and it is toold to hym, þat she was Berſabee, þe douȝter of Elyam, þe wijf of Vrye Ethei.
iv And so Dauid sente messagers, and took her; þe which whanne she was goon in to hym, he flepte wiþ her, and anoon she is halwid fro her vnclasses. And she turnede aȝen to her hows, v þe fruyt of her wombe conseyued; and she fendyng toold to Dauid, and seiþ, I haue conseyued.
vi Forsoþe Dauid sente to Joab, feiȝng, Send to me Vrie Ethee; and Joab sente Vrye to Dauid.
vii And Vrye cam to Dauid; and Dauid aſkide, how riȝt dide Joab and þe puple, and what maner wife þe batail was ferued.
viii And Dauid seide to Vrye, Go into þin hows, and wassh bi feet. And Vrye wente out of þe kyngis hows, and hym folwide þe kyngis meet.
ix Forsoþe Vrye flepte before þe ȝate of þe kyngis hows wiþ obere seruauntis of his lord, and he wente not down to his hows.
x And it is toold to Dauid of seieris, Vrye wente not to his hows. And Dauid seiþ to Vrye, Wheþer not fro 'a ferre weye þou cam? whi defendist þou not into þin hows?
xi And Vrye seiþ to Dauid, Þe arke of God, and Yrael and Juda dwellen in tentis, and my lord Joab, and þe seruauntis of my lord biden vpon þe face of þe erþe, and I shal go 'in to myn hous, þat I ete, and drinke, and slepe wiþ my wijf? Bi þin helþ, and bi þe helþ of þi soule, I shal not doo þis þing.
xii Panne Dauid seiþ to Vrye, Bijd here also to dai, and to morwe Y shal leeue þee. Vrye bode in Jerufalem þat day and þe toþere.
xiii And Dauyd clepide hym, þat he eete before hym and drynk, and he made hym drunke; þe which goon out at euen, slepte in his bedde wiþ þe seruauntis of his lord; and he defendide not into his hows.
xiv And it is doon þanne eerli, and Dauid wroot a letter to Joab, and sente bi þe hoond of Vrye, xv wrytyng in þe letter, Puttiþ Vrie fro aȝens of þe batail, where þe batail is moost strong, and forſakiþ hym, þat he smyten die.
xvi Panne whanne Joab bisegide þe citee, he putte Vrye in þe place where he wiste moost stronge men to ben.
xvii And þe men gon out fro þe cite, fouȝten aȝen Joab, and þei flewen of þe puple of þe seruauntis of Dauid, and alfo Vrie Ethee is deed.
xviii And so Joab sente, and toolde alle þes wordis of þe batail;

xix and comaundide to þe messageer, seiynge, Whanne þou haſt ful endid alle þe wordis of þe batail to þe kyng, xx if þou feest hym to han indignacioun, and seye, Whi nezeden ȝe to þe wal for to fiȝte? wheþer knewen ȝe not, þat aboue fro þe wal ben fent manye darts?
 xxi who smoot Achymalech, þe sone of Jeroboal? wheþer not a womman sente vpon hym a gobet of a myln stoon fro þe wal, and flewȝ hym in Thebes? whi biſide þe wal ȝe wenten to? þow shalt seye, Also þi seruaunt, Vrye Ethee, is flayn.
 xxii Panne þe messenger wente, and cam, and toolde to Dauid alle þingis þat Joab comaundide to hym.
 xxiii And þe messenger seide to Dauid, Þe men hadden þe ouer hoond aȝens vs, and þei wenten out to vs into þe feeld; forsoþe we, þe bure made, pursueden hem vnto þe ȝate of þe citem.
 xxiv And þe sheeters dresseden darts to þi seruauntis fro þe wal aboue, and þere ben deed of þe seruauntis of þe kyng; but also Vrye Ethee, þi seruaunt, is deed.
 xxv And Dauid seide to þe messenger, Þes þingis þou shalt seye to Joab, Þis þing breke þee not; forsoþe dyuerse is þe hap of batail, and now þis, now hym waſtiþ þe fwerd; coumfort þi fiȝters aȝens þe cytee, þat þou distroye it, and enhurte hem. xxvi Forsoþe þe wif of Vrye herde, þat Vrye her houseboond was deed, and she weylide hym.
 xxvii And þe weilynge ouere doon, Dauid fente, and brouȝte him into his hows; and she is maad wif to hym, and she bare to hym a sone. And þe word þat Dauid dide disþeide before þe Lord.

Capitulum XII.

i Thanne þe Lord fente Nathan to Dauid; þe which whanne he was comen to hym, seide to hym, Answere to me doom; two men weren in o cytee; oon ryche, and anoþer pore.
 ii þe riche hadde sheep and oxen ful manye;
 iii forsoþe þe pore hadde no þing vtterly, saaf o litil sheep, þe which he bouȝte, and norþide, and þe which wexe anentis hym wiþ his sonys, togidre of his breed etinge, and of his cup drynkyng, and in his bosum slepyng; and it was to hym as a douȝter.
 iv Forsoþe whanne a maner pylgrym was comen to þe riche man, he sparynge to take of þe sheep and of his oxen, þat he ȝeue a meetshipe to þat pilgrym, þat cam to hym, took þe sheep of þe pore man, and maade redi meetis to þe man þat cam to hym.
 v Forsoþe Dauid wroop ful myche bi indignacioun aȝens þat man, seide to Nathan, Þe Lord lyueþ, for þe sone of deþ is þe man, þe which dide þat; vi þe sheep he shal ȝeelde into foure foold, forpi þat he haþ doo þis word, and haþ not sparyd.
 vii Forsoþe Nathan seide to Dauid, þou ert þilk man, þat didist þis þing. Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Israel, I haue anoyntid þee into kyng vpon Israel, and I haue delyuerde þee fro þe hoond of Saul, viii and ȝeue to þee þe hows of þi lord, and þe wyues of þi lord in þi bosum, and ȝeuen to þee þe hows of Israel, and of Juda; and if þes þingis ben litil, I shulde adde to þee myche more.

 ix Whi þanne haſt þou dispisid þe word of þe Lord, þat þou doo yuel þingis in my siȝt? Vrye Ethei þou haſt smyten wiþ fwerd, and þe wif of hym þou haſt takyn to þee into wif, and þou haſt flayn hym bi þe fwerd of þe sones of Amon.
 x For what þing fwerd of þin hows shal not goo a wey fro þee vnto wiþ outen ende; forþi þat þou haſt dispised me, and took þe wif of Vrye Ethei, þat she were þi wif.
 xi And so þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Loo! I shal rere vpon þee yuel of þin hows, and I shal taak awey þi wyues in þin eyen, and ȝyue to þin neȝbour, and he shal sleepe wiþ þi wyues in þe eyen of þis sunne.
 xii Forsoþe þou didist hidynghli; forsoþe I shal doo þis word in siȝt of al Israel, and in þe siȝt of þis sunne.
 xiii And Dauid seide to Nathan, I haue synned to þe Lord. And Nathan seide to Dauid, Forsoþe þe Lord haþ ouerborn þi synne; þou shalt not die.
 xiv Neuerþelater for þou haſt maad þe enemyes to blasphemis þe name of þe Lord, for þat word þe sone þat is born to þee bi deþ shal die.
 xv And Nathan is turned aȝen into his hows. And þe Lord smoot þe litil child, whom þe wif of Vrye bare to Dauid, and he is disþeyrid.
 xvi And Dauid preyde þe Lord for þe litil child; and Dauid fastide wiþ fastynge, and wente in aside, and laye vpon þe erþe.
 xvii Forsoþe þe eldris of his hows camen, constreynynge hym þat he shulde ryse fro þe erþe; þe whiche wolde not, and eete not wiþ hem meeþe.
 xviii Forsoþe it felle þe feuenþe dai, þat þe child diede; and þe seruauntis of Dauid dradden to telle to hym, þat þe child was deed; þei feiden forsoþe, Loo! whanne þe lityl child lyued, we speken to hym, and he herde not oure voys; how mych more if we seyn þe child is deed, he shal turment hym self?
 xix Whanne þanne Dauid hadde herd his seruauntis musyng, he vndirstood þat þe lytyl faunt was deed; and he feide to his seruauntis, Wheþer þe child is deed? þe whiche answerten vnto hym, He is deed. xx Panne Dauid roos fro þe erþe, and he is waffhid, and anoynt; and whanne he hadde chaungid cloþinge, he wente into þe hows of þe Lord, and honourde, and cam into his hows; and he aþkyde, þat þei shulden sette to hym breed, and he eete.
 xxi Forsoþe his seruauntys seiden to hym, What is þe word þat þou haſt doon? For þe litil faunt, whanne he ȝit lyued, þou fastidist and weptist; forsoþe þe child deed, þou roos and eete breed?

xxii Pe which seip, For þe faunt whanne he ȝit lyuede I fastide and wepte; forsoþe I seide, Who woot, if perauenture þe Lord ȝyue hym to me, and þe faunt lyue?

xxiii Forsoþe now for he is deed, whi fast I? wheþer shal I mowe more ouer clepe hym aȝen? I shal more goo to hym, forsoþe he shal not turne aȝen to me.

xxiv And Dauid coumfortide Bersabe, his wijf, and wente into hir, and slepte wiþ hir. Þe which gat a lone, and clepide þe name of hym Salomon; and þe Lord louyde hym.

xxv And he sente hym in þe hoond of Nathan, þe prophet; and he clepide þe name of hym Loueli to þe Lord, forþat þe Lord shulde loue hym.

xxvi Panne Joab fauȝt aȝens Rabath, kyng of þe fones of Amon, and he haþ ouercomen þe kyngis citee.

xxvii And Joab sente messagers to Dauid, seiyng, I haue fouȝten aȝens Rabath, and þe citee of watres is to be taken.

xxviii Now þanne gadre þe toþer parti of þe puple, and bisege þe citee, and tak it, leſt whanne þe citee were waſtid of me, to my name þe victorie be ascriued.

xxix And so Dauid gadride al þe puple, and wente forþ aȝens Rabath; and whanne he hadde fouȝten, he took it.

xxx And he took þe diadem fro þe mawmet, þat is clepid þe kyng of hem, fro his heed, in weiȝt of gold a talent, hauyng moost precious gemmys; and it is put vpon þe heed of Dauid; but and ful myche praye of þe cyte he bare out.

xxxi And bryngynge forþ lawede þe puple of it, and ladde about vpon hem boſtful yren carris, and he dyuydide wiþ lharys, and he piȝt þurȝ in þe shap of þe fidis; þus he dide to alle þe citees of þe sonys of Amon. And Dauid is turned aȝen, and alle þe oost of hym, into Jerusalem.

Capitulum XIII.

i Forsoþe it is doon after þes þingis, þat Amon, þe fone of Dauid, louede þe fister of Absolon, þe fone of Dauid, moost fayre, Thamar by name; and 'peyrede for hir ful myche, ii so þat for þe loue of hir he wexe fijk. Þe which for she was a mayde, hard to hym it semede, þat eny þing vnhoneſtly he shulde do wiþ hir.

iii Forsoþe þere was to Amon a freende, Jonadab bi name, þe fone of Semaa, broþer of Dauid, a ful fleiȝ man.

iv Þe which feide to hym, Whi þus ert þou waſtid bi leenesse, þou fone of þe kyng, bi ech dai? whi shewist þou not to me? And Amon feide to hym, I loue Thamar, þe fister of my broþer Absolon.

v To whom anſwerde Jonadab, Ly vpon þi bedde, and feyn fijknes; and whanne þi fader comeþ, þat he viſte þee, fey to hym, Come, I preye, Thamar, my fister, þat she ȝyue to me meet, and make fowlil, þat I eete of hyr hoond.

vi And so Amon laye doun, as þouȝ he wexe fijk. And whanne þe kyng was comen to viſte hym, Amon seip to þe kyng, Come, I preye, Thamar, my fister, þat she make in myn eyen two maner of potagis, and þe meet maad redi I take of hir hoond.

vii Panne Dauid sente to þe hous of Thamar, seiyng, Go in to þe hows of Amon, þi broþir, and mak to hym potage.

viii And Thamar cam into þe hows of Amon, his broþir. Forsoþe he laye; þe which takyng meelee mengide togidir, and meltyng in his eyen she ſeipide þe ſupetts; ix and takyng þat she hadde ſoþen, she helte out, and ſette before hym, and he wolde not eete. And Amon feide, Doo ȝe a wey alle men fro me. And whanne alle weren doon awey, x Amon feide to Thamar, Beer yn þe meet in þe priue chaumbre, þat I eete of þin hoond. Panne Thamar took þe fewis þat she hadde maad, and brouȝte to Amon, his broþer, in þe priue chaumbre.

xi And whanne she hadde brouȝte hym meet, he cauȝte hir, and seip, Come, ly wiþ me, my fister.

xii Pe which anſwerde to hym, Wole þou not, my broþer, wole þou not opprefſe me, ne forsoþe it is leeueful in Israel; wole þou not doo þis foli.

xiii Forsoþe I shal not mowe bere my reprooþ, and þou shalt be as oon of þe vnwise men in Israel; but raþer spek to þe kyng, and he shal not denye me to þee.

xiv Forsoþe he wolde not aſſent to þe preyers of hir, but more myȝti bi ſtrengpis opprefſide hir, and laye wiþ hir.

xv And ful haatsum Amon hadde hir wiþ to myche greet haate, so þat þe haat was more, þat he hatide hir, þanne þe loue þat he louede hir before. And Amon feide to hir, Ryſe, and goo.

xvi Pe whych anſwerde to hym, þis yuel is more þat þou now doſt aȝens me, caſtyng me out, 'pan þat þou didiſt before.

xvii And he wolde not here hir; but þe child clepide, þat feruede to hym, he feide, Prow out þis fro me, and cloſe þe dore after hir.

xviii Pe which was cloþid wiþ a coote doun to þe heele; forsoþe ſich maner cloþis vſeden þe douȝtris of þe kyng maydens. And so his feruaunt putte hyre out, and cloſide þe dore after hire.

xix Pe which ſpryngynge aſſhen to hire heed, þe heele coot kyt, and þe hoondis put on hire heed, she ȝede goynge yn and criyng.

xx Forsoþe Absolon, his broþer, feide to hyre, Wheþer Amon, þi broþer, haþ lyen wiþ þee? And now, fister, hold þi pees; þi broþir he is, ne turment þin herte for þis þing. And so Thamar aboode languyllhyng þere wiþ ynne þe hows of Absolon, his broþir.

xi Forsoþe whanne Dauid hadde herd þes wordis, he greethi forwide, and he wolde not make fori þe spirite of Amon, his sone; for he louide hym, for he was þe firste gotten of hym.

xxii Forsoþe Absolon spak not to Amon, ne yuel ne good; but Absolon hatide Amon, forþi þat he hadde defoulid Thamar, his sister.

xxiii Forsoþe it is doon after þe tyme of two ȝeer, þat þe fheep of Absolon weren clippid in Baalassor, þat is biside Effraym. And Absolon clepide alle þe sones of þe kyng.

xxiv And he cam to þe kyng, and seip to hym, Loo! þe fheep of þi seruaunt ben clippid; come, I preye, þe kyng wiþ his seruauntis to his seruaunt.

xxv And þe kyng seide to Absolon, Wole þou not, sone myn, preye, wole þou not, þat we comen alle, and greuen þee. Forsoþe whanne he constreynede him, and wolde not come, he bleffide to hym.

xxvi And Absolon seip to Dauid, If þou wolt not come, come algate wiþ vs, I biseche, Amon, my broþer. And þe kyng seide to hym, It is no nede, þat he goo wiþ þee.

xxvii And so Absolon constreynede hym; and he lafte wiþ hym Amon, and alle þe sones of þe kyng. And Absolon made a feest as þe feest of a kyng.

xxviii Forsoþe Absolon hadde comaundid to his children, seiyng, Weitþ wel, whanne Amon were dronken wiþ wyn, and I shal seye to ȝou, Smitþ hym, and sleep. Wole ȝe not drede, forsoþe I am þat comaunde to ȝou; be ȝe maad stronge, and beþ stronge men.

xxix Panne þe children of Absolon diden aȝens Amon, as Absolon hadde comaundid to hem; and alle þe sones of þe kyng ryfynge, eche styede vpon her mulis, and flowen.

xxx And whanne ȝit þei wenten in þe weye, fame cam fulli to Dauid, seiyng, Absolon haþ smytyn alle þe sones of þe kyng, and þere lafte not of hem nameli oone.

xxxi And so þe kyng roos, and kytte his cloþis, and felle vpon þe erþe; and alle his seruauntis þat stoden nyȝ to hym, cutten her cloþis.

xxxii Forsoþe Jonadab, þe sone of Semmaa, broþer of Dauid, answerynge seide, Ne eyme, my lord þe kyng, þat alle þe children, sones of þe kyng, ben deed; Amon alone is deed, for in haat Absolon was fett, fro þe day þat he oppresfide Thamar, his sister.

xxxiii Now panne, my lord kyng, sette not on his herte þis word, seiyng, Alle þe sones of þe kyng ben flayn; for Amon aloon is deed.

xxxiv Forsoþe Absolon fleiȝ. And þe child weyter heuede vp his eyen, and bihelde, and loo! myche puple cam bi þe out weye fro þe side of þe hil.

xxxv And Jonadab seide to þe kyng, Loo! þe sones of þe kyng ben nyȝ; after þe word of þi seruaunt, so it is doon.

xxxvi And whanne he hadde ceside to speke, 'aperiden and þe sones of þe kyng; and comynge yn þei rereden her vois, and wepten; but and þe kyng and alle his seruauntis wepten wiþ ful myche greet wepyng.

xxxvii Forsoþe Absolom fleynge wente to Tholamay, sone of Amyur, kyng of Gethfur. Panne Dauid weylide Amon, his sone, manye dais.

xxxviii Forsoþe Absolon, whanne he was flowen, and comen into Gethfur, he was þere þre ȝeer.

xxxix And kyng Dauid cefede to pursue Absolon, forþi þat he was coumfortid vpon þe deep of Amon.

Capitulum XIII.

i Forsoþe Joab, þe sone of Saruy, vndurstondyne, þat þe herte of þe kyng was turned to Absolon, ii he sente to Thekuam, and took þens a wife womman, and he seide to hir, Feyne þee to weil, and be cloþid wiþ þe weilynge cloþ, and be þou not anoynt wiþ oyle, þat þou be as a womman now myche tyme weilynge þe deed.

iii And þou shalt goo in to þe kyng, and þou shalt speek to hym þes maner wordis. Forsoþe Joab putte þe wordis in hire mouȝ.

iv And so whanne þe Thekuyd womman was goon out to þe kyng, she felle before hym vpon þe erþe, and lowtide, and seide, Keep me, þou king.

v And þe kyng seide to hire, What haft þou of cause? þe which answarde, Alas! a womman widowe I am, forsoþe my man is deed;

vi and of þin hoond womman weren two sones, þe whiche wrappeden aȝens hem self in þe feeld, and no man was þat hem myȝte defende, and þe toon smoot þe toþer, and flowȝ hym.

vii And loo! al þe kynrede risyng aȝens þin hoond womman seip, Tak hym þat haþ smytyn his broþir, þat we fleen hym for þe liȝ of his broþer whom he flowȝ, and þe eyr doo we a wey; and þei sechen to quench my spark þat is laft, þat þere be not laft name to my man, and reliakis vpon erþe.

viii And þe kyng seip to þe womman, Go into þin hows, and I shal ordeyn for þee.

ix And þe Thekuyt womman seide to þe kyng, In me, my lord kyng, be þis wickidnes, and into þe hows of my fader; forsoþe þe kyng and his trone be innocent.

x And þe king seip, Who so aȝen seip þee, bryng hym to me, and he shal no more adde þat he touche þee.

xi þe which seip, þe kyng recoorde of þe Lord his God, and be þere not multiplied 'þe kyn of þe blood to wreche, and þei shulen not flee my sone. þe which seip, þe Lord lyueþ, for þere shal not falle of þe erys of þi sone vpon þe erþe.

xii Panne þe womman seyde, Spek þin hoond womman to my lord kyng a word. And he seip, Spek.

xiii And þe womman seide, Whi haft þou þouȝt siche a maner þing aȝens þe puple of God? and þe kyng haþ spoken þis word, þat he synne, and þat he bryngne not aȝen his casten out?

xivii Alle we dyen, and as watres we fliden into þe erþe, þat shulen not be turned aȝen; and God wole not perishe þe līf, but wiþdrawiþ, þenkyng left fulli he perishe, þat is cast awey.

xv Now þann come, þat I spek to my lord kyng þis word, present þe puple; and þin hondwomman feide, I þhal speke to þe kyng, if eny maner þe kyng doo þe word of his hoond womman.

xvi And þe kyng herde 'þe word, þat he delyuer his hondwomman fro þe hoond of alle, þat wolden fro þe erytage of þe Lord doo me a wey, and my fone to gidre.

xvii Sey þanne þin hondwomman, þat þe word of my lord þe kyng be maad as sacrifice; forsoþe as þe aungel of þe Lord, so is my lord kyng, þat neþer bi bleffynge ne bi curfynge he be meuþd. Wherfor and þe Lord þi God is wiþ þee.

xviii And þe kyng answerynge feide to þe womman, Ne hijd þou fro me þe word þat I aske. And þe womman feide to hym, Spek, my lord kyng.

xix And þe kyng seiþ, Wheþer þe hoond of Joab is wiþ þee in alle þese? Þe womman answarde, and seiþ, Bi þe help of þi soule, my lord kyng, ne at þe left ne at þe riȝt he is of alle þes þingis, þe whiche my lord kyng haþ spoken. Forsoþe þi seruaunt Joab he comaundide to me, and he putte in þe mouþ of þin hoond womman alle þes wordis,

xx þat I turne þe figure of þis word; forsoþe þi seruaunt Joab comaundide þis. Forsoþe þou, my lord kyng, ert wife, as þe aungel of God haþ wiþdom, þat þou vndirftonde alle þingis vpon erþe.

xxi And þe kyng seiþ to Joab, Loo! plesid I haue doo þi word; go þanne, and cleep aȝen þe child Absolon.

xxii And Joab fallynge vpon his face into þe erþe, honourde, and blifide to þe kyng; and Joab feide, To dai haþ þi seruaunt vndurftonde, for I haue foundun grace in þin eyen, my lord kyng; forsoþe þou hast doon þe word of þi seruaunt.

xxiii Panne Joab roos, and wente into Gethsur, and brouȝte Absolon into Jerufalem.

xxiv Forsoþe þe kyng feide, Turne he aȝen into his hows, and se he not my face. And so Absolon is turned aȝen into his hows, and þe face of þe kyng he sawȝ not.
xxv Forsoþe þere was not a man as feyr as Absolon in al Israel, and ful miche femeli; fro þe stap of þe foot vnto þe top, þere was not in hym eny spot;

xxvi and þe more þat he doddide þe heeris, so mych more þei wexen; forsoþe onys in þe ȝeer he was doddid, for þe heere heuyde hym. He weiede þe heeris of his heed wiþ two hundred siclis bi þe comoun weiȝt.
xxvii Forsoþe þere been born to Absolon þre fones, aud o douȝter, Thamar bi name, of sembli shap.

xxviii And Absolon dwellide in Jerufalem two ȝeer, and fawȝ not þe face of þe kyng.

xxix And so he sente to Joab, þat he shulde sende hym to þe kyng; þe which wolde not come to hym. And whanne þe secounde he hadde sent, and he wold not come,

xxx he seide to his seruaunts, ȝe knownen þe feelde of Joab bisiðe my feelde hauyng barli corn; goop þanne, and brenneþ it vp wiþ fier. Panne þe seruauntis of Absolon breten þe corn wiþ fier. And þe seruauntis of Joab comynge, her cloþis kut, seiden, ȝe seruauntis of Absolon han brent vp a partie of þe feelde wiþ fier.

xxxi And Joab roos, and cam to Absolon into his hows, and feide, Whi han þi seruauntis brente vp my corn wiþ fier?

xxxii And Absolon answarde to Joab, I haue sente to þee, preiyng þat þou come to me, and I fende þee to þe kyng, þat þou seie to hym, Whi cam I fro Gethsur?
Betere it was to me to be þere; I biseche þanne, þat I see þe face of þe kyng, þat if he haue mynde of my shrewidnes, he flee me.

xxxiii Joab goon yn to þe kyng tolde to hym. And Absolon clepid wente yn to þe kyng, and he lowtide upon þe face of þe erþe before hym, and þe kyng kisside Absolon.

Capitulum XV.

i Thanne after þes þingis Absolon made to hym a chaar, and horfmen, and fifti men þat shulden goo before hym.

ii And eerli risyng Absolon stood bisiðe þe entre of þe ȝate in þe weye; and eche man, þat hadde a neede þat he com to þe dom of þe kyng, Absolon clepide to hym self, and feide, Of what citee ert þou? Þe which answerynge feide, Of a lynage of Yrael I am, þi seruaunt.

iii And Absolon answarde to hym, To me þi wordis semen good and iust, but þere is not 'þe which 'þee heere ordeyned of þe kyng.

iv And Absolon feide, Who ordeyneþ me domesman vpon þe loond, þat to me comen alle þat han neede, and riȝtwilly Y deme?

v But whanne a man neijede to hym for to salute hym, he strauȝte out his hoond, and takyng he kisside hym;
vi and þat he dide to al Yrael, þe which cam to dom þat he were herd of þe king; and he bisiðe þe hertis of þe men of Yrael.

vii Forsoþe aftir fourti ȝeer Absolon feide to kyng Dauid, I shal go, and ȝeelde my vowis, þat I vowide to þe Lord in Ebron;

viii forsoþe vowynge þi seruaunt vowide, whanne he was in Gethsur of Syrie, seiynge, If þe Lord bryng me aȝen into Jerufalem, I shal sacrifice to þe Lord.

ix And þe kyng feide to hym, Goo in pees. And he roos, and wente into Ebron.

x Forsoþe Absolon sente aspies into alle þe lynagis of Yrael, seiynge, Anoon þat ȝe heren þe noyse of þe trumpe, seiþ, Absolon shal regne in Ebron.

xi Forsoþe wiþ Absolon wenten two hundred men clepid of Jerusalem, goyng wiþ symple herte, and þe cause fulli vnknowynge.

xii Forsoþe Absolon clepide Achitophel Gilonyte, þe counsellour of Dauid, fro his cite Gilo. And whanne he hadde offrid flayn sacrifice, þere is maad a strong coniurysoun, and þe purple rennyng togidre encreside wiþ Absolon.

xiii Panne cam a messager to Dauid, seiyng, Wip al þe herte al Yrael folowiþ Absolon.

xiv And Dauid seiþ to his seruauntis þat weren wiþ hym in Jerusalem, Risip, and flee we; forsoþe ne þere shal be to vs fliȝt fro þe face of Absolon; hieȝt to goon out, leſt perauenture he comynge ocupie vs, and fulfille vpon vs fallynge, and smyte þe cite in mouȝt of swerd.

xv And þe seruauntis of þe kyng feiden to hym, Alle þingis, what euere comaundiþ oure lord þe kyng, gladli we folowen out, þi seruauntis.

xvi Panne þe kyng wente out, and al hys hows, on her feet; and þe kyng laſte ten fecoundarie wyues to þe hows to be kept.

xvii And þe kyng goon out, and al Yrael, on her feet, stoode afer fro þe hows.

xviii And alle his seruauntis wenten biside hym, and þe legiouns Cerethi and Pherethi, and al Gethei ſtronge fiȝters, þe ſexe hundrid men, þat hadden folwid hym fro Geth on foot, wenten before þe kyng.

xix Forsoþe þe kyng feide to Ethei Gethee, Whi comyſt þou wiþ vs? Turn aȝen, and dwel wiþ þe kyng for a pilgrimage þou art, and wentiſt out fro þi place.

xx ȝisterday þou cam, and to day þou ert compellid to goo out wiþ vs. Forsoþe I shal goo, whider I am to goo; turn aȝen, and leede aȝen wiþ þee þi briþeren, and þe Lord doo wiþ þee merci and trewþ, for þou haſt shewid grace and feiþ.

xxi And Ethei anſwerde to þe kyng, seiyng, Pe Lord lyueþ, and my lord þe kyng lyueþ, for in what euere place þou were, my lord kyng, oþer in deeþ or in liȝt, þere shal be þi seruaunt.

xxii And Dauid seiþ to Ethai, Come, and paſſe forþ. And Ethei Gethee paſſide forþ, and þe kyng, and alle þe men þat wiþ hym weren, and þe toper multitude.

xxiii And alle þei wepten wiþ a greet voys, and al þe purple paſſide forþ; þe kyng forsoþe wente ouer þe ſtreem of Cedron, and al þe purple wente aȝens þe weye of þe olyue, þat biholdip to deſeert.

xxiv And Sadoch þe preeſt cam, and alle þe Leuytis wiþ hym, berynge þe arke of þe boond of pees of God, and þei ſetten doun þe arke of God; and Abiathar ſtiede vp, to þe tyme þat alle þe purple weren ful comen þat was goon out fro þe citee.

xxv And þe kyng feide to Sadoch, Beer aȝen þe arke of God into þe citee; if I shal fynde grace in þe eyen of þe Lord, he shal leede me aȝen, and shewe to me it and his tabernacle.

xxvi Forsoþe if he shal feye, þou plesiſt not to me; preſt I am, do he þat is good before hym.

xxvii And þe kyng feide to Sadoch þe preeſt, O feere, turne aȝen into þe cite in pees, and Achymaas, þi ſone, and Jonathan, þe ſone of Abiathar, ſoure two ſonys, be þei wiþ you.

xxviii Loo! I shal be hid in þe wijlde feeldis of deſeert, to þe tyme þat þe word come from you, ſhewynge to me.

xxix Panne Sadoch and Abiathar beren aȝen þe arke of God into Jerusalem, and dwelliden þere.

xxx But Dauid ſtiede vp þe hil of olyues, ſtiȝng and wepyng, þe heede couerde, and þe feet nakid goyng; but and al þe purple þat was wiþ hym, þe heede couerde, ſtieden vp wepyng.

xxxi Forsoþe it is toold to Dauid, þat Achitophel was in þe coniurynge wiþ Absolon; and Dauid feide, Lord, I bifeche, mak foli þe counfeil of Achitophel.

xxxii And whanne Dauid ſtiede vp þe cop of þe hil, in þe which he was to preyre þe Lord, loo! Cufy Arachites aȝen cam to hym, þe cloping kut, and þe heede ful of erþe.

xxxiii And Dauid feide to hym, If þou comyſt wiþ me, þou shalt be to me to chargynge;

xxxiv forsoþe if þou turnest aȝen into þe citee, and feiſt to Absolon, þi seruaunt I am, kyng, ſuffre me to lyue; as I was þe seruaunt of þi fatre, ſo I shal be þi seruaunt; þou shalt ſcatyr þe counſeyl of Achitophel.

xxxv Forsoþe þou haſt wiþ bee Sadoch and Abiathar, preeſtis; and eche word, what euere þou heriſt in þe hows of þe kyng, þou shalt ſhewe to þe preeſtis, Sadoch and Abiathar.

xxxvi Forsoþe þere ben wiþ hem her two ſonys, Achymaas, þe ſone of Sadoch, and Jonathan, þe ſone of Abiathar; and ȝe ſhulen feende bi hem to me al þe word þat ȝe ſhulen here.

xxxvii Panne comynge Chusa, þe freend of Dauid, into þe citee, forsoþe Absolon is comen into Jerufalem.

Capitulum XVI.

i And whanne Dauid hadde goon a litil þe cop of þe hil, Ciba, þe child of Myphibosech, aperide into aȝen comynge of hym, wiþ two affis, þat weren chargid wiþ two hundrid loouys, and an hundred bundels of dried grapis, and an hundred peyſis of fijgis preſſid, and wiþ two botels of wyn.

ii And þe kyng feide to Cyba, What to hem wolен þes þingys? And Ciba anſwerde, My lord kyng, þe affis, þat þe hoomli men of þe kyng ſitten on; þe loouis and þe fijgis, to þi children for to eete; forsoþe þe wyn, þat he drynke, who ſo failiþ in deſeert.

iii And þe kyng ſeiþ, Where is þe ſone of þi lord? And Ciba anſwerde to þe kyng, He abood ſtille in Jerufalem, ſeiyng, To day shal þe 'hows of Yrael restore to me þe kyngdam of my fader.

iiiii And þe kyng seiþ to Cyba, Alle þingis þat weren of Miphibosech ben þin. And Cyba seide, I preye, fynde I grace before þee, my lord kyng.
 v Panne kyng Dauid cam into Bahurym, and loo! þere wente out a man þens of þe kynrede of þe hows of Saul, Semei bi name, þe sone of Gera; he wente forþ goyng out, and curfyde.
 vi And he fente stonus aȝens Dauid, and aȝens alle þe seruauntis of king Dauid; forsoþe al þe puple, and alle þe fiȝters fro þe riȝt and fro þe left side of þe kyng wenten.
 vii Forsoþe þus spak Semei, whanne he curside to þe kyng, Go out, go out, þou man of bloodis, and man of Belial!
 viii þe Lord haþ ȝoldyn to þee al þe blood of þe hows of Saul, for þou haſt reued þe kyngdam fro hym; and þe Lord haþ ȝouun þe kyngdam in þe hoond of Absolon, þi sone; and loo! þin euels beren þee doun, for a man of blodis þou art.
 ix Forsoþe Abifai, þe sone of Seruye, feide to þe kyng, Whi cursiþ þis dog to diyng to my lord kyng? I shal goo, and girde of his heed.
 x And þe kyng seiþ, What is to me and to ȝou, ȝe sonys of Saruye? Letiþ hym, þat he curse; forsoþe þe Lord comaundide to hym þat he curse Dauid; and who is þat dar seie, Whi þus he doþ?
 xi And þe kyng seiþ to Abifai, and to alle his seruauntis, Loo! my sone, þat is goon out fro my wombe, fechiþ my lijf; mych more now þis sone of Geminy 'cursiþ to me? Letiþ hym, þat he curse after þe heest of þe Lord; xii if perauenture þe Lord beholde my tourmentynge, and ȝeelde to me good for þis cursynge to dai.
 xiii And so Dauid wente, and his felawis, bi þe weie wiþ hym; forsoþe Semei wente cursynge aȝens hym bi þe cop of þe hil aside, and sendyng stonus aȝens hym, and þe erþe sprengynge.
 xiv And so kyng Dauid cam, and al þe puple wiþ hym wery, and þere bei ben refreshid.
 xv Forsoþe Absolon, and al þe puple of Israel wenten into Jerufalem, but and Achitophel wiþ hym.
 xvi Forsoþe whann Cusay Arachites, þe freend of Dauid, was comen to Absolon, he spak to hym, Heil, kyng!
 xvii heil, kyng! To whom Absolon, ȝis is, he seiþ, þi grace to þi freend; whi haſt þou not goo wiþ þi freend?
 xviii And Cusay answerde to Absolon, Nay, for of hym I shal be, whom þe Lord chesiþ, and al þis puple, and al Yrael; and wiþ hym Y shal dwelle.
 xix 'But and þis I shal brynge yn, to whom am I to serue? wheþer not to þe sone of þe kyng? as I obeyffhide to þi fadir, so and I shal obeishe to þee.
 xx Forsoþe Absolon seide to Achitophel, Goo ȝe into counfeyl, what we owen to doon.
 xxi And Achitophel seiþ to Absolon, Go into þe secundarye wyues of þi fadre, 'þe whiche he haþ laſt at þe hows to be kept; þat whanne al Yrael heriþ, þat þou haſt defoulid þi fader, þe hoondis of hem ben strengþid wiþ þee.

xxii Panne þei strauȝten out to Absolon a tabernacle in þe folere, and he wente into þe secundarye wyues of his fader before al Israel.

xxiii Forsoþe þe counsel þat Achitophel ȝaf in þoo dais, as if a man counseilde God; so was al þe counsel of Achitophel, and whanne he was wiþ Dauid, and whanne he was wiþ Absolon.

Capitulum XVII.

i Thanne seide Achitophel to Absolon, I shal cheſe to me twelue þousandis of men, and ryſyng I shal purſue Dauid þis niȝt.

ii And fallynge forsoþe vpon hym þat is wery, and þe hoondis feblid, I shal smyte hym; and whanne al þe puple fleeþ þat is wiþ hym, I shal smyte þe kyng desolate.

iii And I shal bryng ȝagen al þe puple, what maner o man is wont to be turned ȝagen; forsoþe o man þou fechift, and al þe puple shal ben in pees.

iv And his word pleſide to Absolon, and to alle þe more þurȝ birȝ of Yrael.

v Forsoþe Absolon seiþ, Clepe ȝe and Cusai Arachite, and here we what also he seiþ.

vi And whan Cusai was comen to Absolon, Absolon seiþ to hym, Siche a maner word spak Achitophel; shul we doo, or nay? what conseil ȝyuest þou?

vii And Cusay seide to Absolon, It is not good þis conseil, þat Achitophel haþ ȝouun at þis tyme.

viii And eft Cusay brouȝte yn, Pou haſt knownen þi fader, and þe men þat wiþ hym ben, to ben moost stronge, and in bitter wil, as if a lhe bere wexe feers in þe wijlde wode, rauyffhid þe whelpis; but and þi fader is a man fiȝter, and he shal not dwelle wiþ þe puple.

ix Perauenture now he lurkiþ in dichis, or in a place where he wole; and whanne oon falliþ, eche in þe bigynnyng shal here, who so euere heriþ, and shal seye, þere is maad veniaunce in þe puple þat purſuede Absolon.

x And eche moost strong, whos is þe herte as of a lioun, shal be feblid for drede; forsoþe al þe puple of Yrael woot þi fader to be strong, and alle stronge, þat wiþ hym ben.

xi But þis semeþ to me to be riȝt conseil; be gedrid to þee al þe puple, fro Dan vnto Bersabe, vnnoumbrable as þe grauel of þe see; and þou shalt be in þe myddis of hem.

xii And we shulen falle vpon him, in what euer place he were foundun, and we shulen couer hym, as dewe is wont to falle on þe erþe; and we shulen not leeue of þe men þat wiþ hym ben, forsoþe not oone.

xiii And if he were goon in eny citee, al Yrael shal wyynde aboute þat citee coordis, and we shulen drawe it into þe strem, þat þere be not foundun forsoþe of it not a litil stoon.

xivii And Absolon seide, and alle þe men of Israel, Betere is þe counseil of Cusai Arachite þanne þe counseil of Achithophel; forsoþe þurȝ þe wil of þe Lord is scaterid þe profitable counseil of Achithophel, þat þe Lord bryngē yn yuel vpon Absolon.

xv And Cusay seiþ to þe preestys, Sadoch and Abiathar, þis and his maner Achithophel ȝaf counseil to Absolon, and to þe eldres of Yrael, and I ȝaf sich counseil and fisch.

xvi Now þanne sendiþ foone, and telliþ to Dauid, seiyngē, Ne abide þou þis niȝt in þe wijlde feeldis of deseert, but wiþ out tariyngē weende ouer; left peraudenture þe kyng be soopen a wey, and al þe puple þat is wiþ hym.

xvii Forsoþe Jonathan and Achymas stoden biside þe welle of Rogel; an hondwomman ȝede, and toolde to hem, and þei wenten forþ, þat þei tellen to kyng Dauid þe melfage; forsoþe þei myȝten not be seen, or go into þe cytee.

xviii Forsoþe a maner child sawȝ hem, and toolde to Absolon; forsoþe þei wenten in a swift paase in þe hows of a maner man in Bahurym, þat hadde a pit in his vestiarye, and þei descendiden into it.

xix Forsoþe a womman took, and strauȝte out a couerynge vpon þe mouȝ of þe pit, as dryngē pild barli, and so þe þing is hid.

xx And whanne þe seruauntis of Absolon weren comen into þe hows, þei seiden to þe womman, Where is Achymas and Jonathan? And þe womman answarde to hem, Þei wenten hiyngli, a litil wiȝt water taastid. And þes þat souȝten, whanne þei founden not, þei turneden aȝen into Jerufalem.

xxi And whanne þei weren goon, þey stieden vp fro þe pit; and goyngē toolden to kyng Dauid, and seiden, Rysleþ, and foone goþ ouer þe flood, for sich maner counseil ȝaf Achithophel aȝens ȝou.

xxii Panne Dauid roos, and al þe puple þat was wiþ hym, and þei passiden Jordan, to þe tymē þat þe dai were liȝtid, or þe word were puplishid; and not oone forsoþe was laft, þat pallide not þe flood.

xxiii Forsoþe Achitophel seyngē, þat his counseil was not doon, made redi his asse, and roos, and wente into hys hows, and into his citee; and his hows disposid, he diede bi hoongyngē, and is biried in þe sepulcre of his fader.

xxiv Forsoþe Dauid cam into stronge placis, and Absolon passide ouer Jordan, he and alle þe men of Yrael wiþ hym.

xxv Forsoþe Absolon sette Amasan for Joab vpon þe oost; forsoþe Amasan was þe sone of a man þat was clepid Gethra of Jezreli, þat wente into Abigayl, þe douȝter of Naas, sister of Saruye, þat was þe moder of Joab.

xxvi And Israel sette tentis wiþ Absolon in þe loond of Galaad.

xxvii And whanne Dauid was comen into þe defensable placis, Sobi, þe sone of Naas of Rabath, of þe sonys of Amon, and Machir, þe sone of Amyel, of Lodoxbar, and Berzellay Galadite, of Rogelym, xxviii offreden to hym couerynge clopis, and tapetis, and erþen vessels, whete, and barli, and meeles, and powned corn, and benen, and potage, and fryed gederynge of corns, þat is clepid cycer, xxix and hony, and bottre, and sheep, and fatte calues. And þei ȝyuen to Dauid, and to þe puple þat was wiþ hym, for to ete; forsoþe þei ouertroweden þe puple to be feyntid in þe deseert bi hungre and þrest.

Capitulum XVIII.

i Dauid þanne, his puple biholden, ordeynde vpon hem leders of þousandis, and leders of hundridis.

ii And he ȝaf þe ȝriddie parti of þe puple vndir þe hoond of Joab; and þe ȝriddie vndur þe hoond of Abisai, þe sone of Seruye, þe broþir of Joab; and þe ȝriddie vndur þe hoond of Ethay, þat was of Geth. And þe kyng seide to þe puple, And I shal goon out wiþ ȝou.

iii And þe puple answarde, Pou shalt not goo out; forsoþe wheþer we flee, it shal not perteyne to hem in greet forse of vs; or þe half partie falles fro vs, þei shulen not retche anow, for þou oone for ten þousandis ert countyd; beter it is þanne, þat þou be to vs in þe cytee to focour.

iv To whom seiþ þe kyng, Pat to ȝou semeþ riȝt, þat I shal doo. Panne þe kyng stooðe biside þe ȝaate, and þe puple wente out bi her cumpaines, bi hundredis and þousandis.

v And þe kyng comaundide to Joab, and Abisai, and Ethay, seiyngē, Kepiþ to me þe child Absolon. And al þe puple herde þe kyng comaundyngē to alle þe princis for Absolon.

vi And so þe puple wente into þe feelde aȝens Yrael; and a batail is doon in þe wijld wode of Effraym.

vii And þe puple of Israel is þere hewen doun of þe oost of Dauid, and þere is doon a greet flauȝter in þat day of twenti þousand.

viii Forsoþe þere was þe batail sparpoidl vpon þe face of al þe loond, and manye mo weren whom þe wijld wode waalstide of þe puple, þan þei whom þe swerd deuowrede in þat day.

ix Forsoþe it felle, þat Absolon aȝencam to þe seruauntis of Dauid, fittyngē vpon a muyl; and whanne þe muyle wente yn vndur a þik ook, and a greet, þe heed of hym cleuyde to þe ook; and hym hongid bitwix heuene and erþe, þe muyle, to þe which he satte in, passide forþ.

x Forsoþe a maner man sawȝ þat, and toolde to Joab, seiyngē, I sawȝ Absolon hongyngē fro an ook.

xi And Joab seip to þe man þat toolde hym, If þou sawȝ, whi stikist þou not hym wiþ þe erþe, and I shulde haue ȝyue to þee ten ciclis of siluer, and a knyȝtis girdil?

xii þe which seide to Joab, If þou peysedist in myn hoondis a þousand silueren platis, I shulde not putte myn hoond into þe sone of þe kyng; forsoþe herynge vs, þe kyng comaundide to þee, and to Abisai, and to Ethai, feiynge, Kepiþ to me þe child Absolon.

xiii But and if I hadde doon aȝens my soul foolhardili, þat myȝte not þe kyng vnknowe, and þou shuldist stoond forn aȝens.

xiv And Joab seip, Not as þou wolt, but I shal goo to hym before þee. Panne Joab took þree speris in his hoond, and piȝte hem in þe herte of Absolon. And whanne ȝit he qwappide cleuyng in þe ook, xv ten ȝonge squyers of Joab runnen, and smytyng flown hym.

xvi Forsoþe Joab fownede wiþ þe trumpe, and wiþ heelde þe puple, þat he purfuede not Israel fleyng, wylnyng to spare to þe multitude.

xvii And þei token Absolon, and casten hym in þe wijld wode in to a greet dicke, and þei beren togidir vpon hym a greet heep of stoonus ful myche; forsoþe al Israel fleeȝ into her tabernaclis.

xviii Forsoþe Absolon hadde arerede vp to hym, whanne he ȝit lyuede, a title, þat is in þe valey of þe kyng; he feide forsoþe, I haue not a sone, and þis shal be in mynde of my name; and he clepide þe title bi his name, and it is clepid þe Hoond of Absolon into þis day.

xix Forsoþe Achymas, þe sone of Sadoch, seip, I shal renne and telle to þe kyng, for þe Lord dide doom to hym fro þe hoond of þe enemyes of hym.

xx To whom Joab seide, þou shalt not be messenger in þis dai, but þou shalt telle in þe toper; to day I wole not þee to telle, forsoþe þe sone of þe kyng is deed.

xxi And Joab seip to Cufi, Go, and tel to þe kyng what þou haft seen.

xxii Cufi lowtide to Joab, and ranne. Eft Achymas, þe sone of Sadoch, seide to Joab, What lettiþ, if I also renne after Cufi? And Joab seide to hym, What wolt þou renne, sone myn? Come hidir, þou shalt not be berer of good message.

xxiii þe which answerde, What forsoþe if I shal renne? And he seip to hym, Renn. Panne Achymas rennyng bi þe weye of þe good short weye ouerpasse Cufi.

xxiv Dauid forsoþe sat bitwix two ȝatis; þe weyter forsoþe, þat was in þe heiȝt of þe ȝate vpon þe walle, rerynge vp þe eyen, sawȝ a man aloone rennyng;

xxv and cryinge out shewide to þe kyng. And þe kyng seide to hym, If he is aloone, gode message is in þe mouȝ of hym. Forsoþe hym goyng and neiȝyng nerre, xxvi þe wayter sawȝ anopir man rennyng; and criyng out in þe cop seip, Pere semeþ to me anoþer man rennyng aloone. And þe kyng seide to hym, And þis is a good messager.

xxvii Forsoþe þe weyter seip, I biholde þe rennyng of þe former, as þe rennyng of Achymas, þe sone of Sadoch. And þe kyng seip, A good man he is, and comeþ berynge good mafage.

xxviii Forsoþe Achymas cryinge, seide to þe kyng, Hail kyng! And lowtyng þe kyng before hym bowide into þe erþe, seip, Bleſſid be þe Lord þi God, þat haþ concludid þe men, þat rereden her hoondis aȝens my lord þe kyng.

xxix And þe kyng seip, Is þere not pees to þe child Absolon? And Achymas seide, I sawȝ a greet towmbe, whanne Joab þi seruaunt sente me, O kyng, þi seruaunt; oþer þing I knowe not.

xxx To whom þe kyng, Passe, he seip, and stoond here. And whanne he was paffid, and stoode, Cufi aperide; and comynge seip, xxxi I bryngé good message, my lord king; forsoþe þe Lord haþ demyde for þee to day fro þe hoond 'of alle þat risen aȝens þee.

xxxii þe kyng forsoþe seide to Cufi, Is þere not pees to þe child Absolon? To whom answerynge Cufi, Be þei maad, he seip, as þe child, þe enemyes of my lord þe kyng, and alle þat risen aȝens hym into yuel.

xxxiii And so þe kyng cauȝt wiþ forwe, stiede vp to þe sowpyng place of þe ȝaate, and wepte, and þus he spak goyng, Sone myn, Absolon! Absolon, sone myn! who to me ȝyueþ, þat I dye for þee? Absolon, sone myn! sone myn, Absolon!

Capitulum XIX.

i Forsoþe it is toold to Joab, þat þe kyng wept, and weilide his sone;

ii and þe victorye is turned in þat dai into weilyng to al þe puple; forsoþe þe puple herde in þat day to be feid, Pe kyng forwiþ vpon his sone.

iii And þe puple bowide aside in þat dai to goo in to þe citée, what maner wife a puple turnede and fleyng fro þe batail is wont to bowe aside.

iv Forsoþe þe kyng courerde his heed, and criede wiþ a greet vois, Sone myn, Absolon! Absolon, sone myn! v Panne goon yn Joab to þe kyng into þe hows, seide, þou haft confoundid to day þe cheeris of alle þi seruauntis, and þat han maad saaf þi liȝf, and þe liȝf of þi sonys and of þi douȝtris, and þe liȝf of þi wyues, and þe liȝf of þi secoundarye wyues.

vi þou louest þe hatynge þee, and þou haft in haate þe louynge þee; and þou haft shewid to day, for þou reckift not of þi leeders and of þi seruauntis; and verrely I haue knownen now, þat if Absolon lyuede, and alle we hadden diede, þanne it shulde plese to þee.

vii Now þan ryse, and go forþ, and spekyng do aseþe to þi seruauntis; forsoþe I swere to þee bi þe Lord, þat if þow goſt not out, þat oon forsoþe be not to abidynge still wiþ þee þis nyȝt; and werse shal be to þee þis, þan alle þe yuels þat camen vpon þee fro þi ȝongþ vnto þe tyme þat is now.

viii Þanne þe kyng roos, and fatte in þe ȝate; and to al þe puple it is toold, þat þe king fatte in þe ȝate, and al þe multitude cam before þe king. Forsoþe Israel fleeȝ into her tabernaclis.

ix And al þe puple stroof in alle þe lynagis of Israel, seiynge, þe kyng haþ delyuerd vs fro þe hoond of oure enemyes, and he haþ saued vs fro þe hoond of Philistis; and now he fleeȝ fro þe loond for Absolon.

x Forsoþe Absolon, whom we anoyntiden kyng vpon vs, is deed in batail; how long be ȝe stille, and ȝe brengen not aȝen þe kyng? And þe counseil of al Israel cam to þe king.

xi Forsoþe kyng Dauid sente to Sadoch and to Abiathar, preestis, seiynge, Speke ȝe to þe more þurȝ birþ of Juda, seiynge, Whi ben ȝe comen last to bryng eȝen þe kyng into his hows? Forsoþe þe word of al Israel is ful comen to þe kyng, þat þei brengen hym aȝen into his hows.

xii For þe kyng seide, Þes þingis ȝe shulen seye to þe puple, My briþeren ȝe, my boon and my flesh ȝe; whi last brengen ȝe aȝen þe kyng?

xiii And to Amasa seye ȝee, Wheþer ert þou not my boon and my flesh? Þes þingis God do to me, and þes þingis adde, if þou were not maister of chualrye after Joab before me al tyme.

xiv And he bowide þe herte of alle þe men of Juda as of o man; and þei senten to þe king, seiynge, Turn aȝen, þou and alle þi seruauntis.

xv And þe kyng turnede aȝen, and cam vnto Jordan; and al Juda cam forþ into Galgala, þat he aȝen come to þe kyng, and þei shulden bryng hym ouer Jordan.

xvi Forsoþe Semei, þe sone of Gera, þe sone of Gemyn, of Bahurym, hiȝede, and cam doun wiþ þe men of Juda into aȝen comyng of kyng Dauid, xvii wiþ a þousand men of Beniamyn; and child Ciba of þe hows of Saul, and his fifteen sonys, and twenti seruantis weren wiþ hym; and brekyng Jordan before þe kyng, passeden þe forþis, xviii þat þei brengen ouer þe hows of þe kyng, and doon after his comaundynge. Forsoþe Semei, þe sone of Gera, faldoun before þe kyng, whanne now he hadde passid Jordan, xix seide to hym, My lord, ne wiyt þou to me þe wickidnes, ne haue þou mynde of þe wrongis of þi seruaunt in þe dai, þe which þou wentist out, my lord kyng, fro Jerufalem, ne set þou, kyng, in þin herte; xx forsoþe I þi seruaunt knowe my synne; and þerfor to dai first I cam of al þe hows of Joseph, and cam doun into aȝencomyng of my lord þe kyng.

xxi Forsoþe anfwerynge Abifai, þe sone of Saruye, feide, Wheþer for þes wordis Semei shal not be flayn, þat curſide to þe crift of þe Lord?

xxii And Dauid seiþ, What to me and to ȝou, ȝe sonys of Saruye? Whi ben ȝe maad to me to day into Sathan?

Þanne wheþer to dai shal not be flayn a man in Israel? Wheþer I knowe not me to day maad kyng vpon Israel?

xxiii And þe kyng seiþ to Semei, þou shalt not die; and he swore to hym.

xxiv Forsoþe Myphibosech, þe sone of Jonathan, þe sone of Saul, cam doun into þe aȝencomyng of þe kyng, þe feet vnwaſhen, and þe beerd vnfauen. And his cloþis he hadde not waſhen, fro þe day þat þe kyng wente out vnto þe day of his turnyng aȝen in pees.

xxv And whanne he hadde aȝen comen to þe kyng, þe kyng seide to hym, Whi cam þou not wiþ me, Myphibosech?

xxvi And anfwerynge he seiþ, My lord kyng, my seruaunt dispiside me; and I þi seruaunt seide to hym, þat he shulde make to me redi an asse, and stiȝinge vp I myȝte goo wiþ þe kyng; forsoþe I þi seruaunt am halt.

xxvii Also and he accuside me, þi seruaunt, to þee, my lord kyng; forsoþe þou, my lord kyng, ert as þe aungel of God; do þat is plesyng to þee.

xxviii Forsoþe ne þe hows of mi fader was but gilty to þe deþ to my lord kyng; forsoþe þou puttist me þi seruaunt among þi meetfelawis of þi bord; what þanne haue I of ryȝtwise playnt, or what may I more be spoken of to þe kyng?

xxix Forsoþe þe kyng seiþ to hym, What more shalt þou speke? Stedefast it is þat I haue spoken; þou and Siba, dyuyde ȝe possessiouns.

xxx And Myphibosech answarde to þe kyng, Also al take he, aftir þat my lord þe kyng is turned aȝen pesiblly into his hows.

xxxi Forsoþe Berzellay Galadite, a ful olde man, comyng down fro Rogelym, ladde þe kyng ouer Jordan, redi also for to folwe hym biȝonde þe flood.

xxxii Forsoþe Berzellai Galadite was ful oolde, þat is, of fourscore ȝeer, and he ȝaf food to þe kyng, whanne he dwel lid in þe defensable placis; forsoþe he was a ful mych riche man.

xxxiii And so þe kyng seide to Berzellai, Come wiþ me, þat þou reste sikir wiþ me in Jerusalem.

xxxiv And Berzellai seiþ to þe kyng, How feele ben þe dayes of þe ȝeiris of my lijf, þat I stye vp wiþ þe kyng to Jerusalem?

xxxv Of foure scoore ȝeer I am to dai; wheþer my wittis þryuen to deme fwote or bittir, or meet and drynk may delite þi seruaunt, or I may here forþermore þe vois of men syngers and of wymmen syngers? Whi þi seruaunt be to charge to my lord kyng?

xxxvi A litil I shal goo forþ þi seruaunt fro Jordan wiþ þee, ne I nede þis while ȝeeldynge; xxxvii but I biseche, þat I turne aȝen þi seruaunt, and die in my citee, and be biried bifyde þe sepulcre of my fader and of my moder; forsoþe þere is þi seruaunt Chamaan; he go wiþ þee, my lord kyng, and do to hym þat semeþ to þee good.

xxxviii And so þe kyng seide to hym, Chamaan goo wiþ me; and I shal doo to hym what euer þing shal pleese to þee, and al þat þou askist of me, þou shalt geete.

xxxix And whanne al þe puple, and þe kyng was passid ouer Jordan, he restiede; and þe king kisſide Berzellai, and bleſſide to hym; and he turnede aȝen into his place.

xli Panne þe kyng wente into Galgalan, and Chamaan wiþ hym. Forsoþe al þe puple of Juda brouȝte ouer þe kyng, and of þe puple of Israel oonli þe half parti was at.

xlii And so alle þe men of Israel rennyng to þe kyng, feiden to hym, Whi oure briþeren, þe men of Juda, han stoln þee, and han brouȝt ouer Jordan þe kyng and his hows, and alle þe men of Dauid wiþ hym?

xliii And alle þe men of Juda anſwerden to þe men of Israel, For to me nerre is þe kyng; whi wrappiſt þou vpon þis þing? Wheþer we han eten eny þing of þe kyng, or ȝiftis to vs ben ȝeuen?

xliii And þe man of Israel anſwerde to þe men of Juda, and seiþ, Bi ten parties more I am anentis þe kyng, and more to me perteneþ Dauid þan to þee; whi haſt þou doo to me wronge, and it is not toold to me former, þat I brynge aȝen my kyng? Forsoþe harder anſwerden þe men of Juda þan þe men of Israel.

Capitulum XX.

i It felle forsoþe, þat þere was a man of Belial, Syba bi name, þe fone of Botry, a 'man of Gemyny; and he songe wiþ a trumpe, and seiþ, Þere is not to vs paart in Dauid, ne heritage in þe fone of Isay; turn aȝen into þi tabernaclis, Israel.

ii And al Israel ys feuered fro Dauid, and folwide Ciba, þe fone of Botri; þe men forsoþe of Juda cleueden to her kyng, fro Jordan vnto Jerusalem.

iii And whanne þe kyng was comen into his hows into Jerusalem, he took þe wymmen, and his ten fecoundarie wyues, þe whiche he hadde laſt to þe hows to be kept, and he took hem into waard, ȝyuyng foodis to hem; and he wente not into hem, but þei weren closid vnto þe dai of her dep, lyuyng in widewheed.

iv Forsoþe þe kyng seide to Amasa, Sleep to me alle þe men of Juda into þe þridde dai, and þou be to present. v Panne Amasa wente for to clepe Juda; and he dwelte out of þe couenaunt tyme þat þe kyng ordeynde to hym.

vi Forsoþe Dauid seiþ to Abisai, Now more Siba, þe fone of Botri, is to tourment vs þan Absolon; tak þerfor þe feruauntys of þi lord, and purſue hym, leſt perauenture he fynde þe citee strengþid, and flee awey fro vs.

vii Panne wente out wiþ hym þe men of Joab, Cerethi forsoþe and Pherethi, and alle þe stroonge men wenten out of Jerusalem to purſue Siba, þe fone of Botri.

viii And whanne þei waren biſide þe greet stoon, þat is in Gabaon, Amasa comyng aȝen cam to hem; forsoþe Joab was clopid wiþ a strait coote at þe mesure of his shap, and þere aboue gird wiþ a knyf hongyng vnto þe reyn gottys in þe sheeþe, þe which forgid wiþ liȝt meuyng myȝt goon out, and smyte.

ix And so Joab seide to Amasa, Heyl, my brother! And he heelde wiþ þe riȝt hoond þe chyn of Amasa, as kyffyng hym.

x Forsoþe Amasa weytide not wel þe knyf þat Joab hadde, þe which smoot hym in þe side, and shedde out þe gottis of hym into þe erþe, and is deed; ne þe secounde wounde he putte to. Forsoþe Joab and Abisay, his brother, purſueden Siba, þe fone of Botry.

xi Pere among sum men of þe children of Dauid, whanne þei hadde seen and stonden biſide þe careyn of Amasa, of þe felawis of Joab, feiden, Loo! þat wolde be for Joab, leder of Dauid.

xii Forsoþe Amasa spreyned wiþ blood laye in þe myddil weye. þat lawȝ a man, þat al þe puple stood ſtille to ſeen hym, and meuede a wey Amasa fro þe weye into þe feelde, and couerde hym wiþ a cloop, leſt þe goers ſhulden abide ſtille for hym.

xiii Panne hym meued fro þe weie, eche man folowynge Joab wente to purſue Siba, þe fone of Botri.

xiv But he paſſide þurȝ out alle þe lynagis of Yrael vnto Hebelam, and into Bethmacha; and alle þe chosen men weren gedrid to hym.

xv And so þei camen, and ſetten aȝens hym in Habela, and in Bethmacha, and enuyrounden þe citee wiþ ſtrengþis; and þe citee is bifegid. Forsoþe al þe puple, þat was wiþ Joab, enforſide to deſtriae þe wallis.

xvi And a wyfe womman crieđe out fro þe citee, Heriþ! seiþ to Joab, Neiȝ hidir, and I shal ſpeke wiþ þee.

xvii þe whych whanne he hadde neijid to hire, ſhe feide to hym, þou ert Joab? And he anſwerde, I. To whom þus ſhe ſpake, Here þe wordis of þin hoond womman. þe which anſwerde, I here.

xviii And eft ſhe, A word, the seiþ, was feide in olde prouerbe, Who afke, afken þei in Habela; and fo þei profiteden.

xix Wheþer I am not, þe which anſwere þe trewþe of Yrael? and þou ſechiſt to turne vpfedoun þe citee, and to doon awey þe moder of citees in Israel? whi beriſt þou doun þe herytage of þe Lord?

xx And Joab anſweryng seiþ, Aweie be, aweie be þis fro me; I bere not doun, ne deſtriae.

xxi Not ſo þe þing haþ hym; but a man of þe hil of Effraym, bi name Siba, þe fone of Botri, reride his hoond aȝens kyng Dauid; takiþ hym alone, and we ſhulen goo awey fro þe citee. And þe womman seiþ to Joab, Loo! his heed ſhal be ſente to þee bi þe walle.

xxii Panne ſhe wente into al þe puple, and ſpakte to hem wiſeli; þe which þe gird of heed of Siba, þe fone of Botri, caſten forþ to Joab. And he ſonge wiþ þe trompe, and þei wenten a wey fro þe citee, echon into her tabernaclis; forsoþe Joab turnyde aȝen to Jerusalem to þe kyng.

xxiii Panne Joab was vpon al þe oost of Israel; forsoþe Bananyas, þe sone of Joade, vpon Ceretheis and Pheretheis; xxiv Adhuram forsoþe vpon þe tributis; but Josaphat, þe sone of Achilud, þe chaunselere; xxv Siba forsoþe a scribe; forsoþe Sadoch and Abiathar prestis;

xxvi forsoþe Hira Hiracte was þe preest of Dauid.

Capitulum XXI.

i Forsoþe þere is doon hungre in þe dais of Dauid, þre ȝeer contynueli. And Dauid counseilde þe heuenli anfwere of þe Lord; and þe Lord seide, For Saul, and þe hows of hym, and þe blood, for he flewȝ Gabanytes.
ii Panne þe Gabanytis clepid, þe kyng seide to hem; forsoþe Gabanytis ben not of þe sonys of Israel, but þe relikis of Ammoreis; forsoþe þe sonys of Yrael hadden fworn to hem, þat þei shulen not flee hem, and Saul wolde smyte hem bi enuye, as for þe sonys of Israel and of Juda;

iii Panne Dauid seide to Gabanitis, What shal I doo to ȝou, and what shal be ȝoure amendys, þat ȝe blissen to þe heritage of þe Lord?

iv And Gabanytis seiden to hym, Þere is no questioun to vs vpon gold and siluer, but aȝens Saul, and þe hows of hym; and we wolen not, þat þere be slain a man of Israel. To whom þe kyng seip, What þanne wolen ȝe, þat I doo to ȝow?

v Þe whiche seiden to þe kyng, Þe man þat haþ defowlid vs, and oppresid wickidli, so we owen to doon awey, ne oon forsoþe be laft of þe lynage of hym in alle þe cooftis of Yrael.

vi Be þere ȝouun to vs feuen men of þe sonys of hem, þat we crucifien hem to þe Lord in Gabaa of Saul, sumtyme þe chosen of þe Lord. And þe kyng seip, I shal ȝeue.

vii And þe kyng sparide to Myphibosech, þe sone of Jonathan, þe sone of Saul, for þe oof of þe Lord, þat was betwix Dauid and Jonathan, þe sone of Saul.

viii And so þe kyng took two sonys of Respha, þe dowȝter of Ahia, whom she bare to Saul, Armoony, and Myphibosech; and 'of Mychol fyue sones, of þe dowȝter of Saul, whom she gat to Adriel, þe sone of Berzellay, þat was of Demolati.

ix And he ȝaf hem into þe hoondis of Gabanytis, þe which crucifieden hem in þe hil before þe Lord; and þes feuen flayn togidir fallen in þe dais of þe fyrist rijp, begynnynge þe repynge of barli.

x Forsoþe takyng Respha, þe dowȝter of Ahia, spradde abrood an heyre to hire on a stoon, fro þe bigynnynge of þe ryp to þe tyme þat watir droppide vpon hem fro heuene; and she suffride not breddis to teren hem bi þe day, ne beeftis bi þe nyȝt.

xi And þese þingis ben toold to Dauid, þe whiche dide Respha, þe douȝter of Ahia, þe secoundarye wif of Saul.

xii And Dauid ȝede, and took þe boonus of Saul, and þe boonus of Jonathan, his sone, of þe men of Jabel Galaad; 'þe which hadden stoln hem fro þe streete of Bethfan, in þe which Philisteis hadden hongid hem, whanne þei flewen Saul in Gelboe.

xiii And bare a wey þens þe boonus of Saul, and þe boonus of Jonathan, his sone; and þei gederynge togidir þe boonus of hem þat weren piȝt, xiv birieden hem wiþ þe boonus of Saul and Jonathan, his sone, in þe loond of Beniamyn, in þe fide in þe sepulcre of Cys, his fader. And þei diden alle þingis, þat þe kyng comaundide; and þe Lord dide mercy aȝen to þe loond after þes þingis.

xv Forsoþe þere is doon eft bateil of þe Philisteis aȝens Israel; and Dauid cam doun, and his feruauntis wiþ hym, and þei fauȝten aȝens Philisteis. Forsoþe Dauid failyngne, xvi Jefbidenob, þat was of þe kynrede of Arapha, whose yren of þe speere peiside þre hundrid vncis, and he was gird wiþ a newe swerd, 'enforaside to smyte Dauid.

xvii And Abisay, þe sone of Saruye, was to hym a focour; and þe Philistee smyten he flewȝ. Panne þe men sworen to Dauid, seiyng, Now þow shalt not goo out wiþ vs in to bateil, leſt þou quenche þe lanterne of Yrael.

xviii Þe fecounde bateil forsoþe was in Gob aȝens Philisteis; þanne he smoot Sobochai of Huzachizaph, of þe lynage of Arapha, of þe kynrede of geauntis.

xix Þe bridde bateil forsoþe was in Gob aȝens þe Philisteis; in þe which Adeodatis, þe sone of þe wijlde wode, leyer of dyuerse colours, Bethlamyte, smoot Goliath Gethee, whos shaft of þe speere was as a beem of websters.

xx Þe ferþe bateyl was in Geth; in þe which was an heeȝ man, þat hadde sexe fyngris in þe hoondis and feet, þat is, foure and twenti; and he was of þe kyn of Arapha;

xxi and he blasphemede in Yrael; forsoþe Jonathan, þe sone of Samaa, þe brother of Dauid, smoot hym.

xxii Þese foure ben born of Arapha in Jeth, and þei fallen in þe hoond of Dauid, and of his feruauntis.

Capitulum XXII.

i Forsoþe Dauid spak to þe Lord þe wordis of þis ditee, in þe day in þe which þe Lord delyuerde him fro þe hoond of alle his enemyes, and fro þe hoond of Saul.

ii And seip, Þe Lord my stoon, and my strengþ, and my faueour;

iii my God, my strong, and I shal hoop in hym; my sheeld, and þe horn of myn heelp, my rerer, and my refute; my saueour, fro wickidnes þou shalt delyuer me.

iii I shal inwardli clepe þe preyfable Lord; and fro myn enemyes I shal be saaf.

v For þere han enuyround me þe defoulyngis of deeþ; þe stremys of Belial fereden me.

vi þe coordis of helle enuryrouden me; þere wenten before me þe gnaris of deeþ.

vii In tribulacioun I shal inwardli clepe þe Lord, and to my God I shal crye; and he herde fro his hooli temple my vois, and my crye shal come to his eeris.

viii þe erþe is togidir meued, and tremblide; þe foundementis of hillis ben togidir smyten and squat, for he wraþþide to hem.

ix Smook stiede vp fro þe neesþrillis of hym, and fier fro his mouþ shal deuowre; þe colis ben brent vp of it.

x And he bowide heuenes, and cam doun; and mystynes vndur his feet.

xi And he stiede vpon cherubyn, and flowȝ; and flood vpon þe pennys of 'þe wynd.

xii He putte derknessis an hidlis in 'his enuyroun, wynnowyng e watriis of þe cloudis of heuenes;

xiii for þe liȝtynge in þe siȝt of hym ben brent vp þe coolis of fier.

xiv þe Lord shal þundre fro heuene; and þe Heiȝ shal ȝeue his voys.

xv He sente his arowis, and scatrede hem; leytis, and waſtid hem.

xvi And þere apperide þe out heeldyngis of þe see, and ben opened þe foundementis of þe world; fro þe blamynge of þe Lord, fro þe inbreþinge of þe spiryt of his woodnes.

xvii He sente fro an heiȝ, and took me; and drouȝ out me fro manye watriis.

xviii He delyuerde me fro myn enemye moost myȝti, and fro hem þat hatiden me; for þei weren stronger þan I.

xix þei camen before me in þe day of my tourmentyne; and þe Lord is maad my fastnyng.

xx And he ladde me out into widnes, and delyuerde me; for I pleside to hym.

xi I shal zeelde to me after my riȝtwisnes; and after þe clennessis of myn hoondis he shal quyit to me.

xxii For I haue kept þe weyes of þe Lord; and I dide not vnpiteuoulli fro my God.

xxiii Forsoþe alle þe domys of hym in my siȝt; and his heestis I mouede not a wey fro me.

xxiv And I shal be parfijt wiþ hym; and I shal kepe me fro my wickidnes.

xxv And þe Lord shal restore to me after my riȝtwisnes; and after þe clennessis of myn hoondis in þe siȝt of his eyen.

xxvi Wiþ þe hooli hooli þou shalt be, and wiþ þe stronge parfite;

xxvii and wiþ þe chosun chosun þou shalt be, and wiþ þe peruertid þou shalt be peruertid.

xxviii And þe pore puple þou shalt make saaf; and to þin eyen heiȝ þou shalt make meke.

xxix For þou, Lord, my lantern, and þou, Lord, shalt liȝtne my derkenessis.

xxx Into þee forsoþe I shall renne, gird vp; and in my God I shal ouerleep þe wal.

xxxi God, þe weye of hym vndefoulid; þe speche of þe Lord examynyd bi fier, a shelde is of alle þe hopers in hym.

xxxii For who is a God, saaf þe Lord; and who strong saaf oure Lord?

xxxiii God, þat girdide me wiþ strengþ, and planede perfyte my wey;

xxxiv euenyng e my feet to hertis, and vpon my heiȝ þingis fettinge me;

xxxv techyng e myn hoondis to bateil, and fettinge togider as a braſen boow myn armys.

xxxvi Pou ȝaf to me a target of þin help; and myn hoomlynes multiplieide me.

xxxvii þou shalt enlaarge my goyngis vndur me; and myn heelis shulen not fayle.

xxxviii I shal purſue myn enemyes, and treden; and I shal not turne aȝen, to þe tyme þat I waſt hem.

xxxix I shal waſt hem, and breek togidir, þat þei togidre risen not; þei shulen falle vndur my feet.

xl þou girdist me wiþ strengþe to batail; þow fulli bowedist þe aȝenſtondynge to me vndur me.

xli Myn enemyes þou ȝaf to me þe bak, hatynge me; and I shal scatere hem.

xlii þei shulen crye, and þere shal not be þat faue; to þe Lord, and he shal not here hem.

xliii I shal do hem a wey as powdre of þe erþe; and as cleye of streetis I shal breek hem, and to-flappe.

xliii þou shalt faue me fro þe aȝenfeiyingis of my puple; þou shalt kepe me into þe heed of folkis of kynde; þe puple, whom I knowe not, shal serue to me.

xlv Alyen sones shulen wiþ stoonde to me; in heryng e of þe eer þei shulen obeilhe to me.

xlivi Alien sones floweden doun; and þei shulen be drawnen togidre in her angwifhe.

xlvii þe Lord lyueþ, and bleſſide my God; and þe strong God of myn heelþ shal be enhaunſid.

xlviii God, þat ȝeuest veniaunces to me; and þrewe doun puplis vndur me.

xlix þe which ledist out me fro myn enemyes, and fro þe wiþſtoondynge to me arerist me; fro a wickid man þou shalt delyuer me.

l Perfor I shal knowlech to þee in folk of kynde, Lord; and to þi name I shal syng.

li Magnifiyng e heelpis of his kyng; and doyng e mercies to his crift Dauid, and into his seed euermore.

Capitulum XXIII.

i Forsoþe þes ben þe last wordis, þat Dauid, þe sone of Yſay, feide. A man feide, to 'whom þere is ordeynd of þe Crist of God of Jacob, a solempne salm maker of Yrael; ii þe spirite of þe Lord is spokyn bi me, and his word bi my tonge.

 iii He seyde, God of Yrael to me haþ spokyn, þe strong of Yrael, þe lordshipper of men, þe riȝtwise lordshipper in þe dreed of God.
 ivi As liȝt of morwtide, springinge þe funne eerli wiþ out clowdis, gliteriþ; and as bi reynes buriouneþ þe eerbe of þe erþe.
 v And not so mych is myn hows anentis God, þat euerlaftyng couenaunt he shulde goo yn wiþ me, stable in alle þingis and warnysshit; forsoþe al myn heelþ and al wil, ne þere is eny þing of it, þat ne buriowneþ.
 vi Brekers of þe lawe forsoþe as þornys shulen be pullid vp alle, þe whiche ben not takyn wiþ hoondis.
 vii And if eny man wolde touche hem, he shal be aarmyd wiþ yren, and speer tree; and wiþ fier tend vp, þei shulen be brent vnto nouȝt.
 viii Bes þe names of þe stronge men of Dauid. Dauid fittyng in þe chayer, mooft wife pryncie among þree; he is as a mooft tendre litil werme of a tree, þe which eiȝt hundrid flewȝ wiþ a bure.
 ix Aftir þis Eliazar, þe sone of his vnkle Abohy; among þe þree stronge, þat weren wiþ Dauid, whanne þei reprouden to Philisteym, and þei ben gederid bidir into bateil. And whanne þe men of Yrael hadden stiede vp, x he stood, and smoot þe Philisteis, to þe tyme þat his hoond failide, and wexe heuy wiþ þe swerd. And þe Lord dide greet heelþ in þat day; and þe purple þat fleiȝ is turned aȝen to þe spoilis of þe slayn men to be wiþdrawen.
 xi After þis Semma, þe sone of Age, of Arary. And Philisteis ben gedrid in þe stacioun; forsoþe þere was þere a feelde ful of corn; and whanne þe purple hadde floweren fro þe face of Philisteis, xii he stood in þe mydil of þe feeld, and rescuwid it; and he smoot þe Philisteis, and þe Lord made a greet heelþ.
 xiii Also and before wenten doun þe þree, þat weren princis amonge þretti, and camen in tyme of rijp to Dauid into þe spelunk of Odollam. Forsoþe þe tentis of Philisteis weren sett in þe valey of geauntis.
 xiv And Dauid was in þe strengþ; forsoþe þe stacioun of Philisteis þanne was in Bethlem.
 xv Dauid desiride þanne þe watir of þe laak, and seiþ, If eny man wolde ȝyue to me drynke of þe watir of þe fyftern, þat is in Bethleem, biside þe ȝaat.
 xvi Panne breken out þree stronge men þe tentis of Philisteis, and drewen water of þe fiftiern of Bethleem, þat was biside þe ȝaat, and brouȝten to Dauid; and he wolde not drynke, but offride it to þe Lord, xvii feiynge, Merciful be to me þe Lord, leſt Y doo þis; wheþer þe blood of þes men, þat ben goon forþ, and þe perile of lyues I shal drynke? Panne he wolde not drynke. Þes þingis diden þe þree mooft stronge.

 xviii Forsoþe Abifay, þe broþer of Joab, þe sone of Saruye, was prince of þe þree; he is þat reride his spere aȝens þre hundrid, whom he flewȝ, nemned in þe þree, xix and amoneg þe þree þe nobler, and he was þe prince of hem; but vnto þe þree first men he ful cam not.
 xx And Banayas, þe sone of Joiade, man mooft strong of greet werkes, of Capseel, he smoot þe two lyouns of Moab; and he cam doun, and smoot a lioun in þe mydil cistern in þe dais of snowȝ.
 xxi Forsoþe he flewȝ an Egipcian man worþi beholdinge, hauynge in þe hoond a spere; and so whanne he was comyn doun to hym in a ȝerd, bi force he pullide out þe spere fro þe hoond of þe Egipcien, and he flewȝ hym wiþ his speere.
 xxii Þes þingis dide Banayas, þe sone of Joiade; and he namyd amoneg þe þree stronge, xxiii þat weren amoneg þe þretti nobler; neuerþelater vnto þe þree he ful cam not. And Dauid made hym to hym a secretarie of pryuete.
 xxiv Afahel, þe broþer of Joab, among þe þretti; Elianan, þe sone of his eem, of Bethleem; xxv Seruma, of Arary; Elka, of Arodi; xxvi Helias, of Phelu; Hyra, þe sone of Aches, of Thekuia; xxvii Abiazer, of Anathoth; Nobanay, of Vsathi;
 xxviii Selmon Acothes; Macharoy Nethophatites; xxix Eled, þe sone of Baana, and he Nethophatite; Hitai, þe sone of Rabai, of Jebeeth, of þe sonis of Beniamyn; xxx Banai Affrotonyte; Heddai, of þe streem of Gaas; xxxi Albiabon Arbachite; Afmanech, of Berromy; xxxii Elyala, of Sobony; þe sones of Jonathan, and Jeson; xxxiii Semma, of Horodi; Hayam, þe sone of Saray, Saratite;
 xxxiv Elipheleth, þe sone of Saafbai, þe sonys of Maachati; Heliam, þe sone of Achitophel, Gilonyte; xxxv Efrai, of Carmel; Pharai, of Arbi; xxxvi Igaal, þe sone of Natha, of Soba; Bony, of Gaddi; xxxvii Selech, of Ammony; Naamy Berothite, þe squyer of Joab, þe sone of Saruye; xxxviii Ira Yatrite; Gareb, and he Yatrite; xxxix Vrie Ethee; alle, feuen and þretti.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And þe woodnes of þe Lord addide to be wroop aȝens Israel, and stiride Dauid in hem, seiyng to Joab, Go, and noumbre Yrael and Juda.
 ii And þe kyng seide to Joab, prince of his oost, Go þurȝ alle þe lynagis of Israel fro Dan vnto Bersabe, and noumbreþ þe purple, þat I knowe þe noumbre of it.

iii And Joab seide to þe kyng, Þe Lord þi God eeche to þi puple, as myche as it is now, and eft encrees it to þe hundred so myche in þe fīȝt of my lord þe kyng; but what to hym wole my lord þe kyng in siche a maner þing?

iv Forsoþe þe word of þe kyng hadde þe ouer hoond aȝens þe wordis of Joab, and of þe princis of þe oost; and Joab wente out, and þe princis of knyȝtis, fro þe face of þe kyng; `and þei noumbren þe puple `of Yrael.

v Whanne þei hadden paffid ouer Jordan, þei camen into Aroer, at þe riȝt half of þe citee þat is in þe valey of Gad;

vi and bi Jaser þei passiden into Galaad, and into þe neber loond of Odsi, and camen into þe wodi placis of Dan; and goyng about beside Sidon þei passiden nyȝ þe walles of Tyri, vii and al þe loond of Euey, and of Chananei; and þei camen into þe sowþ of Juda, into Bersabe.

viii And paffid al þe loond, þei weren after nyne moneȝis and twenty dais comen into Jerusalem.

ix Panne Joab ȝaf þe noumbe of þe discryuynge of þe puple to þe kyng. And þere ben founden of Yrael nyn hundrid þousandis of stronge men, `þe whiche myȝten drawe out swerd; and of Juda fyue hundrid þousandis of fīȝtyng men.

x Forsoþe þe herte of Dauid smoot hym, aftir þat þe puple is noumbred; Dauid seide to þe kyng, I haue synned greetli in þis deede; but I preye, Lord, þat þou bere ouer þe wickidnes of þi seruaunt, for foleti I haue doo to myche.

xi And so Dauid roos eerli, and þe word of þe kyng is maad to Gad, þe prophete and seear, seiyng, xii Go, and spek to Dauid, Þes þingis seip þe kyng, Of þree þingis to þee is ȝouun choys; chees oon, þat þou wolt of þes, þat I doo to þee.

xiii And whanne Gad was comen to Dauid, he toold to hym, Seiyng, Ouþer feuen ȝeer shal come to þee hungre in þi loond; or þree moneȝis þou shalt flee þin aduersaries, and þei shulen pursue þee; or certeyn þree days pestilence shal be in þi loond; now þanne delyuer, and see, what word I shal answere to hym þat sente me.

xiv Forsoþe Dauid seide to Gad, I am constreyned ful myche `on alle fides; but beter it is þat I falle into þe hoondis of þe kyng, forsoþe manye ben þe mercies of hym, þan in þe hoondis of men.

xv And þe kyng sente yn pestilence into Israel fro eerli vnto þe set tyme; and þere ben deed of þe puple fro Dan vnto Bersabee feuenti þousandis of men.

xvi And whanne þe aungel of þe kyng hadde strauȝt out his hoond vpon Jerusalem, þat he scater it, þe kyng hadde rewȝ vpon þe tourmentyng; and he seip to þe aungel ȝemyng þe puple, Yt suffilȝ now; wiþhoold þin hoond. Forsoþe þe aungel of þe kyng was beside þe corn flore of Arewna of Jebusei.

xvii And Dauid seide to þe kyng, whanne he hadde seen þe aungel fleynge þe puple, I am þat haue synned, and I wykidli dide; þes þat ben sheep, what diden þei? I biseche, be þin hoond turned aȝens me, and aȝens þe hows of my fader.

xviii Forsoþe Gad, þe prophete, cam to Dauid in þat day, and seide to hym, Sty vp, and ordeyn an auter to þe kyng in þe corn flore of Arewna of Jebusei.

xix And Dauid stiede vp, after þe word of Gad, þe which þe kyng hadde comaundide to hym.

xx And beholdyng Arewne vndurstoode þe kyng and his seruauntis to comen ouer to hym; and, goon out, he honourde þe kyng, bowid þe cheere into þe erþe;

xxi and seip, What of cause is, þat my lord þe kyng comeþ to his seruaunt? To whom Dauid seip, þat I bye of þee þe corn flore, and bilde an auter to þe kyng, and cees þe flauȝter, þat is ful plenteuous in þe puple.

xxii And Arewna seip to Dauid, Tak, and offre my lord kyng, as it pleſip to him; hast þou oxen into brent sacrifice, and a wayn, and ȝockis of oxen into þe vle of trees?

xxiii Arewna ȝaf alle þingis to þe kyng. And Arewna seide to þe kyng, Þe Lord þi God take þi vowe.

xxiv To whom answeringe þe kyng seip, Not as þou wolt, but I shal bye bi prijs of þee, and I shal not offre to þe kyng my God brent sacrifice freeli ȝeuen. Þan Dauid bouȝte þe corn flore for sexe hundrid fliclis of gold, and þe oxen for fifti fliclis of siluer.

xxv And Dauid bilde þere an auter to þe kyng, and he offride brent sacrifices and pesible; and þe kyng is pleſid aȝen to þe loond, and þe veniaunce is forfendyd fro Yrael.

Here endiþ þe secounde book of Kingis, and bigynneþ þe þridde book.

III. KYNGIS.

Here bigynneþ þe þridde book of Kyngis.

Capitulum I.

i And kyng Dauid hadde eeldid, and he hadde of age manye dais; and whanne he was couerd wiþ cloþis, he was not maad hoot.

ii Panne his seruauntis feiden to hym, Seche we to oure lord kyng a ȝong wexen mayden; and stonde she before þe kyng, and fede she hym, and sleep in his bosum, and make she hoot oure lord kyng.

iii Panne þei souȝten a fayre ȝong womman in alle þe cooftis of Israel; and þei founden Abifaag Sunamytem, and brouȝten her to þe kyng.

iv Forsoþe she was a child womman fayr ful mych, and she slepte wiþ þe kyng, and seruede to hym; forsoþe þe kyng knewe hyre not.

v Forsoþe Adonyas, þe sone of Agith, was reryd vp, feiynge, I shal regne. And he made to hym a chaar, and horfmen, and fifti men, þat before him shulden renne.
vi And his fadir vndurnam not hym eny tyme, feiynge, Whi þus diddist þou? Forsoþe and he was ful fayr, þe fecound born after Absolon; vii and þe word of hym wiþ Joab, þe sone of Saruye, and wiþ Abiathar, preeft, þat helpiden þe parties of Adonye.
viii Forsoþe Sadoch, þe preeft, and Banayas, þe sone of Joiade, and Nathan, þe prophete, and Semei, and Cerethi, and Pherethi, and al þe strengþ of þe oost of Dauid, was not wiþ Adonye.
ix Panne weþers, and calues, and alle þe fat offrid biside þe stoon of Zoelach, þat was nyȝ to þe welle of Rogel, Adonyas clepede alle his briþeren, þe sones of þe kyng, and alle þe men of Juda, seruauntis of þe kyng.
x Forsoþe Nathan, þe prophet, and Banaye, and alle þe stronge men, and Salomon, his broþer, he clepide not.
xi And so Nathan seide to Bersabe, þe modir of Salomon, Wheþer haſt þou herd, þat Adonyas, þe sone of Agith, haþ regnyd, and oure lord Dauid þes þingis vnknowiþ?
xii Now þanne come, and tak counseil of me, and faue þi liȝt, and of þi sone Salomon.
xiii Go, and weend in to kyng Dauid, and sey to him, Wheþer not þou, lord, my kyng, swore to me þin hoond womman, feiynge, þat Salomon þi sone shal regne aftir me, and he shal sitte in my see? Whi þanne regneþ Adonya?
xiv And ȝit þere þee spekyng wiþ þe kyng, I shal come after þee, and fulfil þi wordis.
xv And so Bersabe is goon yn to þe kyng in þe bedplace; forsoþe þe kyng hadde eeldid ful myche, and Abisaag Sunamyte seruede to him.
xvi Berfabe bowid hir, and honourde þe king; to whom þe king, he seiþ. What wolt þou to þee?
xvii Þe which answerynge seiþ, My lord kyng, þou swore bi þe Lord þi God to þin hoond womman, Salomon þi sone shal regne after me, and shal sitte in my see; xviii and loo! now Adonye haþ regned, þee, my lord kyng, vnknowyng;
xix he haþ flayn oxen, and alle þe fatte, and manye weþers; and clepide alle þe sones of þe kyng, and Abiathar, þe preeft, and Joab, þe prince of þe chyualrie; forsoþe Salomon, þi seruaunt, he clepide not.
xx Neuerþelater, my lord kyng, in þee þe eyen of al Yrael beholden, þat þou deme to hem, who owiþ to fit in þi see, my lord kyng, aftir þee;
xxi and it shal be, whanne my lord kyng shal sleep wiþ his faders, I and my sone Salomon shulen be synful.
xxii ȝit she spekyng wiþ þe kyng, Nathan, þe prophete, cam.

xxiii And men toolden to þe kyng, feiynge, Nathan, þe prophete, is nyȝ. And whanne he was comen in þe siȝt of þe kyng, and hadde honourde hym redi into þe erþe, xxiv Nathan feide, My lord kyng, haſt þow seide, Adonye regne after me, and he sitte vpon my trone?
xxv For he cam doun to day, and offride oxen, and fatte þingis, and manye weþers; and clepide alle þe sonys of þe kyng, and þe prince of þe oost, and Abiathar, þe preeft; and hem etynge, and drynkyng before hym, and feiynge, Lyue þe kyng Adonye, xxvi me, þi seruaunt, and Sadoch, þe preeft, and Benanye, þe sone of Joiade, and Salomon, þi sone, he clepide not.
xxvii Wheþer of my lord þe kyng wente out þis word, and to me, þi seruaunt, þou shewedist not, who shulde be to sitte vpon þe trone of my lord kyng after hym?
xxviii And kyng Dauid answerde, feiynge, Clepiþ to me Bersabe. Þe which whanne was goon in before þe kyng, and hadde stoonden before hym, xxix þe king swore, and seiþ, Be Lord lyueþ, þat haþ delyuerd my soule fro al angwisch;
xxx for as I swore to þee bi þe Lord God of Israel, feiynge, Salomon, þi sone, shal regne after me, and he shal sitte vpon my see after me, so I shal do to day.
xxxi And Bersabe, þe cheere put doun into þe erþe, honourde þe kyng, feiynge, Lyue my lord kyng Dauid wiþ outen eende.
xxxii And kyng Dauid seide, Clepiþ to me Sadoch, þe preeft, and Nathan, þe prophete, and Banayam, þe sone of Joiade. Þe welche whanne þei weren comyn yn before þe kyng, xxxiii þe king seide to hem, Takiþ wiþ ȝou þe seruauntis of ȝoure lord, and puttih my sone Salomon vpon my mule, and ledih hym into Gion.
xxxiv And anoynte hym þere Sadoch, þe preeft, and Nathan, þe prophete, into kyng vpon Yrael 'and Juda; and ȝe shulen syng wiþ trompe, and seye, Lyue þe king Salomon!
xxxv And ȝe shulen stye vp after hym, and come to Jerusalem; and he shal sitte vpon my see, and he shal regne for me; and to hym I shal comaunde, þat he be duyk vpon Israel and upon Juda.
xxxvi And Banayas, þe sone of Joiade, answerde to þe kyng, feiynge, Amen; þus speke þe Lord God of my lord þe kyng.
xxxvii What maner wife þe Lord was wiþ my lord þe kyng, so be he wiþ Salomon, and heiȝer make he þe see of hym fro þe see of my lord kyng Dauid.
xxxviii Panne Sadoch, þe preeft, wente doun, and Nathan, þe prophete, and Banayas, þe sone of Joyade, and Cerethi, and Pherethi; and putten Salomon vpon þe mule of Dauid, þe kyng, and brouȝten hym into Gion.
xxxix And Sadoch, þe preeft, took an horn of oyle fro þe tabernacle, and anoyntide Salomon; and þei fungen cam.

wiþ þe trompe; and al þe puple seide, Lyue þe kyng Salomon!

xli And al þe multitude steyede vp after hym, and þe puple of men syngynge wiþ trompis, and 'of gladyng wiþ greet ioye; and þe erþe 'wiþ ynne sownede of þe crye of hem.

xlii Forsoþe Adonyas herde, and alle þat weren beden 'to mete of hym; and now þe feest was eendid. But and Joab, þe voys herd of þe trompe, seip, What to hym wole þe crye of þe citee makyng noys?

xliii ȝit hym spekyng, Jonathan, þe sone of Abiathar, þe preest, cam; to whom seide Adonyas, Go yn, for a strong man þou ert, and good þingis tellynge.

xliiiii And Jonathan answarde to Adonye, Nay; forsoþe þe lord oure kyng Dauid hab ordeyned Salomon kyng; xliiiiiii and sente wiþ hym Sadoch, þe preest, and Nathan, þe prophete, and Banayam, þe sone of Joyade, and Cerethi, and Pherethi; and putten hym vpon þe mule of þe kyng.

xlv And Sadoch, þe preest, and Nathan, þe prophet, anoyntiden hym kyng in Gion; and gladyng þei stieden þens, and þe cite wiþ ynne sownede; þis is þe voys þat ȝe herden.

xlii But and Salomon fitte vpon þe see of þe rewme; xliii and þe seruauntis of þe kyng goon yn, blesſiden to oure lord kyng Dauid, seiyng, God more large þe name of Salomon vpon þi name, and magnifie þe trone of hym vpon þi trone. And kyng Dauid honourde in his bed; xliiiii and ferþermore þes þingis spak, Bleſſid þe Lord God of Yrael, þat ȝaf to day a fitter in my see, seyng myn eyen.

xliix Panne þei ben agaist, and alle risen, þat weren bodyn 'to meete of Adonye, and echon ȝeede into his weie.

i Forsoþe Adonyas, dredynge Salomon, roos, and ȝeed into þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and heelde þe horn of þe auter.

ii And þei toolden to Salomon seyyng, Loo! Adonyas dredynge kyng Salomon, holdip þe horn of þe auter, seiyng, Swere to me to dai kyng Salomon, þat he shal not fle his seruaunt bi ſword.

iii And Salomon seide, If he were a good man, þere shal not falle forsoþe an heere of hym in to þe erþe; forsoþe if yuel were foundun in hym, he shal die.

iv Panne kyng Salomon fente, and brouȝte hym out fro þe auter; and goon yn, he honourde king Salomon; and Salomon seide to hym, Go into þin hows.

Capitulum II.

i Forsoþe þe days of Dauid neijiden þat he shulde die; and he comaundide to Salomon, his sone, seiyng, Loo!

ii I weende into þe weye of al erþe; tak coumfort, and be a strong man.

iii And keep wel þe waardis and þe heefis of þe Lord þi God, þat þou goo in þe weyes of hym, and kepe þe cerymonyes of hym, and þe heefis of hym, and domys, and witnessyngis, as it is writyn in þe lawe of Moyses; þat þou vndurstonde al þat þou doſt, and whidir euer þou turne þee.

iv Pat þe Lord conferme his wordis, 'þe whiche þe Lord spak of me, seiyng, If þi sonys kepen my weyes, and goon before me in treup, and in al her hert, and in al her soule, þere shal not be doon away to þee a man fro þe kyngis feete of Israel.

v Forsoþe þou haſt knowun what þingis Joab, þe sone of Saruye, dide to me; what he dide to þe two princis of þe oost of Israel, to Abner, þe sone of Ner, and to Amasi, þe sone of Gether, whom he flewȝ, and shadde þe blood of þe batayl in pees; and putte þe blood of þe batail in his girdyl, þat was about his leendis, and in his shoo, þat was in his feet.

vi Panne þou shalt do after þi wiſdam, and þou shalt not bryng doun þe hoornes of hym peſibl to hellis.

vii But and to þe sones of Berzellay Galadite þou shalt ȝeilde grace, and þei shulen be etyng in þi bord; forsoþe þei camen aȝen to me, whanne I fleiȝ fro þe face of Absolon, þi broþer.

viii And þou haſt anentis þee Semei, þe sone of Gera, þe sone of Gemyny, of Bahurym, þat curside to me bi þe werſt curſyng, whanne I wente to þe defenſable placys; but for he cam doun to me into aȝen comynge, whanne I shulde paſſe Jordan, and I fwore to hym bi þe Lord, seiyng, I shal not fle þee bi ſwerd, ix þou wole not ſuffre hym to be harmles; forſoþe a wife man þou art, and þou shalt knowe what þou shalt doo to hym, and þou shalt lede doun his hoor heeris wiþ blood to helle.

x Forsoþe Dauid flepte wiþ his faders, and is biried in þe citee of Dauid.

xi Forsoþe þe days, in þe whiche Dauid regnede vpon Yrael, ben fourti ȝeer; in Ebron he regnede feuen ȝeer, and in Jerusalem þree and þretti.

xii Salomon forsoþe sat vpon þe troone of Dauid, his fader, and þe rewme of hym is fastned ful mych.

xiii And Adonyas, þe sone of Agith, ȝeede into Berlabe, þe moder of Salomon; þe which feide to hym, Wheþer peſible þin yncomynge? Þe which answarde, Peſible.

xivii And he addide, A word to me is to þee. To whom shal seip, Spek.

xv And he, þou, he seip, knewe for þe rewme was wiþ me, and al Israel purpoſide to make me into a kyng to hym; but þe rewme is tranſlatid, and is maad of my broþer; of þe Lord forsoþe it is ordeynd to hym.

xvi Now þanne oon askyng Y preye of þee; ne confounde þou my face. Þe which feide to hym, Spek.

xvii And he seip, Y preye þat þou leye to Salomon þe kyng; forsoþe ne to þee he may eny þing denye; þat he ȝyue to me Abisaag Sunamyte wijf.

xviii And Bersabe seiþ, Wel, Y shal speke for þee to þe kyng.

xix Panne Bersabe cam to kyng Salomon, þat shal speke to hym for Adonye; and þe kyng roos into þe azencomynge of hire, and he honourde hire, and he fatte vpon his troone; and þere is sett a troone to þe moder of þe kyng, þe which sat at þe riȝt side of hym.

xx And sche seide to hym, Oon litil askynge I preye of þee; ne confounde þou my face. And þe kyng seide to hire, Aſk, moder myn; forsoþe ne leeueful it is þat I turne awey þi face.

xxi Þe which seiþ, Abisaag Sunamyte be ȝouen to Adonye, þi broþer, a wif.

xxii And kyng Salomon answerde, and seide to his moder, Whi askift þou Abisaag Sunamyte to Adonye? Aſk 'to hym and þe kyngdam; forsoþe he is my broþer more þan I, and haþ Abiathar, þe preest, and Joab, þe sone of Saruye.

xxiii And so kyng Salomon swore bi þe Lord, seiyng, Þeſe þingis do to me God, and þes þingis adde, for aȝens his liȝt Adonye haþ spoken þis word.

xxiv And now lyueþ þe Lord, þat confermyde me, and sette me vpon þe see of Dauid, my fader, and þat made to me an hows, as he spak, for to day Adonye shal be flayn.

xxv And kyng Salomon sente bi þe hoond of Banaye, þe sone of Joiade; þe which flewȝ hym, and is deed.

xxvi Forsoþe þe kyng seide to Abiathar, þe preest, Go into Anathot, to þi feelde; and forsoþe a man of deeþ þou art; but to day I shal not fle þee, for þou bere þe arke of þe Lord God before Dauid, my fader, and þou fussteynedist traueyle in alle þingis, in þe whiche traueilde my fader.

xxvii Panne Salomon made Abiathar, þat he was not þe preest of þe Lord, þat þe word of þe Lord were fulfillid, þe which he spak vpon þe hows of Hely, in Silo.

xxviii Forsoþe þere cam a messenger to Salomon, þat Joab was bowid doun after Adonye, and after Salomon hadde not bowid. Panne Joab fleiȝ into þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and cauȝte þe horn of þe auter.

xxix And it is toold to kyng Salomon, þat Joab hadde flowen into þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and was biside þe auter; and Salomon fente Banaye, þe sone of Joiade, seiyng, Go, and fle hym.

xxx And Banaye cam to þe tabernacle of þe Lord, and seide to hym, Þes þingis seiþ þe kyng, Go out. Þe which seiþ, I shal not goo out, but here I shal die. Banayas toolde aȝen to þe kyng þe word, seiyng, Þes þingis spak Joab, and þes þingis answarde he to me.

xxxi And þe kyng seide to hym, Do as he spak, and fle hym, and birye; and þou shalt doo awey þe innocent blood, þat is thad of Joab, fro me, and fro þe hows of my fader.

xxxii And þe Lord ȝeilde vpon his heed þe blood of hym, for he flewȝ two riȝtwise men betere þan hym self, and he killide hem bi sward, Dauid, my fader, vnknowyng, Abner, þe sone of Ner, þe prince of þe chyualrie of Israel, and Amasam, þe sone of Gether, prince of þe oost of Juda.

xxxiii And þe blood of hem shal turne aȝen into þe heed of Joab, and into þe heed of þe seed of him in to euermore; forsoþe to Dauid, and to his seed, and to þe hows 'of hym, and to þe troone of hym be pees of þe Lord into wiþouten eende.

xxxiv And so Banaye, þe sone of Joiade, stieid vp, and wente to, and flewȝ hym; and he is biryed in his hows in desert.

xxxv And þe kyng ordeynede for hym Banaye, þe sone of Joiade, vpon þe oost; and Sadoch he sette preest for Abiathar.

xxxvi Forsoþe þe kyng fente, and clepide Semei, and seide to hym, Bild vp to þee howlis in Jerufalem, and dwel þere, and þou shalt not goo out þens hidir and þider;

xxxvii forsoþe whateuere day þou were goon out, and paffist ouer þe streem of Cedron, wite þou þee to be flayn; þi blood shal be vpon þin heed.

xxxviii And Semei seide to þe king, Good is þe word of þe kyng; as my lord kyng haþ spokyn, so þi seruaunt shal doo. And so Semei dwellide in Jerufalem manye dais.

xxxix It is doon forsoþe after þree ȝeer, þat þe seruaunts of Semei flowen to Achis, þe sone of Macha, þe kyng of Geth; and it is toold to Semei, þat his seruaunts weren goon in to Geth.

xl And Semei roos, and greiþide his aſſe, and wente to Achis, into Geth, to his seruaunts to be fouȝt; and he brouȝte hem aȝen fro Geth.

xli It is toold forsoþe to kyng Salomon, þat Semei was goon to Geth fro Jerufalem, and was turned aȝen.

xlii And sendyng he clepide hym, and seide to hym, Wheþer Y witneſſide not to þee bi þe Lord, and before feide to þee, What euer dai þou were goon out hidir and þidir, wite þou þee to be to die; and þou answardeſt to me, Good is þe word þat I herde?

xliii Whi panne kepist þou not þe oof þe Lord, and þe heelft þat I comaundide to þee?

xlvii And þe kyng seide to Semei, Pou haſt knowun al þe yuel, of þe which þin herte is gilti to þee, þe which þou diddist to Dauid, my fader; þe Lord haþ ȝolden þi malice into þin heed.

xlii And kyng Salomon blifſide; and þe troone of Dauid shal be stable before þe Lord vnto euermore.

xliii And so þe kyng comaundide to Banaye, þe sone of Joiade; þe which stert to, smoot hym, and he is deed.

Capitulum III.

i Thanne þe rewme is confermyd into þe hoondis of Salomon; and bi affynyte he is ioyned to Pharao, þe kyng of Egipt; forsoþe he took his douȝter, and brouȝte into þe cite of Dauid, to þe tyme þat he hadde fulfillid beeldynge his hows, and þe hows of þe Lord, and þe wal of Jerusalem bi enuyroun.

ii Neuerþelater þe puple offride in heiȝ placis; forsoþe þe temple was not beildid to þe name of þe Lord vnto þat dai.

iii Forsoþe Salomon louede þe Lord, goyng in þe heeftis of Dauid, his fader, out taak þat in heiȝ placis he offrede, and tende vp þe maad encenze.

iv And so Salomon wente into Gabaon, þat he offre þere; forsoþe þat was þe moost heiȝ place. Salomon offride a þousand oostis into brent sacrifice vpon þat auter in Gabaon.

v Forsoþe þe Lord aperide to Salomon bi sleepe þe nyȝt, seiynge, Asl þat þou wolt, þat I ȝyue to þee.

vi And Salomon seiþ, Pou didist wiþ þi seruaunt, my fader Dauid, greet mercy, as he wente in þi siȝt, in treub and in riȝtwisnes, and in riȝt herte wiþ þee; þou haft kept to hym þi greet merci, and haft ȝeuuen to hym a sone, fittyng vpon his troone, as it is to dai.

vii And now, Lord God, þou haft maad þi seruaunt to regne for Dauid, my fader; forsoþe I am a litil child, and vnknowynge þe goyng out and myn yncomyng.

viii And þi seruaunt is in þe mydil of þe puple, whom þou haft chosun, of a puple wiþ out eende, þat may not be noumbred and geffid, for multitude.

ix Panne þou shalt ȝyue to þi seruaunt an able herte to lore, þat he may deme þi puple, and knowe betwix good and yuel; forsoþe who may deme þis puple, þi puple þus myche?

x Panne þe word plefide before þe Lord, þat Salomon hadde alkid siche a maner þing.

xi And þe Lord feide to Salomon, For þou askedist þis word, and alkidist not to þee manye dais, ne ritcheſſis, obere þe lyues of þin enemyes, but þou askedist to þee wiſdam to knowe doom, loo!

xii I haue doon to þee after þi wordis, and ȝeuuen to þee a wiſe herte and an vndurstondynge, in so myche þat noon before þee were lijk þee, ne aftir þee ben to ryse.

xiii But and þes þingis, þe whiche þou alkydist not, I haue ȝeuuen to þee, þat is, ritcheſſis, and glorie, þat noon were lijk to þee in kyngis alle dais after.

xiv Forsoþe if þou goſt in my weies, and kepist myn heeftis, and my comaundementis, as wente þi fader, long I ſhal make þi dais.

xv Panne Salomon wook vp, and vndurſtood þat it was a ſweuen. And whanne he was comen to Jeruſalem, he ſtood before þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord, and offride brent ſacrifices, and made flayn peſible ſacrifices, and a greet feſte to alle his ſeruauntis.

xvi Panne camen two wymmen ſtrompettis to þe kyng, and ſtoden before hym;

xvii of þe whiche oon seiþ, I bifeche, my lord, I and þis womman dwelliden in oon hows, and I bare child anentis hire in þe bed.

xviii þe þridde forſoþe day after þat I bare, bare and þis; and we weren togidir, and noon obere in þe hows wiþ vs, out takun vs two.

xix Forſoþe þe ſone of þis womman is deed to nyȝt, for ſlepynghe ſhe ouerlaye hym; xx and riſynghe wiþ silence of þe vnkouenable niȝt, ſhe took my ſone fro myn syde, of þin hond womman ſlepinge, and leide it in hir bosum; hir ſone forſoþe, þat was deed, ſhe put in to my bosum.

xi And whan I was riſyn eerli, for to ȝyue milk to my ſone, he ſemyde deed; whom bifier lokinge bi þe cleer liȝt, I perſeyuede not be myn, whom Y gat.

xxii þe toþer womman anſwerde, It is not ſo as þou ſeift, but þi ſone is deed; forſoþe myn lyueþ. And aȝenward ſhe feide, þou lieȝt; forſoþe my ſone lyueþ, and þi ſone is deed. And ſo in þis maner þei ſtryuen before þe kyng.

xxiii Panne þe kyng ſeiþ, þis ſeiþ, My ſone lyueþ, and þi ſone is deed; and ſhe anſwerde, Nay, but þi ſone is deed; `myn forſoþe lyueþ.

xxiv Panne þe kyng ſeide, Bryngiþ to me a ſwert. And whanne þei hadde brouȝt a ſwert before þe kyng, xxv Deuydiþ, he ſeiþ, þe quyk child in two parties, and ȝyueþ þe half part to þe toon, and þe half part to þe toþir.

xxvi Forſoþe þe womman, whos was þe quyk child, ſeiþ to þe kyng; for þe bowels of her ben ſtiryd vpon hire ſone; Lord, I bifeche, ȝife to hir þe quyk child, and wolij not fle hym. Aȝenward ſhe feide, Ne to me, ne to þee be he, but be he deuydide.

xxvii þe kyng anſwerde, and ſeiþ, ȝyueþ to þis womman þe quik child, and be he not flayn; forſoþe þis is his modir.

xxviii And ſo al Yrael herde þe dome, þat he hadde demyde; and þei dradden þe kyng, ſeyng he wiſdam of God to ben in hym, `to do doom.

Capitulum IIII.

i Forſoþe kyng Salomon was regnyng vpon al Yrael.

ii And þes ben þe princis þat he hadde; Azarias, þe ſone of Sadoch, þe preeſt;

iii Elyoreb, and Ahia, ſones of Sila, ſcribe; Josaphat, þe ſone of Achilud, chaunfelere;

iv Banayas, þe ſone of Joiaſe, vpon þe ooft; forſoþe Sadoch and Abiathar, preeſtis;

v Azarias, þe ſone of Nathan, vpon hem þat ſtoðen nyȝ to þe kyng; Zabul, þe ſone of Nathan, a preeſt, freend of þe kyng;

vi Ahiazar, prouoſt of þe hows; and Adonyram, þe ſone of Adda, vpon þe tributis.

vii Forſoþe Salomon hadde twelue ouerfeers vpon al Yrael, þat ȝeuuen corn to þe kyng, and to his hows; forſoþe bi þe moneþis arowe in þe ȝeer, þei a rowe mynystreden necessarijs.

viii And þes þe names of hem; Benhur, in þe mount of Effraym; ix Bendekar, in Mactes, and in Salebbym, and in Bethfames, and in Helon, and in Bethanan; x Beneſech, and in Araboth; of hym forſoþe was Socco, and al þe loond of Eefer; xi Benabidanab, of whom al Neptad; Dorthafaed, þe douȝter of Salomon, he hadde to wif.
xii Bena, þe sone of Achilud, gouernede Thaneth, Amageddo, and al Bethfan, þat is beside Sarthana, vndur Jezmel, fro Bethfan vnto Abelmeula, 'forn aȝens Selmaan.
xiii Bengaber in Ramoth Galaad hadde Anothiair, of þe sone of Manaffe, in Galaad; he gouernede in al þe regioune of Argob, þat is in Basan, to sexti greet citees and wallid, þat hadden brasen lockis.
xiv Achymadab, þe sone of Addo, rewlide in Manahym; xv Achymaas, in Neptaly, but and he hadde Bachfemath, þe douȝter of Salomon, in mariage; xvi Bena, þe sone of Husi, in Aſer, and in Balod; xvii Josaphat, þe sone of Pharue, in Yſachar; xviii Semei, þe sone of Hela, in Beniamyn; xix Gaber, þe sone of Sury, in þe loond of Galaad, and in þe loond of Seon, kyng of Amorrey, and of Og, þe kyng of Basan, vpon alle þingis þat weren in þat loond.
xx Juda and Yrael ben vnnoumbrable, as þe grauel of þe see in multitude, etyng, and drynkyng, and gladyng.
xxi Forſoþe Salomon was in his power, hauyng alle þe rewmes, as fro þe flood of þe loond of Philistis vnto þe eende of Egyp̄t, of men offryng to hym ȝiftis, and of feruynge to hym alle þe days of his liȝt.
xxii Forſoþe þe meet of Salomon was bi eche day, þretti choris of tried floure, and sexti choris of meeble, xxiii ten fatte oxen, twenti 'leſewed oxen, and an hundred weþeris, 'out taak huntyng of hertis, and of goot, and of buglis, and of fed foulis.
xxiv Forſoþe he helde al þe regioune þat was beȝonde þe flood, as fro Capsa vnto Gafan, and alle þe kingis of þat regioune; and he hadde pees on al fide in enuyroun.
xxv And Juda dwellide and Yrael wiþ outen eny drede, echon vndur his vyn, and vndur his fiyg tree, fro Dan vnto Berfabee, alle þe dais of Salomon.
xxvi And Salomon hadde fourti þousand cratchis of chaare hors, and twelue þousand of ridynge hors; xxvii and þe forſeid ouerſeers of þe kyng noriſheden hem. But and þe necessarijs of kyng Salomon bord þei ȝauen wiþ greet bifynes in her tyme;
xxviii forſoþe barli, and chaf of hors, and of beeftis þei brouȝten into þe place, where þe kyng was, aftir þe settyngne to hem.
xxix Forſoþe God ȝaf wiſdam to Salomon, and myche prudence ful greetli, and laargeneſſe of herte, as grauel þat is in þe brek of þe see.

xxx And þe wiſdam of Salomon wente before þe wiſdam of alle þe eest men, and of Egipciens; xxxi and he was wiser þan alle men; wiſer þan Ethan Eſrayte, and þan Eman, and þan Cacal, and þan Dorda, þe fones of Maol; and he was nemned in alle þe gentylis bi enuyroun.
xxxii And Salomon ſpak þre þousand parablis, and þe ditees of hym were fyue þousand; xxxiii and he diſputide vpon þe trees, fro þe cedar þat is in Liban, vnto þe yſoop þat goþ out of þe wal; and he tretyde of þe beeftis, and foulis, and of crepyng beeftis, and of filſhis. xxxiv And þere camen of alle puplis to þe wiſdam of Salomon to be herde, and of alle kyngis of erþe, þe whiche herden þe wiſdam of hym.

Capitulum V.

i Forſoþe Iram, þe kyng of Tirye, ſente his feruauntis to Salomon; forſoþe he herde þat men hadden annoyntid hym kyng for his fader; for Yram was freend of Dauid al tyme.
ii Forſoþe and Salomon ſente to Yram, feiynge, iii þou wouſt þe wil of my fader Dauid, and for he myȝte not bilde vp an hows to þe name of his God, for þe batailis oncomyng bi enuyroun, to þe tyme þat þe Lord ȝaf hem vndur þe ſtep of his feet.
iv Forſoþe now þe Lord my God haþ ȝouen rest to me bi enuyroun, and þere is not Sathan, ne yuel aȝencomyng;
v for what þing I þenke to beeld a temple to þe name of þe Lord my God, as God ſpak to my fader, feiynge, þi ſone, whom I ſhal ȝyue to þee for þee vpon þi ſeete, he ſhal beelde to my name an hows.
vi Panne comaund, þat þei hewen to me cedrys of Liban; and my feruauntis ben wiþ þi feruauntis; forſoþe þe mede of þi feruauntis I ſhal ȝyue to þee, what euer þou aſkiſt; forſoþe þou wouſt þat þere is not in my puple a man, þat kan hewe trees, as Sidonys.
vii Whanne þanne Iram hadde herd þe wordis of Salomon, he gladide greetli, and ſeiþ, Bleſſid be þe Lord God to day, þat ȝaf to Dauid a moost wife ſone vpon þis myche puple.
viii And Yram ſente to Salomon, feiynge, I haue herd alle þingis þat þou ſentist to me; I ſhal doo al þi wil, in cedre trees, and in firris.
ix My feruauntis ſhulen doo hem down fro þe wode to þe see, and I ſhal make hem togidre in ſhippis in þe see, vnto þe place þe which þou ſhalt signyfyne to me; and I ſhal leye hem to þee, þat þou take hem; and þou ſhalt ȝyue necessaryes to me, þat meete be ȝouen to myn hows.
x And fo Yram ȝaf to Salomon cedre trees and firre trees, after al þe wil of hym; xi forſoþe Salomon ȝaf to Yram twenti þousand choris of whete into mete to his hows, and twenti choris of moost pure oyle; þes þingis Salomon ȝaf to Yram bi eich ȝeer.

xii And þe Lord ȝaf wifdam to Salomon, as he spak to hym; and þere was betwix Iram and Salomon pees, and boþe smyten couenant of pees.
xiii And king Salomon chees werkmen of al Ifrael; and þe moustre was þretti þousandis of men.
xiv And he sente hem into þe wode, ten þousand bi eche moneþ whilmele, so þat two moneþis whilmele þei weren in her howfis; and Adonyram was vpon fiche a maner gedrynge of men.
xv And so to Salomon weren seuenti þousandis of hem, þat beren birþens, and eiȝti þousandis of masouns in þe hyl,
xvi wiþ outen þe prouostis, þat reuliden to alle þe werkis, in noumbe of þre þousand and þre hundrid, comaundinge to þe puple, and to hem þat dyden werke.
xvii And þe kyng comaundide, þat þei shulden take þe greet stoonus, and þe precious stoonus, in to þe foundement of þe temple, and þei shulden square hem; xviii þe whiche þe masouns of Salomon, and þe masouns of Yram, han ouerscorchide. Forsoþe þe cyteseynys of Biblis maden redi þe trees and stonus, to þe hows to be beeldid.

Capitulum VI.

i It is doo forsoþe þe foure hundrid and eiȝti ȝeer of þe goyng out of þe sones of Israel fro þe loond of Egipt, in þe ferþ ȝeer, þe moneþ Zio; he is þe secounde moneþ of þe regne of Salomon vpon Israel; he began to beelde an hows to þe Lord.
ii Forsoþe þe hows þat kyng Salomon beeldide to þe Lord, hadde sexti cubitis in lengþ, and twenti in brede, and þretti cubitis in heiȝt.
iii And a ȝaat hows was before þe temple of twenti cubitis in lengþ, aftir þe mesure of þe brede of þe temple; and hadde ten cubitis of brede before þe face of þe temple.
iv And he made in þe temple side wyndows.
v And he bildide vpon þe wal of þe temple table beeldyngis bi enuyroun, in þe wallis of þe hows, bi enuyroun of þe temple, and of Goddis answerynge place; and he made þe fidis in enuyroun.
vi þe table beeldyng, þat was aboue, hadde fyue cubitis of brede; and þe mydil table beeldyng of sexe cubitis of brede; and þe þridde table beeldyng hauing seuen cubitis of brede. Forsoþe beemys he putte in þe hows bi enuyroun wiþ outforþ, þat þei shulden not cleue to þe wallis of þe temple.
vii Forsoþe þe hows, whanne it shulde be beeldid vp, is beeldid of stonus ouer scorchid and parfite; and hamer, and axe, and al yren, ben not herd in þe hows, whanne it was beeldid.

viii þe door of þe mydil side in þe wal was of þe hows of þe riȝt side; and bi a vyce þei stieden vp into þe mydil sowpynge place, and fro þe mydil into þe þridde.
ix And he beeldide vp þe hows, and endide it. And he made þe hows wiþ cedre couplis, x and bildide a table beeldyng vpon al þe hows bi fyue cubitis of heiȝt, and couerde þe hows wiþ cedre trees.
xi And þe word of þe Lord is maad to Salomon, feyynge,
xii þis hows þat þou beeldist; if þou goft in myn heftis, and doft my domys, and kepist alle my comaundementis, goyng bi hem, I shal fastne my word to þee, þat I haue spoken to Dauid, þi fader;
xiii and I shal dwelle in þe mydil of þe sonys of Yrael, and I shal not forsaak my puple Yrael.
xiv Panne Salomon beeldide vp þe hows, and eendide
it;
xv and beeldide vp þe wallis of þe hows wiþ ynforþ wiþ cedre table beeldyngis, fro þe pawment of þe hows vnto þe heiȝest of þe wal, and vnto þe cowplis; and he couerde wiþ cedre trees wiþ inforþ; and he couerde þe pawment of þe hows wiþ firre bordis.
xvi And he beeldide vp cedre table beeldingis of twenti cubitis at þe hynder more parti of þe temple, fro þe pawment vnto þe ouer parties; and he made an innermore hows of þe heuenli answerynge place, into þe holy of halewis.
xvii Forsoþe of fourti cubitis was þat temple before þe ȝatis of Goddis answerynge place.
xviii And wiþ cedre al þe hows wiþ ynforþ was cloþid, hauyng his turnours, and his iuncturis forgid, and grauyngis ouerbeyng; alle wiþ cedre tablis þei weren cloþid, ne algatis a stoone myȝte apere in þe wal.
xix Goddis answerynge place forsoþe he made in þe mydil of þe hows, in þe inner more partie, þat he putte þere þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord.
xx Forsoþe Goddis answerynge place hadde twenti cubitis of lengþ, and twenti cubitis of brede, and twenti cubitis of heiȝt; and he couerde it, and cloþide wiþ moost pure gold; but and al þe auter he cloþide wiþ cedre.
xxi Forsoþe þe hows before Goddis answerynge place he couerde wiþ moost pure gold, and naylide platis to wiþ golden nailis.
xxii No þing was in þe temple þat was not couerde wiþ gold; but and al þe auter of Goddis answerynge place he couerde wiþ gold;
xxiii and made in Goddis answerynge place two cherubyn of þe trees of olyues, of ten cubitis of heiȝt; xxiv þe too weenge of cherub of fyue cubitis, and þe toþer weenge of cherub of fyue cubitis, þat is, hauyng ten cubitis, fro þe cop of þe wenȝe vnto þe cop of þe toþer weenge.

xxv Forsoþe of ten cubitis was þe secounde cherub in þe fame mesure; and o werk was in þe two cherubyn, xxvi þat is, o cherub hadde heiȝt of ten cubitis, and lijk maner þe secounde cherub.

xxvii And he putte þe cherubyn in þe mydil of þe inner temple; forsoþe þe cherubyn strauȝten out her weengis, and þe too weenge towchide þe wal, and þe weenge of þe secounde cherub touchyde þe toþere wal; forsoþe þe toþere weenges in þe mydil part of þe temple towcheden hem self to gidre.

xxviii And he couerde cherubyn wiþ gold, and alle þe wallis of þe temple bi enuyroun;

xxix and grauyde wiþ dyuerse grauyngis and turnyngis; and made in hem cherubyn, and palmes, and dyuerse peynturis, as ferre stondynge fro þe wal in goyng out.

xxx But and þe payment of þe hows he couerde wiþ gold, wiþ inforþ and wiþ outforþ.

xxxi And in þe goyng yn of Goddis answerynge place he made two litil dorys of þe trees of olyues; and fyue postis of þe corners, xxxii and þe two dorys of þe trees of olyues; and he grauede in hem peynture of cherubyn, and þe lickenes of palmes, and þe ouermore grauyngis ful fer stoondynge out; and couerde hem wiþ gold; and boþ he couerde cherubyn, and þe palmes, and oþer wiþ gold.

xxxiii And he made in þe entre of þe temple postis of þe trees of olyues fourre cornerd;

xxxiv and þe two doris of firre trees, eiþer to oþer; and eiþer dore was dowble, and holdynge hem self togidre was opnyde.

xxxv And he grauyde cherubyn, and þe palmyis, and grauyngis myche semynge out; and alle he couerde wiþ goldyn platis, wiþ lquaryd werk at rewle.

xxxvi And he bildide þe porch wiþ ynforþ, wiþ bree ordres of polshid stonus, and wiþ oon ordre of þe trees of cedre.

xxxvii þe firþe ȝeer þe hows of þe Lord is foundid, in þe moneþ of Zio; xxxviii and in þe enleueþ ȝeer, þe moneþ of Ebul; he is þe eiȝt moneþ; þe hows is perfourmed in al his werk, and in alle his necessaries; and he bildide it vp in seuen ȝeer.

Capitulum VII.

i Forsoþe Salomon beeldide his hows in þretene ȝeer, and vnto parfite brouȝte forþ.

ii And he bildide þe hows of þe wijld wode of Liban, of an hundrid cubitis of lengþ, and of fifti cubitis of brede, and of pretti cubitis of heiȝt; and fourre aluris betwixe þe cedre pilers; forsoþe þe cedre trees he hewȝ into pilers.

iii And he clopide al þe chaumbre wiþ cedre table beeldyngis; þe which chaumbre was born vp wiþ fyue and fourti pilers. þe too ordre forsoþe hadde fifteen pilers, iv sette togidre aȝens hem self, and `for aȝen hem self beholdynge, wiþ euen space betwixe þe pilerys; v and vpon þe pilers foure cornerd trees, in alle þingis euen.

vi And þe chaumbre of pilers he made of fifti cubitis of lengþ, and of pretti cubitis of brede; and anoþer chaumbre into þe face of þe more chaumbre; and pilers, and þe heedis vpon þe pilers he made.

vii Forsoþe þe chaumbre of þe fee, in þe which is þe chayer of dom, he made; and couerde wiþ cedre trees, fro þe payment vnto þe cop.

viii And þe litil hows, in þe which he sat to deme, was in þe mydil chaumbre, lijk maner werk. Forsoþe he made an hows to þe douȝter of Pharao, whom Salomon weddide, fiche maner werk as þis chaumbre.

ix Alle þingis wiþ precious stoonus, `þe whiche at a maner rewle and mesure, boþ wiþ ynforþ and wiþ outforþ, weren loken, fro þe foundement vnto þe cop of þe wallis, and wiþ ynforþ and vnto þe more halle.

x þe foundementis forsoþe of precious stoonus, þe greet stoonus of ten, or of eiȝt cubitis; xi and þere aboue precious stoonus of euen mesure weren hewen; and lijk maner of cedre.

xii And þe more halle rownd, of þre ordres of hewen stonus, and of oon ordre of planed cedre; also and in þe innermore porche of þe hows of þe Lord, and in þe ȝaat hows of þe hows of þe Lord.

xiii And kyng Salomon fente, and took Yram, þe sone of þe widowe womman, fro Tyro, xiv of þe lynage of Neptalym, fader of þe centre of Tyre, a crafti man of metal, and ful of wildom, and vndurstondynge, and of lore, to doo al werk of metal. Which whanne he was comen to kyng Salomon, he made al þe werk of hym;

xv and made two brasen pilers, of eiȝteen cubitis of heiȝt o piler; and a liyn of twelue cubitis wente about eiþer piler.

xvi And two heed coueryngs he made, þat shulden be putte vpon þe heedis of þe pilers, ȝoten of bras; of fyue cubitis of heiȝt oon heed couerynge, and of fyue cubitis of heiȝt anoþer heed couerynge;

xvii and as in maner of a nette, and of cheynys wouyn togidre to hem self, in o werk. And eiþer heed couerynge of þe pilers was ȝoten; seuen litil nettis of verse in þe toon heed couerynge, and seuen lytil nettis in þe topir heed couerynge.

xviii And he fulfillide þe pilers, and þe two ordrys bi enuyroun of alle þe litil nettis, þat þei coueren þe heed coueryngis, þat weren vpon þe cop of þe powmgarnettis; and þe same wife he made to þe secounde heed couerynge.

xix Forsoþe þe heed coueryngis, þat weren vpon þe heedis of þe pilers, as in werk of a lilye weren forgid, in þe ȝaathows, of fourre cubitis;

xx and eft oþer heed coueryngis in þe cop of þe pilers aboue, aftir þe mesure of þe piler aȝens þe litil nettis;

forsoþe two hundryd ordres of powmgarnettis weren in enuyroun of þe fecounde heed couerynge.

xxi And he sette two pilers in þe ȝaat hows of þe temple; and whanne he hadde sette þe riȝt piler, he clepide it bi name Jachym; lijk maner he reride þe fecounde piler, and clepide þe name of it Booz.

xxii And vpon þe heedis of þe pilers he sette a werk in maner of a lilye; and fulfillid is þe werke of þe pilers.

xxiii He made forsoþe þe ȝoten see, of ten cubitis fro lippe vnto lippe, rounde in enuyroun; þe heiȝt of hym of fyue cubitis; and þe littil nette of pretti cubitis girdide it by enuyroun.

xxiv And þe grauyng vndur þe lippe wente about it bi ten cubitis, goyng about þe see; two ordris of storye grauyngis weren ȝoten, xxv and stoden vpon twelue oxen; of þe whiche þree beheelden to þe norþ, and þree to þe weste, and þree to þe souþ, and þree to þe este; and þe see was þere aboue vpon hem, whos alle þe hyndirmore parties lurkiden wiþ ynforþ.

xxvi Þe greetnes forsoþe of þe watyr vessel was of þree ouncis, and þe lippe of it as þe lippe of a chalice, and as a leef of a lilye to be 'aȝen bowid; it conteynede two þousand mesuris of þre quartis, þre þousand mesuris neeȝ of a potel.

xxvii And he made ten brasen feet, eche foot of foure cubitis of lengþ, and of foure cubitis of brede, and of foure cubitis of heiȝt.

xxviii And þat werk of þe feet was betwix grauyngis playn; and grauyngis betwix þe ioynturis.

xxix And betwix þe litil crownes and wyndyngis, liouns, and oxen, and cherubin; and in þe ioynturis lijk maner aboue; and vndur þe lyouns and oxen as bridils of brasse hongyne.

xxx And foure whelis bi eche feet, and brasen axtrees; and bi foure partyes as litil shuldres vndur þe water vessel ȝoten, aȝens hem self beholdynge.

xxxi And þe mouȝ of þe watir vessel wiþ ynforþ was in þe cop of þe heed, and þat, þat wiþ outforþ aperide, was of o cubite, and alle round, and togidre hadde o cubite and an half; in þe corners forsoþe of þe pilers weren dyuers grauyngis, and þe mene pilers betwix squaar, and not round.

xxxii Forsoþe þe foure whelis, þat weren bi þe foure corners of þe foot, cleueden togidre to hem self vndir þe foot; o whele hadde of heiȝt a cubite and an half.

xxxiii Forsoþe þe whelis weren siche, as ben wont to be maad in a chaar; and þe axtre of hem, and þe spokys, and þe felijis, and þe naue, alle ȝoten.

xxxiv For þoo ilke foure litil shuldres, bi alle þe corners of o foot, fro þat foot weren ȝoten, and ioyned.

xxxv In þe cop forsoþe of þe foot was a maner roundnes, of a cubite and a half, so forgid, þat þe watir vessel myȝte be sette þere aboue, hauyng his dyuerse endentyngis, and grauyngis of hym self.

xxxvi Forsoþe he grauede in þe table beeldyngis, þat weren of brasse, and in þe corners, cherubyn, and liouns, and palmys, as into þe lickenesse of a man stondyne, þat þei shulen be seen not grauen, but leid to bi enuyroun.

xxxvii And in þis maner he made ten feet, bi o ȝetyng and mesure, and wiþ lijk maner grauyng.

xxxviii Forsoþe he made ten brasen water vessels; o water vessel heelde fourti mesuris of þre quaartis, and was of foure cubitis; and alle þe water vessels he putte vpon alle þe feet, þat is, vpon ten feet.

xxxix And he ordeynde þe ten feet, fyue at þe ryȝt partie of þe temple, and fyue at þe left; forsoþe þe see he putte at þe riȝt parti of þe temple, aȝens þe este at þe souþ.

xli And Iram made cawdrones, and fier pannys, and wyn violis; and he parformede al þe werk of kyng Salomon in þe temple of þe Lord.

xlii Two pilers, and two lytil cordis of þe heed coueryngis vpon þe heedis of þe pilers, and two litil nettis, þat þei coueren þe two litil coordis, þat weren vpon þe heedis of þe pilers.

xliii And foure hundred powmgarnettis in þe two litil nettis; two vers of powmgarnettis in eche litil netti, to þe litil coordis to be couerd of þe heed coueryngis, þat weren vpon þe heedis of þe pilers.

xlii And þe ten feet, and þe ten water vessels vpon þe feet;

xliii and oon see, and twelue oxen vndir þe see; and cawdrones, and fijr pannys, and wyn vyolis.

xlv Alle þe vessels, þat Iram made to kyng Salomon in þe hows of þe Lord, weren of latoun.

xlivi And in þe wijld feeldy regioun of Jordan þe kyng ȝetide hem, in þe cleyye erþe, betwix Socoth and Sarcham.

xlvii And Salomon putte alle þe vessels in þe hows; for þe mych multitude forsoþe þere was no weiȝt of þe brasse.

xlviii And Salomon made alle þe vessels in þe hows of þe Lord; forsoþe a golden auter, and a golden bord, on þe which shulden be leyd þe looues of proposiciooun;

xlix and fyue golden candellstickis at þe riȝt side, and fyue at þe left, aȝens Goddis answerynge place, of moost pure gold; and as flouris of lylie, and golden lanterns þere aboue, and golden snytters;

l and stenys, and flesh hookis, and vyolis, and morters, and censerys, of moost pure gold; and þe heengis of doris of þe ynnermore hows of þe holy of halowis, and of þe dorys of þe hows of þe temple, weren of gold.

li And he parfourmede al þe werk, þat Salomon made in þe hows of þe Lord; and he brouȝte in þe bingis þat Dauid, his fader, hadde halowid; filuer, and gold, and vessels; and he leide vp in þe trelours of þe hows of þe Lord.

Capitulum VIII.

i Thanne alle þe more þurȝ birþ of Yrael ben gadryd, wiþ þe princis of lynagis, and þe duykis of þe meynees of þe sones of Yrael, to king Salomon, in to Jerusalem, þat þei bryngen þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord fro þe cite of Dauid, þat is, fro Syon.

ii And al Israel cam togidre to kyng Salomon, in þe moneþ of Bethanym, in a solempne day; he is þe seuenþ moneþ.

iii And alle þe eldris of Israel camen; and preestis token þe arke, iv and beren þe arke of þe Lord, and þe tabernacle of þe couenaunt of pees, and alle þe vessels of þe seytuarie, þat weren in þe tabernacle; and preestis and Leuytis beren hem.

v Forsoþe kyng Salomon, and al þe multitude of Yrael, þat was comen to hym, wenten wiþ hym before þe arke, and offreden sheep and oxen, wiþ out eymyngne and noumbe.

vi And þe preestis brouȝten yn þe arke of þe boond of pees of þe Lord into his place, into Goddis answerynge place of þe temple, into þe holi of halowis, vnder þe weengis of cherubyn.

vii Forsoþe cherubyn spradden out þe weengis vpon þe place of þe arke; and þei couerden þe ark, and his cloþis þer aboue.

viii And whanne þe berynge stauys femeden out, and þe heijest of hem apereden wiþ out þe seytuarie, before Goddis answerynge place, þei apereden no more wiþ out forþ; and þe whiche weren þere vnto þe day þat is now.

ix Forsoþe in þe arke was noon opere þing but þe two stonen tablis, þe whiche Moyses hadde sette in it in Oreb, whanne þe Lord couenauntide couenaunt of pees wiþ þe sones of Israel, whanne þei shulden goo out of þe loond of Egipt.

x It is doon forsoþe whanne þe preestis weren goon out of þe seytuarie, a litil clowde fulfillide þe hous of þe Lord;

xi and þe preestis myȝten not stoond and mynystre, for þe litil clowde; forsoþe þe glorie of þe Lord hadde fulfillid þe hous of þe Lord.

xii Panne seiþ Salomon, þe Lord leide, þat he shulde dwelle in a litil clowde.

xiii Beeldynge I haue beeldid an hows in to þi 'dwellynge place, þi mooft fast see into euermore.

xiv And þe kyng turnede his face, and bliffile to al þe chirch in Israel; forsoþe al þe chirch of Israel stood.

xv And Salomon seiþ, Bleſſid is þe Lord God of Israel, þat spak in his mouȝ to Dauid, my fader, and in þe hondis of hym perfourmyde, seiyng.

xvi Fro þe day þat I ladde out my purle Israel fro Egipt, I chees not a citee of alle þe lynagis of Israel, þat an hows shulde be beeldid vp, and my name were þere; but Dauid I chees, þat he were vpon my purle Israel.

xvii And Dauid, my fader, wolde beeld vp an hows to þe name of þe Lord God of Yrael.

xviii And þe Lord seiþ to Dauid, my fader, þat þou þouȝtist in þin herte to beelde vp an hows to my name, þou didist wel, þat fame þing tretyng in mynde;

xix neuerþelater þou shalt not beelde to me an hows, but þi sone, þat shal goon out of þi reynes, he shal beelde an hows to my name.

xx þe Lord haþ confermyd his word, þat he spak; and I stood for Dauid, my fader, and satte upon þe trone of Israel, as þe Lord spak; and I haue beeld an hows to þe name of þe Lord God of Yrael.

xxi And I haue sette þere a place of þe arke, in þe which is þe couenaunt of pees of þe Lord, þe whiche he smoot wiþ oure faders, whanne þei wenten out of þe loond of Egipt.

xxii Forsoþe Salomon stood before þe auter of þe Lord, in þe siȝt of þe chyrch of Yrael; and he spradde out his hoondis into heuene, xxiii and seiþ, Lord God of Yrael, þere is not lijk of þee, God in heuene aboue, and upon erþe beneeþ, þe whiche kepist couenaunt and mercy to þi seruauntis, þat goon before þee in al her herte;

xxiv þe which keptist to Dauid, my fader, þi seruaunt, þat þou speke to hym; wiþ mouȝ þou speke, and wiþ hoondis þou haſt fulfillid, as þis dai proueþ.

xxv Now þanne, Lord God of Israel, kepe to þi seruaunt Dauid, my fader, þat þou speke to hym, seiying, Þere shal not be doon awey a man before me of þee, þat fitte vpon þe trone of Israel, so neuerþelater if þi sonis kepen þi weye, þat þei goon before me, as þou wentist in my siȝt.

xxvi And now, Lord God of Israel, þi wordis ben þei fastned, þat þou speke to þi seruaunt Dauid, my fader.

xxvii Panne whebir it is to trowe, þat vereli God dwelle vpon erþe; forsoþe if heuene, and heuenes of heuens mowen not take þee, myche more þis hows, þat I haue beeldid to þee.

xxviii But behold to þe orisoun of þi seruaunt, and to þe preiers of hym, Lord my God; here þe ympne, and þe orisoun, þat þi seruaunt preieþ before þee to day;

xxix þat þin eyen ben openyd vpon þis hows niȝt and day, vpon þe hows, of þe whiche þou seydyſt, My name shal be þere; þat þou here þe orisoun, þat þi seruaunt preieþ to þee in þis place;

xxx þat þou here þe preier of þi seruaunt, and of þi purle Israel, what euere þing he shal prey in þis place, and þou here in þe stede of þi dwellynge place in heuene; and whanne þou herist, þou shalt be merciful.

xxxi If a man synneþ into his neȝbour, and haue eny oop, bi þe whiche streyned he be holdyn, and come for þe oop before þi auter, into þin hows, xxxii þou shalt here in heuen, and doon, and þou shalt deme þi seruauntis; condempyng þe wickid, and ȝeeldynge his weye vpon his heed, iultifyng þe riȝtwisne, and ȝeeldynge to hym after his riȝtwisnes.

xxxiii If þi puple Israel shul flee his enemyes, for he is to synne to þee, and doyng penaunce, and knowlechynge to þi greet name, comen, and honouren, xxxiv and preyen þee in þis hows, here þou in heuene, and forȝif þe synne of þi puple Israel; and þou shalt lede hem aȝen into þe loond, þat þou ȝaf to þe fadres of hem.

xxxv If heuene were clofid, and shal not reyne for þe synnes of hem, and preyng in þis place, penaunce doon to þi name, and fro her synnes weren conuertid for her affliccioun, xxxvi here þou hem in heuene, and forȝif þe synnes of þi seruauntis, and of þi puple Israel, and shew to hem a good weye, bi þe which þei goon, and ȝif reyne vpon þe loond, þat þou hast ȝouun to þi puple in to posseffion.

xxxvii 'If þat hungre were growen vp on þe erþe, or were pestilence, or corrupt eyr, or fretynge, or locust, or rust, and turmentis hym, and his enemy besegynge þe ȝatis, al veniaunce, xxxviii al infirmyte, al cursynge, and wifsynge, þat shall falle to eny man of þi puple Yrael, if a man knowe þe wounde of his herte, and stretche out his hoondis in þis hows, xxxix þou shalt here in heuene, in þe place of þi dwellynge, and þou shalt be aȝen plesid, and þou shalt doo þat þou ȝyue to echon after alle her weytes, as þou shalt seen þe herte of hym; for þou alone hast knowun þe herte of alle þe sonys of men, xli þat þei dreden þee alle days in þe which þei lyuen vpon þe face of þe erþe, þat þou hast ȝeuen to oure fadris.

xlii Forþermore and an alyen, þat is not of þi puple Israel, whanne he comeþ fro a ferre loond for þi name; xlvi forþoþe þi greet name shal be herd, and þi strong hoond, and þi strauȝt out arme ouer al; whanne þanne he shal come, and preye in þis place, xlviou þou shalt here in heuene, in þe firmament of þi dwellynge place, and þou shalt doo alle þingis, for þe whiche þe alien haþ inwardli clepid bee, þat alle puplis of erþis lernen to drede þi name, as þi puple Yrael, and proue þei, for þi name is inwardly clepid vpon þis hows, þat I haue beeldid.

xlviouii If þi puple were goon out to batail aȝens his enemyes, bi þe weye whidir euere þou shalt seende hem, þei shulen preye þee aȝen þe weye of þe citee þat þou shalt chosun, and aȝens þe hows þat I haue beeldid to þi name, xlviouiii and þou shalt here in heuene þe orysouns of hem, and þe preyers of hem, and doon þe doom of hem.

xlviouiiii þat yf þei of enemyes, ferre or niȝ, and doon penaunce in her herte, in þe place of caitifte, xlviouuu and turned han preyed in her caytifte, seyng, We han synned, wickidly we han doon, vnpitously we han born vs;

xlviouuuu and weren turned to þee in al her herte, and in al her soule, in þe loond of her enemyes, to þe which catife þei weren lad, and preyen þee aȝens þe weie of her loond þat þou haft ȝouen to þe faders of hem, and of þe citee þat þou haft chosun, and of þe temple þat I haue beeldid to þi name, xlviouuuuui þou shalt here in heuene, in þe firmament of þi see, and þe orysouns of hem, and þe preiers of hem, and þou shalt doon þe doom of hem;

i and þou shalt haue merci to þi puple, þat haþ synned to þee, and to alle þe wickidnesses bi þe whiche þei han trespassid in þee; and þou shalt ȝyue merci before hem, þat hadden hem caitife, þat þei doon merci to hem.

ii Forþoþe þi puple he is, and þin heritage, whom þou haft broȝt out of þe loond of Egipte, fro þe mydil of þe yren furneis;

iii þat þin eyen ben opened to þe preyer of þi seruaunt, and of þi puple Yrael; and þou shalt here hem in alle þingis, for þe whiche þei inwardly shulen clepe þee.

iv Forþoþe þou haft feuerde hem to þee in to herytage of alle puplis of þe erþe, as þou speke bi Moyfes, þi seruaunt, whanne þou laddist out oure fadris fro Egipt, Lord God.

viiii It is doon forþoþe, whanne Salomon hadde ful eendid, preyng þe Lord al þe orysoun, and þis preier, he aroos fro þe siȝt of þe auter of þe Lord; forþoþe eiþer knee he hadde piȝt into þe erþe, and þe hoondys he hadde sprad out to heuene.

vi Panne he stood, and bleffide to al þe chirche 'of Yrael wiþ a greet voys, seyyng, vii Bleffid is þe Lord God, þat ȝaf rest to his puple Israel, after alle þingis þat he spak; þere felle not of a word, forþoþe not oon, of alle þe wordis þat he spak bi Moyfes, his seruaunt.

viii Be þe Lord oure God wiþ vs, as he was wiþ oure faders, not forsakynge vs, ne þrowynge a ferre;

viii but bowe he oure hertis to hym, þat we goon in alle þe weys of hym, and kepe þe maundements of hym, and cerymonyes, and domes, what euere he comaundide to oure fadres.

ix And ben þes myn wordis, in þe whiche I haue preied before þe Lord, neiȝynge to þee Lord oure God day and nyȝt, þat he do doom to his seruaunt, and to his puple Israel bi eche days;

x and witen alle puplis of þe erþe, for þe Lord he is God, and þere is noon more wiþ out hym.

xii Forþoþe be oure herte parfite wiþ þe Lord oure God, 'þat we goon in þe domys of hym, and kepen þe heeftis of hym, as and to day.

xiiii Panne þe kyng, and al Yrael wiþ hym, offreden flayn sacrifices before þe Lord.

xviiii And Salomon flewȝ peſible ooftis, þat he offred to þe Lord; two and twenti þousand of oxen, and an hundryd and twenti þousand of sheep; and þe kyng and þe sones of Yrael halweden þe temple of þe Lord.

Ixiii In þat day þe kyng halwide þe mydil of þe porche, þat was before þe hows of þe Lord; forsoþe he dide brent offryngis þere, and sacrifice, and þe talwȝ of þe peſible þingis; for þe brasen auter þat was before þe Lord was to lilit, and myȝte not take þe brent offrynge, and þe sacrifice, and þe talwȝ of peſible þingis.

Lv Panne Salomon made in þat tyme a solempne feest day, and al Israel wiþ hym, a greet multitude, fro þe entre of Emath vnto þe ryuer of Egipt, before þe Lord oure God, feuen days and feuen dais, þat is, fourteen dais.

Lvi And in þe eiȝt day he lafte þe puple, þe which bleſſyng to þe kyng wente into her tabernaclis, gladynge and wiþ myrye herte vpon alle þe goodis þat God hadde doon to Dauid, his seruaunt, and to Israel, his puple.

Capitulum IX.

i It is doon forsoþe, whanne Salomon hadde perfourmed þe beeldynge of þe hows of þe Lord, and þe beeldynge of þe kyng, and al þat he defryde, and wolde make,

ii þe Lord aperide to hym þe secounde tyme, as he aperyde to hym in Gabaon.

iii And þe Lord seide to hym, I haue herd þin orisoun, and þi preyer, þat þou preiedist before me; I haue halwid þis hows, þat þou haſt beeld, þat I putte my name þere into euermore; and myn eyen and myn herte shulen be þere alle days.

iv Forsoþe þou, if þou goſt before me, as þi fader ȝede, in symplenes of herte, and euennelle, and doſt alle þingis þat I haue comaundid to þee, and my domys, and my lawful þingis kepeſt, v I ſhal ſette þe trone of þi rewme vpon Israel in to euermore, as I ſpak to Dauid, þi fader, ſeyng, Pere ſhal not be doon awey a man of þi kynrede fro þe ſee of Israel.

vi Forſoþe if bi turnyngē awey ȝe and ȝoure ſonyngē weren turned a weye, not folwyngē me, ne kepyngē myn heftis and cerymonys, þat I purpoſide to ȝow, but ȝe goon awey, and herein alyen goddis, and honouren hem, vii I ſhal doo awey Israel fro þe vttermoſt of þe erþe þat I haue ȝeuen to hem; and þe temple þat I haue halwid to my name, I ſhal þrowe awey fro my ſiȝt; and Israel ſhal be into prouerbe and into fable, to alle puplis.

viii And þis hows ſhal be into exſaumple; alle þat paſſen bi it, shulen wondre, and whiſtlen, and feyn, Whi dide þe Lord þus to þis loond, and to þis hows?

ix And þei shulen anſwere, For þei forsoken þe Lord her God, þat ladde out þe faders of hem fro þe loond of Egipt; and þei folwedien alien goddis, and heriedien hem, and honourden hem; þe Lord brouȝte yn vpon hem al þis yuel.

x Forſoþe fulfillid twenti ȝeer, after þat Salomon hadde beeldid two howfis, þat is, þe hows of þe Lord, and þe hows of þe kyng, xi Iram, þe kyng of Tire, ȝeuynge to kyng Salomon cedre and firre trees, and gold, after al þat he hadde nede; þanne Salomon ȝaf to Iram twenti burȝ touns in þe loond of Galilee.

xii And Yram wente out fro Tyro for to ſe þe burȝ touns, þat Salomon hadde ȝeuen to hym, and þei plesiden not to hym; xiii and he ſeip, Wheþer þes ben þe citees þat þou haſt ȝeuen to me, broþer? And he clepide hem þe loond of Chabul, vnto þis day.

xiv Forſoþe Iram ſente to kyng Salomon an hundrid and twenti talents of gold.

xv þis is þe ſumme of þe expenſis, þat kyng Salomon offred to beeldi þe hows of þe Lord, and his hows of Mello, and þe wal of Jerufalem, and Ezer, and Magedo, and Gazer.

xvi Pharao, þe kyng of Egipt, ſtiede vp, and took Gazer, and brente it vp wiþ fier; and Chanane þat dwellide in þe citee he flewȝ, and ȝaf it into dower to his douȝter, Salomons wiſſ.

xvii Panne Salomon beeldide vp Gazer, and þe neþir Bethron, xviii and Balaad, and Palmyram in þe loond of wildernes, xix and alle þe touns þat to hym perteyneden, and weren wiþouten wal; and he made ſikir þe citees of charis, and þe cytees of horſmen, and what euere þing to hym pleſide for to beeldi in Jerufalem, and in Liban, and in al þe loond of his power.

xx Al þe puple þat abood ſtyle of Amorreis, Ethees, and Pherezeis, Euees, and Jebuseis, þat ben not of þe ſones of Israel, xi of þes þe ſones þat abiden ſtille in þe loond, þat is, whom þe ſones of Israel myȝten not þrowe out, Salomon made tributaries into þis day.

xxii Of þe ſones forſoþe of Israel kyng Salomon ordeynde not eny man to ferue, but þei weren men fiȝters, and þe seruauntis of hym, and princis, and duykis, and prefec̄tis of charis and of hors.

xxiii Forſoþe þei weren princis vpon alle þe werkis of Salomon, prouoſtis fyue hundrid and fifty, þat hadde þe puple ſubiect, and to þe ordeynd werkis comaundiden.

xxiv þe douȝter forſoþe of Pharao ſtiede vp fro þe citee of Dauid in to hir hows, þat Salomon hadde beeldid to hire; þanne he bieldide Mello.

xxv Forſoþe Salomon offride þree ſiȝes bi eche ȝeer brent sacrifices 'and peſible flayn sacrifices, vpon þe auter þat he hadde beeldid to þe Lord; and he brente þe maad encenſe before þe Lord, and perfite is þe temple.

xxvi Forsoþe kyng Salomon made a nauee in Aziongaber, þat is besyde Haylam, in þe brenk of þe Reed see, in Ydume loond.
xxvii And Yram sente in þat nauee his seruauntis, shipmen, and wife of þe see, wiþ þe seruauntis of Salomon;
xxviii þe welche whanne þei weren comen in to Oofer, þens þe taken gold of foure hundrid and twenti talentis þei brouȝten to kyng Salomon.

Capitulum X.

i But and queen Sabaa, þe loos of Salomon herd in þe name of þe Lord, she cam to asaye hym in derk sentensis.
ii And she goon out wiþ greet compayne to Jerusalem, and ritchessis, and chameis berynge swote splices, and gold vnnoumbred ful myche, and precious iemmys, cam to kyng Salomon, and spak to hym alle þingis þat she hadde in hire herte.
iii And Salomon tauȝte hire alle þe wordis þat she purposyd; and þere was not a word þat myȝte be vnknowun fro þe kyng, and þat he answarde not to hire.
iv Forsoþe queen Sabaa seynge al þe wiſdam of Salomon, and þe hows þat he hadde beeldid vp, v and þe metis of his bord, and þe dwellynge placis of þe seruauntis, and þe ordris of þe seruytours, and þe cloþis of hem, and þe botelers, and þe brent sacrificis þe welche he offride in þe hows of þe Lord, she hadde no more spirite.
v And she feide to þe kyng, Sooþ is þe word þat I herde in my loond, vpon þi wordis, and vpon þi wiſdam;
vi and I trowide not to þe tellers to me, to þe tyme þat I my self cam; and I haue seen wiþ myn eyen, and proued þat þe half partye was not toold to me; more is þi wiſdam and þi werkis, þan þe loos þat I haue herd.
vii Bleſſid ben þi men, and bleſſid ben þi seruauntis, þes þat stonden before þee euermore, and heren þi wiſdam.
ix Pe Lord þi God be bleſſid, to whom þou haſt plesid, and haþ putte þee vpon þe troone of Yrael; forþi þat þe Lord shal loue Yrael into euermore, and he haþ ſette þee a kyng, þat þou doo doom and ryȝtwisnes.
x Panne she ȝaf to þe kyng an hundrid and twenti talentis of gold, and many swote spicis ful myche, and precious iemmys; þere ben no more brouȝt spicis so manye, as þoo þe welche queen Sabaa ȝaf to kyng Salomon.
xi But and þe nauee of Yram, þe which bare gold of Oofer, brouȝten to of Oofer manye tyyn trees ful myche, and precious iemmys.
xii And þe kyng made of þe tyme trees beddis, and of þe hous of þe Lord, and of þe kyngis hows, and harpis, and fyngynge instrumentis to fyngers; þere ben not brouȝt fyche maner tyme trees ne seen, vnto þe day þat is now.

xiii Forsoþe kyng Salomon ȝaf to þe queen Sabaa alle þingis þat she wold, and axed of hym, out take þes þingis þe whiche freeli he ȝaf to hire in þe kyngis ȝift; þe which is turned aȝen, and wente into hire loond wiþ hire seruauntis.

xiv Forsoþe þe peyse of gold, þat was offrid to Salomon bi eche ȝeer, was of sex hundrid and fexe and sexti talentis of gold, xv out take þat men offreden, þat were vpon tollis, and marchaudis, and alle þe fellynge ſheeldis, and alle kyngis of Arabye, and duykis of þe loond.

xvi And kyng Salomon made two hundrid ſheeldis of moost pure gold; fexe hundrid ouncis of gold he ȝaf in a plate of o ſheeld;

xvii and þre hundrid bokelers of moost proued gold; þre hundrid pound of gold cloþeden o bokelere. And þe kyng putte hem in þe hows of þe wijlde wode of Liban.

xviii Also kyng Salomon made a greet trone of yuer, and he clopide it wiþ ful myche ȝallowȝ gold;

xix þe which hadde fexe grees; and þe cop of þe trone was round in þe hyndermore partie; and two hoondis hens and þens, holdynge þe fittyng place, and two liouns stoden beside eche hondis;

xx and twelue litil liouns ſtoondynge vpon þe fexe grees hens and þens; þere is not maad fiche a werk in alle rewmes.

xi But and alle þe vefſels, of þe welche kyng Salomon drank, were golden, and al þe neceſſarie of þe hows of þe wijlde wode of Liban of moost pure gold; and þere was not siluer, ne of eny prijs was holden in þe dais of Salomon.

xxii For þe nauee of þe kyng bi þe see wiþ þe nauee of Yram onys bi þre ȝeer wente into Tharfis, bryngynge þens gold, and siluer, and olefauntis teeþ, and apis, and pokokis.

xxiii Panne kyng Salomon is magnified vpon alle þe kyngis of erþe in richeſſes and wiſdam.

xxiv And al erþe desiride to fe þe cheer of Salomon, þat it here þe wiſdam of hym, þat God hadde ȝeuen in his herte.

xxv And alle þei brouȝten to him ȝiftis, golden vefſels, and silueren, cloþis, and batayl aarmys, swote spicis forſoþe, and hors, and mulis, bi alle ȝeeriſ.

xxvi And Salomon gedride charis, and horfmen; and þere ben maad to hym a þousand and foure hundrid charis, and twelue þousand of horfmen; and he dispoſide hem bi þe strengpid citees, and wiþ þe king in Jerusalem.

xxvii And he made, þat þere was as myche plente of siluer in Jerufalem, as of ſtoonus; and he ȝaf þe multitude of cedres as mulberie trees, þat growen in wijld feedis.

xxviii And þe hors of Salomon weren brouȝt out of Egyp, and of Choa; forsoþe marchauntis of þe kyng bouȝten of Choa, and þe prijs set, brouȝten.

xxix Forsoþe þere was brouȝt a fourre whelid cart of Egyp for sexe hundrid ouncis of siluer, and an hors an hundrid and fifti; and in þis maner alle þe kyngis of Ethees and of Cyrye foolden hors.

Capitulum XI.

i Forsoþe kyng Salomon to brennyngly louede many heþen wymmen, þe douȝter forsoþe of Pharao, and Moabitis, and Amonytis, and Ydumees, and Cidonees, and Ethees;

ii of þe gentils, on þe whiche þe Lord seide to þe sones of Yrael, ȝe shulen not goon into hem, ne of hem shulen goon out to ȝou; moost certeynli forsoþe þei shulen turne aweie ȝoure hertis, þat ȝe folwen þe goddis of hem. And so to þes is couplid kyng Salomon, bi moost brennyngle loue.

iii And þere weren to hym wiues as queens feuen hundrid, and secoundarie wiues pre hundrid; and wymmen turneden awey þe herte of hym.

iv And whanne now he was oold, þe herte of hym is beshrewid bi wymmen, þat he folwide alien goddis; and þe herte of hym was not parfit wiþ þe Lord his God, as þe herte of Dauid, his fader.

v But Salomon heryede Astertem, þe goddesse of Sydones, and Chamos, þe god of Moabitis, and Moloch, þe mawmet of Amonytis; vi and Salomon dide þat was not plesyng before þe Lord, and he fulfillide not þat he folwe þe Lord, as Dauid, his fader.

vii Panne Salomon beeldide vp þe temple of Chamos to þe mawmet of Moab, in þe hil þat is aȝens Jerusalem, and to Moloch, þe mawmet of þe sones of Amon.

viii And in þis maner he dide to alle his heyþen wyues, þat brenden encense, and offreden to her goddis.

ix Perfor þe Lord wraþhid to Salomon, forþi þat his mynde was turned aweie fro þe Lord God of Israel; þe which aperide to hym þe secounde, x and hadde comaundid of þis word, þat he shulde not folwe alyen goddis; and he kepte not þat, þat þe Lord comaundyde to hym.

xi And so þe Lord seide to Salomon, For þou haddist þis anentis þee, and keptist not my couenant, and myn heestis, þe whiche I comaundide to þee, brekyng I shal kitte þi rewme, and ȝeuen it to þi seruant.

xii Neuerþelater in þi days I shal not doon, for Dauid, þi fader; fro þe hoond of þi sone I shal kutte it;

xiii and al þe rewme I shal not doon a wey, but o lynage I shal ȝyue to þi sone, for Dauid, my seruaunt, and Jerusalem, þat I haue chosen.

xiv Pe Lord forsoþe reride an aduersarie to Salomon, Adad Ydume, of þe kyngis feed, þat was in Edom.

xv Forsoþe whanne Dauid was in Ydume, and Joab, þe prince of chyualrie, hadde styeid vp to byrye hem þat weren flayn, and hadde flayn al maal in Ydume;

xvi forsoþe sexe moneþis þere dwellide Joab, and al Israel, to þe tyme þat þei hadden flayn al maal in Ydume;

xvii he Adad fleeȝ, and Ydume men, of þe seruauntis of his fadir, wiþ hym, þat he goo into Egyp; forsoþe Adad was a litil child.

xviii And whanne þei hadden rySEN fro Madian, þei camen into Pharan; and þei token wiþ hem men of Pharan, and wenten into Egyp, to Pharao, þe kyng of Egyp; þe which ȝaf to hym an hows, and ordeynde meetis, and a loond asignede.

xix And Adad foonde grace before Pharao ful myche, in so myche þat he ȝaf to hym a wif, þe sister germayn of his wif Taphnes, þe queen.

xx And þe sister of Taphnes gat to hym Jenebath, a sone; and Taphnes norishide hym in þe hows of Pharao; and Jenebath was dwellynge before Pharao, wiþ his sones.

xi And whanne Adad hadde herd in Egyp, Dauid to haue slept wiþ his fadris, and Joab, pryncie of chyualrie, to be deed, he seide to Pharao, Lete me, þat I goo into my loond.

xii And Pharao seide to hym, What þing forsoþe anentis me nedist bow, þat þou seche to goo to þi loond? And he answarde, Noon; but I preye þee, þat þou lete me.

xiii Forsoþe God reryde to hym an aduersarie, Rafon, sone of Eliadan, þat fleeȝ Adadezer, kyng of Soba, his lord; xviiii and he gadride aȝens hym men, and he is maad prince of þeues, whanne Dauid shulde haue flayn hem; and þei wenten to Damasch, and dwelliden þere; and þei ordeyneden hym a kyng in Damasch.

xv And he was an aduersarie to Israel alle þe days of Salomon; and þis is þe yuel of Adad, and haat aȝen Yrael; and he regnede in Cyrye.

xvi Forsoþe Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, Eufrate of Seredera, seruaunt of Salomon, whos moder was a womman widwe, Serua bi name; and he reride þe hoond aȝens þe kyng.

xvii And þis þe cause of þe rebellioun aȝens hym; for Salomon beeldide Mello, and euenede þe swelwȝ of þe citee of Dauid, his fader.

xviii Forsoþe Jeroboam was a myȝti man, and a strong; and Salomon seyng he ȝonge waxyng man of good witte, and able to be tauȝt, he made hym a prefect vpon þe tributis of al þe hows of Joseph.

xix It is doon þanne in þat tyme, þat Jeroboam shulde goon out fro Jerusalem; and Ahyas Silonyte, prophete, foonde him in þe weye, couerde wiþ a newe mantil; forsoþe þei two weren alone in þe feelde.

xxx And Ahyas takyng hys newe mantil, wiþ þe which he was couerde, kitte into twelue parties.

xxxi And he seiþ to Jeroboam, Tak to þee ten kytyngis; þes þingis forþoþe seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Loo! I shal kitte þe rewme fro þe hoond of Salomon, and I shal ȝyue to þee ten lynagis; xxxii but o lynage shal leeue to hym, for my feruaunt Dauid, and Jerusalem, þe citee þat I haue chosfen of alle þe lynagis of Israel; xxxiii forþi þat he forsook me, and honourde Astartem, goddesse of Sydonees, and Chamos, god of Moab, and Moloch, god of þe sonys of Amon; and he wente not in my weyes, þat he dide riȝtwisnesse before me, and my heeftis, and my domys, as Dauid, his fader.
 xxxiv Ne I shal not doo aweye al þe rewme fro his hoond, but I shal putte hym a duyk alle þe days of his lijf, for Dauid, my feruaunt, whom I chees, þe which kepte myn heeftis, and my maundementis.
 xxxv I shal doo aweye forþoþe þe rewme fro þe hoond of his sone, I shal ȝyue to þee þe ten lynagys; xxxvi to his sone forþoþe I shal ȝyue o lynage, þat þere abyde stille a lantern to Dauid, my feruaunt, alle dais before me in Jerusalem, citee þat I chees, þat þere were my name.
 xxxvii Forþoþe þee I shall take, and þou shalt regne vpon alle þingis þat þi soule defyriþ, and þou shalt be kyng vpon Yrael.
 xxxviii If þanne þou herist alle þingis þat I shal comaunde to þee, and goft in my weies, and doft þat is riȝt before me, kepynge my maundementis, and myn heeftis, as Dauid, my feruaunt, dide, I shal be wiþ þee, and beelde to þee a trewe hows, what maner wife I beeldide to Dauid an hows, and I shal take to þee Yrael; xxxix and I shal tourmente þe seed of Dauid vpon þis, neuerþelater not alle dais.
 xl Þanne Salomon wolde flee Jeroboam, þe whiche roos, and fleiȝ into Egipt, to Susaach, þe kyng of Egipt; and he was in Egipt vnto þe deep of Salomon.
 xli Forþoþe þe remnaunt of þe wordis of Salomon, and alle þingis þat he dide, and þe wisdom of him, loo! alle þei ben writyn in þe boke of þe wordis of þe dais of Salomon.
 xlii Forþoþe þe dais þe whyche Salomon regnede in Jerusalem vpon al Yrael, ben fourti ȝeer.
 xlvi And Salomon slept wiþ his faders, and is biried in þe citee of Dauid, his fader; and Roboam, his sone, regnede for him.

Capitulum XII.

i Roboam forþoþe cam into Sichym; þider forþoþe was gedrid al Israel to ordeyn hym a kyng.
 ii Forþoþe but Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, whanne ȝit he was in Egipt, ferre flowen fro þe face of Salomon þe kyng, þe deep of hym herd, he turnede aȝen fro Egipt;

iii and þei senten, and clepeden hym. Þanne Jeroboam and al þe multitude of Israel cam, and þei speken to Roboam, seiyng, iv Bi fader putte to vs moost hard ȝok, and so þou now mak lasse a lytil of þe heest of bi fader moost hard, and of þe moost greuous ȝok þat he haþ putte on to vs, and we shulen serue to þee.
 v Þe which seiþ to hem, Goop vnto þe þridde day, and turnep aȝen to me. And whanne þe puple was goon, vi kyng Roboam wente in counsel wiþ þe eldris, þat stoden nyȝ before Salomon, his fader, whil þat he ȝit lyued; and seiþ, What counsel ȝeuen ȝe to me, þat I answere to þe puple?
 vii Þe whiche feiden to hym, If þou obesshe to þis puple to dai, and feruest to þis puple, and to þe askynge of hem ȝeuest stede, and spekist to hem liȝt wordis, þei shulen be to þee feruauntis alle dais.
 viii Þe which forsook þe counsel of þe oold men, þat þei ȝauen to hym, and he took to hym þe ȝonge men, þat weren norishid wiþ hym, and stoden nyȝ to hym; ix and he feide to hem, What counsel ȝeuen ȝe to me, þat Y answere to þis puple, þat feiden to me, Mak liȝter þe ȝok þat bi fader putte vpon vs?
 x And þe ȝonge men feiden to hym, þat weren norishid wiþ hym, þus spek to þis puple, þat speken to þee, seiyng, Bi fader aggregide oure ȝok, þou releue vs; þus þou shalt speke to hem; My leest fyngre is gretter þan þe bak of my fader;
 xi and now my fader putte vpon ȝow a greuous ȝok, forþoþe I shal adde vpon ȝoure ȝok; my fader bette ȝow wiþ scourgis, forþoþe I shal bete ȝou wiþ scorpions.
 xii Þanne Jeroboam cam, and al þe puple, to Roboam þe þridde day, as þe kyng spak, seiyng, Turneþ aȝen to me þe þridde dai.
 xiii And þe kyng answarde to þe puple hard, forþakid þe counsel of þe eldris, þat þei hadden ȝeuen to hym;
 xiv and he spak to hem aftir þe counsel of þe ȝonge men, seiyng, My fader aggregide ȝoure ȝok, and I forþoþe shal adde to ȝoure ȝok; my fader bette ȝou wiþ scourgis, Y shal bete ȝou wiþ scorpions.
 xv And þe kyng assentide not to þe puple, for þe Lord was aȝens hym, þat he rere his word, þat þe Lord spak in þe hoond of Ahye Silonyte to Jeroboam, sone of Nabath.
 xvi And so þe puple seyng, þat þe kyng wolde not here hem, answarde to hym, seiyng, What to vs part in Dauid, or what heritage in þe sone of Ysaye? Turne aȝen into bi tabernaclis, Israel; now se þin hows, Dauid. And Yrael wente into her tabernaclis.
 xvii Vpon þe sonys forþoþe of Israel, whiche euere dwelliden in þe citees of Juda, regnede Roboam.
 xviii Þanne kyng Roboam fente to Vram, þat was vpon þe tributis; and al þe puple stoneden hym, and he is deed. Forþoþe kyng Roboam hastijf steiede vp in a chare, and fleiȝ into Jerusalem;

xix and Israel wente a wey fro þe hows of Dauid, vnto þe day þat is now.

xx It is doon forsoþe whanne al Israel hadde seen þat Jeroboam was turned aȝen, þei senten, and clepeden hym, þe oost gadryd, and þei ordeyneden hym kyng vpon al þe rewme of Yrael; ne eny man folwide þe hous of Dauid, saue þe lynage of Juda alone.

xxi Forsoþe Roboam cam to Jerusalem, and he gadride al þe hows of Juda, and þe lynage of Beniamyn, an hundrid and four score þousand of chosen men and fiȝters, þat þei fiȝten aȝens þe hows of Israel, and brynge aȝen þe rewme to Roboam, þe sone of Salomon.

xxii Forsoþe þe word of þe Lord is don to Semeyam, a man of God, seiynge, xxiii Spek to Roboam, þe sone of Salomon, kyng of Juda, and to al þe hous of Juda and of Beniamyn, and to þe toþere of þe puple, seiynge, xxiv þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, ȝe shulen not stie up, ne fiȝt aȝens ȝoure breþeren, þe sones of Israel; turne aȝen a man into his hows, of me forsoþe is doon þis word.

Þei herden þe word of þe Lord, and þei ben turned aȝen fro þe weye, as þe Lord comaundide to hem.

xxv Forsoþe Jeroboam beeldide vp Sichem, in þe hil of Effraym, and dwellide þere; and goon out þens, he beeldide vp Phanuel.

xxvi And Jeroboam feide in his herte, Now þe kyngdām shal turne aȝen to þe hows of Dauid, xxvii if þis puple stie vp, þat he doo sacrifices in þe hows of þe Lord in Jerusalem; and þe herte of þis puple shal be turned to her lord, Roboam, kyng of Juda; and þei shulen flee me, and turnen aȝen to hym.

xxviii And þe counseil out þouȝt, he made two golden calues, and feide to hem, Wole ȝe no more stye vp in to Jerusalem; loo! bi goddis, Israel, þat ladden þee out of þe loond of Egipt.

xxix And he putte oon in Bethel, and anoþer in Dan.

xxx And doon is þis word to Israel into synne; forsoþe þe puple wente to honoure þe calf, into Dan.

xxxi And he maade templis in heiȝtis, and preestis of þe eendis of þe puple, þat weren not of þe sones of Leuy.

xxxii And he ordeyned a solempne dai in þe eiȝtipe moneþ, þe fifteenþe dai of þe moneþ, into þe liknes of þe solempnete þat is halwid in Juda. And stiynge vp, lijk maner he made an auter in Bethel, þat he offre to þe calues, þe whiche he hadde forgid; and he sette in Bethel preestis of þe heiȝ þingis, þat he hadde maad.

xxxiii And he stiede vp vpon þe auter, þat he hadde maad in Bethel, þe fifteenþe day of þe eiȝtipe moneþ, þe which he feynede of his owne herte; and he made a solempnete to þe sonys of Yrael, and he stiede vp vpon þe auter, þat he brenne encense.

Capitulum XIII.

i And loo! a man of God cam fro Juda, in þe word of þe Lord, into Bethel, Jeroboam stoondyne vpon þe auter, and leiyng encense.

ii And he crieede out aȝens þe auter, in þe word of þe Lord, and seiþ, Auter! auter! þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Loo! a sone shal be born to þe hows of Dauid, Jozias bi name; and he shal offre vpon þee þe preestis of heiȝ þingis, `þe whiche now in þee encenis brennen vp, and þe boonyis of men vpon þee he shal brenne.

iii And he ȝaf in þat day a tokne, seiynge, þis shal be þe tokne þat þe Lord spak, Loo! þe auter shal be kyt, and þe askis shulen be shed out, þat in hym is.

iv And whanne þe kyng hadde herde þe word of þe man of God, þat crieede aȝens þe auter in Bethel, he strauȝte out his hoond fro þe auter, seiynge, Takþ him.
And his hoond, þat he strauȝte out aȝens hym, wex drye, and he myȝte not drawe it aȝen to hym self.

v Þe auter forsoþe is kit, and þe askis ben shed out of þe auter, after þe tokne þat þe man of God hadde seid before, in þe word of þe Lord.

vi And þe kyng seiþ to þe man of God, Besech þe face of þe Lord bi God, and preye for me, þat myn hoond be restorid to me. And þe man of God preiede þe face of God; and þe hoond of þe kyng is turned aȝen to hym, and is maad as it was before.

vii Forsoþe þe kyng spak to þe man of God, Cumme wiþ me hoom, þat þou eete, and I shal ȝyue to þee ȝiftis.

viii And þe man of God seide to þe kyng, If þou shuldist ȝyue to me þe half parti of þin hows, I shal not come wiþ þee, and I shal not eete breed, ne drynke water in þis place;

ix forsoþe so it is comaundid to me in þe word of þe Lord, comaundyne, Pou shalt not eete breed, ne drynke water, ne þou shalt turne aȝen bi þe waye þat þou cam.

x Panne he wente bi anoþer weye, and he is not turned aȝen bi þe weie, bi þe which he cam in to Bethel.

xi A maner prophete forsoþe, an oold man, dwellide in Bethel, to whom camen his sonys, and toolden to hym alle þe werkis þat þe man of God hadde doon in þat day in Bethel; and þe wordis þat he hadde spoken to þe kyng þei toolden to her fader.

xii And her fader seide to hem, Bi what weie wente he?
His sones shewed to hym þe weye, bi þe which þe man of God hadde goon, þat cam fro Juda.

xiii And he seiþ to his sones, Makþ redi to me an asse.
Þe which whanne þei hadden maad redi, he stiede vp, and wente aftir þe man of God, xiv and he foonde hym fittyng vndir a therebynt. And he seiþ to hym, Wheþer þou art þe man `of God, þat cam fro Juda? He answerde to hym, I am.

xv And he feide to hym, Come wiþ me hoom, þat þou eete breed.

xvi Be which seiþ, I may not turne aȝen, ne come wiþ bee, and I shal not eete breed, ne drynke water in þis place;
 xvii for þe Lord spak to me in þe word of þe Lord, seiyng, Bow shalt not ete breed, and þou shalt not drynke watir þere, ne þou shalt turne aȝen bi þe weye þat þou wentist.
 xviii Be which seiþ to hym, And I am a prophete lijk bee; and þe aungel spak to me in þe word of þe Lord, seiyng, Bryng hym aȝen wiþ bee into þin hous, þat he eete breed, and drynke water. He bigyilde hym, and brouȝte aȝen wiþ hym.
 xix Panne he eete breed in his hous, and drank water.
 xx And whanne he satte at þe bord, þe word of þe Lord is doon to þe prophete þat brouȝte hym aȝen;
 xxi and he criede out to þe man of God þat cam fro Juda, seiyng, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, For þou were not obeishyne to be mouȝt of þe Lord, and keptist not þe maundement þat þe Lord bi God comaundide to bee, xxii and turnedest aȝen, and eete breed, and dranke water in þe place in þe which I comaundide to bee, þat þou shuldist not eete breed, ne drynke water, bi careyn shal not be born into þe sepulcre of þi faders.
 xxiii And whanne he hadde eeten and drunken, þe prophete, whom he hadde brouȝt aȝen, made redi his affe.
 xxiv Be which whanne he was goon, a lioun foond hym in þe weye, and flewȝ. And þe careyn of hym was browun forþ in þe weye; forsoþe þe affe stood biside hym, and þe lioun stood biside þe careyn.
 xxv And loo! men goyng seen þe careyn browen in þe weye, and a lioun stondynge beside þe careyn; and þei camen, and openeden into þe citee, in þe which þat ilke olde prophete dwellide.
 xxvi Be which þing whanne þe prophete hadde herd, þat ladde him aȝen fro þe weye, seiþ, þe man of God he is, þat was vnobelhyng to be mouȝt of God; and þe Lord took hym to a lyoun, þat bruffide hym, and flewȝ hym, after þe word of þe Lord þat he spak to hym.
 xxvii And he seide to hys sonys, Makij redi to me an affe. Be which whanne þei hadden maad redi, xxviii and he is goon, he foond þe careyn of hym browun forþ in þe weye, and an affe and a lioun stondynge beside þe careyn; and þe lyoun eete not of þe careyn, ne hurte not þe affe.
 xxix Panne þe prophete took þe careyn of þe man of God, and putte it vpon þe affe; and turned aȝen, he brouȝte it in to þe citee of þe oold prophete, þat he weyle hym.
 xxx And he putte þe careyn of hym in his sepulcre, and þei weileden hym, Allas! allas! my broþere!
 xxxi And whanne þei hadden weilid hym, he seide to hys sonys, Whanne I shal be deed, birieþ me in þe sepulcre, in þe which þe man of God is biried; beside þe bonys of hym putte ȝe my bonys.

xxxii For forsoþe þe word shal come, þat he before seide in þe word of þe Lord, aȝens þe auter þat is in Bethel, and aȝens alle þe temples of þe heiȝ þingis, þat ben in þe citees of Samarye.

xxxiii Aftir þes wordis Jeroboam ys not turned awey fro his werft weye, but aȝenward he made of þe last puplis preefis of heiȝ þingis; who so euer wolde, fulfillid his hoond, and was maad a preef of heiȝ þingis.

xxxiv And for þis cause þe hows of Jeroboam synnede, and is turned vpseidoun, and doon awei fro þe vttermooſt of þe erþe.

Capitulum XIII.

i In þat tyme Abya, þe sone of Jeroboam, wexe ſijke.

ii And Jeroboam feide to his wif, Ryse, and chaunge abijt, þat þou be not knowun, þat bow be þe wif of Jeroboam; and go in to Silo, where Ahya, þe prophet, is, þe which spak to me, þat I was to regne vpon þis puple.

iii Tak forsoþe in þin hoond ten looues, and a litil kake, and a vessel of hony, and go to hym; forsoþe he shal shewe to þee, what ben to come to þis child.

iv Þe wif dide as Jeroboam feide, and arysynghe she wente into Silo, and cam into þe hows of Ahye; and he myȝte not fe, for þe eyen of hym hadden dasewide for eeld.

v Forsoþe þe Lord feide to Ahym, Loo! þe wif of Jeroboam is comen in, þat she counsele þee vpon hire sone, þat is ſijk; þes þingys and þes þou shalt speke to hire. Panne whanne she was comen yn, and hadde vnlikned hire ſelf to be þat she was,

vi Ahias herde þe ſoun of þe feet of hire comyng in bi þe dore, and seiþ, Cum in, wif of Jeroboam; whi anopir þow feynest þee to be? Forsoþe I am ſent to þee an hard meſſagere.

vii Go, and ſey to Jeroboam, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Israel, For I haue enhaunſid þee fro þe myddis of þe puple, and ȝaf þee duyk vpon my puple Israel, viii and kytte þe rewme of þe hows of Dauid, and ȝaf it to þee, and þow was not as my ſeruant Dauid, þat kepte myn heefis, and folwide me in al his herte, doyng þat was pleſyng in my ſiȝt;

ix but þou haſt wrouȝt euil, ouere alle þat weren before þee, and þou haſt maad alien goddis to þee, and ȝoten, þat þou terre me to wrapþe, forsoþe þou haſt browen me behynde bi bak.

x Perfor loo! I shal bryng yn yuels vpon þe hows of Jeroboam, and I shal ſmyte fro Jeroboam vnto a piffere at þe wal, and cloſide, and laſt in Yrael; and I shal cleſe þe relikis of þe hows of Jeroboam, as is wont to be clensid muk vnto þe pure;

xi forsoþe þoo þat weren deed of Jeroboam in þe citee, houndis shulen eete hem; forsoþe þoo þat weren deed in þe feeld, briddes of heuene shulen deuowre hem;

xii for þe Lord spak. Pou þerfor ryse, and go into þin hows; and in þat goyng in of þi feet in to þe cytee þe child shal dye.

xiii And al Yrael shal beweile hym, and berye; forsoþe he alone shal be brouȝt yn of Jeroboam in to þe sepulcre, for þere is founden vpon hym a good word of þe Lord God of Yrael, in þe hows of Jeroboam.

xiv þe Lord forsoþe shal ordeyne to hym a kyng vpon Israel, þat smyte þe hows of Jeroboam, in þis day and in þis tyme;

xv and þe Lord God of Israel shal smyit, as a reede in water is wont to be moued; and he shal pulle vp Israel fro þis good loond, þat he ȝaf to þe faders of hem, and he shal wyndowe hem beþonde þe flood, for þei maden to hem mawmet wodis, þat þei terren þe Lord.

xvi And þe Lord God shal take Israel to her enemyes, for þe synnes of Jeroboam, þe which synnede, and made Israel to synne.

xvii And so þe wijf of Jeroboam roos, and wente, and cam into Tharfa; and whanne she wente in þe preshwold of þe hows, þe child dyede.

xviii And þei birieden hym; and al Israel weylide hym, aftir þe word of þe Lord, þe which he spak in þe hoond of his seruaunt, Ahye þe prophete.

xix þe remenaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Jeroboam, how he fauȝt, and how he regnede, loo! þei ben writhen in þe book of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Yrael.

xx þe dais forsoþe, in 'þe whiche regnede Jeroboam, ben two and twenti ȝeer; and Jeroboam slepte wiþ his fadres, and Naadab, his sone, regnede for hym.

xxi Forsoþe Roboam, þe sone of Salomon, regnede in Juda; of oon and fourti ȝeer was Roboam whanne he began to regne, and seuenteen ȝeer he regnede vpon Jerusalem, þe citee þat þe Lord chees, þat he putte his name þere, of alle þe lynagis of Israel. þe name forsoþe of his moder, Naama Amanyte.

xxii And Juda dide yuel before þe Lord, and þei terreden hym vpon alle þingis, þat þe faders of him diden in her synnes, þat þei synneden.

xxiii Forsoþe and þei beeldiden vp to hem self auterys, and ymagis, and mawmet wodis, vpon al heiȝ hil, and vndur eche tree ful of braunchis.

xxiv But men maad wommanlich weren in þe loond, and þei diden alle þe abhomynaciouns of heben men, þe whiche þe Lord al to-trade before þe face of þe sonys of Israel.

xxv Forsoþe in þe fifþe ȝeer of þe regne of Roboam, Sefac, þe kyng of Egipt, stiede vp into Jerufalem; xxvi and he took þe tresours of þe hous of þe Lord, and þe kyngis tresours, and alle þingis he brak in two, and þe golden sheeldis þat Salomon made.

xxvii For þe whiche kyng Roboam made braſen sheeldis, and took hem in þe hoond of þe duykis sheeldberers, and of hem þat watchiden before þe doore of þe hows of þe kyng.

xxviii And whanne þe kyng wente into þe hows of þe Lord, þei beeren hem, þat hadden þe office of goyng before, and afterward þei brouȝten aȝen to þe armerye place of þe sheeldberers.

xxix þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Roboam, and alle þingis þat he dide, loo! ben writhen in þe book of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Juda.

xxx And þere batayl was bitwix Roboam and Jeroboam alle dais.

xxxi And Roboam slepte wiþ his faders, and is biried wiþ hem in þe citee of Dauid. Forsoþe name of his moder, Naama Amanyte; and Abya, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XV.

i Thanne in þe eiȝteteneþe ȝeer of þe regne of Jeroboam, þe sone of Naabath, regnede Abya vpon Judam.

ii Pre ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his moder Macha, þe douȝter of Abessalon.

iii And he wente in alle þe synnes of his fader, þe whiche he hadde doon before hym; ne þe herte of hym was parfite wiþ þe Lord his God, as þe herte of Dauid, his fader.

iv But for Dauid þe Lord his God ȝaf to hym a lanterne in Jerusalem, þat he rere his sone aftyr hym, and stoonde in Jerusalem;

v for bi þat Dauid hadde doo riȝt in þe eyen of þe Lord, and hadde not bowid awey fro alle þingis þat he hadde comaundide to hym, alle days of his liȝf, out taak þe word of Vrie Ethei.

vi Neuerþelater þere was batail betwix Abyam and Jeroboam, al tyme of his liȝf.

vii þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Abya, and alle þingis þat he dide, whebir not þes ben writhen in þe book of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda? And þere was batail betwix Abyam and Jeroboam.

viii And Abya slepte wiþ his faders; and þei biryden hym in þe cite of Dauid; and Afa, his sone, regnede for hym.

ix Forsoþe in þe twentieþe ȝeer of Jeroboam, kyng of Israel, regnede Afa, kyng of Juda;

x and oon and fourti ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem. Name of his moder, Macha, þe douȝter of Abessalon.

xi And Afa dide riȝt in þe siȝt of þe Lord, as Dauid, his fader;

xii and he took awey þe wommannish maad men of þe loond, and he purgide alle þe filpis of þe mawmets, 'þe whiche his fadris maden.

xiii Ferþermore and his moder Macham he 'putte awey, þat she were not prince in þe heriȝng þingis of þe mawmet of mannis ȝeerde, and in his 'mawmet wode þat she hadde halowide; and he turnede vpsodoun þe den of hym, and he to-brak þe foulest lices, and brente in þe steem of Cedron;

xiiii forsoþe þe heiȝ þingis he dide not awey; neuerþelater þe herte of Aſa was perfijt wiþ þe Lord his God, alle his dais.
 xv And he brouȝte in þo þingis, þe whiche his fader hadde halowid and vowede, into þe hows of þe Lord, filuer, and gold, and vesseſ.
 xvi Forſoþe batayl þere was betwix Aſa and Baafa, kyng of Irael, alle þe dais of hem.
 xvii Forſoþe Baafa, þe kyng of Yrael, ſtiede vp into Juda, and he beeldide Rama, þat no man myȝte goon out, or goon yn, fro þe parti of Aſa, kyng of Juda.
 xviii And fo Aſa takinge al þe filuer and gold, þat laſte in þe tresours of þe hows of þe Lord, and in þe tresours of þe kyngis hows, ȝaf into þe hoondis of his feruauntis; and ſente to Benadab, þe ſone of Trabemnon, þe ſone of Oſyon, kyng of Cyrye, þat dwellide in Damasch, feiynge, xix Couenaunt of pees is betwix me and þee, and betwix my fader and þi fader, and þerfor to þee I haue ſent ȝiftis, gold, and filuer; and I alſke, þat þou come, and make at nouȝt þe boond of pees, þat þou haſt wiþ Baafa, þe kyng of Israel, and he goo awey fro me.
 xx Affentyng Benadab to kyng Aſa, ſente þe princis of his ooft into þe citees of Yrael; and þei ſmiten Ahion, and Dayr, and Abel, and þe hows of Maacha, and al Seneroth, þat is, al þe loond of Neptaly.
 xxi þe which þing, whanne Baafa hadde herd, he laſte to beelde vp Rama, and he turnede aȝen into Tharsa.
 xxii Forſoþe kyng Aſa ſente a messager into al Juda, feiynge, No man be excusid. And þei token þe ſtoonus of Rama, and þe trees of it, wiþ þe whiche Baafa hadde beeldid; and kyng Aſa made out of þe fame Gabaa of Beniamyn, and Mafpha. xxiii þe remnaunt forſoþe of alle þe wordis of Aſa, and of al his ſtrengþ, and alle þingis þat he dide, and þe citees þat he made vp, wheþir not þes ben writen in þe book of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda?
 Neuerþelater in þe tyme of his eelde he akide þe feet.
 xxiv And Aſa flepte wiþ his faders, and is biryed wiþ hem in þe citee of Dauid his fader; and Josaphath, his ſone, regnede for hym.
 xxv Nadab forſoþe, þe ſone of Jeroboam, regnede vpon Israel, þe fecounde zeer of Aſa, þe kyng of Juda; and he regnede vpon Yrael two zeer.
 xxvi And he dide þat is yuel in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord, and wente in þe weies of his fader, and in þe synnes of hym, in þe whiche he made Israel to synne.
 xxvii Forſoþe Baafa, þe ſone of Ahia, of þe hows of Yſachar, weytide to hym, and ſmoot hym in Jebethon, þat is þe citee of Philisteis; forſoþe Naadab and al Yrael beſegiden Jebothon.
 xxviii þanne Baafa flewȝ hym, in þe þridde zeer of Aſa, þe kyng of Juda, and regnede for hym.
 xxix And whanne he hadde regned, he ſmoot al þe hows of Jeroboam; and he laſt not forſoþe not oon liȝt of his feed, to þe tyme þat he dide awey hym, after þe word of þe Lord, þat he ſpak in þe hoond of his feruaunt, Ahye Silonyte, propheþe, xxx for þe synnes of Jeroboam, þe whiche he hadde synned, and wiþ whiche he hadde made Israel to synnen, and for þe trespass, in þe which he hadde terred þe Lord God of Yrael.

 xxxi þe remnaunt forſoþe of þe wordis of Naadab, and alle þingis þat he wrouȝte, wheþer not þes ben wrytyn in þe book of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Yrael?
 xxxii And þere was batail betwix Aſa and Baafa, king of Yrael, alle þe dais of hem.
 xxxiii þe þridde zeer of Aſa, kyng of Juda, regnede Baafa, þe ſone of Ahia, vpon al Yrael, in Tharsa, foure and twenti zeer.
 xxxiv And he dide yuel before þe Lord, and he wente in þe weyes of Jeroboam, and in þe synnes of hym, in þe whiche he made Israel to synne.

Capitulum XVI.

i Forſoþe þe word of þe Lord is doon to Yau, þe ſone of Anany, aȝens Baafa, feiynge, ii Forþi þat I haue enhaunſid þee fro powdre, and ſette þee duyk vpon Yrael, my puple; forſoþe þow haſt goon in þe weie of Jeroboam, and haſt maad my puple Israel to synne, þat þow terre me in þe synnes of hem; iii and lo! I ſhal kitte of þe hyndirmore of Baafa, and þe hyndirmores of þe hows of hym, and I ſhal make þin hows as þe hows of Jeroboam, þe ſone of Naabath.
 iv Who were deed of Baafa in þe citee, houndis ſhulen eete hym, and who were deed of hym in þe regiou[n], þe foulis of heuen ſhulen eete hym.
 v Forſoþe þe remnaunt of þe wordis of Baafa, and what euer þingis he dide, and þe batayls of hym, wheþer not þes ben wrytyn in þe bokis of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Israel?
 vi þanne Baafa flepte wiþ his faders, and is biryed in Tharsa; and Hela his ſone, regnede for hym.
 vii Forſoþe whanne in þe hond of Yau, þe ſone of Anany, þe propheþe, þe word of þe Lord was maad aȝens Baafa, and aȝens þe hows of hym, and aȝens al þe yuel þat he hadde doon before þe Lord, to terren hym in þe werkis of his hondis, þat he were maad as þe hows of Jeroboam, for þis cauſe he flewȝ hym, þat is, Yau, þe ſone of Anany, þe propheþe.
 viii þe fixe and twentiȝe zeer of Aſa, þe kyng of Juda, regnede Hela, þe ſone of Baafa, vpon Yrael, in Tharsa, two zeer.
 ix And aȝens hym rebellid Zamry, his feruaunt, duyk of þe half partie of þe horfmen; forſoþe Hela was in Tharsa, drynkynge and drunken in þe hows of Arfa, prefecþ of Tharsa.
 x þanne Zamry fallinge on ſmoot, and flewȝ hym, þe ſeuен and twentiȝe zeer of Aſa, kyng of Jude; and he regnyde for hym.

xi And whanne he hadde regned, and sitten vpon his see, he smoot al þe hows of Baasa, and he latte not of yt a piffer to þe wal, and 'þe kynne, and þe freendis of
hym.
xii And Zamri dide aweye al þe hows of Baasa, after þe word of þe Lord, þat he hadde spoken to Baasa, in þe hoond of Yau, þe prophete, xiii for alle þe synnes of Baasa, and þe synnes of Hela, his fone, þe whiche synneden, and maden Ifrael to synne, terryng þe Lord God of Israel in her vanitees.
xiv Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Hela, and alle þingis þat he dide, wheþer not þes ben writhin in þe boke of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Israel?
xv Þe seuen and twentiþe ȝeer of Aſa, kyng of Juda, regnede Zamri seuen dais in Tharsa; forsoþe an oost besegide Jebethon, þe citee of Philistees.
xvi And whanne it hadde herde Zamri to han rebellid, and to han sleyn þe king, al Ifrael made to hem a kyng Amry, þat was prince of þe chyualri vpon Israel, in þat dai, in þe tentis.
xvii Panne Amri stiede vp, and al Ifrael wiþ him, fro Jebethon, and segiden Tharsa.
xviii Forsoþe Zamri feynge, þat þe cite was to be ouercomen, he wente in to þe paleis, and brende vp him self wiþ þe kyngis hous;
xix and is deed in his synnes þat he synnede, doyng yuel before þe Lord, and goyng in þe weye of Jeroboam, and in þe synnes of hym, by þe whiche he made Yrael to synne.
xx Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Zamry, and of þe spies of him, and of þe tyraundise, wheþir þes ben not writhyn in þe book of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Yrael?
xxi Panne þe puple of Israel is deuydid in two parties; þe half partye of þe puple folwide Thebny, þe fone of Jeneth, þat he ordeyne hym kyng, and þe half parti Amry.
xxii Forsoþe þe puple þat was wiþ Amry hadde þe ouerhoond ouer þe puple þat folwide Thebny, þe fone of Jeneth; and Thebny is deed, and Amry regnede.
xxiii Þe oon and pretty ȝeer of Aſa, kyng of Juda, regnede Amry vpon Yrael, twelue ȝeer; in Tharsa he regnede fixe ȝeer.
xxiv And he bouȝte þe hille of Samarye of Somer for two talents of siluer, and he beeldide it; and he clepide þe name of þe citee, þat he bielde vp, by þe name of Somer, þat is, þe hil of þe Lord, or þe hil of Samarye.
xxv Forsoþe Amry dide yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, and he wroȝte wickidly, ouer alle þat weren before hym.
xxvi And he wente in al þe weye of Jeroboam, þe fone of Nabath, and in þe synnes of hym, bi þe whiche he made Israel to synne, þat he terre þe Lord God of Israel in his vanitees.
xxvii Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Amry, and þe batailis of hym, þat he dide, wheþer not þes ben wryten in þe book of þe wordis of þe dais of þe kyngis of Israel?

xxviii And Amry flepte wiþ his faders, and is biried in Samarye; and Achab, his fone, regnede for hym.
xxix Achab forsoþe, þe fone of Amry, regnede on Israel þe eiȝt and prettypre ȝeer of Aſa, kyng of Juda; and Achab, þe fone of Amry, regnede vpon Israel, in Samarie, two and twenti ȝeer.
xxx And Achab, þe fone of Amry, dide yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, ouer alle þat weren before hym; xxxi ne it suffiside to hym þat he ȝede in þe synnes of Jeroboam, þe fone of Naaboth, but 'more ouere he weddie a wijf, Jezabel, þe douȝter of Methaal, kyng of Sydonyes; and he wente, and seruede to Baal, and honourde hym.
xxxii And he sette an auter of Baal in þe temple of Baal, þat he hadde beeldid vp in Samarye, xxxiii and he plauntide a maumet wode; and Achab addide in his werke, terryng þe Lord God of Yrael, ouer alle þe kyngis of Israel þat weren before hym.
xxxiv In þe dais forsoþe of hym Ahiel of Bethel beeldide vp Jericho; in Abiram, his fyrst goten, he foundide it, and in Segub, his last, he sette þe zatis of it, after þe word of þe Lord, þat he hadde spokyn in þe hoond of Josue, þe fone of Nun.

Capitulum XVII.

i And Helias Telsbites, of þe dwellers of Galaad, seide to Achab, þe Lord God of Yrael lyueþ, in whos siȝt Y ftond, if þere shal be þes ȝeiris dewe and reyn, but after þe wordis of my mouȝ.
ii And þe word of þe Lord is maad to hym, feynge, iii Go aweye hens, and go aȝens þe eft, and be hidde in þe streem of Carith, þat is aȝens Jordan, iv and þere þou shalt drynke of þe streem; and to þe crowis I haue comaundide, þat þei feden þee þere.
v Panne he wente, and dide after þe word of þe Lord; and whanne he hadde gon, he sat in þe streem of Carith, þat is aȝens Jordan.
vi And þe crowis brouȝten to hym breed and flesh erly;
also at euen; and he dranke of þe streem.
vii Forsoþe after summe days þe streem is dried;
forsoþe it hadde not reyned vpon erþe.
viii Panne þe word of þe Lord is do to hym, feynge, ix Ryis, and go 'into Sarept of Sidonyes, and þow shalt dwelle þere; forsoþe I haue comaundid þere to a womman widowe, þat she fede þee.
x And he roos, and wente into Sarept of Sidonyes; and whanne he was comyn to þe ȝate of þe citee, a womman widowe aperide to hym gederynge stickis; and he clepide hire, and seide to her, ȝif to me a litil of water in a vessel, þat I drynke.
xi And whanne she wente, þat she bryng to, he criede bihynde þe bak of her, feynge, Bryng to me, I beseeche, and a morsel of breed in þin hoond.

xii Be which answerde, Be Lord þy God lyueþ, for I haue not breed, but as myche as an handful may take of mele in a stene, and a litol of oyle in an oyle vesse; loo! I gedre stikkis, þat I goo yn, and make it to me, and to my sone, þat we eten and dien.

xiii To whom seip Helias, Wole þou not drede, but go, and do as þow haft seid; neuerþelater to me first make of þat litil mele a litil loof, baken vndre þe asshen, and bryng to me; forsoþe to þee and to þi sone þou shalt make afterward.

xiv Pes þingis forsoþe seip þe Lord God of Israel, Be stene of mele shal noȝt fayle, ne þe vessel of oyle shal not be mynushid, vnto þe day in þe which þe Lord is to ȝyue reyn vpon þe face of þe erþe.

xv Be which wente, and dide after þe word of Helye; and he ete, and she, and hir hows.

xvi And fro þat dai þe stene of mele failide not, and þe vessel of oile is not mynushid, after þe word of þe Lord, þat he hadde spokyn in þe hoond of Helye.

xvii It is doon forsoþe after þes wordis, þe sone of an huswif womman wexe sijk, and þe langour was moost strong, so þat þere lafte not in hym breeþ.

xviii Panne she feide to Helias, What to me and to þee, þou man of God? þou wentist into me, þat my wickidnesse shulden be remembred, and þou shuldist flee my sone.

xix And Helias seip to hire, ȝif to me þi sone. And he took him fro hir bosum, and bare in to þe sowping place, where he dwellide; and putte hym vpon his litil bed.

xx And he criede to þe Lord, and feide, Lord, my God, also wheþer þe widowe, anentis whom Y ȝit am fusteyned, þou haft tourmentid, þat þow flee þe sone of hire?

xxi And he sprade out hym self, and mesurede vpon þe child þre sibis, and criede to þe Lord, and seip, Lord my God, þe soule of þis child, Y beseché, be turned aȝen into þe bowels of hym.

xxii And þe Lord herde þe voys of Helias, and þe soule of þe child is turned aȝen wiþ ynne hym, and he aȝen quikenye.

xxiii And Helias took þe child, and putte it doun fro þe sowpyng place in to þe nedre hows, and took to his moder; and he seip to hire, Lo! þi sone lyueþ.

xxiv And þe womman feide to Helias, Now in þis Y haue knowe, for þe man of God þow ert, and þe word of God in þi mouþ is soþe.

Capitulum XVIII.

i Aftir manye dais þe word of þe Lord is doo to Helias, in þe þridde ȝeer, seiyng, Go, and shewe þee to Achab, þat I ȝeue reyn vpon þe face of þe erþe.

ii Panne Helias wente þat he shewe hym to Achab; forsoþe þere was hidows hungre in Samarye.

iii And Achab clepide Abdiam, þe stiward of his hows; forsoþe Abdias dradde þe Lord God of Yrael myche. iv For whanne Jesabel shulde flee þe prophetis of þe Lord, he took an hundrid prophetis, and hidde hem, fifti and fifti, in dennys, and he fedde hem wiþ breed and water.

v Panne Achab feide to Abdias, Go in to þe loond, to alle þe welles of watriis, and into alle valeis, if peraduenture we mowen fynde herbe, and faue hors and mulis; and þe beefis fulli dien not.

vi And þei deuydeden þe regiouns to hem self, þat þei goon about hem; Achab wente bi o weye, and Abdias bi anoþer, aside.

vii And whanne Abdias was in þe weie, Helias aȝen cam to hym; þe which whanne he hadde knownen hym, he felle vpon his face, and seip, Wheþir þou art my lord Helias?

viii To whom he answerde, Y. And he feide, Go, and sey to þi lord, Helias is neij.

ix And he, What haue I synned, he seip, for þou takist me, þi feruaunt, in þe hoond of Achab, þat he flee me? x Pe Lord þi God lyueþ, for þere is not folk or rewme, in þe whiche my lord haþ not sent, sechynge þee; and alle men answerynge, He is not here, he haþ adiurid alle rewmes 'and folkis, for þi þat þou art not foundun; xi and now þou feist to me, Go, and sey to þi lord, Helie is neij.

xii And whanne I shal goo aweye fro þee, þe Spiryt of þe Lord shal bere þee aweye into a place þat I knowe not; and Y goon yn, shal telle to Achab, and not fyndyng þee, he shal flee me; þi feruaunt forsoþe dredip þe Lord fro his ȝongþ.

xiii Wheþir is it not shewid to þee, my lord, what I haue doon, whanne Jesabel shulde flee þe prophetis of þe Lord, þat I hidde of þe prophetis of þe Lord an hundrid men, fifti and fifti, in dennys, and fedde hem wiþ breed and water?

xiv And now þow feist, Go, and sey to þi lord, Helye is neij, þat he flee me.

xv And Helyas feide, Pe Lord of ooftis lyueþ, before whos cheer I stonde, for to day Y shal apere to hym.

xvi Panne Abdias wente into þe aȝen comynge of Achab, and shewide to hym; and Achab cam into þe aȝen comynge to Helye.

xvii And whanne he hadde seen hym, seip, Wheþer art þou not he, þat disturblist Israel?

xviii And he seip, I haue not disturblid Israel, but þow, and þe hows of þi fader, þat haft forsakyn þe heftis of þe Lord, and ȝe han folowid Baalym.

xix Neuerþelater now send, and gadre to me al Yrael, in þe hil of Carmele, and þe prophetis of Baal foure hundrid and fifti, and þe prophetis of mawmet wodis foure hundrid, þat eten of þe bord of Jezebel.

xx Achab sente to alle þe sonys of Yrael, and gaderide þe prophetis in þe hil of Carmele.

xxi Forsoþe Helie comynge nyȝ to al þe puple of Yrael, seip, How long halt ȝe into two parties? If þe Lord is God, folwiþ hym; forsoþe if Baal, folwiþ hym. And þe puple answerde not to hym a word.

xxii And eft Elias seip to þe puple, I am laſt a prophet of þe Lord alone; þe prophetis forsoþe of Baal foure hundryd and fifti, and þe prophetis of mawmète wodis ben foure hundrid.

xxiii Be þere ȝouen to vs two oxen; and cheſe þei oon oxe, and hewyng in gobetis þei ſhulen leye vpon trees, forsoþe fier vndurputen þei not; and Y ſhal make anopir oxe, and putten vpon trees, and fier I ſhal not putte vndur.

xxiv Inwardly clepe ȝe þe name of ȝowre goddis, and I ſhal inwardly clepe þe name of my God; and God þat heriþ bi þe fier, he be God. Al þe puple answerynge feip, Beſt þe propoficioun, þat Helias fpac.

xxv Panne Helias feide to þe prophetis of Baal, Cheſip to ȝou an oxe, and doþ firſt, for ȝe ben moo; and inwardli clepiþ þe namys of ȝoure goddis, and puttiþ not vndir fier.

xxvi Þe whiche whanne þei hadden take þe oxe, þat he ȝaf hem, þei diden, and inwardli clepiden þe name of Baal, fro erly vnto myddai, feiyng, Baal, here vs! And þere was not voys þat ſhulde anſwerte; and þei ſkipten ouer þe auter, þat þei maden.

xxvii And whanne now was myddai, Helye ſcornyde to hem, feiyng, Crieþ wiþ a more voys, forſoþe ȝoure god is, and perauenture wiþ anoþer he ſpekiþ, or in a turnynge in place, or in þe weye, or certis he ſlepiþ, þat he be wakid.

xxviii Panne þei crieren wiþ a greet voys, and þei cuttiden hem ſelf, after her rijt, wiþ ſheeris and litil launcis, to þe tyme þat þei weren alle beſhed wiþ blood.

xxix Forſoþe aftir þat mydday was paſſid, and hem propheciyng, þe tyme was comen, þe which is wont facrifice to be offrid, and vois is not herd, ne eny man anſwerde, ne took heed to þe praiyng.

xxx And Helye feide to al þe puple, Comeþ to me. And þe puple neiȝyng to hym, he curede þe auter of þe Lord, þat was deſtruyed.

xxxi And he took twelue ſtonus, after þe noumber of þe lynagis of þe ſonyſ of Jacob, to whom þe word of þe Lord is maad, feiyng, Yrael ſhal be þi name.

xxxii And he beeldide vp an auter of ſtonus, in name of þe Lord, and he made a water cundid, as by two litil forwiſ in enuyroun of þe auter.

xxxiii And he putte togidre þe wode, and he deuydide bi membris þe oxe, and leide vpon þe wode, and feip, xxxiv Filliþ foure ſtenys wiþ water, and heeldiþ vpon þe brent facrifice, and vpon þe wode. And eft he feide, Alſo þe fecounde doþ þis. Þe which whanne þei hadden doo þe fecounde, he feip, Alſo þe þridde þat fame þing doþ; and þei diden þe þridde.

xxxv And þe watriſ runnen aboue þe auter, and þe dijch of þe water cundid is fillid.

xxxvi And whanne now was tyme, þat brent facrifice ſhulde be offred, þe propofete Helias comynge nyȝ ſeip, Lord God of Abraham, and of Yſaac, and of Yrael, to day ſhew for þow art God of Yrael, and Y þi feruaunt, and after þin heeft haue doon alle þes wordis.

xxxvii Here me, Lord; here me, Lord; þat þis puple lerne, for þou art Lord God, and þou haſt conuertid þe herte of hem eftſonyſ.

xxxviii Forſoþe þe fijr of þe Lord felle, and deuowride þe brent facrifice, and þe wode, and þe ſtonus, forſoþe þe powdre, and þe water þat was in þe water cundid lickynge.

xxxix Þe which þing whanne al þe puple hadde ſeen, he felle in to his face, and feip, Þe Lord he is God; þe Lord he is God.

xl And Helias feide to hem, Takip þe prophetis of Baal; ne oon forſoþe flee aweye of hem. Whom whanne þei hadden cauȝt, Helie ladde hem to þe ſtreem of Syfon, and flowȝ hem þere.

xli And Helie ſeip to Achab, Sty vp, and eet, and drynk, for ſown of myche reyn is.

xlii Achab ſtiede up, þat he eete and drynke; Helyas forſoþe ſtyeȝede up into þe hil of Carmel, and bowede into þe erþe, putte his face betwixe his knees.

xliii And he feide to hys child, Styte vp, and behold aȝens þe fee. Þe whiche whanne he hadde ſtyed vp, and lokid, feip, Per is no þing. And eft he ſeip to hym, Turn aȝen ſeuuen ſiþis.

xliii Forſoþe in þe ſeuuenþe ſiþ, loo! a litil clowde as þe ſtep of a man ſtiede vp fro þe fee. Þe which ſeip, Sty vp, and ſey to Achab, Ioyn þi chare, and cum down, leſt reyn before occupye þee.

xlv And whanne þei hadden turned hem ſelf hidir and þidir, loo! heuenes ben derkid, and clowde, and wynde, and þere is maad a greet reyn. And fo Achab ſtifyinge vp wente into Jezrael;

xlii and þe hoond of þe Lord was vpon Helias, and þe reynys gird, he ranne before Achab, to þe tyme þat he cam into Jezrael.

Capitulum XIX.

i Achab forſoþe tooerde to Jezabel alle þingis þat Helias hadde doon, and what maner wife he hadde flayn alle þe prophetis of Baal bi ſword.

ii And Jezabel ſente a messenger to Helias, feiyng, Pes þingis doon to me goddis, and þes adden, but þis our to morwe I ſhal putte þi liſ as þe liſ of oon of hem.

iii Panne Helias dradde, and riſyng wente whidir euer þe wil bare hym; and he cam into Bersabe of Juda, and laſte his child þere;

iv and wente into deſert, þe weye of o day. And whanne he was comen, and fatte vndir an yue tree, he aſkide to his ſoule, þat he die; and feip, Lord, it ſuffiſiþ to me, tak awey my lijf; forsoþe ne I am betere þan my faders.

v And he þrewe hym self doun, and slepte in þe shadew of þe yue tree. And loo! þe aungel of þe Lord touchide hym, and feide to hym, Rijs, and eet.

vi He biheelde, and loo! at his heed a loof bakyn vndur affhen, and a vessel of water. Panne he ete, and drank, and eft he slepte.

vii And þe aungel of þe Lord is turned aȝen þe secounde, and touchide hym; and he feide to hym, Rijs, and eet; forsoþe a greet weye fallip to þee.

viii Þe which whanne he hadde rysen, ete, and drank; and he wente in þe strengþ of þat meete fourti days and fourti nyȝtis, vnto þe hil of God, Oreb.

ix And whanne he was comen þidir, he dwellide in þe denne; and loo! þe word of þe Lord to hym, and feide to hym, What doft þow here, Helyas?

x And he answarde, Bi loue I haue loued, for þe Lord God of ooftis; for þe sonys of Yrael han forsaken þe couenaunt of þe Lord; þin auters þei han distruyed, and þi prophetis þei han flayn bi swerd; and I am laft alone, and þei sechen my lijf, þat þei doon it aweye.

xi And he seiþ to hym, Go out, and stond in þe hil, before þe Lord. And loo! þe Lord passip, and a greet wynde, and a stroong, and turnyng vpfedoun hillis, and togidre broosyng stonus before þe Lord; not in þe wynde þe Lord. Also after þe wynde quauynge; not in þe quauynge þe Lord.

xii And aftir þe quauynge fijr; not in þe fier þe Lord. And after þe fier whistlynge of a þinne blast; þere þe Lord.

xiii Þe which þing whanne Helias hadde herd, he couerde his cheer wiþ a mantil, and goon out, he stode in þe dore of þe denne. And a vois seiþ to hym, seiyng, What doft þou here, Helias?

xiv And he answarde, Bi loue I haue loued, for þe Lord God of ooftis; for þe sonys of Yrael han forsakyn þi couenaunt; þin auters þei han distruyed, and þi prophetis þei han flayn wiþ swerd; and Y am laft alone, and þei sechen my lijf, þat þei don it awey.

xv And þe Lord seiþ to hym, Go, and turn aȝen in to þi weye, bi desert, into Damalch; and whanne þou comest þidre, þow shalt anoynte Azael kyng vpon Syrye; xvi and Hieu, þe sone of Nampfy, þou shalt anoynt kyng vpon Yrael; Helisee forsoþe, þe sone of Saphat, þat is of Abel Mewla, þow shalt anoynte prophete for þee.

xvii And it shal be, who so euere fleeþ þe swerd of Azael, Hyeu shal flee hym; and who so euere shal flee þe swerd of Hieu, Helisee shal flee hym.

xviii And I shal leeue to me in Yrael seuen þousand of men, of whom þe knees ben not bowid before Baal, and al mouþ þat haþ not honourde hym, kyllynge þe hoond.

xix Panne Helias goon forþ þens, foonde Helisee, þe sone of Saphath, erynge in twelue ȝockis of oxen; and he in þe twelue ȝockis of oxen erynge was oon. And whanne Helias was comen to hym, he putte his mantil vpon him.

xx Þe which anoon, þe oxen laft, ranne aftir Helias, and seiþ, Kysse Y, I preye þee, my fader and my moder, and so I shal folwe þee. And he feide to hym, Go, and turn aȝen; forsoþe þat þat was myn I haue doon to þee.

xxi And turned aȝen forsoþe fro hym, he took a peyr oxen, and flewȝ it; and in þe plowȝ of oxen he seþide flesh, and ȝaf to þe puple, and þei eten; and ryfynge he wente, and folwide Helyas, and feruede to hym.

Capitulum XX.

i Benadab forsoþe, kyng of Cyrye, gederide al his oost, and two and þreti kyngis wiþ him, and hors, and charris; and stiynge vp aȝens Samarye faȝt, and besegide it.

ii And sendyng messageris to Achab, kyng of Yrael, in to þe citee, seiþ, þes þingis seiþ Benadab, iii þi filuer and þi gold is myn, and þi wyues, and þi sones alþerbest ben myn.

iv And þe kyng of Israel answarde, Aftir þi word, my lord kyng, I am þin, and alle miyn.

v And þe messageris turnyng aȝen seiden, þes þingis seiþ Benadab, þat sente vs to þee, þi filuer, and þi gold, and þi wyues, and þi sonys þou shalt ȝyue to me.

vi To morwe þanne, þis same hour, I shal fende my seruauntis to þee, and þei shulen aferchen þin hows, and þe hows of þi seruauntis; and al þing þat to hem shal plese, þei shulen putte in her hoondis, and taken aweye.

vii Þe kyng of Yrael forsoþe clepide alle þe eldrys of þe loond, and seiþ, Takij hede, and seeþ, for he aspiȝ to vs; forsoþe he sente to me for my wyues, and sonys, and for filuer, and gold, and I forsooke not.

viii And alle þe more þurȝ birȝ seiden, and al þe puple to hym, Here þou not, ne assent þou to hym.

ix And he answarde to þe messageris of Benadab, Seiþ to my lord þe kyng, Alle þingis for þe whiche þou hast sent to me, þi seruaunt, in þe bigynnynge I shal do; forsoþe þis þing I may not doo. And þe messageris turned aȝen, tolden alle þingis to hym.

x Þe which sente aȝen, and seiþ, þes þingis doon to me goddis, and þes þingis adden þei, if þe powdre of Samarye suffisiȝ to be handfulles of al þe puple þat folwiþ me.

xi And answerynge þe kyng of Yrael seiþ, Seiþ to hym, Ne glorye evenly þe gird as þe vngird.

xii It is doo forsoþe, whanne Benadab hadde herd þis word, he drank, and þe kyngis, in hiletis; and he seiþ to his seruauntis, Enuyrounith þe citee. And þei enuyrounden it.

xiii And loo! a prophet comyng nyȝ to Achab, kyng of Yrael, seiþ to hym, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God, Certis þow haft seen al þis multitude ful myche; loo! I shal take it into þin hoond to day, þat þow wite for I am a Lord.

xiv And Achab seip, Bi whom? And he seide to hym, Þes þingis seip þe Lord, Bi þe foot folowers of þe pryncis of prouyncis. And he seip, Who shal bigynne to fiȝte. And he seide, Pow.

xv Panne he noumbride þe children of þe princis of prouyncis, and he founde þe noumbre of two hundryd and two and þretti; and he tooerde after hem þe puple, alle þe sones of Yrael, seuen þousand.

xvi And þei wenten out at mydday. Benadab forsoþe drank drunken in his hilet, and kyngis two and þretti wiþ hym, 'þe whiche weren comen to þe help of hym.

xvii Forsoþe þe children of þe princis of prouyncis ben goon out in þe first frout. And so Benadab fente, þe which toolden to hym, seyng, Men ben goon out fro Samarye.

xviii And he seip, Wheþer for pees þei comen, nymmeþ hem on lyue; wheþir þat þei fiȝten, takiþ hem on lyue.

xix Panne þe children of þe pryncis of prouyncis wenten out, and þe toþer ooft folwide; xx and echon smoot þe man þat aȝens hym cam. And Cyrys flooven, and Israel purfued hem; Benadab forsoþe, kyng of Cyrys, fleiȝ in hors wiþ his horfmen.

xxi Also þe kyng of Israel goon out smoot hors and chaarys, and smoot Cyrys wiþ a ful mych greet veniaunce.

xxii Forsoþe a prophete neȝyng to þe kyng of Israel, seide to hym, Go, and tak coumfort, and wite, and se, what þow doft; forsoþe þe zeer folowynge þe kyng of Cyrys shal steyȝe vp aȝens þee.

xxiii þe seruauntis forsoþe of þe kyng of Cyrys seiden to hym, þe Goddis of hillis ben þe Goddis of hem, þeþer þei han ouercomen vs; but betere it is þat we fiȝten aȝens hem in þe wijlde feeldis, and we shulen weelde hem.

xxiv Pow þanne do þis word; remeue alle þe kyngis fro þin ooft, and put princis for hem;

xxv and restore þe noumbre of knyȝtis, þat fallen of þin, and þe hors aftir þe hors before hadde, and þe chaaris after þe chaarys þat þou haddist before; and we shulen fiȝte aȝens hem in þe wilde feeldis, and þou shalt seen, þat we shulen weelde hem. He trowide to þe counsel of hem, and dide so.

xxvi Panne after þat zeer was passid, Benadab noumbride Cyros, and stieȝede vp in to Affeth, þat he fiȝte aȝens Yrael.

xxvii Forsoþe þe sones of Yrael ben noumbrid; and metis takyn, wenten forþ euen aȝens, and þei setten tentis aȝens hem, as two litil flockis of geet. Cories forsoþe fulfilliden þe erþe.

xxviii And neȝyng oo man of God seide to þe kyng of Yrael, Þes þingis seip þe Lord God, For Cyries seiden, God of hillis is þe Lord of hem, and he is not God of valeys, I shal ȝyue al þis greet multitude in þin hoond, and ȝe shulen wite for I am a Lord.

xxix Dresseden seuen days form aȝens þes and þei sheltruns; forsoþe þe seuenþe day þe bataile is doon, and þe sones of Yrael smyten of Cyrys an hundred þousand of foot men in o day.

xxx Forsoþe þo þat laften flowen in to Affeth into þe citee, and þe wal felle vpon seuen and twenti þousand of men þat laften. Forsoþe Benadab freyng wente in to þe citee, into þe cowch þat was beside þe bed place; xxxi and his seruauntis seiden to hym, Loo! we han herd þat þe kyngis of þe hous of Yrael ben mercable, and so putte we fackis in oure reens, and litil coordis in oure heedis, and goo we out to þe kyng of Yrael; perauenture he shal saue oure lyues.

xxxii þei girdeden her reenes wiþ fackis, and puttiden litil coordis in her heedis, and þei camen to þe kyng of Yrael, and seiden to hym, Pi seruaunt Benadab seip, I preye þee, lyue my liȝf. And he seip, If ȝit he lyue, my broþer he is.

xxxiii þe which þe men token for þe happy good word, and haftily þei rauyliden þe word of his mouþ, and seiden, Pi broþir Benadab lyueþ. And he seide to hem, Goþ, and bryngiȝ hym to me. Panne Benadab wente out to hym, and he reryde hym into his chaare.

xxxiv þe which seide to hym, Pe citees þat my fader took fro þi fader I shal ȝeeld, and streetis make to þee in Damask, as my fader made in Samarye; and I boundun to pees shal goo aweye fro þee. Panne he couenauntide a boond of pees, and lafte hym.

xxxv Panne a maner man of þe sones of prophetis seide to his felawe, in þe word of þe Lord, Smyit me. And he wolde not smyte.

xxxvi To whom he seip, For þow woldist not here þe voys of þe Lord, loo! þou shalt goon a weye fro me, and a lioun shal smyte þee. And whanne he was goon a weye a litil fro hym, a lioun foond hym, and smoot hym.

xxxvii But and anoþer man fyndyng he seide to hym, Smyit me. þe which smoot hym, and woundide.

xxxviii Panne þe prophete wente, and aȝen cam to þe kyng in þe weye; and he chaungide, bi sprengyng of powdre, þe mouþ and his eyen.

xxxix And whanne þe king was passid, he criede to þe kyng, and seip, Pi seruaunt wente out 'fro nyȝ to fiȝte, and whanne o man was flowen, a maner man brouȝte hym to me, and seip, Keep þis man; þe which if were flyden a weye, þi liȝf shal be for þe liȝf of hym, or a talent of siluer þou shalt ȝeelde.

xl Forsoþe while Y disturblid hidir and þidyr turnede me, feerly he aperide not. And þe kyng of Yrael seip to hym, þis is þi dome þat þi self hast demyd.

xli And he anoon wipide aweye þe powdre fro his face, and þe kyng of Israel knewe him, þat he was of þe prophetis.

xlii þe whiche seip to hym, Þes þingis seip þe Lord, For þou hast laft a man worbi þe deeþ fro þin hoond, þi liȝf shal be for þe liȝf of hym, and þi puple for his puple.

xliii Panne þe kyng of Israel turnede aȝen `in to his hows, dispisynge to here, and ful of woodnes cam in to Samarie.

Capitulum XXI.

i Aftir þes wordis forsoþe, in þat tyme, þere was a vyn to Naboth Jezraelite, þat was in Jezrael, biside þe paleys of Achab, kyng of Samarie.

ii Panne spak Achab to Naboth, seiyng, ȝif to me þi vyn ȝerd, þat I make to me a wort ȝerd, for it is niȝ, and biside myn hows; and I shal ȝyue to þee for it a betere vyn ȝerd; or if more profitable pow wenyst to þee, of siluer þe prijs as myche as it is worþ, I shal ȝeue.

iii To whom answerde Naboth, Merciful be to me þe Lord, þat I ȝyue not þe heritage of my fadres to þee.

iv Panne Achab cam into his hows, endeynyng, and grutchynge vpon þe word þat Naboth Jezraelite hadde spoken to hym, seiyng, I shal not ȝyue to þee þe heritage of my fadres; and browynge hym self into his bed turnede a weye his face to þe wal, and eete not breed.

v Forsoþe Jezabel, his wif, wente into hym, and seide to hym, What is þat, wherof þi soule is drery? and whi etift þou not breed?

vi Þe which answerde to hire, I spak to Naboth Jezraelite, and seide to hym, ȝif to me þi vyn ȝerd, þe monee takyn, or if to þee it plese, I shal ȝyue to þee a betere vyn ȝerd for it. And he seiþ, I shal not ȝyue to þee my vyn ȝerd.

vii Panne Jefabel, his wif, seide to hym, Of greet autoryte þou art, and wel þou gouernyst þe rewme of Yrael; rijs, and eet breed, and in euen ynwit be þow; I shal ȝyue to þee þe vyn ȝerd of Naboth Jezraelite.

viii And so she wroot lettris of þe name of Achab, and signede hem wiþ his ryng; and sente to þe more þurȝ birþ, and to þe best, þat weren in his cytee, þat dwelliden wiþ Naboth.

ix Of þe lettris forsoþe þis was þe sentence; Preche ȝe fastynge, and makiþ Naboth to sitte among þe first of þe puple;

x and vndirleye ȝee two men, sonys of Belial, aȝens hym, and fals witnes seye þei, Naboth haþ blesſid God and þe kyng; and lediþ hym out, and stoniþ, and so dye he.

xi Panne his citeeens more þurȝ birþ, and þe best þat dwelliden wiþ hym in þe citee, diden as Jefabel hadde comaundid to hem, and as it was writen in þe lettris, þat she fente to hem.

xii Pei prechiden fastynge, and maden Naboth to sitte among þe first of þe puple;

xiii and two men brouȝten forþ, sonys of þe deuel, þei maden hem to sitte aȝens hym, and þei, þat is, as deuels men, feiden aȝens hym witnes before al þe multitude, Naboth blesſide God and þe kyng; for what þing þei ledden hym out of þe citee, and wiþ stonus flowen.

xiv And þei senten to Jefabel, seiyng, Naboth is stoned, and is deed.

xv It is doo forsoþe, whanne Jefabel hadde herd Naboth stoned and deed, she spak to Achab, Rijs, weeld þe vyn ȝerd of Naboth Jezraelite, þat wold not to þee assente, and ȝyue it, þe monee taken; forsoþe Naboth lyueþ not, but he is deed.

xvi Þe which þing whanne Achab hadde herd, þat Naboth is deed, he roos, and cam doun into þe vyn ȝerd of Naboth Jezraelite, þat he weelde it.

xvii Panne þe word of þe Lord is doon to Helias Thesbites, seiyng, xviii Rijs, and come down into aȝen comynge to Achab, kyng of Israel, þat is in Samarie; loo! to þe vyn ȝerd of Naboth he dessendide, þat he weelde it.

xix And þou shalt speke to hym, seiyng, ȝes þingis seiþ þe Lord God, Pow haſt slayn, and furþermore þou haſt weelid; and after þes þingis þow haſt adde, ȝes þingis seiþ þe Lord, In þis place, in þe which houndis lickiden þe blood of Naboth, shulen lick and þi blood.

xx And Achab seiþ to Helyas, Wheþer pow haſt foundun me þin enemy? Þe which seide, I haue founden, forþi þat þou be folde þat þou doo yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord.

xxi Perfor þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Loo! I shal brynge yn yuel vpon þee, and I shal hewe of þin hyndirmoris, and flee fro Achab a pifer to þe wal, and þe cloſid, and þe last in Israel;

xxii and I shal ȝyue þin hows as þe hows of Jeroboam, þe fone of Nabath, and as þe hows of Baasa, þe fone of Achia; for þou haſt doon þat þou terre me to wraþ, and þou haſt maad Israel to synne.

xxiii But and of Jefabel þe Lord haþ spokyn, seiyng, Houndis shulen eete Jefabel in þe feelde of Jezrael; xxiv if Achab were deed in þe citee, houndis shulen ete hym; forsoþe if he were deed in þe feelde, foulis of heuene shulen ete hym.

xxv Perfor þere was non oper fiche as Achab, þat is sold þat he do yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord; forsoþe Jezabel, his wif, stiryde hym;

xxvi and abomynable is maad, insomiche þat he folwide þe mawmattis þat Amorreis maden, whom þe Lord destruyde fro þe face of þe sonis of Yrael.

xxvii And so whanne Achab hadde herd þes wordis, he kitte his cloþ, and couerde his flesh wiþ an heire, and he fastide, and slepte in a fak, and wente, þe heed leyd doun.

xxviii And þe word of þe Lord is maad to Helyas Thesbite, seiyng, xxix Wheþer haſt þou not seen Achab mekyd before me? Panne for he is mekid bi cheloun of me, I shal not brynge yn þe yuel in þe days of hym, but in þe dais of his fone I shal brynge yn þe yuel to þe hows of hym.

Capitulum XXII.

- i Three ȝeer þanne passiden ouer wiþ outen batail bitwixe Cirye and Israel.
- ii Forsoþe in þe þridde ȝeer Josaphat, kyng of Juda, cam doun to þe kyng of Israel.
- iii And þe kyng of Israel seyde to his seruauntis, Vnknowe ȝe, þat Ramoth Galaad is oure, and we ben negligent to take it fro þe hoond of þe kyng of Cyrye?
- iv And he seiþ to Josaphath, Shalt þou not come wiþ me to fiȝt in Ramoth Galaad?
- v And Josaphath seide to þe kyng of Israel, As Y am, so and þow; my puple and þi puple ben oon, and mi horfmen and þi horfmen. And Josaphath seide to þe kyng of Israel, Seche, I praye þee, þe word of þe Lord to day.
- vi Panne þe kyng of Israel gaderide þe prophetis about foure hundrid men, and seiþ to hem, Shal I goo into Ramoth Galaad to fiȝte, or reste? Pe whiche answerten, Sty vp, and þe Lord shal ȝeue it in þe hoond of þe kyng.
- vii Josaphath forsoþe seide, Is þere not here eny man a prophete of þe Lord, þat we asken bi hym?
- viii And þe kyng of Israel seiþ to Josaphat, Pere is laft o man, bi þe which we mowen aske þe Lord; but and I haue hatid hym, for he prophesieþ not to me good, but yuel, Mycheas, þe sone of Hyemla. To whom Josaphath seiþ, Spek þou not so, kyng.
- ix Panne þe kyng of Israel clepide a maner geldyng, and feide to hym, Hy to brynge to Mychie, þe sone of Hyemla.
- x þe kyng of Israel forsoþe, and Josaphath, kyng of Juda, seeten, echon in her see, cloþid wiþ kyngis ournynge, in þe corn floore biside þe dore of þe ȝaat of Samarie; and alle þe prophetis prophecieden in þe fiȝt of hem.
- xi Forsoþe Sedechias, þe sone of Chanaan, maade to hym yren horns, and seiþ, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God, Wiþ bes þou shalt wyndowe Cyrye, to þe tyme þat þou doo it a weye.
- xii And alle þe prophetis lijc maner prophecieden, feyng, Sty vp into Ramoth Galaad, and goo welfumli; þe Lord shal take in þe hoond of þe kyng þin enemyes.
- xiii þe messenger forsoþe, þat was goon for to clepe Mychie, spak to hym, feyng, Loo! þe wordis of þe prophetis wiþ oon mouþ to þe kyng good þinges prechen; þanne be þi word lijc of hem, and speke good þingis.
- xiv To whom Mychie seiþ, þe Lord lyueþ, for what euer þing þe Lord feye to me, þat I shal speke.
- xv And so he cam to þe kyng. And þe kyng seiþ to hym, Mychie, þulen we goo in to Ramoth Galaad to fiȝte, or ceese? To whom he answerte, Sty, and go welfumli; and þe Lord shal take it in þe hoond of þe kyng.

- xvi Forsoþe þe kyng seide to hym, Eft and eft I adiure þee, þat þou speke not to me, but þat is soþ in name of þe Lord.
- xvii And he seiþ, I sawȝ al Israel to scaterde in hillis, as sheep not hauynge sheepherd; and þe Lord seiþ, Þes han not a lord, echon turn aȝen into his hows in pees.
- xviii Panne þe kyng of Israel seide to Josaphat, Wheþer I seide noȝt to þee, for he prophecyede not to me good, but euermore euyl?
- xix Forsoþe he addynge seiþ, Þerfor here þe word of þe Lord; I sawȝ þe Lord vpon his see fittyng, and al þe oost of heuene stondynge neeȝ to hym, fro þe riȝt and fro þe left.
- xx And þe Lord seiþ, Who shal desseyue Achab, kyng of Yrael, þat he stie vp, and falle in Ramoth Galaad? And oon feide siche maner wordis, and anoþer otherwys.
- xxi Forsoþe a spirit wente out, and stood before þe Lord, and seiþ, I shal desseyue hym.
- xxii To whom þe Lord spak, In what? And he seiþ, I shal goon out, and I shal be a spirit leeȝer in þe mouþ of alle þe prophetis of hym. And þe Lord seide, Pou shalt desseyue, and haue þe ouerhoond; go out, and do so.
- xxiii Now þanne, loo! þe Lord haþ ȝeuen a spirit of lefyng in þe mouþ of alle þi prophetis þat here ben; and þe Lord spak aȝens þee yuel.
- xxiv Forsoþe Sedechias, þe sone of Chanaan, cam nyȝ, and smoot Mychie in to þe cheeke, and seiþ, Wheþir þanne þe Spirite of þe Lord haþ laft me, and spokен to þee?
- xxv And Mychie seiþ, Pou art to seen in þat day, whanne þou shalt goon into þe bed place wiþ ynne þe bedde, þat þou be hidde.
- xxvi And þe kyng of Israel seiþ, Takiþ Mychie, and dwel he anentis Amon, þe pryncie of þe citee, and anentis Joas, þe sone of Amalech;
- xxvii and seiþ to hem, Þes þingis seiþ þe kyng, Puttiþ þis man into prisoun, and susteyneþ hym wiþ breed of tribulacioun, and wiþ water of angwylle, to þe tyme þat I turne aȝen in pees.
- xxviii And Mychie seide, If þow turne aȝen in pees, þe Lord haþ not spoken in me. And he seiþ, Here ȝe, alle puplis.
- xxix And so þe kyng of Israel stieþ vp, and Josaphath, kyng of Juda, into Ramoth Galaad.
- xxx And so þe king of Yrael seide to Josaphath, Tak aarmys, and goo into batail, and be þou cloþid wiþ þi cloþis. But þe kyng of Israel chaungide his habite, and wente into batayl.
- xxxi þe kyng forsoþe of Cyrye comaundide to þe princis of þe chaaris, two and þretti, feyng, ȝe þulen not fiȝte aȝens þe lassé, and aȝens any more, but oonli aȝens þe kyng of Israel.
- xxxii Whanne þanne þe pryncis hadden seen þe chaar of Josaphath, þei ouertroweden þat he hadde ben kyng of Israel, and þe birre maad þei fouȝten aȝens hym. And Josaphath cried out; xxxiii and þe princis of þe charis vndirstoden, þat it was not þe kyng of Israel, and þei ceseden fro hym.

 xxxiv A maner man bente a boowe, into vncerteyn dreslynge an arowe, and bi hap he smoot þe kyng of Israel bytwixe þe lunge and þe stomak. And he feide to hys charyeter, Turn þin hond, and cast out me fro þe oost, for greouulii Y am woundid.
 xxxv Panne þe batail is don in þat dai, and þe kyng of Israel stood in his chaar aȝens Cyryes, and is deed at euen. Forsoþe þe blood of þe wound flowide in to þe bosum of þe chaar.
 xxxvi And þe bedel fulsouned in al þe oost, before þe sunne wente doun, seiyng, Echon turne aȝen into þe citee, and into his loond.
 xxxvii Þe kyng forsoþe is deed, and is born into Samarye; and þei biryeden þe kyng in Samarie.
 xxxviii And þei wasshen his chaar in þe fish poond of Samarye, and houndis licked his blood, and þei licked his bridils, after þe word of þe Lord þat was spokyn.
 xxxix Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Achab, and al þat he dide, and þe yuer hows þat he beeldide, and of al þe citees þat he made vp, wheþer not þes ben wryten in þe book of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Yrael?
 xl Panne Achab slept wiþ his faders, and Ochozias, his sone, regnede for hym.
 xli Jofaphat forsoþe, þe sone of Asa, began to regne vpon Juda, þe ferþ ȝeer of Achab, kyng of Yrael.
 xlvi Of fyue and þretti ȝeer he was, whanne he began to regne, and fyue and twenti ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; þe name of his moder Azuba, þe douȝter of Salai. xlvii And he wente in al þe weye of Asa, his fader, and he bowide not aside fro it; and he dide þat is riȝt in þe fiȝt of þe Lord. Neuerbelater þe heiȝe þingis he dyde not a weye, ȝit forsoþe þe puple sacrificiede, and brente encense in heȝtis.
 xlviii And Josaphath hadde pees wiþ þe kyng of Israel.
 xlvi And he remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Josaphath, and his werkis þat he dide, and batails, wheþer not þes ben wryten in þe book of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda?
 xlvi But and þe relikis of þe wommannysh maad men, þat laftan in days of Asa, his fader, he dide aweye fro þe loond.
 xlvi And þere was not panne a kyng ordeynynd in Edom.
 xlviii Forsoþe kyng Josaphath made nauees in þe see, þe whiche saileden in to Oofer for gold, and þei myȝten not goon, for þei ben broken in Aziongober.
 xlxi Panne Ochozias, þe sone of Achab, seiþ to Josaphath, My seruauntis goon wiþ þi seruauntis in shippis. And Josaphat wold not.

i And Josaphath slepte wiþ his faders, and is biried wiþ hem in þe citee of Dauid, his fader; and Joram, hys sone, regnede for hym.
 ii Forsoþe Ochozias, þe sone of Achab, began to regne vpon Yrael, in Samarye, þe seuentynþe ȝeer of Josaphath, kyng of Juda; and he regnede vpon Yrael two ȝeers.
 iii And he dide yuel in þe fiȝt of þe Lord, and he wente in þe weye of his fader, and of his moder, and in þe weye of Jeroboam, sone of Nabath, þat made Israel to synne.
 iv Forsoþe he seruede to Baal, and honourde hym, and he terred þe Lord God of Israel, aftir alle þingis þat his fader dide.
Here eendip þe þridde book of Kyngis, and now bigynneþ þe fourþe.

III. KYNGIS.

Þe fourþe of Kyngus.

Capitulum I.

i Moab forsoþe trespasside in Yrael, aftir þat Acab was deed.
 ii And Ochosias felle þoruȝ þe wyndowes of his souþyng place, þat he hade in Samarye, and he wexe feeke; and he lente messangers, seiyng to hem, Goð, and counseleþ Belzabub, þe god of Accharon, wheþer I may lyue fro þis myn infirmyte.
 iii Þe aungel forsoþe of þe Lord spak to Helias Thesbytes, seying, Riys, and go doun in to þe aȝein commyne of þe messagers of þe kyng of Samarie; and þou schalt seye to hem, Wheþer God is not in Yrael, þat ȝe goon to counseylen Belzabub, þe god of Accharon?
 iv Wherfore þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, Fro þe bed, upon þe whiche þou steyȝidist up, þou schalt not goo doun, bot bi deþ þou schalt dyen. And Helias went.
 v And þe messagers ben turned aȝeyn to Ochosias. 'Þe whiche seyde to hem, Why ben ȝe turned aȝeyn?
 vi And þei answerden to hym, A man aȝein came to us, and seyde to us, Goð, and turneþ aȝein to þe kyng, þat sente ȝou; and ȝe schuln to hym seyn, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, Wheþer for þere was not God in Yrael, þou sentist, þat Belzabub be counseyled, þe god of Aacharon? Perfore fro þe bed upon þe whiche þou steyȝidist up, þou schalt not goo doun, bot by deþ þou schalt dye.
 vii Þe whiche seyde to hem, Of what fygure and habyte is þat man, þat aȝeyn came to ȝou, and spake to ȝou þese wordis?
 viii And þei seyden, A rowȝ man, and wiþ an her gyrdyl gyrd to þe reenys. Þe whiche seiþ, Helyas Thesbytes it is.

ix And he sente to hym þe prince of fyfty, and þe fyfty men þat wiþ hym weren. Þe whiche steiȝiden up to hym, and to hym fytyng in þe cop of þe hill seiþ, Man of God, þe kynge comaundid, þat þou come doun.

x And Helyas answerynge seiþ to þe quynquagenarye, ȝif þe man of God I am, come doun fijr fro heuen, and deuoure þee and þi fyfty men. ȝan fijr came doun fro heuen, and deuouride hym, and þe fyfty þat weren wiþ hym.

xi Eft he sente to hym anoþer prynce of fyfty, and fyfty wiþ hym, þe whiche spac to hym, Man of God, þese þinges seiþ þe kynge, Hyȝe, come doun.

xii Answerynge Helyas seiþ, ȝif þe man of God I am, come doun fijr fro heuen, and deuoure þee and þi fyfty. ȝan þe fijr of God came doun fro heuen, and deuouride hym and his fyfty.

xiii Eft soonyhs he sente þe þridd prynce of fyfty, and þe fyfty þat weren wiþ hym. Þe whiche whan was commen, bowed þe kneeȝis aȝeins Hely, and preyede him, and seiþ, Man of God, wylle þou not dispisfe my liȝf, and þe liȝues of þi seruauntis þat ben wiþ me.

xiv Loo! fijre came doun fro heuen, and deuourede þe two first princis of fyfty, and þe fyftees þat weren wiþ hem; and now, I beseeche, þat þou haue mercy to my liȝf.

xv Pe aungel forsoþe of þe Lord spak to Helyas Thesbytes, seyinge, Comme doun wiþ hym; ne drede þou. ȝanne he roose and came doun wiþ hym to þe kynge;

xvi and spac to hym, ȝele þingis seiþ þe Lord, For þou sentist messagers to counfeylen Belzabub, god of Acccharon, as per were not God in Yrael, of þe whiche þou miȝtist not asken a worde; þerfore fro þi bed, upon þe whiche þou steyȝidist up, þou schalt not goo doun, bot by deþ þou schalt dye.

xvii ȝanne he is deed aftir þe word of þe Lord, þat Helye spac; and Joram, his broþir, regnede for hym, þe seconde zeer of Joram, þe sone of Josaphath, kyng of Jude; forsoþe he hade not a sone.

xviii ȝe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Ochosie, 'þe whiche he vrouȝt, wheþir þei ben not writen in þe boke of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Yrael?

Capitulum II.

i Done it is forsoþ, whan þe Lord wolde reren Helyas by a whyrlwynd in to heuen, Helyas and Helyse wenten fro Galgalis.

ii And Helyas to Helyse feide, Sytt here, for þe Lord ȝab sent me vnto Bethel. To whom seiþ Helese, þe Lord liueþ and þi soule liueþ, for I schal not forsake þee. And whanne þei were goo doun fro Bethel, iii þe sonys of prophetis, þat weren in Bethel, wenten out to Helysee, and seyden to hym, Wheþer þou haft knowe, for þe Lord to day schal taken þi lord fro þee? Þe whiche answerde, And I haue knownen; beeþ stylle.

iv Helyas forsoþe feide to Helise, Sytt heere, for þe Lord ȝab sente me into Jericho. And he seiþ, Þe Lord liueþ and þy soule liueþ, for I schal not forsake þee. And when þei weren commen to Jericho, v þe sonys of prophetis, þat waren in Jericho, neyȝiden to Helyse, and seyden to hym, Wheþer þou haft knownen, þat þe Lord schal taken to day þi lord fro þee?

And he seiþ, I haue knownen; beeþ stylle.

vi Helyas forsoþe seyde to hym, Sytt here, for þe Lord ȝab sente me vnto Jordan. Þe whiche seiþ, Þe Lord liueþ and þi soule lyueþ, for I schal not forsake þee.

ȝanne bop þei wenten to gydre;

vii and fyfty men of þe sonys of prophetis foloweden, þe whiche and stoden forn aȝeynst aferre; þei forsoþe stoden bop upon Jordane.

viii And Helyas tooke his mantyll, and inwraphpyde it, and smote þe watirs; þe whiche ben deuydid in to eipir partye, and þei wenten bop þorȝ þe drye.

ix And whanne þei weren goon ouer, Helyas seyde to Helise, Aske þat þou wilt, þat I doo to þee, er I be taken awey fro þee. And Helise seyde, I beseeche, þat þer be doo þi spirite double in me.

x ȝe whiche answerde, An hard þing þou haft aþkede; neuer þe later ȝif þou seeft me, whanne I schal be taken fro þee, it schal be þat þou haft aþkyde; ȝif forsoþe þou seeft not, it schal not be.

xi And whanne þei wenten, and goyng speke wordis, loo! þe fijren chaare and þe fijren hors deuyden euer eiþer; and Helyas steyȝide up by 'þe whirlwynde in to heuen.

xii Helise forsoþe sawe, and criede, Fader myn! fader myn! þe chaar of Yrael, and charieter of it. And he sawȝ hym no more. And he toke his cloþis, and kutt hem in to two partyes.

xiii And he rerede þe mantyll of Helye, þat hadde fallen to hym; and, turned aȝein, stode upon þe brynde of Jordan.

xiv And wiþ þe mantyll of Helye, þat hadde fallen to hym, he smote þe waters, and þei ben not deuydid. And he seide, Where is þe God of Helye also nowe? And he smote þe watirs, and þei ben dyuydid hidre and þidre; and Helisee passede ouer.

xv Forsoþe þe sonys of þe prophetis þat weren in Jericho, seeinge, aȝeinward seyden, ȝe spirite of Helye ȝab restyde upon Helisee. And þei commynge in to aȝein commynge of hym, honoureden hym redye in to þe erþ.

xvi And þei seyden to hym, Loo! wiþ þi seruauntis ben fyfty stronge men, þat mown goon, and seechen þi lord, leſt perauenture þe Spirite of þe Lord haue taken hym, and þrowen hym in oon of þe hillis, or in oon of þe valeys. ȝe whiche seiþ, Wylle ȝe not fenden.

xvii And þey constreynden hym, to tyme þat he assentide to hem, and seyde, Sendip. And þei senten fyfty men; whiche whanne hadden souȝt þree days, founden not.

xvii And þei turneden aȝeyn to hym; and he dwellyde in Jericho. And he seyde to hem, Wheþer I seyde not to þou, Williþ not senden?

xix Pan þe men of þe cytee seyden to Helyse, Lo! þe dwellynge of þis cytee is best, as þou bi silf, lord, byholdist; bot and þe watirs ben werft, and þe erþ bareyn.

xx And he seip, Bringiþ to me a newe vessel, and puttig in it salt. Þe whiche whan þey hadden brouȝte, xxi goon oute to þe welle of watirs, he putte in to it salt, and seiþ, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, I haue heelide þese watirs, and þere schal be no more in hem deþ, ne bareynte.

xxii Panne þe watirs ben helyde into þis day, aftir þe word of Helise, þat he spac.

xxiii Forsoþe Helise steyȝide up þens in to Bethel; and whanne he schulde stey up by þe weye, lytyl children wenten out fro þe cyte, and scorneden to hym seyinge, Stey up, ballard! stey up, ballard!

xxiv Þe whiche whan he byheld, sawȝe hem, and cursed to hem in name of þe Lord. And two beris wente oute fro þe wyld wode, and totereden of hem two and fourty chyldren.

xxv Forsoþe he wente þens in to þe hill of Carmele, and þens turnede aȝein in to Samarye.

Capitulum III.

i Joram forsoþ, þe sone of Acab, regnede upon Yrael, in Samarie, þe eiȝteenþ ȝeer of Josphath, kyng of Juda.

ii And he regnyde twelue ȝeer, and dyde yuel bifore þe Lord, bot not as his fadir and modir; forsoþe he toke aweye þe ymagis of Baal, þat his fadir hadde maade, iii neuer þe latir he cleeuȝde in þe synnys of Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, þat made Yrael to synnen; and he wente not aweye fro hem.

iv Forsoþe Mefi, þe kyng of Moab, nuryshedde many beefstis, and payed to þe kyng of Yrael an hundredþ þousand of lombis, and an hundredþ þousand of weþeris, wiþ þeir fleeſes.

v And whann Acab was deed, he brake þe bonde of þese þat he hade wiþ þe kyng of Yrael.

vi Pann kyng Joram wente out in þat day fro Samarie, and noumbred alle Yrael.

vii And he sente to Josphath, kyng of Juda, seyinge, Kyng Moab is goon aweye fro me; comme wiþ me aȝeynst hym to batayl. Þe whiche answarde, I schal steyen up; he þat is myn, is þyne; my puple bi puple, and myn hors þin hors.

viii And he seyde, By what weye schuln we steyȝen up?
And he answarde, By þe desert of Ydume.

ix Pann þe kyng of Yrael, and þe kyng of Juda, and þe kyng of Edom, wenten, and ȝeeden abouþ by þe weye of feuene days; and þer was not watir to þe hoost, and to þe beefstis, þat foleweden hem.

x And þe kyng of Yrael feide, Allas! allas! allas! þe Lord haþ gaderd us þree kyngis, þat he take in þe hond of Moab.

xi And Josphath seiþ, Is þere not a prophete of þe Lord, þat we preyen þe Lord by hym? And oon answerde of þe seruauntis of þe kyng of Yrael, Þere is here Helise, þe sone of Saphath, þat heelde watir vpon þe hondis of Helyse.

xii And Josphath seiþ, Is þer anentis hym þe worde of þe Lord? And þe kyng of Yrael came doun to hym, and Josphath, kyng of Juda, and þe kyng of Edom.

xiii Forsoþe Helise steyde to þe kyng of Yrael, What is to me and to þee? Goo to þe prophetis of þi fadir and þi modir. And þe kyng of Yrael seiþ to hym, Why þe Lord haþ gaderde þese þree kyngis, þat he take hem in to þe hondis of Moab?

xiv And Helyse steyde to hym, Þe Lord of hoostis liueþ, in whose siȝt I stonde, þat ȝif not þe cheer of Josphath, kyng of Juda, I schamye, forsoþ I schulde not haue taken hede to þee, ne haue byholden.

xv Now forsoþe bryngiþ to me an fawtrer. And whanne þe fawtrer songe, þe honde of þe Lord is don upon hym, and he seiþ, xvi Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, Makiþ þe wombe of þis streme dychis and dychis.

xvii Forsoþe þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, ȝe schuln not seen wynde, ne reyn, and þis wombe schal ben fulfilled wiþ watirs, and drynke schuln ȝe, and ȝoure meyne, and ȝoure beefstis.

xviii Lytull is þis in þe siȝt of þe Lord. Ferþermore alſo he schal taken Moab in to ȝoure hondis;

xix and ȝe schul smyten alle streyngþid cytee, and alle chosun cyte, and ȝe schuln hewen doun eche tree beryng fruyt, and alle þe wellis of watirs ȝe schuln stoppen, and alle noble feeld ȝe schuln coueren wiþ stonys.

xx It is doo þan erly, whann sacrifice is wont to be offerd, and, loo! watirs camen by þe weye of Edom; and þe erþ is fulfillid wiþ watirs.

xi Alle forsoþe Moabitis herynge, þat kyngis hadden steyȝiden up, þat þei fiȝten aȝeynus hem, þei clepiden to gydre alle þat weren gird abowen wiþ knyȝtis gyrdill, and þei stoden in þe termys.

xxii And first erly rijfynge, and nowe þe funne sprungen forn aȝeinſt of þe watirs, Moabitis seen aȝenward rede watirs as blode.

xxiii And þei feiden, Blood of swerde it is; þe kyngis han fouȝten aȝeynst hem seluen, and þei ben slayn to gidre; nowe, Moab, goo to þe praye.

xxiv And þei wenten in to þe tentis of Yrael; forsoþe Yrael ryifynge smote Moab, and þei flowen byfore hem. Panne camen þei þat ouercomen, and smyten Moab,

xxv and distruyden þe cytees; and alle þe best feelde þei fulfilliden, eche feendyne stoonys; and alle þe wellis of watirs þei stoppyden, and alle þe treefe berynge fruyt þei heweden doun, so þat oonly þe wallis made wiþ erþe laftan; and þe cyte is enuyround of flyngers, and of grete partye smyten.

xxvi And whanne kyng Moab hadde seen, þat is, þe enemyes to han þe ouerhond, he tooke wiþ him seuen hundred men drawynge oute swerdis, þat þei breken oute to king Edom; and þei myȝten not.

xxvii And takynge his first gotten sone, þat was to regnen for hym, he offerd brent sacrifice upon þe wall; and greet indignacioun is made in Yrael; and anon þei wenten aweye fro hym, and turneden aȝeyn into þeir lond.

Capitulum IIII.

i Forsoþe a maner womman of þe wiyuys of prophetis cryede to Helise, seyinge, By seruaunt, my man, is deed, and þou haſt knownen for by seruaunt was dredynge God; and loo! a creaunſure came, þat he take my two sonyſ to feruen to hym.

ii To whom seyde Helisee, What wilt þou þat I doo to þee? sey to me, what haſt þou in þin hous? And sche anſwerde, I biþ seruaunt haue not eny þinge in my hous, bot a lytill of oyle, by þe whiche I be anoyntid.

iii To whome he ſeip, Goo, and aſke by borwyng of alle þi neyȝbours voyd vefellis not fewe.

iv And goo in, and close þi dore, whanne þou and þi sonyſ weren wiþ inne forþ; and putte þeroſ in to alle þeſe vefellis; and whanne þei weren ful, þou ſchalt take.

v And fo þe woman wente, and cloſede þe dore vpon hir ſilf and vpon hir children, þei offerden vefellis, and sche heelde in.

vi And whanne þe vefellis weren fulle, sche ſeyde to hire sone, Brynge to me ȝit a vefel. And he anſwerde, I haue not. And þe oyle ſtode.

vii Sche forſoþe came, and ſchewide to þe man of God; and he, Goo, he ſeip, ſylle þe oyle, and zeelde to þi creaunſur; þou forſoþe and þi sonyſ liuiþ of þe remnaunt.

viii Forſoþe a maner day is done, and Helisee paſſed þorȝ Suna cyte; forſoþe þer was þere a grete womman, þat heelde hym, þat he ete brede. And whann oft ſiþes he paſſede þens, he turnede aſyde to hyre, þat he ete brede.

ix Þe whiche ſeyde to hyre man, I perceyue þat þis is an holy man, þat oft ſiþis paſſiþ bi us;

x þanne make we to hym a litill ſoupyng place, and putte we in it to hym a lytill bed, and a borde, and a lytill ſeete, and a candilſtyke; þat whanne he comiþ to us, he dwelle þer.

xi þann a maner day is done, and commynge he turnede aſyde in to þe ſoupyng place, and reſtyde þere.

xii And he ſeide to Gyazi, his child, Clepe þis Sunamyte. Þe whiche whanne hadde clepyd hyre, and ſche hadde ſtonden beforne hym, xiii he feide to his childe, Speke to hire, Lo! biſily in alle þingis þou haſt ſerued to us; what wilt þou þat I do to þee? Wheþir haſt þou a nede, and wilt þat I ſpeke to þe kyng, or to þe prince of chyualrye? Þe whiche anſwerde, In þe mydil of my peple I dwelle.

xiv And he ſeip, What þanne ſche wille þat I do to hyre? And Giazi feide to hym, Ne aſke þou, forſoþe ſche haþ no ſone, and hyre man is olde.

xv And fo he comaundid, þat he clepe hyre. Þe whiche whanne was clepid, and hadde ſtonden byfore þe doore, xvi he feyde to hyre, In þis tyme and in þis fame houre, ȝif þe liyf were leder, þou ſchalt haue a ſone in þy wombe. And ſche anſwerde, Wylle þou not, I beſeche, my lord, man of God, wylle þou not lyȝen to þin hond womman.

xvii And þe womman conceyuede, and bare a chijlde in tyme, and in þe fame houre, þat Helise hadde ſeyde.

xviii Forſoþe þe child wexe; and whan þer was a maner day, and he was gon oute to his fadir, and to þe repers, xix he ſeip to his fadir, Myn heued 'I aake, my heued 'I aake. And he ſeyde to a childe, Take, and leed hym to his modir.

xx Þe whiche whanne he hadde taken, and lade to his modir, ſche putte hym upon hir knees vnto þe mydday, and he is deed.

xxi Forſoþe ſche ſteiȝede up, and leyde hym vpon þe bed of þe man of God, and cloſede þe dore. And ſche gon oute, xxii clepyde hyre man, and ſeip, Sende wiþ me, I biſech, oon of þe childre, and a ſche aſſe, and I ſchal rennen oute vnto þe man of God, and turnen aȝein.

xxiii Þe whiche ſeip to hyre, For what cauſe goſt þou to him? to day ben not kalendis, ne ſabot. Þe whiche anſwerde, I ſchal goon.

xxiv And ſche greyþede þe ſche aſſe, and comaundid to þe chijlde, Driyf, and go forþ; ne make þou to me abijdynge in goynge, and þat doo þat I comaunde to þee.

xxv þan ſche wente forþe, and came to þe man of God, in to þe hill of Carmele. And whan þe man of God hadde ſeen hyre forn aȝeynt, he ſeip to Giazi, his chijld, Lo! þat Sunamyte; xxvi go þan in to aȝein commynge of hyre, and feye to hyre, Wheþir riȝt it is don aboute þee, and þi man, and þi chylde? Þe whiche anſwerde, Riȝt.

xxvii And whann ſche was commen to þe man of God, in to þe hyll, ſche cauȝte his feete; and Giazi wente niȝ, for to meuen hyre aweye. And þe man of God ſeip, Lete hyr; forſoþe þe liyf of hyre is in bytterneſſe, and þe Lord haþ hillid fro me, and haþ not schewed to me.

xxviii Þe welche seyde to hym, Wheþir I askide my sone of my lord? Wheþir I seyde not to þee, Ne begijle þou me?

xxix And he seiþ to Giazy, Gyrde þi reenys, and take my staf in þin hond, and goo; ȝif eny man aȝein commē to þee, ne salute þou hym; and ȝif eny man falutip þee, answere þou not to hym; and putte my staf vpon þe face of þe chylde.

xxx Bot þe moder of þe chylde seiþ, Þe Lord lyueþ and þi soule lyueþ, I schal not leue þee. Panne he roos, and folowed hyre.

xxxi Giazi forsoþe wente before hem, and putt þe staf upon þe face of þe chylde; and þer was not voice, ne witte. And he turned aȝein in to 'aȝein commynge of hym; and he tolde to hym, seyinge, Þe child haþ not ryfen.

xxxii Pan Helisee wente in to þe hous, and lo! þe child laye deed in þe bed of hym.

xxxiii And goon in he clofede þe dore vpon hym, and vpon þe chylde; and he preyed þe Lord.

xxxiv And he steiȝide up, and laye vpon þe chylde; and he putte his mouȝ vpon þe mouȝ of hym, and his eeȝen vpon þe eeȝen of hym, and his hondis vpon þe hondis of hym. And he bowede hym silf vpon hym; and made hooite is þe flesche of þe chylde.

xxxv And he eft 'turnede aȝein in þe hous oonyds hydre and þidre; and he steiȝide vp, and laye vpon hym, and þe chylde brefed seuen siþes, and opnede þe eeȝen.

xxxvi And he clepide Giazi, and seyde to hym, Clepe þis Sunamyte. Þe welche clepid wente in to hym. Þe welche seiþ, Take þi sone.

xxxvii Sche came, and felle at hys feet, and honourede vpon þe erþe; and sche toke hyre sone, and wente oute. xxxviii And Helisee turnede aȝein in to Galgala. Forsoþe þer was hunger in þe lond, and þe sonys of prophetis dwelliden before hym. And Helisee seyde to oon of his childre, Sete a grete potte, and seeþe potage to þe sonis of prophetes.

xxxix And oon wente oute in to þe feelde, þat he gedre wijld herbis; and he foond as a wijld vyne, and he gederde of it wijld gourdis of þe feeld. And he fulfillide his mantylle, and turnede aȝein, and hewede to gydre in to þe pott of potage; he wyȝt not forsoþe what it was.

xl Panne þey helden in to felawis, þat þei myȝten eten; and whanne þei haden tastyden of þe seeþinge, þei crierden oute, seyinge, Deþ in þe pott! Deþ in þe pott! man of God. And þei myȝten not eten.

xli And he, Bryngiþ to, he seiþ, mele. And whanne þei haden brouȝt, he putt in to þe pott, and seiþ, Heeldiþ in to þe puple, þat þei eten; and þere was no more eny þing of bytternesse in þe pott.

xlii Forsoþe a maner man came fro Balsalisa, bryngyng to þe man of God loouys of first fruytes, and tenne barly loouys, and newe whete, in his bagge. And he feide, ȝeue to þe puple, þat it ete.

xliii And his seruaunt answerde to hym, Howe myche is bis, þat I putt before an hundred men? Eft he seiþ, ȝeue to þe puple, þat it ete; þese þingis forsoþe seiþ þe Lord, Pei schul eten, and þer schal leuen ouer.

xliii And so he sette before hem, þe welche eten; and þer laft ouer, astir þe worde of þe Lorde.

Capitulum V.

i Naaman, þe prince of chyualrye of þe kyng of Cyrye, was a grete man anentis his lord, and a wirschipide; by hym forsoþe þe Lord ȝauet help to Cyrye; forsoþe he was a stronge man and riche, but mefell.

ii Forsoþe fro Cyrye wenten out lytill þeeues, and þei haden brouȝt fro þe lond of Yrael a lytill chylde womman caytife, þat was in þe seruyce of þe wiȝf of Naaman.

iii Þe welche seiþ to hir lady, Wolde God, my lord were at a prophete þat is in Samarye; forsoþe he schulde han helyde hym fro þe lepre þat he haþ.

iv And so Naaman wente in to his lord, and tolde to hym, seyinge, Ȧus and Ȧus spake þe chylde womman of þe lond of Yrael.

v And so þe kyng of Cyrye seyde to hym, Go, and I schal sende letters to þe kyng of Yrael. Þe welche whann was gon, and hade take wiȝ hym tenn talentis of syluer, and sexe þousand platis of gold, and tenn chaungyng maner of cloþis, vi he tooke to þe kyng of Yrael lettiris in to þese wordis; Whanne þou takist þis lettir, wytte þou, þat I haue sente to þee Naaman my seruaunt, þat þou hele hym fro his lepre.

vii And whanne þe kyng of Yrael hadde red þe letters, he kutte his cloþis, and seiþ, Wheþir a god I am, þat I mowflen and quycken, for he haþ fente to me, þat I hele a man fro his lepre? Takiþ heed and seeþ, þat occasiouns he sechil aȝeyns me.

viii Þe welche whanne Helisee, þe man of God, hadde herde, þat is, þe kyng of Yrael to han kutte his cloþis, he fente to hym, seyinge, Why haſt þou kutte þy cloþis? come he to me, and wytte a prophete to be in Yrael.

ix Panne Naaman came wiȝ hors and chaaris, and stood at þe dore of þe hous of Helisee.

x And Helisee sente to hym a messanger, seyinge, Goo, and be waschen seuen siþis in Jordan; and þi flesche schal receyuen helþ, and þou schalt be clenfed.

xi Naaman wroþ wente aweye, seyinge, I wende þat he schulde goon oute to me, and stondynge schulde inwardly clepen þe name of his God, and touche wiȝ his hond þe place of þe lepre, and helen me.

xii Wheþir not beter ben Abana and Pharpar, þe floodis of Damask, þanne alle þe waters of Yrael, þat I be waschen in hem, and be clensede? Whann þann he hadde turnyde hymself, and goon aweye endeynyng, xiii wenten to hym his seruauntis, and speken to hym, Fader, and ȝif a grete þinge þe prophete hadde seide to þee, certis þou owedist to done; myche more for nowe he seyde to þee, Be wasched, and þou schalt be clensed.

xiv He wente doun, and wasche in Jordane seuen s̄pis, aftir þe worde of þe man of God; and þe flesche of hym is restorid as þe flesche of a litol chyld, and he is clensed.

xv And turned aȝein to þe man of God wiþ alle his felawship came, and stood before hym; and seip, Vereyly I woot, þat þer is noon oþer God in all erþ, bot onoly þe God of Yrael; also, I beseeche, þat þou take a blifysnge of þi seruaunt.

xvi And he answarde, Þe Lord lyueþ before whom I stonde, for I schal not taken. And whanne forsynghe he made, vtturly he affentyde not.

xvii And so Naaman feide, As þou wilt; bot, I beseeche, graunte to me, þi seruaunt, þat I take two burdowns charge fro þe lond; forsoþe þi seruaunt schal no more make brent sacrifice, or flayn sacrifice, to alyen goddis, bot to þe Lord.

xviii þis forsoþe onoly is, of þe welche þou preye þe Lord for þi seruaunt, whanne my lord goþ in to þe temple of Remmon, þat he honoure, and hym lenyng vpon myn hond, ȝif I honoure in þe temple of Remmon, he honouryng in þe same place, þat þe Lord forȝeue to me, þi seruaunt, for þis þing.

xix þe welche feide to hym, Goo in pese. Ȣann he ȝeede fro hym þe chosen tyme of þe lond.

xx And Giazi, þe childe of þe man of God, feide, My lord haþ spared to þis Naaman Cyro, þat he take not of hym þat he brouȝte; þe Lord lieueþ, for I schal rennen aftir hym, and I schal taken of hym sumwhathe.

xxi And Giazi folowede aftir þe bac of Naaman; whom whan he hade seen rennyng to hym, he leep doun of þe chaar in to aȝein commynge of hym; and seip, Wheþer riȝt ben alle þingis?

xxii And he seip, Riȝt; my lord fente me to þee, seyinge, Nowe ben commen to me two yonge men fro þe hyll of Effraym, of þe sonys of prophetes; ȝeue to hem a talent of syluer, and double chaungyng cloþis.

xxiii And Naaman feyde, Beter it is þat þou take two talents. And he constreyned hym; and he boond two talents of syluer in two baggis, and double cloþis, and putte to his two chylder, þe welche and bern before hym.

xxiv And whanne he was commyn nowe at euen, he tooke fro þe hond of hem, and leyde up in þe house; and he laft þe men, and þey wenten aweye.

xxv He forloþe goon in stode bifore his lord. And Helisee feyde, Whenns comyȝt þou, Giezi? Þe welche answarde, þi seruaunt ȝeede not o whydre.

xxvi And he seip, Wheþer myn hert was not in present, whanne þe man turnede aȝein fro his chaar in to aȝein commynge of þee? Nowe Ȣanne þou hast taken syluer, and taken cloþes, þat þou bye olyuis, and vinis, and scheep, and oxen, and seruauntis, and hond wymmen; xxvii bot and þe leepre of Naaman schal cleue to þee, and to þi seede in to euermore. And he wente out from hym mesell as snowe.

Capitulum VI.

i Seyden forsoþe þe sonys of prophetis to Helisee, Loo! þe place in þe whiche we dwellen before þee, is streyt to us;

ii goo we vnto Jordan, and taken eche fro þe wood fundrye matteers, þat we beelden to us þere a place to dwellen. Þe whiche seide, Goþ.

iii And oon of hem seip, Comme Ȣanne and þou wiþ þi seruauntis. He answarde, I schal commen.

iv And he wente wiþ hem. And whanne þei weren commen to Jordan, þey hewen treefe.

v It fell forsoþe, þat whanne oon had hewen a mateer, felle þe yren of þe axe in to þe watir; and he criede oute, and seip, Allas! allas! my lord, and þat same I tooke of borowyng.

vi Forsoþe þe man of God feyde, Where felle it? And he schewyde to hym þe place. Panne he hewede of a tree, and putte þidir; and þe yren swam.

vii And he saiþ, Take. Þe whiche strauȝt out þe hoond, and took it.

viii Þe kyng forsoþe of Cyrye fauȝte aȝeynst Yrael; and wente in counseil wiþ his seruauntis, seiynghe, In þis place and þat fette we buschementis.

ix And so þe man of God sente to þe kynge of Yrael, seyinge, Be war, left þou passe to þat place, for þer ben Cyrus in buschementis.

x And so þe kyng of Yrael sente to þat place, `þe whiche þe man of God hadde spoken to hym, and he before occupiede it, and he weytyde hym þere not oonyis, ne twyes.

xi And þe herte of þe kyng of Cyrye is distourbled for þis þing; and, þe seruauntis clepid to gydre, seip, Whi han ȝe not schewed to me, who be my traitour anentis þe kyng of Yrael?

xii And oon of þe seruauntis of hym feyde, Nay, my lord kyng, bot Helisee, þe prophete, þat is in Yrael, schewiþ to þe kyng alle wordis, whateuer þou hast spoken in þy priue chaumbre.

xiii And he feyde to hym, Goþ, and seeþ, wher he be, þat I sende, and take hym. And þei tolden to hym, seyinge, Loo! in Dotaym he dwelliþ.

xiv And he sente þidre hors, and chaaris, and þe strengþe of þe oost; þe welche, when þei weren commen at nyȝt, þey enuyrounden þe cyte.

xv Þe seruaunt forsoþe of þe man of God ryfynge erly wente oute, and he sawe þe hoost in enuyroun of þe cyte, and hors, and chaaris. And he tolde to hym, seyinge, Allas! allas! my lord, what schal we done?

xvi And he answerde, Wylle þou not dreede; forsoþe mo ben wiþ us þan wiþ hem.

xvii And whanne Helise hade preyede, he seiþ, Lord, opyn þe eeȝen of þis chylde, þat he see. And þe Lord opnede þe eeȝen of þe chijld, and he sawȝ. And loo! an hyll ful of hors, and of fyren chaaris, in enuyroun of Helise.

xviii Forsoþe þe enmyes camen doun to hym; bot Helisee preyede to þe Lord, seyinge, Smyit, I besche, þis folc wiþ blyndnesse. And þe Lord smoot hem, leſt þei seeȝen, after þe worde of Helisee.

xix Forsoþe Helisee seyde to hem, þis is not þe weye, ne þis is not þe cyte; folowiþ me, and I schal schewe to ȝou þe man, whom ȝe seeken. And he ladde hem in to Samarye.

xx And whan þei weren commen in to Samarie, Helisee seyde, Lord, opne þe eeȝen of þese, þat þei seen. And þe Lord opnede þe eeȝen of hem, and þei seen hem felsen to ben in þe mydill of Samarye.

xxi And þe kynge of Yrael seide to Helisee, whanne he hadde seen hem, Wheþer I schal smyten hem, fader myne?

xxii And he seiþ, þou schalt not smyten hem, ne forsoþ þou haſt taken hem wiþ swerde, and wiþ þi bowe, þat þou smyte; bot putte brede and watir before hem, þat þei eten and drynken, and goon to þeir lord.

xxiii And þere is putte to hem greipeinge of metis; and þei eten, and drunken. And he laſt hem, and þei wenten to þeir lord; and no more camen þe þeeuis of Cyrye in to þe lond of Yrael.

xxiv It is done forsoþe aftir þese þingis, Benadab, kyng of Cyrye, gaderde alle his hoost, and steyȝede vp, and beseeȝyde Samarye.

xxv And þere is maad greipe hungre in Samarye; and so long it is beseeȝide, to þe tyme þat þe heued of an aſſe were fold for foure scoor platis of syluer, and þe ferþ parte of a mesure of þe dryt of culuers for fyue platis of syluer.

xxvi And whanne þe kyng of Yrael paſſed by þe wall, a maner womman crieđe to hym, seiyng, Saue me, my lord kyng.

xxvii Pe whiche seiþ, Nay, saue þee þe Lord; wherof may I saue þee? of þe corn flore, or of þe preſſe?

xxviii And þe kyng seide to hire, What wylt þou to þee? Pe whiche answeŕde, Pys womman seide to me, ȝeue þi fone, þat we eten hym to day; and my fone we schal eten to morwe.

xxix Panne we ſeeþeden my fone, and eten. And I seide to hire þe toþer day, ȝeue þi fone, þat we eten hym; þe which hyde hyre lone.

xxx Pe whiche þing whanne þe kyng hade herde, he kutt his cloþis, and paſſede by þe wall; and alle þe puple fawe an hayre, wiþ whiche þe kyng was cloþid at þe fleſch wiþ in forþe.

xxxi And þe kynge seiþ, Þes þingis do to me God, and þes þingis adde, ȝif þe heued of Helisee, þe fone of Saphath, schulde ſtonden vpon hym to day.

xxxii Helisee forsoþe ſatt in his hous, and olde men feeten wiþ hym; and ſo he fente befor a man, and er þe meſſager came, he ſeide to þe old men, Wheþer ȝe knownen, þat þe fone of a man fleere haþ fente hiþir, þat myn heued be gyrd off? Seeȝiþ þan, whanne þe meſſager commiþ, cloſeþ þe dore, and ſuffreþ hym not to commen in; lo! forsoþe þe ſoun of þe feet of his lord is bihynde hym.

xxxiii And ȝit hym ſpekyng to hem, apeeride þe meſſager, þat came to hym; and seiþ, Loo! ſo myche yuel of þe Lord is; what more ſchal I abyden of þe Lord?

Capitulum VII.

i Helisee forsoþe feide, Here ȝe þe word of þe Lord; þefe þingis seiþ þe Lord, In þis tyme to morwe a buſchell of tryid floure ſchal be at 'half an ounce of monee, and two buſchels of barly for half an ounce of monee, in þe ȝate of Samarye.

ii Anſwerynge forsoþe oon of þe duykis, vpon whose hond þe kyng lenyde, to þe man of God, ſeide, ȝif þe Lord make alſo þe goters in heuen to be opnyde, wheþer it ſchal mow ben þat þou ſpekift? Pe whiche seiþ, þou ſchalt ſeen wiþ þin eeȝen, and þeroſ þou ſchalt not eten.

iii Pan foure leproufe men weren byſide þe entree of þe ȝate, þe whiche feyden to gydre, What wil we be here, to þe tyme þat we dyen?

iv Wheþer we wyln goon in to þe cyte, by hungre we ſchul dyen; wheþir we ſchuln dwellen here, to dyen it is to us. Commiþ þann, and fleeȝe we ouer to þe tentis of Cyrye; ȝif þei ſparen to us, we ſchul lyuen; ȝif forsoþe þei wiſt flen, neuer þe later we ſchul dyen.

v Panne þey ryſen at euen, þat þei comen to þe tentis of Cirie; and whanne þei weren commen to þe bigynnyng of þe tentis of Cyrye, no man þere þei founden.

vi Forsoþe þe Lord hadde made to heren a ſoun in þe tentis of Cyrye of charis, and of hors, and of a mych hoost; and þei feyden to gydre, Loo! by meede þe kyng of Yrael haþ hyred aȝeynt us þe kyngis of Etheis and of Egipciens; and þei ben commen vpon us.

vii Panne þei riſen, and flowen in dercneſſis, and laſten þei tentis, and hors, and mulis, and aſſes, in þe tentis; and þei flowen, þeir lyuis onooly couetyng to ſauen.

viii Pann whanne þoo meſels weren commen to þe bigynnyng of þe tentis, þei wenten in to oon tabernacle, and eten, and drucken; and token þenns syluer, and gold, and cloþis; and þei wenten aweye, and hydden; and eft þei ben turned aȝeyn to another tabernacle, and þenns lyc maner beerynge aweye, hydden.

ix And þey feyden to gidir, We do not riȝt, þis is forsoþe a day of good message; ȝif we holden oure pese, and wyln not tellen vnto þe morowe, we schul be vndernummen of hydous gylt; commip, and goo we, and tellen in þe halle of þe kyng.

x And whanne þei weren commen to þe ȝate of þe cytee, þei tolden to hem, seyinge, We wenten to þe tentis of Syrie, and no man þer we founden, bot hors and assis bounden, and þe piȝt tentis.

xi Panne þe porteris ȝeden, and tolden in þe paleys of þe kyng wiþinne forþ.

xii þe welche rose at nyȝt, and seiþ to his seruauntis, I sey to ȝou, what to us Cyryes han done; þei wyten, for wiþ hungre we trauaylen, and þerfore þey ben goon outh of þe tentis, and lurken in þe feeldis, seyinge, Whanne þei weren goon outh of þe cyte, we schuln taken hem on lyue, and þann we schuln mowe goon in to þe cytee.

xiii Forsoþ oon of his seruauntis answarde, Take we þe fyue hors, þat ben laft in þe cytee; for þei ononly ben in alle þe multitude of Yrael, þe toþer forsoþe ben waſtide; and feendynge we schuln mowe aspyen.

xiv Panne þei brouȝten forþe two hors; and þe kyng fente in to þe tentis of Cyries, seyinge, Gop, and seeþ.

xv Pe welche wenten aftre hem vnto Jordan; and, lo! al þe wey was ful of cloþis, and of vefselis, þat þe Cyries hadde brownen aweye, whanne þei weren distourblid. And þe messagers turnede aȝeyn, scheweden to þe kyng.

xvi And þe puple goon outh, tobraſt þe tentis of Cyrye; and a buschel of floure is maad at 'half an ounce of monee, and two buschels of barley for half an ounce of monee, aftir þe word of þe Lord.

xvii Forsoþe þe kyng þat duyk, in whose hond he hade lenyd, he sett at þe ȝate; whom þe puple altotrade in þe entre of þe ȝate, and is deed, aftir þat, þat þe man of God hadde spoken, whanne þe kyng came doun to hym.

xviii And it is done aftir þe word of þe man of God, þe welche he hade leide to þe kyng, whanne he leiþ, Two buschels of barley schuln ben at one half ounce of monee, and oon buschell of flour for oon half ounce of monee, þis same tyme to morwe in þe ȝate of Samarie;

xix whanne þe duyk hadde answarde to þe man of God, and hadde feyde, Also ȝif þe Lord make þe goters in heuen to be opned, wheþer it schal mow be done þat þou spekiȝt? and he feid, þou schalt seen wiþ þin eeȝen, and þerof þou schalt not eten.

xx Panne it felle to hym, as it was feyde beforne; and þe puple to-trade him 'in þe ȝate, and he is deed.

Capitulum VIII.

i Heliſee forsoþe spac to þe womman, whose sone he made to lyue, seyinge, Rijs, goo, and þou and þin hous, in pilgrymage, whereuer þou schalt fynde; þe Lord forsoþe schal clepen hungre, and it schal commen vpon þe lond feuen zeer.

ii Pe welche roſe, and dyde aftir þe word of þe man of God; and gooynge wiþ hyre hous pylgrymagid in þe lond of Phylisteis many dayes.

iii And whanne feuen zeer were fynysched, þe womman is turnede aȝein fro þe lond of Philisteis; and sche wente outh, þat sche preye þe kyng for hyre hous, and for hir feeldis.

iv Pe kynge forsoþe spak wiþ Giezi, þe chijld of þe man of God, seyinge, Telle to me alle þe grete þingis þat Heliſee dide.

v And whanne he tolde to þe kynge, what maner wiſe he hade rered þe deed, þe womman apeeride, whose sone he hade quyckenede, criyng to þe kyng for hyre hous, and for hyre feeldis. And Giezi seide, My lord kyng, þis is þe womman, and þis is þe sone of hyre, þat Heliſee rerede.

vi And þe kyng aſkyde þe womman, þe welche tolde to hym þo þingis to be soþ. And þe kyng ȝaued to hyre an geldynge, seiyng, Restore to hyre alle þingis þat ben hyres, and alle þe rentes of feeldis, fro þe day þat sche laft þe lond vnto þe tyme þat is nowe.

vii Forsoþe Heliſee cam to Damask, and Benadab, kyng of Cyrye, wexe ſeeke; and þei tolden to hym, seyinge, þe man of God is commen hydre.

viii And þe kyng seiþ to Aſael, Take wiþ þee ȝiftis, and goo in to aȝein commynge of þe man of God, and counſeyle by hym þe Lord, seyinge, ȝif I ſchal mow aſcapen of þis myn enſirmyte?

ix Pan Aſael wente in to aȝein commynge of hym, hauynge wiþ hym ȝiftis, and alle þe goodis of Damalke, fourty chamel chaargin. And whanne he hade ſtonden before hym, seiþ, Bi sone, Benadab, kyng of Syrie, fente me to þee, seyinge, ȝif I ſchal mow be heelid of þis myn enſirmyte?

x And Heliſee ſeide, Goo, ſeye to hym, þou ſchalt ben hoole; bot þe Lord haþ ſchewide to me for by deþ he ſchal dye.

xi And he ſtode wiþ hym, and is diſtoubled, vnto þe ſchedynge doun of þe cheere; and þe man of God wepte.

xii To whom Aſael seiþ, Why my lord weepiþ? And he anſwerde, For I wote what þou be to doo to þe ſonis of Yrael euyls; þe ſtrengbide cytees of hem þou ſchalt brenne up wiþ fijr, and þe ȝonge men of hem þou ſchalt flee wiþ fwerde, and þe lytſt chylde of hem þou ſchalt hurtlyn, and þe wymmen wiþ chijlde þou ſchalt deuyde.

xiii And Aſael feyde, What forſoþe am I, þi ſeruaunt, an hound, þat I doo þis grete þinge? And Heliſee seiþ, Pe Lord haþ ſchewide to me þee to be kyng of Cyrye.

xivii þe which whanne hade goon aweye fro Helisee, came to his lord; þe which seiþ to hym, What seide Helisee to þee? And he answarde, He seide to me, þou schalt reffeyue helþ.

xv And whanne þe tober day was commen, he toke an couerlyte, and helte in wiþ watir, and spradde vpon his face; þe whiche deed, Aſael regnede for hym.

xvi þe fyft ȝeer of Joram, þe sone of Acab, kyng of Yrael, regnede Joram, þe sone of Josaphath, king of Juda.

xvii Of two and þrity ȝeer he was whanne he beganne to regnen, and eiȝte ȝere he regnyde in Jerusalem.

xviii And he wente in þe weyes of þe kyngis of Yrael, as wente þe hous of Acab; þe douȝter forfoþe of Acab was his wiþf; and he dydde þat, þat is yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord.

xix And þe Lord wolde not scateren Juda, for Dauid, his seruaunt, as he hadde behoten to hym, þat he schulde ȝeue to hym a lanterne, and to his sones alle days.

xx In þo days wente aweye Edom, þat þei weren not vndur Juda; and he sette to hym a kyng.

xxi And Joram came to Seyr, and alle þe charis wiþ hym; and he roose þe nyȝt, and smote Ydumes, þat hym hadden enuyround, and þe princis of þe chaaris; þe puple forfoþe fleeyȝ in to þeir tabernaclis.

xxii þan went Edom, þat he were not vndur Juda vnto þis day; þannte wente aweye Lobna and in þat tyme.

xxiii þe remnaunt forfoþe of þe wordis of Joram, and alle þingis þat he dyde, wheþer not þese ben writen in þe booke of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda?

xxiv And Joram lepte wiþ his faders, and is byryed wiþ hem in þe cytee of Dauid; and Ochosias, his sone, regnede for hym.

xxv þe twelfiȝ ȝeer of Joram, þe sone of kyng Achab, regnede Ochosias, þe sone of kyng Joram, of Jude.

xxvi Of two and twenty ȝeer was Ochosias, þe sone of Joram, whanne he beganne to regnen, and oon ȝeer he regned in Jerufalem; þe name of his modir Athalia, þe douȝter of Amry, kyng of Yrael.

xxvii And he wente in þe weyes of þe hous of Achab, and dydde þat, þat is yuel before þe Lord, as þe hous of Acab; forfoþe þe lone in lawe in lawe of þe hous of Acab he was.

xxviii Forfoþe he wente wiþ Joram, þe sone of Acab, to fiȝten aȝeyn Azael, kyng of Cyrie, in to Ramoth Galaad; and Cyries woundeden Joram.

xxix þe whiche is turned aȝeyn, þat he were helyd in Jezrael; for Cyries woundeden hym in Ramoth, fiȝtyng aȝeynſt Azael, kyng of Cyrie. Forfoþe Ochozias, þe sone of Joram, kyng of Juda, came doun to viȝten Joram, þe sone of Achab, in Jezrael, þe whiche seekened þere.

Capitulum IX.

i Forfoþe Helisee, þe prophete, clepide oon of þe sonys of prophetis, and seiþ to hym, Gyrde þi reenis, and take þis oynment vessel of oyle in þin hond, and goo in to Ramoth Galaad.

ii And whanne þou commyst þidre, þou schalt seen Hieu, þe sone of Josaphath, þe sone of Nampfy; and goon in þou schalt reren hym fro þe mydill of his breþeren, and þou schalt bryngen hym wiþ inforþ in to þe inner more bed place.

iii And holdinge an oynment vessel of oyle þou schalt heelden vpon his heued, and seye, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, I haue anoyntyde þee in to kynge vpon Yrael; and þou schalt opne þe dore, and fleeȝen, and þere þou schalt not abyden.

iv þannte ȝeede a ȝonge waxen child of þe profete in to Ramoth Galaad, v and wente in þidir. Lo! forfoþe þe princis of þe hoofis feeten; and he seiþ, A worde to me anentis þee, O! prince. And Hieu seide, To whom of us alle? And he seide, To þee, O! prince.

vi And he roos, and wente in to þe bede place. And he helde oyle vpon his heuedede, and seiþ, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yfrael, I haue anoyntyde þee in to kyng vpon þe puple of þe Lord of Yrael;

vii and þou schalt smyten þe hous of Achab, þi lord, þat I venge þe blode of my seruauntis prophetis, and þe blode of alle þe seruauntis of þe Lord, fro þe hond of Jezabel.

viii And I schal distruy alle þe hous of Achab, andflen fro þe hous of Achab a pyffer to þe walle, and closed, and þe laſt in Yrael.

ix And I schal ȝeue þe hous of Achab as þe hous of Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, and as þe hous of Basaa, þe sone of Ahia.

x Jezabel forfoþe houndis schulen eten in þe feelde of Jezrael; and þere schal not ben þat byrye hyre. And he opnede þe dore, and fleyȝ.

xi Hieu forfoþe wente outh to þe seruauntis of his lord, þe whiche seyden to hym, Wheþer riȝt ben alle þingis? What came þis wood man to þee? þe whiche seiþ to hem, ȝe han knownen þe man, and what he hab spoken.

xii And þei answarden, It is fals; but more telle þou to us. þe whiche seiþ to hem, Þese þingis and þese þingis he spac to me, and seiþ, Þese þingis seiþ þe Lord, I haue anoyntyde þee kynge vpon Yfrael.

xiii And so þei hyȝeden, and echone, takyng his mantylle, putten vndur his feet in lycknesse of a kyngis chayer. And þey fungen wiþ trumpe, and seyden, Hieu schal regnen.

xiv þannte Hieu, þe sone of Josaphath, þe sone of Nampfy, coniured aȝeynſt Joram. Forfoþe Joram hadde byfeegyd Ramoth Galaad, he and alle Yrael, aȝeynſt Azael, kyng of Cyrie.

xv And he was turned aȝeyn, þat he were helyd in Jezrael for þe woundis; for Cyries hadden smyten hym fiȝtyng aȝeynſt Azael, kyng of Cyrie. And Hieu seide, 3if it plese to ȝou, no man goo oute fuguatyue fro þe cyte, left he go, and tell in Jezrael.

 xvi And he steyȝide vp, and wente forþ into Jezrael; Joram forsoþe laye seeke þere, and Ochosias, kyng of Juda, hadde goon doun to vyfyte Joram.
 xvii Panne þe wayte, þat stode vpon þe toure of Jezrael, see þe glub of Hieu commynge, and seiþ, I see a glub.
 And Joram seide, Take þe chare, and sende in to aȝeyn commynge of hem; and þe gooer sey, Wheþer riȝt ben alle þingis?
 xviii ȝanne ȝeede, þat steyȝide up þe chaare, in to aȝeyn commynge of hym, and seiþ, Þes þingis seiþ þe kyng, Apayid ben alle þingis? And Hieu seyde to hym, What to bee and to pese? Go, and folow me. Þe weyt forsoþe tolde, seyinge, Þe messager cam to hem, and he is not turned aȝeyn.
 xix Also he sent þe secounde chaar of hors, and he came to hem, and seiþ, Pese þingis seiþ þe kyng, Where is þere pese? And Hieu seiþ, What to þee and to pese?
 Paffe, and folowe me.
 xx Forsoþe þe weyt tolde, seyinge, He came vnto hem, and he turniþ not aȝein; forsoþe þe goynge is as þe goynge of Hieu, þe sone of Nampfy; 'ful fwytlyche forsoþe he gop.
 xxi And Joram seiþ, Ioyniþ þe chaar. And þey ioyneden his chaar. And Joram, þe kyng of Yrael, wente oute, and Ochosias, kyng of Juda, ech in þeir chaaris; and þei wenten oute into aȝeyncommynge of Hieu, and þei founden hym in þe feeld of Nabath Jezraelyte.
 xxii And whanne Joram hadde seen Hieu, he seide, Pese is þere, Hieu? And he answerde, What pese? ȝit þe fornycaciouns of Jezabel, þi modir, and hyr many venymyngis þrijuen.
 xxiii Forsoþe Joram turnede his hond, and fleeȝinge seiþ to Ochosie, Busscementis! busscementis! Ochosie. xxiv Bot Hieu bente þe bowe wiþ þe honde, and smote Joram bytwene þe schulders, and þe arewe is sent out þoruȝ his hert; and anoon he felle in his chaare.
 xxv And Hieu seiþ to dyuke Badachar, Take, þrowe hym in þe feelde of Naboth Jezraelite; I haue mynde forsoþe, when I and þow fyttynge in þe chaar foloweden Achab, his fadir, for þe Lord hadde rerede out þis charge upon hym, xxvi seyinge, Wheþer not for þe blode of Naboth, and for þe blode of þe sonys of hym, þe whiche I sawe ȝesterday, seiþ þe Lord, I schal ȝelden to þee in þis feelde, seiþ þe Lord. Nowe þanne take hym, and þrowe hym in þe feelde, aftir þe word of þe Lord.
 xxvii Ochosias forsoþe, kyng of Juda, seeinge þis, fleeȝ by þe weye of þe hous of þe gardyn; and Hieu folewede hym, and seiþ, Also þis smytiþ in his chare.
 And þis smyten hym in þe steyninge up of Gaber, þat is befylde Jeblaam; þe whiche fleyȝ in to Magedo, and is deed þere.

xxviii And his seruauntis putten hym vpon his chaar, and token in to Jerusalem; and biriden hym in þe sepulcre wiþ his fadirs, in þe cytee of Dauȝþ.
 xxix þe elleuenȝ zeer of Joram, þe sone of Achab, þe kyng of Yrael, regnede Ochosias vpon Judam. xxx And Hieu came in to Jezrael. Forsoþe Jezabel, his entree herde, peyntyde hyre eeȝen wiþ strumpettis oynment, and sche anournede hyre heued; and sche byhelde þoruȝ þe wyndowe xxxi Hieu commynge in by þe ȝate, and seiþ, Wheþer pese may be to Zamry, þat haþ flayn his lord?
 xxxii And Hieu rerede up his face to þe wyndowe, and seiþ, What is sche þis? And þere boweden hem to hym two or þre geldingis, and seyden to hym, þis is sche, þat Jezabel.
 xxxiii And he seyde to hem, Tumblȝ hyre doun. And þei tumbliden hyre; and þe wall is sprengid wiþ þe blod, and þe hors houes, þat treden hyre.
 xxxiv And when he was goon in, þat he ete and drynke, he seiþ, Gooþ, and seep þat cursed, and burieþ hyre, for þe douȝter of a kyng sche is.
 xxxv And when þei weren gon, þat þey biryen hyre, þei founden not, no bot þe scul, and þe feet, and gobitis of þe hond;
 xxxvi and þey turned aȝein, tolden to hym. And Hieu seiþ, þe word of þe Lord it is, þe whiche he spak by his seruaunt Helye Thesbyten, seyinge, In þe feeld of Jezrael houndis schulen eten þe flesche of Jezabel; xxxvii and þe flesche of Jezabel schul be as drytt vpon þe face of þe erþe in þe feeld of Jezrael, so þat men paffynge byfydis seyn, Wheþer sche þis is not þat Jezabel?

Capitulum X.

i Of Achab forsolþ weren seenty sonis in Samary. Pan Hieu wrote lettris, and fente in to Samarye to þe best of þe cytee, and to þe more þoruȝ birþ, and to þe nurischis of Achab, seyinge, ii Anoon as ȝe taken þes lettres, ȝe þat haue þe sonis of ȝoure lord, and chaaris, and hors, and stronge cytees, and aarmys,
 iii chesiþ þe beter, and hym þat to ȝou schal plesen of þe sonis of ȝour lord, and puttiþ hym vpon þe see of his fadir, and frȝtiþ for þe hous of ȝoure lord.
 iv And þei dredden hugelye, and seyden, Loo! two kyngis myȝten not stonden beforn hym, and what maner wijfe schuln we mowen to wiþtonden hym?
 v Panne þe prouostis of þe hous senten, and þe prefect of þe cyte, and þe more þoruȝ birþ, and þe nurischis to Hieu, seyinge, Bi seruauntis we ben; what euer þingis þou schalt comaunde, we schul done, and we schul not ordeyne to us a kynge; what euer þinge to þee plesiþ, do.
 vi Forsoþe he wrote aȝein lettris to hem þe secounde tyme, seyinge, ȝif myn ȝe ben, and obeschent to me, takiþ þe heuedis of þe sonis of ȝoure lord, and commiþ to me þis fame houre to morowe in to Jezrael. Forsoþe þe sonis of þe kyng, feuenty men, anentis þe best of þe cytee weren nurischide.

vii And when lettris weren commen to hem, þei token þe sonis of þe kyng, and flewen þe feuenty men, and putten þe heuedis of hem in cofynes; and senten to hym in to Jezrael.

viii Forsoþe a messagere came to hym, and schewede to hym, seyinge, Þei han brouȝt þe heuedis of þe sonys of þe kyng. Þe whiche answarde, Puttiþ hem at þe two stone hepis, besydis þe entre of þe ȝate, vnto to morowe.

ix And when þe day hadde liȝted, he wente out, and stondynge seide to alle þe puple, Riȝtwyse ȝe ben; ȝif I haue coniured aȝeynus my lord, and flayn hym; who smoot alle þese?

x Seþ þann nowe, for þere haþ not fallen of þe wordis of þe Lord in þe erþe, þe whiche þe Lord spac vpon þe hous of Achab; and þe Lord dydde þat he spak in þe hond of Helye, his seruaunt.

xi Panne Hieu smoot alle þat weren laft of þe hous of Achab in Jezrael, and alle þe best of hym, and knownen, and prestis, to þe tyme þat þer laft not of hym relykys. xii And he roos, and came in to Samerye; and when þei weren commen to þe chaumbre of scheperdis in þe weye, xiii he fonde þe breþeren of Ochosie, kyng of Juda; and he seide to hem, Who forsoþe ben ȝe? And þei answarden, Þe breþeren of Ochosie we ben, and we ben commen doun to faluten þe sonis of þe kyng and þe sonys of þe qween.

xiv Þe whiche seiþ, Takilþ hem on lyue. Whom when þei hadden taken alyue, þei protyden hem in þe cystern, besyde þe chaumbre, two and fourty men; and he laft not of hem eny man.

xv And when he was goon þens, he foond Jonadab, þe fone of Reechab, in to aȝein commynge to hym, and blesſede to hym. And Hieu seiþ to hym, Wheþer is þin hert riȝt wiþ myne herte, as myn hert wiþ þin hert? And Jonadab seiþ, It is. ȝif it is, he seiþ, ȝeue me þin honde. Þe whiche ȝaue to hym his hond; and he rerede hym to hym in to þe chaar.

xvi And he seyde to hym, Comme wiþ me, and see my loue for þe Lord. And hym sett in his chaar, xvii he ladde in to Samerye. And he smote alle þat weren laft of Achab in Samerye vnto oon, after þe word of þe Lord, þat he spac by Helye.

xviii Pan Hieu gaderd alle þe puple, and seide to hem, Achab heryide Baal a lytyl, I forsoþe schal herye hym more.

xix Nowe þan alle þe prophetis of Baal, and alle his seruauntis, and alle þe prestis of hem clepiþ to me; noon be þat cumme not, forsoþe grete sacrifice is to me to Baal; who so euer be aweye, he schal not lyuen.

Forsoþe Hieu dydde þis asþingly, þat he distruye alle þe heryeris of Baal.

xx And he seyde, Halowiþ a solempne day to Baal. And he clepid, xxi and sente in to al þe termes of Yrael; and þer camen alle þe seruauntis of Baal, and þer was not lafte not oone forsoþe þat came not. And þei wenten in to þe temple of Baal; and þe hous of Baal is fulfillid, from þe heeȝist to þe heeȝist.

xxii And he seide to hem þat haden maistrye vpon þe cloþes, Bryngiþ forþ þe vestimentis to alle þe seruauntis of Baal; and þei brouȝtyn to hym þe cloþis.

xxiii And Hieu wente in, and Jonadab, þe fone of Reechab, in to þe temple of Baal. And he seiþ to þe herieris of Baal, Enserchib, and seep, leſt eny man perauenture be wiþ ȝou of þe seruauntis of þe Lord; bot þat aloon ben þe seruauntis of Baal.

xxiv Panne þei wenten in, þat þei done slayne offryngis, and brent sacrifices. Hieu made redy forsoþe wiþ outh forþe fourre score men, and hadde seyde to hem, Who so euer fleeȝiþ of alle þese, 'þe whiche I schal brynge in to ȝoure hondis, his liȝf schal ben for þe liȝf of hym.'

xxv It is do forsoþe, when þe brent sacrifice was fulfillid, Hieu comaundide to þe knyȝtis and to his duykis, Goþ in, and smytiþ hem, þat noonascaape. And þe knyȝtis and þe duykis smyten hem in þe mouȝe of þe swerd, and þrewen aweye. And þei wenten in to þe cyte of þe temple of Baal, xxvi and þei brouȝten forþe þe ymage fro þe temple of Baal, and þei brenden, and distruyden it.

xxvii Forsoþe þei distroyeden þe hous of Baal, and þei maaden for it waardropis vnto þis day.

xxviii And so Hieu dyde aweye Baal from Yrael; xxix neuerþelatre fro þe synnes of Jeroboam, þe fone of Naboth, þat maad Yrael to synne, he ȝeede not aweye, ne dyde aweye þe golden caluis, þat weren in Bethel and in Dan.

xxx Þe Lord forsoþe seyde to Hieu, For wysely þou haſt done þat þat was riȝt, and it pleside in myn eeȝen, and alle þingis þat were in myne herte þou dyddist aȝeynst þe hous of Achab, bi ȝony vnto þe ferþ generacioun schuln sytten vpon þe trone of Yrael.

xxxi Bot Hieu kepte not, þat he wente in þe lawe of þe Lord God of Yrael in al his herte; forsoþe he wente not fro þe synnes of Jerobaham, þat maad Yrael to synnen.

xxxii In þo days þe Lord beganne to noyȝen vpon Yrael; and Azael smote hem in alle þe coostis of Yrael, xxxiii fro Jordane aȝeyns þe este cooſt, alle þe lond of Galaad, and Gad, and Ruben, and Manasse, fro Aroer þat is vpon þe streme of Arnon, and Galaad, and Basan.

xxxiv þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Hieu, and alle þingis þat he dide, and his strengþe, wheþer not þes ben writhen in þe boke of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Yrael?

xxxv And Hieu slepte wiþ his fadirs; and þei birieden hym in Samarie; and Joacath, his sone, regnede for hym.

xxvi þe days forsoþe, 'þe whiche Hieu regned vpon Yrael in Samarye, ben eiȝt and twenty ȝeer.

Capitulum XI.

i Athalia forsoþe, þe modir of Ochosie, seeȝinge hyre sone deed, roos, and flewȝ alle þe kyngis seede.

ii Forsoþe Jozaba, þe douȝtir of kyng Joram, þe sister of Ochosie, takynge Joas, þe sone of Ochosie, staal hym fro þe myddis of þe sonis of þe kyng, þat weren slayn; and his nurische fro þe chaumbre of þree beddis; and sche hydde hym fro þe face of Athalie, þat he were not flayne.

iii And he was wiþ hyre in þe hous of þe Lord priuely sex ȝeer. Forsoþe Athalie regnede vpon þe lond sex ȝeer.

iv Þe feuenþ forsoþe ȝeer Joiada sente, and takynge rewlers of hundreþis, and knyȝtis, and brouȝte in to hym in to þe temple of þe Lord; and he couenauntyde wiþ hem a couenaunt of pese, and, adiurynge hem in þe temple of þe Lord, schewide to hem þe sone of þe kyng.

v And he comaundide to hem, seyinge, þis is þe word, þe whiche ȝe owe to done; þe þrydde partye of ȝou go in þe saboth, and keep he wele þe watchis of þe hous of þe kyng;

vi þe þrydde forsoþe party be at þe ȝate of Seir; and þe þridde party be at þe ȝate þat is bihynde þe dwellynge place of þe scheld bereris; and ȝe schulen kepen þe watchis of þe hous of Messa.

vii Two forsoþe partyes of ȝou alle goynge outh of þe saboth, keepen þei þe watchis of þe hous of þe Lord aboute þe kyng.

viii And ȝee schul 'setten hym aboute, hauyng aarmys in ȝoure hondis; and ȝif eny man comme wiþ in þe purseynt of þe temple, be he flayn; and ȝe schul ben wiþ þe kyng commynge in and goynge out.

ix And þe keepers of hundreþis dyden aftir alle þingis þat Joiada, þe prest, hadde comaundide to hem; and ech takynge þeir men þat wenten in to þe saboth, wiþ hem þat wenten out fro þe saboth, camen to Joiada, þe prest.

x þe whiche ȝau to hem þe speris, and þe armys of kyng Dauid, þat weren in þe hous of þe Lord.

xi And eche stoden hauyng aarmys in þeir hond, fro þe riȝt partye of þe temple vnto þe left paartye of þe auter and of þe hous, aboute þe kyng.

xii And he brouȝt forþe þe sone of þe kyng, and putte vpon hym a dyadem, and witneſſyng; and þei maden him king, and anoynteden; and, ioyinge wiþ þe hondis, feyden, Lyue þe kyng!

xiii Forsoþe Athalia herde þe voice of þe puple rennyng, and goon in to þe peplis in to þe temple of þe Lord, xiv sche sawȝ þe kyng stondinge vpon þe chayer aftir þe maner, and syngers, and companyes besidis hym, and alle þe puple of þe lond glaadinge, and syngynge wiþ trompis. And sche kyllt hyre cloþis, and cryede, Coniuracioun! coniuracioun!

xv Forsoþe Joiada comaundide to þe rewlers of hundreþis, þat weren vpon þe hooft, and seiþ to hem, Leediþ hyre out of þe purseyntis of þe temple; and who so euer folewȝiþ hyre, be he smyten wiþ a fwerde. Forsoþe þe prest hadde seyde, Be sche not flayn in þe temple of þe Lord.

xvi And þei putten to hyre hondis, and stykeden hyre by þe weye of þe entree of þe hors besyde þe paleys; and sche is flayn þere.

xvii þan Joiada couenauntyde couenaunt of pese bytwen þe Lord and þe kyng, and bytwene þe puple, þat þer were a puple of þe Lord; bytwene þe king and þe puple.

xviii And alle þe puple of þe lond wente in to þe temple of Baal; and þei distruyden his auters, and þe ymagis broosiden to gydris miȝtily; Mathan forsoþe, þe prest of Baal, þei flewen before þe auter. And þe prest sette waardis in þe hous of þe Lord; xix and toke þe rewlers of hundreþis, and þe legiouns of Cerethy and Ferethy, and alle þe puple of þe lond. And þei brouȝten þe kyng fro þe hous of þe Lord; and þei camen by þe weye of þe ȝaat of þe scheeld bereris in to þe paleys; and he fate vpon þe trone of kyngis.

xx And alle þe puple of þe lond glaadid, and alle þe cytee restide in oon. Athalia forsoþe is flayn wiþ fwerde in þe hous of þe kyng.

xxi And of feuen ȝeer was Joas, when he beganne to regne.

Capitulum XII.

i The feuenþ ȝeer of Hieu regnede Joas; fourty ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; þe name of his modir Sebia of Bersabe.

ii And Joas dyde riȝt beforne þe Lord alle days, þe whiche tauȝte hym Joiada, þe prest.

iii Neuerþelater heeȝe þingis he dide not aweye; ȝit forsoþe þe puple offride, and brente encense in heiȝtis.

iv And Joas feide to þe prestis, Al þe monee of seyntis, 'þe whiche were brouȝt in to þe temple of þe Lord of men paſſyng, 'þe whiche is offred for þe synne of þe soule, and þe whiche þei bryngen in wilfully, and by dome of þeir herte, in to þe temple of þe Lord, v þe prestis taken þei it aftir þeir ordre. And enstoore þei þe coueryngis of þe hous, ȝif eny bingis þei seen necessarye in þe restorynge.

vi þanne vnto þe ȝree and twentie ȝeer of kyng Joas, þe prestis restooreden not þe coueryngis of þe temple.

vii And kyng Joas clepide Joiada, þe bischop, and þe prestis, seyinge to hem, Why þe coueryngis ȝe restoren not of þe temple? Wille ȝe þan not no more taken þe monee aftir ȝoure ordre, bot to þe restooringe of þe temple ȝeldip it.
 viii And þe prestis ben forfendid to eny more takyn monee of þe puple, and to restoren þe coueryngis of þe hous.
 ix And Joiada, þe bischop, toke oon tresoringe place, and he opned an hoole þer aboue, and putte it bisyde þe auter, at þe riȝt syde of men commynge in to þe house of þe Lord; and þe prestis, þat kepten þe doris, putten in it al þe monee þat was brouȝt to þe temple of þe Lord.
 x And when he fauȝ to myche monee to be in þe tresorye, a scribe of þe kyngis steyȝide up, and a byschop, and þei heelden out, and noumbreden þe monee þat was foundun in þe hous of þe Lord.
 xi And þei ȝeuen it aftir þe noumber and mesure in þe hond of hem, þat weren before to þe masouns of þe hous of þe Lord, þe whiche ȝeuen it in carpentaris, and in þes masouns, þat wrouȝten in þe hous of þe Lord, and þe coueryngis maaden;
 xii and in hem þat hewyden stony; and þat schulden byen treeſe and stony, þe whiche weren hewen out; so þat þe enſtorynge of þe hous of þe Lord were fulfillid in alle þingis, 'þe whiche nededen expensis to þe hous to be warnyschid.
 xiii Neuerþelatre þer weren not maad of þe same monee þe stenys of þe temple of þe Lord, and þe fleschookis, and þe cenferis, and þe trompis, and all golden vesseſ and silueren, of þe monee þat was brouȝt in to þe temple of þe Lord.
 xiv To þes forſoþe þat maden werk was ȝeuen, þat þe temple of þe Lord were enſtooride.
 xv And no reknyng was maad to þo men þat token þe monee, þat þei delen it to þe craftyse men; bot in feiþ þei tretiden it.
 xvi þe monee forſoþe for trespass, and þe monee for synnes, þei brouȝten not in to þe temple of þe Lord, for it was of prestis.
 xvii þan Azael, kyng of Cyrye, steyȝide up, and fauȝ aȝeynus Geth; and he took it, and he dresside his face, þat he steyȝe up in to Jerufalem.
 xviii For what þing Joas, king of Juda, took alle þe halowed þingis, 'þe whiche Josaphath, and Joram, and Ochosias, hise faders, kyngis of Juda, hadden sacred, and þe whiche he hadde offred, and al þe syluer and gold, þat myȝt be founden in þe trefouries of þe temple of þe Lord, and in paleys of þe kyng. And he sente to Azael, þe kyng of Cyrye, and wente aweye fro Jerufalem.
 xix þe remnaunt forſoþe of þe wordis of Joas, and alle þingis þat he dyde, wheþer þes ben not writen in þe book of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda?

xvi And þei forsoken alle þe heftis of þe Lord þeir God, and þei maaden to hem two ȝoten calues, and mawmette wodis; and þei honoureden alle þe knyȝthode of heuen; and þei serueden to Baal, xvii and þei sacreden to it þeir sonys and þeir douȝtris þoruȝ fyer, and to dyuynyng þei inwardly serueden, and to dyuynyng in chiterynge of briddis; and þei bitauȝten hem seluen þat þei done euyl byform þe Lord, and þei terreden hym.
xviii And þe Lord is wroþe hydously to Yrael; and he toke hem aweye fro his siȝt, and þer laſt not bot þe lynage of Juda aloon.
xix Bot and not he, Juda, kepte þe heftis of þe Lord his God, neuer þe later he errid, and went in þe errors of Yrael, þe whiche he hadde wrouȝt.
xx And þe Lord þeirwe aweye al þe feed of Yrael, and tourmentyde hem, and he toke hem in þe hond of distriers; to þe tyme þat he cast hem aweye fro his face, xxi fro þat nowe tyme fro þe whiche Yrael was kutt of fro þe hous of Dauid, and þei ordeyneden to hem a kyng, Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath. Forsoþe Jeroboam feuerede Yrael fro þe Lord, and made hem to synnen a grete synne.

xxii And þe sonys of Yrael wenten in alle þe synnes of Jeroboam, 'þe whiche he hadde done; and þei wenten not aweye fro hem, xxiii for to þe Lord dyde Yrael awey fro his face, as he hadde spoken in þe hond of alle his seruauntis prophetis; and Yrael is translatyd fro his lond in to Assiries vnto þis day.

xxiv Forsoþe þe kyng of Assiries brouȝt þe puple fro Babiloyne, and fro Cutha, and fro Haylath, and fro Emath, and fro Sepharuaym, and he sette hem in þe cytees of Samarye for þe sonys of Yrael; þe whiche weeldiden Samarie, and dwelliden in þe cytees of it.

xxv And whanne þere þei hadden begunne to dwellen, þei dredden not þe Lord; and þe Lord sente to hem lyouns, þat flewen hem.

xxvi And it is told to þe kyng of Assiries, and seide, Þe folc þat þou hast translatyde, and maad to dwellen in þe cytees of Samarye, knownen not þe lawful þingis of þe God of þe lond; and þe Lord sente in to hem lyouns, and loo! þei schuln flen hem; for þy þat þei knownen not þe custum of þe God of þe lond.

xxvii Pe kyng forsoþe of Assiries comaundide, seyinge, Bringiþ hidre oon of þe prestis, 'þe whiche in to caytyfte ȝe han brouȝt, þat he goo, and dwelle wiþ hem, and teche hem þe lawful þingis of God of þe lond.

xxviii Panne whanne oon of þes prestis, þat weren ladde caytyfe fro Samarie, was commen, he dwellide in Bethel, and tauȝte hem, in what maner wyse þei schulden herie þe Lord.

xxix And ech folc forgid his god, and putten hem in heeȝe templis, 'þe whiche Samaritis maden, folc and folc in þeir cytees, in þe whiche þei dwelliden.

xxx Forsoþe Babyloynes men maden Socoth Benoth; forsoþe Cutheny men maaden Vergel; and þe men of Emath maaden Afsm; xxxi bot Euey maaden Nabaath and Tharcha; þes forsoþe þat weren of Sepharuaym brenden þeir sonys wiþ fyre to Adramalech and Aramalech, goddis of Sepharuaym.

xxxii And neuer þe latere þei herieden þe Lord; þei maaden forsoþe to hem prestis of þe most newe þingis of heeȝe þingis, and þei putten hem in heeȝe heiþen templis.

xxxiii And whanne þei schulden heryen God, forsoþe to þeir goddis þei ferueden, aftir þe vilage of heiþen men, fro þe whiche þei were translatyde to Samarye;

xxxiv vnto þe day þat is nowe þei foloweden þe old maner; þey dredden not þe Lord, ne keepen his cerymonyes, and domys, and lawe, and maundement, þat þe Lord hadde comaundide to þe sonys of Jacob, whome he clepide Yrael; xxxv and hadde smyten wiþ hem couenaunt, and hadde comaundide to hem, seyinge, Wylle ȝe not dreeden alyen goddis, and honouriþ not hem, ne herieþ hem, and offre ȝe not to hem;

xxxvi bot þe Lord ȝoure God, þat ladde ȝou out fro þe lond of Egyp in grete strengþe, and in aarme strauȝte out, hym drediþ, and hym honouriþ, and to him offriþ.

xxxvii Pe cerymonyes forsoþe, and þe domys, and þe lawe, and þe maundement þat he wroote to ȝou, keepiþ, þat ȝe done alle days; and dred ȝe not alyen goddis.

xxxviii And þe couenaunt þat he smoote wiþ ȝou, williþ not forȝeten, ne herie ȝee alyen goddis;

xxxix bot þe Lord ȝoure God drediþ, and he schal delyuere ȝou fro þe hond of alle ȝoure enmyes.

x ȝei forsoþe herden not, bot aftir þeir vilage befor hadde þei diden euyl.

xli Panne þes gentylis forsoþe weren dreedyng God; bot neuer þe later and to þeir mawmettis feruynge, for and þe sonys of hem and þe sonys sonys so done, as dyden þeir fadirs, vnto þe present day.

Capitulum XVIII.

- i The þrid ȝeer of Osee, þe sone of Hela, kyng of Yrael, regned Ezechias, þe sone of Achaz, kyng of Juda.
- ii Of fyue and twenty ȝeer he was, whanne he beganne to regnen, and twenty and nyne ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalēm; name of his modir, Abisa, douȝtir of Zacharie.
- iii And he dyde þat, þat was good befor þe Lord, aftir alle þingis þat Dauȝiþ, his fadir, hadde done.
- iv And he scattered þe heeȝe þingis, and to-brusede þe ymagis, and hewȝ doun þe mawmett wodis, and he to-braste þe brasen addere, þat Moyfes hadde maad; forsoþe vnto þat tyme þe sonys of Yrael brenden to it encense; and he clepide þe name of it Noestam.
- v And in þe Lord God of Yrael he hoopide; alfo aftir hym was not lik to hym of alle þe kyngis of Juda, bot nouȝter in hem þat weren befor hym.
- vi And he cleeuede to þe Lord, and he wente not aweye fro þe steppis of hym, and he dyde his heestis, þe whiche þe Lord hadde comaundide to Moyfes;
- vii wherfore and þe Lord was wiþ hym, and in alle þingis to þe whiche he went forþ, wifely he had hym silf. Forsoþe he rebellide aȝeynus þe king of Assiries, and þerfore he ferued not to hym;
- viii and he smoote þe Philisteis vnto Gafam, and alle þe termys of hem, fro þe toure of keepers vnto þe strengþid cytee.
- ix Pe ferþ ȝeer of kyng Ezechie, þe whiche was þe seuenþ ȝeer of Osee, þe sone of Hela, kyng of Yrael, Salmanazer, kyng of Affirie, steyȝide vp to Samarie, and ouercame it, and toke.

x For aftir þree ȝeer, þe sext ȝeer of Ezechie, þat is nynþe ȝeer of Ofee, kyng of Yrael, taken is Samarie; xi and þe kyng of Affiries translatyde Yrael in to Affiries, and sette hem in Haila, and in Habor, flodis of Gosam, in þe cytees of Medis;

xii for þei herden not þe voice of þe Lord þeir God, bot wenten besyde þe couenaunt of hym; alle þingis þat Moyses, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, hadde comaundide, þei herden not, ne dyden.

xiii þe fourtenþe ȝeer of kyng Ezekie, steyȝide up Senacherub, kyng of Affiries, to alle þe strengþid cytees of Juda, and toke hem.

xiv Þan Ezechias, kyng of Juda, sente messagers to þe kyng of Affiries in Lachis, seyinge, I haue synned; go aweye fro me, and al þat þou puttist on to me, I schale beren. And so þe kyng of Affiries comaundide to Ezechie, kyng of Juda, þre hundrep talentis of syluer, and þritty talentis of gold.

xv And Ezechias ȝaued alle þe syluer, þat was founden in þe hous of þe Lord, and in þe kingis tresouries.

xvi In þat tyme Ezechias brake þe doris of þe temple of þe Lord, and þe platis of gold, þe whiche he hadde affitchide, and he ȝaued hem to þe kyng of Affiries.

xvii Forsoþe þe kyng of Affiries sente Thercam and Rapsacem fro Lachis to kyng Ezechie, wiþ stronge hond to Jerusalem; þe whiche whanne hadden steyȝide up, þei camen to Jerusalem, and stoden bysydis þe kundyte of watir of þe ouer fysch poond, þat is in þe weye of þe fullers feeld.

xviii And þei clepide þe kyng; forsoþe Eliachym, þe fone of Elchie, prouost of þe hous, wente out to hem, and Sobna, scribe, and Joache, þe fone of Azaf, chauncelere.

xix And Rapsaces seide to hem, Speiþ to Ezechie, Þes þingis seiþ þe grete kyng, kyng of Affiries, What is þis truſt, in þe whiche þou leuifit?

xx Perauenture þou haſt goon in counsel, þat þou greipe þee to batayl. In what trifift þou, þat þou be hardy to rebellen?

xxi Wheþer hopiſt þou in þe reeden ſtaſ and broken, Egipt, vpon whiche ȝif a man lene, to-broken it ſchal goon in to his hond, and þrillen it? So is Pharao, þe kyng of Egipt, to alle þat truſten in hym.

xxii And ȝif þou feiſt to me, In þe Lord oure God we han truſt; wheþer not he is, of whome Ezechie toke aweye þe heeȝe þingis and þe auters, and comaundide to Jude and to Jerusalem, Beforn þis auter ȝe ſchuln honouren in Jerusalem?

xxiii Nowe þanne gooþ to my lord, king of Affiries, and I ſchal ȝeue to ȝou two þousand of hors, and feeȝiþ, wheþer ȝe mown han steyȝers vpon hem?

xxiv And what maner wijſe mowen ȝe wiþ ſtonden beforne oon prince of þe left ſeruauntis of my lord?

Wheþer haſt þou truſt in Egipt, for þe chaaris and hors men?

xxv Wheþer wiþ oute þe wille of God I haue steyȝide up to þis place, þat I diſtruye it? þe Lord ſeide to me, Steyȝe ȝe up to þis lond, and diſtruye it.

xxvi Forſoþe Eliachym, þe fone of Elchie, and Sobna, and Joache, ſeyden to Rapsace, We preyen, þat þou ſpeke to us, þi ſeruauntis, Ciriely; forſoþe we vndirſtonden þat tong; and ſpeke þou not to us Jewly, heerynge þe puple, þat is vpon þe walle.

xxvii And Rapsaces anſwerde to hym, ſeyinge, Wheþer to þi lord and to þee ſente me my lord, þat I ſchulde ſpeken þes wordis, and not more to be men þat fyten vpon þe wall, þat þei eten þeir dritt, and drynken þeir vryne wiþ ȝou?

xxviii And so Rapsaces ſtode, and cryede out wiþ a grete voyce Jewly, and ſeiþ, Heeriþ þe wordis of þe grete kyng, kyng of Affiries.

xxix Þes þingis ſeiþ þe kyng, 'Disceyue not ȝou Ezechie; forſoþe he ſchal not mowen delyuer ȝou fro myn hond;

xxx ne ȝyue he truſt to ȝou vpon þe Lord, ſeying, Delyuerynge ſchal delyueren us þe Lord, and þis cyte ſchal not be taken in þe hond of þe kyng of Affiries;

xxxi wille ȝe not heeren Ezechias. Þes þingis forſoþe ſeiþ þe kyng of Affiries, Doop wiþ me þat to ȝou is proſtytable, and comiþ out to me; and ete ech oon of his vijne, and of his fijge tree, and ȝe ſchuln drynke watirs of ȝoure cisternys, xxxii to þe tyme þat I come, and tranſlate ȝou in to þe lond þat is lijc to ȝour lond, in to þe lond berynge fruyt, and plenteuows of wijne, þe lond of brede, and of vynys, þe lond of olyues, 'and of oyle, and of hony; and ȝe ſchulen lyuen, and not dyȝen. Wylle ȝe not heeren Ezechie, þat ȝou disceyueþ, ſeyinge, þe Lord ſchal delyueren us.

xxxiii Wheþer delyuerden þe goddis of Gentylis þeir lond fro þe hond of þe kyng of Affiries?

xxxiv Where is þe god of Emath, and Arfath? Where is þe god of Sapharuaym, Ana, and Aua? Wheþer þei delyuerden Samarie fro myn hond?

xxxv Who forſoþe ben þes in alle þe goddis of londis, 'þe whiche delyuerden þeir regyoun fro my hond, þat þe Lord may delyueren Jerufalem fro myn hond?

xxxvi And so þe puple was ſtyll, and anſwerde not to hym eny þinge; forſoþe maundement of þe kyng þei hadde taken, þat þei ſchulden not anſweren to hym.

xxxvii And Eliachym, þe fone of Elchie, þe prouost of þe hous, came, and Sobna, ſcribe, and Joache, þe fone of Azaf, chauncelere, to Ezechie, þe cloþis kutt; and þei tolden to hym þe wordis of Rapsaces.

Capitulum XIX.

i The whence þingis whanne kyng Ezechie hadde herde, he cutte his clopis, and is couerde wiþ a sac; and he wente in to þe hous of þe Lord.
ii And he fente Eliachym, þe prouost of þe hous, and Sobna, scribe, and þe olde men of þe prestis, couerd wiþ sackis, to Ysay, þe prophete, þe lone of Amos.
iii þe whence seyden, þes þingis seiþ Ezechias, Days of tribulacyoun, and of blamynge, and of blasfemye þes days; þer ben commyn sonys to þe birþe, and strengþis haþ not þe childe berere.
iv ȝif perauenture heere þe Lord þi God alle þe wordis of Rapsaces, whom fente þe kynge of Assiries, his lord, þat he repreue þe Lord lyuynge, and vndernym wiþ wordis, þe whence herde þe Lord þi God; and make orysoun for þes relikis, þat ben founden.
v Panne þe seruauntis of kyng Ezechie camen to Ysay;
vi and Ysay seiþ to hem, þes þingis seiþ to zoure lord, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, Wille þe not dreeden fro þe face of þe wordis þat þe han herde, wiþ þe whence þe children of þe kyng of Assiries han blasfemyden me.
vii Loo! I schal fenden in to hym a spirit, and he schal here a messager, and he schal `be turned aȝeyn in to his lond; and I schal þrowen hym doun by swerd in his owne lond.
viii Panne Rapsaces is turned aȝeyn, and foond þe kyng of Assiries ouercommynge Lobnam; forsoþe he hade herde, þat he was goon aweye fro Lachis.
ix And whanne he hade herd of kyng Thearacha of Etheope, messager seyinge, Lo! he is goon out, þat he fiȝt aȝeynus þee; þat he goo aȝeynus hym, he fente messagers to Ezechie, seyinge, x þes þingis seiþ to Ezekie, kyng of Juda, Leede þee not afyde þe Lord þi God, in þe whence þou haft trust, ne sey þou, Jerusalem schal not be taken in to þe hondis of þe kyng of Assiries; xi þou forsoþe þi silf haft herd what þingis þe kyngis of Assiries han done in alle londis, what maner þei han waftiden hem; wheþer þan aloon þou schalt mowen ben delyuered?
xii Wheþer þe goddis of Gentylis delyuerden alle whom my faders waastyden, Gozam, þat is, and Aran, and Reseph, and þe sonys of Eden, þat weren in Thelaffar?
xiii Wher is þe kyng of Emath, and þe kyng of Arfath? and þe kyng of þe cytee of Cepharuaym, Ana, and Aua?
xiv And so whanne Ezechias hade taken þe lettres fro þe hond of þe messagers, and hadde rad hem, he steyȝide up in to þe hous of þe Lord, and he spradde hym out beforne þe Lord;
xv and preyde in his fiȝt, seyinge, Lord God of Yrael, þat sytyst vpon cherubyn, þou ert aloon God of alle kyngis of þe erþ; þou maadist heuen and erþe.
xvi Bowe doun þin ere, and here; opyn þin eȝen, Lord, and see; and here þou alle þe wordis of Senacherub, þat fente, þat he repreue to us þe lyuynge God.

xvii Forsoþe, Lord, þe kyngis of Assiries scatirden þe Gentylis, and þe londis of alle, xviii and senten þe goddis of hem in to fyre; forsoþe þey weren not goddis, bot þe wercis of þe hondis of men, of tree and stoon; and þei distruyeden hem.
xix Now þan, Lord oure God, maake vs saaf fro þe hond of hem, þat alle rewmys of þe erþ knownen for þou ert Lord God aloon.
xx Forsoþe Yfayas, þe lone of Amos, fente to Ezechie, seyinge, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, What þingis þou preydest me vpon Senacherub, kyng of Assiries, I haue herde.
xxi þis is þe word, þat þe Lord haþ spoken of hym; He haþ dispiside þee, and scorned þee, þou meyden douȝtir of Syon; aftir þi bac þe heued he meuede, þou douȝtir of Jerusalem.
xxii To whom haft þou repreued, and whom haft þou blasfemed? Aȝeynus whome haft þou enhauncid þi voice, and haft reric in to heeiȝ þin eeȝen? Aȝenus þe hooly of Yrael.
xxiii By þe hond of þi seruauntes þou haft putte reprofe to þe Lord, and seidist, In þe multitude of my chaaris I steyȝide up þe heiȝtis of hillis, in þe ouermost of Lybane, and I hewȝ doun þe heeȝe cedris of it, and þe chosen firris of it; and I wente in vnto þe termys of it, and þe wijlde wode of þe Carmele of it I haue hewen doun; xxiv and I haue dronken alyen watirs, and haue dryed wiþ þe steppis of my feet alle þe closed watirs.
xxv Wheþer haft þou not herde, what I haue done fro þe bigynnyng? Fro þe olde days I haue fourmyd it, and nowe I haue brouȝt to; and þe streyngþid cytees schuln ben in to fallynge of þe fiȝtyng hyllis.
xxvi And þilk þat sytten in hem meeke in hond, han trembyld to gydre, and ben confoundyd; þei ben maad as hey of þe feeld, and as greene herbe of rofys, þe whence is maad drye, er it myȝt comme to rijpnesse.
xxvii And þi dwellynge place, and þi goyng oute, and þi commynge in, and þi weye I knewe beforne, and þi woodnesse aȝeynus me.
xxviii þou wexe wood in me, and þi pride steyȝide up in to my eris; and so I schal putten a cercle in þyn noos þrillis, and a bernacle in þi lippis, and I schal bryng þee aȝeyn by þe weye þat þou came.
xxix To þee forsoþe, Ezechie, þis schal ben a tokne; ete þis ȝere þat þou fyndist; in þe secounde forsoþe ȝere þat freely growen; bot in þe brid ȝeer sowiþ, and repiþ, and plauntiþ vynes, and etiþ þe fruyt of hem.
xxx And what euer were laft of þe hous of Juda, it schal putten þe rote beneþe, and maken fruyt abouen.
xxxi Fro Jerusalem forsoþ schuln goon out relykis, and þat schal ben sauued of þe hyll of Syon; þe zeel of þe Lord of hooftis schal done þat.
xxxii For what þing þes þinges seiþ þe Lord of þe kyng of Assiries, He schal not commen in to þis cytee, ne fenden arowe in to it, and targett schal not occupien it, and warnyschynge schal not enuyroun it.

xxxiv By þe weye þat he came he schal be turned aȝeyn, and þis cytee he schal not comme in, seiþ þe Lord;

xxxv and I schal defenden þis cytee, and saven it for me, and for Dauid, my seruaunt.

xxxvi It is done þanne, þe aungel of þe Lord came in þat nyȝt, and smoote in þe tentis of Assiries an hundredþ fourefcoore and fyue houfandis. And whanne erly he hade ryſen, he sawȝ alle þe bodies of þe deed; and aȝeyn gooyng wente aweye.

xxxvii And Senacherub, þe kyng of Assiries, is turned aȝeyn, and dwellide in Nynyue.

xxxviii And whanne he schulde honouren in þe temple of Nefarath, his god, Toramelech and Cirafar, þe sonys of hym, smyten hym wiþ swerd; and þei floweren in to þe lond of Armeneyss; and Afferaddon, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XX.

i In þo dayes sijknede Ezechias vnto þe deeþ; and þere cam to hym Ysayas, þe sone of Amos, prophete, and seyde to hym, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God, Comaunde to þin hous, forsoþe þou schalt dyen, and not lyuen.

ii þe whiche turned his face to þe wall, and honourede þe Lord, seyinge, iii I beseeche, Lord, haue mynde, how I haue goon before þee in treuþe, and in perfyte herte, and þat is plesaunt before þee haue done. And so Ezechias wepte wiþ grete weepynge.

iv And ere Ysay were gon out þe half partye of þe porche, þe word of þe Lord is done to hym, seyinge, v Turne aȝeyn, and sey to Ezechie, þe duke of my purple, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord of Dauid, þi fadre, I haue herd þi preyer, and seen þi tere, and, loo! I haue helid þee. Þe þrid day þou schalt steyȝen up to þe temple of þe Lord, vi and I schal adden to þy days fyuetene zeer; bot and fro þe hond of þe kyng of Assiries I schal delyueren þee, and þis cytee, and I schal defenden þis cyte for me, and for Dauid, my seruaunt.

vii And Ysay seyde, Bryngiþ to me a massȝ of fijgis. þe whiche whan þei hadden brouȝt to, and putte vpon his botche, he is heelid.

viii Ezechie forsoþe seide to Ysay, What schal ben þe tokne, for þe Lord schal helyn me, and for þe þrid day I am to steyȝen up þe temple of þe Lord?

ix To whom seiþ Ysay, þis schal ben þe tokne fro þe Lord, þat þe Lord be to do þe word þat he spac; wylt þou, þat vmbre steyȝe up tenn lynys, or þat it be turned aȝeyn as fele grees?

x And Ezechie seiþ, It is liȝt vmbre to cresen tenn lynis, ne þis I wylle þat be done, bot þat it be turned aȝeyn bacward tenn degrees.

xi And so Ysay, þe prophete, inwardly clepyde þe Lord, and brouȝt aȝeyn þe vmbre by þe lynys, wiþ þe whiche nowe it hadde goon doun in þe orloge of Achaz, bacward tenn degrees.

xii In þat tyme sente Berodachaladam, þe sone of Baladam, kyng of Babyloyne, lettris and ȝiftis to Ezechie; forsoþe he hadde herd, þat Ezechie was sijk, and hadde couerde.

xiii And Ezechias gladide in þe commynge of hem, and schewide to hem þe hous of swote spycis, and gold, and siluer, and dyuerfe pymentis, and oynementis, and þe hous of his vessels, and alle þingis þat he myȝt han in his tresouries; þer was not a word, þat Ezechie schewide not to hem in his hous, and in alle his power.

xiv Forsoþe Ysay, þe prophete, came to kynge Ezechie, and seide to hym, What seyden þes men, or whenns camen þei to þee? To whome seiþ Ezechie, Fro a ferre lond þei camen to me, fro Babyloyne.

xv And he answarde, What seeȝen þei in þin hous? Ezechie seiþ, Alle þingis, what euer ben in myn hous, þei seeȝen; no þing is þat I haue not schewide to hem in my tresuris.

xvi And so Ysay seyde to Ezechie, Heere þou þe word of þe Lord.

xvii Lo! days commen, and alle þingis þat ben in þi hous schuln be taken aweye, and þe whiche þi fadirs hydden vnto þis day, in to Babyloyne; þer schal not leuen eny þinge, seiþ þe Lord.

xviii Bot and of þi sonys, þat schul goon out of þee, þe whiche þou schalt geten schul ben taken aweye, and þei schul ben geldyngis in þe paleys of þe kyng of Babyloyne.

xix Ezechie seide to Ysay, Good is þe word of þe Lord, þat he spac; be oonly pees and treuþe in my days.

xx þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Ezechie, and alle his streyngþe, and howe he maad þe fische poond, and þe watre cundite, and brouȝten in watirs in to þe cytee, wheþer not þes ben writhen in þe boke of þe wordys of þe days of kyngis of Juda?

xi And Ezechie flepte wiþ his fadirs, and Manasses, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XXI.

i Of twelve ȝeer was Manasses, whanne he beganne to regnen, and fyue and fourty ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; þe name of his modir, Asiba.

ii And he dide euyl in þe siȝt of þe Lord, after þe mawmettis of Gentils, þe whiche þe Lord dide aweye fro þe face of þe sonys of Yrael.

iii And he is turned, and bylde up heeȝe þingis, þe whiche Ezechie, his fadir, scatirde; and he rerede up þe auters of Baal, and maad mawmett woddis, as dyde Achab, kyng of Yrael; and he honourede al þe knyȝthod of heuen, and heryede it.

ivii And he maad up autirs in þe hous of þe Lord, of þe whiche þe Lord seide, In Jerusalem I schal putten my name.
v And he maad up autirs of alle þe knyȝthode of heuen in two poorchis of þe temple of þe Lord;
vi and he ouerladde his sone þorȝ fijr; and he dyuynede, and he weytide þe dyuynynge of chiterynge of briddis;
and maad enchaunteris, and clepers of deuyls he multiplied, þat he dide euyl beforne þe Lord, and terrede hym.
vii And he putte þe mawmatt of þe mawmatt wodde, þat he hadde maad, in to þe temple of þe Lord, vpon þe whiche þe Lord spac to Dauid, and to Salomon, his sone, In þis temple, and in Jerusalem þat I haue chosen of alle þe lynagis of Yrael, I schal putte my name vnto euermore.
viii And I schal make no more to be styred þe fote of Yrael fro þe lond þat I ȝaue to þe fadirs of hem; so neuer þe later ȝif þei kepen in dede alle þingis þat I bad hem, and al þe lawe þat Moyles, my feruaunt, comauandyde to hem.
ix Pei forsoþe herden not, bot ben bouȝt doun of Manasse, þat þei don euyl ouer þe Gentilis, þe whiche þe Lord to-trade fro þe face of þe sonys of Yrael.
x And þe Lord spac in þe hond of his feruauntis prophetis, seyinge, xi For Manasses, king of Juda, dyde alle þes abomynacyouns most euyl ouer alle þingis þe whiche dyden Amorreis beforne hym, and also he maad Juda to synnen in his vncleanness; xii þerfore þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Lo! I schal bryngen in euyls vpon Jerusalem and Judam, þat who so euer heeriþ, boþe þe eris of hym schal tynclyn; xiii and I schal stretchen out vpon Jerusalem þe lytyl coord of Samarye, and þe birþen of þe hous of Achab, and I schal don aweye Jerusalem, as tablis ben wont to ben don aweye; doyng aweye I schal turnen, and bryngyn ofter þe poyntel vpon his face.
xiv Forsoþe I schal leuen þe relikis of myn herytage, and schal taken hem in to þe hond of his enmyes; and þei schul ben in waastite, and in rauyne to alle þeir aduerfaries;
xv for þi þat þei dyden euyl beforne me, and dwelliden stedfast terrynge me, fro þe day þat þeir fadirs wenten out of Egipt vnto þis day. xvi Ferþermore and Manasses schad myche gyltlesse blode ouer gretely, to þe tym þat Jerusalem wer fulfyld vp to þe mouþe, wiþ ouþe his synnes in whiche he maad Judam to synnen, þat he do yuel beforne þe Lord.
xvii Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Manasse, and alle þingis þat he dyde, and his synne þat he synned, wheþer þes ben not wryten in þe boke of þe wordis of þe days of kyngis of Juda?

xviii And Manasses slept wiþ his fadirs, and is byryed in þe gardyne of his hous, in þe gardyn of Azam; and Amon, his sone, regned for hym.
xix Of two and twenty ȝeer he was, whanne he beganne to regnen; two forsoþe ȝeer he regned in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Mefsalometh, douȝtir of Arus of Jethaba.
xx And he dyde euyl in þe siȝt of þe Lord, as dydde Manasses, his fadir.
xi And he wente in al þe weye, by þe whiche his fadir wente, and he feruede in þe vncleanness in whiche ferued his fadir, and honourede hem; xxii and forsoþe þe Lord God of his fadirs, and wente not in þe weye of þe Lord.
xxiii And his feruauntis benten to hym buschementis, and flewen þe kyng in his hous.
xxiv þe puple forsoþe of þe lond smoote alle, þat coniureden aȝeinus king Amon, and þei setten to hem king, Josiam, his sone, for him.
xxv Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Amon, þat he dide, wheþer not þes ben wryten in þe boke of þe wordes of þe days of kyngis of Juda?
xxvi And þei birieden him in his sepulcre in þe gardyn of Aza; and Josias, his sone, regned for hym.

Capitulum XXII.

i Of eyȝt ȝeere was Josias, whann he byganne to regnen, and oon and þrytty ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Ydida, þe douȝtir of Fadaya of Besocath.
ii And he dyde þat, þat was plesaunt beforne þe Lord, and he wente by alle þe wayes of Dauid, his fadir, and bowede not, neijer to þe riȝt, ne to þe left.
iii Forsoþe þe eyȝtenþe ȝeer of kyng Josie, sente þe kyng Safan, þe sone of Asua, þe sone of Mefulam, þe scribe of þe temple of þe Lord, seyinge to hym, iv Goo to Elchiam, þe grete preest, þat þe monee, þat is brouȝt in to þe temple of þe Lord, be blownen to gydre, þe whiche þe porters of þe temple gaderden of
þe puple;
v and be it ȝeuen to wriȝtis by þe prouostis of þe hous of þe Lord; þe whiche and delen it to hem þat wirchen in þe temple of þe Lord, to þe coueryngis of þe temple of þe Lord to ben enstorid, vi þat is, to þe mayster carpenters, and masouns, and to hem þat maken to gydre þe bytwene broken, and þat þere be bouȝt trees and stonys of þe quarrees, to þe enstorunge of þe temple of þe Lord; vii neuer þe later þe syluer be not tolde to hem, þat þei taken, bot in power haue þei, and in feiþ.
viii Forsoþe Elchias, þe bischop, seide to Sapham, scribe, þe boke of þe lawe I haue founden in þe hous of þe Lord. And Elchias ȝaue þe volym to Sapham, scribe, þe whiche and radde it.

ix Forsoþe Sapham, scribe, came to þe kyng, and told to hym what þingis he hade comaundide, and seiþ, Si seruauntis blewen to gydre þe monee, þat is founden in þe hous of þe Lord, and han ȝeuen, þat it be delid to þe wriȝtis of þe prefectis of þe werkis of þe temple of þe Lord.

x Forsoþe Sapham, scribe, tolde to þe kyng, seyinge, Elchias, þe prest of God, ȝau to me a boke; þe whiche whanne Sapham hade radde before þe kyng, xi and þe king had herd þe wordis of þe boke of þe lawe of þe Lord, he kutte his clopis.

xii And he comaundyde to Elchie, þe prest, and to Aychan, þe sone of Saphan, and to Achabor, þe sone of Mycha, and to Sapham, scribe, and to Achie, seruaunt of þe kyng, seyinge, xiii Gooþ, and counseilip þe Lord vpon me, and vpon þe puple, and vpon al Juda, of þe wordis of þis volyme, þat is founden; grete forsoþe wreþe of þe Lord is tende up aȝeynus us, for oure fadirs herden not þe wordis of þis boke, þat þei schulde done al þat is writen to us.

xiv And so Elchias, þe prest, and Aycham, and Achabor, and Saphan, and Afia, wenten to Oldam, prophetisse, wyf of Sellum, sone of Thechue, sone of Aras, keper of þe closes, þe whiche dwellede in Jerusalem, in 'þe secounde wallynge; and þei speken to hire.

xv And sche answerd to hem, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Seiþ to be man, þat sente ȝou to me, xvi Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, Loo! I schal bryngre forþ euyls vpon þis place, and vpon þe dwellers of it, alle þe wordis of þe lawe, þe whiche þe kyng of Juda radde; xvii for þei forsoken me, and sacrificiden to alyen goddis, terryng me in alle þe werkis of þeir hondis; and myn indignacioun schal be tend up in þis place, and schal not ben qweynt.

xviii To þe kyng forsoþe of Juda þat sente ȝou, þat ȝe counseylen þe Lord, þus seiþ, Þes þingis seiþ þe Lord God of Yrael, For þy þat þou herdyst þe wordis of þe volyme, xix and þi herte is gaaftyde, and þou ert meeked beforne þe Lord, þe werdis herd aȝeyn þis place and þe dwellers of it, þat is, þat schulden ben maad in to stoneynge, and into cursidhed, and þou kuttist þy clopis, and þou weptist beforne me, and I herde, seiþ þe Lord;

xx before I schal gedere þee to þi fadirs, and þou schalt be gadred to þy sepulcre in pese; þat þin eehen seen not alle þe euylis, þe whiche I am to bryngre in vpon þis place.

Capitulum XXIII.

i And þei tolden to þe kyng þat sche hadde feide; þe whiche sent, and ben gadred to hym alle þe olde men of Juda, and of Jerusalem.

ii And þe kyng steyȝide up þe temple of þe Lord, and alle þe men of Juda, and alle þat dwelliden in Jerusalem wiþ hym, prestis, and prophetis, and alle þe puple, fro lytyl vnto mychil; and he radde, alle men heerynge, alle þe wordis of þe boke of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord, þe whiche is founden in þe hous of þe Lord.

iii And þe kyng stood vpon a gree; and he smote pese couenaunt before þe Lord, þat þei goon after þe Lord, and keepen his heefis and witnessyngis and cerymoynes in al herte and in al soule, þat þei reran þe wordis of þis pese couenaunt, þat weren wryten in þat boke; and þe puple affentyde to þe couenaunt.

iv And þe kyng comaundyde to Elchie, þe bischop, and to þe prestis of þe secound ordre, and to þe ȝate kepers, þat þei browen forþe fro þe temple of þe Lord alle þe veffels, þat weren maad to Baal, and in þe mawmatt wodde, and to al þe knyȝthod of heuen; and he brende hem wiþ outen forþ Jerusalem, in þe valey of Cedron, and he toke þe poudre of hem in to Bethel.

v And he dyde aweye þe deuyl clepers, whome þe kyngis of Juda hadden sett to sacrificien in heiȝtis by þe cytees of Juda, and þe enuyroun of Jerusalem, and hem þat brenden encense to Baal, and to þe funne, and to þe mone, and to þe twelue syngnis, and to alle þe knyȝthode of heuen.

vi And he comaundyde to ben born out þe mawmatt wodde fro þe hous of þe Lord wiþ out forþ Jerusalem in þe valey of Cedron, and brende it þere, and brouȝt it in to poudre, and þrewȝ forþ vpon þe sepulcris of þe comun.

vii Forsoþe he distruȝide þe lytyl houſis of þe wommannysch maad men, þat weren in þe hous of þe Lord; for þe whiche wymmen weueden as lytyll houses of þe mawmatt wodde.

viii And he gadrede alle þe prestis of þe cytees of Juda, and he defoulide þe heyȝtis, where þe prestis sacrificeden, fro Gaba vnto Bersabe; and he distruȝed þe auters of þe ȝatis in þe entree of þe dore of Jofie, prince of þe cytee, þat was at þe left syde of þe ȝate of þe cytee.

ix Neuer þe latre þe prestis of þe heeȝe þingis steyȝiden not vp to þe auter of þe Lord in Jerusalem, bot onoly eten þerfe louuys in þe mydill of þeir breþeren.

x Forsoþe he defoulide Topheth, þat is in þe valeye of þe sone of Ennon, þat no man schuld sacryn his sone or his douȝtre þorȝ fyr to Moloch.

xi Forsoþe he toke away þe hors, þe whiche þe kingis of Jude hadden ȝeuen to þe funne, in þe entree of þe temple of þe Lord, befijdis þe chayer of Nathanmylech, geldynge, þat was in Faturym; þe chaare forsoþe of þe funne he brende wiþ fijr.

xii And þe auters, þat weren vpon þe rooues of þe soupyng place of Achath, þe whiche þe kyngis of Juda hadden maad, and þe auters þat Manasses hadde maad in þe two poorchis of þe temple of þe Lord, þe kyng destryuyede; and he ran to Jude, and he scatrede þe afkis of hem in to þe streme of Cedron.

xiii Þe heeȝe þingis forþoþe, þat weren in Jerusalem at þe riȝt partie of þe hyll of þe offencyoun, þe whiche Salomon, kyng of Yrael, hadde bylde, and Astaroth, þe mawmett of Sydonyes, and Camos, of þe offencyoun of Moab, and Melchon, þe abomynacyouns of þe sonys of Amon, þe kyng defoulide;

xiv and broofede þe ymagis, and hewȝ doun þe mawmett woodis, and fulfillide þe places of hem wiþ þe boonis of deed men.

xv Ferþermore and þe auter þat was in Bethel, and þe heeȝe þinge, þat Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, hadde maad, þe whiche maad Yrael to synnen; and þat heeȝ auter he distruyede, and brende, and mynuschede in to poudre, and also brende up þe mawmett woode.

xvi And Josias turned, sauȝ þere sepulcris þat weren in þe hyll; and he fente, and toke þe boonys fro þe sepulcris, and brende hem vpon þe auter, and putte it aftir þe word of þe Lord, þat þe man of God spac, þe whiche hadde before feide þese wordis.

xvii And he seip, Whose is þis towmbe þat I see? And þe cyteȝeens of þat cyte answerten to hym, Pe sepulcre it is of þe man of God, þat came fro Juda, and before feide þes wordis, 'þe whiche þou haft done vpon þe auter of Bethel.

xviii And he seiþ, Lefe hym; no man styrre þe boonys of hym. And vntouchid laftan þe boonys of hym wiþ þe boonis of þe prophete, þat came fro Samarye.

xix Ferþermore and alle þe mawmett templis of þe heeȝe þingis, þat weren in þe cytees of Samarye, þe whiche þe kyngis of Yrael hadden maad to terre þe Lord, Josias toke aweye; and he dyde to hem aftir alle þe werkis þat he hadde done in Bethel.

xx And he flewȝ alle þe prestis of þe heeȝe þingis, þat weren per vpon þe auteres, and he brende mens boonys vpon þoo; and he turnede aȝeyn to Jerusalem.

xxi And he comaundide to al þe puple, leyinge, Makib pafk to þe Lord ȝoure God, aftir þat is writen in þe boke of þis pese of couenaunt.

xxii Ne forþoþe þer is maad siche a pafk fro þe days of iugis, þat demeden Yrael, and of alle þe days of þe kyngis of Yrael, and of þe kyngis of Juda, xxiii as in þe eiȝtenþe ȝeer of kyng Josie þis pasch is maad to þe Lord in Jerusalem.

xxiv Bot and þe clepers of deuyls, and deuynours, and þe fyguris of mawmetts, and þe vncleannesses, and abomynacyouns, þat weren in þe lond of Juda and of Jerusalem, Josias dyde aweye, þat he make stable þe wordis of þe lawe, þat ben writen in þe boke, þat Elchias, þe prest, fonde in þe temple of þe Lord.

xxv Lijk hym was not beforne hym a kyng, þat was turned aȝeyn to þe Lord in al his herte, and in alle his soule, and in al his vertue, aftir al þe lawe of Moyses; ne aftir hym rose lijke to hym.

xxvi Neuerþelatre þe Lord is not turned aweye fro þe wrab of his grete woodnes, in þe whiche his wodnes is wroþe aȝeynus Juda, for þe terryngis in þe whiche Manasses hadde terred hym.

xxvii And so þe Lord feide, Alſo Judam I ſchal taken aweye fro my face, as I toke aweye Yrael; and I ſchal browen aweye þis cytee, þat I chees, Jerufalem, and þe hous of þe whiche I feide, My name ſchal ben þere.

xxviii Þe remnaunt forþoþe of þe wordis of Josie, and alle þingis þat he dyde, wheþer not þes ben writen in þe boke of þe wordis of þe days of þe kyngis of Juda?

xxix In his days steyzide up Pharao Necho, kyng of Egipt, aȝeynus þe kyng of Affries, at þe flode of Eufraten; and Josias, kyng of Juda, wente in to aȝein commynge of hym, and is flayn in Magedo, whanne he had seen hym.

xxx And his feruauntis beeren hym deed fro Magedo, and brouȝten hym in to Jerusalem, and byryeden hym in his sepulcre; and þe puple of þe lond toke Joachas, þe sone of Josie, and anoynkyden hym, and fetten hym kyng for his fadir.

xxxi Of þree and twenty ȝeer was Joachaz, whanne he hadde begune to regnen, and þre moneþis he regned in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Amychael, douȝter of Jeremye of Lobna.

xxxii And he dyde euyl beforne þe Lord, aftir alle þingis þat he fadirs of hym hadden done.

xxxiii And Pharao Necho bond hym in Reblatha, þat is in þe lond of Emath, þat he 'regne not in Jerufalem; and he putte vpon a multyng to þe lond, in an hundreþ talentis of syluer, and a talent of gold.

xxxiv And Pharao Necho ordeynde kyng Eliachym, þe sone of Josias, for Josias, his fadir; and he turnede his name Joachym; forþoþe Joachaz he toke, and ladde in to Egipt.

xxxv Forþoþe Joachym ȝae to Pharao syluer and gold, whanne he hadde comaundide to þe lond by alle ȝeiris, þat it were brouȝt, aftir þe heelt of Pharao; and echon aftir þeir strengþis he aþkyde boþe syluer and gold, of þe puple of þe lond, þat he myȝte ȝeue to Pharao Necho.

xxxvi Of fyue and twenty ȝeer was Joachym, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and elleuen ȝeer he regnede in Jerufalem; þe name of his modir, Zebida, douȝter of Fadaya of Ruma.

xxxvii And he dyde euyl before þe Lord, aftir alle þingis þat his fadirs haden done.

Capitulum XXIII.

- i In his days of steyȝide up Nabugodonosor, kyng of Babyloyne, and Joachym is maad to hym seruaunt þree ȝeer; and eft he rebellide aȝeynus hym.
- ii And þe Lord fente in to hym lytlyl þeuis of Caldeys, and lytlyl þeuis of Cyrye, and lytlyl þeuis of Moab, and lytil þeuis of þe sonys of Amon; and he in fente hem in to Judam, þat he scatere hym, aftir þe word of þe Lord, þat he hadde spoken bi his seruauntis prophetis.
- iii þis forsoþe is done by þe word of þe Lord aȝeyns Judam, þat he do it aweye beforne hym, for þe synnes of Manasses, and alle þingis þat he dyde, and for þe gyltles blode þat he schedde;
- iv and he fulfillide Jerusalem wiþ þe blode of innocentis; and for þis þing þe Lord wolde not be plesid.
- v Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Joachym, and alle þingis þat he dyde, wheþer þes ben not writhen in þe boke of þe wordis of days of kyngis of Juda?
- vi And Joachym slepte wiþ his fadirs, and Joachym, his sone, regned fore hym.
- vii And þe kyng of Egipt addide no more, þat he schulde goon out fro his lond; forsoþe þe kyng of Babyloyne hadde taken, fro þe ryuer of Egipt vnto þe flode of Eufraten, alle þingis þat weren of þe kyng of Egipt.
- viii Of tenn and eiȝt ȝeer was Joachym, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and þree moneþis he regned in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Naessa, douȝter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.
- ix And he dyde euyl beforne þe Lord, aftir alle þingis þat his fadir hadde done.
- x In þat tyme steyȝide up þe seruauntis of Nabugodonosor, kyng of Babyloyne, in to Jerusalem, and þe cyte is enuyround wiþ streyngþingis.
- xi And Nabugodonosor came, þe kyng of Babyloyne, to þe cyte wiþ his seruauntis, þat þey ouercommen it.
- xii And Joachym, kyng of Juda, wente out to þe kyng of Babyloyne, he, and his modir, and his seruauntis, and his princis, and his geldyngis; and þe kyng of Babyloyne toke hym, þe eiȝtiþ ȝeer of his regne.
- xiii And he brouȝte þens alle þe tresoures of þe hous of þe Lord, and þe treloures of þe kingis hous; and he heewȝ to gydre alle þe golden vessels, þat Salomon, kyng of Yrael, hadde maad in þe temple of þe Lord, aftir þe word of þe Lord.
- xiv And he transflatide al Jerusalem, and alle þe princis, and alle þe stronge men of þe hooft, tenn þousand, in to caytyfte, and alle craftise men, and enclosere; no þinge is laft, out take þe pore puple of þe lond.
- xv Joachym forsoþe he translatyde in to Babyloyne, and þe kyngis modir, and þe kyngis wijf, and þe kyngis geldyngis; and þe domysmen of þe lond he ladde in to caytife fro Jerusalem in to Babyloyne;
- xvi and alle þe stronge men, seuen þousand; and craftise men and enclosers, a þousand; alle stronge men and fiȝters; and þe kynge of Babiloyne ladde hem caytyfe in to Babyloyne.

xvii And he sette Mathathiam, his vnkle, for hym; and he putte on a name to hym Sedechie.

xviii þe oon and twentynþe ȝeer of age hadde Sedechias, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and elleuen ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his modir was Amychal, douȝter of Jeremye of Lobna.

xix And he dyde euyl byfore þe Lord, aftir alle þingis þat Joachym hadde done.

xx Forsoþe þe Lord wraphede aȝeinus Jerusalem and Judam, to þe tyme þat he þrewȝ hem aweye fro his face; and Sedechie wente aweye fro þe kyng of Babiloyne.

Capitulum XXV.

i It is done forsoþe þe nynþe ȝeer of his regne, þe tenþe moneþe, þe tenþe day of þe moneþe, Nabugodonosor, kyng of Babyloyne, came, he, and al his hooft, in to Jerusalem; and þei enuyrounden it, and maden up in his enuyroun streyngþingis.

ii And þe cyte is closede, and palid, vnto þe elleuenþe ȝeer of kyng Sedechie, iii þe nynþe day of þe moneþe; and hungir wexe grete in þe cyte, and þer was not brede to þe puple of þe lond.

iv And þe cyte is to-broken, and alle men fiȝters flowen þe nyȝt by þe weye of þe ȝate, þat is bytwene þe double wall, at þe springyne of þe kyng; forsoþe Caldeis besegyden in enuyroun þe cyte. And so Sedechias fleiȝ by þe weye þat ledip to þe wijld feedlis of wyldernesſe;

v and þe hooft of Caldeis pursueden þe kyng, and he cauȝte hym in þe pleyn of Jericho; and alle þe fiȝters, þat weren wiþ hym, ben scaterd, and forsoken hym.

vi Panne þey ladden þe taken kyng to þe kyng of Babyloyne, in Reblatha, þe whiche speake wiþ hym dome.

vii þe sonys forsoþe of Sedechie he flewȝ before hym, and his eeȝen he putte out, and boond hym wiþ cheynys, and brouȝte hym in to Babyloyne.

viii þe fyfþe moneþ, þe feuenþ day of þe moneþ, it is þe nyntenþe ȝeer of þe kyng of Babyloyne, came Nabufardam, prince of þe hooft, þe seruaunt of þe kyng of Babyloyne, in to Jerusalem; ix and brende up þe hous of þe Lord, and þe hous of þe kyng, and þe housis of Jerusalem, and eche hous he brende wiþ fijre;

x and þe wallis of Jerusalem in enuyroun destryyede al þe hooft of Caldeys, þat was wiþ þe prince of knyȝtis.

xi þe toþer forsoþe partye of þe puple, þat laft in þe cyte, and þe þorȝ fleers, þat ouerflowen to þe kyng of Babyloyne, and þe laft comoun, Nabufardan, prince of knyȝthode, transflatyde;

xii and of þe pore men of þe lond he laft wyne makers, and erþtiliers.

xiii Forsoþe þe brasen pylers, þat weren in þe temple of þe Lord, and þe feet, and þe brasen se, þat was in þe hous of þe Lord, Caldeis breeken to gydre; and al þe brasle þei beeren ouer in to Babiloyne.

xiv And brasen pottis, trowels, and fleschokis, and cuppis, and morters, and alle þe brasen vessels, in whiche þei mynystriden, þei token;

xv also and encenseeris, and violis. Þe whiche forsoþe weren golden, and whiche sylueren, toke þe prince of þe knyȝthod, xvi þat is, two pylers, oon se, and þe feet, þat Salomon hade maad in to þe temple of þe Lord; and þer was not peys of þe braffe of alle þe vessels.

xvii Tenn and eijt cubitis of heiȝt hadde oon pyler, and a brasen heued couerynge vpon hym of heyȝt of þre cubitis, and a calle, and poumgarnetis vpon þe heued couerynge of þe pyler, all brasen; and lijc honourynge hadde þe fecound pyler.

xviii Forsoþe þe prince of þe knyȝthode toke Sarayam, þe first preste, and Sophonyam, þe fecound preste, and þe þre porters, xix and oon geldyne of þe cyte, þat was prefect vpon þe fiȝtyng men, and fyue men of hem þat stoden before þe kyng, þe whiche he foond in þe cyte, and Sopher, þe prince of þe hooft, þat prouede þe newe knyȝtis of þe puple of þe lond, and sixe men of þe comoun, þat weren founden in þe cyte;

xx þe whiche Nabusardan, prince of þe knyȝthode, takynge ladde to þe kyng of Babiloyne, in Reblatha.

xxi And þe kyng of Babiloyne smote hem, and flewȝ hem in Reblatha, in þe lond of Emath; and Juda is translatyd fro his lond.

xxii To þe puple forsoþe þat was laft in þe lond of Juda, þe whiche Nabugodonosor, kyng of Babyliteris. loyne, hadde laft, he made rewler Godolyam, þe sone of Aycham, þe sone of Safan.

xxiii Þe whiche þingis whanne alle þe duykis of knyȝtis, þey, and alle þe men þat weren wiþ hem haden herd, þat is, þat þe kyng of Babiloyne hadde ordeynd Godolie, camen to Godolie, in Mapha, Ismael, þe sone of Nathanye, and Johannan, þe sone of Charee, and Saraye, þe sone of Tenameth Nethophathite, and Jechonias, þe sone of Mechati, þei, and Machath, and þe felawis of hem.

xxiv And Godolias fwore to hem, and to þe felawis of hem, seyinge, Wylle ȝe not dreden to seruen to þe Caldeis; dwelliȝ in þe lond, and seruiȝ to þe kyng of Babiloyne, and wele it schal be to ȝou.

xxv It is done forsoþe in þe feuenȝ moneȝ, came Ismael, þe sone of Nathanye, þe sone of Elisama, of þe kyngis feed, and ten men wiþ hym, and lmyten Godolie, þe whiche is deed; bot and þe Jewis and þe Caldeis, þat weren wiþ him in Mapha.

xxvi And al þe puple rijsynge to gydre fro litil vnto mychil, and þe princis of knyȝtis, camen in to Egipt, dredyng þe Caldeis.

xxvii It is done þanne in þe feuen and þrittȝe ȝeer of þe transmygracioun of Joachym, kyng of Jude, þe twelfȝ moneȝ, þe feuen and twentȝe day of þe moneȝ, Euilmeredoch, kyng of Babiloyne, þe ȝeer þat he beganne to regnen, rerede up þe heued of Joachym, kyng of Juda, fro prisone, xxviii and he spac to hym benyngly; and he putte his trone vpon þe trone of kyngis, þat weren wiþ hym in Babiloyne.

xxix And he chaungide his cloþis, þat he hadde in prisoun; and he eet breed euermore in his siȝt, alle days of his lyfe.

xxx ȝeer fruyt forsoþe he ordeynde to hym wiþ oute cefynge; þe whiche and was ȝouen to hym of þe kyng by eche days, alle þe days of his liȝt.

Here eendib þe fourþe boke of Kingus, and bigynneþ þe prolog in þe first boke of Paralipomenon.

I. PARALIPOMENON.

Þe Prolog in þe first boke of Paralipomenon.

ȝif þe makynge of þe feuenty remenours abyde styll pure, and as it is turned of hem in to Greek, my Chromati, holiest and wysest of byschopis, in veyn þou schuldist bydden me þat I translate to þee Ebreu volymes in Latyn word. Forsoþe þat hab̄ occupied onys þe eris of men, and haþ streynþid þe feiȝ of þe waxynge chirche, riȝtwijs was also wiþ oure sylence to be apreued. Nowe forsoþe whan dyuerse faumplers ben born for þe dyuerſite of regyouns, and þilk olde germeyn translacyoun is corrupt and defoulid, þou wenyst of oure dome to ben, ouþer to schewen of manye whiche be verrey, ouþer a new werk to maken in old werk, þe Jewis forsoþe scornynge, þat, as it is seid, to fytche to gyder eeȝen of curluris. Alisaunder and Egipt in þeir feuenty preySEN auctour Eusichy; Constantynople vnto Antioche apreuiȝ þe faumperis of martir Lucyān; þe mene prouynces bytwene þes reden Palestynes bokis, þe whiche out trauayld of Origene, Eusebe and Pamphilie pupplischeden; and al þe world bytwene hem selue in þis þre maner dyuerſite fiȝtiȝ to gyder. And certis Origenes not onoly exfaumplis maad in oon of foure makyngis, 'forn aȝeyn alle þe wordis discryuyng, þat þe oon discordynge, þe toþer betwene hem filf acordynge, anoon be vndernomyn; bot, þat is of more hardynesse, in þe makynge of þe feuento he mengide þe makynge of Theodocioun, þat is, markynge þat weren to lytyl wiþ sygnys of a sterre, and þat weren seen ouermych leid to, wiþ lityl ȝerdis. ȝif þanne to oþer it was leful not to holden þat oons þei hadden taken; and aftir feuenty lytyll sellis, þe whiche wiþ outen auctour of þe comoun ben boostid, þei opneden alle þe sellis, þat forſoþe in þe chirche is rad þat þe feuenty knewyn not; why me taken not my Latyn men, þe whiche han maad so þe newe wiþ þe olde makyng vndefoulid, þat my traueyl I preue wiþ þe Ebrewis, and, þat is more þan þese, wiþ þe Apostlis auctours. I wrote not ȝore a boke of þe best maner of remenyng, schewyng þo þingis of þe euangely, Fro Egipt I haue clepide myn fone, and, þat Naȝare he schal be clepid, and, þei schul seen in whome þei han pungid; and þat of þe apostle, þat eeȝe haþ not seen, ne ere haþ herde, ne in to þe hert of man haþ steyȝide up, þe whiche God haþ maad redye before to þe louynge hym; and oþer lijc to þes, in þe bokis of Ebrewis to ben founden. Certis þe apostlis and þe euangelistis hadden knownen þe feuenty remenours, and whenns þat to hem to seyn þo þingis þat in þe feuenty ben not had? Crist, oure God, is maker of eiper testament, in euangeliie aftir Joon, Who leuiþ, he seiþ, in me, as seiþ þe scripture, flodis of his wombe schul floweren `quyke waters. Forſoþe it is writen, þat þe Saueoure witneſſiþ to ben writen; where it is writen, þe feuenty han not; þe hyd þingis knowiþ not þe chirche.

 To þe Ebrewis þan it is to turnen aȝeyn, wheroft and þe Lord spekiþ, and þe disciplis beforntaken exfaumplis.
 þes þingis bi þese of olde men I speke, and to my bacbyters oonly I answer, þe whiche gnawen me wiþ a dogge toþe, in opyn bacbytyng, reedyng in corners, and acusatours and defendours, whann in oþer men þey apreuen þat in me þei repreuen; as vertue and vice ben not in þe þingis, bot wiþ þe autour ben chaungid. Bot I haue had mynde þe makynge of þe feuenty translators, xlvi Heman also, and Iditym, synginge in trumpe, and smytynge cymbalis, and alle orgnys of musikis, to fyngyn to God; þe sonis forsoþe of Yditym he made to ben porters.

xliii And al þe puple is turned aȝein in to his hous, and Dauid, þat also he schuld bleſſen to his hous.

Capitulum XVII.

i Whanne forsoþe Dauid dwellid in his hous, he seyde to Nathan, þe prophete, Loo! I dwelle in a cedre hous; þe arke forsoþe of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord is vndir fkynnes.
ii And Nathan seiþ to Dauiþ, Alle þingis þat ben in þi hert do, God forsoþe is wiþ þee.
iii ȝan þat nyȝt is maad þe word of þe Lord to Nathan, seyng, iv Go, and speke to Dauiþ, my seruaunt, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, þou schalt not bylde to me an hows to dwellen;
v ne forsoþe I dwellede in hous, fro þat tyme þat I ladde out Yrael fro þe lond of Egipt 'in to þis day, bot was euermore chaungyng þe places of tabernacle, and in tent wiþ al Yrael dwellynge.
vi Wheþer I spake oonly to oon of þe iugis of Yrael, to whome I hadde comaundid, þat he schulde feden my puple, and seyde, Why haſt þou not bildid up 'to me a cedre hous?
vii Nowe also þus þou schalt speken to my seruaunt Dauid, þes þingis seiþ þe Lord of hoofis, I toke þee, when in leſewes þou folowedist þe flok, þat þou were duyke of my puple Yrael;
viii and I was wiþ þee whiper euer þou wentist, and I flewȝ alle þin enmyes beforen þee, and I maad to þee a name as of oon of þe grete men þat ben oft wirschipid in þe erþe.
ix And I ȝauie a place to my puple Yrael; it schal be plaunitid, and he schal dwelle in it, and no more he schal be meued, ne þe sonis of wickidnesse schuln totern hem, x as fro þe begynnyng of þe days in whiche I ȝauie iuges to my puple Yrael; and I haue mekid alle þin enmyes. I telle ȝan to þee, þat þe Lord be to belden to þee an hous.
xi And whanne þou haſt fulfillid by days, þat þou go to þi fadirs, I schal rerer þi seed aftir þee, þat schal ben of þi sonys, and I schal stahlen þe rewme of hym;
xii he schal beelde to me an hous, and I schal fastnen his see vnto wiþ outen ende.
xiii I schal ben to hym in to fadir, and he schal ben to me in to fone; and my mercy I schal not don awey fro hym, as I toke aweye fro hym þat was bifore þee; xliii and I schal setten hym in my hous and in my regne vnto euermore; and þe trone of hym schal be most fast vnto wiþ oute ende.
xv Aftre alle þes wordis, and aftir al þis visioun, þus spak Nathan to Dauid.

xvi And whanne kyng Dauid was commen, and hadde sytten before þe Lord, he feide, Who am I, Lord God, and what my hous, þat þou schuldist ȝeuen to me syche bingus?
 xvii Bot and þat lityl is seen in þi siȝte, and þerfore þou speke on þe hous of þi seruaunt, also in to comyn; and þou haft maad me heeȝ vpon alle men. Lord God, xviii what more ouer may Dauid adden, whanne þus þou haft glorified þi seruaunt, and knownen hym?
 xix Lord, for þi seruaunt aftir þi herte þou haft done al þis grete doyng, and al þi grete woundirs þou woldist to ben knownen.
 xx Lord, þer is noon lijc þee, and þer is noon oþer God wiþ outhoƿe þee, of al þe whiche we han herd wiþ outhore eris.
 xxi Who forsoþe is an oþer as þi purple Yrael, oon folk of kynde in þe lond, to þe whiche God wente, þat he delyuere and make a peple to him, and by his gretneſſe and gryfynges he caste out nacyouns fro his face, þe whiche he hadde delyuerd fro Egipt?
 xxii And þou haft putte þy purple Yrael to þee in to a purple in to wiþ outhoƿe eend, and þou, Lord, art maad his God.
 xxiii Now þann, Lord, þe word þat þou haft spoken to þi seruaunt, and vpon his hous, be confermed in to wiþ outhoƿe eend, and do, as þou haft spoken;
 xxiv and þi name abijde stille, and be magnyfied in to euermore; and be it seid, Pe Lord of hoostis, God of Yrael, and þe hous of Dauid, his seruaunt, abijdynge stille beforne hym.
 xxv þou forsoþe, Lord my God, haft told opynly þe lityere of þi seruaunt, þat þou schuldist bilden to hym an hous; and þerfore þi seruaunt haþ founden truſt, þat he preye before þee.
 xxvi Nowe þanne, Lord, þou ert God, and þou haft spoken to þi seruaunt so fele benefis; xxvii and þou haft begunnen to bleſſen to þe hous of þi seruaunt, þat it be euer more before þee; þee forsoþe bleſſyng, bleſſid it schal ben in to wiþ outhoƿe end.

Capitulum XVIII.

i Done it is forsoþe aftir þes þingis, þat Dauid schuld smijten Philisteis, and meeken hem, and taken Geth and þe douȝtirs of it fro þe hond of Philisteis, ii and smijten Moab; and Moabitis schulden ben maad þe seruauntis of Dauid, offringe to hym ȝiftis.
 iii Pat tyme also Dauid smote Adadefer, kyng of Soba, of þe regyoun of Emath, whanne he wente for to largen his empyre vnto þe flode of Eufraten.
 iii Panne Dauid toke a þousand foure whelid cartis of hym, and feuen þousand of hors men, and twenty þousand of fote men; and he kutte þe knee senewis of alle þe hors of þe chaaris, out taken an hundriþ foure whelid cartis, þe whiche he referuede to hym silf.

v Forsoþe and Cyre Damascen came ouer, þat he ȝeue helpe to Adadefer, kyng of Soba, bot and of þis Dauid smote twenty þousand of men; vi and he putte knyȝtis in Damasc, þat Cyrie also schuld seruen to hym, and offre ȝiftis. And þe Lord herde hym in alle þingis to þe whiche he wente.
 vii Also Dauid toke þe golden arewe cases, þat þe seruauntes of Adadezer hadden, and brouȝte hem in to Jerufalem; viii also and fro Thebath and Cum, cytees of Adadezer, myche of braſſe, of þe whiche Salomon made þe brasen ſe, and pylers, and brasen vefels.
 ix Pe whiche þing whanne Thou, kyng of Emath, hadde herd, þat is, Dauiȝ to han smyten al þe hoost of Adadefer, kyng of Soba, x he fente Aduram, his fone, to kyng Dauid, þat he aske of hym pefe, and þanckide to hym, for þi þat he hadde ouercommen and smyten Adadezer; forsoþe kyng Adadezer was aduersarie to Thou.
 xi Bot and alle þe golden vefelis, and sylueren, and brasen kyng Dauid sacride to þe Lord; and þe syluer, and þe gold, þat þe kyng hadde taken fro alle gentiles, as wele of Ydume and Moab, and þe fonyis of Amon, as of þe Philisteis and Amalech.
 xii Forsoþe Abisai, þe fone of Saruye, smote Edom in þe valey of salt placis, ten and eyȝt þousand.
 xiii And he sett in Edom a streyngþe, þat Ydume schulde seruen to Dauid. And þe Lord sauede Dauid in alle þingis, to be whiche he wente.
 xiv þann Dauid regned vpon al Yrael, and dide dome and riȝtwilnelle to al his purple.
 xv Bot Joab, þe fone of Saruye, was vpon þe hoost; and Josephath, þe fone of Ailuth, chaunceler; xvi Sadoch forsoþe, þe fone of Achitob, and Achymalech, þe fone of Abither, prestis; and Sufa, ſcribe;

Capitulum XIX.

i It fel forsoþe, þat Naas, þe kynge of þe fonyis of Amon, ſchulde dyen, and his fone regnen for hym.
 ii And Dauid feide, I ſchal do mercy wiþ Hanon, þe fone of Naas; forsoþe his fadir ȝaue to me mercy. And Dauid fente meſſagers, to coumforten hym vpon þe deþ of his fadir. Pe whiche whan weren commen in to þe lond of þe fonyis of Amon, þat þei coumforten Hanon, iii þe princis of þe fonyis of Amon ſeiden to Hanon, þou perauenture weenest, þat Dauid by chesoun of wifſchip vnto þi fadir fente, þat he coumforten þee; and þou takist no heed, þat þat þei aſpyen, and ſechen, and enſerchen þi lond, ben commen to þee þe seruauntis of hym.

iii Perfore Hanon maad balled and schoofe þe childre of Dauid, and kutte þe kootis of hem fro þe ers of hem vnto þe feet; and he laft hem.

v Þe whiche when weren gone awey, and þat hadden sente to Dauid, he sente in to aȝein commynge of hem; forsoþe grete despyle þei hadden suffred; and he comaundyde, þat þei schulden dwellen in Jericho, to þe tyme þat þe berd of hem weren sprongen, and þanne þey schulden turnen aȝeyn.

vi Forsoþe þe sonis of Amon, feeynge þat þei hadden don wronge to Dauiþ, boþe Hanon and þe toþer puple, þei senten a þousand talentis of syluer, þat þei hiren to hem fro Mesopotanye and Ciria, Maacha and from Soba, charis and horfmen;

vii and þei hyreden two and þritty þousand of charis, and þe kyng of Maacha wiþ his puple. Þe whiche, whan weren commen, setten tentis forn aȝeynus Medaba; also þe sonys of Amon gaderd fro þeir cytees, camen to bateil.

viii Þe whiche þing whanne Dauid hadde herde, he sente Joab, and al þe hooft of stronge men.

ix And þe sonys of Amon gon out, dresseden scheltrun byfidis þe ȝate of þe cytee; þe kyngis forsoþe, þat weren commen to helpe, stoden apart in þe feld.

x Pan Joab vndirstondyne þe bateil forn aȝeynst and behynde þe bac aȝeynst hym to be maad, he chees most stronge men of al Yrael, and wente aȝein Cyrum; xi þe toþer forsoþe part of þe puple he ȝauie vndir þe hond of Abisay, his broþer; and þei wenten aȝein þe sonys of Amon.

xii And he seide, ȝif Cyries ouercommen me, þou schalt ben in helpe to me; ȝif forsoþe þe sonys of Amon ouercommen þee, I schal ben to þee in to focour; xiii take coumfort, and do we manly for oure puple, and for þe cytees of oure God; þe Lord forsoþe, þat in his fijt is good, do.

xiv þanne Joab, and þe puple þat was wiþ hym, wente aȝeyn Cyrus to bateil, and drofe hem.

xv Bot þe sonis of Amon feeynge þat Cyres hadden flowen, þei also flowen Abisay, his broþer, and wenten in to þe cytee; and Joab is turned aȝeyn in to Jerufalem.

xvi Seeynge forsoþe Cyres, þat þey hadden falle beforne Yrael, senten messagers, and brouȝten forþe Cyre, þat was beþond þe flode; Sophat forsoþe, prince of þe knyȝthode of Adadezer, was þe dyuke of hem.

xvii Þe whiche þing whan was tolde to Dauid, he gaderde al Yrael, and passede Jordan, and fel in to hem, and dresside forn aȝeyns scheltrun, hem aȝeyn fiȝtyng.

xviii Forsoþe Cyres fleyȝ Yrael, and Dauiþ flowȝ of Cyres feuen þousand of charis, and fourty þousand of foote men, and Sophat, þe prince of þe hooft.

xix Seeynge forsoþe þe seruauntis of Adadezer hem silf of Yrael to be ouercommen, ouerflowen to Dauiþ, and ferueden to hym; and Cyre wolde no more ȝeuен help to þe sonys of Amon.

Capitulum XX.

i Done it is forsoþe aftir þe cercle of a ȝeer, þat tyme bat kyngis ben wont to gon forþ to batelis, Joab gaderde þe hooft, and þe streyngþe of knyȝthode, and waastide þe lond of þe sonys of Amon, and wente, and befegide Rabath; bot Dauid abood in Jerufalem, whan Joab smote Rabath, and distroyede it.

ii Dauiþ forsoþe toke þe crowne of Melchon fro his heued, and foonde in it a talent of gold weiȝt, and most precious gemmes, and maad þeroft to hym a dyademe; also manye spoylis of þe cytee he toke.

iii Þe puple forsoþe þat was in it he ladde out, and maad vpon hem pestelis, and fledis, and proud yren charis, to gon ouer, so þat þei weren al to-kut and tobrosed alle; þus dide Dauid to alle þe cytees of þe sonys of Amon, and he is turned aȝeyn wiþ alle his puple in to Jerufalem.

iv Aftr þes þingis bateil is gon in in Gaser aȝeinus Philisteis, in þe whiche smote Sobachai Vsachites Saphai of þe kynrede of Raphaym, and he lowede hem.

v Anoþer also bateil is don aȝeynus þe Philisteis, in þe whiche Adeodate, þe sone of Saltus, Bethlamyte, smote þe broþer of Goliath Jethlee, whos spere schaft was as þe beme of websters.

vi Bot and anoþer bateil fell in Geth, in þe whiche `a most longe man was, hauyng sexe fyngers, þat is, to gider foure and twenty, þe whiche and he was of Raphaym lynage gotten;

vii þis blasfemed Yrael, and Jonathan, þe sone of Sama, broþer of Dauid, smote hym.

viii þes ben þe sonys of Raphaym in Jeth, þe whiche fallen in þe hond of Dauid and of þe seruauntis of hym.

Capitulum XXI.

i Sathan forsoþe rose aȝein Yrael, and stired Dauiþ for to noumbre Yrael.

ii And Dauid seid to Joab, and to þe princes of þe puple, Gop, and noumbrþ Yrael fro Bersabe vnto Dan, and bryngiþ to me þe noumbre, þat I knowe.

iii And Joab answerd, Þe Lord encrese his puple an hundriþ fold þann þei ben; wheþer not, my lord kyng, þi seruauntis þei ben alle? Why þis þing sechiþ my lord, þat in to synne it be rettid to Yrael?

iv Bot þe word of þe kyng more hadde þe maistrie; and Joab wente out, and enuyrouned al Yrael, and is turned aȝein in to Jerufalem.

v And he ȝauie to Dauid þe noumbre of hem, þe whiche he hadde enuyrownede; and al þe noumbre of Yrael is founden a þousand þousandes, and an hundriþ þousand of men, drawyng oute swerd; of Juda forsoþe þre hundriþ and seenty þousand of fiȝtyng men.

vi Forsoþe Leuy and Beniamyn he noumbride not, for þi þat constrey ned he folowede out þe kyngis heft.
 vii Forsoþe þat was comaundid displeide to þe Lord, and he smote Yrael.
 viii And Dauid seid to God, I haue synned ful myche for to do þis; I biseche, do awey þe wickidnesse of þi seruaunt, for vñwifly I dide.
 ix And þe Lord spac to Gad, seere of Dauid, seyinge, x Go, and speke to Dauid, and fey to hym, þes þingis seip þe Lord, Of þre þingis to þee I ȝeue chois; oon þat þou wylt, chees, þat I doo to þee.
 xi And whann Gad was commen to Dauid, he seide to hym, þes þingis seip þe Lord, Chees þat þou wilt, xii or þree ȝeer pestilence, or þee þre moneþis to flee þi enmyes and þe swerd of hem not to mowen ascapyn, or þre days þe swerd of þe Lord and deþ to be turned aboute in þe lond, and þe aungel of þe Lord to slen in alle þe cytees of Yrael. Nowe þanne see, what I schal answere to hym þat sente me.
 xiii And Dauiþ seid to Gad, On alle sijdes angwylchis presten me doun, bot beter it is to me, þat I falle in to þe hondis of þe Lord, for many ben þe mercyes of hym, þanne in to þe hondis of men.
 xiv þanne þe Lord sente pestilence in to Yrael, and þer fallen of Yrael seuenty þousand of men.
 xv And he sente þe aungel in to Jerusalem, þat he smyte it; and whanne it schulde ben smyten, þe Lord sawȝ, and hadde rewþe vpon þe mykilnesse of euhl; and he comaundide to þe aungel þat smote, It sufficiþ, nowe cese þi hond. Forsoþe þe aungel of þe Lord stode besides þe corn flore of Ornam Jebusei.
 xvi And Dauid, rerynge his eeȝen up, sawe þe aungel of þe Lord stondyng bitwene heuene and erþe, and a drawn swerd in his hond, and turned aȝeinus Jerusalem.
 And þere fallen downe as wele he as þe more þorȝ birþe, cloþid wiþ heyris, bowed doun in to þe erþ.
 xvii And Dauid seide to þe Lord, Wheþer not I am þe whiche haue comaundide þat þe puple be noumbrid? I þat haue synned, I þe whiche dyde euhl; þis floc what haþ deserued? Lord my God, be turned, I biseche, þi hond in to me, and in to þe hous of my fadir; þi puple forsoþe be not smyten.
 xviii þe aungel forsoþe of þe Lord comaundide to Gad, þat he schuld seyn to Dauiþ, þat he schuld steyȝe up, and maken out an auter to þe Lord God in þe corne flore of Ornam Jebuse.
 xix þan Dauid steyȝide up aftir þe word of Gad, þat to hym he hadde spoken of þe word of þe Lord.
 xx Bot Ornam whanne he hadde beholden and seen þe aungel, and his foure sonys wiþ hym, hidden hem silf, for why þat tyme he tradde corn in þe flore.
 xxi þanne whanne Dauid came to Ornam, Ornam byheld hym, and wente forþ to meeten hym fro þe flore, and honouride hym, bowed in to þe erþ.
 xxii And Dauid seide to hym, ȝeue to me a place of þy flore, þat I bild in it an auter to þe Lord; so þat howe myche it is worþ of syluer þou take, and þe veniaunce cese fro þe puple.

xxiii And Ornam seyde to Dauid, Take, and my lord þe kyng do what euer þing plese to hym; bot and oxen I ȝeue in to brent sacrifice, and þe pestels in to wode, and þe whete in to sacrifice; alle þingis gladly I ȝeue.

xxiv And kyng Dauiþ seide to hym, It schal not ben so, bot syluer I schal ȝeuen as myche as it be worþ; ne forsoþe I owe to taken awey to þee, and so to offren to þe Lord free brent sacrifices.

xxv Pan Dauid ȝae to Ornam for þe place ownces of gold of most just weiȝt fixe hundriþ.

xxvi And he bilde þere an auter to þe Lord, and offride brent sacrifices and pesible, and inwardly clepid God; and he herd hym in fyre fro heuen vpon þe auter of brent sacrifice.

xxvii And þe Lord comaundide to þe aungel, and he turned þe swerd in to þe scheþe.

xxviii þanne Dauid anoon seyng, þat þe Lord hadde herde hym in þe corn flore of Ornam Jebusei, he offride þere flayne sacrifices.

xxix Forsoþe þe tabernacle of þe Lord, þat Moyſes hadde maad in desert, and þe auter of brent sacrifices, was in þat tempest in þe heiȝt of Gabaon;

xxx and Dauid myȝt not gon to þe auter, þat þere he beseche God, forsoþe he was wiþ to myche gastnesse aferd, seeinge þe swerd of þe aungel of þe Lord.

Capitulum XXII.

i And Dauid seide, Þis is þe hous of God, and þis þe auter in to brent sacrifice in Israel.

ii And he comaundide þat alle þe comlyngis of þe lond of Yrael schulden be gaderd; and he ordeynede of hem masouns to stoonis to ben hewen and polischit, þat þe hous of þe Lord be bild up;

iii also cedre trees myȝten not ben eymed, þe whiche Cydoynes and Tyres brouȝten to Dauid.

v And Dauid seid, Salomon, my sone, is a lityl child and delicate; þe hous forsoþe, þat I wyll to ben bildid to þe Lord, siche owiþ to ben, þat in alle regyounis it ben nemmyd; I schal greþe þan to hym necessaryes.
 And for þis cause beforne his deþ he made redy alle þe dispensis.

vi And he clepide Salomon, his sone, and he comaundide to hym, þat he schuld bilden an hous to þe Lord God of Yrael.

vii And Dauid seide to Salomon, My sone, of my wille it was, þat I schuld bilden an hous to þe name of þe Lord my God;

viii bot þe word of þe Lord is done to me, seyng, Myche blode þou haft sched, and many bateils þou haft fouȝten; þou schalt not mown bild up an hous to my name, so myche blode schad out before me;

 ix þe sone þat schal ben born to þee, schal ben a man most quyete, I schal maken forsoþe hym to resten fro alle his enmyes by enuyroun, and for þis cause pesible he schal be clepid, and pese and rest I schal ȝeue in Yrael alle þe days of hym.
 x He schal bilden up an hous to my name; and he schal ben to me in to a sone, and I schal ben to hym in to a fadir, and I schal fastne þe see of his regne vpon Yrael vnto wiþ oute eende.
 xi Now þann, my sone, þe Lord be wiþ þee, and do welsumly, and bilde up an hous to þe Lord þi God, as he haþ spoken of þee.
 xii Also þe Lord ȝeue to þee prudence and wytt, þat þou mowe gourne Yrael, and keep þe lawe of þe Lord þi God.
 xiii Panne forsoþe þou schalt mown profyten, ȝif þou kepiſt þe heftis and domes, þe whiche þe Lord comaundide to Moyſes, þat he schulde techen Yrael; take coumfort and do manly, ne drede þou, ne take fer.
 xiv Loo! I in my lytyl porneſſe haue mad redy before þe expenes of þe hous of þe Lord; of gold an hundreþ þousand talentis, and of talentis of syluer a þousand þousandis; of brasse forsoþe and of yren þere is no weiȝt, forsoþe þe noumbre is ouer passed by mychilneſſe; trees and stoonis I haue maad redye before to alle þe expenes.
 xv Pou haſt also many craftise men, masouns, and leyers, and craftisemen of trees, and of alle craftis, moſt wijs to don werk, xvi in gold, and syluer, brasse, and yren, of þe whiche is no noumbre; rijs þan, and make, and þe Lord schal be wiþ þee.
 xvii And Dauid comaundide to alle þe princis of Yrael, þat þei ſchulden helpen Salomon, his sone, feyngi, xviii ȝe ſeen, þat þe Lord oure God is wiþ us, and haþ ȝeuen to us rest by enuyroun, and haþ ȝeuen alle þe enmyes in oure hond, þat þe lond be ſuget before þe Lord, and beforne his puple.
 xix ȝeueþ þerefore ȝoure hertis and ȝoure ſoules, þat ȝe lechen þe Lord ȝoure God; and riſſiþ to gidre, and bilið up a ſeyntuarye to þe Lord ȝoure God, þat þe arke of þe pefe couenaunt of þe Lord be brouȝt in, and þe ſacrid veſſels to þe Lord in to þe hous, þat is byld to þe name of þe Lord.

xx Dauid forsoþe comaundide to al þe chirche, Bleſſe ȝe to þe Lord oure God. And al þe chirche bleſſed to þe Lord God of þeir fadirs, and þei boweden hem seluen, and honoureden God, and þanne afterwarde þe kyng.

xi And þei flowen sacrifices to þe Lord, and offreden brent sacrifices þe day folowynge; boolis a þousand, and webers a þousand, and lombes a þousand, wiþ þeir sacrifices of licours, and al þe rijt, most plenteouously, in to al Yrael.

xxii And þei eeten and dronken before þe Lord in þat day, in greet gladnessse. And þei anoyntide þe secounde, Salomon, þe sone of Dauid; þei anoynteden forsoþe to þe Lord in to a prince, and Sadoch in to a bischop.

xxiii And Salomon fatt vpon þe fee of þe Lord in to kyng, for Dauid, his fadir; and to alle men it pleside, and al Israel obeschide to hym.

xxiiii Bot and alle þe princes, and myȝty, and alle sonys of kyng Dauid, ȝeuen hond, and weren suget to kyng Salomon.

xxv ȝan þe Lord magnyfied Salomon vpon al Israel, and ȝaue to hym glorie of þe kingdom, what maner no kyng of Yrael hadden beforne hym.

xxvi ȝanne Dauid, þe sone of Ysay, regned vpon al Israel;

xxvii and þe days þe whiche he regned vpon Yrael weren fourty ȝeare; in Ebron he regned seuen ȝeare, and in Jerusalem þre and þirty.

xxviii He is deed in a good elde, full of days, and rytcheffes, and glorie; and Salomon, his sone, regnede for hym.

xxix Forsoþe þe raþer dedis of kyng Dauid, and þe laſt, ben writen in þe boke of Samuel, seer, and in þe boke of Nathan, þe prophete, and in þe volyme of Gad, seere;

xxx and of al his rewme, and streyngþe, and tymes, þat paffiden vndur hym, or in Yrael, or in alle rewmes of londis.

II. PARALIPOMENON.

Here bigynneþ þe Prolog in þe secounde Paralipomenon.

Eusebius, Jerome senden gretynge to þeirs in Crist Jheſu, Domynyon and Rogacian. What maner wiſe þei better vndirſtonden þe stories of Grekis, þe whiche han ſeen Athenas; and þe þrid boke of Virgilie, þe whiche han ſeiled fro Troye bi Lewchaten, and fro Acroceranya to Cicilie, and þennys to þe doris of Tibre; so hooly Scripture he ſchal more clerly beholden, þat Jude haþ ſeen wiþ eeȝen, and þe myndis of olde cytees, and placis knowiþ names, or þe fame, or chaungid. Wherfore and to us it was fors wiþ þe moſt tauȝte men of Ebruyis þis traueil to vndirgone, þat we gon aboute þe prouynce, þat alle þe chirchis of Crist ſownen. Forsoþe, my Domynyon and Rogacian, moſt dere, I knowleche me neuer in Goddis volymes to han ȝeuen feiþ to my propre strengþis, ne to han had myne opnyoun a mayſter, bot also þo þingis of þe whiche I demede me to kunnen, me wont to han asked; myche more of þo þingis, vpon þe whiche I was a fowler. Forsoþe whanne of me ȝe hadden asked sumtyme bi lettis, þat to ȝou I ſchulde translatyn Paralipomenon in Latyn fermoun, I toke of Tiberyades sumtyme autour of lawe, þe whiche anentis þe Ebewis was had in wondryngis, and I diſputed wiþ hym fro þe top, as þei feyn, vnto þe laſte nayl; and so conſermyd, I am hardy to don þat ȝe comaundiden. Forsoþe freely to ȝou I ſpeke; ſo in Greek and in Latyn bokis, þis boke of namys is vicious, þat not oonly Ebrue namys, but ſtraunge ſum and addid caſt to gider it be to demyn. Ne þat to þe ſeuenty remenours, þe whiche ful of þe Hooly Gooſt þo þinges þat weren ſope tranflatiden, bot to þe blame of wrijters it is to wijten, while of þe vnamendifd þei wrijten vnamendide þingis; and oft ſiþes þre namys, ſiſables wiþ drawen fro þe mydil, þei drijuen in to oon name; or aȝeinward, for þe brede, þei deuyden in two or in þre namys. Bot and þilk nemenyngis, not men, as many eymen, bot cytees, and regiouns, and wodis, and prouynces ſownen; and aſide, vndur þe remenyng and þe figure of hem, ſum ſtories ben told, of þe whiche in þe boke of Kyngis it is feyde, Loo! wheþer not þes ben writen in þe bokis of þe wordis of þe days of kyngis of Juda; þe whiche forſoþe in oure bokis ben not had. ȝis firſt is to wyten, þat anentis þe Ebruyis Paralipomenon be a boke, and anentis hem be clepid Dabregemyn, þat is, þe wordis of days; þe whiche for mychilneſſe anentis us is deuydid. þe whiche þing ſum men alſo in þe Brute, dialog of Citheron, don, þat it in þre parties þei deuyden, whanne oon of his autour it be maad. Per aftir alſo þat þei taken heede, þat oft ſiþes names ſownen not names of men, bot, as I haue feide, betokenyngis of þingis. At þe laſt, þat al lernynge of scripturis in þis boke is conteenyd; and þe ſtories oper þat ben laſt in þeir placis, oper liȝtly touched, here by ſum maner ſhort ſentencis of wordis ben opned. And ſo I, holpen wiþ help of ȝoure preyers, haue ſente þe boke to pleſen to wele willid men; neuer þe later I doute not, it to ben to diſpleſen to enuyous men.

Forſoþe, as ſeip Plynye, ſum men han leuere alle best þingis ſeen to diſpisen, þanne to lernen. ȝif eny man in þis remenyng wille eny þing repreuen, aſke he þe Ebrues, remembre he his conſcience, ſee he þe order and þe text of þe word; and þanne, ȝif he may, putte he blame to oure traueil. ȝan wher euer ȝe ſeen afterichos, þat is, ſterres, to ſchynen in þis volume, þere wijte ȝe of Ebrue added, þat in Latyne bokis is not had; wher forſoþe obelus ouerturned, þat is, a ȝerde, is ſette before, þere is betokened what þe ſeuenty remenours addeden, or for grace of feyrneſſe, or for autorite of þe Hooly Gooſt; and in Ebrue volumes it is not rad.

Here eendip þe prologue in þe ij.

Paralipomenon, and bigynneþ þe bok in þe ij.
Paralipomenon.

Capitulum I.

i Salomon þanne, þe sone of Dauid, is coumfortid in his rewme, and þe Lord was wiþ hym, and magnyfied hym in to an heeȝ.

ii And Salomon comaundyde to al Yrael, to leders of þousandis, and mayſters of hundrepis, and to domysmen, and to þe duykis of al Yrael, and to princis of meynes;

iii and wente wiþ al þe multitude in to þe heiȝt of Gabaon, where was þe tabernacle of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord, þat Moyfes, þe seruaunt of God, made in wyldirneſſe.
 iv Dauid forſoþe hadde lad þe arke of God fro Cariathiarym in to þe place þat he hadde made redi to it, and wher he hadde piȝt to it a tabernacle, þat is, in Jerusalem.
 v Also a braſen auter, þe whiche Befeleel, þe fone of Vri, fone of Ur, hadde forgið, þere was beforne þe tabernacle of þe Lord; þe whiche and Salomon souȝt and al þe chirche.
 vi And Salomon ſteiȝede up to þe braſen auter, before þe tabernacle of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord, and offride in it a þousand hooſtis.
 vii Lo! forſoþe in þat nyȝt God aperied to hym, feyng, Aſk þat þou wylt, þat I ȝeue to þee.
 viii And Salomon ſeide to God, Þou didiſt wiþ Dauiþ, my fadir, grete mercy, and ſettift me kyng for hym.
 ix Nowe þanne, Lord God, þi word be fulſiſt, þat þou bihiȝtift to Dauid, my fadir; þou forſoþe haſt made me kyng vpon þi grete puple, þe whiche is as vnnoumbreable as þe poudre of þe erþ.
 x ȝeue to me wyſdam and vndirſtondynge, þat I go in and go out beforne þi puple; who forſoþe may biſ þi puple, þat is lo greet, worþily deemyn?
 xi God forſoþe ſeide to Salomon, For þis more pleſide to þin herte, and aſkidift not rycheſſes, and ſubſtaunce, and glorie, ne þe lijues of hem þat hatiden bee, ne many days of lijf; but forſoþe þou aſkidift wiſdam and kunnynge, þat þou myȝtift deme puple, vpon þe whiche I haue ſett þee kyng, xii wiſdom and kunnynge ben ȝeuen to þee; ritcheſſes forſoþe, and ſubſtaunces, and glorie I ſchal ȝeuen to þee, fo þat no man in kyngis, ne before þee ne aftir þee, were lijc þee.
 xiii þan Salomon came fro þe heiȝt of Gabaon in to Jerusalem, beforne þe tabernacle of þe pese couenaunt, and regned vpon Yrael.
 xiv And he gadirde to hym charis and hors men, and þer ben maad to hym a þousand and fouru hundriþ chaaris, and twelue þouſand of horle men; and he maad hem to ben in þe citees of plowes of fouru hors, and wiþ þe kyng in Jerusalem.
 xv And þe kyng ȝaue in to Jerusalem ſyluer and gold as ſtonys, and cedres as long mulberies, þat growen in wijld feeldis in myche multitude.
 xvi Forſoþe þer weren brouȝt to hym hors fro Egipt, and fro Ohoa, of þe marchaundis of þe kyng, þat wenten and boȝten bi prijs, xvii a plowȝ of hors for fixe hundriþ platis of ſyluer, and an hors for an hundriþ and fyfty. Lijc maner of alle þe rewmes of Cetheys, and of þe kyngis of Cirie, þe byng was ſolemply don.

Capitulum II.

i Forſoþe Salomon demed to bilden up an hous to þe name of þe Lord, and a paleys to hym ſilf.
 ii And he noumbred feuenty þousand of men berynge in ſchulderis, and eiȝti þousand þat ſchulden hewen ſtones in hillis; and þe prouoftes of hem þre þousand and fiſe hundriþ.
 iii Also he fente to Yram, kyng of Tir, feyng, As þou haſt don wiþ my fadir Dauid, and haſt fente to hym cedre trees, þat he bilde to hym an hous, iv in þe whiche and he dwellide; ſo do wiþ me, þat I bilde an hous to þe name of þe Lord my God, and þat I facre it, to brennen encenſe beforne hym, and to fwote þingis to ben out ſmokid, and to þe euermore propociciooun of looues, and to þe brent ſacrifices erly and at euen, alſo to þe fabotis, and to þe newe mones, and ſolemphytes of þe Lord oure God in to euermore, þat ben comaundid to Yrael.
 v Þe hous forſoþe, þat I coueite to bilden up, is greet; forſoþe þe Lord oure God is greet vpon alle goddis.
 vi Who þan ſchal mowen ben myȝty, þat he bilde up to hym an worþi hous? ȝif forſoþe heuen and heuens of heuens mown not taken hym, how myche am I, þat I may to hym bilden up an hous, bot to þes þingis al oonly, þat encenſe be brent beforne hym?
 vii Sende þann to me an tauȝt man, þat kann wirchen in gold, and filuer, braſſe, and yren, purpur, cocco, and iacynte; and þat kanne grauen in craft of grauyng wiþ þeſe craftife men, 'þe whiche I haue wiþ me in Jewrie and Jerusalem, þe whiche Dauid, my fadir, made redy before.
 viii Bot and cedre trees fenden to me, and tyne trees, and pyne trees of Lyban; I knowe forſoþe, þat þi ſeruauntis kunnen hewen trees of þe wode; and my ſeruauntis ſchuln ben wiþ þi ſeruauntis, ix þat þer ben made redy to me many trees; þe hous forſoþe þat I coueite to bilden up is ful myche grete, and ful glorious.
 x Forþermore to werk men, þat ben to hewen trees, to þi ſeruauntis, I ſchal ȝeuen in to metis choris of whete twenty þousand, and choris of barly as fele, and of oyle twenty þousand meſures, as of twelue galouns.
 xi Forſoþe Iram, kyng of Tyry, ſeide bi þe lettres þat he fente to Salomon, For þe Lord haþ louede his puple, þerfore þee he maad regnen vpon it.
 xii And he addid, feyng, Bleſſid þe Lord God of Yrael, þat made heuen and erþ, þat ȝaue to kyng Dauid a wijs fone, and tauȝt, and witty, and fleeȝ, þat he bilde up an hous to þe Lord, and a paleis to hym ſilf.
 xiii þerfore I haue fente to þee a fleeȝ man and moſt kunnyngh, Yram, my fadir, xiv fone of a womanne of þe lynage of Dan, whos fadir was Tyrus; þe whiche kouþe wirchen in gold, and in filuer, braſſe, and yren, and marbil, and trees, in purpur alſo, and iacynct, and bijſe, and cocko; and þat kanne grauen al grauynge, and fynde fleeȝly what euer þing is nedeful in werk wiþ þi craftise men, and wiþ þe craftise men of my lord Dauid, þi fadir.

xv Panne þe whete, and þe barley, and þe oyle, and þe wijne, 'þe whiche, my lord, þou haft behoten, fende to þi seruauntis.

xvi We forsoþe hewen þe trees from þe wode, as fele as þou schalt han need; and we schulen applyen hem in names bi þe se in to Joppe; þin forsoþe schal ben to leeden hem ouer in to Jerusalem.

xvii Pan Salomon noumbride alle þe men comlyngis, þat weren in þe lond of Yrael, aftir þe noumbryngi þat Dauid, his fadir, noumbred; and þer ben founden an hundriþ and fyfty þousand and þre þousand and sixe hundriþ.

xviii And he maad of hem feuenty þousand, þat schulde beren birþens wiþ schuldirs, and eiȝty þousand, þat stoonyis in hillis schulden hewen; þre forsoþe þousand and sex hundriþ prouostis of þe werkis of þe puple.

Capitulum III.

i And Salomon beganne to bilden up an hous of þe Lord in Jerusalem, in þe hill of Moria, þe whiche was schedewe to Dauid, his fader, in þe place þat Dauid hadde maad redy in þe corne flor of Ornam Jebusei.

ii He beganne forsoþe to bilden up þe secounde moneþ, in þe ferþ zeer of his regne.

iii And þes ben þe foundementis, 'þe whiche Salomon leide, þat he bilde up þe hous of God; of lengþe cubitis in þe first mesure sexty, of brede cubitis twenty.

iv Þe ȝate hous forsoþe beforne þe frount, þe whiche was strauȝt out in to leyngþe aftir mesure of brede of þe hous, of cubitis twenty, bot þe heiȝte was of an hundriþ and twenty cubitis; and he gildide it wiþ in forþ wiþ most cleen gold.

v Also þe more hous he couerde wiþ firre tablis, and he fitchide platis of briȝt gold þoruȝ out; and he graued in it hondis, and as cheynes catchyng hem filf to gydre.

vi And he couerde þe pawment of þe temple wiþ most preciousse marble, in myche feyrnesse. Forsoþe þe gold was most fyne,

vii of whos platis he couerde þe hous, and his bemys, and postis, and wallis, and dores; and he graued cherubyn in þe wallis.

viii Also he maad an hous to þe holies of halowes, in leyngþe aftir þe brede of þe hous, of cubitis twenty, and þe breed lijc maner of cubitis twenty; and wiþ golden platis couerde it, as wiþ sixe hundriþ talents.
ix Bot and golden naylis he maad, so þat eche naylis peyfeden fyfty ounces; also þe soupyng place he couerde wiþ gold.

x And he maad in þe hous of holies of halowis two cherubyn in ymage werke, and couerde hem wiþ gold.

xi Þe weengis of cherubyn in twenty cubitis weren strauȝt out, so þat oo wenge hadde cubitis fyue, and ſchulde touchen þe wall of þe hous; and þe toþer wenge hauyngi fyue cubitis touche þe wenge of þe toþer cherub.

xii Lijc maner of þe toþer cherub þe wenge hadde fyue cubitis, and touchid þe wall, and his opere weeng of fyue cubitis touched þe weeng of þe toþer cherub.

xiii Panne þe weengis of eiþer cherub weren sprad and straugt out bi cubitis twenty; þei forsoþe stoden riȝt up þe feet, and þe faces of hem weren turned to þe vttirmore hous.

xiv And he maad a veyl of iacinct, and purpur, and cocko, and bijs; and þei weueden to it cherubyn.

xv Before þe ȝatis also of þe temple two pylers, 'þe whiche þratty and fyue cubitis hadden of heiȝt; forsoþe þe heuedis of hem of fyue cubitis.

xvi Also and as litil cheynes in Goddis answerynge place, and he putte hem vpon þe heuedes of þe pilers; also an hundriþ powngarnettis, þe whiche he putte among to þe litil cheynes.

xvii And þilk pilers he putte in þe vestiarye of þe temple, oon fro þe riȝt, an oþer fro þe left; it þat was fro þe riȝt he clepide Jachym, and þat to þe lift he clepid Booz.

Capitulum III.

i And he maad a brasen auter of twenty cubitis of lengþe, and of twenty cubitis of breed, and of tenn cubitis of heiȝte;

ii also a ȝoten se of tenn cubitis fro brynke vnto brynk, round bi enuyroun; fyue cubitis he hadde of heiȝte;
and a litil coord of þratty cubitis enuyrounde þe compas of it.

iii And licnesse of oxen was vndur it, and in þe ten cubitis maner grauyngis wiþ oute forþ as wiþ two vers wente aboue þe brynke of þe se; þe oxen forsoþe weren ȝoten.

iv And þat se was put upon þe twelue oxen, of þe whiche þre biheelden to be norþ, and oþer þre to be west, bot þe oþer þe souþ, and þe þre þat weren laft þe este, hauyngi þe se put aboue; þe hyndirmore forsoþe of þe oxen weren wiþ in forþ vndur þe se.

v Bot þe biernes of it hadde þe mesure of a spanne, and þe lippe of it was as þe lippe of a chalice, or as of a lilie aȝein crokid, and it toke of mesure þre þousand potels.

vi Also he maad tenn watir vessels, and he putte fyue fro þe riȝt, and fyue fro þe lift, þat þey schulden waschen in hem alle þingis þat in brent sacrifices þei weren to offren; bot in þe se þe prefis weren waschen.

vii Forsoþe he maad tenn golden chaundelers aftir þe fourme 'þe whiche he hadde comaundide to be maad, and he put hem in þe temple, fyue fro þe riȝt and fyue fro þe left;

viii also and tenn boordes, and putte hem in þe temple, fyue fro þe riȝt and fyue fro þe left; and golden violis an hundriȝ.
 ix And he made þe porche of prestis, and a greet hous, and þe dores in þe hous, þe whiche he couerde wiþ brasse.
 x But þe se he putte in þe riȝt sijde aȝeinus þe este at þe souþ.
 xi Also Yram made caudrouns, and fleschhookis, and violis, and he fulfilde al þe werk of þe kyng in þe hous of God,
 xii þat is, two pilers, and heued coueryngis, and heuedes, and as maner nettis, þe whiche þe heuedis schulden coueryn vpon þe heued coueryngis; xiii also powngarnetis fourty, and two callis, so þat two ordris of poungarnetis to alle þe callis schulden ben ioyned, þe whiche schulden coueren þe heued coueryngis, and þe heuedis of þe pilers. xiv Also feet he maad, and water vessels, þe whiche he putte vpon þe feet;
 xv oon se, and oxen twelue vndir þe se, xvi and cawdrouns, and fleschhookis, and viols. Yram, his fadir, made alle þe vesselis to Salomon, in þe hous of þe Lord, of most clene brasse.
 xvii In þe regiouf of Jordan þe kyng ȝeetide hem, in þe cley lond bitween Socoth and Saradatha.
 xviii Forsoþe þer was a multitude of vesselis vnoumbreable, so þat þe weiȝte of brasse was vnknownen.
 xix And Salomon maad alle þe vesselis of þe hous of God, þe golden auter, and boordis, and vpon hem þe looues of propoficioun;
 xx and candilstikis wiþ þeir lanternes, þat bei ȝeuen liȝt before Goddis answeryng place afir þe rijt, of most pure gold;
 xxi and sum floures, and lanterns, and golden fnytters;
 alle of most clene gold ben maad; xxii also þe maad encense vesselis, and censeris, and violis, and morters, of most pure gold. And he graued þe doris of þe innermore temple, þat is, in þe hoolyes of halowes, and þe doris of þe temple wiþout forþ golden; and so is fulfilld al þe werk þat Salomon made in þe hous of þe Lord.

Capitulum V.

i Salomon þanne brouȝte in alle þingis, þat Dauid, his fadir, hadde vowed; fyluer, and gold, and al þe vesselis, he putte in þe tresores of þe hous of þe Lord.
 ii After þe whiche þingis he gadride þe more boruȝ birþe of Israel, and al þe princis of lynagis, and þe heuedis of meynes, of þe sonys of Yrael, in to Jerusallem, þat þei bryngin þe ark of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord fro þe cyte of Dauid, þat is Syon.
 iii And so camen to þe kyng alle þe men of Yrael, in þe solempne day of þe feuenþ moneþ.

ivii And whanne weren commen alle of þe elder of Yrael, þe Leuytes beren þe arke, v and brouȝten it in, and al þe aray of þe tabernacle.
 Bot þe vessels of þe seyntuarye, þat weren in þe tabernacle, þe prestis beeren wiþ þe Leuytis.
 vi Kyng Salomon forsoþe, and al þe companye of Israel, and alle þat weren gadered beforne þe arke, offreden weþers and oxen wiþ oute eny noumbre; so myche forsoþe was þe multitude of slayn offryngus.
 vii And þe prestis brouȝten in þe arke of þe pese couenaunt of þe Lord in to his place, þat is, to Goddis answeryng place of þe temple, in to þe holies of halowes, vndre þe weengis of cherubyn; viii so þat cherubyn spreden out þeir weengis vpon þe place, in þe whiche þe ark was sett, and þat arke þei schulden coueren wiþ þeir beryng staues.
 ix Of þe beryng staues forsoþe, wiþ þe whiche þe ark was born, for a litil wiȝt lengere þei weren, þe heuedis weren opene beforne Goddis answeryng place; ȝif forsoþe eny a litil wiȝt were wiþ out forþ, hem he myȝte not seen. And so þe arke was þere vnto þe present day;
 x and noon ober þing was in þe ark, bot þe two tablis þat Moyses hadde putte in Oreb, whanne he ȝauȝ þe lawe to þe sonis of Yrael goyng out fro Egypt.
 xi Forsoþe þe prestis goon out fro þe seyntuarye, alle forsoþe prestis, þat þere myȝt ben founden, ben halowed, ne ȝit in þat tyme þe whijlis, and þe order of seruyfes betwene hem seluen was deuydid; xii boþe Leuytis and fyngers, þat is, and þat vndur Asaph weren, and þat vndur Eman, and þat vndir Idythum, sonis and breþeren of hem, cloped wiþ surples, in cymbalis and fawtres and harpis fungyn, stondynge at þe eest coost of þe auter, and wiþ hem prestis an hundriȝ and twenty, fyngynge wiþ trumbris. xiii þanne alle to gyder, in trumbris, and voice, and cymbalis, and orgnys, and of dyuerse kynde of musikis, fownyng to gydre, and þe voice berynge vp an heeiȝ, afer þe sown was hard, so þat whanne þe Lord þei hadden begunnen to preysen, and seyn, Knowlechþ to þe Lord, for 'he is good, for in to þe world þe mercy of hym; þe hous of God was fulfillid wiþ a clowde, xiv and þe prestis myȝten not stonden and mynystren for þe derknessis; forsoþe þe glorie of þe Lord hadde fulfilld þe hous of God.

Capitulum VI.

i Thanne Salomon seiþ, Þe Lord behiȝte, þat he schulde dwellen in þe dirkenesse;
 ii I forsoþe haue bilde up an hous to þe name of hym, þat he schulde dwellen þere in to wiþ oute eende.
 iii And þe kyng turnede his face, and bleſſide to al þe multitude of Israel; for why al þe puple stood, inwardly takynge heede;

ivii and he seiþ, Blessed þe Lord God of Yrael, for þat he spake to Dauid, my fadir, in deede he haþ fulfillide, seyinge, v Fro þe day þat I ladde my puple fro þe lond of Egipt, I chees not a cytee of alle þe lynagis of Yrael, þat þere schulde be bilde up in it an hous to my name, ne eny opere man I chees, þat he were duyke vpon my puple Yrael;
vi bot I chees Jerusalem, þat my name be in it, and I chees Dauid, þat I ordeyn hym vpon my puple Yrael.
vii And whanne it was of þe wille of Dauid, my fadir, þat he bilde an hous to þe name of þe Lord God of Yrael, viii þe Lord seid to hym, For þis was þi wille, þat þou schuldist bylden an hous to my name, forsoþe þou didyst wele, hauyng such a maner wille, ix bot þou schalt not bylden vp an hous to me; neuerþelater þe sone, þat gooþ out of þi reynes, he schal bylden up an hous to my name.
x Panne þe Lord fulfillide his word, þat he hadde spoken; and I roos for Dauid, my fadir, and sat vpon þe trone of Ysrael, as þe Lord spac, and bilde up an hous to þe name of þe Lord God of Yrael; xi and putte in it þe arke, in þe whiche is þe couenaunt of þe Lord, þat he couenauntide wiþ þe sonis of Yrael.
xii Panne he stode before þe auter of þe Lord forn aȝeynst of al þe multitude of Yrael, and straȝt out his hondis.
xiii Forsoþe Salomon hadde maad þe brasyn stondynge, and hadde putte it in þe mydil of þe grete hous, hauyng fyue cubitis of lengþe, and fyue of brede, and þre cubitis of heiȝt, and he stode vpon it; and þeraftir þe knees bowed aȝeinus al þe multitude of Yrael, and þe hondis in to heuen rered, xivii seiþ, Lord God of Yrael, þer is not lijc þee, God in heuen and in erþ, 'þe whiche kepist couenaunt and mercy wiþ þi seruauntis, þat goon before þee in al þeir herte;
xv þe whiche haſt ȝeuen to Dauid þi seruaunt, my fadir, whateuer þingis þou haſt doppeth spoken to hym, and þat wiþ mouþe þou byheetis, in deed þou haſt fulfulde, as and þe prefent tyme preueþ.
xvi Now þanne, Lord God of Yrael, fulfille to þi seruaunt my fadir Dauid, whateuer þingis þou haſt spoken, seyinge, Þer schal not faylen of þee a man beforne me, þat fytt vpon þe trone of Yrael; so neuer þe later ȝif þi sonis kepen my weies, and goon in my lawe, as and þou wentist before me.
xvii And nowe, Lord God of Yrael, be fastned þi word, þat þou speke to þi seruaunt Dauid.
xviii Panne wheþir leeuable it be, þat þe Lord dwelle wiþ men vpon erþ? ȝif heuen and heuens of heuens þee taken not, how myche more þis hous, þat I haue bylde?
xix Bot to þis oonly it is maad, þat þou beholde þe orisoun of þi seruaunt, and his bisechynge, Lord my

God, and þou here þe preyers, þat þi seruaunt heldip out before þee; xx þat þou opene þi eeȝen vpon þis hows dais and nyȝtis, vpon þe place in þe whiche þou haſt behoten, þat þy name schulde be inwardly clepid, xxi and þou schuldist heeren þe orisoun, þat þi seruaunt preieþ in it. Heere þou þe preyers of þi seruaunt, and of þi puple Yrael; who so euer preye in þis place, here fro þi dwellynge place, þat is fro heuens, and be þou maad plesed.
xxii ȝif eny man synne in to his neiȝbour, and redi comme to sweren aȝeinus hym, and by curse bynde hym before þe auter in þis hous, xxiii þou schalt heeren fro heuen, and þou schalt do dome of þi seruauntis; so þat þou ȝelde to þe wickide his weie in to his owne heued, and venge þe riȝtwijs, and ȝeldynge to hym aftir his riȝtwisnesse.
xxiv ȝif þi puple Yrael were ouercomen of enmyes, forsoþe þei schul synnen to þee, and turned done penaunce, and besechen þi name, and preyen in þis place, xxv þou schalt heeren fro heuen, and haue þou mercy to þe synne of þi puple Yrael, and bryng hem aȝein in to þe lond, þat þou ȝeue to hem, and to þeir fadirs.
xxvi ȝif, heuen closed, reyn flowe not for synne of þi puple, and þei preyen þee in þis place, and knowlechen to þi name, and turned fro þeir synnes, whanne hem þou tormentis, xxvii here, Lord, fro heuen, and forȝeue þe synnes to þi seruauntis, and to þi puple Yrael, and teche hem a good wei, by þe whiche þei goon in, and ȝeue reyn to þe erþ, þat þou haſt ȝeuen to þi puple to weelden.
xxviii ȝif hunger were sprungyn in þe lond, and pestilence, and rust, and weder rootyng tilþ, and locust, and werm, and enmyes, þe regyouns wasted, besiegen þe ȝatis of þe cytee, and alle veniaunce and infirmyte þrist doun; xxix ȝif any of þi puple Israel preye, knowynge þe veniaunce, and his infirmyte, stretche out his hondis in þis hous, xxx þou schalt heeren fro heuen, þat is, fro þin heeȝ dwellynge place, and be þou plesed, and ȝeeld to eche man aftir his weies, þe whiche þou haſt knownen hym to han in his hert; þou forsoþe aloone haſt knownen þe hertis of þe sonis of men;
xxxi þat þei dreden þee, and goon in þi weies alle days, 'þe whiche þei lyuen vpon þe face of þe erþ, þat þou haſt ȝeuen to oure fadirs.
xxxii A straunger also þat is not of þy puple Yrael, ȝif he come fro a ferre lond for þi grete name, and for þi strong hond, and for þi straȝt out arme, and honour in þis place, xxxiii þou schalt heeren fro heuen, þi most fast place; and þou schalt don alle þingis, for þe whiche þat pilgryme inwardly clepiþ þee, þat alle puplis of erþ knownen þi name, and dreden þee, as þi puple Yrael;

and knownen þei, for þi name is inwardly clepide vpon þis hous, þat I haue bilde to þi name.

xxxiv ȝif þi puple weren goon out to bataile aȝeinus þer aduersaries, by þe weye in to þe whiche þou sentist hem, þei schuln honouren þee aȝeinus þe weye in þe whiche is þe cytee þat þou haft chosen, and þe hous þat I haue bylde to þi name, xxxv þat þou here fro heuen þe preyers of hem and þe befechynge, and þou do veniaunce.

xxxvi ȝif forsoþe þei synnen to þee, and forsoþe þer is no man þat synneþ not, and þou were wroþ to hem, and takist hem to þe enmyes; and caytijf þei leeden hem in to a ferre lond, or certis þat is niȝ;

xxxvii and turned in al þeir herte in þe lond, to þe whiche þei weren ladde caytijf, done penaunce, and preyen þee in þe lond of þeir caytijfste, seyinge, We han synned, wickidly we han wrouȝt, vnriȝtwisely we han done;

xxxviii and weren torned to þee in al þeir herte, and in al þeir soule, in þe lond of þeir caytijfste, to þe whiche þei ben lad, þei schuln honouren þee aȝeinus þe weie of þeir lond, þat þou haft ȝeuen to þeir fadirs, and of þe cytee þat þou haft chosen, and of þe hous þat I haue bilde to þi name;

xxxix þat þou heere fro heuen, þat is, fro þi fast dwellynge place, þe preyers of hem, and do dome, and forȝyue to þi puple, þof synful;

xli þou ert forsoþe my God; I biseche, þin eeȝen ben opened, and þin eeris ben takyng heed to þe orisoun þat is don in þis place.

xlii Nowe þanne, Lord God, arijs in to þi rest, þou and þe ark of þi strengþ; þi prestis, Lord God, ben cloþed helþ, and þin halowes glaaden þei in goodes.

xliii Lord God, ne turne þou awey þe face of þi crift; haue mynde of þe mercyes of Dauid þi seruaunt.

Capitulum VII.

i And whanne Salomon hadde fulfilde heeldynge out preyers, fijr came doun fro heuen, and deuoured þe brent sacrifices, and þe flayn offrynges; and þe mageste of þe Lord fulfilde þe hous.

ii And þe prestis myȝten not goon in to þe temple of þe Lord; forþi þat þe mageste of þe Lord hadde fulfilde þe temple of þe Lord.

iii Bot and alle þe sonis of Ysrael sawen fijr goyng doun, and þe glorie of þe Lord vpon þe hous, and fallynge doun bowed in to þe erþ vpon þe pament paued wiþ stoon, honourden, and preyseden þe Lord, For 'he is good, for in to þe world þe mercy of hym. iiiii þe kyng forsoþe, and al þe puple offreden flayn offryngis beforne þe Lord.

v Kyng Salomon þanne flowȝ hooftis of oxen two and twenty þousand, of weþers an hundredþ and twenty þousand; and þe kyng bilde up þe hous of God, and al þe puple.

vi þe prestis forsoþe stooden in þeir offices, and þe Leuytes in orgnys of dytees of þe Lord, þe whiche kyng Dauid maad to preysen þe Lord, For in to world þe mercy of hym, syngynge þe ympnes of Dauid bi þeir hondis; bot þe prestis fungyn in trumpis beforne hem, and al þe puple of Yrael stood.

vii And Salomon halowed þe myddil of þe porche beforne þe temple of þe Lord; forsoþe he hadde offrede þere brent sacrifices, and talwes of peyfible þingis, for þe brasen auter þat he hadde maad myȝte not sussteynen þe brent sacrifices, and sacrifices, and talwes of peyfible þingus.

viii ȝanne Salomon made solempnyte in þat tyme feuen days, and al Yrael wiþ hym, a ful grete chirche, fro þe entre of Emath vnto þe streme of Egyp.

ix And þe eyȝþe day he maad a collect, for þi þat he halowed þe auter feuen dais, and hadde halowede þe solempnyte feuen days.

x ȝanne in þe þre and twentiþ day of þe feuenþ moneþ he laſt þe puplis to þeir tabernaclis, ioyinge and gladynge vpon þe good þat God hadde don to Dauid, and to Salomon, and to his puple Israelf.

xi And Salomon ful eendid þe hous of þe Lord, and þe hous of þe kyng, and alle þingus þat he hadde disposed in his hert, þat he do in þe hous of þe Lord and in his owne hous; and he is maad welsum.

xii Forsoþe þe Lord aperde to hym þe nyȝt, and seiþ, I haue herde þi preier, and chosen þis place to me in to an hous of sacrifice.

xiii ȝif I schal closen heuen, and reyn flowe not, and schul fenden, and comaunden to þe locult, þat he deuoure þe lond, and schul fende pestilence in to my puple;

xiv forsoþe my puple turned, vpon whom inwardly clepid is my name, me han preyed, and souȝt my face, and done penaunce fro þeir werſt weyes, I schal heere fro heuen, and ben merciable to þe synnes of hem, and helyn þeir lond.

xv Also myn eeȝen schul ben opened, and my eeris rerid up to þe horisoun of hym, þat in þis place schal preie;

xvi forloþe I haue chosen, and halowed þis place, þat my name be þere in to euermore, and my eeȝen and myn herte abiden stille þere alle days.

xvii þou also, ȝif þou go before me, as ȝeede Dauid þi fadir, and doſt aftir alle þingus þat I haue comaundide to þee, and my riȝtwisnesse and domes kepist, xviii I schal areren þe trone of þi rewme, as I behiȝte to Dauid þi fadir, seyinge, þere schal not ben don awei fro þi lynage a man, þat be prince in Yrael.

xix ȝif forsoþe ȝe weren turned aweiward, and forsaken myn riȝtwisnesses and myn heftis þat I haue purposed to ȝou, and goyng awey ȝe seruen to alyen goddis, and honouren hem, xx I schal pullen ȝou vp fro my lond, þat I haue ȝeuen to ȝou, and þis hous þat I haue bilde to my name I ſchal þrowen awey fro my face, and taken it in to a parable, and in to exſaumple to alle puplis.

 xxi And bis hous ſchal ben in to a prouerbe to alle weye goeris; and þei ſchuln feyn, wondrynge, Why þus dide þe Lord to þis lond, and to þis hous?
 xxii And þei ſchuln anſweryn, For þei forſoken þe Lord God of þeir faders, 'þe whiche lad hem out fro þe lond of Egipt, and han taken alyen goddis, and honoureden hem, and heryeden; perfor camen vpon þem alle þes euels.

Capitulum VIII.

i Fulſild forſoþe twenty zeer, aftir þe whiche Salomon hadde bilde up þe hous of þe Lord, and his own hous, ii and þe citees, 'þe whiche Yram ȝaue to Salomon, he bylde up, and made þe fonyſ of Yrael to dwellen þere.
 iii Also he wente in to Emath Sobba, and weeldide it.
 iv And he bilde up Palmyram in deſert, and opere citees moft ſtrengþid he bilde up in Emath.
 v And he maad up þe ouuer Betheron and þe neþer Betheron, citees moft ſtrengþed, hauyng ȝatis and lockis and barres;
 vi Balaath also, and al þe moft fast cytees þat weren of Salomon, and alle þe cytees of plowes, and þe cytees of horfmen; alle whateuer þingus he wolde, maad kyng Salomon, and diſpoſeđe he bilde in Jeruſalem, and in Lyban, and in alle þe lond of his power.
 vii Al þe puple þat was laſt of Etheis, and Amorreis, and Phereſeis, and Eueis, and Jebufeis, þat weren not of þe ſtoc of Yrael, viii and of þeir ſonis, and of þer after comers, 'þe whiche þe ſoniſ of Yrael hadde not flayn, Salomon vndirȝokede into tributarijs vnto þis day.
 ix Bot of þe ſoniſ of Yrael he vndirputte not, þat þei ſchulden ſeruen to þe werkis of þe kyng; þei forſoþe weren men fiȝters, and þe firſt leders, and princis of plowes, x and of þe horſe men of hym; alle forſoþe princes of þe hoſt of kyng Salomon weren two hundriþ and fyfty, þat tauȝten þe puple.
 xi Pe douȝter forſoþe of Pharao he translatiде fro þe cite of Dauid in to þe hous, þat he hadde bilde to hyre; forſoþe þe kyng feide, My wiſ ſchal not dwelle in þe hous of Dauid, kyng of Yrael, forþi þat it is halowed, for þe ark of þe Lord wente in to it.
 xii Pan Salomon offride brent ſacrifices to þe Lord vpon þe auter of þe Lord, þat he hadde maad up beforne ȝate hous, xiii þat by eche days wer offrid in it, aftir þe heeſt of Moiſes, in ſabotis, and in kalendis, and in feſte dais, þries bi þe ȝer, þat is, in þe ſolempnyte of þerfe looues, and in þe ſolempnyte of wijkis, and in þe ſolempnyte of tabernaclis.
 xiv And he ſette aftir þe diſpoſicioñ of Dauid, his fadir, officis of preſtis in þeir ſeruſes, and Leuytis in þeir ordre, þat þei preiſen and mynyſtren beforne þe preſtis aftir þe rijt of eche day, and þe porters in þeir dyuiſions by ȝate and ȝate. Ȣus forſoþe Dauid, þe man of God, hadde comaundide;

xv ne þei wenten beſide fro þe maundementis of þe kyng, boþe preſtis and Leuytis, of alle þingus þat he hadde comaundide.

xvi And in þe wardis of þe tresoures alle þe expenſis maad redy hadde Salomon, fro þat day þat he foundide þe hous of þe Lord vnto þat day þat he perfourmede it.

xvii Panne wente Salomon in to Afyongober, and in to Hailath, to þe mouȝ of þe rede ſe, þat is in þe lond of Edom.

xviii Panne Yram ſente to hym, by þe hondis of his ſeruauntis, ſchippis, and wijs ſchipmen of þe ſee, and þei wenten wiþ þe ſeruauntis of Salomon in to Oofer, and þei token þennis foure hundriþ and fyfty talents of gold, and brouȝten to kyng Salomon.

Capitulum IX.

i And þe quen of Saba, whanne ſche hadde herde þe loos of Salomon, ſche cam, þat ſche tempte hym in dotous queſtioñs in Jeruſalem, wiþ grete rycheſſis, and camels þat beren ſwote ſpices, and myche of gold, and precious gemmes. And whanne ſche was commen to Salomon, ſche ſpak to hym whateuer þingis weren in hyre herte.

ii And Salomon expownede to hyre alle þingus þat ſche purpoſeđe, ne eny þing was, þat cleer he maad not to hyre.

iii Pe whiche aftir þat ſche ſawȝ, þe wiſdam, þat is, of Salomon, and þe hous þat he hadde made, iv also and þe meetis of his boord, and þe dwellyng place of his ſeruauntis, and þe office of his mynyſtris, and þe cloþis of hem, alſo þe botelers, and þeir cloþis, and þe flayn ſacrifices þat he offride in þe hous of þe Lord, þer was no more in hyre ſpyrite for ſtoneyng.

v And ſche feide to þe kyng, Soþe is þe fermoun, þat I haue herde in my lond, of vertues and of þi wiſdam;

vi and I trowed not to þe tellers, to þe tyme þat I my ſilf were comen, and myn eeȝen hadden ſeen, and I hadde preued vnneȝ þe half of þi wiſdam to han ben told to me; þou haſt ouerpaffed þe los in þi vertues.

vii Bleſſed þi men, and bleſſed þi ſeruauntis, and þei þat ſtonden neeȝ beforne þee in al tyme, and heeren þi wiſdam.

viii Pe Lord þi God be bleſſid, 'þe whiche wolde ordeynen þee vpon his trone kyng of þe puple of þe Lord þi God; forſoþe for God loueȝ Yrael, and wille ſauyn it in to wiþ ouuten eend, þerfor he putte þee kyng vpon it, þat þou do domes and riȝtwiſneſſe.

ix Forſoþe ſche ȝaue to þe kyng an hundriþ and twenty talents of gold, and many ſwote ſpices ful myche, and most precyous gemmes; and þer weren not siche swote spices, as þes þat qween Saba ȝau to kyng Salomon.

x Bot and þe feruauntis of Yram wiþ þe feruauntis of Salamon brouȝten gold fro Oofer, and tyne trees, and gemmes most precious;
xi of þe whiche þe kyng made, þat is, of tyne trees, grees in þe hous of þe Lord, and in þe hous of þe kyng, also harpis, and sawtrees to syngers; neuer ben seen in þe lond of Juda siche trees.
xii Kyng forsoþe Salomon ȝau to þe qween of Saba alle þingus þat sche wolde, and þat sche asked, many mo þan sche brouȝte to hym. Þe whiche turnede aȝein wente into hyre lond wiþ hyre feruauntis.
xiii Forsoþe þe weiȝt of gold, þat was offerd to Salomon by ech ȝeer, was fixe hundriþ and fixe and sixty talentis of gold,
xiv outaken þat soum þat legatis of dyuerse gentylis, and merchauntis weren wont to `bryngen to, and alle þe kyngis of Arabie, and satrapis of londis, þat brouȝten gold and syluer to Salomon.
xv Panne kyng Salomon maad two hundriþ golden speris of þe soum of fixe hundriþ golde platis, þe whiche in alle þe speris weren spred abrod; xvi also þre hundriþ golden scheldis of þre hundriþ gold platis, wiþ þe whiche alle þe scheldis weren couerd; and þe kyng putte hem in þe armerie place, þat was sett in þe wode.
xvii Also kyng Salomon made a grete yuere sete, and cloþed it wiþ most clene gold; xviii and fixe grees, in þe whiche men steyȝede up to þe fete, and a golden stole, and two lyt迤 armys, eiper aȝeinus oþer, and two lyouns stondynge besydes þe litil aarmes,
xix bot and oþer twelue litil lyouns stondynge vpon þe fixe grees on eiper party. Þere was not siche a kyngis see in alle rewmes.
xx And alle þe vessels of þe kyngis feste weren golden, and þe vessels of þe hous of saltus Liban of most pure gold; syluer forsoþe in þo days for nouȝt was countid.
xxi Forsoþe and þe schippis of þe kyng wenten in Tharfs wiþ þe feruauntis of Yram oones in þre ȝeare, and þei brouȝten þennus gold, and syluer, and yuer, and apis, and poos.
xxii Panne Salomon is magnified vpon alle þe kyngis of erþ for rychesse and glorie.
xxiii And alle þe kyngis of londis desyreden to seen þe face of Salomon, þat þei heeren þe wijsdam þat God hadde ȝeu in þe herte of hym; xxiv and þei brouȝten to hym ȝiftes, sylueren vessels and golden, cloþes and armes, and splices, hors and mulis, by alle ȝeiris.
xxv And Salomon hadde fourty þousand of hors in his ftallis, and of charis and of horfmen twelve þousand; and he sette hem in þe cytees of fourre horsid carris, and where þe kyng was in Jerufalem.

xxvi Forsoþe he enhauntide power vpon alle þe kyngis, fro þe flode of Eufrate vnto þe lond of Philistis, and vnto þe termes of Egipt.
xxvii And so myche plente of syluer he ȝau in Jerusalem, as of stoones, and of cedres so myche multitude, as of wijlde mulbery trees þat ben sprungyn in wijld feeldis.
xxviii Forsoþe þer weren brouȝt hors fro Egipt, and of alle regyounis.
xxix Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe raþer werkis of Salomon and of þe last ben wrijten in þe wordis of Nathan, þe prophete, and in þe wordis of Achie Sylonyte, and in þe visioun of Addo, fear, aȝeins Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath.
xxx Salomon forsoþe regnede in Jerufalem vpon al Yrael fourtey ȝere, xxxi and he slepte wiþ his fadirs; and þei birieden hym in þe cytee of Dauid, and Roboam, his sone, regned for hym.

Capitulum X.

i Roboam forsoþe wente in to Sychem; þidre forsoþe al Yrael was comen to gydre þat þei settent hym kyng.
ii Þe whiche þing whan Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, þat was in Egypt, hadde herd; forsoþe he hadde flowen þidre beforne Salomon; anoon he is turned aȝeyn.
iii And þei clepiden hym, and he came wiþ al Ysrael, and þei speeken to Roboam, seiyng, iv Bi fadir wiþ most harde ȝok oppressed us; þou comaunde liȝter þan bi fadir, `þe whiche putte to us a grete seruage; and a litil wiȝt of þe charge put off, þat we seruen to þee.
v Þe whiche seiþ, Aftir þre days turneþ aȝein to me.
And whan þe puple was gone aweie, vi he wente in counseil wiþ þe olde men, þat stoden beforn his fadir Salomon, while ȝit he lyued, seyinge, What ȝeue ȝe of counseil, þat I answere to þe puple?
vii Þe whiche seyden to hym, ȝif þou plese to bis puple, and soften hem wiþ mercysable wordis, þei schulen seruen to þee al tyme.
viii And he laft þe counceil of olde men, and wiþ ȝonge men beganne to treten, þat wiþ hym were nurischid, and weren in þe felawship of hym.
ix And he feide to hem, What to ȝou semeþ? or what schal I answeren to bis puple, þat feide to me, Heue of þe ȝok, þat bi fader putte vnto us?
x And þei answerden, as ȝonge men and nurischid wiþ hym in delices, and seiden, ȝus þou schalt answeren to þe puple þat feide to þee, Bi fadir aggregide oure ȝok, þou putte off; ȝus þou schalt answeren to hem, My leſt fynger is gretter þan þe reynes of my fadir; xi my fadir putte to ȝou a grete ȝok, and I schal putten to a more weiȝte; my fader beet ȝou wiþ scourgis, I forsoþe schal beten ȝou wiþ scorpions.

xii Panne Jeroboam came and al þe puple þe þidde day to Roboam, as he hadde comaundide to hem.
 xiii And þe kyng answerde hard þingus, þe counsel laft of þe eldre, xiv spokyn aftir þe will of ȝong men; My fadir putte an heuy ȝok to ȝou, and I schal maken heuyar; my fadir beet ȝou wiþ scourgis, I forsoþe schal beeten ȝou wiþ scorpions.
 xv And he affentide not to be preyers of þe puple; forsoþe þe wille of God was, þat his word schuld ben fulfilled, þat he hadde spoken by þe hond of Achie Sylonyte to Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath.
 xvi Al þe puple forsoþe, þe kyng seyinge harder þingus, þus spak to hym, Þere is not to us part in Dauid, ne heritage in þe sone of Ysay; turne aȝein in to þi tabernaclis, Yrael, þou forsoþe feed þin hous, Dauiþ. And Yrael wente in to þeir tabernaclis.
 xvii Vpon forsoþe þe sonis of Yrael, þat dwelleden in þe cytees of Juda, regnede Roboam.
 xviii And kyng Roboam fente Aduram, þat stode vpon þe tributis; and þe sones of Yrael stooneden hym, and he is deed. Bot kyng Roboam heeȝede to steyzen up þe chaar, and fleiȝ in to Jerusalem.
 xix And Yrael wente awhey fro þe hous of Dauid vnto bis day. It is done forsoþe, whanne al Yrael hadde herd, þat Jeroboam was turned aȝein, þei senten, and clepeden hym, þe companye gederd, and settent kyng vpon al Yrael; ne any man folowed þe hous of Dauid, faue þe lynage of Juda and Beniamyn allon.

Capitulum XI.

i Roboam forsoþe came into Jerusalem, and clepide al þe hous of Juda and of Beniamyn, vnto an hundriþ and eiȝty þousand of chosen fiȝtyng men, þat he fiȝte aȝeynus Yrael, and turne to hym his rewme.
 ii And þe word of þe Lord is maad to Semyam, þe man of God, seyinge, iii Speke to Roboam, þe sone of Salomon, kyng of Juda, and to al Yrael, þat is in Juda and Beniamyn;
 iii þes þingis seiþ þe Lord, ȝe schul not steyzen up, ne fiȝten aȝeyn ȝoure breþeren; turne aȝein ech oon in to his hous, for bis is doon by my wille. Þe whiche whan hadden herd þe word of þe Lord, ben torned aȝein, ne þei wenten aȝeinus kyng Jeroboam.
 v Roboam forsoþe dwellide in Jerusalem, and he bilde up wallid cytees in Juda; vi and he maad out Bethleem, and Ethan, and Thecue, vii and Bethfur; also and Sochot, and Odollam; viii also and Jeth, and Mareza, and Ciph; ix but and Huram, and Lachis, and Arecha; x Saraa also, and Haylon, and Ebron, þat weren in Juda and Beniamyn, cytees most strengþed.
 xi And whanne he hadde closed hem wiþ wallis, he putte in hem princes of metis, and bernes, þat is, of oyly and of wijne.

xii Bot and to alle þe cytees he maad armour places of scheeldis, and of speris, and he fastned hem wiþ most diligence, and comaundide vpon Judam, and vpon Benjamin.

xiii Pe prestis forsoþe and Leuytis, þat weren in al Ysrael, camen to hym fro al þeir seetis, xiv forsakyng suburbis and þeir possessiouns, and goyng ouer to Juda and to Jerusalem; forþi þat Jeroboam hadde cast hem awhey, and his aftir comers, þat þei vſen not þe presthood of þe Lord;
 xv þe whiche ordeynede to hym silf prestis of heeȝe þingis, and of deuyls, and of calues, 'þe whiche he hadde made.

xvi Bot and of al þe lynagis of Yrael, whiche euer hadde ȝeuen þeir herte þat þei fechen þe Lord God of Yrael, came to Jerusalem to offrym þeir slayn sacrificis before þe Lord God of þeir faders.

xvii And þei strengþeden þe kyngdam of Juda, and to giber strengþeden Roboam, þe sone of Salomon bi þre ȝeer; forsoþe þei wenten in þe weies of Dauid, and of Salomon, al oonly þre ȝeer.

xviii Forsoþe Roboam weddide a wif Malaoth, þe douȝter of Jerymuth, sone of Dauid, and Abail, þe douȝter of Heliab, sone of Yfaye; xix þe whiche bare to hym sonis, Jeus, and Somoriam, and Jereum.

xx And aftir bis he toke Maacham, þe douȝtir of Absalon, þat bare to hym Abia, and Thai, and Sifa, and Salomyth.

xxi Forsoþe Roboam louede Maacham, þe douȝter of Absalon, ouer alle his wijues and secundaries. Forsoþe eiȝtene wijues he weddide, secundarie wijues forsoþe sixty; and he gate eiȝte and twenty sonis, and sixty douȝters.

xxii Forsoþe he fette in þe heued Abiam, þe sone of Maacha, duke ouer alle his breþeren; he þouȝte forsoþe to makyn hym kyng, xxiii for wijfer and myȝtyer ouer alle his sonis, and in alle þe cooftis of Juda and of Beniamyn, and in alle þe walled cytees; and he ȝauȝe to hem many metis, and he hadde many wijues.

Capitulum XII.

i And whanne þe rewme of Roboam was strengþed and confermed, he forsoke þe lawe of þe Lord, and al Yrael wiþ hym.
 ii Pe fyfþe ȝeer forsoþe of þe regne of Roboam steyȝede up Sesach, þe kyng of Egypt, in to Jerusalem, for þei hadden synned to þe Lord;
 iii wiþ a þousand and two hundriþ chaaris, and sixty þousand horsmen, and þer was no noumbre of þe comoun, þat came wiþ hym fro Egyp, Libies, þat is, and Erogodite, and Ethiopes.
 ivii And he tok þe most strengþed cytees in Juda, and came vnto Jerusalem.

v Semeias forsoþe, þe prophete, wente in to Roboam, and þe princes of Juda, þat weren gadered in to Jerusalem, fleeȝyng Sefach. And he feide to hem, þes binges seiþ þe Lord, ȝe han forsaken me, and I haue forsaken ȝou in þe hond of Sefach.
vi And þe princis of Yrael and þe kyng aferd seyden, Rijȝtwijs is þe Lord.
vii And whanne þe Lord hadde seen þat þei weren meked, þe word of þe Lord is doon to Semeiam, seyinge, For þei ben meekid, I schal not leesen hem, and I schal ȝeuen to hem a lytlyng of help, and my woodnesse schal not droppen upon Jerusalem by þe hond of Sefach.
viii Neuer þe later þei schul serue to hym, þat þei knownen þe distaunce of my seruyce and of þe seruyse of þe rewme of londis.
ix And so Sefach, kyng of Egipt, wente awei fro Jerusalem, þe tresoures taken awei of þe hous of þe Lord, and of þe hous of þe kyng; and alle þingis he toke wiþ hym, and þe golden tergetis 'þe whiche Salomon hadde maad, x for þe whiche þe kyng made brasen, and toke hem to þe princis of þe tergeteris, 'þe whiche kepten þe vestiarie of þe paleis.
xi And whanne þe kyng schulde goone in to þe house of þe Lord, þe tergeters camen, and token hem, and eft beeren hem aȝein to his armorie place.
xii Neuer þe later for þei ben meekid, þe wrap of þe Lord is torned awey fro hem, and þei ben not don awei al oute; forsoþe and in Juda ben founden good werkis.
xiii ȝanne Roboam is coumfortid in Jerusalem, and regnede. Forsoþe of oon and fourty ȝeer he was, whanne he beganne to regnen, and eiȝtene ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem, þe citem þat þe Lord chees þat he conferme his name þere, of alle þe lynagis of Yrael. Þe name forsoþe of his moder Naama Amanyte.
xiv And he dide euyl, and he greiþede not his herte for to fechen God.
xv Pe werkis forsoþe of Roboam, þe first and þe last, ben writen in þe bokis of Semei þe prophete, and of Abdo fear, and besily expowned. And Roboam and Jeroboam fouȝten aȝein hem seluen alle days.
xvi And Roboam flepte wiþ his fadirs, and is biried in þe cyte of Dauid; and Abia, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XIII.

i The eiȝtene ȝeer of kyng Jeroboam regnede Abia vpon Judam; ii þre ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; and name of his modir Machaia, þe douȝter of Vriel of Gabaa. And þer was bataile betwene Abiam and Jeroboam.
iii And whanne Abia hadde gon in strijf, and hadde most best fiȝtinge men, and of chosen foure hundriþ þousand, Jeroboam ordeynde aȝeinward scheltrun of eiȝt hundriþ þousand of men, þe whiche and þei weren chosen and to batails most stronge.

iv ȝann Abia stood vpon þe hil of Semeron, þat was in Effram, and seiþ, Heere, Jeroboam and al Yrael; v wheþer ȝe knowe not, þat þe Lord God of Yrael ȝaue þe rewme to Dauid vpon Yrael in to euermore, to hym and to his sonis into couenaunt of salte?
vi And Jeroboam, þe sone of Nabath, þe seruaunt of Salamon, sone of Dauiþ, ros, and rebellide aȝein his lord.
vii And þer ben gaderd to hym most vein men and þe sonis of Belial, and þei hadden þe ouer hond aȝein Roboam, þe sone of Salamon. Bot Roboam was rude, and wiþ ferde herte, and myȝt not aȝeinstonden to hem.
viii Now ȝann ȝe sayn, þat ȝe schul mown wiþstonde to þe rewme of þe Lord, þat he weldiþ by þe sonis of Dauid; and ȝe han a gret multitude of puple, and golden calues, 'þe whiche Jeroboam haþ made to ȝou in to goddis.
ix And ȝe han þrownen awei þe prestis of þe Lord, þe sonys of Aaron, and Leuytis, and han maad to ȝou prestes, as alle þe puplis of londis; whosoeuer commiþ and sacriþ his hond in bool, in oxen and in feuen weþers, anoon he is maad þe preste of hem þat ben not goddis.
x Our forsoþe Lord is God, whom we han not forsaken; and þe prestis mynistriden to þe Lord of þe sonis of Aaron, and Leuytis ben in þeir ordre; xi also brent sacrifices bei offren to þe Lord by ech days, erly and at euen, and þe encense maad aftir þe heftis of þe lawe; and þere ben leid forþ looues in þe most clene borde; and þere is anentis us a golden chaundeler, and þe lantern of it, þat it be tend euermore at euen; we forsoþe kepen þe heftis of oure God, whom ȝe han forsaken.
xii ȝanne duke in oure hooft is God, and þe prestis of hym, þat crien in trumpis and sownen aȝeins ȝou; ȝe sonis of Yrael, williþ not fisten aȝein þe Lord God of oure fadirs, for it spediþ not to ȝou.
xiii þes þingis hym spekyng, Jeroboam bihynde kaste buschementis; and whanne he schulde stonden forn aȝein of þe hooftis, he enuyrounde wiþ his hooft Judam vnknowynge.
xiv And Juda biholdynge sawȝ to stonden in bataile forn aȝeinst, and bihynde þe bac; and he criede to þe Lord, and þe prestis wiþ trumpis begunnen to syngen.
xv And alle þe men of Juda crieren out, and loo! hem criyng out, God ferid Jeroboam and al Yfael, þat stood forn aȝeynst Juda and Abia.
xvi And þe men of Yrael flowen Judam, and þe Lord tok hem in to þe hondis of hem.
xvii ȝan smote hem Abia and his puple in a grete veniaunce, and þer fallen of hem woundid fyue hundriþ þousand of stronge men.

xviii And þe sonis of Yrael ben mekid in þat tyme, and þe sonis of Juda most hugely comfourtid, forþi þat þei hadden hopide in þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.
 xix Forsoþe Abia purfued Jeroboam fleeȝinge, and toke citees of him, Bethel and þe douȝtirs of it, and Jesana wiþ his douȝtirs, Efron also and þe douȝtirs of it; xx and miȝt no more wiþtonde Jeroboam in þe days of Abia, whome þe Lord smote, and is deed.
 xxi Þan Abia, comfortid his empyre, toke fourtene wijues and gat two and twenty sonis, and sixtene douȝters.
 xxii And þe remnaunt of þe wordis of Abia and of þe weies and of his werkis, ben writen most bifly in þe boke of Abdo, prophete.

Capitulum XIII.

i Forsoþe Abia flepte wiþ his fadirs, and þei birieden hym in þe cytee of Dauȝþ; and Aza, his sone, regnede for hym. In whos days restide þe londe tenn ȝeare.
 ii And Aza dide þat good and plesaunt was in þe siȝte of his God,
 iii and he turned vpsadoun þe auters of straunge herynge, and þe heeȝ þingis, and tobrac þe ymagis, and þe mawmet woodis hewȝ doun;
 iv and he comaundide to Jude, þat he schulde sechen þe Lord God of þeir fadirs, and done þe lawe, and alle þe maundementis.
 v And he toke awei fro alle þe cytees of Juda auters and mawmet templis, and regned in pese.
 vi Also he bylde up strengþed cytees in Juda; for quyete he was, and noon in his tyme batails risen, þe Lord grauntyng pese.
 vii Forsoþe he feide to Jude, Bilde we up þes cytees, and enuyrown we wiþ wallis, and strengþe we wiþ touris and ȝatis and lockis, þe whilis fro batails alle þingis ben quyete; forþi þat we han souȝt þe Lord God of oure fadirs, and he haþ ȝeuȝ to us pese by enuyrown. Panne þei beelden up, and no lettyng was in þe out makynge.
 viii Aza forsoþe hadde in his enuyrown of bereris scheeldis and speris of Juda þre hundriþ þousand, of Beniamyn forsoþe of scheld berers and archers two hundriþ and feuenty þousand; alle þes most stronge men.
 ix Forsoþe aȝeinus hem went out Zara Ethiope wiþ his hoost tenn hundriþ þousand, and wiþ chaaris þre hundriþ, and he came vnto Mazara.
 x Forsoþe Aza wente to mete wiþ hym, and maad a scheltrun to bataile in þe valei of Sophata, þat is beside Mazera.
 xi And he inwardly clepide þe Lord God, and seiþ, Lord, þer is not anentis þee eny distaunce, wheþer in fewe þou helpist, or in many; help us, Lord oure God, in þee forsoþe and in þi name hauyng trust we ben comen aȝeinus þis multitude; Lord, oure God þou ert, haue not þe ouerhand aȝeins þee a man.

 xii And so þe Lord fered Ethiopis beforne Aſa and Juda, and Ethiopis flowen;
 xiii and Aſa purfued hem, and þe peple þat was wiþ hym, vnto Jerare. And Ethiopis fellyn vnto deþ, for þe Lord smijtyng þei ben to-hewen, and wiþ þe hoost of hym fyȝtyng. Panne þei token many spoylis, xiv and smijten alle þe cytees by enuyrown of Jerare; forsoþe a grete fere assaylede alle. And þei to-brosten cytees, and beren aweie mych preye; xv bot and þe foldis of scheep distruyng token of beestis a multitude wiþoute eende, and of camels, and ben torned aȝein in to Jerufalem.

Capitulum XV.

i Azarias forsoþe, þe sone of Obed, ii þe spirite of God maad in hym, wente out in to aȝein comyng of Aza; and seide to hym, Heere ȝe me, Aza and al Juda and Beniamyn; þe Lord wiþ ȝou, for ȝe weren wiþ hym; ȝif ȝe sechen hym, ȝe schul fynden; ȝif forsoþe ȝe forsaken hym, he schal forsaken ȝou.
 iii Forsoþe þer schul passen many days in Yrael wiþ ȝoute verre God, and wiþ ȝoute preft, and wiþ ȝout doctour, and wiþ ȝoute lawe.
 iv And whanne þei weren turned aȝein in þeir anguyſch, and schul crien to þe Lord God of Yrael, and sechen hym, þei schul fynden hym.
 v In þat tyme þer schal not ben pese of goyng out and commyng in, bot feris on al siȝde in alle dwellers of londis.
 vi Forsoþe folc schal fiȝten aȝeinus folc, and cyte aȝeinus cytee, for þe Lord schal distourblen hem in al anguyſch;
 vii ȝe forsoþe takȝ comfort, and ȝoure hondis ben not febled; forsoþe meed schal ben to ȝoure werk.
 viii þe whiche þing whann Aza hadde herd, þat is, þe wordis and þe prophecie of Azarie, sone of Obed, prophete, is comfortid, and toke aweie alle þe mawmetis of al þe lond of Juda and of Beniamyn, and of þe cytees þat he hadd taken of þe hill of Effraym.
 And he halowede an auter of þe Lord, þat was before þe ȝate hous of þe hous of þe Lord.
 ix And he gadride al Juda and Beniamyn, and þe comlyngis wiþ hem of Effraym, and of Manasse, and of Symeon; forsoþe many hadde flowen to hym of Yſrael, feyng þat þe Lord God of hym was wiþ hym.
 x And whanne þei weren commen in to Jerufalem, þe brid moneȝ, þe fiftenȝ ȝeer of þe regne of Aza, xi þei offreden to þe Lord in þat day, and of þe hondis and pray, þat þei hadden brouȝt, oxen feuen hundriþ, and weþers feuen þousand.
 xii And he wente in of maner to strengþen þe pese couenaunt, þat þei schulden seche þe Lord God of þeir fadirs in al herte, and in al þeir soule.

xiii ȝif any forsoþe sechþ not, he seiþ, þe Lord God of Yrael, be he deed, fro þe leste vnto þe most, fro man vnto womman.

xiv And þei sworen to þe Lord wiþ a grete voice, in ioye, and in crie of trumpe, and in soun of clariowns, xv alle þat weren in Jewrye, wiþ execraciou; in alle forsoþe þeir herte þei sworen, and in alle wil þei souȝten hym, and founden; and þe Lord ȝaue to hem reste by enuyroun.

xvi Bot and Maacha, þe modir of kyng Aza, he put doun of hyre anguyfchynge empyre, forþi þat sche had maad a symulacre of a mans ȝeerde in þe mawmet wode; þe whiche al he distroyede, and in to gobetis munyschynge, he brent in to þe stream of Cedron.

xvii Forsoþe þe heeȝe þingis ben laft styllie in Yrael; neuer þe later þe herte of Aza was perfijt alle þe days of hym.

xviii Po þingis þat his fadir hadde avowed and he brouȝt in to þe hous of þe Lord, syluer and gold, and of vefels dyuerle purtenaucis; xix bataile forsoþe was not vnto þe þrittipe ȝeer of þe regne of Aza.

Capitulum XVI.

i The sixe and þrittipe ȝeer forsoþe of his regne Baza, kyng of Yrael, steiȝide up in to Judam, and wiþ a wal he enuyrounde Rama, þat no man sikirly myȝte gon oute or comme in fro þe rewme of Aza.

ii Forsoþe Aza brouȝt forþ gold and syluer fro þe trefories of þe hous of þe Lord, and fro þe kyngis trefories; and sente to Benadab, kyng of Cyrie, þat dwel lid in Damasch, seyinge, iii Couenaunt of pese is betwene me and þee, forsoþe my fadir and þi fader hadden acord; for what bing I haue sente to þee syluer and gold, þat þe pese couenaunt broken, þat þou haft wiþ Baza, kyng of Yrael, þou make hym gon awey fro me.

iv þe whiche þing founden, Benadab sente þe princis of his hooftis to þe cytees of Yrael, þe whiche smyten Achyon, and Dan, and Abelmaym, and alle þe walled cytees of Neptalm.

v þe whiche þing whanne Baaza hadde herd, he cesede to bylden up Rama, and he laft of his werk.

vi Bot kyng Aza toke al Judam, and þei token þe stoones of Rama, and þe trees, þat Baaza had maad redy to bildyng; and he bilde up of hem Gaba, and Maspha.

vii In þat tyme came Ananye, þe prophete, to Aza, kyng of Juda, and feide to hym, For þou haddist trust in þe kyng of Cyrie, and not in þe Lord þi God, þerfore þe hooft of þe kyng of Cyrie is scapid fro þin hond.

viii Wheþer Ethiopes and Libies weren not many mo wiþ carris of foure hors, and þe horfmen, and þe ful grete multitude; þe whiche whanne þou haddist trowed to þe Lord, he toke in to þin hondis?

ix þe eeȝen forsoþe of þe Lord beholden al þe erþ, and ȝeuȝ strengþe to hem, þat in perfijte herte bileeuȝ `in to hym. Folily þanne þou didist, and for þat also in þe present tyme aȝeins þee batailes schul rissen.

x And Aza is wroþ aȝeinus þe fear, and comaundide hym to be putt in þe stockis. Forsoþe myche vpon þat was þe Lord sterid to indignacioun, and he flewȝ of þe puple in þat tyme manye.

xi þe werkis forsoþe of Aza, þe first and þe last, ben writhen in þe boke of þe kyngis of Juda and of Yrael.

xii Forsoþe Aza was seeke þe nyne and þrittipe ȝeer of his regne, most hidously in forowe of feet; and neþer in þe infirmyte he souȝte þe Lord, bot more in þe craft of lechis he trus tide.

xiii And Aza flepte wiþ his fadirs, and is deed þe oon and fouretipe ȝeer of his regne.

xiv And þei birieden hym in his sepulcre, þat he hadde maad to hym in þe cytee of Dauip; and þei putten hym vpon his bed ful of swote spices and strumpetis oynementis, þat weren maad by þe craft of pymtent makers, and þei brenden vpon hym in a ful myche mouynge to lust.

Capitulum XVII.

i Josaphath forsoþe, his sone, regnede for hym; and he wexe stronge aȝeinus Yrael.

ii And he sette noumbris of knyȝtis in alle þe cytees of Juda, þat weren enuyrounde wiþ wallis, and he disposede strengþes in þe lond of Juda, and in þe cytees of Effraym, þat Aza, his fadir, hadde taken.

iii And þe Lord was wiþ Josaphath, þe whiche wente in þe weies of Dauip, his fadir, in þe first; he hoopide not in Baalym, iv bot in þe Lord God of Dauid, his fadir, and he wente in þe heestis of hym, and not aftir þe synnes of Yrael.

v And þe Lord confermede þe rewme in his hond, and al Juda ȝaue ȝiftis to Jofaphath, and wiþ outh noumber rycheffis ben maad to hym, and myche glorie.

vi And whanne his herte hadde taken hardynesse for þe weies of þe Lord, also heeȝe þingis and mawmete wodus he toke awei fro Juda.

vii þe þrid forsoþe ȝeer of his regne he sente of his princis Banayl, and Abdyam, and Zachyam, and Nathanael, and Mychiam, þat þei schulden techen in þe cytees of Juda;

viii and wiþ hem Leuytis, Semeyam, and Nathanyam, and Zabadyam, Azahil also, and Semyramoth, and Jonathan, and Adonyam, and Tobiam, and Abadonyam, Leuytis; and wiþ hem Elizama and Joram, prestis;

ix and þey tauȝten þe puple in Juda, hauynge þe boke of þe lawe of þe Lord; and þei enuyrouneden alle þe cytees of Juda, and tauȝten al þe puple.

x And so þe ferd of þe Lord is maad vpon alle rewmes of londis, þat weren by enuyroun of Juda; and þei weren not hardy to fiȝten aȝein Josaphath.
xi Bot and þe Philistis brouȝten ȝiftis to Josaphath, and tribute of syluer; also Arabes brouȝten beeftis, of weþers feuen þousand and feuen hundriþ, and geet as feele.
xii þan Josaphath wexe, and is magnyfied vnto in heizte, and bilde up in Juda houfes at licnesse of touris, and strengþed cytees; xiii and many werkis made redy in þe cytees of Juda. And men fiȝters and strong weren in Jerusalem; xiv of whome þis is þe noumbe, by houfes and meynes of echone. In Juda prince of þe hoost, duyk Eduas, and wiþ hym most stronge men þre hundriþ þousand.
xv After þis Johannan prynce, and wiþ hym two hundriþ and eiȝtye þousand.
xvi Aftir hym also Amazias, þe fone of Zechri, sacrifid to þe Lord, and wiþ hym two hundriþ þousand of stronge men.
xvii Pis folowede a stronge man to batails, Eliada, and wiþ hym of holdynge bowe and terget two hundriþ þousand.
xviii Aftir hym also Josabath, and wiþ hym an hundriþ and eiȝtye þousand of al redy knyȝtis.
xix Alle þes weren at þe hond of þe kyng, outake opere, þe whiche he hadde sette forþ in wallid citees and in al Juda.

Capitulum XVIII.

i Josaphath þanne was ryche and myche glorious, and in affynite ioyned is to Achab.
ii And he wente doun aftir zeeris to hym in to Samarie; at whos commynge Achab flewȝ weþers and many oxen, and made to hym a feeste, and to þe purple þat was commen wiþ hym; and he mouede to hym þat he schulde steiȝe up in to Ramoth-galaad.
iii And Achab, kyng of Yrael, seid to Josaphath, kyng of Juda, Comme wiþ me in to Ramoth-galaad. To whome he answarde, As I, and þou; as þi puple, so and my puple; and wiþ þee we schul ben in bataile.
iv And Josaphath seide to þe kyng of Yrael, Counseile, I beseeche, now þe word of þe Lord.
v þan þe kyng of Yrael gadrede of prophetis four hundriþ men, and seide to hem, In Ramoth-galaad to fiȝten schul we gon, or cesen? And þei, Steiȝiþ up, þei seyn, and God schal take hem in þe hond of þe kyng.
vi And Josaphath seide, Wheþer is þer not heere a prophete of þe Lord, þat of hym also we asken?
vii And þe kyng of Yrael seiþ to Josaphath, Þer is oon man, of þe which we mown asken þe wille of þe Lord, bot and I hatide hym, for he prophecieþ not to me good, bot euyl al tyme; he is forþoþ Mychias, þe fone of Jemla. And Josaphath seide to hym, Ne speke þou, kyng, þis maner.

viii þanne þe kyng of Yrael clepide oon of his geldyngis, and feide to hym, Clepe anoon Mychyam, þe fone of Jemla.
ix Bot þe kyng of Yrael and Josaphath, kyng of Juda, eiþer feeten in þeir see, cloþed wiþ kyngis honournyng; forþoþ þei feeten in þe corn flore byfidis þe zate of Samarye; and alle þe prophetis propheciȝed beforne hem.
x Sedechias forþoþ, þe fone of Chanane, made to hym yren hornes, and seiþ, þes þingus seiþ þe Lord, Wiþ þes þou schalt wynewen Cyrie, to þe tyme þat þou 'tredre it.
xi And alle þe prophetis propheciȝed liȝc maner, and feiden, Steiȝe up in to Ramoth-galaad, and þou schalt welsumly done; and þe Lord schal take hem in to þe hondis of þe kyng.
xii þe messager forþoþ, þat wente to clepen Mychie, seiþ to hym, Lo! þe wordis of alle þe prophetis wiþ oon mouȝe good þingus tellen to þe kyng; þanne, I beseeche þee, þat þi word fro hem dissente not, and speke þou welsum þingis.
xiii To whome answerd Mychias, þe Lord liuiþ, for what euer þingis my Lord schal seyn, þes I schal speken.
xiv þanne he came to þe kyng. To whom þe king seiþ, Mychie, schul we gon into Ramothgalaad to fiȝten, or resten? To whom he answarde, Steiȝiþ up, alle þingus forþoþ welsum schul fallen, and þe enmyes schul ben taken into ȝoure hondis.
xv And þe kyng seide, Eft and eft I adiure þee, þat þou speke not to me bot þat is soþe in þe name of þe Lord.
xvi And he seiþ, I sawe al Yrael scattered in hyllis, as scheep wiþ outhote scheperde. And þe Lord seid, þes han not lordis; be turned aȝein ech man in to his house in pees.
xvii þe kyng of Yrael seiþ to Josaphath, Wheþer I seide not to þee, þat þis schulde not propheciȝ to me eny þing of good, bot þo þingis þat ben euyl?
xviii And he þerfore seiþ, Heriþ þe word of þe Lord. I sawȝ þe Lord lyttinge in his feete, and al þe hoost of heuen stondynge neeȝ to hym fro þe riȝt and fro þe left.
xix And þe Lord seide, Who schal deceyuen Achab, kyng of Yrael, þat he steiȝe up, and falle in Ramothgalaad? And whanne oon seide in þis maner, and anoþer in anoþer, xx a spirite went forþ, and stood before þe Lord, and seiþ, I schal deceyuen hym. To whome þe Lord, In what þanne, he seiþ, þou schalt deceyuen?
xi And he answarde, I schal goon out, and I schal ben a spirite lier in þe mouȝ of alle þe prophetis of hym. And þe Lord seide, þou schalt deceyuen, and han þe ouer hond; go out, and do so.

xxii Nowe þanne, lo! þe Lord ȝaue a spirite of lesyng in þe mouþe of alle þi prophetis, and þe Lord spac of þee euyl þingis.
 xxiii Forsoþe Sedeclias, þe sone of Chanane, wente to, and smote þe cheek boon of Mychie, and seip, Bi what weie passede ouer þe Spirite of þe Lord fro me, þat he schulde speke to þee?
 xxiv And Mychias seide, þou þi silf schal seen in þat day, whanne þou schalt gon in þe bed fro þe bed, þat þou be hid.
 xxv Forsoþe þe kyng of Yrael comaundide, seyinge, Takip Myche, and ledip hym to Amon, þe prince of þe cyte, and to Joas, þe sone of Amalech; xxvi and ȝe schul seyn, þes þingis seip þe kyng, Puttip þis in to prisone, and ȝeuip to hym a litill of brede, and a lityll of water, to þe tyme þat I be turned aȝeyn in pese.
 xxvii And Mychias seide, ȝif þou schal be torned aȝein in peese, þe Lord haþ not spoken in me. And he seip, Herip, alle puplis.
 xxviii ȝannte steiȝeden up þe kyng of Yrael, and Josaphath, kyng of Juda, in to Ramothgalaad.
 xxix And þe kyng of Yrael seide to Josaphath, I schal chaungen habite, and so I schal gone to fiȝten; þou forsoþe be cloped wiþ þi cloves. And, þe habite chaungid, þe kyng of Yrael came to bataile.
 xxx þe kyng forsoþe of Cyrie hadde comaundid to þe dukis of his chyualrye, seyinge, Fiȝtiþ not aȝeyn þe leſt, or aȝein þe moſte; bot aȝeins aloone þe kyng of Yrael.
 xxxi And so whanne þe princes of þe chyualrye hadden feen Josaphath, þei feiden, Kyng of Yrael is þis; and þei enuyrouneden hym, fiȝtyng. And he cried to þe Lord; and he 'helpide to hym, and he torned hem awei fro hym.
 xxxii And whanne þe duykis of þe chyualrye hadden herd, þat it was not þe kyng of Yrael, þei laſten hym.
 xxxiii It felle forsoþe, þat oon of þe puple in to vncerteyn kaſt an arowe, and smote þe kyng of Yrael between þe hatreel and þe schulders. And he to his chariotere seip, Turne þin hond, and leede out me fro þe scheltrun; for I am woundid.
 xxxiv And þe fiȝt is eendid in þat day. Bot þe kyng of Yrael stode in his chaar aȝeinus Cyries vnto euen, and is deed, þe sone goyng doun.

Capitulum XIX.

i Josaphath, þe kyng of Juda, is turned aȝein peſibly in to his house in to Jerusalem.
 ii To whome Hieu, þe sone of Ananye, fear, aȝein came, and seip to hym, To þe vnpiteous man þou ȝeuist helpe, and to hem þat haten þe Lord by frenſchip þou ert ioyned; and þerfore þe wrap forsoþe of þe Lord þou haddist deserued;

iii bot good werkis ben founden in þee, for þi þat þou toke awey þe mawmete wodis fro þe lond of Juda, and haddist maad redy þin hert, þat þou seche aȝein þe Lord God of þi fadirs.
 iv ȝan Josaphath dwellide in Jerusalem; and eft he wente out to þe puple fro Bersabee vnto þe hill of Effraym, and he clepide hem aȝein to þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.
 v And he fette domeſmen of þe lond in alle þe strengþed citees of Juda, by alle placis.
 vi And comaundyng to þe iugis, Seeip, he seip, what ȝe done; forsoþe ȝe enhaunten not dome of man, bot of þe Lord; and what euer ȝe schul demyn, vii in to ȝou it schal redoundyn; be þe drede of þe Lord wiþ ȝou, and wiþ diligence alle þingus doiþ; forsoþe þer is not anentis þe Lord oure God wyckidnesse, ne acceptyng of persones, ne couetise of ȝiftis.
 viii And Josaphath in Jerusalem sette Leuytis, and prestis, and princes of þe meynees of Yrael, þat dome and þe caufe of þe Lord þei schulden deemyn to þe dwellers of it.
 ix And he comaundide to hem, seyinge, ȿus ȝe schul doon in drede of þe Lord, feiþfully and in perfijte herte.
 x Al cause þat comiþ to ȝou of ȝoure breþeren, þat dwellen in þeir cytees, bitwen kynrede and kynrede, wher euer questioun is of þe lawe, of þe maundement, of cerymonyes, of justyfyingis, scheweþ to hem, þat þei synnen not in to þe Lord, and wrap come not vpon ȝou and on ȝoure faders. So þanne doyng ȝe schul not synnen.
 xi Amarias forsoþe, preſte and ȝoure bischop, in þes þingis þat to God pertenen, schal fytten vpon. Bot Zabadias, þe sone of Yfmael, 'þe whiche is duyk in þe hous of Juda, schal ben vpon þo werkis þat pertenen to þe office of þe kyng; and ȝe han maistris and Leuytis before ȝou; takip coumfort, and doiþ diligently, and þe Lord schal ben wiþ ȝou in goodis.

Capitulum XX.

i Aftir þese þinges ben gedered þe sonis of Moab, and þe sonis of Amon, and wiþ hem of þe Ydumes, to Josaphath, þat þei fiȝten aȝeinus hym.
 ii And messagers camen, and scheweden to Josaphath, seying, ȝer is comen aȝeins þee a grete multitude fro þes places þat ben bezonde þe see, and of Cyrie; and, lo! þei ben in Azozonthamar, þat is of Engaddi.
 iii Josaphath forsoþe, for drede agaſt, al ȝaf hym ſelf to preyen þe Lord, and prechide fastyng to al Juda.
 iv And Juda is gadered to preyen þe Lord, bot and alle of þeir cytees camen to beſechen hym.
 v And whanne Josaphath hadde ſtonden in þe mydil company of Jude and Jerusalem, in þe hous of þe Lord, before þe newe porche,

vi and seiþ, Lord God of oure fadirs, þou art God in heuen, and þou lordshipist to alle rewmes of gentilis; in þin hond is strengþe and myȝt, ne eny man may to þee aȝeyn stonden.

vii Wheþer not þou, oure God, haſt flayn alle þe dwellers of þis lond before þi puple Israel, and haſt ȝeuuen it to þe feed of Abraham, þi frende, in to euermore?

viii And þei dwelliden in it, and maden out in it a seyntuarie to þi name, seyinge, ix ȝif euyls commen vpon us, fwerde of dome, of pestilence, and hungur, we schul stonden before þis hous in to euermore in þi ȝiȝte, in þe whiche is inwardly clepid þi name, and we schul crien to þee in oure tribulacions; and þou schalt heeren us, and maken us saaf.

x Nowe þanne see, sonus of Amon and of Moab and þe hil of Seyr, by whome þou grauntidist not to þe sonus of Israel þat þei schulden paffe, whann þey wenten out fro Egipt, bot þei boweden aside fro hem, xi and þei flowen hem not, aȝeinward þei don, and enforſen to kaſten us out fro þe posſeffyoun, þat þou, oure God, haſt taken to us;

xii þanne schalt þou not demen hem? In us forſoþe is not so myche strengþe, þat we mown to þis multitude wiþ stonden, þat falliþ vpon us; bot whanne we vñknownen what we Owen to don, þat onoly we han of residue, þat oure eeȝen we dressen up to þee.

xiii Al forſoþe Juda stood before þe Lord, wiþ litil childre and wijues and þeir free childre.

xiv Forſoþe þere was Yziel, þe lone of Sacharie, lone of Ananye, lone of Hieyel, lone of Machanye, Leuyte, and of þe sonus of Afaph, vpon whome is maad þe Spirit of þe Lord in mydil of þe puple, xv and seiþ, Takilþ heede, al Juda, and þat dwellen in Jerusalem, and þou, kyng Josaphath, þes þingus seiþ þe Lord to ȝou, Williþ not dreeden þis multitude, ne taken ferd, it is not forſoþe ȝour fiȝt, bot of God.

xvi To morowe ȝe schul steyzen up aȝeinus hem; forſoþe þei ben to steiȝen up bi þe pich hil, Cis by name, and ȝe schul fynden hem in þe ouermest of þe streme, þat is aȝeinus þe wildernesſe of Jheruel.

xvii Forſoþe ȝe schul not ben, þe whiche schul ȝiȝten; bot onely tristely stondiþ, and ȝe schul seen þe help of þe Lord vpon ȝou. O Juda and Jerusalem, williþ not dreeden, ne takiþ ferd; to morowe ȝe schul goon out aȝeynus hem, and þe Lord schal ben wiþ ȝou.

xviii Josaphath þanne, and Juda, and alle þe dwellers of Jerusalem, fallen bowed in to þe erþ before þe Lord, and honoureden hym.

xix Bot þe Leuytis of þe sonus of Caath, and of þe sonus of Chore, preyseden þe Lord God of Yrael wiþ a grete voice in to heiȝt.

xx And whann erly þei hadden risen, þey wenten out by þe desert of Thecue; and, hem goon forþ, Josaphath stonding in þe mydil of hem, feide, Heiriþ me, Juda and alle þe dwellers of Jerusalem; beleeuiþ in þe Lord ȝoure God, and ȝe schul ben syker; leeuiþ to þe prophetis of hym, and alle þingus schul commen welsum.

xxi And he ȝaf counseil to þe puple, and he sette þe fyngers of þe Lord, þat þey schulden preysen hym in þeir companyes, and þat þei schulden gon before þe hooft, and wiþ cordaunt voice þei schulden seyn, Knowlechep to þe Lord for good; for in to þe world þe mercy of hym.

xxii And whanne þei hadden begunne preysyngis to syngyn, þe Lord turned þe buschementis of hem in to hem silf, of þe sonus, þat is, of Amon and Moab and of þe hil of Seyr, þe whiche wenten out to ȝiȝten aȝeinus Judam, and ben smyten.

xxiii Forſoþe þe sonus of Amon and of Moab ryſen to gydre aȝeinus þe dwellers of þe hyl of Seyr, þat þey schuldenflen, and done awey hem; and whanne þat in dede þei hadden fulſild, also in to hem selue turned þei smyten to gider in woundes eiþer in oper.

xxiv Bot whanne Juda was commen to þe denn, þat beholdiþ wildernesſe, he sawȝ aferre al þe regyoun abrood ful of careyns, ne to ben ouer laſt eny man, 'þe whiche hadde mouȝt to ſcapen þe debþ.

xxv Panne Josaphath came, and al þe puple wiþ hym, to þe spoylis of þe deed to ben drawen awey, and þei founden betwene þe careynes dyuerſe neceſſarie, and cloþes, and vſſels moſt precious; and þei breeken on two, so þat alle þey miȝten not beren, ne bi þre days þe spoyles taken awey, for þe mychilnesſe of þe preyē.

xxvi Þe ferþ forſoþe day þei ben gadered in þe valey of Bleſſynge; forſoþe for þer þei bliſſiden to þe Lord, þei clepiden þat place þe valey of Bleſſynge in to þe present day.

xxvii And eche man of Juda is turned aȝein, and þe dwellers of Jerusalem, and Josaphath beforne hem, in to Jerusalem wiþ grete ioye; forþi þat þe Lord hadde ȝeuuen to hem ioye of þeir enmyes.

xxviii And þei wenten in to Jerusalem wiþ ſawtrees, and harpis, and trumpis, in to þe hous of þe Lord.

xxix Forſoþe inward ferd of þe Lord fel vpon alle þe rewmes of londis, whanne þei hadden herd, þat þe Lord hadde fouȝten aȝeinus þe enmyes of Israel.

xxx And þe rewme of Josaphath hadde reſte; and þe Lord ȝaue to hym peſe by enuyroun.

xxxi Panne Josaphath regnede vpon Judam; and he was of fyue and þritty ȝeer, whanne he beganne to regnen; forſoþe twenty and fyue ȝeer he regned in Jerusalem; and name of his modir Azuba, þe douȝter of Selathy.

xxxii And he wente in þe wey of his fadir Aza, and he bowide not fro it, doyng what euer þingus weren plesaunt before þe Lord.

xxxiii Neuer þe later þe heeȝe þingus he diðe not awey; ȝit þe puple hadden not dresſid þeir hert to þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.

xxxiv Be remnaunt forsoþe of þe deedis of Josphath, of þe raþer and of þe laft, ben wrten in þe bokis of Hieu, þe sone of Anany, þe whiche he discriued in þe boke of þe kyngis of Yrael.

xxxv After þes þingus Josphath, kyng of Juda, wente in frenschippes wiþ Ochosie, þe king of Yrael, whos werkes weren werft, xxxvi and parcer was þat þei schulden maken schippis, þat schulden gon in to Tharsis; and þei maden a nauue in Aziongaber.

xxxvii Forsoþe Heliezer, þe sone of Doden, of Mareza, prophecyede to Josphath, seyinge, For þou haddist couenaunt of pese wiþ Ochosia, þe Lord smote þi werkes; and þe schippes ben to-broken, and þey myȝten not gon in to Tharsis.

Capitulum XXI.

i Josaphath forsoþe flepte wiþ his faders, and is biryed wiþ hem in þe cite of Dauid; and Joram, his sone, regned for hym.

ii þe whiche hadde breþeren, sonus of Josphath, Azaryam, Jahiel, and Zacharie, and Azarie, and Mychael, and Saphaciam; alle þes þe sonis of Josphath, kyng of Juda.

iii And his fadir ȝaue to hem many ȝiftis of gold and of fyluer, and pensyouns, wiþ þe most strengþed citees in Juda; þe rewme forsoþe he toke to Joram, for þi þat he was þe first gotten.

iv Joram forsoþe roos vpon þe rewme of his fadir; and whanne he hadde confermede him felue, he flewȝ alle his breþeren wiþ swerde, and sum of þe princis of Juda.

v Of two and þrity ȝeer Joram was, whanne he beganne to regnen; and eiȝt ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem.

vi And he wente in þe weyes of þe kyngis of Israel, as þe hous of Achab hadde don, þe douȝter forsoþe of Achab was his wif; and he dide euyl in þe siȝt of þe Lord.

vii Forsoþe þe Lord wolde not distruyen þe hous of Dauid, for þe couenaunt þat he hadde gon in wiþ hym, and for he hadde behoten þat he schulde ȝeuen to hym a lantern, and to his sonus in al tyme.

viii In þo days Edom rebellide, þat he were not suget to Jude, and he sette to hym a kyng.

ix And whanne Joram was passed wiþ his princis, and wiþ al þe chyualrie, þat was wiþ hym, he ros þe niȝt, and smote Edom, þe whiche hadde enuyrounde hym, and alle þe duykis of his chyualrye.

x Neuer þe later Edom rebellide, þat he were not vnder þe comaundinge of Juda vnto þis day. þat tyme and Lobna wente awey, þat he were not vnder þe hond of hym; forsoþe he hadde forsaken þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.

xi Forþermore he forgide heeȝe þingus in þe cytees of Juda, and he maad þe dwellers of Jerusalem to do fornycacioun, and Juda to breken þe lawe.

xii Forsoþe þer ben brouȝt to hym lettiris fro Helia, þe prophete, in þe whiche was wrten, þes þingus seiþ þe Lord God of Dauid, þi fadir, For þou wentist not in þe weies of Josphath, þi fadir, and in þe wei of Aza, kyng of Juda, xiii bot and þou wentist bi þe wey of þe kyngis of Israel, and þou madist Judam and þe dwellers of Jerusalem to don fornycacioun, folewyng þe fornycacioun of þe hous of Achab; ferþermore and þi breþeren and þe hous of þi fadir, beter þanne þi silf, þou haft sleyn; xiv loo! þe Lord schal smyten þee wiþ a grete veniaunce, wiþ þi puple, and sonus, and þi wyues, and wiþ al þi substaunce;

xv þou forsoþe schalt waxen seek þe most warst langour of wombe, to þe tyme þat þi guttis gon out lityl melum by fundre days.

xvi þanne þe Lord rere ðe aȝein Joram þe spirite of Philisteis, and of Arabes, þe which ben neeȝ cooftis to Ethiopes;

xvii and þei steyȝeden up in to þe lond of Juda, and þei waſtiden it, and þei distruyeden al þe substaunce, þat is founden in þe hous of þe kyng; ferþermore and þe sonus of hym, and þe wijues; and þer laft not to hym a sone bot Joacha, þat was lefte þoruȝ birþ.

xviii And vpon alle þes þingus þe Lord smote hym wiþ vncurable forowe of wombe.

xix And whanne to þe day schulde folowen day, and þe spacis of tymes weren turned ouer, of two ȝeer þe cercle is fulfilid; and so wiþ longe langour he is waſtid, so þat he schot out also his guttis, and so he wantide þe langour to gydre and liȝf, and he is deed in warst infirmyte. And þe puple dide not to hym þe deedis office after þe maner of brennyng, as it hadde done to þe more of hym.

xx Of two and þrity ȝeer he was, whanne he beganne to regnen, and eiȝt ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem, and he wente not riȝt; and þei bryeden hym in þe cyte of Dauid, neuer þe later not in þe sepulcre of kyngis.

Capitulum XXII.

i The dwellers forsoþe of Jerusalem setten Ochosiam, his leste sone, kyng for hym; alle forsoþe þe more þoruȝ birþe, þat beforne hym weren, þeeues of Arabes hadden flayn, þe whiche hadden fallyn in to þe tentis. And regnede Ochosias, þe sone of Joram, kyng of Juda.

ii Of two and fourty ȝeer was Ochosias, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and oon ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Athalia, douȝter of Amry.

iii And he wente in by þe weye of þe hous of Achab; forsoþe his modir putte hym in, þat he vnpitously schulde done.

iv Panne he dyde yuel in þe siȝt of þe Lord, as þe hous of Achab; þei forsoþe weren to hym counseilors after þe deþ of his fadir, in to his own deþ;
v and he wente in þe counseyle of hem. And he wente wiþ Joram, sone of Achab, king of Yrael, in to bataile aȝeinus Afael, kyng of Cyrie, in Ramoth-galaad. And Cyres woundiden Joram; vi þe whiche is turned aȝein, þat he were helid in Jezrael; forsoþe many woundis he hadde taken in þe forseid strijf. Panne Ochosias, king of Juda, þe sone of Joram, came doun for to viften Joram, þe sone of Achab, seeke in Jezrael;
vii þe wille forsoþe of God was aȝein Ochosiam, þat he were commyn to Joram. And whanne he were commen, þat he schulde gon in wiþ hym aȝein Hieu, þe sone of Nampsy, whome God anoyntide, þat he schulde don awey þe hous of Achab.
viii Panne whanne Hieu schulde ouerturnen þe hous of Achab, he fonde þe princis of Juda, and þe sonus of þe breþeren of Ochosie, þat mynyfreden to hym; and he flewȝ hem.
ix And hym Ochosie sechynge, he toke lurkyng in Samarie, and brouȝt forþ to hym he flewȝ; and þei birieden hym, forþi þat he was þe sone of Josaphath, þe whiche hadde souȝte God in al his herte. And þer was no more eny hope, þat eny schulde regnen of þe stoc of Ochosie.
x Forsoþe Athalia, his modir, seeynge þat hire sone was deed, ros, and flewȝ al þe kingus stoc of þe hous of Joram.
xi Bot Josabeth, þe douȝter of þe kyng, toke Joas, þe sone of Ochosie, and sche staale hym fro þe myddis of þe sonus of þe kyng, whanne þei schulde ben flayn; and sche hidde hym wiþ his nursche in þe bed place of lityl beddis. Josabeth forsoþe, þat hadde hydde hym, was þe douȝter of kyng Joram, wif of Joiada, bischop, sister of Ochosie; and þerfore Athalie flewȝ hym not.
xii Panne he was wiþ hem in þe hous of God hid sexe ȝeer, in þe whiche Athalie regnede vpon þe lond.

Capitulum XXIII.

i Joiada forsoþe þe seuenȝ ȝeer comfortide, toke þe maisters of hundriþes, Azariam, þat is, þe sone of Jeroboam, and Ismael, þe sone of Johannan, also Azariam, þe sone of Obed, and Maaziam, þe sone of Adaye, and Elisaphath, þe sone of Yfecry; and he wente in wiþ hem counseyl and pese couenaunt.
ii þe whiche enuyrounynge Judam, gaderden Leuytis of alle þe cytees of Juda, and þe princis of þe meynes of Israel, and camen 'in to Jerusalem.
iii Panne wente in couenaunt al þe multitude in þe hous of þe Lord wiþ þe kyng. And Joiada seide to hem, Loo! þe sone of þe kyng schal regnen, as þe Lord spake vpon þe sonus of Dauid.

iv Þis is panne þe word þat ȝe schul done. Þe þridde part of ȝou þat ben commen to þe saboth, of preftis, and of Leuytis, and of porters, schal ben in þe ȝaatis; v þe þrid forsoþe part at þe hous of þe kyng; and þe þrid part at þe ȝaate, þat is clepid of þe foundement. Al forsoþe þe toþer comoun be in þe porches of þe hous of þe Lord;
vi ne eny oþer man comme in to þe hous of þe Lord, bot þe preftis, and þat mynyfren of Leuytis; þei aloonly commen in, þat ben halowed, and alle þe toþer comoun keepe wele þe wardis of þe Lord.
vii Þe Leuytis forsoþe enuyroun þei þe kyng, eche hauynge þeir armes; ȝif eny oþer schal commyn in to þe temple, be he flayn; and be þei wiþ þe kyng commyne in and goinge out.
viii Panne þe Leuytis diden, and al Juda, after alle þingis þat Joiada, þe bischop, hadde comaundide; and alle þei token be men, þat weren vndir hem, and þei camen by ordre of þe saboth wiþ hem, þat nowe hadden fulfilde þe saboth, and weren gon out. Forsoþe Joiada, þe bischop, hadde not leetyn þe cumpanyes to gon awey, þe whiche weren wont by fundre weekis to comme after to hem selue.
ix And Joiada, þe preft, ȝaf to þe leders of hundriþis speres, and tergetis, and bokelers of kyng Dauid, þe whiche he hadde sacride in to þe hous of þe Lord.
x And he sette al þe puple, of holdyng daggers, fro þe riȝt partie of þe temple vnto þe left partie of þe temple, before þe auter and þe temple, by enuyroun of þe kyng.
xi And þei ladden out þe kingus lone, and putten on to hym a dyademe; and ȝeuen to hym in his hond þe lawe to ben holden, and þei settent hym kyng. And Joiada, þe bischop, enoyntide hym, and his sonus; and þei inwardly preyden, and seyden, Lyue þe kyng!
xii þat whanne Athalia hadde herde, þat is, þe voice of men rennyng and preyfynge þe kyng, sche wente in to þe purple, into þe temple of þe Lord.
xiii And whanne sche had feen þe kyng stondyng upon þe gree in þe entre, and princis and companyes abouten hym, and al þe puple of þe lond ioyinge, and criyng in trumpis, and orgnys of dyuerle maner, fyngynge to gydir, and þe voice of men preyfynge, sche kutte hir cloþis, and seip, Aspyes! aspyes!
xiv Forsoþe Joiada, þe bischop, gon out to be leeders of hundriþes, and princis of þe hooft, seide to hem, Ledip hir out of þe purseyntis of þe temple, and be sche flayn wiþ out forþ wiþ swerd; and be preft comaundid, þat sche shuld not be flayn in þe hous of þe Lord.
xv And he putte on hondis to þe nollis of hyre; and whanne sche had gon in þe ȝate of þe hors, of þe hous of þe king, þei flewen hir þere.
xvi Forsoþe Joiada couenauntide couenaunt of pese betwene hym and al þe puple and þe kyng, þat þer were a puple of þe Lord.

xvii And so al þe puple wente 'in to þe hous of Baal, and þei distroyeden it; and auters, and mawmetis of it þei to-breeken; Mathan also, þe preste of Baal, þei flewen before þe auters.

xviii Forsoþe Joiada sette prouostis in þe hous of þe Lord, þat vndir þe hondis of prestis, and Leuytis, þe whiche Dauid delide in þe hous of þe Lord, þat þei schulden offeren brent sacrifices to þe Lord, as it is writhen in þe boke of Moyfy, in ioye and songus, after þe dispositicyoun of Dauid.

xix Also he sette porters in þe ȝatis of þe hous of þe Lord, þat þer schulde not gon in to it vnclene in eny ping.

xx And he toke leeders of hundriþes, and most stonge men, and princis of þe puple, and al þe comoun of þe lond. And þei maden þe kyng to comme doun fro þe hous of þe Lord, and gon in by þe mydil of þe ouerȝate in to þe hous of þe kyng; and þei setten hym in þe kyngus see.

xxi And al þe puple of þe lond gladide, and þe cytee restyde; bot Athalia is slayn wiþ swerde.

Capitulum XXIIII.

i Of seuen ȝeer was Joas, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and fourtye ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalēm; name of his modir Sebia of Bersabe.

ii And he dyde þat was good before þe Lord, alle þe days of Joiada, þe preste.

iii Forsoþe and Joas took two wijues, of þe whiche he gat sones and douȝters.

iv After whiche þingus it pleſide to Joas, þat he schulde enstore þe hous of þe Lord.

v And he gadirde þe prestis and Leuytis, and seyde to hem, Goþ out to be cytees of Juda, and gadereþ of al Israel monee, to be reparaciouns of þe temple of þe Lord oure God, by alle ȝeers; and swiþþ doþ it. Bot þe Leuytis diden it more negligently.

vi And þe kyng clepide Joiada, prince, and seyde to hym, Why was not to bee bisynesse, þat þou constreyn Leuytis to brengyn in fro Juda and Jerusalēm monee, þe whiche is ordeyned of Moyfes, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, þat al þe multitude of Israel schulde bryngyn it in to þe tabernacle of wytneſſyngē?

vii Athalia forsoþe most vnpitous, and hir sonus, distruyeden þe hous of God; and of alle þingus, þat weren halowed to þe temple of þe Lord, sche enournede þe temple of Baalym.

viii Pann þe kyng comaundide, and þei maaden þe ark, and putten it beside þe ȝate of þe Lord wiþ outeforþ.

ix And it is prechid in Juda and in Jerusalēm, þat alle schulden bere pris to þe Lord, þat Moyfes ordeynde to be seruauntis of God vpon al Israel, in deserte.

x And alle þe princis and alle þe puple gladedyn, and goon in, þei ȝeuen in to þe ark of þe Lord, and putten, so þat it was ful.

xi And whanne tyme was, þat þei schulden bern þe arke bifore þe kyng bi þe hondis of Leuytis, forsoþe þei seen myche monee; and þer wente in a scribe of lawe, whom þe firste preste hadde ordeyned, and þei heelden outh þe monee, þat was in þe arke; forsoþe þe arke þei bern aȝein to his place. And so þei diden bi sundre days, and þer is gadird monee wiþ outh noumbre;

xii þe whiche þe kyng and Joiada ȝeuen to hem þat stoden vpon þe werkis of þe hous of þe Lord. And þei hireden of it hewers of stoones, and craftise men of alle werkis, þat þei restoren þe hous of þe Lord; also forgers of yren, and of brasse, þat þat, þat hadde begunne to fallen, were fusteyned.

xiii And þes þat vrouȝten diden wiþfly, and þe gap of þe wallis was hillid bi þe hondis of hem; and þei rereden þe hous of þe Lord in to þe raþer state, and þei maaden it to stonden fast.

xiv And whanne þei hadden fulfilde alle þe werkis, þei brouȝten before þe kyng and Joiada þe toþer part of þe monee, of þe whiche ben maad þe veffels of þe temple in to þe seruys, and to brent sacrifices; also violis, and oper golden veffels and sylueren. And þer weren offrid brent sacrifices in þe hous of þe Lord contynuly, alle þe days of Joiade.

xv Forsoþe Joiada eeldide ful of days, and dyed, whanne he was of an hundriþ and þritti ȝeer; xvi and þei birieden hym in þe cytee of Dauid wiþ kingus; forþi þat he hadde done good wiþ Israel, and wiþ his hous.

xvii Forsoþe after þat Joiada died, þe princis of Jude wenten in, and honoureden þe kyng, þe whiche pleſide by þe seruyses of hem, affentide to hem.

xviii And þei forsoken þe temple of þe Lord God of þeir fadirs, and þei serueden to mawmette woodis, and grauen þingus; and þer is don þe wrap of þe Lord aȝeynus Judam and Jerusalēm for þis synne.

xix And he fente to hem prophetis, þat þei schulden turnen aȝein to þe Lord; whom beforen witneſſyngē þei wolden not heeren.

xx And so þe Spirite of þe Lord cloþed Zacharie, þe sone of Joiade, preste; and he stode in þe fiȝte of þe puple, and leyde, þes þingus seiþ þe Lord, Why ouerpasse ȝe he heefte of þe Lord, þat schal not profiten to ȝou, and ȝe han forsaken þe Lord, þat he forfake ȝou?

xxi þe whiche gadered aȝeynus hym, fenten stoones, after þe heste of þe kyng, in þe hall of þe hous of þe Lord.

xxii And king Joas is not recordid of þe mercy þat Joiada, þe fadir of hym, hadde done wiþ hym; bot he flewȝ his sone. þe whiche, whanne he schulde dyen, seiþ, þe Lord see, and requyre.

xxiii And whanne þe ȝeer was ouerturned, þe hooft of Cirie steiȝede up aȝeynus hym, and came in to Judam and Jerusalēm, and flewȝ alle þe princis of þe puple; and al þe pray þei fenten to þe king, to Damasc.

xxiiii And certis whanne þer was commen a litil noumble of Cires, þe Lord toke in þe hondis of hem vnnoumbreable multitude, forþy þat þei hadde forsaken þe Lord God of þeir fadirs. In to Joas also þei enhauntiden schenschipful domys; xxv and goyng awaye þei laftan hym in grete langours. Forsoþe his seruauntis arisen aȝeinus hym, in to vengyng of þe blode of þe sone of Joiade, prest; and þei flewen hym in his bed, and he is deed. And þei birieden hym in þe cytee of Dauid, bot not in þe sepulcris of kingis.
xxvi Forsoþe þer aweytiden to hym Zabath, þe sone of Semath Amanytidis, and Josabeth, þe sone of Semarith, Moabitidis.
xxvii Bot þe sonus of hym, and þe soume of monee þat was leyd to gydre vndir hym, and þe enstorynge of þe hous of God, ben writhen more diligently in þe boke of Kyngis.

Capitulum XXV.

i Amasias forsoþe, his sone, regnede for hym; of fyue and twenty ȝeer was Amasias, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and nyne and twenty ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his modir Joiaden, of Jerusalem.
ii And he dide good in þe siȝte of þe Lord, neuer þe later not in perfijt herte.
iii And whanne he sawȝ þe empyre strengþed to hym, he kutte þe seruauntis protis, þat flewen his fadir þe kyng;
iv bot þe sonus of hem he flewȝ not; as it is writhen in þe boke of þe lawe of Moyfes, where þe Lord comaundide, seyinge, Þe fadirs schul not ben flayn for þe sonus, ne þe sonus for þeir fadirs; bot echone in his synne schal dyen.
v Panne Amazias gaderde Judam, and ordeynede hem by meynes leders of þousandis and maystris of hundribis, in al Juda and Beniamyn; and he tolde fro twentye ȝeer and aboue, and he fonde þrity þousande of ȝonge men, þat myȝten gon out to fiȝten, and holden spere and terget.
vi Also by meed he hyred of Israel an hundriþ þousand of stronge men, for an hundriþ talentis of syluer, þat bei schulden fiȝten aȝeinus þe sonus of Edom.
vii Pere came forsoþe to hym a man of God, and seiȝ, O! kyng, go not out wiþ þee þe hoost of Israel; forsoþe þe Lord is not wiþ Israel and wiþ alle þe sonus of Effraym; viii þat ȝif þou weenist in strengþe of hoost batails to stonden, þe Lord schal maken þee to ben ouercommen of enmyes; of God forsoþe is to helpen, and in to fliȝt to turnen.
ix And Amazias seide to þe man of God, What þanne schal be done of þe hundriþ talentis, þat I ȝaf to þe knyȝtis of Israel? And þe man of God answerde, Þe

Lord habþ, wheroft he may ȝeue to þee many mo þanne þese.
x And so Amazias feuered þe hoost þat came to hym of Effraym, þat he schulde turnen aȝeyn in to his place; and þei, aȝeinus Judam hugely wraþed, ben turnede aȝein in to þeir regyoun.
xi Bot Amazias trustily ladde out his puple, and wente in to þe valeye of salt places, and he smote þe sonus of Seyr, tenn þousand.
xii And oþer tenn þousand of men token þe sonus of Juda, and brouȝten to an heeȝe fallynge place of a maner stoon; and þei tumbleden hem doun fro þe cop in to þe lowest; þe whiche al tobrostren.
xiii And þat hoost þat Amazie fente aȝein, þat it ȝeede not wiþ hym in to batayle, is helde out in þe cytees of Juda fro Samarie and to Betheron; and, þre þousand fleeñ, he deuydide myche preye.
xiv Amazias also after þe flauȝter of Ydumes, þe brouȝt to goddis of þe sonis of Seyr, he sette hem in to goddis to hym, and he honourede hem, and to hem he brende ensence.
xv For what þing þe Lord wroȝt aȝeynst Amazie, he fente to hym a prophete, þat schulde sey to hym, Why haſt þou honourede goddis þat han not delyuerde þeir puple fro þin hond?
xvi And whanne þese þingus he schulde speken, he answerde to hym, Wheþer ert þou þe counseylere of þe kyng? reſt, leſt perauenture I flee þee. And so þe prophete goyng aveye, I woote, he seiȝ, þat þe Lord haþ þouȝte to sleen þee; for þou haſt don þis yuel, and ferþermore þou haſt not affentide to my counseyle.
xvii Panne Amazias, king of Juda, þe werſt counſeil gon in, fente to Joas, þe sone of Joachas, sone of Hieu, þe king of Israel, seyinge, Cum, see we us to gyder.
xviii And he fente aȝein messagers, seyinge, Þe þiftil þat is in Liban fente to þe cedre of Liban, seyinge, ȝeue þi douȝter wiȝf to my sone; and loo! þe bestis þat weren in þe wode of Liban wenten and to-treden þe þiftil.
xix þou feidist, I haue smyten Edom, and þerfore þin hert is rered in to prid; fitt in þi hous; why euyl stirrist þou aȝeinus þee, þat þou falle, and Juda wiþ þee?
xx Amazias wolde not heeren, for þi þat þe wille of þe Lord was, þat he schulde ben taken in þe hondes of þe enmyes, for þe goddis of Edom.
xxi Panne Joas, kyng of Israel, steiȝide up, and þei ȝeuen to hem ſilf beholdingis eiþer to oþer. Amazias forsoþe, kyng of Juda, was in Bethsames of Juda; xxii and Juda felle beforen Israel, and fleiȝ in to his tabernaclis.
xxiii Forsoþe Joas, kyng of Israel, toke Amaziam, kyng of Juda, sone of Joas, sone of Ochofie, in Bethsames, and brouȝt in to Jerusalem; and distruyde þe wallis of it fro þe ȝate of Effraym vnto þe ȝate of þe corner, in foure hundriþ cubitis.
xxiv And al þe gold and þe syluer, and alle þe vessels þat he founde in þe hous of þe Lord, and anentis

Obededom, in þe tresories and of þe kyngis hous, also and þe sonus of taken to prisoun he brouȝte in to Samarie.

xxv Forsoþe Amazias, þe sone of Joas, kyng of Juda, lyuede, after þat Joas, þe sone of Joachaz, kyng of Israel, is deed, fyfteen ȝeer.

xxvi Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Amazie, þe raþer and þe last, ben writen in þe boke of þe kingus of Juda and of Israel.

xxvii Þe whiche after þat he wente awei fro þe Lord benten to hym buschmentis in Jerusalem; and whanne he hadde flownen to Lachis, þei senten and fleswen hym þere;

xxviii and bryngynge aȝein vpon hors, biryeden hym wiþ his faders in þe citee of Dauid.

Capitulum XXVI.

i Forsoþe al þe puple of Juda his sone, Oſie, of sexteen ȝeer, setten kyng for his fadir Amazie.

ii He bild up Aylath, and restored it to þe lordship of Juda, aftir þat þe kyng slepte wiþ his fadirs.

iii Of sexteen ȝeer Oſias was, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen; and two and fyfty ȝeer he regned in Jerusalem; name of his modre, Yechelya, of Jerusalem.

iv And he dide þat was riȝt in þe siȝt of þe Lord, aftir alle þingus þat Amazias, his fader, hadde done.

v And he souȝte þe Lord in þe days of Zacharie, vndirstondinge and seeing God; and whanne he schuld sechen God, he louede hym in alle þingus.

vi Afterward he wente out, and fauȝte aȝein Philisteis, and he distruyede þe wall of Geth, and þe wall of Jabnye, and þe wal of Azoty; and he bilde up burȝ towns in Azote of Phylisteym.

vii And þe Lord halpe hym aȝeynus Philisteym, and aȝenus Arabas þat dwelliden in Garbahal, and aȝenus Amonytis.

viii And Amonytis spendiden þe ȝiftis to Ozie, and his name is puplischt vnto þe entre of Egyp for his oft victories.

ix And Ozie bilde up toures in Jerusalem vpon þe ȝate of þe corner, and vpon þe ȝate of þe valey, and oþer in þe same side of þe wall; and he faftnede hem.

x And he bilde out also toures in wildernes, and dalf out many cysterne; forþi þat he hadde many beestis boþe in þe wijlde feeldis and in þe wastite of desert. Also vynes he hadde and wyne makers in hillis, and in Carmele; forsoþe he was a man ȝeven to erþ tyllyinge.

xi Þe hooft forsoþe of þe fyȝtynge men of hym, þat wenten forþ to batayles, was vndir þe hond of Heiel, scribe, and Mazie, doctour, and vndir þe hond of Ananye þat was of þe duykis of þe kyng;

xii and al þe noumbre of princis, by þeir meyneess, of stronge men two þousand and sexe hundriþ.

xiii And vndir hem al þe hooft of þre hundriþ and feuen þousand and fyue hundriþ, þat weren able to batail, and for þe king aȝein þe enmyes fouȝten.

xiv And Ozias maad redy to hem, þat is, to al þe hooft, tergetis, and speres, and helmes, and hauberious, and bowes, and flyngis to stones to ben þrowen.

xv And he maad in Jerusalem engynes of dyuerse maner, þe whiche he sette in toures, and in þe corners of wallis, þat þei schulden casten arewes and grete stones; and his name is gon out aferre, for þi þat þe Lord halpe hym, and hadde strengþede hym.

xvi Bot whanne he was strengþed, his hert is arered in to his deþ; and he dispisede þe Lord his God; and gon in to þe temple of þe Lord, he wolde brenne encense vpon þe autir of maad encense.

xvii And anoon aftir hym wente in Azarias, þe preste, and wiþ hym prestis of þe Lord, feuenty men most worþi;

xviii and þei wiþstoden to þe kyng, and seyden, Ozia, it is not of þin office, þat þou brenne encense to þe Lord, bot of þe prestis of þe Lord, þat is, of þe sonus of Aaron, þat ben facrid to fyche a maner seruyse; go out fro þe seytuarye, ne dispise þou; for it schal not ben wiȝtyd to þee in to glorie of þe Lord God.

xix And Ozias is wroþ, and holdinge in þe hond a censere, þat he brenne encense, he þratt to þe prestis; and anoon þer is sprungen a lepre in his forhede, before þe prestis in þe hous of þe Lord vpon þe auter of maad encense.

xx And whanne Azaria, þe bischop, hadde beholden hym, and alle þe toþer prestis seen a lepre in his forhede, hastyly þei puttyn hym out; and he aferd hyȝede to gon out; forþi þat he hadde feelid anoon þe veniaunce of þe Lord.

xxi Panne Ozias was mesel vnto þe day of his deþ, and dwellide in an hous feuered, ful of lepre; for þe whiche he was þrowen out fro þe hous of þe Lord. Bot Joathan, his sone, gouernede þe hous of þe kyng, and demede þe puple of þe lond.

xxii Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Ozie, of þe raþer and of þe last, wrote Ysayas, þe sone of Amos, prophete.

xxiii And Ozias slepte wiþ his fadirs, and þei biryeden hym not in þe feeld of kyngis sepulcres, forþi þat he was leeprous; and Joathan, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XXVII.

i Of fyue and twenty ȝeer was Joathan, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and sixteen ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his moder Jerufa, þe douȝter of Sadoch.

ii And he dide þat was riȝt before þe Lord, aftir alle þingus þat Ozias, his fadir, hadde don; out take þat he wente not in to þe temple of þe Lord, and ȝit þe puple trespasside.

iii He bild up þe heeȝ ȝate of þe hous of þe Lord, and in þe wal of Ophel many þingus maad;
iii and citees bilde in þe hillis of Juda, and in heeȝ wodis, castels, and toures.
v And he fauȝt aȝein þe kyng of þe sonus of Amon, and ouercame hym; and þe sonus of Amon ȝeuȝ to hym in þat tyme an hundriȝ talents of syluer, and tenn þousand choris of barly, and as fele of whete; þes þingus ȝeuȝ to hym þe sonus of Amon þe secound zeer and þe þrid.
vi And Joathan is strengþed, forþi þat he hadde dreslido his weys before þe Lord his God.
vii Þe remnaunt forþoþe of þe wordis of Joathan, and alle þe fiȝtyngis of hym, and werkes, ben writen in þe boke of kingus of Israel and of Juda.
viii Of fyue and twenty zeer he was, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and sixtene zeer he regnede in Jerusalem.
ix And Joathan flepte wiþ his faders, and þei birieden hym in þe citee of Dauid; and Achaz, his sone, regned for hym.

Capitulum XXVIII.

i Of fyue and twenty zeer was Achaz, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and sextene zeer he regnede in Jerusalem; and he dide not riȝt in þe siȝt of þe Lord, as Dauid, his fadir;
ii bot wente in þe weyes of þe kyngis of Israel. Forþermore and he ȝeetylde ymagis to Baalym.
iii He is þat brende encense in þe valey of Bennon, and he enuyrounde his sonus in fijr aftir þe riȝt of gentilis, þe whiche þe Lord flowȝ in þe commynge of þe sonus of Israel.
iv Also he sacrificed, and brende maad encense in heiȝtis, and in hillis, and vnder alle braunchid tree.
v And þe Lord his God toke hym in þe hond of þe kyng of Cyrie, þe whiche smote hym, and a gret prey of his empyre toke, and brouȝt in to Damasc. And he is taken to þe hondis of þe kyng of Israel, and smyten wiþ a grete veniaunce.
vi And Phacee, þe sone of Romelie, flewȝ of Juda an hundriȝ and twenty þousand in oo day, and alle men fiȝters; for þi þat þei hadden forsake þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.
vii Þe same tyme Jechry, a myȝty man of Effraym, flewȝ Maaziam, þe sone of þe kyng, and Esricham, duyke of his hous, also Elchanan, þe secounde fro þe kyng.
viii And þe sonus of Israel token of þeir breþeren two hundriȝ þousand of wymmen and of knaue childre and of mayde childre, and a pray wiþ out noumbre; and þei brouȝten it in to Samarie.
ix In þat tempest was þer a prophete of þe Lord, Obed by name, þe whiche gon out meetyng to þe hoost commyng to Samarie, seide to hem, Lo! þe Lord God of oure fadirs is wrooþ aȝein Judam, and toke hem in ȝour hondis; and ȝe han sleen hem cruelly, so þat in to heuen ȝoure cruelte schulde commen.

x Forþermore þe sonis of Juda and of Jerusalem ȝee wiln subjecten to ȝou seruauntis and hond wymmen; þat `indeede is no nede; ȝe han synned vpon þis to þe Lord ȝoure God.
xi Bot heeriȝ my counseil, and bringiȝ aȝein þe caytyues, þe whiche ȝe han lad awey of ȝoure breþeren; for grete woodnesse of þe Lord stant ouer to ȝou.
xii And so þe men of þe princis of þe sonus of Effraym stodyn, Azarias, þe sone of Johannan, Barachias, þe sone of Mofollamoth, Jezechias, þe sone of Sellum, and Amazias, þe sone of Adaly, aȝeyn hem þat camen fro þe bataile; xiii and feyden to hem, ȝe schul not bryngen in hydre þe cayties, leſt we synnen to þe Lord; why wille ȝe caſten to vpon ȝoure synnes, and hepen olde synnes? Grete forþoþe synne it is; and þe wrap of þe wodnesse of þe Lord stant vpon Yrael.
xiv And þe fiȝtyng men laſten þe pray, and alle þingis þat þei hadden taken, before þe princis and al þe multitude.
xv And þe men, þe whiche aboue we myndedyn, stoden, and, takyng þe caitiues, cloþedyn of þe spoylis alle þat weren nakyd; and whanne þei hadden cloþede hem, and schod, and fyld hem wiþ mete and drynk, and anoyntide for þe trauayle, and ȝeuȝ to hem besynesse; who so euer myȝten not gon, and weren wiþ feble body, þei putten hem on bestis, and ladden to Jericho, þe citee of palmes, to þeir breþeren; and þei ben turned aȝein in to Samarie.
xvi þat tyme kyng Achaz sente to þe kyng of Assiries, afkyng helpe.
xvii And Ydumeis camen, and smyten many of Juda, and token grete pray.
xviii And þe Philiteis ben held out by wijld feeldy cytees, and at þe souþ of Juda; and þei token Bethfames, and Hailon, and Gaderoth, Socoth also, and Thannan, and Zamro, wiþ þeir litil touns; and þei dwelliden in hem.
xix Forþoþe þe Lord hadde meekeide Judam for Achaz, kyng of Juda; forþi þat he hadde nakyd hym fro helpe, and hadde þe Lord to dispyte.
xx And þe Lord brouȝt aȝein hym Teglat Falasar, king of Assiries, þe whiche tourmentyde hym, and no man wiþtandinge, waſtide.
xi Panne Achaz, þe hous of þe Lord spoylide, and þe hous of kingus and princis, ȝaf to þe kyng of Assiries ȝiftis, and neuer þe latre it profitide no þing to hym.
xxii Forþermore and in tyme of his anguysch he echide dispite in to þe Lord; xxiii he by hym ſilf kyng Achaz offred to þe goddis of Damasc flayn sacrifices, to his smyters, and feyde, þe goddis of þe kingus of Cyrie helpen to hem, þe which I ſchal plesen wiþ hooftis, and þei ſchul ſtonden to to me; whanne aȝeенward þei were fallenyng to hym, and to al Israel.

xxiii And fo Achaz, alle þe vefſels of þe hous of God taken awey, and broken to gydre, cloſede þe ȝatis of þe temple of God, and maad to hym auters in alle þe corners of Jeruſalem.

xxv Alſo in alle þe cytees of Juda he maad up auters to brennen encenſe, and he terrede to wrap þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.

xxvi þe remnaunt forſoþe of his wordis and of alle his werkes, of þe rafþ and of þe laſt, ben writhen in þe boke of þe kyngis of Juda and of Israel.

xxvii And Achaz flepte wiþ his fadirs, and þei birieden hym in þe cyte of Dauid of Jeruſalem; ne forſoþe þei receyueden hym in þe ſepulcres of þe kingus of Israel; and Ezechias, his fone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XXIX.

i Ezechias þanne beganne to regnen, whanne he was of fyue and twenty ȝeer, and nyne and twenty ȝeer he regnede in Jeruſalem; name of his modir, Abia, þe douȝter of Zacharye.

ii And he dide þat was plesaunt in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord, aftir alle þingus þat Dauid, his fadir, hadde done.

iii In þat ȝeer and þe first moneþ of his regne he opnede þe ȝate leues of þe hous of þe Lord, and he enſtorede hem;

iv and brouȝte to þe preſtis and þe Leuytis, and gaderede hem in to þe eſte ſtrete, v and feide to hem, Heerip me, Leuytis, and þe halowed; clenſip þe hous of þe Lord God of oure faders, and doþ awey alle vncleſneſſe fro þe feyntuarye.

vi Oure fadirs ſynneden, and diden euyl in þe ſiȝte of þe Lord oure God, forſakyngh hym; þei turneden awei þeir faces fro þe tabernacle of þe Lord oure God, and ȝeuuen bac.

vii Pei cloſeden þe dores þat were in þe ȝate hous, and quencheden þe lanterns; and encenſe þei brenneden not, and brent ſacrifices þei offreden not in þe feyntuarye of God of Israel.

viii And fo þe woodneſſe of þe Lord is sterid vpon Judam and Jeruſalem; and he toke hem in to diſtouſlynge, and into deb, and in to whiſtlyng, as ȝe beholden wiþ ȝoure eeȝen.

ix Lo! oure fadirs fallen wiþ ſwerdis; oure ſonus, and oure douȝters, and oure wijues ben lad caityf for þis hidous gilt.

x Nowe þanne it plesip to me, þat we gon in peſe couenaunt wiþ þe Lord God of Israel, and he do awey fro us þe woodneſſe of his wraþ.

xi My ſonus, willip not diſpisen; þe Lord chees ȝou, þat ȝe ſtonden beforne hym, and mynyſtren to hym, and heryen hym, and brennen to hym encenſe.

xii Panne þe Leuytis ryſen, Maath, þe fone of Amazie, and Joel, þe fone of Azarie, of þe ſonis of Caath; bot of þe ſonus of Merery, Ciz, þe fone of Abdai, and Azarias, þe fone of Jalalael; of þe ſonus forſoþe of Jersan, Joha, þe fone of Zemma, and Hedem, þe fone of Joha; xiii and forſoþe of þe ſonus of Elizaphan, Zamry, and Jahiel; of þe ſonus alſo of Asaph, Zacharias, and Mathanyas; xiv alſo of þe ſonus of Heman, Jahiel, and Semei; bot and of þe ſonus of Yditum, Semeyas, and Oziel.

xv And þei gadreden þeir breþeren, and ben halowed, and gon in, after þe maundement of þe kyng, and þe heſte of þe Lord, þat þei clenſen þe hous of þe Lord.

xvi And þe preſtis gon in to þe temple of þe Lord, þat þei halowen it, beeren out al þe vncleſneſſe, þat wiþ inne þei hadden foundyn in þe vefſarie of þe hous of þe Lord; þe whiche token þe Leuytis, and beeren out wiþ out forþ to þe ſtreme of Cedron.

xvii And þei begunnen þe firſt day of þe firſt moneþ to clenſen, and in þe eyȝþe day of þe fame moneþ þei wenten in to þe ȝate hous of þe temple of þe Lord, and þei purgedyn þe temple eiȝte days; and in þe fixtenþe day of þe fame moneþ, þat þei hadden begunnen, þei fulſilden.

xviii And þei wenten in to Ezechie, þe kyng; and feyden to hym, We han halowed al þe hous of þe Lord, and þe auter of brent ſacrifice of hym, and his vefſels, alſo and þe borde of propoficyoun wiþ alle his vefſels, xix and alle þe purtenaucis of þe temple, þat kyng Achaz in his rewme hadde polutide, after þat he hadde trefpaffede; and loo! leid out ben alle þingus before þe auter of þe Lord.

xx And Ezechie, þe kyng, rijſyng erly, gadered in oon alle princis of þe cytee, and he ſteiȝede up in to þe hous of þe Lord;

xi and þei offreden to gyder boolis feuen, and weþeris feuen, and lombis feuen, and geet feuen, for þe synne, for þe rewme, for þe feyntuarye, for Juda. And he feide to þe preſtis, ſoniſ of Aaron, þat þei ſchulden offren vpon þe auter of þe Lord.

xxii Panne þei ſlewen boolis, and þe preſtis token þe blood, and heldyn it vpon þe auter; alſo þei ſlewen weþers, and of hem þe blood þei heldyn vpon þe auter; and þei offreden lombis, and helden vpon þe auter þe blood.

xxiii And þei applieden þe geet for þe synne before þe kyng and al þe multitude, and þei putten þeir hondis vpon hem;

xxiv and þe preſtis offreden hem, and þei ſprengden þe blood of hem beforne þe auter, for þe synne of al Israel. Forſoþe for al Israel þe kyng hadde comaundide, þat þere ſchulde be don brent ſacrifice, and for synne.

xxv And he ordeynde Leuytis in þe hous of þe Lord, wiþ cymbales, and fawtrees, and harpis, aftir þe diſpoſicyoun of king Dauid, and of Gad, ſeear, and of Nathan, þe prophete; forsoþe þe heste of þe Lord it was bi þe hond of his prophetis.

xxvi And þe Leuytis stoden, holdyng þe orgnys of Dauid; and prestis þe trumpis.

xxvii And Ezechias comaundide, þat þer schulden ben offred brent sacrifices vpon þe auter; and whanne þei schulden offren brent sacrifices, þei begunnen to syngen preysyngis to þe Lord, and sown wiþ trumpis, and in dyuerfe orgnys, þat Dauid, king of Israel, hadde maad redy to sown wiþ.

xxviii Al þe puple forsoþe honouryng, þe syngers and þo þat helden trumpis weren in þeir offices, to þe tyme þat þe brent sacrifices weren ful eendid.

xxix And whanne þe offryng was eendid, þe kyng is ful bowed, and alle þat weren wiþ hym, and þei honoureden.

xxx And Ezechias comaundide and þe princis to Leuytis, þat þei schulden preysen þe Lord wiþ þe wordis of Dauid, and of Asaph, seear; þe whiche preyseden wiþ grete gladneſſe, and þe knee ful bowede, þei honourden.

xxxi Ezechias forsoþe þes also addide, ȝe han fulſild ȝoure hondis to þe Lord; commiþ neeȝ, and offriþ sacrifices and preysingis in þe hous of þe Lord.

xxxii Panne al þe multitude offride oostis, and preysingis, and brent sacrifices, wiþ deuout mynde. Forsoþe þe noumbe of þe brent sacrifices, þat þe multitude offride, was þis; boolis feuenty, weþers an hundriþ, lombis two hundriþ.

xxxiii Also þei haloweden to þe Lord oxes sexe hundriþ, and scheep þre þouland.

xxxiv þe prestis forsoþe weren fewe, and myȝten not suffice þat þei drawnen of þe lkynnes of þe brent sacrifices; wherfore and þe Leuitis þeir breþeren helpiden hem, to þe tyme þat þe were fulſild, and þe bischopis waren halowed; þe Leuytis forsoþe wiþ liȝter rijt ben halowed þanne þe prestis.

xxxv Þer weren þanne many brent sacrifices, and talowes of peſible þingus, and liquours offryngis of brent sacrifices, and þe heryng of þe hous of þe Lord is ful eendid.

xxvi And Ezechie is glad, and al þe puple wiþ hym, forþi þat þe seruyce of þe Lord was ful eendid; forsoþe of sodenly it pleside þat to ben don.

Capitulum XXX.

i Ezechie also fente to al Israel and Juda, and he wroote letters to Effraym and Manassen, þat þei schulden commen in to þe hous of þe Lord in Jerufalem, and do pasch to þe Lord God of Israel.

ii þanne gon in þe counsele of þe kyng, and of þe princis, and of al þe companye of Israel, þei deemedyn þat þey schulden don pasch þe secounde moneþ.

iii Forsoþe þei camen not to gydre to don in his tyme; for þe prestis þat myȝten suffisen weren not halowed, and þe puple not ȝit was gadered in to Jerufalem.

iv And þe word pleside to þe kyng, and to al þe multitude.

v And þey deemeden for to fenden messagers in to al Israel, fro Bersabe vnto Dan, þat þei schulden commen, and don pasch to þe Lord God of Israel in Jerufalem; manye forsoþe hadden not done, as in þe lawe it is beforwriten.

vi And curours wenten wiþ letters, of þe heste of þe kyng and of his princis, in to al Israel and Juda, after þe whiche þing þe kyng hadde comaundide prechours, Sonis of Israel, turniþ aȝein to þe Lord God of Abraham, and of Ysaac, and of Israel; and he schal be turned aȝein to þe releuys, þat scapeden þe hondis of þe kyng of Assiries.

vii Williþ not ben maad as ȝoure fadirs and breþeren, þat wenten awey fro þe Lord God of þeir fadirs; and he toke hem in to deþ, as ȝe feen.

viii Williþ not ful hardne ȝour nollis, as ȝoure fadirs; takiþ hondis to þe Lord, and commiþ to þe seytuarye of hym, þat he halowed wiþ out eende; seruiþ to þe Lord God of ȝour fadirs, and schal ben turned awey fro ȝou þe wraþ of his woodneſſe.

ix ȝif forsoþe ȝe weren turned aȝein to þe Lord, ȝour breþeren and ȝour sonus schul haue mercy, wiþ þeir lordis þat hem laddyn caitif; and þei schul ben turned aȝein into þis lond. Forsoþe pytouse and mercyable is þe Lord oure God; and he schal not turnen awey his face fro ȝou, ȝif ȝe weren turned aȝein to hym.

x Panne curours wente swiftly fro cyte vnto cite þoruȝ þe lond of Effraym and Manasse vnto Zabulon, hem scoornyng and vndermowyng hem.

xi Neuerþelater sum men of Afer, and of Manasse, and of Zabulon, assentyng to þe counsele, camen in to Jerufalem.

xii In Juda forsoþe is done þe hond of þe Lord, þat he schulde ȝeuen to hem oon herte, and þei schulden don, after þe heste of þe kyng and princis, þe word of þe Lord.

xiii And þere ben gadered into Jerufalem many puplis, þat þei don þe solempnyte of þer looues in þe secounde moneþ.

xiv And rijſyng þei distruyden þe auters, þat weren in Jerufalem; and alle þingus in þe whiche to mawmetis was brend encense, turnynge vpfadoun, þei þrewen in to þe streme of Cedron.

xv Pei offriden forsoþe pasch þe fourtenþ day of þe secound moneþ; þe prestis also and Leuytis at þe laſt halowed, offreden brent sacrifice in þe hous of þe Lord.

xvi And þei stoden in þeir ordre, aftir þe dispositioun and þe lawe of Moyses, þe man of God. þe prestis forsoþe hadden taken þe blood to ben sched of þe hondis of Leuytis, xvii forbi þat myche puple was not halowed; and þerfore þe Leuytis schulden offren pasch to hem, þat `came not to gydre to ben halowed to þe Lord.

 xviii A grete also part of þe puple of Effraym, and Manasse, and Ysachar, and Zabulon, þe whiche was not halowed, eetyn pasch not after þat it is writhen. And Ezechie preyde for hem, seyinge, Þe good Lord schal haue mercy to alle, xix þat in al herte sechen þe Lord God of þer fadirs; and þat schal not ben wijtid to hem, þat þei ben not halowed.
 xx Whome þe Lord herde, and is plesid to þe puple.
 xxi And þe sonus of Israel, þat ben founden in Jerufalem, diden þe solempnyte of þerf looues seuen days in grete ioye, preisynge þe Lord bi eche dais; þe Leuytis also and þe prestis by orgnys, þat to þeir office fellen.
 xxii And Ezechias spac to þe herte of alle þe Leuytis, þat hadden good vndirstondynge vpon þe Lord; and þei eeten seuen days of þe solempnyte, offryng flayn sacrifice of pefyble þingus, and preysing þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.
 xxiii And it pleside to al þe multitude, þat þei schulden also halowen oþer seuen days; þe whiche and þei diden wiþ ful grete ioy.
 xxiv Ezechias forsoþe, king of Juda, ȝaf to þe multitude a þousand boolis, and seuen þousand of scheep; þe princis forsoþe ȝeuen to þe puple a þousand boolis, and scheep tenn þousand. Panne is halowed a more multitude of prestis;
 xxv and gladnesse þoruȝ held al þe puple of Juda, boþ of prestis and of Leuytis, and of al þe besy commynge, þat weren commen of Israel, and of þe comlyngis of þe lond of Israel, and of þe dwellers of Juda.
 xxvi And þer is don a grete solempnyte in Jerufalem, whiche maner was not in þe same cyte fro þe days of Salomon, sone of Dauid, kyng of Israel.
 xxvii Forsoþe þe prestis and Leuytis risen, bleffyng to þe puple; and þe voyce of hem is herd, and þe preyer ful came into þe hooly dwellinge place of heuen.

Capitulum XXXI.

i And whanne þes þingus weren manerly ful halowed, al Israel wente out, þat was founden in þe citees of Juda; and þei breeken þe mawmetis, and hewen doun mawmete wodis, and þe heeȝe þingus þei waftiden, and þe auters distruyden, not onely of al Juda and Beniamyn, bot and of Effraym also and of Manasse, to þe tym þat fully þei weren don awey. And alle þe sonus of Israel ben torned aȝein in to posseſſions, and þeir citees.
 ii Ezechias forsoþe sette prestis companyes and Leuytis bi þeir deuysions, echone in propre office, boþe of prestis, þat is, and of Leuytis, to brent sacrifices and peſible, þat þei seruen, and knowlechen, and syngin in þe ȝatis of þe tentis of þe Lord.

iii A paartye forsoþe of þe kyng was, þat of his propre substauice schulde ben offrid brent sacrifice erly and at euen, þe sabothis also, and kalendis, and oþer solempnytes, as it is writhen in þe lawe of Moyſes.
 iv Also he comaundide to þe puple of þe dwellers in Jerufalem, þat þei ȝeuen partis to prestis and Leuytis, þat þei mown taken tent to þe lawe of þe Lord.
 v Þe whiche whanne was puplischt in þe eris of þe multitude, þe sonus of Israel offreden manye firſt fruytis of whete, and of wyne, and of oyle, also of hony; and of alle þingus þat þe erþ getib, þei offreden dymys.
 vi Bot and þe sonus of Israel and of Juda, þat dwelliden in þe cytees of Juda offreden dymes of oxen and scheep, and dymes of hooly þingus, þat þei hadden vowed to þe Lord þer God, and, alle þingus beerynge, maaden many heepils.
 vii Þe þrid moneþ þei begunne to castyn groundis of þe heepils, and þe seuenþ moneþ þei eendiden hem.
 viii And whanne Ezechias and his princis weren commen in, þei seen þe heepils, and þei blesſeden to þe Lord, and to þe puple of Israel.
 ix And Ezechias askide þe prestis and Leuytis, why þe heepils schulden so lyen.
 x Azazie, þe prest, firſt of þe stoc of Sadoch, anſwerde to hym, seyinge, Sipen þe firſt fruytis begunne to ben offrid in þe hous of þe Lord, we eetyn and ben fulſild, and þere ben laſt many þingus; forbi þat þe Lord haþ bleſſid to his puple; of þe releuys forsoþe þis is þe plente, þat þou feest.
 xi Panne Ezechias comaundide, þat þei schulden make redy bernes in þe hous of þe Lord; þe whiche þing whan þei hadden don, xii þei brouȝten in boþe firſt fruytis, and dymes, and what euer þingus þei hadden vowed feiþfully. Forsoþe þe prefect of hem was Chonenyas, Leuyte; and Semeye, his broþer, þe secounde; xiii aftir whome Jehiel, and Azarias, and Naath, and Azahel, and Jerymoþ, Jozabad also, and Heliel, and Jesmahias, and Maath, and Banayas, prouoftis vndir þe hondis of Chonenye and Semeye, his broþer, of þe maundement of kyng Ezechie, and of Azarie, þe bischop of þe hous of þe Lord, to whom alle þingus perteynedon.
 xiv Chore forsoþe, þe sone of Jemna, Leuyte, and porter of þe este ȝate, was prouoft to þes þat wilfully offreden to þe Lord, and to þe firſt fruytis, and to þe sacred in to þe holy of halowes; xv and vndir hir cure Eden, and Beniamyn, Jesue, and Semeyas, Amarias also, and Sechenyas, in þe citees of prestis, þat feiþfully þei delen to þeir breþeren parties, to þe leſſe and to þe more, xvi out taken þe men fro þre ȝeer and abouen, þes þingus to alle þat wenten in to þe temple of þe Lord, and what euer þing bi eche dais was hired in þe feruſe and keepyngis after þeir deuysions.

xvii To prestis bi meynes, and to Leuytis fro twenty zeer and aboue by ordres and þeir companyes, xviii and to al þe multitude, boþe to wijues and to þe fre childre of hem of eiþer kynde, feiþfully of mete of þes þingus þat weren halowed weren ȝeuen.
xix Bot and of þe sonus of Aaron bi feedis and suburbis of eche cytees þer weren disposid men, þat by partis schulden delen to al male kynde of prestis and Leuytis.
xx Panne Ezechias dide alle þingus, þat we han seide, in al Juda, and wrouȝte riȝt and gode and soþ þing before þe Lord his God, xxi in al heryng of þe feruysse of þe hous of þe Lord, after þe lawe and cerymonyes, willynge to sechen þe Lord his God in al his herte; and he dide, and is maad welfum.

Capitulum XXXII.

i After þe whiche þingis and siche a maner treuþ, came Senacherub, king of Affiries, and gon in to Judam, befeegidre strengþed cytees, wilnyng to taken hem.
ii Þe whiche þing whanne Ezechias hadde herd, þat is, Senacherub to han commen, and al þe bure of þe batayl to ben turned aȝeinus Jerusalerm, iii gon in counseile wiþ þe princis and most stronge men, þat þei schulden stoppyn þe heuedis of wellis, þat weren wiþ ouþe þe cyte; and, þat deemyng þe sentence of alle,
iv he gaderede a myche multitude, and þei stoppiden alle þe wellis, and þe ryuer, þat flowede in þe myddis of þe lond; feyng, Lest þere commen kingis of Affiries, and fynde aboundaunce of watirs.
v And doyng tauȝtly he bilde up al þe wal þat was scatered, and maad out tours þer vpon, and wiþ ouþe forþ anoþer wall. And he enstrored Mello in þe cyte of Dauid; and maad armour of al maner, and tergettis.
vi And he sette princis of fiȝters in þe hoost; and he togider clepide alle in þe strete of þe ȝate of þe citee, and he spac to þe herte of hem, feyng, vii Doþ manly, and takiþ comfорт; williþ not taken ferd, ne dreeden þe kyng of Affiries, and al þe multitude þat is wiþ hym; forsoþe many mo ben wiþ us panne wiþ hym.
viii Wiþ hym is þe fleschely arm; wiþ us þe Lord oure God, þe which is oure help and fiȝter for us. And þe puple is comfortide wiþ siche maner wordis of Ezechie, kyng of Juda.
ix Þe whiche þingus after þat ben don, Senacherub, þe king of Affiries, fente his feruauntis vnto Jerusalerm; he forsoþe wiþ al his hoost besegide Lachis; to Ezechie, kyng of Juda, and to al þe puple þat was in þe cytee, feying,
x þes þingus seiþ Senacherub, king of Affiries, In whome hauing truſt ȝe fitten bisegid in Jerusalerm?

xi For why Ezechias deceyuiþ ȝou, þat he take to deþ in hungur and þirst, affermyng þat þe Lord ȝoure God delyuer ȝou fro þe hond of þe kyng of Affiries?
xii Wheþer þis is Ezechie, þat distryyede his heeȝe þingus and auters, and comaundide to Jude and Jerusalerm, feyng, Before oon auter ȝe schul honouren, and in it ȝe schul brenne encense?
xiii Wheþer ȝe vñknownen what I haue don, and my fadirs, to alle puplis of londis? Wheþer þe goddis of Gentilis and of alle londis myȝten delyueren þeir regyoun fro my hond?
xiv Who is of alle þe goddis of Gentilis, whom my fadirs waastiden, þat myȝte delyueren his puple of myn hond, þat also ȝoure God myȝte delyueren ȝou of þis hond?
xv Panne ȝou deceyue not Ezechie, ne by veyn mouyng begile, ne trowe ȝe to hym; ȝif forsoþe no God of alle Gentilis and of regyouns myȝte delyueren his puple of my hond, and of þe hond of my fadirs, folowynghly ne ȝour God schal mown delyuer ȝou of þis myn hond.
xvi Bot and many oþer þingus his feruauntis speeken aȝeinus þe Lord God, and aȝeinus Ezechie, his feruaunt.
xvii Alſo letters he wroot ful of blasphemey in to þe Lord God of Israel, and he spac aȝeinus hym, As þe goddis of Gentilis of oþer londis myȝten not delyueren þeir puple fro myn hond, so and þe God of Ezechie schal not mowen delyuer his puple fro þis hond.
xviii Forþermore and wiþ a grete crie in Jews tungue aȝeinus þe puple, þat sat in þe wallis of Jerusalerm, he ful out sounnede, þat he agaste hem, and take þe cite.
xix And he spac aȝein þe God of Israel, as aȝeinus þe goddis of þe puplis of þe erþ, þe werkis of menus hondis.
xx Panne preyden Ezechias, king, and Isaias, þe sone of Amos, prophete, aȝeynus þis blasphemey; and þei cryeden out vnto heuen.
xi And þe Lord fente his aungel, þat smote eche stronge man and fiȝter, and þe prince of þe hoost of þe kyng of Affiries; and he is turned aȝeyn wiþ schenschip in to his lond. And whanne he was gon in to þe hous of his god, þe sonus, þat weren gon out of his wombe, flewen hym wiþ fwerd.
xxii And þe Lord sauede Ezechie, and þe dwellers of Jerusalerm, fro þe hond of Senacherub, kyng of Affiries, and fro þe hond of alle men; and ȝaue to hem reste by enuyroun.
xxiii Many alſo beeren hooftis and sacrifices to þe Lord in to Jerusalerm, and ȝiftis to Ezechie, kyng of Juda; þe whiche is enhaunſid after þes þingus before alle folkis of kynde.
xxiv In þo dais ſiknede Ezechie vnto þe deþ, and he preyde þe Lord; and he herde hym, and ȝaue to hym a fygne;

xxv bot not after þe benefetis þat he hadde taken, he ȝeeldide, for arered is his herte; and þer is don aȝeinus hym wraþ, and aȝeinus Judam, and aȝeinus Jerusalem.
 xxvi And he is mekide aftirward, forþi þat his herte was arered, boþe he and þe dwellers of Jerusalem; and þerfore came not vpon hem þe wraþ of þe Lord in þe dais of Ezechie.
 xxvii Forsoþe Ezechias was riche, and ful glorious, and he gaderede to hym many tresoures of syluer, of gold, and of precious stone, of swote splices, and of alle maner armour, and of vessels of grete pris.
 xxviii And leyinge places of whete, and of wyne, and of oyle, and cratchis of alle bestis, and foldes to feed bestis, xxix and sixe cytees he bilde. He hadde forsoþe flockis of scheep, and of droues vnnoumbreable; forþi þat þe Lord hadde ȝeuen to hym ful mych substaunce.
 xxx He is Ezechie, þat stoppide þe ouer well of þe waters of Gyon, and he turnede hem awey vndirneþe toward þe west of þe citee of Dauid; in alle his werkis he dide welsumly, þat he wolde.
 xxxi Neuerpelater in þe message of þe princis of Babyloyne, þat weren sente to hym, þat þei schulden asken of þe wonder, þat hadde fallen vpon þe erþ, God forsoke hym, þat he schulde be temptid, and alle þingus schulden ben maad knownen þat weren in his herte.
 xxxii Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Ezechie, and of his mercyes, ben writen in þe visioun of Yfay, þe sone of Amos, prophete, and in þe boke of kingus of Juda and of Israel.
 xxxiii And Ezechie flepte wiþ his fadirs, and þei birieden hym vpon þe sepulcres of þe sonus of Dauid.
 And al Juda maad solempne his deed offices, and alle þe dwelleres of Jerusalem; and Manasses, his sone, regnede for hym.

Capitulum XXXIII.

i Of twelue ȝeer was Manasses, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and fyue and fyfty ȝeer he regned in Jerusalem.
 ii Forsoþe he dide euyl before þe Lord aftir þe abomynacyouns of Gentilis, þe whiche þe Lord turnede vpsadoun before þe sonus of Israel.
 iii And turnede he enstrored þe heeȝe þingus, þe whiche Ezechie, his fadir, hadde distruyede. And he sette up auters of Baalym, and maad mawmete wodus, and honourede al þe knyȝthode of heuen, and heriede it.
 iii And he bilde up auters in þe hous of þe Lord, of þe whiche þe Lord hadde feyde, In Jerusalem schal ben my name wiþout eend.
 v Forsoþe he bilde up hem to al þe hoost of heuen in þe two porchis of þe hous of þe Lord.
 vi And he made his sonus to passen þorȝ fijr in þe valey of Hennon; and he weytide sweuens, and he folowede deuynynge in briddes, and he enseruede to enchauntyng craftis, and he hadde wiþ hym deuynours and enchaunters, and many euyls vrouȝt before þe Lord, þat he terre hym.

 vii Grauen also and zoten tookne he putte in þe hous of þe Lord, of þe whiche God spac to Dauid, and to Salomon, his sone, seyinge, In þis hous and in Jerusalem, þat I chees of alle þe lynagis of Israel, I schal putte my name in to euermore; viii and I schal not maken to meuen þe fote of Israel fro þe lond þat I toke to þe fadirs of hem, so oonly ȝif þei kepyn to don þat I comaundide to hem, and al þe lawe, and cerymonyes, and domys, by þe hond of Moyfes.
 ix Panne Manasses deceyuede Judam, and þe dwellers of Jerusalem, þat þei diden euyl ouer alle Gentylis, 'þe whiche þe Lord ouerturnede fro þe face of þe sonus of Israel.
 x And þe Lord spac to hym, and to his puple; and þei wolden not taken heede.
 xi Perfore he ouerladde in to hem princis and hooftis of þe kyng of Affries; and þei taken Manassen, and bounden wiþ cheynes and wiþ gyues þei brouȝten hym in to Babyloyne.
 xii Þe which aftir þat he was to gydre anguyscht, he preyde þe Lord his God, and dide penaunce gretely before þe God of his fadirs.
 xiii And he preyed hym, and halfende ententijfly; and he herde þe orisoun of hym, and he brouȝten hym aȝein in to Jerusalem in to his kyngdam; and Manasses knewȝ, þat þe Lord he is God.
 xiv After þes þingus he bilde a wal wiþoute þe cytee of Dauid, at þe west of Gyon, in þe grete valey, fro þe entre of þe ȝate of fisches, bi enuyroun vnto Ofel; and he enhauncide it hugeli; and he sette princis of þe hoost in alle þe strengþed cytees of Juda.
 xv And he toke away alien goddis and symulacres fro þe hous of þe Lord; þe auters also þat he hadde maad in þe hil of þe hous of þe Lord and in Jerusalem, and al he þrewȝ aferre out of þe cite.
 xvi Bot he enstorede þe auter of þe Lord, and offredre vpon it flayn sacrifices, and pesible, and preyfynge; and he comaundede to Jude, þat he schulde feruen to God of Israel.
 xvii Neuer þe later ȝit þe puple offredre in heeȝe þingus to þe Lord his God.
 xviii Þe remnaunt forsoþe of þe dedis of Manasse, and þe obsecracioun of hym to his God, þe wordis also of þe seearis, þat speeken to hym in þe name of þe Lord God of Israel, ben conteeenede in þe wordis of þe kingus of Israel.
 xix Þe preyer also of hym, and heering, and alle þe synnes, and dispitis, also þe places in þe whiche he bilde up heeȝe þingus, and maad mawmete wodis and ymagis, before þat he dide penaunce, ben writen in þe wordis of Ozai.

xx Forsoþe Manasses slepte wiþ his faders, and þey birieden hym in his hous; and Amon, his sone, regnede for hym.

xi Of two and twenty ȝeer was Amon, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen; and two ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem.

xii And he dide euyl in þe siȝte of þe Lord, as hadde done Manasses, his fader; and to alle þe mawmetis, þat Manasses hadde forgiðe, he offride, and feruede.

xiii And he dradde not þe face of þe Lord, as dradde Manasses, his fadir; and manye more þingus trespasside.

xiv And whanne his seruauntis hadden fworn to gydre aȝeinus hym, þei flowen hym in his hous.

xv But þe toþer multitude of þe puple, hem slayn þat hadden smyten Amon, þei setten Joziam, his sone, kyng for hym.

Capitulum XXXIII.

i Of eiȝt ȝeer was Jozias, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and oon and þrity ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem.

ii And he dide þat was riȝt in þe siȝt of þe Lord; and he wente in þe weies of Dauid, his fadir, and he bowede not to þe riȝt ne to þe left.

iii Þe eiȝþe ȝeer forsoþe of his empyre, whanne ȝit he was a child, he beganne to fechen þe God of his fadir Dauid; and þe twelfþe ȝeer aftir þat he hadde begunnen, he clensed Judeam and Jerusalem fro heeȝe þingus, and mawmete wodis, and symulacres, and grauen þingus.

iv And þei distruȝeden before hym þe auters of Baalym, and þe symulacres þat weren sett vpon; þei waastiden also þe mawmete wodis. And grauen þingus he hewȝ doun, and mynuscht; and vpon þe toumbis of hem, þat weren wount to offren, he scaterede þe releuys.

v Forþermore þe boones of prestis he brende in þe auters of mawmetis, and he clensed Judam and Jerusalem.

vi Bot and in þe citees of Manasse, and of Effraym, and of Semeon, vnto Neptaly, alle þingus he turnede vpfadoun.

vii And whanne þe auters he hadde 'to-scaterede, and þe mawmete wodus and grauen þingus he hadde to-brayȝide in to gobetis, and al þe wasching templis he hadde waastide fro al þe lond of Israel, he is turnede aȝein in to Jerusalem.

viii Panne þe eiȝtenþe ȝeer of his regne, þe lond now clensed and þe temple of þe Lord, he fente Saphan, þe sone of Elchie, and Maazian, prince of þe cytee, and Joa, þe sone of Joachas, chauncelere, þat þei schulden enstore þe hous of þe Lord þeir God.

ix Þe welche camyn to Elchyam, þe grete preste; and monee taken of hym, þat was brouȝt into þe hous of þe

Lord, and þat gadereden Leuytis and porters, of Manasse, and of Effraym, and of alle þe toþer of Israel, also of al Juda and Beniamyn, and þe dwellers of Jerusalem,

x þei token in þe hondis of hem þat stoden vpon to þe werkmen in þe hous of þe Lord, þat þei enstoren þe temple, and eche feble þingus þei bocchyn.

xi And þei ȝeuȝt it to þe craftise men, and to masouns, þat þei schulden bien hewen stones of þe quarers, and trees to þe iunctours of þe bildynge, and to þe ioynynge of þe houses, þat þe kingus of Israel hadden distruȝed.

xii Þe welche feiþfully alle þingus diden. Forsoþe prouostis of þe werkmen weren Jabath, and Abdias, of þe sonus of Merery; Zacharias, and Mosollam, of þe sonis of Caath; þat streyneden þe werk; alle Leuytis, cunnynge in orgnys to syngyn.

xiii Vpon hem forsoþe þat to dyuerse vſes beeren birþens weren scribis, and maisters, þe porters of þe Leuytis.

xiv And whanne þei schulden offeren þe monee, þat was brouȝt in to þe temple of þe Lord, Elchias, þe preste, fonde a boke of þe lawe of þe Lord by þe hond of Moisif;

xv and seiþ to Saphan, scribe, Þe boke of þe lawe I haue founden in þe hous of þe Lord.

xvi And he toke to hym, and he brouȝt in þe volume to þe kyng; and tolde to hym, seyinge, Alle þingus þat þou haft ȝeuȝt in to þe hondis of þi seruauntis, loo! þei ben fulfild.

xvii Þe syluer þat is founden in þe hous of þe Lord þei han ȝotyn; and it is ȝeuȝt to þe prefectis of craftise men, and forgyng dyuerse werkis;

xviii Forþermore Elchias, þe preste, toke to me þis boke.

Þe welche whanne þe kyng present, xix he hadde reherfide, and he hadde herd þe wordis of þe lawe, he kutte his cloþes;

xx and he comaundide to Elchie, and to Aichan, þe sone of Saphan, and to Abdon, þe sone of Micha, also to Saphan, scribe, and to Afie, þe seruaunt of þe kyng, seyinge,

xxi Gop, and preyeþ þe Lord for me, and for þe remnaunt of Israel and of Juda, vpon alle þe wordis of þis boke, þat is founden. Forsoþe grete woodnesse of þe Lord droppide vpon us, forþi þat oure fadirs han not kept þe wordis of þe Lord, þat þei schulden don alle þingus þat ben writhen in þis volume.

xxii Panne wente Elchias, and þes þat to gider of þe kyng weren sent, to Oldam, prophetisse, wif of Sellum, sone of Thecuath, sone of Azia, keper of þe cloþes, 'þe welche dwellide in Jerusalem in 'þe secounde wallynge; and þei speekyn to hyr þe wordis, þat we han aboue told.

xxiii And sche answerde to hem, Þes þingus seiþ þe Lord God of Israel, Seiþ to þe man, þat sente ȝou to me, xxiii Bes þingus seip þe Lord, Loo! I schal bryngyn in euyls vpon þis place, and vpon þe dwellers of it, and alle þe cursingus þat ben writen in þis boke, þat þei radden beforne þe kyng of Juda. xxv For þei forsoken me, and sacrificieden to alien goddis, þat me to wraþ þei schulden terren in alle þe werkis of þeir hondus; and þerfor my woodnessse schal droppen vpon þis place, and it schal not ben queynt.

xxvi To þe kyng forsoþe of Juda, þat fente ȝou for þe Lord to ben preyede, þus spekiþ, Bes þingus seip þe Lord God of Israel, For þou haſt herd þe word of þis volume, xxvii and þin hert is tempered, and þou ert meekeid in þe ſiȝt of þe Lord vpon þes þingus þat ben feid aȝein þis place and þe dwellers of Jerufalem, and þou dredidſt reuerently my face, and cuttist þi cloþes, and weptist before me; I forsoþe haue herd bee, seip þe Lord.
xxviii Nowe forsoþe I schal gedre bee to þi faders, and þou schalt be brut in to þi sepulcre in pese; and þin eeȝen ſchul not feen al þe euyl, þat I am to bryngyn in vpon þis place, and vpon þe dwellers of it. And so þei tolden to þe kyng alle þingus, þat sche hadde feyde.
xxix And he, clepide to gidre alle þe more þoruȝ birþe of Juda and of Jerufalem, xxx ſteiȝede up in to þe hous of þe Lord, and also togydre alle þe men of Juda, and þe dwellers of Jerufalem, prestis, and Leuytis, and al þe puple, fro þe leſte vnto þe moſte; þe whiche heeryng in þe hous of þe Lord, þe kyng radde alle þe wordis of þe volume;
xxxi and ſtondyng in his chayere ſmote pese couenaunt before þe Lord, þat he ſchulde gon aftir hym, and keepyn þe heeftis, and witneſſyngus, and justifiyngus, in al his herte and in al his foule; and he ſchulde done þat ben writen in þat volume, þat he hadde radde.
xxxii Also he adiurede vpon þis alle, þat ben founded in Jerufalem and Beniamyn; and þe dwellers of Jerufalem diden after þe couenaunt of þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.
xxxiii Panne Jozias dide aweye alle þe abomynacions of alle þe regyounſ of þe ſonus of Israel; and maad alle, þat weren laſt in Jerufalem, to feruen to þe Lord þeir God; alle þe dais of his liȝt þei wenten not awey fro þe Lord God of þeir fadirs.

Capitulum XXXV.

i Forſoþe Jozias maad in Jerufalem pasch to þe Lord, þat was offred þe fourtenþe day of þe firſt moneþ;
ii and he ſette prestis in þeir offices; and he meuede hem louely, þat þei ſchulden mynyſtren in þe hous of þe Lord.
iii Also to þe Leuytis, at whos techinge al Israel was halowed to þe Lord, he ſpak, Puttiȝ þe ark in þe feyntuarie of þe temple, þat Salomon, þe ſone of Dauid, kyng of Israel, bilde up; forſoþe ȝe ſchul bern it namore. Nowe forſoþe mynyſtreþ to þe Lord oure God and to his puple Israel, iv and makiȝ ȝou redy by houſes and ȝoure kynredis in þe deuylſouns of eche oon, as Dauid, king of Israel, comauandide, and Salomon, his ſone, diſcriuede;

v and mynyſtreþ in þe feyntuarie bi ȝour meyneſ and Leuytis companyes, vi and, halowed, offreþ pasch; alſo ȝoure breþeren, þat þei mowen aftir þe wordis þat þe Lord ſpac in þe hond of Moyses don, makiȝ redy before.
vii Forþermore Jozias ȝae to al þe puple, þat was founded in to þe ſolempnyte of pasch, lombis, and kides of þe flockes, and of oper feedl beeftis þritty þousand, of oxen forſoþe, þre þousand; þes þingus of al þe ſubtaunce of þe kyng.
viii Alſo his duykis wilfully þat þei voweden offreden, boþe to þe puple and prestis and Leuytis. Bot Elchias, and Zacharias, and Jehiel, princis of þe hous of þe Lord, ȝeuен to þe prestis, to don pasch, feedl beftis mengyngly, two þousand and ſexe hundriȝ, and oxen þre hundriȝ.
ix Choneyas forſoþe, and Semeyas, alſo Nathanael and his breþeren, alſo Azabias, Jahiel, and Josabas, princis of Leuytis, ȝeuен to oper Leuytis, to halowen þe pasch, fyue þousand of feedl beftis, and oxen fyue hundriȝ.
x And þe feruſe is maad redy beforne; and þe prestis ſtoden in þeir office, alſo Leuytis in companyes, after þe kingis comauandement; xi and offred is pasch. And þe prestis ſprengeden þeir hondis wiþ blood, and Leuytis drewen of ſkynnes of brent sacrifices, xii and feuarden hem, þat þei ſchulden ȝeuен by houſes and meyneſ of echon, and þei ſchulden ben offred to þe Lord, as it is writen in þe boke of Moyses; and of oxen þei diden liȝt maner.
xiii And þei rooſteden pasch vpon þe fijr, after þat it is wrijten in þe lawe. Forſoþe peſible hoostis þei ſeeþeden in poſnettis, and cawdroneſ, and pottis, and haſtily þei deleden to al þe puple; xiii to hem ſelue forſoþe, and to þe prestis aftirward þei maden redy; for in þe offrynge of brent sacrifices and talewis, vnto þe nyȝt þe prestis were occupied. Wherfore þe Leuytis to hem ſilf and to þe prestis, ſonus of Aaron, greiþeden laſt.
xv Bot þe ſyngers, ſonus of Asaph, ſtoden in þeir ordre, aftir þe heſte of Dauid, and Asaph, and Eman, and Ydytym, of þe prophetis of þe kyng; þe porters forſoþe bi alle þe ȝatis keptyn al about, ſo þat in no poynþ forſoþe þei wenten fro þe feruſe; wherfore and þe breþeren of hem, Leuytis, greiþeden to hem metis.
xvi Panne al þe heryng of þe Lord lawfuly is fulſild in þat day, þat þei do pasch, and offren brent sacrifice vpon þe auter of þe Lord, aftir þe heſte of þe kyng Jozie.
xvii And þe ſonus of Israel, þat weren founded, diden þer pasch in þat tyme, and þe ſolempnyte of þer looues ſeuen days.

xviii Per was not a pasch lijc to þis in Israel, fro þe days of Samuel, prophete; bot ne eny of þe kingus of Israel maad pasch as Jozias, to þe prestis and Leuytis, and to al Jude and Israel, þat was founden, and to þe dwellers of Jerusalem.
 xix Pe eiȝtenþe ȝeer of þe kyngdam of Jozie þis pasch is halewed.
 xx After þat Jozias hadde enstrored þe temple, Necho, kyng of Egipt, steiȝede up to fiȝten in Charchamys beside Eufraten; and Jozias wente forþ in to aȝein commynge of hym.
 xxi And he, messagers sent to hym, seiȝ, What to me and to þee, kyng of Juda? To day not aȝeinus þee I comme, bot aȝeinus an oþer hous I fyȝte, to whom God comaundide me hastyly to gon; leue aȝeinus God to don, þat is wiþ me, leſt he flee þee.
 xxii Jozias wolde not ben turned aȝein, bot greiþede aȝein hym bataile; and he affentide not to þe wordis of Necho, of þe mouȝt of God, bot wente for to fiȝten in þe feeld of Magedo.
 xxiii And þere woundid of þe scheters, seide to his childe, Lediþ me out of þe bataile, for gretely I am woundid.
 xxiv Pe whiche beeren hym ouer fro oon chaar to an oþer, þat folowede hym, in kingus maner, and beeren hym away in to Jerusalem; and he is deed, and beried in þe costeuous toumbe of his fadirs. And al Juda and Jerusalem weileden hym, xxv Jeremias most, whos alle þe syngers and syngereffes in to þe present day lamentaciouns vpon Jozie replyen; and as lawe it is hadde in Israel, Loo! it is told writhen in þe Lamentacioun.
 xxvi Pe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Jozie, and of his mercyes, þe whiche in þe lawe of þe Lord ben comaundide, xxvii also þe werkis of hym, þe first and þe laſt, ben writhen in þe bok of þe kyngus of Israel and of Juda.

Capitulum XXXVI.

i Toke þanne þe puple of þe lond Joachaz, þe sone of Jozie, and settēn king for his fader in Jerusalem.
 ii Of þre and twenty ȝeer was Joachaz, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and þre moneȝis he regnede in Jerusalem.
 iii Forsoþe þe king of Egipt, whanne he was commen to Jerusalem, remeuede hym, and condempnede þe lond in an hundriȝ talents of syluer and a talent of gold.
 iv And he sette king for hym Elyachyn, his broþer, vpon Judam and Jerusalem; and he turnede his name Joachym. Hym forsoþe Joachaz he toke wiþ hym, and brouȝt in to Egipt.
 v Of fyue and twenty ȝeer was Joachym, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and elleuen ȝeer he regnede in Jerusalem, and he dide euyl beforne þe Lord his God.

vi Aȝeins þis steiȝid up Nabugodonosor, king of Caldeis, and bounden wiþ cheynes ladde in to Babyloyn.
 vii To þe whiche and þe vessels of þe Lord he translatiode, and putte hem in his temple.
 viii Pe remnaunt forsoþe of þe wordis of Joachym, and his abomynaciouns þat he wrouȝte, and þat ben founden in hym, ben contended in þe boke of þe kingus of Israel and of Juda. Þanne Joachym, his sone, regnede for hym.
 ix Of eiȝt ȝeer was Joachym, whanne he hadde begunn to regnen, and þre moneȝis and tenn days he regnēd in Jerusalem, and he dide euyl in þe siȝt of þe Lord.
 x And whanne þe cercle of oo ȝeer were turned, king Nabugodonosor fente hem, þe whiche and brouȝten hym into Babyloyn, born away togider þe most precious vessels of þe hous of þe Lord. Forsoþe he sette Sedechie, his vncle, kyng vpon Judam and Jerusalem.
 xi And of oon and twenty ȝeer was Sedechias, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen, and elleuen ȝeer he regnēd in Jerusalem.
 xii And he dide euyl in þe eeȝen of þe Lord his God, ne he schamyde þe face of Jeremye, þe prophete, spekinge to hym of þe mouȝt of þe Lord.
 xiii Also fro king Nabugodonosor he wente awei, þe whiche hadde adiurede hym bi God; and he endurede his nolle and herte, þat he were not turnede aȝein to þe Lord God of Israel.
 xiv Bot and alle þe princis of prestis and þe puple trespaseden wickidly, after alle þe abomynaciouns of gentilis; and bei defouleden þe hous of þe Lord, þat he halowede to hym in Jerusalem.
 xv Pe Lord forsoþe God of þeir fadirs fente to hem bi þe hond of his messagers, fro nyȝt rijfyng, and eche day togydre monestynge; forþi þat he wolde sparen to þe puple, and to his dwellynge place.
 xvi And þei vndremoweden þe messagers of God, and disspiseden his wordis, and scorneden to be prophetis; to þe tyme þat schulde steiȝ vp þe woodnesse of þe Lord vpon his puple, and were no medecyne.
 xvii And he brouȝt vpon hem þe king of Caldeis; and he flowȝ þe ȝong men of hem wiþ swerd in þe hous of þe feyntuarye; and he hadde not reuȝ of þe ȝong waxe man, and of þe meyden, and of þe olde man, ne forsoþe of þe ful feble for eeld, bot alle he toke in his hondis.
 xviii And alle þe vessels of þe hous of þe Lord, boþe more and lasse, and þe trefores of þe temple, and of þe kyng, and of þe princis, he bare ouer in to Babyloyn.
 xix Enmyes brenden up þe hous of þe Lord, distruyeden þe wal of Jerusalem, alle þe toures brenden, and whatewe was precyous þei waastiden.
 xx ȝif eny hadde scapid þe swerd, lad in to Babyloyn, feruede to þe king and his sonus; to þe tyme þat þe kyng of Persis hadde empyre, xxi and were fulfilld þe word of þe Lord of þe mouþ of Jereme, and þe lond schulde halowen þeir holy days. Forsoþe alle þe days of desolacioun he dide saboth, vnto þe whijl feuenty ȝeer weren fulfilld.

xxii Forsoþe þe first ȝeer of Cirus, kyng of Persis, to fulfillle þe word of þe Lord, þat he hadde spoken by þe mouþ of Jereme, þe Lord stired þe spirite of Cirus, kyng of Persis, þat comaundide to ben prechide to al his rewme also by scripture, seyng, xxiii þes þingus seip Cirus, kyng of Persis, Alle þe rewmes of þe erþ ȝaf to me þe Lord God of heuen, and he comaundide to me, þat I schulde bilde up to hym an hous in Jerusalen, þe whiche is in Jude. Who of ȝou is in al þe puple of hym? be þe Lord his God wiþ hym, and steiȝe he up.

Lord God Almyȝty of our faders, Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, and to þe riȝtwise seede of hem, þe whiche madist heuen and erþ wiþ al þe ournyng of hem, 'þe whiche markedist þe se wiþ þe word of þin heste, whiche closedist þe depnesse, and merkedist to þi ferful and preyfable name, þat alle inwardly dreeden, and tremblen fro þi chere of þi vertue, and vnsuffrable wrab vpon þe synnful of þi pretynge. Forsoþe wiþ ouþe mesure grete and vnferchable þe mercy of þi behest; for þou art Lord alþerheeȝest vpon al erþ, long abidyngh and miche merciful, and oþinkyngh vpon þe malices of men. Pou forsoþe, Lord, after þi goodnesse haft bihoten penaunce of remissiouȝ of synnes; and þou, God of riȝtwis men, haft not putte penaunce to þe riȝtwisȝ, Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, to hem þat to þee synnede not. For I haue synnede ouer þe noumber of grauel of þe see; multiplied ben my wickidnesses. I am myche croked wiþ myche bond of yren, and þere is not aȝeyn breþing to me; for I stirede þi wrab, and euyl before þee I dide, settyng abomynacyouns and multiplying offencions. And nowe I bowe þe knees of myn herte, preyng of þee goodnesse, Lord. I synnede, Lord, I synnede, and my wickidnesse I knowe. I aske, preyng þee, Lord; forȝeue to me, forȝeue to me, ne togidre leefe þou me wiþ my wickidnesse, ne wiþout eend referue þou euyls to me. For vnworþi þou I schalt lauen me after þi grete mercy, and I schal preyfен þee euermore alle þe days of my lyue; for þee preyfен al þe vertue of heuens, and to þee is glorie in to world of worldis. Amen.

I. ESDRE.

Prologue to þe books of Eſdras.

Wheþer it be hardere to do þat ȝee asken, or to denyen, I haue not ȝyt demed; for nouþer to ȝou any þing comaudende is of sentence to forsaken, and þe gretneſſe of charge put vpon oure nollis bereþ doun, þat raþere it be to fallen doun vndir þe berþene, þan to reren. Þe studies of enuyouse men neȝhen to þis, þat alle þing þat we wryten, weenen repref wrþi, and oþer while concience repugnende aȝen hemself, opinli þei to-tern þat þei reden priueli; in so myche þat I am confstreynd to crien, and sein, Lord, deliuere my soule fro wicke lippis, and fro a trecherous tunge. Þe pridde ȝer is þat euer mor ȝee wrijten and aȝeen wrijten, þat þe boc of Eſdre and Ester I translate to ȝou fro Ebrue, as þof ȝee han not Grekis and Latynes volumus, or what euere þing þat is þat of vs is turned, not anon of alle men it be to be dispisid. In vein forsoþe, as seip sum man, to enforcen, ne oþer þing in trauailing fechen but hate, is of vttermost wodnesse. And so, I beseeche ȝou, my derworþest Domynyon and Rogacian, þat ȝe apaȝed bi priuat lessoun, ber not out þe bokes in to comun, leſt ȝee profre metis to vggli men; and eschewe ȝee þe pride of hem, þat onli to demen of opere, and þei þemselue knewen no þing to do. If any forsoþe of breþern ben, to whom ouren displefen not, to þem ȝiueþ a faumpler, amonestende þat þe Ebrue namus, of þe whiche in þis volume is gret plente, distinctli and bi spaciis þei transcryue; forsoþe no þing it profitide to han amendid bokis, but þe amending be kept bi diligence of writeris. Ne any man moue it, þat o boc is maad of vs, ne delite he in þe sfeuenes of þe written þingus wiþoute autorite of þe pridde and of þe ferþe boc; for and anentis þe Ebrues þe woordis of Eſdre and of Noemye in o volume ben togidere drawen, and þoo þingus þat ben not had anentis hem, 'ne ben not of þe foure and twenti olde men, ben worþi to be caſt awei aferr. If any man forsoþe aȝen legge to vs þe feuenti remenoures, of whom þe faumpleris þe diuersete shewiþ hem to-torn and turned vpsodoun, ne forsoþe it mai not ben afermed soþ þat þat is diuers, fendeþ hym to þe euangelies, in þe whiche many þingus ben put of þe olde testament, þe whiche anent þe feuenti remenoures ben not had, as þat, For Nazare he shal ben clepid; and, Fro Egipt I clepede my sone; and, Peþ Shul seen in whom þei pungeden; and manye opere þingus, þe whiche we refseruen to a braddere werc; and askeþ of hym, where þei ben writen; and whan þei schul not moun tellen, rede ȝee of þoo faumpleris, þe whiche, sum time maad of vs, ben stikid eche dai wiþ þe tungus of euele spekeris. But þat to short tretee I come; certis þat I 'am to concluden is most riȝtwis; haue I maad any þing þat is not had in Greec, or þat oþerwise is had þan off me is turned? Wherto þe remenour þei to-tern? Aske þei þe Ebrues, and bi þoo autouris, to my translacioun or ȝiue þei feiþ or wiþdrawe. Certis anoþer is, for þei wiln myllein to me, þat it is seid, wiþ cloſid eȝen, and þei folewien not þe studie and þe weel willing of Grekis, þe whiche astir þe feuenty remenoures, now shinenende þe euangelie of Crist, and curiouſli reden Jewis and Hebionytiſ, remenoures of þe olde lawe, Aquilam, þat is, Symachum, and Theodocian, and bi þe traualie of Origenes þei halewidē to chirchis in fixe maner transflaciounſ. Myche more Latin men aȝten to be kinde, þat þei beholden Grece gladende of hem any þing to borewen. Þe firſte forſoþe is of gret costis and of diſſicuite wiþoute ende, to moun han alle þe exſaumpleris; alſo þeraſtir þei þat han, and ben vnkunnende of Ebrue ſpeche, more ſhuln erren, vnknowende who of manye trewliere ſeip. Þe whiche alſo fel ſum time to a moſt wiſ man amongis þe Grekis, þat oþerwhile leuende þe ſens of scripture he folewide þe errore of eche remenour. Wee forſoþe þat nameli of Ebru tunge han a litil kunning, and Latin ſpeche ȝit hidē to failiþ not to vs, þat of oþere more we moun demen, and þoo þingus þat wee viſſelf vnderſtonden, in oure owne tunge ſhewin. And ſo þof þe ſerpentt hiſſe and þe ouercomere if he browe not brennyngus vp, neuer my ſpeche ſhal be ſtille, Crist helpende; alſo þe tunge kut of it ſhal blaþeren. Rede þei þat wiln; þat wiln not, caſte þei awei. And ferche þei out þe letteris, and falli acuse þei þe lettiris; more bi ȝoure charite I ſhal ben ſtirid to ſtudie, þan I ſhal ben agaſt bi þe hate and þe bacbiting of hem.

Anoþer prolog.

Eſdras and Neemye, helpere, þat is, and coumfortour fro þe Lord, in o volume ben drawen. Þei enſtoren þe temple; þe wallis of þe cite þei maken vp. And al þat cumpanye of þe puple turnende aȝeen in to þe kuntre, and þe descripcioune of preſtus, and of Leuitus, and of þe conuertide to þe folc of Israel, and by alle þe meynes of þe wallis and touris þe werkis deuidid, oþer þing bern in þe rinde, oþer þing þey holdin in þe marȝ. Þis aftir Jude brend vp of þe Caldeis, whil þe Jewis were turned aȝeen into Jerufalem, alle þe bokis of þe olde teſtament reparaileide, and enſpirid wiþ Godis Spirit alle þe volumys of profetis, þat weren of þe Jentilis corrupt amendide; wherfore it is writen, Eſdras ſteȝide vp fro Babiloyne, and he a ſwift ſcribe in þe lawe of Moiſes, ſwift, þat is, for more redi figuris of lettiris, þan þe Ebrues beforhond hadden, he fond.

Here begynneþ þe fyrf book of Eſdre.

Capitulum I.

i In þe firſte ȝer of Ciri, king of Persis, þat þe woord of þe Lord of þe mouȝ of Jeremye were fulfiſd, þe Lord rerede þe ſpirit of Ciri, king of Persis, and ladde ouer þe vois in al his rewme alſo bi scripture, ſciende, ii þeſe þingus ſeip Ciru, king of Persis, Alle þe reumes of þe erþe þe Lord God of heuene and of erþe haþ ȝiue to me, and he comaundede to me, þat I ſhulde bilde to hym an hous in Jerufalem, þat is in Jude.

iii Who is in ȝou of al þe puple of hym? be þe God of hym wiþ hym; ſteȝe he vp in to Jerufalem, þat is in Jude, and bilde he vp an hous of þe Lord God of Israel; he is God, þat is in Jerufalem.

iv And alle þe oþere in alle placis, wher euere þei dwellen, helpe þei hym; þe men of his place, wiþ ſiluer, and gold, and ſuſtaunce, and beſtis, out take þat wiſfulli þei offre to þe temple of God, þat is in Jerufalem.

v And þe princis of þe fadris of Juda and of Beniamyn, and preſtis, and Leuitus, eche whos ſpirit God rerede, riſen, þat þei ſteȝen vp to bilden þe temple of þe Lord, þat was in Jerufalem.

vi And alle þat weren in þe enuyroun helpiden þe hondis of hem, in ſiluerene, and goldene vefelis, in ſuſtaunce, in neceſſarie þing, in beſtis, out take þoo þingus þat þei hadden offrid wiſfully.

vii Forſoþe king Ciru broȝte forþ þe vefelis of þe temple of þe Lord, þe whiche Nabugodonosor hadde taken fro Jerufalem, and hadde put hem in þe temple of his god.

xii Manie also of þe prestis, and Leuitus, and þe princis of fadris, and þe eldere, þat hadden seen þe raþere temple, whan it was foundid, and þis temple in þe eȝen of hem, wepten wiþ a gret vois, and manye criende out in gladnessse rereden vp a vois;

xiii ne any man myȝte knownen þe vois of þe cri of men gladende, and þe vois of þe weping of þe puple; forsoþe mengingli togidere þe puple criede out wiþ a gret cri, and þe vois was herd aferr.

Capitulum III.

i Forsoþe þe enemys of Jude and of Beniamyn herden, for þee sonus of caitifte shulden bilden vp þe temple to þe Lord God of Israel;

ii and, neȝhende to Sorobabel, and to þe princis of fadris, seiden to hem, Bilde wee vp wiþ ȝou, for so as ȝee, wee sechen ȝour God; lo! wee offren slain sacrificises fro þe dæs of Assoroddon, king of Assur, þat broȝte vs hider.

iii And Sorobabel feide to þem, and Josue, and þe toþere princis of þe fadris of Israel, It is not to vs and to ȝou, þat wee bilde vp an hous to oure God; but wee vffself alone shul bilden vp to þe Lord oure God, as to vs Cirus, king of Persis, comaundede.

iv It is do forsoþe, þat þe puple of þe lond shulde lette þe hondis of þe puple of Jude, and disturben þem in bielding.

v Forsoþe þei hadden hirid aȝen hem counseileris, þat þei shulden destroȝe þe conseil of hem, alle þe dæs of Ciri, king of Persis, and vnto þe regne of Daryi, king of Persis, two ȝeer þei ben lettid.

vi In þe regne forsoþe of Affueri, he is Artaxerxes, in þe begynning of his regne, þei writen accusacioun aȝen þe dwelleris of Jude and of Jerusalem;

vii and in þe dæs of Artaxerxes, Besellam Mitridates wrot, and Thabel, and þe toþere þat weren in þe conseil of hem, to Artaxerxes, king of Persis. Forsoþe þe epistil of accusacioun is writen Cire maner, and it was rad in Cire speche.

viii Reum, Bethlem, and Sansai, scribe, writen oon epistil fro Jerusalem to Artaxerse þe king 'on þis maner;

ix Reum, Bethlem, and Sansai, scribe, and þe toþere counseilourys of hem, Dinaei, Farsarei, Therfalei, Arfaei, Arthuei, Babiloyns, Susannathaneis, Daceis, Elamydis, x and þe toþere of þe Jentilis, whom translatide þe grete and glorious Affennafar, and made þem to dwellen in þe cites of Samarie, and in opere regiouns bezunde þe flod, in pes.

xi Þis is þe faumpler of þe epistil, þat þei senten to hym. To Artaxerxi, king, bi seruauns, men þat ben bezunde þe flod, greting sein.

xii Be it knownen to þe king, for Jewis þat steyden vp fro þee to vs, camen in to Jerusalem, cite rebel and werft, þe whiche þei bilden vp, makende vp þe stonene wallis of it, and makende wowify.

xiii Now þanne be it knowe to be king, for if þat cite were bild vp, and þe wallis of it enstorid, tribute, and pedage, and ȝeris rentus þei shul not ȝiue, and vnto þe king þis blame shal come.

xiv Wee þanne mynde hauende of þe salt, þat in þe paleis wee eeten, and for þe harmys of þe king to seen vnleeful wee holden, þerfore wee han sent and told to be king;

xv þat þou enserche in þe bokis of þe stories of þi fadris, and þou shalt finde write in armaries, and knownen, for þat cite is a rebel cite, and noȝende to kingus and to prouincis, and batailis ben sterid vp in it of old daȝes; for what þing and þat cite is destroȝid.

xvi Wee tellen to be king, for if þat cite were bild vp, and his wallis enstorid, þou shalt not han posseſſioune bezunde þe flod.

xvii Þe king sente woord to Reum, Bethlem, and to Sansay, scribe, and to þe toþere þat weren in þe counseil of hem, dwelleris of Samarie, and to þe toþere bezunde þe flod, Greetinge, seiende, and pes.

xviii Þe acusacioun, þat ȝee senten to vs, openli is rad befor me;

xix and of me it is comaundid, and þei ensercheden, and founden, for þat cite of olde daȝes aȝen kingus rebelliþ, and descenciouns and batailis ben rerid vp in it;

xx for and most stronge kingis weren in Jerusalēm, þe whiche and lordshipeden to al þe regioun þat is bezunde þe flod; tribute also, and pedage, and rentis, þei token.

xxi Now þanne hereþ þe lenthence, þat ȝee forfende þoo men, and þat cite be not bild vp, to þe time if perauenture of me it were comaundid.

xxii Seeþ, leſt necgligentli þis be fulſild, and litilmelum growe euel aȝen kingys.

xxiii And so þe faumples of þe maundement of Artaxerxes, king, is rad befor Reum, Bethlem, and Sanſai, scribe, and þe counseileris of hem; and þei wenten haſtif in to Jerusalēm to þe Jewis, and þei forfendeden þem in power and strengþe.

xxiv Þanne is laſt of þe werc of þe hous of God in Jerusalēm, and it was not maad vnto þe lēcunde ȝer of þe regne of Darii, king of Persis.

Capitulum V.

i Forſoþe þer profecieden Aggeus, profete, and Zacharias, profete, þe sone of Addo, propheciende to þe Jewis þat weren in Jude and Jerusalēm, in þe name of God of Israel.

ii Þanne riſen Sorobabel, þe sone of Salatiel, and Josue, þe sone of Josedech, and þei begunnen to bilden vp þe temple of God in Jerusalēm; and wiþ hem profetis, helpende hem.

iii In þat forſoþe time cam to hem Thathannai, þat was duk bezunde þe flod, and Starbusannai, and þe counſeiloures of hem; and þus þei ſeiden to hem, Who ȝaf to ȝou counſeil, þat þis hous ȝee ſhulden bilden vp, and þese wallis enſtore?

iv To þe whiche wee anſwerden to hem, whiche weren þe namys of men, autouris of þat biling.

v Þe eȝe forſoþe of þe God of hem is don vpon þe olde men of Jewis, and þei myȝte not forfenden hem; and it pleſide þat þe þing were told to Darie, and þanne þei ſhulden don aſeþ aȝen þat acuſing.

vi Þe faumperl of þe epiftil, þat ſente Thathannai, duk of þe regioun bezunde þe flod, and Starbusannai, and þe counſeileris of hym, Arfarſacei, þat weren bezunde þe flod, to Darie, þe king.

vii Þe woord þat þei ſenten to hym þus was written; To Darie, þe king, alle pes.

viii Be it knownen to be king, wee to han go to Jude prouynce, to þe hous of þe grete God, þat is bild vp wiþ ſton vnpolifht, and trees ben sett in þe wowis, and þat were diligentli is maad up, and waxeþ in þe hondis of hem.

ix Wee axeden þanne þoo olde men, and þus we ſeiden to þem, Who ȝaf to ȝou power þat þis hous ȝee ſhulden bilden, and þe wallis enſtore?

x But and þe names of hem we han ſoȝt of hem, þat wee telle to þee; and we han write þe namus of þe men þat ben princis in hem.

xi Forſoþe ſuch woord þei anſwerden to vs, feiende, We ben þe feruauns of God of heuene and of erþe; and we bilden vp þe temple þat was maad out befor þese ȝeris manye, and þe whiche þe grete king of Israel hadde bild, and maad out.

xii Forſoþe aftir þat to wreþe oure fadris hadden terred þe God of heuene, he toc hem in þe hond of Nabugodonosor, king of Babiloyne, Caldeis; and þis hous he destroȝede, and þe puple of it he tranflatide in to Babiloine.

xiii Forſoþe þe firſte ȝer of Ciri, king of Babiloine, Cirus, king of Babiloyne, purpoſide a maundement, þat þe hous of God ſhulde be maad vp.

xiv For and þe vefelis of þe temple of God, goldene and filuerene, þat Nabugodonosor hadde take fro þe temple, þat was in Jerusalēm, and hadde born hem awei in to þe temple of Babiloyne, king Cirus broȝte forþ fro þe temple of Babyloine, and ben ȝiue to Zazabazar bi name, whom and he ordeynede prince.

xv And he ſeide to hym, Þeſe vefelis tac, and go, and put hem in þe temple, þat is in Jerusalēm; and þe hous of God be bild vp in his place.

xvi And so þanne þilke Zazabazar cam, and ſette þe groundis of þe temple of God in Jerusalēm; and fro þat time vnto now it is bild, and ȝit is not fulſild.

xvii Now þanne if it ſeme to þe king good, enſerche he in þe librarie of þe king, þat is in Babiloyne, wheþer forſoþe of king Cire it be comaunded, þat þe hous of God ſhulde be bilde vp in Jerusalēm; and þe wil of þe king vpon þis þing ſende he to vs.

Capitulum VI.

- i Thanne king Darie comaunded, and þei enscheriden in þe tresorie of þe bokis, þat weren leid vp in Babiloine.
- ii And þere is founde in Egbadonys, þat is a castel in Medene prouynce, o volume, and such a sentence was writen in it.
- iii þe firste ȝer of Ciri king, Cirus þe king demede, þat þe hous of God, þat is in Jerusalem, shulde be bild vp in þe place where þei offren ostus, and þat þei putte groundis vnderberende þe heiȝte of sixti cubitus, and þe breedë of sixti cubitus,
- iv and þre ordris of vnpolisht stonis, and so ordris of newe trees. Costis forsoþe of þe hous of þe king shulden ben ȝiue.
- v But and þe veffelis, goldene and siluerene of þe temple of God, þat Nabugodonosor hadde take of þe temple of Jerusalem, and broȝt hem in to Babiloine, be þei ȝolden, and born aȝeen in to þe temple of Jerusalem, and in to þer place, þe whiche and ben put in þe temple of God.
- vi Now þanne Thathannai, duke of þe regioun þat is þeȝunde þe flod, and Scarbusannai, and ȝoure counseileris, Arfasacei, þat ben þeȝunde þe flod, aferr goþ awei fro þem;
- vii and leteþ to be maad þat temple of God of þe duke of Jewis, and of þe elders of hem; and þat hous of God bilde þei in his place.
- viii But and of me it is comaundid, þat it behoueþ to be maad of þoo prestus of Jewis, þat þe hous of God be bild vp, þat is, þat of þe kingis cofre, þat is, of tributis, þat ben ȝiue of þe regioun þeȝunde þe flod, besili costys be ȝiue to þoo men, leſt be lettid þe werk.
- ix Pat if nede were, and caluis, and lombis, and kidis in to brent sacrifice to þe God of heuene; whete, salt, and win, and oil, aftir þe custum of prestus þat ben in Jerusalem, be þer ȝiue to þem bi alle daȝis, leſt þer be in any þing pleynnyng.
- x And offre þei offringus to þe God of heuene; and preþe þei for þe lif of þe king and of his sonus.
- xi Of me þanne is sett a decree, þat eche man þat þis comaundement chaungiþ, be don awei þe tree of þe hous of hym, and be he rerid vp, and tobrosid in it; þe hous forsoþe of hym be forfeitid.
- xii God forsoþe, þat makeþ to dwellen his name þere, scatere alle reumys and puple, þat strecchiþ out þer hond, þat þei wiþtonde and scatere þat hous of God, þat is in Jerusalem. I Darie haue ordeined a decre, þe whiche bisili I wile to be fulfilid.
- xiii Perfore Thathannai, duk of þe regioun þeȝunde þe flod, and Scarbusannay, and þe conseileris of hym, after þat king Darie hadde comaunded so diligentli, folewiden out.
- xiv þe eldere forsoþe of Jewis bilden vp, and hadden prosperite, after þe profecie of Aggei, þe profete, and of Zacarie, sone of Addo; and þei bilden, and maden, þe God of Israel comaundende, and comaundende Ciro, and Darie, and Artaxerse, kingus of Persis;

xv and þei fulfilden þis hous of God vnto þe bridd dai of þe monyþ of Adar, þat is þe sixte ȝer of þe regne of king Darie.

xvi Forsoþe þe sonus of Israel, prestus and Leuitus, and þe toþere of þe sonus of transmygracioun, maden þe dedicacioun of þe hous of God in iοȝe;

xvii and offriden, in þe dedicacioun of þe hous of God, caluys an hundrid, weperis two hundrid, lambys foure hundrid, get buckis for þe synne of al þe puple twelue, after þe noumbre of þe linagis of Israel.

xviii And þei ordeyneden prestus in þer ordris, and Leuitus in þer whilis, vp on þe werkis of God in Jerusalem, as it is write in þe boc of Moifes.

xix Forsoþe þe sonus of transmygracioun maden pasch, þe fourtenþe dai of þe firste monyþ.

xx Forsoþe þe prestus and Leuitus as oon weren purified, alle clene to offren pasch to alle þe sonus of transmygracioun, and to þeir breþern prestus, and to þemself.

xxi And þe sonus of Israel, þat weren turned aȝeen of þe transmygracioun, eeten, and alle þat hadden feuered hemself fro al defouling of Jentilis of þe lond to þem, þat þei seche þe Lord God of Israel.

xxii And þei maden þe solempnetye of þerue louys feuen daȝes in gladnesse; for þe Lord hadde gladdid hem, and conuertid þe herte of king Assur to hem, þat he helpe þe hondis of hem in þe werk of þe hous of þe Lord God of Israel.

Capitulum VII.

- i Aftir þese woordis forsoþe, in þe regne of Artaxerxes, king of Persis, Esdras, þe sone of Saraie, sone of Azarie, sone of Elchie,
- ii sone of Sellum, sone of Sadoch, sone of Achitob,
- iii sone of Amarie, sone of Azarie, sone of Maraioth,
- iv sone of Saraie, sone of Osi, sone of Bocci,
- v sone of Abisue, sone of Finees, sone of Eleasar, sone of Aron, prest fro þe begynnnyng;
- vi þis Esdras stedeþe vp fro Babiloine, and he a swift scribe in þe lawe of Moifes, þe whiche þe Lord God of Israel ȝaf; and þe king ȝaf to hym, after þe goode hond of þe Lord his God vpon hym, al his asking.
- vii And þer stedeþe vp of þe sonus of Israel, and of þe sonus of prestus, and of þe sonus of Leuitus, and of þe fingeres, and of þe portoris, and of þe fodeknys, in Jerusalem þe feuenþe ȝer of Artaxerxes, king.
- viii And þei camen in to Jerusalem þe fifte monyþ; þis is þe feuenþe ȝer of þe king.
- ix For in þe firste dai of þe firste monyþ þei begunnen to stedeþe vp fro Babiloine, and in þe firste dai of þe fifte monyþ he cam in to Jerusalem, after þe goode hond of his God vpon hym.

x Esdras forsoþe greiþede his herte, þat he enserche þe lawe of þe Lord, and do, and teche in Israel maundement and dom.

xi Bis is forsoþe þe faumpler of þe epistil of þe maundement, þat king Artaxerxes ȝaf to Eſdre, preest, wiſ ſcribe in woordis and in maundemens of þe Lord, and his cerimoines in Israel.

xii Artaxerxes, king of kingus, to Eſdre, þe preſt, moſt wiſ ſcribe of þe lawe of God of heuene, greeting.

xiii Of me is a decre, þat to whomſoever it pleſe in my rewme of þe puple of Israel, and of his preſtus, and of þe Leuitus, to gon in to Jerusalem, go he wiþ bee.

xiv Forſoþe fro þe face of þe king and of þe feuene counſeileris of hym þou art ſent, þat þou viſite Jude and Jerusalem in þe lawe of þi God, þat is in þi hond;

xv and þat þou bere filuer and gold, þat þe king and his counſeileris wilfulli offriden to þe God of Israel, whos tabernacle is in Jerusalem.

xvi And al þe filuer and gold, what euere þou findiſt in al þe prouince of Babiloine, and þe puple wile offren, and of þe preſtus þat wilfulli offriden to þe hous of þer God, þat is in Jerusalem, xvii freli to taken; and bisili bie of þat monei calues, weperis, lombis, and ſacrifiſes, and þe offring of likouris of hem; and offre þem vpon þe auter of þe temple of ȝour God, þat is in Jerusalem.

xviii But and if any þing to þee, and to þi breþern pleſe, of þe remnaunt of filuer and of gold þat ȝee do, after þe wil of ȝoure God doþ;

xix alſo þe veffelis þat ben ȝiue in þe ſeruife of þe hous of þi God, tac in þe liȝte of God in to Jerusalem.

xx But and oþere þingus þe whiche nede were in þe hous of þi God, hou miche euere is nede, þat þou ſpende, þou ſhalt ȝiue of þe tresor of þe king and of þe comun bagge, and of me.

xi I, Artaxerxes, king, haue ordeined, and demed to alle þe keperis of þe comun cofre, þat ben beþonde þe flod, þat what euer ake of ȝou Eſdras, preſt, ſcribe of þe lawe of God of heuene, wiþoute tariyng ȝiue ȝee, xxii vnto an hundred talentus of filuir, and vnto an hundred batus of win, and vnto an hundred choris of wheate, and vnto an hundred batus of oile, salt forſoþe wiþoute meſure.

xxiii Al þat to þe rit of God of heuene perteneþ, be it ȝiue bisili in þe hous of God of heuene, left perauenture he be wroþ aȝen þe reume of þe king and of his ſonus.

xxiv To ȝou alſo we maken knownen of alle þe preſtus, and Leuitus, fingeres, porteris, fodeknys, and mynystris of þe hous of þis God, and pedage and tribute and ȝeris frutus haue ȝee no power of putting vpon hem.

xxv Pou forſoþe, Eſdra, after þe wiſdom of þi God, þat is in þin hond, ordeine þou domylmen and gouernoures, þat þei deme to al þe puple, þat is beþonde þe flod, to hem, þat is, þat knewen þe lawe of þi God, and þe lawe of þe king; but and vnwise men techeþ freely.

xxvi And eche þat doþ not þe lawe of þi God, and þe lawe of þe king bisili, dom ſhal ben of hym, or in to deþ, or in to outlawe, or in to condempnacioun of his ſubſtaunce, or certis in to prisoun. And Eſdras, ſcribe, feide, xxvii Bleſſid þe Lord God of oure fadris, þat ȝaf þis in þe herte of þe king, þat he ſhulde glorifie þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerusalem, xxviii and in me haþ in bowid his merci befor þe king, and his counſeileris, and alle þe myȝti princis of þe king And I, coumfortid bi þe hond of þe Lord, of my God, þat was in me, I gaderede of þe ſonus of Israel princis, þat ſteȝeden vp wiþ me.

Capitulum VIII.

i These þanne ben þe princis of meines, and þis þe genelogie of hem, þat ſteȝeden vp wiþ me in þe reume of Artaxerxes, king, fro Babiloine.

ii Of þe ſonus of Finees, Jerſon; of þe ſonus of Ithamar, Danyel; of þe ſonus of Dauid, iii Archus; of þe ſonus of Sechemye and of þe ſonus of Faros, Zacharias, and wiþ hym ben noumbrið an hundred and fifty men;

iv of þe ſonus of Fethmoab and of Eleoenai, ſone of Zacharie, and wiþ hym two hundred men;

v of þe ſonus of Sechemye, ſone of Jefechiel, and wiþ hym þre hundred men;

vi of þe ſonus of Addaenebeth, ſone of Jonathan, and wiþ hym fifty men;

vii of þe ſonus of Elam, Ifaias, þe ſone of Italie, and wiþ hym ſeuenti men;

viii of þe ſonus of Safacie, Zebedias, þe ſone of Mychael, and wiþ hym eiȝteti men;

ix of þe ſonus of Joab, Obedia, þe ſone of Jehiel, and wiþ hym two hundred and eiȝtetene men;

x of þe ſonus of Salomyth, þe ſone of Josfie, and wiþ hym an hundred and ſixti men;

xi of þe ſonus of Belbai, Zacharias, þe ſone of Bebai, and wiþ hym twenty and eiȝte men;

xii of þe ſonus of Eſiad, Johannan, þe ſone of Efethan, and wiþ hym an hundred and ten men;

xiii of þe ſonus of Odonycham, þat laſt weren, and þese þe namus of hem, Elifilech, and Heiel, and Samaias, and wiþ hem ſixti men;

xiv of þe ſonus of Beguy, Vthai, and Saccur, and wiþ hem ſeuenti men.

xv I gederede hem forſoþe to þe flod, þat renneþ to Hanna; and wee dwelten þere þre daȝis. And I ſoȝte in þe puple, and in þe preſtus of þe ſonus of Ley, and I fond not þere.

xvi And so I ſente Elizer, and Arihel, and Semeiam, and Elnathan, and Jaubeth, and an oþer Elnathan, and

Nathan, and Zacharie, and Mesollam, princis; and Joarib, and Elnathan, wife men;
xvii and I sente hem to Heldo, þe whiche is þe firste in þe place off Casfee, and I putte in þe mouþ of hem wordis, þat þei shulden speken to Eldo, and to þe breþern of hym, fodeknys, in þe place of Casfee, þat þei shulden bringe to vs mynistris of þe hous of oure God.

xviii And þei broȝten to vs, bi þe goode hond of oure God vpon vs, a most wis man of þe sonus of Mooli, sone of Leui, sone of Israel; and Sarabiam, and þe sonus of hym, twenti, and þe breþern of hym, eiȝtetene;
xix and Azabie, and wiþ hym, Ifaie, of þe sonys of Merari, þe breþern of hym, and þe sonys of hym, twenti;

xx and of þe fodeknys, þat Dauid hadde ȝiue and princis to þe seruise of Leuitys, fodeknys two hundrid and twenti; alle þese bi þer namys weren clepid.

xxi And I prechide þere fasting beside þe flod of Hanna, þat we shulden ben traualid in penaunce befor þe Lord oure God, and asken of hym a riȝt weie to vs, and to oure sonus, and to al oure substauence.

xxii Forsoþe I was ashamyd to asken þe king helpe, and horſe men, þat myȝten defenden vs fro þe enemy in þe weie, for wee hadden seid to þe king, Þe hond of oure God is vpon alle þat sechen hym in goodnesse; and þe empire of hym, and þe strengþe of hym, and wodnesse vpon alle þat forsaken hym.

xxiii Wee fasteden forsoþe, and prezeden oure God for þis, and it cam to vs welfumli.

xxiv And I feuerede of þe princis of prestis twelue, Sarabiam, Sazabiam, and wiþ hem of þe breþern of hem, ten;

xxv and I peisede to hem þe siluer and gold, and þe sacride vesselis of þe hous of oure God, þe whiche þe king hadde offrid, and þe counseileris of hym, and þe princis of hym, and al Israel, of hem þat weren founden.

xxvi And I peisede in þe hondis of hem of siluer talentis sixe hundrid and fifti, and siluerene vesselys an hundrid; of gold an hundrid talentus, xxvii and goldene chalicis twenti, þe whiche hadden a þousend shillingus; and two faire vesselis of best shinende bras as gold.

xxviii And I feide to hem, ȝee halewis of þe Lord, and þe holy vesselis, and siluer and gold, þat wilfulli is offrid to þe Lord God of oure fadris, xxix wakeþ, and kepiþ, to þe time þat ȝee peisen vp befor þe princis of prestus, and of Leuitus, and dukis of meines of Israel in Jerusalem, in to þe tresor of þe hous of God.

xxx Forsoþe þe prestus and Leuitus token þe peis of siluer, and of gold, and of vesselis, þat þei bringe in to Jerusalem, in to þe hous of þer God.

xxxi Panne we moueden forþ fro þe flod of Hanna, þe twelfþ dai of þe firste monyþ, þat we go in to Jerusalem; and þe hond of oure God was vpon vs, and deliuerede vs fro þe hond of þe enemy and of þe spiere in þe weie.

xxii And wee camen to Jerusalem, and wee dwelten þere þre daȝis.

xxiii Þe ferþe forsoþe dai peisid vp is þe siluer and gold, and þe vesselis, in þe hous of oure God, bi þe hond of Remmoth, sone of Vrie, prest, and wiþ hym Eleazar, þe sone of Fynees, and wiþ hem Jofaded, þe sone of Josue, and Noadoia, þe sone of Bennoi, Leuite, xxiv aftir þe nouembre and weiȝte of alle þingus; and al þe weiȝte is descriued in þat time.

xxv But þe sonus of transmygracioun, þat weren come fro caitifte, offriden brent sacrificis to þe Lord God of Israel, caluys twelue for al þe puple of Israel, weþeris nynti and sixe, lambis feuenti and feuene, got buckis for synne twelue; alle in to brent sacrifice to þe Lord.

xxvi Pei ȝeuen forsoþe maundemens of þe king to þe satrapis, þat weren of þe siȝte of þe king, and to þe dukis bezonde þe flod; and þei rereden vp a puple, and þe hous of God.

Capitulum IX.

i Aftir forsoþe þat þese þingis ben fulfild, neȝheden to me þe princis, seiende, Þe puple of Israel is not feuered, and prestus, and Leuitus, fro þe puplis of londis, and fro þe abhomynaciouns of hem, of Cananei, þat is, of Ethei, and of Feresei, and of Jebusei, and of Amonitus, and of Moabitus, and of Egipcienus, and of Amoriees.
ii Forsoþe þei token of þe doȝtris of hem to hem, and to þer sonus, wiues, and þei mengden holi sed wiþ þe puplis of londis; þe hond also of princis and of maistris was in þis firste trespassing.

iii And whan I hadde herd bis woord, I cutte my mantil and cote, and pullide out þe heris of myn hed and berd, and sat weilende.

iv Forsoþe þer camen to me alle þat dradden þe woord of God of Israel, for þe trespassing of hem þat weren come fro þe caitifte; and I sat dreri vnto þe euetid sacrifice.

v And in þe euetid sacrifice I ros fro myn affliccioun, and þe mantil cut and cote, I bowide my knes, and spradde out myn hondis to þe Lord my God, vi and feide, Mi God, I am confoundid and ashamed to rerun my face to þee, for oure wickeneffis ben multiplied vpon oure hed, and oure giltis ben sprungen vnto heuene, vii fro þe daȝis of oure fadris; but and wee vself han synned greououli vnto þis dai, and in oure wickeneffis we ben taken, wee, and oure kingus, and oure prestus, in þe hondis of kingus of londis, and in to swerd, and in to caitifte, and in to rauein, and in to confusiooun of chere, as and in þis dai.

viii And now as at litil and at a moment is don oure prezere anent þe Lord our God, þat þe remnauntus ben forȝiue to vs, and þe pes of hym be ȝiuen in his holi place, and oure God liȝte oure eȝen, and ȝiue to vs a litil lif in oure seruise.

ix For seruauns wee ben, and in oure seruise our God forsoc not vs; and he bowide in vpon vs mercy befor þe king of Perſis, þat he ȝeue to vs liff, and rere þe hous of oure God, and make out þe wildernesſis of it, and ȝeue to vs hope in Juda and in Jerufalem.

x And now what shul wee fein, Lord oure God, after þese þingus? For wee han forſake þin heftus, xi þat þou haſt comaundid in þe hond of þi seruauns prophetis, ſeide, þe lond, to þe whiche ȝee shul gon out, þat ȝee welden it, is a lond vnclene, after þe vnclenesse of puplis, and of obere londis, þe whiche fulſilden it wiþ be abhomynaciouns of hem, fro mouþ vnto mouþ in þer defouling.

xii Now þanne ȝoure doȝtris ne ȝiue ȝe to þe fonus of hem, and þe doȝtris of hem takeþ not to ȝour fonus; and ſekeþ not pes of hem and proſperite of hem vnto euermor; þat ȝee be coumfortid, and eten þat ben goode þingus of þe lond, and eiris ȝee haue ȝoure fonus vnto þe world.

xiii And after alle þingus þat camen vpon vs in oure werfe werkis, and in oure grete gilte, for þou, oure God, deliueredift vs fro oure wickeneſſe, and ȝeue to vs helþe, as is to dai, xiv þat we be not turned, and make þin heftis in vein, ne bi matrimoyne we ben ioyned wiþ þe puplis of þese abhomynaciouns. Wheþer þou art wroþ to vs vnto þe ending, leſt þou leue to vs relikis and helþe?

xv Lord God of Israel, riȝtwis þou art; for wee ben forſaken, þe whiche shulden ben faaf as bi þis dai, lo! befor þee we ben in oure gilte; forſoþe it mai not ben ſtonden befor þee vpon þis.

Capitulum X.

i So þanne Eſdre preȝende, and beſechende God, and wepende, and liende befor þe temple of God, þer is gedered to hym a ful myche cumpayne gret of men, and of wymmen, and childer; and þe puple wepte wiþ myche weping.

ii And Sechenyas, þe ſone of Jaiel, of þe fonus of Elam, anſwerde, and ſeide to Eſdre, Wee han trefpasid in oure God, and wee han weddid alien wiues of þe puplis of þe lond. And now, for þer is penaunce in Israel vpon þis, iii Smyte wee couenaunt of pes wiþ þe Lord oure God, and þrowe awei alle oure wiues, and hem þat of hem ben born, after þe wil of þe Lord; and of hem þat dreden þe maundement of oure God, after þe lawe be it don.

iv Ris, þin it is to demen, and wee shul be wiþ þee; tac coumfort, and do.

v Panne Eſdras ros, and adiurede þe princis of prestus, and of Leuitus, and al Israel, þat þei shulden do after þis woord; and þei ſworen.

vi And Eſdras ros befor þe hous of God, and wente awei to þe bed place of Johannan, ſone of Eliasif, and he wente in þider; bred he eet not, and water he dranc not; forſoþe he weilede þe trefpasid of hem, þat fro þe caitife weren comen.

vii And þer is ſent a vois in Juda and Jerufalem, to alle þe fonus of transmygracioun, þat þei shulden be gedered in to Jerufalem;

viii and alle þat comeþ not in þre daȝis, aftir þe counſeil of þe princis and of þe elders, al his ſubſtaunce þhal be taken awei, and he þhal be caſt awei fro þe cumpayne of transmygracioun.

ix Panne alle þe men of Juda and of Beniamyn camyn togidre in Jerufalem þre daȝes; it is þe nynþe monyþ, in þe twentiþe dai of þe monyþ; and al þe puple ſat in þe ſtrete of þe hous of God, tremblende for fynne and reynes.

x And Eſdras, þe prest, ros, and ſeide to hem, ȝee han trefpasid, and wedded alien wiues, þat ȝee adden vp on þe gilte of Israel.

xi And now ȝiueþ confessioun to þe Lord God of oure fadris, and doþ þe plesaunce of hym, and beþ ſeuered fro þe puplis of þe lond, and fro alien wiues.

xii And al þe multitude anſwerde, and ſeide wiþ a gret vois, After þi woord to vs, fo be it do.

xiii Nerþelatere for þe puple is myche, and þe time of rein, and we ſustene not to ſtonde wiþ oute forþ, and it is not þe werec of o dai, or of two; forſoþe hidoulli we han ſynned in þis woord;

xiv þe þer ſett princis in al þe multitude, and alle in oure cites, þat han wedded alien wiues, come þei in þe time ſet, and wiþ hem þe elders, bi cite and cite, and þe domeſmen of it, to þe time þat þe wraþe of oure God be turned awei fro vs vpon þis fynne.

xv Panne Jonathan, þe ſone of Azahel, and Jasifa, þe ſone of Thechue, ſtoden vpon þis; and Mosollam, and Sebethai, Leuitus, holpen hem.

xvi And so diden þe fonus of transmygracoun. And Eſdras, prest, and þe men, princis of þe meynes, wenten awei in to þe houſis of þer fadris, and alle bi þer namys; and þei ſeten in þe firſte dai of þe tenþe moniþ, þat þei enſerche þe þing.

xvii And alle þe men þat hadden weddid alien wiues ben endid, vn to þe firſte dai of þe firſte moneþ.

xviii And þer ben founded of þe fonus of prestus, þat weddeden heþene wiues; of þe fonus of Josue, þe ſones of Josedech, and þe breþern of hym, Maafia, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Godolia.

xix And þei ȝeuen þer hondis, þat þei shulden caſten awei þer wiues, and for þer gilte þei shulden offren a weþer of þe ſhep.

xx And of þe fonus of Semmer; Anam and Sebedia.

xxi And of þe sonus of Seerim; Maazia, and Helia, and Semeia, and Jehiel, and Ofias.
 xxii And of þe sonus of Fessur; Helioenai, Maazia, Hismael, Nathanael, and Josabeth, and Elasa.
 xxiii And of þe sones of Leuitus; Josabeth, and Semei, and Eliaia; he is Calithafathaia; Juda, and Eliefer.
 xxiv And of þe fingeris, Eliazub; and of þe porteris, Sellum, and Thellem, and Vri.
 xxv And of Israel, of þe sonus of Faros; Remea, and Ezia, and Melchia, and Buonym, and Eliezer, and Melchia, and Banya.
 xxvi And of þe sonus of Elam; Mathanya, and Zacharias, and Jehil, and Abdi, and Rimoth, and Helia.
 xxvii And of þe sonus of Secua; Helieonai, Heliazub, Mathanya, and Jerymuth, and Saeth, and Aziza.
 xxviii And of þe sonus of Bebai; Johannan, Ananya, Zabbai, Athalia.
 xxix And of þe sonys of Beny; Mofollam, and Melue, and Azaia, Jasub, and Saal, and Jamoth.
 xxx And of þe sonus of Faeth; Moab, Edua, and Calal, Banaias, and Massias, Mathanyas, Beseleel, and Bemym, and Manasse.
 xxxi And of þe sonus of Erem; Elieer, Jesue, Melchias, Semeias, Symeon, xxxii Beniamyn, Maloth, Samarias. xxxiii And of þe sonus of Asom; Mathanai, Mathetha, Zabeth, Elifelech, Jermai, Manasse, Semei.
 xxxiv And of þe sonus of Bany; Maddi, Amram, and Huel, xxxv Baneas, and Badaias, Cheilian,

II. ESDRE.

Capitulum I.

i The woordis of Neemye, sone of Elchie. And it is do in þe moniþ of December, þe twentipe ȝer, and I was in þe burȝ toun of Sufis; ii and þer cam to me Annam, oon of my breþern, he and þe men of Juda; and I askide hem of Jewis, þat abiden stille, and laftan ouer of þe caitifte, and of Jerusalém.
 iii And þei seiden to me, Pei þat abiden stille, and ben laft of þe caitifte þere in þe prouynce, ben in gret affliccioun, and in repref; and þe wal of Jerusalém is scatered, and his ȝatis ben brend wiþ fijr.

 iv And whan I hadde herd fuch maner woordis, I sat and wepte, and weilide manye daȝes, and fastide, and prezede befor þe face of God of heuene;
 v and seide, I beseeche, Lord God of heuene, strong, gret, and ferful, þat kepist couenaunt and merci wiþ hem, þat loouen bee, and kepen þi maundemens;
 vi be þi ere maad herknende, and þi eȝen opened, þat þou here þe orisoun of þi seruaunt, in þe whiche I preyze befor þee to dai, nyȝt and dai, for þe sonys of Israel, þi seruauns, and I knowleche for þe synnes of þe sones of Israel, in þe whiche þei synned to þee; and I and þe hous of my fader han synned;
 vii bi vanyte wee ben born doun, and wee han not kept þe hefste, and cerimoines, and domus, þat þou comaundedest to Moises, þi seruaunt.
 viii Haue mynde of þe woord, þat þou comaundedest to þi seruaunt, seiende, Whan ȝee han trespassid, I shal scatere ȝou in to puplis;
 ix and if ȝee be turned aȝeen to me, þat ȝee kepe myn heftus, and don hem, also if ȝee weren lad awei to þe endis of heuene, þennus I shal gadere ȝou togidere, and leden in to þe place, þat I ches, þat my name dwelle þere.
 x And wee þi seruauns, and þi puple, whom þou hast boȝt in þi grete strengþe, and in þi stronge hond.
 xi I beseeche, Lord, be þin ere takende heede to þe orisoun of þi seruaunt, and to þe orisoun of þi seruauns, þat wiln dreden þi name; and dresse þi seruaunt to dai, and ȝif to hym merci befor þis man. I forsope was þe booteler of þe king.

Capitulum II.

i It is do forsoþe in þe moniþ of Aprill, þe twentipe ȝer of Artaxerxes, þe king, and win was befor hym, and I heude vp þe win, and ȝaf to þe king, and I was astoneid befor his face.
 ii And þe king seide to me, Whi is þi chere dreri, siþen I see þee not siȝk? þat is not in vein; but I wot not þe euel þat is in þin herte. And I dradde ful myche;
 iii and I seide to þe king, King, wiþ outen ende liue; whi shulde not my chere forewin priueli? for þe cite of þe hous of þe sepulcris of my fader is desert, and his ȝatus ben brent wiþ fir.
 iv And þe king seip to me, For what þing askist þou? And I prezede þe God of heuene, v and seide to þe king, If it is seen good to þe king, and if it plese to þi seruauns befor þi face, þat þou fende me in to Jude, I beseeche, to þe cite of þe sepulcre of my fader, and I shal bilden it.
 vi And þe king seide to me, and þe quen þat sat biside hym, Vnto what time shal be þi wei, and `whanne shalt þou come aȝeen? And I pleside befor þe chere of þe king, and he sente me, and I sette hym a time;

vii and feide to þe king, If to þe king it is seen good, lettris ȝiue he to me to þe dukis of þe regioune beþonde þe flod, þat þei lede me ouer, to þe time I come in to Jude;
 viii and a lettre to Asaf, keper of þe wilde wode of þe king, þat he ȝiue to me trees, þat I mowe couere þe ȝatis of þe tour of þe hous, and of þe wal of þe cite, and þe hous þat I shal come in. And þe king ȝaf to me, after þe goode hond of my God wiþ me.
 ix And I cam to þe dukis of þe regioune beþunde þe flod, and I ȝaf to hym þe epistolis of þe king. Forþoþe þe king hadde sent wiþ me prinsis of kniȝtus, and horfemen.
 x And Sanaballath Oronyte, and Tobie, seruaunt Amonyte, herden, and ben euele paȝid bi gret forewe, þat a man was come, þat shulde seche þe prosperite of þe sonus of Israel.
 xi And I cam in to Jerusalem, and I was þere þre daȝes.
 xii And I ros þe nyȝt, and fewe men wiþ me, and I shewide to no man, what God hadde ȝiuen in myn herte, þat I shulde do in Jerusalem; and þere was noon helpeþy beefte to me, but þe beefte þat I sat on.
 xiii And I wente out bi þe ȝate of þe valei þe nyȝt, and beforne þe welle of þe dragoun, and at þe dritt ȝate; and I beheeld þe wal of Jerusalem scaterid, and his ȝatis waſtid wiþ fijr.
 xiv And I paſſide ouer to þe ȝate of þe welle, and to þe watir cundict of þe king, and þer was no place to þe beefte, þat I sat on þat he myȝte paſſen ouer; xv and I steyȝide vp bi þe strem þe nyȝt, and I beheeld þe wal, and turned aȝeen I cam to þe ȝate of þe valei, and am comen aȝeen.
 xvi þe maister iuges forþoþe wisten not, whider I was go, or what I wolde do; but and to þe Jewis, and to þe prestus, and to þe most worshipeful men, and to þe maister iuges, and to þe toþere þat maden þe were, vnto þat of þe placis no þing I hadde shewid.
 xvii And I feide to hem, 'ȝee han knownen þe affliccioun, in whiche we ben, for Jerusalem is desert, and his ȝatis ben waſtid wiþ fijr; comeþ, and bilde we vp þe wallis of Jerusalem, and be we no more repreſ.
 xviii And I shewide to hem þe hond of my God, þat it was good wiþ me, and þe woordis of þe king, þat he spac to me; and I sey, Rife we, and bilde we; and þe hondis of hem ben coumfortid in goode.
 xix Forþoþe Sanballath Oronyte, and Tobias, seruaunt Amonyte, and Goſem Arabs, herden, and scorneden vs, and despiseden; and feiden, What is þis þing þat ȝee don? wheþer aȝen þe king ȝee rebellen?
 xx And I ȝeld to þem a woord, and feide to þem, God of heuene, he helpiþ vs, and wee his seruauns ben; rise wee, and bilde wee; to ȝou forþoþe is no part and riȝtwisnelle and mynde in Jeruſalem.

Capitulum III.

i And Eliasif, þe grete prest, ros, and his breþern, and prestus, and þei bilden vp þe ȝatis of þe floc; þei halewiden it, and setten þe ȝate leuys of it, and vn to þe tour of an hundrid cubitus þei halewiden it, vn to þe tour of Ananehel.
 ii And befide hym þe men of Jericho bilden; and biside hem bilde Zaccur, þe sone of Amri.
 iii þe ȝate forþoþe of fiffis bilden vp þe sonus of þe tour of ouenus.

 xii Biside hym bilde Sellum, þe sone of Aloes, prince of þe myddel part of a toun of Jerusalem, and he and his sonus.
 xiii And þe ȝate of þe valei bilde Annun, and þe dwelleris of Sanoe; þei bilden it, and setten his ȝate leuis, and lokis, and henglis, and a þousend cubitus in þe wal vnto þe ȝate of þe dunge hil. xiv And þe ȝate of þe dunge hil bilde Melchias, þe sone of Recab, prince of þe toun of Bethacharem; he bilde it, and sette his ȝate leues, and lokis, and henglis.
 xv And þe ȝate of þe welle bilde Sellum, þe sone of Colosai, prince of þe toun of Masfa; he bilde it, and couerede, and sette his ȝate leuis, and lockis, and heengis; and þe wallis of þe fish pond of Siloe in to þe ȝerd of þe king, and vn to þe grees of þe king, þat comen doun fro þe cite of Dauid.
 xvi After hym bilde Neemyas, þe sone of Afhoc, þe prince of þe half part of þe toun of Bethluri, vnto aȝen þe sepulcre of Dauid, and vnto þe fish pond, þat bi gret werec is maad, and vnto þe hous of stronge men.

xvii After hym bilden Leuitus; and after hem Reum, þe sone of Benny. After hym bilde Azebias, prince of þe half part of þe toun of Cheile, in his toun.

xviii After hym bilden þe breþern of hem, Bethin, þe sone of Enadad, prince of þe half part of Cheila.

xix And Afer, þe sone of Josue, prince of Masfa, bilde beside hym þe secunde mesure aȝen þe steȝing vp of þe most fast corner.

xx After hym in þe hil bilde Baruch, þe sone of Sachaie, þe secunde mesure fro þe corner vnto þe ȝate of þe hous of Eliazif, grete prest.

xxi After hym bilde Marimuth, þe sone of Vrie, sone of Accur, þe secunde mesure fro þe ȝate of þe hous of Eliazif, to þe time þat þe hous of Eliazif were straȝt out.

xxii And aftir hym bildeden þe prestus, men of þe wilde feldis of Jordan.

xxiii After hym bilden Beniamyn and Asub aȝen þer hous; and after hym bilde Asarias, þe sone of Moosie, sone of Ananye, aȝen his hous.

xxiv Aftir hym bilde Benni, þe sone of Senadad, þe secunde mesure fro þe hous of Azarie vnto þe bowing and vnto þe corner.

xxv Falel, þe sone of Ofi, aȝen þe bowing, and þe tour þat stant aboue, fro þe heȝe hous of þe king, þat is in þe porche of þe prisoun; and after hym Fadaia, þe sone of Feros.

xxvi Gabonites, water bereris forsoþe dwelten in Ofel aȝen þe ȝate of watriis at þe est, and þe tour þat aboue semede.

Capitulum IIII.

i It is do forsoþe, whan Sanaballath hadde herd, þat we schulden bilde þe wal, he wrāpide gretli, and, moued ful myche, scorneðe þe Jewis.

ii And he seide befor his breþern, and þe court of Samaritanys, What do þe Jewis ful feble? Wheþer shul leuen hem þe Jentilis? Wheþer shul þei sacrificien and fulfillen in o dai? Wheþer þei shuln moun bilden vp stonis of þe hillockis of pouder, þat ben brent?

iii But and Tobias Amonite seiþ to his neȝhebores, Bilde þei; if þer steȝe vp a fox, he shal lepe ouer þer ston wal.

iv And Neemie seide, Here þou, oure God, for we ben maad despit; turne þe repref vp on þe hed of hem, and ȝif hem in to despising in þe lond of caitifte; v ne couere þou þe wickeneſſe of hem, and þe synnus of hem befor þi face be not don awei; for þei scorneden þe bilders.

vi And so we bilden þe wal, and al we ioyneden togidere vnto þe half part, and þe herte of þe puple is stirid to werken.

vii It is do forsoþe, whan Sanaballath hadde herd, and Tobias, and Arabes, and Amanytes, and Azozie, þat þe gap of þe wal of Jerusalem was maad al hol, and þat þe chinys or crauafis begunnen to be cloſid, þei ben ful myche wrop.

viii And alle þei ben gedered togidere, þat þei comen and fiȝte aȝen Jerusalem, and casten busshemens.

ix And we prezeden þe Lord oure God, and we setten keperis vp on þe wal dai and nyȝt aȝen hem.

x Forsoþe Judas seide, Þe strengþe of þe berere is feblid, and þere is to miche erþe, and we shul not moun bilden vp þe wal.

xi And oure enimis feiden, Wite þei not, and vnknowe þei, to þe time þat we comen in to þe middel of hem, andflen hem, and make þe werc to cesen.

xii It is do forsoþe, þe Jewis comende, þat dwelten bisides hem, and seiende to vs ten ſibis, of alle þe placis fro whiche þei weren come to vs, xiii I sette in a place behinde þe wal bi enuyroun a puple in order, wiþ þer swerdis, and speris, and bowis.

xiv I beheeld, and ros, and seide to þe more wrshireful men, and maister iugis, and to þe toþer part of þe comun, Wilip not dreden fro þe face of hem; of þe grete Lord and ferful haþ mynde, and fiȝteþ for ȝour breþern, and ȝour sonus, and ȝour doȝtris, ȝour wiues, and housis.

xv It is do forsoþe, whan oure enimys hadden herd to be told to vs, God scaterede þe conſeil of hem; and alle wee ben turned aȝeen to þe wallis, eche to his werk.

xvi And it is do fro þat dai, þe half part of þe ȝunge men maden þe werc, and þe half part was redi to bataile; and speris, and sheeldis, and bowis, and haberiones, and princis behinde þem, in al þe hous of Juda, xvii of bilders in þe wal, and of bereris berþenus, and of leieris on; wiþ þer oon hond þei maden þe werc, and wiþ þe toþer þei heelden fwerd.

xviii Forsoþe of þe bilders eche was gird aboue þe hipis wiþ a fwerd; and þei bilden, and crieden wiþ trumpe bifyde me.

xix And I seide to þe most wrshireful men, and to þe maister iugis, and to þe toþer part of þe comun, A gret werc it is, and brod, and we ben feuered in þe wal aferr, an oþer fro an oþer; xx in what euere place ȝee shul here þe criyng of þe trumpe, þider renneþ togidere to vs; forsoþe oure God shal fiȝte for vs.

xxi And we vñself shul make þe werk, and þe half part of vs holde speris, fro þe stȝzing vp of þe morutid to þe time þat þe sterriis gon out.
xxii Alſo þat time I feide to þe puple, Eche wiþ his child dwelle in þe middel of Jerusalem, and be þer to ȝou whilis by nyȝt and dai to werken.
xxiii I forsoþe, and my breþern, and þe keperis, and my childer, þat weren bihind me, diden not of oure cloþis; eche onli was nakid to baptēm.

Capitulum V.

i And þer is maad a cri of þe puple and of þer wiues, a gret, aȝen Jewis, þer breþern.
ii And þer weren þat seiden, Oure sonus and oure doȝtris ben ful manye; take we for þe pris of hem whete, and ete we, and liue wee.
iii And þer weren þat seiden, Oure feldis, and vines, and oure houſis lei wee to, and take wee whete in hunger.
iv And oþere seiden, Borewe wee monei in to þe tributus of þe king, and ȝiue wee oure feldis, and oure vines.
v And now as þe flesh of oure breþern, so oure flesh ben; and as þe sonys of hem, so and oure sonus; lo! we han vnder ȝokid our sonus and oure doȝtris in to feruage, and of oure doȝtris ben þrallis, and we han not, wheroft þei moun be boȝt; and our feldus, and oure vines oþer men welden.
vi And I wraþide ful myche, whan I hadde herd þe cri of hem after þese woordys.
vii And myn herte boȝte wiþ me, and I blamede þe moſt wrſhipful men and maister iugis; and feide to hem, Echone aske ȝee not vñſuris of ȝoure breþern. And I gederede aȝen hem a gret conuocacioun, viii and feide to þem, Wee, as ȝee witen, han forboȝt oure breþern Jewis, þat weren fold to þe Jentilis, after oure power; and ȝee þanne ſellen ȝoure breþern, and wee shul bien hem aȝeen. And þei heelden þer pes, ne founden not what þei shulden anſwern.
ix And I feide to hem, ȿis is no good þing, þat ȝee don; whi in þe drede of oure God ȝee gon not, leſt it be repreuid to vs of þe Jentilis, oure enemys?
x And I and my breþern, and my childer, lenten to manye men monei and whete, ne wee aſkedēn not aȝen þis in to comun; and oþer þing þat is aȝt to vs graunte wee.
xi ȝeldeþ to þem to dai þer feldis, and þer vines, þeir oliues, and þer houſis; but more and þe hundrid part of monee of whete, and of win, and oile, þat ȝee weren wont to aſken of hem, ȝiueþ for hem.

xii And þei ſeiden, Wee ſhal ȝelden, and of hem noȝing we fechen; and þus wee ſhul do as þou ſpekiſt. And I clepide þe preſtis, and adiurede hem, þat þei ſhulde do aſtr þat I hadde feid.
xiii Ferþermor I ſhakide out my boſum, and feide, Pus God ſhake out eche man, þat fulfilliþ not þis woord of his hous, and of his trauailis; and be he ſhaken out, and maad voide. And al þe multitude feide, Amen; and preiſeden God. Panne dide þe puple, as it was feid.
xiv Forſoþe fro þat dai þat þe king hadde comaunded to me, þat I were duke in þe lond of Juda, fro þe twentipe ȝer vn to þe two and þrettipe ȝer of king Artaxerxes, bi twelue ȝer, I and my breþern þe ȝeris frutus, þat weren due to dukis, wee eeten not.
xv Forſoþe þe firſte dukis þat weren befor me greueden þe puple, and token of hem in bred, and win, and in mone, eche dai fourti ouncis; but and þe ſerauns of hem preſſeden doun þe puple. I forſoþe dide not ſo, for þe drede of God;
xvi but rapere in þe werk of þe wal biledede, and feeld I boȝte not, and alle my childer gedered weren to þe werc.
xvii Alſo Jewis and þe maifte ruginis of hem weren an hundrid men and fifty; and þoo þat camen to vs of þe Jentilis, þat ben in oure enuyroun, weren in my bord.
xviii Forſoþ þere was greipid to me bi alle daȝis an oxe, fixe choſen weþeris, out take volatilis, and betwe ten daȝes diuerſe wines; and oþere manye þingis I ȝaf; ferþermor and þe ȝeris frutis of my duchie I ſoȝte not;
forſoþ þe puple gretli was pouerefſht.
xix My God, haue mynde of me in to goode, after alle þingis þat I haue do to þis puple.

Capitulum VI.

i It is do forſoþe, whan Sanaballath hadde herd, and Thobias, and Goſem Arabs, and oure oþere enemys, þat I hadde bild þe wal, and þer was not in it laſt broſure among; forſoþ vnto þat time I hadde not put ȝate leues in þe ȝate;
ii Sanaballath, and Thobias, and Goſem Arabs ſenten to me, ſeiende, Cum, and ſmite wee pes couenaunt togidere in little tounus, in a feeld; þei forſoþe boȝten, þat þei do to me euel.
iii Panne I ſente to hem messengeris, ſeiende, A gret werc I do, and I mai not come doun, leſt parauenture it be laſt, whan I ſhulde comen, and deſcende to ȝou.
iv Forſoþ þei ſenten to me after þis woord bi foure ſiþes, and I anſwerde to hem after þe raþere woord.
v And Sanaballath ſente to me after þe raþere woord þe firſte ſiþe his child; and he hadde a lettē in his hond written in þis maner;
vi In Gentilis it is herd, and Goſem feide, for þou and þe Jewis þenken to rebellen, and þerfore ȝee bilden, and þou wilt rere þee vp on hem king;

vii for what cause and profetus þou hast sett, þat prechen of þee in Jerusalem, seiende, A king in Jerusalem is; þe king is to here þese woordis; þerfore cum now, þat wee go in counseil togidere.

viii And I sente to hem, seiende, It is not don after þese woordis þat þou spekist; forþoþe of þin herte þou makist þese þingus.

ix Alle þese fereden vs, þenkende þat our hondis shulden cefen fro werkis, and resten aȝeen; for what cause more I confortid myn hond.

x And I wente in to þe hous of Samaie, sone of Dalie, sone of Methabehel, priuyli, þe whiche seiþ, Trete wee wiþ vs in þe hous of God, in þe middel of þe temple, and close we þe ȝatus of þe hous; for þer ben to come þat þei fle þee, and þe nyȝt þei ben to come þat þei fle þee.

xi And I seide, Wheþir any man lic me fleeþ, and who as I shal go in to þe temple, and liuen? I shal not gon in.

xii And I vnderstod þat God hadde not fent hym, but as profeciende he hadde spoke to me; and Thobias and Sanaballath bi mede hadden hirid hym.

xiii Forþoþe he hadde take pris, þat aferd I shulde don, and synnen; and þei myȝte han euel, þat þei repreue to me.

xiv Haue mynde of me, Lord, for Tobias and Sanaballath, after suche werkus of hem; but and of Nadie, profete, and of oþere profetus, þat fereden me.

xv Forþoþe þe wal is fulfild þe fiue and twentiþe dai of þe sixte moneþ, in two and fifti daȝes.

xvi It is do þanne, whan alle oure enemys hadden herd, þat alle þe Jentilis þat weren in oure enuyroun dredden, and fallen togidere wiþ inne þemself, and knewen, þat of þe Lord was do þis were.

xvii But and in þo daȝes manye epistolis of þe moþe wrbi men of Jewis weren sent to Tobie, and fro Tobie camen to þem.

xviii Manye forþoþe weren in Jude, hauende his oþ; for he was þe sone in lawe of Sechenye, sone of Jorel; and Johannan, his sone, hadde taken þe doȝter of Mofollam, sone of Barachie.

xix But and þei prefleden hym befor me, and my woordis þei tolden to hym; and Thobias fente lettris, þat he shulde fere me.

Capitulum VII.

i Aftir forþoþe þat þe wal is maad vp, and I sette þe ȝate leuys, and noumbride þe porteres, and þe singeris, and þe Leuitis, ii I comaundede to Aneny, my broþer, and to Ananye, prince of þe hous of Jerusalem; he forþoþe as a soþfaþt man, and dredende God more þan oþere was seen;

iii and I seide to hem, Þe ȝatis of Jerusalem be þei not opened vnto þe hete of þe sunne; and whan ȝit I stod neeȝh, þe ȝatis ben cloſid and stoppid. And I sette keperis of þe dwelleris of Jerusalem, eche bi þer whilis, and eche aȝen his hous.

iv Forþoþe þe cite was myche brod and gret, and þe puple litil in þe middel of it, and þer weren not houſis bild.

v God forþoþe ȝaf in myn herte, and I gaderede togidere þe most wrshireful men, and þe maister iugis, and þe comun, þat I noumbre hem; and I fond þe boc of þe noumbring of hem, þat hadden stetid vp firſt. And it is founde writen in it, vi Þe fones of þe prouince, þat steteden vp fro þe caitife of transmigracioun, þe whiche Nabugodonosor, king of Babiloine, hadde translatis; and þei ben turned aȝeen in to Jerusalem and in to Jude, eche in to his cite, lxx Summe forsoþe of þe princis of þe meynes ȝeuen expensis in to þe werc of God; Athersatha ȝaf in to þe tresorie, of gold, dragmlys a þousend, fifty violis, prestus cotus five hundred and pretti.

 lxi And of þe princis of þe meines þer ȝeuen in to þe tresorie of þe werk, of gold, dragmlys twenti þousend, and of siluer, two þousend besauntus and two hundred.
 lxxii And þat þat ȝaf þe toþer puple, of gold, dragmlys twenti þousend, and of siluer, besauntus two þousend, and prestus cotus sixti and seuenn.
 lxxiii Forsoþe þe prestus, and Leuitus, and þe portaris, and fingeris, and þe toþer comun, and þe fodeknys, and al Israel dwelten in þer cites. And þe seuenþe moneþe of þe feste of tabernaclis was comen vnder Esdra and Neemie; þe sonus forsoþe of Israel weren in þer cites.

Capitulum VIII.

i And al þe puple is gedered as oo man, at þe strete þat is befor þe ȝate of watri. And þei seiden to Esdra, scribe, þat he shulde bringe forþ þe boc of þe lawe of Moises, þat þe Lord hadde comaundid to Israel.
 ii Panne Esdras, þe preft, broȝte forþ þe lawe, befor þe multitude of men and wymmen, and to alle þat myȝten vnderstonde, in þe firste dai of þe seuenþe monyþ.
 iii And he radde in it apertli in þe strete þat was befor þe ȝate of watri, fro þe morutid vnto þe middai, in þe siȝte of men and wymmen and of wife men; and þe eris of al þe puple weren riȝt to þe boc.
 iv Forsoþe Esdras scribe stod vpon a treene gree, þe whiche he hadde maad to speken in; and þer stoden beside hym, Mathathias, and Semma, and Anania, and Vria, and Elchia, and Maafia, at his riȝt side; and at his left, Fadaia, Misaef, and Melchia, Assum, and Afef, Dana, and Acharia, and Mosollam.
 v And Esdras openede þe boc befor al þe puple; vp on al þe puple forsoþe he stod ouer; and whan he hadde opened it, al þe puple stod.
 vi And Esdras blesside to þe Lord God wiþ a gret vois; and al þe puple answeerde, Amen, Amen, rerend vp þer hondus. And þei ben ful bowid, and bowid in to þe erþe þei honoureden God.

vii But Jofue, and Baani, and Serebia, Jamyn, Accub, Sefai, Odia, Maafia, Celitha, Azarias, Josabeth, Anan, Fallaia, Leuitus, maden silence in þe puple to þe lawe to ben herd. Þe puple forsoþe stod in his gree.

viii And þei radden in þe boc of þe lawe distinctli and apertli to vnderstonde; and þei vnderstoden, whan it schulde be rad.

ix Forsoþe Neemias, he is Athersata, seide, and Esdras, prest and scribe, and þe Leuitus, remenyng to al þe puple, A dai is halewid to þe Lord oure God; wileþ not weilen, and wileþ not wepen. Forsoþe al þe puple wepte, whan he herde þe woordis of þe lawe.

x And he seide to þem, Gosp, and eteþ fatte þingis, and drinkeþ meþ, and sendeþ for hem, þat han not maad redi to þem self, for it is þe holi dai of þe Lord; wileþ not be dreri, forsoþe þe iøze of þe Lord is ȝoure strengþe.

xi Also Leuitus maden silence in al þe puple, sciende, Holdeþ ȝour pes, for it is halidai, and wileþ not forewen.

xii And so al þe puple wente to ete, and drinken, and to fende partis, and to make gret gladnesse; for þei vnderstoden þe woordis, þat he hadde taȝt hem.

xiii In þe secunde dai ben gedered þe princis of meynes, and al þe puple, prestus, and Leuitus, to Esdra, scribe, þat he remene to þem þe woordis of þe lawe.

xiv And þei founde writhen in þe lawe, þe Lord to han comaundid in þe hond of Moises, þat þe sonus of Israel dwelle in tabernaclis in þe solempne dai, þe feuenþe moneþ;

xv and þat þei prechen, and puppliſhen vois in alle þer cites, and in Jerusalēm; sciende, Gosp out in to þe hil, and bringeþ braunchis of oliues, and braunchis of þe most fair tree, and þe braunchis of myrt tree, and bowis of palmys, and braunchis of a wodi tree, þat þer be made tabernaclis, as it is write.

xvi And al þe puple wente out, and broȝten, and maden tabernaclis to þem, eche in his hous, and in þer porchis, and in þe porchis of þe hous of God, and in þe strete of þe ȝate of Effraym.

xvii Panne al þe chirche of hem, þat ben turned aȝeen fro þe caitife, made tabernaclis, and þei dwelten in tabernaclis. Forsoþe þe sonus of Israel hadden nott maad suche þingis fro þe dai of Jofue, sone of Nun, vnto þat dai; and þer was a gret gladnesse riȝt Miche.

xviii Forsoþe he radde in þe boc of þe lawe bi eche daȝes, fro þe firste dai vn to þe laste dai; and þei maden solempnete seuene daȝes, and in þe eiȝþe a colect, after þe cultum.

Capitulum IX.

i In þe foure and twentipe dai forsoþe of þis moniþ, þe sonus of Israel camen togidere in fasting, and in sackis, and erþe vpon hem.

ii And þe sed of þe sonus of Israel is feuered fro eche alien sone. And þei stoden befor þe Lord, and þei knoulecheden þer synnes, and þe wickednesses of þer fadris.

iii And þei risen togidere to stonden, and þei radden in þe volum of þe lawe of þe Lord þer God foure siþes in þe dai, and foure siþes in þe nyȝt; þei knoulecheden, and preiseden þe Lord þer God.

iv Forsoþe þer rifen vp on þe gree, of Leuitus Jesue, and Baani, and Cediniel, Remni, Abany, Sarabias, Baani. And þe Leuitus crieden wiþ a gret vois to þe Lord þer God.

v And Jesue and Sedeniel, Bonni, Assebia, Serebia, Arabia, Odaia, Sebua, Fachaia, seiden, Rifeþ, and bleſſeþ to þe Lord oure God fro wiþouten ende and vn to wiþ ȝoute ende; and bleſſe þei to þe heȝe name of þi glorie in alle bleſſing and preisung.

vi And Esdras seide, Pou þi self, Lord, alone; þou madist heuene of heuenus, and al þe ost of hem, þe erþe and alle þingus þat in it ben, ses and alle þingus þat in hem ben, and þou quikenest alle þese þingis; and þe ost of heuene honoureþ þee.

vii Pou þi self Lord God, þat chesedest Abraham, and laddest hym out fro þe fijr of Caldeis, and settist his name Abraham;

viii and foundist his herte trewe befor þee, and smite wiþ hym pes couuenaunt, þat þou ȝeue to hym þe lond of Cananee, Ethei, and Euei, and Amorre, and Fereſei, and Jebusei, and Jergeſei, þat þou ȝeue to his fed; and þou haſt fulſild þi woordis, for þou art riȝtwis.

ix And þou haſt ſeen þe affliccioun of oure fadris in Egipt, and þe cri of hem þou haſt herd vpon þe rede ſe.

x And þou ȝeue tocnes and wndris in Farao, and in alle his feruauns, and in al þe puple of þat lond; forsoþe þou haſt knownen, for proudli þei diden aȝen hem; and þou madeſt to þee a name as in þis dai.

xi And þe ſee þou deuidedest befor hem, and þei paſſedon ouer þurȝ þe middel of þe ſe in drie; þe purſueris forsoþe of hem þou þrewe aferr in to þe depneſſe, as a ſton in ſtronge watris.

xii And in a pileer of a cloude ledere of hem þou were bi dai, and in a piler of fijr bi nyȝt, þat þe weie aperede to þem, bi whiche þei wenten in.

xiii Also to þe hil of Sinai þou came doun, and ſpeke to hem fro heuene, and ȝeue to þem riȝte domus, and þe lawe of treuþe, cerimoines, and gode heftus.

xiv And halewid ſabot þou ſhewedest to þem; and maundemens, and cerimoines, and lawe, þou comaundedisti to þem, in þe hond of Moises, þi feruaunt.

xv Bred also fro heuene þou ȝeue to þem in þer hunger; and water of a ſton þou broȝtisti out to hem þrefende; and þou leideſt to þem, þat þei ſhulden gon in, and welde þe lond, vp on þe whiche þou reredisti þin hond, þat þou take it to hem.

xvi Bei forsoþe and þer fadris proudli diden, and inwardli hardeden þer nollis, and þei herden not þi maundemens.
 xvii And þei wolden not heren; and þei recordeden not of þi merueilis, þat þou haddest do to þem; and þei inwardli hardeden þer nollis; and þei ȝeuen hed, þat þei were turned togidere to þer þraldam; þou forsoþe God merciful, and noble, and benigne, longe abidende, and of myche mercy, and þou foriske not hem;
 xviii and forsoþe whan þei hadden maad to þem a calf, as bi strif ȝoten, and feiden, ȝis is þi God þat ladde þee out fro Egipt, and þei diden grete blasfemys.
 xix þou forsoþe in þi manie mercies laftist þem not in desert; a piler of a cloude wente not awei fro hem bi dai, þat it lede hem in to þe weie; and a piler of fijr bi nyȝt, þat he shewe to þem þe weie, bi whiche þei shulden gon in.
 xx And þi goode Spirit þou ȝeue to hem, þat shulde teche þem; and þi aungelis mete þou forfendedest not fro þe mouȝt of hem, and watir þou ȝeue to hem in þrist.
 xxi Fourti ȝer þou feddist hem in desert, and no þing to hem failede; be cloþis of hem eeldden not, and þe feet of hem ben not ouertroden.
 xxii And þou ȝeue to hem reumys, and puplis; and partidist to þem lotis, and þei weldiden þe lond of Seon, and þe lond of þe king of Esebon, and þe lond of Og, king of Basan.
 xxiii And þe sonus of hem þou multepliedest, as þe sterris of heuene; and broȝtist hem to þe lond, of þe whiche þou haddest seid to þer fadris, þat þei shulden gon in, and welden it.
 xxiv And þe sonus of Israel camen, and weldeden þe lond; and þou mekedest beforne hem þe Cananees, dwelleris of þe lond; and þou ȝeue hem in to þer hondis, and þe kingus of hem, and þe puplis of þe lond, þat þei do to hem as it pleside to þem.
 xxv And þei token strengþid cites, and fat erþe; and weldeden houfis ful of alle goodis, cisternes of oþer men forgid, vines, and oliues, and manie appl trees. And þei eeten, and ben fulfilld, and ben maad fatte; and þei aboundeden in richellis in þi grete goodnesse.
 xxvi Bei terreden forsoþe þee to wraþe, and wenten awei fro þee, and þrewen awei bi lawe behinde þer backes; and þi profetus flowen, þat witneseden to þem, þat þei shulden turne aȝeen to þee; and þei diden grete blasfemys.
 xxvii And þou ȝeue þem into þe hond of þer enimis; and þei tormenteden hem; and in time of þer tribulacioun þei crieden to þee; and þou fro heuene herdest hem, and aftir þi manie deedis of mercy þou ȝeue to hem saueoures, þat shulden fauen hem fro þe hond of þer enimis.
 xxviii And whan þei hadden restid, þei ben turned aȝen þat þei do euel in þi siȝte; and þou foriske hem in þe hond of þer enimys, and þei weldeden hem; and þei ben conuertyd, and þei crieden to þee; þou forsoþe fro heuene herdift, and deliueredest hem in þi mercies manie times.

xxix And þou witnessedest to þem, þat þei shulden turnen aȝeen to þi lawe; þei forsoþe proudli diden, and þei herden not þi maundementus, and in þi domys þei synneden, þe whiche what man doþ shal liuen in hem; and þei ȝeuen a going awey shulder, and þer nol þei inwardli hardeden.

xxx And þou drowe afer vpon hem manie ȝeris, and þou witnessedist hem in þi Spirit bi þe hond of þi profetus; and þei herden not; and þou toke þem in to þe hond of þe puplis of londis.

xxxi Forsoþe in þi manie mercies þou madist not hem in to waſting, ne foriske þem; for God of myseracions, and benigne þou art.

xxxii And so now, Lord oure God, grete God, strong, and ferful, kepende couenaunt and merci, ne turne þou awei þi face in al þe trauaile þat haþ founden vs, oure kingis, and oure princis, and oure fadris, and oure prestis, and oure profetis, and al þi puple, fro þe daȝis of king Assur vnto þis dai.

xxxiii And þou art riȝtwis in alle þingus, þat camen vpon vs; for treue þou didist to vs; wee forsoþe vnpitouſli diden.

xxxiv Oure kingus, and oure princis, oure prestis, and oure fadris, diden not þi lawe, and tentiden not to þin heftis, and þy witnessis þat þou witnessedist in hem.

xxxv And þei in þeir goode reumis, and in þi miche goodnesse þat þou haddest ȝiue to hem, and in þe most large lond and fat, þat þou haddest taken in þe siȝte of hem, þei serueden not to þee, ne ben turned aȝeen fro þer werste studies.

xxxvi Lo! wee vſelf to dai ben þrallis; and þe lond þat þou ȝeue to oure fadris, þat þei shulden ete þe bred of it, and þo þingus þat ben goode of it; and we vſelf ben þrallis in it.

xxxvii And þe frutus of hem ben multiplied to kingis, þat þou haſt put vp on vs for oure synnes; and þei lordshipen to oure bodies, and to oure bestis, aftir þer wil, and in gret tribulacioun we ben.

xxxviii Panne vp on alle þeſe þingus wee vſelf smijten pes couenaunt, and wrijten, and oure princis, oure Leuitis, oure prestis sette marke.

xxxviii And þe secunde quer of men tellende gracis wente forn aȝen, and I after it; and þe half part of þe puple vp on þe wal, and vp on þe tour of ouenus, and vn to þe most large wal;

xxxix and vp on þe ȝate of Effraym, and vp on þe olde ȝate, and vp on þe ȝate of fillhis, and þe tour of Ananehel, and þe tour of Emath, and vn to þe floc ȝate; and þei stoden in þe warde ȝate.

xl And two queris of men preisende stoden in þe hous of God, and I and þe half part of maister iugis wiþ me.

xli And þe prestus, Eliachim, Maazia, Myamin, Michia, Elioenai, Zacharia, Anania, in trumpis; xlii and Maazia, and Senea, and Eleazar, and Azi, and Johannan, and Melchia, and Elam, and Ezer; and clerli sungen þe fingeris, and Jefraia, þe prouost.

xliii And þei offreden in þat dai grete flaine sacrificises, and þei gladeden; God forsoþe hadde gladid hem in gret gladnesse. But and þe wiues of hem and þe fre childer ioȝeden, and þe gladnesse of Jerusalem is herd aferre.

xliii Alſo þei noumbreden in þat dai men vpon þe tresories of þe tresor, to sacrificise of likour, and to þe firſte frutis, and dimes, þat þe princis of þe cite, in fairnesse of doing of gracis, shulden bringen in to þe prestis and Leuitus bi hem; for Juda gladede in þe prestus and Leuitus stondende to.

xlv And þei kepten þe obſeruacioun of þer God, and þe beſineſſe of clenſing; and fingeris, and porteris, after þe heſte of Dauid and of Salamon, his ſone;

xlii for in þe dæſis of Dauid and of Asaph from þe beginnyng weren princis ordeined of fingeris in dite, of men preisende and knoulechende to God.

xlii And al Israel, in þe dæſis of Sorobabel, and in þe dæſis of Neemie, ȝeuen partus to fingeris and porteris bi alle dæſes; and þei halewiden þe Leuitus, and þe Leuitis halewiden þe ſonys of Aaron.

Capitulum XIII.

i In þe dai forsoþe is rad in þe volum of Moiſes, herende þe puple; and þer is founde writen in it, þat Amonites and Moabitis aȝten not to gon in to þe chirche of God vnto wiþoute ende;

ii for þi þat þei aȝen camen not to þe ſonus of Israel wiþ bred and watir, and þei hireden aȝen hem Balam to curſen to hem; and oure God turnede þe curſing in to bleſſing.

iii It is do forsoþe, whan þei hadden herd þe lawe, þei feuereden alle alien fro Israel.

iv And vpon þese þingus was Eliasub, þe prest, þat was prouost in þe `tresorie of þe hous of oure God, and neȝheboore to Tobie.

v Panne he made to hym a gret tresorie; and þere weren beforne hym leiende vp ȝiftis, and encens, and vessellis, and þe dime of whete, win, and of oile, partis of Leuitis, and of fingeris, and of porteris, and þe preestus firſte frutis.

vi In alle þese þingus forsoþe I was not in Jerufalem; for in þe two and þrettie ȝer of Artaxerxes, king of Babiloine, I cam to þe king, and in þe ende of dæſis I preȝide þe king.

vii And I cam into Jerufalem, and I vnderſtod þe euel, þat Eliazub hadde do to Tobie, þat he make to hym a tresor in þe vefſaries of þe hous off God;

viii and euel it is ſeen to me gretli. And I þrew out þe vessellis of þe hous of Tobie fro þe tresorie;

ix and I comaundede, and þei clenfedene þe tresories; and I bar aȝeen þider þe vessellis of þe hous of God, ſacrifiſe, and encens.

x And I knewȝ for þe partis of Leuitus were not ȝiuen, and þat eche was in to his regioun of þe Leuitus, and of þe fingerys, and of hem þat ministreden;

xi and I purſuede þe cauſe aȝen þe master iugis, and feide, Whi han wee forſake þe hous of God? And I gederede hem, and made to ſtonde in þer ſtacions.

xii And al Juda broȝte to þe dime of whete, and of win, and of oile, in to bernes.
 xiii And wee setten vpon þe bernes, Selemiam, prest, and Sadoch, scribe, and Fadaiam, of þe Leuitus, and biside hem, Anan, þe sone of Saccur, þe sone of Mathanie; for feiþful þei ben preued, and to þem ben take to kepe þe partis of þer breþren.
 xiv My God, haue mynde of me for þis, and do þou not awei my mercies, þat I dide in þe hous of my God, and in his cerimoines.
 xv In þoo daȝes I faȝ in Juda tredende pressours in þe sabot, hipelis berende, and chargende vpon assis win, and grapis, and figis, and eche charge, and berende in to Jerusalem in þe dai of sabot; and I witnesseide vpon hem, þat in þe dai, in whiche it was not leeful to sellen, þei folden.
 xvi And Tiris dwelten in it, berende in fiffis and alle chaffaris, and þei folden in þe sabatis to þe sonus of Juda and of Jerusalem.
 xvii And I repreude þe most wrshipeful men of Juda, and seide to hem, What is þis euele þing þat ȝee don, and defoulen þe dai of sabot?
 xviii Wheþer not þese þingus diden oure fadris, and oure God broȝte vp on vs al þis euel, and vpon þis cite? and ȝee adden wraþe vpon Israel, defoulende þe sabot.
 xix It is do forsoþe, whan þe ȝatis of Jerusalem hadden restid in þe sabot dai, I feide, Closeþ þe ȝatis; and þei clofeden þe ȝatis; and I comaundede, þat þei shulden not opene þem vnto after þe sabot. And of my childer I ordeinede noumbris vp on þe ȝatis, þat no man shulde bern in charge vp on þe sabot dai.
 xx And þe marchaundis dwelten, and sellende al þer chaffaris, wiþoute Jerusalem ones and twies.
 xxi And I witnesseide to þem, and seide to hem, Whi dwelle ȝee forn aȝen of þe wal? If þe secunde þis ȝee do, hond I shal lein in ȝou. And so fro þat time þei camen not in þe sabot.
 xxii Also I feide to þe Leuitus, þat þei shulden be clensid, and comen to þe ȝatis to be kept, and to halewen þe sabat dai. And bi þis þanne haue mynde of me, my God, and spare to me aftir þe multitude of þi myseraciouns.
 xxiii But in þoo dayes Y faȝ þe Jewis wedding wiues, Azotitis, Amonitis, and Moabitis.
 xxiv And þe sonus of hem speeken of þe half part Azotitis maner, and þei coupen not speken Jeuli, and þei speken after þe tunge of puple and of puple.
 xxv And I repreude hem, and curside; and I felde of hem men, and made hem ballid, and made hem swern in þe Lord, þat þei shulde not ȝiue þer doȝtris to þe sonus of hem, and þei shulden not take of þe doȝtris of hem to þer sonus and to hemself; xxvi seiende, Wheþer not in such maner þing synned Salomon, þe king of Israel? And certus in manie Jentilis was þer no king of Israel lic hym, and he was derworþe to his God, and hys God fette hym king vpon al Israel, and hym þanne ladden to synne aliene wymmen.

xxvii Wheþer and wee vnbuxhum shul don al þis grete euel, þat wee trespasen in þe Lord oure God, and wedden straunge wiues.

xxviii Of þe sonus forsoþe of Joiada, sone of þe grete prest, Eliazib, sone in lawe was Sanaballath Oronite, whom I drof fro me.

xxix Recorde þou, Lord my God, aȝen hem, þat defoulen presthod, and þe prestus and Leuitus riȝt.

xxx Panne I clenfede hem fro alle alienes, and ordeinede ordris of prestis and of Leuitis, eche in his seruise, xxxi and in offring of trees in ordeined times, and in firste frutis. Haue mynde of me, mi God, in to goode.

III. ESDRE.

Capitulum I.

i And Josias made pasch in Jerusalem to þe Lord, and he offride pasch þe fourtenþe dai of þe moone of þe firste moniȝ, ii ordeinende prestis bi whilis of daȝis, clopid in stolis, in þe temple of þe Lord.

iii And he seide to þe Leuitus, þe holi seruauns of Israel, þat þei shulden halewe þem self to þe Lord, in setting of þe holi arke of þe Lord in þe hous, þat king Salomon, þe sone of Dauid, bilde;

iv It shal not be to ȝou to taken it vp on shuldris; and now serueþ to oure Lord, and doþ þe cure of þat folc of Israel, of parti aftir tounis, and þer linagis, v aftir þe writing of Dauid, king of Israel, and aftir þe grete wrshipeful doing of Salomon, his sone, alle in þe temple, and aftir ȝoure litil fader partie of princehod of hem, þat stonden in þe siȝte of þe breþern of þe sonus of Israel.

vi Offriþ pasch, and makeþ redi sacrifices to ȝoure breþern; and doþ aftir þe heste of þe Lord, þat is ȝiue to Moises.

vii And Josias ȝaf in to þe folc þat is founde, shew, of lombis, and of kidis, and of she got, pretti þousend; calues þre þousend. Þese þingus of þe kingus þingus ben ȝiuen aftir beheste to þe puple, and to prestis, viii in to pasch; shew in noumbre two þousend, and caluis an hundrid.

ix And Jechonias, and Semeias, and Nathanael, brother, and Azabias, and Oziel, and Coraba, in to pasch, shew, fiue þousend; caluis, fiue hundrid.

x And whan þese þingis weren do nobli, þe prestis and Leuitus stoden, hauende þerue loues bi linagys.

xi And aftir þe parties of þe princehod of fadris in þe siȝte of þe puple þei offriden to þe Lord, aftir þoo þingus þat in þe poc of Moises ben writen.

xii And þei rofteden pasch wiþ fijr, as it behouede; and oftus þei soden in seþing vesselis and pottis, wiþ weel willing.

xiii And þei broȝten to alle þat weren of þe folc; and aftir þese þingus þei maden redi to hemself and to prestis.

xiv Þe prestus forsoþe offriden talewis, vnto þe hour was endid; and Leuitus maden redi to hemself, and to þer breþeren, and to þe sonys of Aron.

xv And þe sacrificieris offriden doȝtris, after ordre, and after þe heste of Dauid; and Azaf, and Zacharias, and Jeddinus, þat was of þe king; xvi and þe usþheris bi alle þe ȝatis, so þat noon ouerpasside his. Forsoþe þe breþern of hem greþeden to hem.

xvii And þoo þingis, þat perteneden to þe sacrifice of þe Lord, ben ended.

xviii In þat dai þei dide pasch, and offriden oftis vp on þe sacrifice of þe Lord, after þe heste of king Josie.

xix And þe sonus of Israel, þat ben founde, diden in þat time pasch, and þe feste dai of þerue loues bi seuene daȝes.

xx And þere is not solemnisid such a pasch in Israel, fro þe times of Samuel, þe profete.

xxi And alle þe kingus of Israel haleweden not such a pasch, as dide Josias, and þe prestus, and Leuitis, and Jewis, and al Israel, þat ben founden in þe commemoration at Jerusalem.

xxii Þe eiȝetenþe ȝer, regnende Josias, is halewid pasch.

xxiii And þe werkis of Josie ben made riȝte in þe siȝte of his Lord, in ful herte dredende;

xxiv and þoo þingus forsoþe þat abouten hym ben writen, in þe rāpere times of hem þat sinneden, who so euere weren vnreligious aȝen þe Lord, befor alle folc, and þat soȝten not þe woordis of þe Lord vp on Israel.

xxv And aftir al þis deede of Josie, Farao, king of Egipt, st̄eȝede vp, comende to casten awei in Carcamys vpon Eufraten; and Josias wente in to meeting to hym.

xxvi And þe king of Egipt sente to Josiam, seiende, What is to me and to þee, king of Jude?

xxvii I am not sent of þe Lord, vpon Eufraten forsoþe is mi bataile; heeȝende go doun.

xxviii And Josias is not turned aȝeen vp on þe char, but enforcide to ouercomyn hym, not takende heede to þe woord of þe profete, of þe mouȝ of þe Lord;

xxix but he sette to hym bataile in þe feld of Mecedan; and princis descendeden to king Josiam.

xxx And þe king seide to his childer, Mouȝ me awei fro þe bataile; forsoþe I am gretli maad sijk. And anoon his childre moueden hym awei fro þe sheltrun.

xxxi And he st̄eȝede vp vpon his secunde char; and comende to Jerusalem, diede, and is biried in þe fader sepulcre.

xxxii And in al Jude þei weileden Josie, and þei þat befor seten wiþ wiues, weileden hym vnto þis dai; and þis is ȝiue to be don euermor in to al þe kinrede of Israel.

xxxiii Þese þingus forsoþe ben beforne writhen in þe poc of stories of kingus of Juda, and in to alle ȝestis, þe deede of Josie, þe glorie of hym, and his vnderstanding in þe lawe of God; for euenli ben don of hym, and þoo þingus þat ben not writhen in þe poc of kingus of Israel and of Juda.

xxxiv And þei þat were of þe kinrede, takende Jechoniam, þe sone of Josie, setten king for Josie, his fadir, whan he was of þre and þretti ȝer.

xxxv And he regnede vp on Israel þre moneȝis; and þe king of Egipt putte hym awei, þat he regne not in Jerusalem.

xxxvi And he pilde þe folc of an hundrid talentus of siluer, and a talent of gold.

xxxvii And þe king of Egipt sette Joachym, his broþer, king of Jude and of Jerusalem; xxxviii and he bond þe maister iugis of Joachim; Saracel, his broþer, takende, he broȝte aȝeen to Egipt.

xxxix Joachim was of fiue and twenti ȝer, whan he regnede in þe lond of Juda and of Jerusalem; and he dide euel in þe siȝte of þe Lord.

xl Aftir þis forsoþe Nabugodonosor, king of Babiloine, st̄eȝede vp, and bindende hym in a strong bond, broȝte in to Babiloine;

xli and þe holi vesselis of God Nabugodonosor toc and broȝte, and facride in his temple in Babiloine.

xlii Forsoþe of his vncleanness and vnreligiousite it is writhen in þe poc of þe times of kingus.

xliii And Joachim, his sone, regnede for hym; whan forsoþe he was ordeined, he was of eiȝete ȝer.

xliii Forsoþe he regnede þre moneȝis and ten daȝes in Jerusalem; and dide euel in þe siȝte of þe Lord.

xlv And aftir a ȝer Nabugodonosor sendende broȝte hym ouer in to Babiloine, togidere wiþ þe facride vesselis of þe Lord.

xlii And he sette Sedechiam king of Juda and of Jerusalem, whan he was of oon and twenti ȝer.

xliii Forsoþe he regnede elleuen ȝer; and dide euel in þe siȝte of þe Lord, and was not adrad of þe woordis þat ben leid of Jeremie, þe profete, of þe mouȝ of þe Lord;

xliii and adiurid of king Nabugodonosor, forsworn wente awei, and his hardned nol, and wiþ his herte trespasside þe lawful þingus of þe Lord God of Israel.

xliii And þe dukis of þe puple of þe Lord manie þingus wickeli beeren, and vnpitouſli diden ouer alle þe vncleannessis of Jentilis; and þei defouleden þe temple of þe Lord, þat was holi in Jerusalem.

l And God of þer fadris sente bi his aungil to aȝeen clepen hem, for þe whiche þing he spared to hem, and to þer tabernacle.

li Þei forsoþe scorneden in þer corneris, and þat dai þat þe Lord spac, þei weren bobbende his profetus.

iii Pe whiche vnto wraþe is stirid vp on his folc, for þer irreligiosite. Comaundende and steȝende vp þe kingis of Caldeis, ivi þei flowen þe ȝunge men of hem in fwerd, in þe enuyroun of þe holi temple of hem; and þei spareden not to ȝung man, and to maiden, and to old man, and to ful waxen man; but and alle þei ben taken in to þe hondus of hem;
 ivii and alle þe facride vesselis of þe Lord, and þe kingis cofrys takende, þei broȝten in to Babiloine.
 ivii And þei brenden vp þe hous of þe Lord, and distrieden þe wallis of Jerusalem, and his touris brenden wiþ fijr.
 ivi And þei wafteden alle þe wrfshipful þingus, and to noȝt broȝten; and þe laft fro fwerd þei broȝten in to Babiloine.
 ivii And þei weren his þrallis, vnto þe time þat Persis regneden, in þe fulfilling of þe woord of þe Lord, in þe mouȝ of Jeremie; iviii for to þe lond wolde do benigneli þer fabatis, al þe time of þer forsaking he fabatisede, in þe apliyng of feuenti ȝer.

Capitulum II.

i Regnende Ciro, king of Persis, in þe fulfilling of þe woord of þe Lord, in þe mouȝ of Jeremie, ii þe Lord rerede þe spirit of Ciri, king of Persis; and prechide in al his reume togidere bi scripture, iii seiende, Þese þingus seiþ Cirus, king of Persis, Me haþ ordeined king to þe world of erþis þe Lord of Israel, þe heeȝe Lord; ivi and he signefiede to me to bilde to hym an hous in Jerusalem, þat is in Juda.
 v If ani man is of ȝoure kinrede, his Lord steȝe vp wiþ hym in to Jerusalem.
 vi Hou fele euere þanne aboute placis dwellen, helpe þei hym þat ben in þat place, in gold and siluer, vii in giftis, wiþ hors, and bestis, and wiþ opere þingus, þat aftir vouwis ben leid vp in to þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerusalem.
 viii And þe stondende princis of linagis of tounus of Jude, of þe linage of Beniamyn, and preftis and Leuitis, whom þe Lord stiride to steȝen vp, and to bilden vp þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerusalem; ix and þoo, þat weren in þe enuyroun of hem, shulden helpe in alle siluer and gold of it, and in bestis, and in manie vrouwis; manie, of whom þe wit is stirid.
 x And king Cirus broȝte forþ þe facride vesselis of þe Lord, þat Nabugodonosor translatide fro Jerusalem, and facride hem in his maumet.
 xi And bringende forþ hem Cirus, king of Persis, toc to Mitridate, þat was vp on þe tresoris of hym.
 xii Bi hym forsoþe þei ben taken to Salmanasar, gouernour of Jude.

xiii Of þese forsoþe þis þe noumbre; siluer sacrid vesselis of likouris, two þousend and foure hundrid; siluerene drinking vesselis, þretti; goldene violis, þretti; also siluerene, two þousend and foure hundrid; and opere vesselis, a þousend.
 xiv Alle forsoþe goldene vesselis and siluerene, four þousend foure hundrid and eiȝte and sixti.
 xv And þei ben deliuerd out to Salmanasar, togidere wiþ hem, þat of þe caytife of Babiloine weren comen in to Jerusalem.
 xvi Forsoþe in þe times of Artaxerxes, king of Persis, wrten to hym, of þese þat dwelten in Jude and in Jerusalem, Balsamus, and Mitridatus, and Sabellius, and Ratinus, Balteneus, Samelius, scribe, and opere dwellende in Samarie, and in opere placis, þe vnderset lettere to king Artaxerſi.
 xvii Lord, þi childer, Ratinus, and Sabelius, scribe, and opere domysmen of þi cort, of þingus þat fallen in to Coelem Siriem, and Fenicem.
 xviii And now be it knownen to þe lord þe king, for Jewis, þat steȝeden vp fro ȝou to vs, comende in to Jerusalem, cite aȝeen flowen to, and werȝt, bilden up þe ouenus of it, and setten þe wallis, and rerен þe temple.
 xix þat if þis cite and wallis weren ful endid, þei shul not suffre to ȝelde tributis, but also þei shuln aȝen stonde to kingus.
 xx And for þat þat is don aboute þe temple, to han riȝtli wee han demyd to not despisen þat same þing, xxi but 'to maken knownen to þe lord þe king, þat if it shal feme, O! þee king, be it soȝt in þe bokis of þi fadris;
 xxii and þou shalt finde in þe remembrauncis wrten of hem, and þou shalt knownen, for þat cite was aȝeen floun, and kingis and cites smitende togidere, xxiii and Jewis aȝeen fleende, and makende batailis in it fro euermor; for what cause þis cite is desert.
 xxiv Now þanne knownen we maken, lord king, for if þis cite were bild vp, and of þis þe wallis weren rerid, comyng doun shal not be to þee in to Coelem Ciriem and Fenicem.
 xxv Panne þe king wrot aȝee to Ratinum, þat wrot þe fallende þingus, and to Bellumym, and to Sabellio, scribe, and to opire ordeined, and dwelleris in Cirie and Fenyce, þoo þingus þat ben sett vnder.
 xxvi I ha rad þe lettere, þat þou sentist to me. Panne I comaundide to be soȝt; and it is founde, for þat cite is fro alwei wiþstondende to kingus, xxvii and þe men aȝeen fugitif, and batailis in it makende; and moȝt stronge kingus han ben in Jerusalem lordshipende, and tributus askende of Cele Cirie and Fenice.
 xxviii Now þanne I comaundede to forfende þoo men to bilden vp þe cite, and to puruein, leſt ani þing more þis þing be maad;

xxix but go þei not forþ in to more, sifēn þei ben of malice, so þat to kingis greeues ben born in.
xxx Panne þese þingus reherfid, þat of king Artaxerse weren writen, Rathinus, and Sabellius, scribe, and þat wiþ hem weren ordeined, ioynende, heeȝendeli camen in to Jerufalem, wiþ horse men, and puple, and cumpanie; and begunnen to forfenden þe biders. And þei voideuden fro þe biling of þe temple in Jerufalem, vnto þe secunde ȝer of þe regne of Darie, king of Persis.

Capitulum III.

i King Darie made a gret soper to alle his seruauns, and to alle þe maister iugis of Meidis and of Persis, ii and to alle þat wereden purper, and to gouernoures, and to counseleris, and to prefectis vnder hym, fro Ynde vnto Ethiope, to an hundrid and feuene and twenti prouincis.
iii And whan þey hadden eten and drunken, and fulfild, turneden aȝeen, þanne king Darie stede vp in his litil bed place, and sleep, and is wakid.
iv Panne þoo þre ȝunge men, keperis of þe body, þat kepten þe bodi of þe king, feiden þe toþir to þe toþer, v Seie wee eche of vs a woord, þat befor passē; and whos euere woord seme wisere of þe toþer, king Darie shal ȝiue to hym grete ȝiftus, vi and to be couered wiþ purper, and to drinken in gold, and vpon gold to slepen, and a goldene char, wiþ bridel, and a bys mytre, and a beȝe aboute þe necke;
vii and in þe secunde place he shal sitte fro Darie, for his wiðdam; and þe cofin of Darie he shal be clepid.
viii Panne eche writynde his woord, seleden, and putten vnder þe pilwe of king Darie; ix and seiden, Whan þe king hadde rise, þei shul ȝiue to hym þer þingus writen, and what euere þing þe king shal demen of þre, and þe maister iugis of Persis, for þe woord of hym is wisere, to hym shal be ȝiue þe victorie, as it is write.
x Oon wrot, Strong is win.
xi þe toþer wrot, Strengere is þe king.
xii þe þridde wrot, Strengere ben wymmen; ouer alle þingus forsoþe ouercomeþ treuþe.
xiii And whan þe king hadde risen, þei token þer writen þingis, and ȝeuen to hym, and he radde.
xiv And sendende he clepide alle þe maister iugis of Persis, and of Meidis, and þe cloþed in purper, and þe reuleris of prouincis, and prefectis;
xv and þei seten in conseil, and ben rad write befor þem.
xvi And he seide, Clepeþ þe ȝunge men, and þei shul shewe þer woordis. And þei ben clepid, and camen in.
xvii And he seide to hem, Shewiþ to vs of þese þingus þat ben writen. And þe rapere, þat hadde feid of þe strengþe of win, xviii began, and seide, Men! hou miche win is passende strong; to alle men þat drinken it it berþ doun þe mynde;

xix also of king and of faderles child it makeþ þe minde vein; also of seruaunt and of freman, of pore and of riche; xx and alle minde it turneþ in to sikyrnesse, and in to gladnesse; and it remembreþ not of any forewe and dette; xi and alle þe entralis it makþ oneſt; and it remembriþ not king, ne maister iuge; and alle þingis bi talent it makeþ to speke; xxii and þei remembre not, whan þei han drunke, frendshipe ne broþerhed, and after not miche þei taken ſwerdis; xxiii and whan of win þei drownyn, and rijſen, þei han no mynde þat þei diden.
xxiv O men! wheþer win is not passendeli strong, þat þus conſtreineþ to do? And þis seid, he held his pes.

Capitulum III.

i And þe folowere began to fein, þat seip of þe strengþe of king, ii O men! wheþer men ben not passendeli strong, þat erþe and se holden, and alle þingus þat in hem ben?
iii Þe king forsoþe ouer alle þingus paſſip, and haþ lordshipe of hem, and alle þing, what euere he shal sei to þem, þei don.
iv And if he fende hem to fiȝteres, þei gon, and destroȝen hillis, and wallis, and touris;
v þei ben slain, andflen, and þe woord of þe king þei passē not; for if þei ouercomen, þei bringe to þe king alle þingus, whateuere þingus þei han spoilið euermor, and alle obere þingus.
vi And hou fele euere bern not kniȝthod, ne fiȝten, but eren þe lond, eftfone whan þei weren repende, þei bringe tributus to þe king.
vii And he oon alone; and if he seie to flen, þei flen; and if he seie to forȝien, þei forȝien;
viii and if he seie to smyten, þei smite; if he seie to outlawen, þei outlawen; if he seie to bilden, þei bilden; ix if he seie to fallen of, þei fallen of; if he seie to plaunten, þei plaunten;
x and alle folc and vertues hym obeshen; and ouer þese þingus he shal sitte, and drinke, and slepen.
xi þese forsoþe in enuyroun kepen hym, and moun not go eche, and do per werkis, but and in woord men ben obeshende to hym.
xii What maner wife þe king passē not befor, þat þus is losid? And he heeld his pes.
xiii þe þridde, þat hadde seid of wymmen, and of treuþe; þis is Sorobabel; began to speke, xiv Men! not gret þe king, and manie men, ne win passēþ befor; who is þanne þat haþ lordshipe of hem?

xv Wheþer not wymmen geete king, and al þe puple, þat lordshipe to þe se, and to þe erþe, and of hem ben born?

xvi And þei broȝten forþ hem þat plaunteden vines, of þe whiche win is maad.

xvii And þei maken þe stolis of alle men, and þei don glorie to men, and men moun not ben feuered fro wymmen.

xviii If þei gedere togidere gold and feluer, and alle fair þing, and seen a womman in good abite, and in good farnesse, xix alle þese þingis forsakende, in to hir þei taken heede, and þe mouþ opened, beholden, and hir drawen to more þan gold or siluer, or any precious þing.

xx A man hys fader shal forsaken, þat nurshide hym, and his regiou, and to a womman ioyneþ togidere, xxi and wiþ a womman leueþ þe lif, and nouper fader remembreþ, ne moder, ne regiou.

xxii And þerfore it behoueþ vs to knownen, for wymmen han lordshipe of vs. Wheþer forewe ȝee not?

xxiii And a man take his swerd, and gop in þe weie to do þeftis, and manslaȝteris, and to seilen ouer þe se and flodis;

xxiv and a leoun he seeþ, and in dercnesse he gop in; and whan he haþ don þeft, and gilis, and rauineis, he bringeþ to his leef.

xxv And eft a man louueþ his wif mor þan fader or modir;

xxvi and manie woode men ben maade for þer wiues, and þrallis ben made for hem;

xxvii and manie perfliden, and ben stranglid, and synneden for wymmen.

xxviii And now leeueþ to me; for gret is þe king in his power, for alle regiouns ben aferd to touchen hym.

xxix I saȝ ner þe latere Apemen, þe doȝter of wndirful man Besacis, þe secundarie wif of þe king, sittende biside þe king at þe riȝt side;

xxx and takende awei þe diadem fro his hed, and puttende on to hirself, and wiþ þe hondis she smot þe king of þe lift hond.

xxxi And ouer þese þingus, þe mouþ opened, he beheeld hir, and if she loowe to hym, he looȝ, and if she were wroþ to hym, he glosip, to þe time þat he be recounsilid 'in to grace.'

xxxii O men! whi ben not wymmen strengere? Gret is þe erþe, and heeȝ is heuene, þat þese þingus don.

xxxiii And þanne þe king and þe purrid men beheelden eiþer in to oþer; and he began to speken of treuþe.

xxxiv O men! wheþer stronge ben not wymmen? Gret is þe erþe, and heeȝ is heuene, and swift is þe cours of þe sunne; it is turned in þe cumpas of heuene, and eft it renneþ aȝeen in to þe same place o dai.

xxxv Wheþer not a gret doere is he, þat makeþ þese þingus? and treuþe gret, and strengere beforne alle þingis?

xxxvi Al erþe treuþe inwardli clepeþ, heuene also it blesseþ, and alle werkus ben moued and dreden it; and þer is not wiþ it any þing wicked.

xxxvii Wicked king, wicked wymmen, and wicked alle þe sonis of men, and wicked alle þe werkis of hem, and þer is not in hem treuþe, and in þer wickednessis þei shuln perþhen;

xxxviii and treuþe dwelliþ, and waxeþ in to wiþ oute ende, and liueþ, and weldeþ, in to worldis of worldis.

xxxix And to taken persones and differencis is not anent it; but þoo þingis þat ben riȝtwis it dop, to alle vnriȝtwise and euele men; and alle men ben maad benigne in his werkis.

xl And þer is not in his dom wickednesse, but strengþe, and reume, and power, and mageste of alle duringis aboue time. Bleſſid be þe God of treuþe!

xli And he lafte in speking. And alle puplis crieden, and feiden, Gret is treuþe, and beforne passeþ.

xlii Panne þe king seiþ to hym, Afke, if any þing þou wilt more ouer, þan þer ben writhen, and I shal ȝiue to þee, aftir þat þou art founde wisere; and next to me þou shalt sitte, and my cosin þou shalt be clepid.

xliii Panne he seiþ to þe king, Be þou myndeful of þe vou, þat þou vrouwidist, to bilde Jerusalēm, in þe dai þat þou toke þe reume;

xliii and alle þe vesselis, þat ben taken of Jerusalēm, to senden aȝeen, þe whiche Cirus feuerede, whan he floȝ Babiloine, and wolde senden aȝeen þoo þingus þider.

xlv And þou woldist bilden vp þe temple, þat Idumeis brenden vp, for Jude is put out of termes fro Caldeis.

xlii And now þis is þat I afke, lord, and þat I bidde; þis is maieste þat of þee I afke, þat þou do þe vou, þat þou vrouwedist to þe king of heuene, of þi mouþ.

xlvii Panne Darie, þe king, risende kylte hym, and wrot epistolis to alle þe dispensatouris, and prefectis, and purrid men, þat þei shulden ledien hym forþ, and hem þat wiþ hym weren, alle steȝende vp to bilde Jerusalēm.

xlviii And to alle þe prefectis þat waren in Cirie, and Fenice, and Liban, he wrot epistolis, þat þei shulden drawe cedre trees fro Liban in to Jerusalēm, þat þei bilde vp wiþ hem þe cite.

xlix And he wrot to alle þe Jewis, þat steȝeden vp fro þe reume in Jude, for fredam, alle myȝti man, and maister iuge, and prefect, to not comen ouer to þe ȝatus of hem, l and eche regiou, þat þei hadden weldid, to be free fro hem; and Idumeis laften þe castelis, li þat þei weldden of þe Jewis, and in to þe making of þe temple to ȝiue bi ȝeris twenti talentis, vnto þe time þat it be ful bildid;

lii and to offren oftis eche dai vp on þe place of sacrid þingus, as þei han helste; opere ten talentus to offren bi alle ȝeris;

iiji and to alle men, þat gon forþ fro Babiloine, to make cite, as fredam were, boþe to hem, and to þe sonus of hem, and to alle þe preftis þat gon beforne.
iiii Forsoþe he wrot and þe quantite; and þe facrid stole he comaundede to be ȝiue, in þe whiche þei shulden ferue;
iv and to þe Leuitis he wrot to ȝiue wagis, vnto þe dai þat þe hous shulde be fulli endid, and Jerusalem maad out;
vvi and to alle men kepende þe cite he wrot, to ȝiue to hem lotis and wagis.
vii And he lafte alle þe vesselis, þat Cirus hadde feuered fro Babiloine; and alle þingis, whateuere Cirus seide, also he comaundede to be don, and to be sent to Jerusalem.
viii And whan þat ȝunge man hadde go forþ, rerende þe face in to Jerusalem, he blesſide þe king of heuene, ix and seide, Of þee is victorie, and of þee is wiſdam, and clernezze, and I am by feraunt.
x Bleſſid þou art, for þou haſt ȝiue to me wiſdam, and I knouleche to þee, Lord of oure fadris.
xi And he toc þe epistolis, and wente forþ in to Babiloine; and cam, and tolde to alle his breþern þat weren in Babiloine.
xii And þei bleſſeden þe God of þer fadris, þat ȝaf to hem forȝiuenesse and refreshing, xiii þat þei ſteȝen vp, and bilde Jerusalem, and þe temple, where is his name nemnyd in it; and þei ioȝeden ful out wiþ musikis and gladnessys feuene daȝes.

Capitulum V.

i Aftir þese þingis forsoþe ben chosen, þat þei ſteȝen vp, þe princis of tounus, bi houſis, bi þer linagis, and þe wiues of hem, and fones and doȝtris of hem, and feruauns and hand wymmen of hem, and bestis of hem.
ii And king Darie ſente togidere wiþ hem a þousend horſe men, to þe time þat þei broȝten hem in to Jerusalem, wiþ pes, and wiþ musikis, and timbres, and trumpis;
iii and alle þe breþern weren pleiende. And he made hem to ſteȝen vp togidere wiþ hem.

i And þer camen to hem of obere naciouns of þe lond, and rereden þe holi tresorie in his place, alle þe folc of þe lond; and þei offriden oftis, and morutide brent ſacrifises to þe Lord.

ii And þei diden þe feſte of tabernaclis, and a ſolempne dai, as it is write in þe lawe, and ſacrifises eche dai, as it behouede.

iii And aftir þese þingus þe ordeined offringus, and oftus of fabatis, and of newe mones, and of alle halewid ſolempne daȝes.

iii And hou fele euere vouweden to þe Lord, fro þe newe mone of þe feuenþe moneþ, token oftis to offre to God; and þe temple of þe Lord ȝit was not bilt vp.

ivii And þei ȝeue monee to maſonus, and to wriȝtus, and drink and metus wiþ ioȝe.

iv And þei ȝeue carris to Sidonyes and to Tires, þat þei shulden carien ouer to hem fro Liban wode cedre bemus, and maken a naue in to Joppe hauene, aftir þe decre þat was write to þem fro Ciro, king of Perſis.

vii And in þe ſecunde ȝer þei comende in to þe temple of God, in to Jerufalem, þe ſecunde moneþ began Sorobabel, þe sone of Salatiel, and Jefus, þe sone of Jofedech, and þe breþern of hem, and prestis, and Leuitus, and alle þat camen fro þe caitife in to Jerufalem;

vii and foundeden þe temple of God, in þe newe mone of þe ſecunde moneþ of þe ſecunde ȝer, whan þei hadde comen in to Jude and Jerufalem;

Iviii and setten Leuitus fro twenti ȝer vpon þe werkis of þe Lord. And Jesuſ stod, his sone, and breþern, alle Leuitus togidere caſtende, and foſeweris out of þe lawe, and doende werkis in þe hous of þe Lord.
Ix And þer ſtoden preſtys, hauende ſtolis, wiþ trumpis, and Leuitus, þe ſonus of Afaf, hauende cymbalis, Ix togidere preiſende þe Lord, and bleſſende, aftir Dauid, king of Israel.
Ix And þei fungen a ſong to þe Lord, for hiſ ſwetneſſe and wrſhiſe in to worldis vp on al Israel.
Ixii And al þe puple wiþ trumpe fungen, and crieden wiþ gret vois, preiſende togidere þe Lord, in þe rering of þe hous of þe Lord.
Ixiii And þer camen of preſtus, and of Leuitus, and of presidentus aftir þe tounus, to þe elders þat haddeſ been seen þe raþere hous, and at þe bilden vp of þis, wiþ cri, and wiþ gret weiling;
Ixiiii and manye wiþ trumpis, and gret ioȝe, Ixv ſo þat þe puple herde not þe trumpis, for þe weiling of þe puple. Forſoþe a cumpanye was ſingende wrſhiſepfulli in trumpe, ſo þat afer it was herd.
Ixvi And þe enimis herden þe linagis of Juda and of Beniamyn, and camen to wite, what was þe vois of þe trumpes.
Ixvii And þei knewen, for þei þat wereſ of þe caitife bilden þe temple to þe Lord God of Israel.
Ixviii And comende neeȝ to Sorobabel, and to Jesu, and to þe prouoftis of tounus, feiden to hem, Wee ſhul bilde togidere wiþ ȝou.
Ixix Lic maner forſoþe wee han herd of oure Lord, and we togidere han go fro þe daȝes of Albaſareth, king of Aſſiries, þat wente ouer hennus.
Ix And feide to hem Sorobabel, and Jesue, and þe princis of þe tounus of Israel, It is not to vs and to ȝou to bilden vp þe hous of oure God;
Ixxi we forſoþe alone ſhul bilden þe hous of oure God, aftir þoo þingus, þat Ciruſ, king of Perſis, comauandede.
Ixii ȝe Jentilis forſoþe of þe lond leuende to þem þat ben in Jude, and rerende vp þe werk of þe bilden, and aspies and puple bringende forþ, forfendeden hem to bilden vp;
Ixiii and letteden þe men, hauntende þe goingus to, þat þe bilden ſhulde not ben endid al þe time of þe lif of king Ciri; and þei drowen along þe making vp bi two ȝer, vn to þe regne of Darie.

Capitulum VI.

i In þe ſecunde forſoþe ȝer of þe regne of Darie profeciede Agge, and Sacharie, þe ſone of Addin, profete, anent Jude and in Jeruſalem, in þe name of þe Lord God of Israel, vpon hem.
ii Panne ſtondende Sorobabel, þe ſone of Salatiel, and Jesuſ, þe ſone of Jefedech, begunnen to bilden vp þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jeruſalem; whan þer wereſ neeȝ to hem profetis of þe Lord, and holpen hem.

iii In þat time cam to hem Cifennes, þe vnder litil king of Cirie and of Fenices, and Satrabofones, and þer felawis. And þei feiden to hem, iv Who comauandende to ȝou, þis hous ȝe bilden, and þis rof, and opere manie þingus ȝee parfomen? and who ben þe bilders, þat þeſe þingus bilden vp?
v And þe viſiting don vp on hem þat wereſ of þe caitife, haddeſ grace of þe Lord þe elders of Israel;
vi and þei ben not lettid to bilden vp, to þe time þat it were ſignefied to Darie of alle þeſe þingus, and an anſwere were taken.
vii ȝe faumple of þe epiftil, þat to Darie ſenten Cifennes, vnder king of Cirie and of Fenyces, and Satrobofanes, and þer felawis, in Cirie and in Fenice reuleris. To king Darie, greeting.
viii Alle þingus knownen be þei to be lord þe king; for whan we camen in to þe regiouſ of Jude, and wenten in to Jeruſalem, wee founde men bilden a gret hous of God, ix and a temple of grete pooliſht ſtones, and of precious materes in wallis;
x and þoo werkis beſili to be maad, and to helpe, and to make welſum in þe hondis of hem, and in alle glorie, as moſt diligentli to be performed.
xi Panne wee askeden þe eldere men, feiende, Who ſuffrende ȝee bilden to ȝou þis hous, and þeſe werkus founden?
xii Perfore forſoþe wee askeden hem, þat knownen wee myȝten make to bee þe men, and þe prouoftis; and þe writing of þe namis of þe prouoftus wee askeden hem.
xiii And þei anſwerden to vs, feiende, We ben þe feruauns of þe Lord, þat made heuene and erþe; xiv and þis hous was bilden beforne þeſe manie ȝeris of þe king of Israel, gret, and moſt ſtrong, and it is ful endid.
xv And for oure fadris wereſ terrende and ſynneden in þe God of Israel, he toc hem in to þe hondus of Nabugodonosor, king of Babiloine, king of Caldeis; xvi and þis hous deſtroȝende brenden vp, and þe puple caitif broȝten in to Babiloine.
xvii In þe firſte ȝer regnende Ciro, king of Babiloine, king Ciruſ wrot to bilden vp þis hous;
xviii and þoo holi goldene veffelis and ſiluerene, þat Nabugodonosor hadde born awei fro þe hous, þat is in Jeruſalem, and hadde ſacred hem in his temple, eft king Ciruſ broȝte þem forþ fro þe temple þat was in Babiloine, and ben take to Sorobabel, and to Salmanafar, vndir litil king.
xix And it is comauandid to hem, þat þei offren þeſe veffelis, and lein vp in þe temple, þat was in Jeruſalem, and þat temple of God to bilden vp in þat place.
xx Panne Salmanafar vnder leide þe foundemens of þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jeruſalem; and fro þennus vn to now is bilden vp, and toc no ful ending.

xxi Now þanne, if it is demed of þee, O king! be it parfitli soȝt in þe kingis libraries of king Ciri, þat ben in Babiloine;
 xxii and if it were founden in þe counseil of king Ciri, to ben begunne þe making of þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerufalem, and it shal be shewid of þe lord oure king, wrijte he of þese þingus to vs.
 xxiii þanne king Darie comaundede to ben inwardli soȝt in þe librarijs; and þer is founde in Egbatenis, burȝtoun, þat is in þe myddel regioum, o place, in þe whiche weren writhen þese þingus.
 xxiv þe firste ȝer regnende Ciro king, Cirus comaundede þe hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerufalem, to bilden vp, where þei brenden wiþ contynuel fijr; xxv whos heiȝte is maad of ten cubitis, and breed of fourti cubitus, squalid wiþ þre polisht stonus, and wiþ soleer tree of þe fame regioum, and wiþ oon newe soleer; and costus to be ȝiuen of þe hous of king Cirus; xxvi and þe holi vesselis of þe hous of þe Lord, boþ goldene and siluerene, þat Nabugodonosor bar awei, þat þei be put þider in to þe hous, þat is in Jerufalem, where þei weren put.
 xxvii And he comaundede besinesse to don Cisennem, vnder litil king of Cirie and Fenice, and Satrabusanam, and his felawis, and þei þat weren in Cirie and in Fenice ordeineden reuleris, þat þei abstene þem fro þe fame place.
 xxviii And I also comaundede al to maken vp, and forþ lookide, þat þei helpe þem þat ben of þe caitifte of Jewis, to þe time þat þe temple of þe hous of þe Lord be ful endid;
 xxix and of þe trauaile of þe tributus of Cirie Choeles and Fenices diligentli a quantite to be ȝiue to þese men, to þe sacrificise of þe Lord, to Sorobabel, prefect, to bolis, and weþeris, and lambis;
 xxx also forsoþe and whete, and salt, and win, and oile, besili bi alle ȝeris, as þe prestus, þat ben in Jerufalem, ordeineden to be fulfild eche dai, wiþ oute any delai;
 xxxi þat þer ben offrid offringus of likourus to þe heiȝeste God, for þe king, and his childer, and preȝe for þe lif of hem.
 xxxii And be it denounsfid, þat whoþo euere ouer passen any þing of þese þingus þat ben writhen, or despisen, be þer taken a tree of þer own proper, and be þei hangid, and þe goodis of hem to þe king be eschetid.
 xxxiii þerfore and þe Lord, whos name is inwardli clepid þere, outlawe eche king and folc, þat strecchen out þer hond to forfenden, or to euele treten þat hous of þe Lord, þat is in Jerufalem.
 xxxiv I, king Darie, haue maad a decree, to be don as most diligentli aftir þese þingis.

Capitulum VII.

i Thanne Cisennes, vnder litil king of Choelem Cirie and Fenicem, and Satrabanes, and þe felawis, obesheden to þese þingus, þat of king Darye weren demed,

 ii stoden in to þe holi werkis most diligentli, togidere werkende wiþ þe eldere men of Jewis, princis of Cirie.
 iii And þe sacrid holi werkis ben made welfum, profeciende Agge and Sacarie, profetus.
 iv And alle þingus þei fulfilden, bi þe heste of þe Lord God of Israel, and of þe counseil of Ciri, and of Darie, and of Artaxerse, king of Persis.
 v And oure hous is endyd, vnto þe þre and twentipe dai of þe moneþ of March, þe fixte ȝer of king Darie. vi And þe sonus of Israel diden, and þe prestis, and Leuitus, and obere þat weren of þe caitifte, þat ben set to, after þoo þingus þat ben writhen in þe poc of Moises.
 vii And þei offriden in to þe dedicaciooun of þe temple of þe Lord, bolis, an hundrid; weþeris, two hundrid;
 lambis, foure hundrid;
 viii kidis for þe synnes of al Israel, twelue, after þe noumbre of þe linagis of Israel.
 ix And þe prestus stoden, and Leuitus, clad þe stolis, bi þe linagis, vpon þe werec of þe Lord God of Israel, after þe poc of Moises; and vþheris bi alle þe ȝatis.
 x And þe sonus of Israel diden, wiþ hem þat weren of þe caitifte, þat pasch, þe mone of þe firste moneþ, fourtene, whan ben halewid þe prestis and þe Leuitus.
 xi And alle þe sonus of caitifte ben not togidere halewid, for alle þe Leuitus ben togidere halewid.
 xii And þei offriden pasch to alle þe sonus of caitifte, and to þer breþern, prestis, and to hemself.
 xiii And þe sonus of Israel eeten, þat weren in þe caitifte, alle þat hadden laft fro alle þe curſidnessis of þe Jentilis of þe erþe, sechende þe Lord;
 xiv and þei haleweden þe feste dai of þerue loues, seuene dȝes etende in þe siȝte of þe Lord;
 xv for he conuertide þe counseil of þe king of Assiris in hem, to coumforte þe hondus of hem to þe werkis of þe Lord God of Israel.

Capitulum VIII.

i And after þis, regnende Artaxerse, king of Persis, wente to Esdras, þe sone of Azarie, sone of Elchie, sone of Salome,
 ii sone of Sadduch, sone of Achitob, sone of Ameri, sone of Azaei, sone of Bocce, sone of Abisae, sone of Finees, sone of Eleasar, sone of Aron, firste preest.
 iii Þis Esdras stedeþe vp fro Babiloine, whan he was scribe, and witti in þe lawe of Moises, þat is ȝiuen of þe Lord of Israel, to sein and to do.
 iv And þe king ȝaf to hym glorie, þat he hadde founde grace in alle dignete, and defiȝr, in þe siȝte of hym.
 v And þer stedeþen vp togidere wiþ hym of þe sonus of Israel, and prestis, and Leuitus, and holi singeres of þe temple, and vþheris, and feruauns of þe temple, in to Jerufalem.

vi þe feuenþe ȝer regnende Artaxerse, in þe fifte monyþ, þis is þe feuenþe ȝer of þe regne, goende out forsoþe fro Babiloine in þe newe mone of þe fifte moneþ, þei camen to Jerusalem, after þe heftus of hym, after þe ȝiuen prosperite of þe weie to hem of þat Lord.
vii In þese þingys forsoþe Esdras weldeðe gret discipline, leſt he paſſide biſide any þing of þoo þingis þat weren of þe lawe of þe Lord, and heftus, and in techende al Israel alle riȝtweſneſſe and dom.
viii Comende forsoþe neeȝ þei þat writhen þe writhen þingus of king Artaxerſes, token writhen þat, þat cam fro king Artaxerſes to Esdras, prest, and redere of þe lawe of þe Lord, of whiche þinge þe exſaumple is leid vnder.
ix King Artaxerſe to Eſdre, prest, and redere of þe lawe of þe Lord, greeting.
x More benyngne I demende also to benefetus, comandede to hem þat defiren of þe folc of Jewis þer owne þingus wilfulli, and of þe prestis, and Leuitiſ, þat ben in my reume, to felashipen wiþ þee in to Jerusalem.
xi Pane if any couetten to go wiþ þee, come þei tgidere, and go þei forþ, as it pleſeþ to me, and to my feuene frendis counſeileris; xii þat þei viſite þoo þingus, þat ben don after Jude and Jerusalem, kepende þe lawe, as þou haſt in þe lawe of
þe Lord;
xiii and bere þei ȝiftus to þe Lord of Israel, þe whiche I knewȝ, and þe frendis of Jerusalem, and al þe gold and ſiluer, þat were founden in þe regioune of Babiloine, to þe Lord in Jerufalem, xiv wiþ þat þat is ȝiuen of þat folc in þe temple of þe Lord, of hem þat is in Jerufalem; þat be gedered þis gold and ſiluer, and to bolis, and weþeris, and lambis, and kidis, and þat to þese ben couenable;
xv þat þei offre oſtis to þe Lord, vp on þe auter of þe Lord of hem, þat is in Jerufalem.
xvi And alle þingus what euere þou wilt wiþ þi breþern don, wiþ gold and ſiluer parforme, for þe wil, after þe heſte of þe Lord þi God.
xvii And þe ſacride holi vefſelis, þat ben ȝiue to þee, to þe werkis of þe hous of þe Lord þi God, þat is in Jerusalem,
xviii and oþere þingus, what euere to þee wiln helpen to þe werkis of þe temple of þi God, þou ſhalt ȝiue of þe kingis treſorie, whan þou wilt wiþ þi breþern maken, wiþ gold and ſiluer; and parforme þou aftir þe wil of þi Lord. xix And I, king Artaxerſes, haue comaundid to þe keperis of þe treſories of Cirie and of Fenice, þat what euere þingus Esdras, prest, and redere of þe lawe of þe Lord, write fore, beſili be it ȝiue to hym, vnto an hundrid talentis of ſiluer, lic maner and of gold; xx and vnto an hundrid buſſhelis of whete, and an hundrid vefſelis of win, and oþere þingis, what euere abouden, wiþ oute taxing.

xxi Alle þingus after þe lawe of God be don to þe heijeste God, leſt parauenture riſe vp wraþe in þe reume of þe king, and of þe fone, and of þe fones of
hym.
xxii To ȝou forsoþe is ſeid, þat to alle þe preſtis, and Leuitiſ, and holi ſingeres, and feruauns of þe temple, and ſcribiſ of þis temple, no tribute, ne any oþer forſeinding be born to, ne haue any man power to aȝen caſten any þing to hem.
xxiii þou forsoþe, Esdras, aftir þe wiſdom of God ordeine domesmen and arbitrouris, in al Cirie and Fenice, and alle þat þe lawe of þi God knewen, teche; xxiv þat hou fele euere ouerpaffe þe lawe, biſili be þei punfhid, or bi deþ, or bi torment, or also bi multing of monee, or bi feuering awei.
xxv And Esdras, ſcribe, feide, Bleſſid be þe Lord God of oure fadriſ, þat ȝaf þis wil in to þe herte of þe king, to clarifiен his hous, þat is in Jerufalem; xxvi and me haþ wrfhipid in þe ſiȝte of þe king, and counſeileris, and his frendis, and of his purpid men. xxvii And I am maad ſtedefast in inwit, after þe helping of þe Lord oure God; and I gederede of Israel men, þat þei ſhulden ſteȝen vp tgidere wiþ me.
xxviii And þese ben þe prouostis, after þer kuntres, and porciounelis princehodis of hem, þat wiþ me ſteȝeden vp fro Babiloine, in þe reume of Artaxerſis.
xxix Of þe fonus of Fares, Jersomus; of þe fonus of Ciameruth, Amenus; of þe fonus of Dauid, Accus, þe fone of Cecelie;
xxx of þe fonus of Fares, Zacharie, and wiþ hym ben turned aȝeen an hundrid men and fifty; xxxi of þe fonus of Ductor, Moabilonyſ, Zaraei, and wiþ hym two hundrid men and fifty; xxii of þe fonus of Sacues, Jechonie, Cetheeli, and wiþ hym two hundrid men and fifty; xxiii of þe fones of Solomofias, Gotholie, and wiþ hym feuenti men;
xxiv of þe fones of Sofocie, Zarias, Micheli, and wiþ hym foure ſcore men;
xxv of þe fonus of Jobab, Dias, Jeseli, and wiþ hym two hundrid men and twelue; xxvi of þe fonus of Banie, Salimoth, þe fone of Josafie, and wiþ hym an hundrid men and fixti; xxvii of þe fonus of Beer, Zacharias, Bebei, and wiþ hym two hundrid men and eiȝte; xxviii of þe fones of Azachie, Channes, Acharie, and wiþ hym an hundrid men and ten;
xxix of þe fonus of Adonicam, hem laſt, xi and þese ben þe namus of hem, Elifalam, þe fone of Jebel, and Semeias, and wiþ hym feuenti men.
xli And I gederede hem to þe flod, þat is ſeid Thia and Methati; þere wee weren þre daȝis, and I knewȝ hem.
xlii And of þe fonus of preſtis and of Leuitiſ I fond not þere.
xliii And I ſente to Eleaſar, and to Accebam, and Mafman, and Malolan, xliii and Enathan, and Samea, and Joribum, Nathan, Ennagan, Zacharie, and Mosollamym, hem leders and wife men.

xlv And I seide to hem, þat þei shulden come to Luddyum, þat was at þe place of þe tresorie.

xlii And I sente to þem, þat þei shulden sei to Luddium, and his breþern, and to hem þat weren in þe tresorie, þat þei shulden sende to vs hem þat shulden vse presthod in þe hous of þe Lord oure God.

xlii And þei broȝten to vs, after þe stronge hond of þe Lord oure God, wife men of þe sonus of Mooli, sone of Leuy, sone of Israel, Sebebian, and sonus, and breþern, þat weren eiȝtetene; xliii Albiam, and Amum, of þe sonus of Cananei; and þe sonus of hem, twenti men.

xlii And of hem þat in þe temple serueden, þe whiche Dauid ȝaf, and þei princis, to þe working to þe Leuitus, to þe temple, of men seruende, two hundred and twenti. Þe namys of alle ben signefied in scripturis.

I And I vrouwede þere fasting to ȝunge men, in þe ȝiste of þe Lord, þat I shulde sechen of hym good weie to vs, and þat weren wiþ vs, of sonus, and bestus, for aspies.

ii Forsoþe I shamede to asken of þe king foot men and horse men, in felashipe of grace, of keping aȝen oure aduersaries.

iii Forsoþe we seiden to þe king, For þe vertue of þe Lord shal be wiþ hem, þat inwardli sechen hym in alle efect.

iv And eft we prezeden þe Lord oure God, after þese þingis, whom and benigne we hadden; and hol wee ben maad to oure God.

v And I feuerede of þe prouostis of þe folc, and of þe prestis of þe puple, twelue men, and Sedebian, and Affamian, and wiþ hem of þer breþern ten men.

vi And I peisede to hem siluer and gold, and prestis vesselis, of þe hous of þe Lord oure God, þe whiche þe king hadde ȝiuen, and his counfeileris, and princis, and al Israel.

vii And whan I hadde peisid, I toc talentus of siluer an hundred and fifti, and siluerene vesselis of an hundred talentis, and of gold talentus an hundred, viii and of goldene vesselis seue score, and brasene vesselis of good metal shinende, twelue, ȝeldende þe licenisse of gold.

ix And I seide to hem, And ȝee ben holi to þe Lord, and þe vesselis ben holi, and þe gold and þe seluer is of þe auou to þe Lord God of oure fadris.

x Wakeþ, and kepeþ, to þe time þat ȝee take of þe prouostis of þe puple, and of þe prestis, and of þe Leuitis, and princis of þe cites of Israel, in Jerusalem, in þe priue chaumbre of þe hous of oure God.

xi And þese prestis and Leuitus, þat token gold and siluer, and vesselis, þat weren in Jerusalem, broȝten in to þe temple of þe Lord.

ixi And we moueden forþ fro þe flod of Thia, þe twelfe dai of þe firste moneþ, for to we ȝiden in to Jerusalem.

xii And whan þe þridde dai was don, þe ferþe forsoþe dai þe peisid gold and siluer is taken in þe hous of þe Lord oure God, to Marymoth, þe sone of Jori, prest; xiii and wiþ hym was Eleasar, þe sone of Finees; and þer weren wiþ hem Josabdus, þe sone of Jesu, and Medias, and Banny, þe sone of a Leuite; at noumbrē and weiȝte alle þingus.

xiv And þe peis of hem is writhen in þe same hour.

xv Poo forsoþe, þat camen fro þe caitifte, offriden sacrificise of þe Lord of Israel, bolis, twelue for al Israel; weþeres, foure score and sixe;

xvi lambis, two and seuenti; get for synne twelue, and for helþe twelue kijn; alle in to þe sacrificise of þe Lord. xvii And þei eft radden þe heftis of þe king to þe kingis dispensatouris, and to þe little vnder kingus of Choele, and Cirie, and Fenice; and þei wrshipeden þe folc and þe temple of þe Lord.

xviii And þese þingis ful endid, þei camen to me, feiende, xix þe kinrede of Israel, and þe princis, and prestys, and Leuitis, and aliene folkis, and naciouns of þe lond, han not feuered þer vncلنnesse fro Cananeis, and Etheis, and Ferefeis, and Jebuseis, and Moabitis, and Egipciens, and Idumeis;

xx forsoþe þei ben ioynd to þe doȝtris of hem, and þei and þer sonis; and þe holi sed is mengd togidere to þe heþene folc of þe lond; and parceres weren þe prouostus and maistir iugis of þis wickednesse, fro þe begynnyng of þat reume.

xxi And anon as I herde þese þingis, I cutte þe cloþis, and þe sacrid cote, and to-terende þe heris of þe hed, and þe berd, I sat forewende, and dreri.

xxii And þer camen to me as fele as euere weren þanne moued in þe woord of þe Lord God of Israel, me weilende vp on þis wickenesse; and I sat foreweful vnto þe euentid sacrificise.

xxiii And risende fro fasting, hauende þe cloþis cut, miche knelende, and strecchende out þe hondis to þe Lord, xxiv I feide, Lord, I am confoundid, and I am adrad befor þi face.

xxv Forsoþe oure synnes ben multiplied vp on oure hedis, and oure wickednessis ben enhauncid vnto heuene;

xxvi for fro þe time of oure fadris we ben in gret synne vn to þis day.

xxvii And for oure synnes, and of oure fadris we ben taken, wiþ oure breþern, and wiþ oure prestus, and kingus of þe lond, in to swerd, and caitifte, and in to prei, wiþ confuslion, vn to þe dai þat is now.

xxviii And now hou myche is, þat falleþ to vs þe merci of þee, Lord God; lef to vs a roote and a name, in to þe place of þin halewing, Ixxix to vnkoueren oure ȝiuere of liȝt in þe hous of þe Lord oure God, to ȝiue to vs mete in þe time of oure seruage.

Ixxx And whan wee seruen, wee ben not forsaken of þe Lord oure God; but he sette vs in grace, puttende to vs kingus of Persis to ȝiue mete, Ixxxi and to clarifiȝt þe temple of þe Lord oure God, and to edefie þe desertis of Sion, and to ȝiue to vs stabenesse in Jude and Jerusalēm.

Ixxxii And now what sei wee, Lord, hauende þese þingus? We han ouyr passid þin hestis, 'þe whiche þou ȝeue in to þe hondis of þi childer, profetus, sciende, Ixxxiii For þe lond, in þe whiche ȝee wenten in, to welden his eritage, is a defoulid lond wiþ filpes of þe heþene men of þe lond, and þe vncلنnessis of hem han fulfild it al in his vncلنness.

Ixxxiv And now ȝoure doȝtris ȝee shul not ioyne to þer sonus, and þer doȝtris ȝee shul not take to ȝoure sonus;

Ixxxv and ȝee shul not feche to han pes wiþ hem alle time, þat comende aboue ȝee ete þe beste þingus of þe lond, and þe eritage ȝee delen to ȝoure sonus, in to þe during aboue time.

Ixxxvi And þoo þingus þat fallen to vs, alle ben do for oure shrewde werkis, and oure grete synnes.

Ixxxvii And þou haſt ȝiue to vs ſuch a roote, and eft wee ben turned aȝeen to ouer paſſe þi laweful þingis, þat þe vncلنnessis of þe heþene folc of þis lond weren mengd.

Ixxxviii Wheþer þou ſhalt not wraþen to vs, to leefen vs, for to þe roote be forsaken, and oure fed?

Ixxxix Lord God of Israel, þou art ſoþfaſt; forſoþe þe roote is forsaken, vnto þe dai þat is now.

xc Lo! now we ben in þi ſiȝte in oure wickeness; forſoþe it is not ȝit to ſtonde befor þee in þese þingus.

xci And whan honourende Esdras knoulechede, wepende, falles doun to þe erþe befor þe temple, ben gedered befor hym of Jerusalēm a ful gret cumpanye, men, and wemmen, and þunge men, and þunge wymmen; forſoþe þe weeping was gret in þat multitude.

xcii And whan Jechonias, þe sone of Jeeli, of þe sonus of Israel, hadde cried, Esdras ſeide, Wee han ſynned aȝen þe Lord, þat wee han lett wiþ vs in to matrimoyn heþene wymmen, of þe Jentilis of þe lond. And now who ſo euere is ouer al Israel in þese þingus, xciii be þer to vs an oþ of þe Lord, to putten awei alle oure wiues, þat of þe heþene ben, wiþ þer sonus;

xciv as to þee is demed of þe more, aftir þe lawe of þe Lord.

xcv Risende vp, ſheu out; to þee forſoþe abideþ þis nede, and wee ben wiþ þee; do manli.

xcvi And rifende vp Esdras, he made þe princis off preſtis, and þe Leuitus, and al Israel, to fwere to don aftir þese alle þese þingus; and þei fworen.

Capitulum IX.

i And rifende vp Esdras fro 'þe beforne porche of þe temple, wente in to þe celle of Jonathe, ſone of Nazabi.

ii And herberewid þere, he taſtede no bred, ne water dranc, vp on þe wickedneſſes of þe multitude.

iii And þer is maad a preaching in al Jude and in Jerusalēm, to alle þat weren of þe caitife gedered in Jerusalēm, iv Whoſoeuer aȝeen comeþ not to þe fecunde or þe þridde dai, aftir þe dom of þe eldere men ſittende, his facultees shul ben taken awei, and he alien demed fro þe multitude of caitife.

v And alle ben gedered togidere, þat weren of þe linage of Juda and of Beniamyn, þre daȝes in Jerusalēm; þis is þe nynþe moneþ, þe twentiþe dai of þe monyþ.

vi And al þe multitude ſat in þe flor of þe temple, tremblende for þe preſent winter.

vii Esdras rifende vp, ſeide to Irael, ȝee wickedeli diden, ſettende ȝou in to matrimoine heþene wiues, þat ȝee adde to þe synnes of Israel.

viii And now ȝiueþ ſhrifte, and gret doing to þe Lord God of oure fadris;

ix and parformeþ his wil, and goþ awei fro þe heþene folc of þe lond, and fro heþene wiues.

x And al þe multitude crieðe, and ſeiden wiþ a gret vois, As þou haſt feid, wee ſhul do.

xi But for þe multitude is gret, and þe time winter, and wee moun not vnholpen ſtonde, and þis were is not to vs of o dai, ne of two; myche in þese þingus wee han ſynned;

xii ſtonde þe prouoftus of þe multitude, and alle þat wiþ vs dwellen, and hou fele euere han 'anent þem heþene wiues; and ſtonde þei neȝ in þe accept time of alle place, xiii preſtis, and domes men, for to þei losne þe wraþe of þe Lord, of þis nede.

xiv Jonathas forſoþe, þe ſone of Ezeli, and Ozias, Thethan, token aftir þese þingus, and Bosoramus, and Leuys, and Satheus togidere wroȝten wiþ hem.

xv And þer ſtoden aftir alle þese þingus, alle þat weren of þe caitife.

xvi And Esdras, preſt, ches to hym men, grete princis, of þe fadris of hem, after þe names; and þei ſeten togidere, in þe newe mone of þe tenþe moneþ, to examyne þis nede.

xvii And it is determyned of þe men, þat hadden heþene wiues, vnto þe newe mones of þe firſte moneþ.

xviii And þere ben founden mengd among of þe preſtis, þat hadden heþene wiues;

xix of þe sonus of Jefu, þe sonus of Josedech, and of his breþern, Mafeas, and Eleferus, and Joribus, and Joadeus.

xx And þei leiden hondis, þat þei ſhulden putten awei þer wiues, and to ſacrifiȝt, in to preieere for þer ignorauice.

xxi And of þe sonus of Semmery, Masseas, and Effes, and Geleth, Azarias; xxii and of þe fones of Fosore, Leomasias, Hismaeius, and Nathania, Jussio, Leddus, and Talfas.
xxiii And of þe Leuitus, Josabduſ, and Semeis, and Cholitus, and Calitas, and Facceas, and Coluas, and Elionas.
xxiv And of þe facrid syngeres, Eliazub, Zaccurus.
xxv And of þe vſheris, Salumus, and Tholbanes.
xxvi And of Israel, of þe sonus of Forchoſi, and Remias, and Jeddias, and Melchias, and Michelus, and Eliasarus, and Jemebias, and Bannas. xxvii And of þe sonis of Jolamani, Anias, and Zacharias, Jerſelus, and Jobdius, and Erimoth, and Elias.
xxviii And of þe sonus of Sachon, Eliadas, and Eliasumus, and Othias, and Jarimoth and Zabdis, and Thebedias.
xxix And of þe fones of Bede, Johannes, and Amanyas, and Zabdias, and Emetis.
xxx And of þe sonis of Baum, Olamus, and Mallucus, and Jeddeus, and Jasub, and Azabus, and Jerimoth.
xxxi And of þe sonis of Addin, Nathus and Moofias, and Caalemus, and Raanas, and Baseas, Mathatias, and Bethfel, and Bonnus, and Manasses.
xxxii And of þe sonus of Miaie, Nenyas, and Afeas, and Melcheas, and Sameas, and Simon, Beniamyn, and Malchus, and Marias.
xxxiii Of þe sonus of Azom, Cartaneus, Mathatias, and Bannus, and Elifalath, and Manasses, and Semeth.
xxxiv And of þe sonus of Banny, Jeremias, and Modias, and Abramus, and Johel, and Baneas, and Pelias, and Jonas, and Marymoth, and Eliazub, and Mathaneus, and Eleafis, and Orisas, and Dielus, and Samedius, and Zambris, and Josefus.
xxxv And of þe sonus of Nobei, Idelus, and Mathatias, and Zabadus, and Cetheda, Seduni, and Jeffei, Baneas.
xxxvi Alle þese ioineden to hem heþene wiues, and laſten hem, wiþ þe fones.
xxxvii And prestis, and Leuitus, and þat weren of Israel, dwelten in Jerufalem in oon hol regiou, þe newe mone of þe ſeueneþe moneþ; and þe fonus of Israel weren in þer abidingus.
xxxviii And al þe multitude is gedered togidere in to þe flor, þat is fro þe eſt of þe facrid ȝate.
xxxix And þei feiden to Eſdre, biffhop and redere, þat he ſhulde bringe forþ þe lawe of Moiſes, þat is ȝiuen of þe Lord God of Israel.
xl And Eſdras, biffhop, broȝte forþ þe lawe to al þe multitude of hem, fro man vnto womman, and to alle þe prestus, to heren þe lawe, in þe newe mone of þe ſeueneþe moneþ.
xli And he radde in þe flor, þat is befor þe holi ȝate of þe temple, fro þe firſte liȝt vnto euen, befor men and wymmen; and alle þei ȝeuen wit to þe lawe.

xlii And Eſdras, preſt, and redere of þe lawe, ſtod vp on þe treene chaſer, þat was forgid.
xliii And þere ſtoden to hym Mathatias, and Samus, and Ananyas, Azarias, Vrias, Ezechias, and Balfamus, at þe riȝt; xliii and at þe lift, Faldeus, and Misael, Malachias, Abuftas, Sabus, Nabadias, and Zacharias.
xlvi And Eſdras toc a poc befor al þe multitude; forſoþe he fat befor in glorie, in þe ſiȝte of alle.
xlvi And whan he hadde aſoilid þe lawe, alle ſtoden vp riȝt. And Eſdras bleſſide þe Lord God, al þer heiȝest God of Sabaoth, al myȝti.
xlvii And al þe puple anſwerde, Amen. And eft, þe hondis rerid vp, þei, fallende doun in to þe erþe, honoureden þe Lord.
xlviii And Eſdras comaundede, þat þer ſhulden teche þe lawe, Jesuſ, and Banaeus, and Sarabias, and Jadinus, and Accubus, and Sabatheus, and Calithes, and Azarias, and Joradus, and Ananias, and Filas, Leuite. Þe whiche taȝten þe lawe of þe Lord, and in þe multitude radden þe lawe of þe Lord; and eche putten befor hem, þat vndirſtoden þe leſſoun.
xlix And Atharathes ſeide to Eſdre, þe biffhop and redere, and to þe Leuitus þat taȝten þe multitude, ſeide, i Pis dai is holi to þe Lord. And alle wepten, whan þei hadden herd þe lawe.
ii And Eſdras ſeide, ȝee þanne, gon atwynne, eteþ alle moſt fatte þingys, and drinkeþ alle moſt sweete, and ſendeþ ȝiftus to hem þat han not;
iii forſoþe holi is pis dai of þe Lord; and wileþ not ben fori, þe Lord forſoþe ſhal clarifiен vs.
iv And þe Leuitus denouceden in opene to alle men, ſeide, Pis dai is holi; wileþ not ben fori.
v And alle wenten awei, to eten, and to drinken, and to han plente of mete, and to ȝiue ȝiftus to hem þat han not, þat þei plenteouſli eten. Gret doingli forſoþe þei ben enhauncid in þe woordis, wiþ þe whiche þei ben taȝt.
vi And alle þei ben gedered in to Jerufalem, to make ſolempne þe gladneſſe, after þe testament of þe Lord God of Israel.
Here endiþ þe pridde book of Eſdre, and now begynneþ þe prolog of þe book of Tobie.

TOBIE.

Here begynneþ prolog of Tobie.

To Cromacio and Eliodre, biffhopys, Jerome, preſt, in þe Lord ſendeþ greeting. To merueilen I cefe not þe inſtaunce of ȝoure asking; forſoþe ȝee asken of me, þat þe poc, writhen in Caldee fermoun, in to Latin writing I drawe, þe poc of Tobie þat is, þe whiche Ebrues, ſeuerende fro þe noumbre of Godis scripturis, to þese þat holi ſcriptures remembren caſten to. I haue don a feep to ȝoure desijr, ner þe latere not to my studie. Forsoþe þe studies of Ebrues vndernymyn vs, and wijten to vs þese þingis to translaten to þe Latin eris aȝen þer bible. But I demende to be betere to desplesen to þe dom of Farisees, and to serue to þe bishopis maundemens, bisfiede as I myȝte; and, for þe tunge of Caldeis is neeȝ to Ebrue sermoun, findende a most wijs spekere of eiþer tunge, I toc to þe trauaile of o dai; and what euere þing he to me expreffede in Ebrue woordis, þoo þingus I, clepid to a notorie, expounede in Latin woordis. To ȝoure prieeris þe meede of þis werk I shal ȝelde, whan I lerne me to han fulfild þis werc to ben acceptid of ȝou þat voucheden saaf to comaunden.

Heere endiþ þe prolog of Tobie, and now begynneþ þe book.

Capitulum I.

i Tobie, of þe linage and of þe cite of Neptalim, þat is in þe ouere partis of Galilee, aboue Nason, after þe weie þat ledip to þe west, in þe left hauende þe cite of Sofeth, ii whan he was caȝt in þe daȝes of Salamanasfar, king of Affries, ner þe latere in caitifte sett, þe weie of treule he forsoc not,
iii so þat alle þingus þat he myȝte han, eche dai to þe caityue breþern þat weren of his kinrede he delede.
iv And whan he was alle ȝungere in þe linage of Neptalim, ner þe latere no childli þing he dide in deede.
v After whan alle wenten to þe goldene calues, þe whiche Jeroboam, king of Israel, made, þis alone fleiȝ þe cumpayne of alle;
vi and wente to Jerusallem, to þe temple of þe Lord, and bere honourede þe Lord God of Israel, alle his firste frutis and his dymys treuli offrende;
vii so þat in þe þredde ȝer to þe conuertid fro Jentilis and to comelingus he mynystrede alle tiþing.
viii ȝese þingus, and to ȝese lic, after þe lawe of God a litil child he kepte wel.
ix Whan forsoþe he was maad a man, he toc a wif, Anne, of his linage; and he gat of hir a sone, his own name puttende to hym;
x whom fro þe time þat he began to speken, he taȝte to dreden God, and to abstenen fro alle synne.
xi Panne whan by caytifte he was come, wiþ his wif and sone, in to þe cite Nynyue, wiþ al his linage, xii and alle eeten of þe metis of Jentilis, þis kepte his soule, and neuere is defoulid in metis of hem.
xiii And for he was myndful of þe Lord in al his herte, God ȝaf to hym grace in þe siȝte of king Salamanasfar; xiv and ȝaf to hym power to go whider euere he wolde, hauende fredam to do what euere he hadde wold.
xv Panne he wente bi alle þat weren in þe caitifte, and monestingus of helpe he ȝaf to hem.

xvi Whan forsoþe he was come in to Ragis, cite of Medis, and of ȝese þingus wiþ þe whiche he was wrshipid of þe king, hadde ten talentis of siluer; xvii and wiþ myche cumpanye of his kinrede, he faȝ Gabel ned, þat was of his linage, he ȝaf to hym þe feid peis of siluer, vndir writing.

xviii Forsoþe after miche of time king Salamanasfar dead, whan his sone Senacherub regnede for hym, and hadde þe sonus of Israel hatefum in his siȝte, xix Tobie wente eche dai bi al hys kinrede, and coumfortide hem, and deuidede to eche, as he myȝte, of his facultees;

xx þe hungry men he fedde, and to þe nakide he ȝaf cloþis, and to þe deade and þe flaine besi he fond sepulture.

xxi After whan king Senacherub was turned aȝeen, fleende fro Jude þe veniaunce þat abouten hym God hadde do for his blasfemye, and wroȝ floȝ manie of þe sonus of Israel, Tobie biriede þe bodies of hem.

xxii And wher it was told to þe king, he comandide hym to be slain, and toc al his subtaunce.

xxiii Tobie forsoþe wiþ his sone and wiþ wif fleende, nakid lurkide, for manie looueden hym.

xxiv After forsoþe fwe and fourti daȝes, þe king his sonus flowen;

xxv and Tobie is turned aȝeen to his hous, and al his faculte restorid to hym.

Capitulum II.

i Aftir ȝese þingus forsoþe, whan was þe feste dai of þe Lord, and shulde be maad a good metelshipe in þe hous of Tobie, ii he feide to his sone, Go, and bring summe men of oure linage, dredend God, and ete þei wiþ vs.

iii And whan he shulde gon, turned aȝeen he tolde to hym, oon of þe sonus of Israel slain to lyn in þe strete; and anoon stertende out fro his mete sete, leuende þe mete, fastende cam to þe bodi;

iv and takende it, he bar to his hous priueli, þat whil þe funne were go doun, fleeȝli he shulde birien it.

v And whan he hadde hid þe bodi, he eet bred wiþ weiling and trembling, vi remembrende þat woord, þat þe Lord seide by Amos, þe profete, ȝoure feste daȝes shul be turned in to weiling and forewing.

vii Whan forsoþe þe funne hadde go doun, he wente, and biriede it.

viii Forsoþe alle hise neȝheboris vndernomyn hym, seiende, Now bi cause of þis þing pou art comaundid to be slain, and vñeþe þou hast scapid þe maundement of deb, and eft þou biriest þe deade?

ix But Tobye, more dredende God þan þe king, caȝte þe bodies of þe flaine, and hidde in his hous, and in þe mydnyȝtus biriede hem.

x It fel forsoþe, þat on a dai weri of biriying, comende hom, he hadde cast hymself beside þe wal, and hadde faste slept; xi and fro þe nest of swalewis to hym slepende hote toordis fallen in vp on his eȝen; and was maad blind.
 xii Pis forsoþe temptacioun perfore þe Lord suffrider to come to hym, þat to þe aftercomeres shulde exsaumple be ȝiuen of his pacience, as and of holi Job.
 xiii And whan fro his time þat he began to speke, euermore he dredde God, and kepte his heftis, he forewide not aȝen God, þat þe veniaunce of blindnesse cam to hym;
 xiv but vnmouable in þe drede of God abod stille, gracis doende to God alle þe dȝes of his lif.
 xv For as to blisful Job asaileden þe kingus, so to þis fader and moder and his cosynes scorneden his lif, feiende, xvi Where is þin hope, for þe whiche almesse deede and sepulturis þou didist?
 xvii Tobie forsoþe blamede hem, feiende, Wileþ not so speken, xviii for þe sonus of halewis wee ben, and þat lif wee abijden, þat God is to ȝiue to hem þat þer feiþ neuermor chaungen fro hym.
 xix Anne forsoþe, his wif, wente to weuyng were ecche dai, and of þe trauaile of hir hondis þe liflode, þat s/he myȝte gete, s/he broȝte.
 xx And it is do, þat takende a kide of s/he get, s/he broȝte hom.
 xxi Of þe whiche bletende þe vois whan hir man hadde herd, feide, Lookeþ, leſt parauenture it be stoln, but ȝeldeþ it to his lordis; for it is not leeful to vs, or to eten of stelþe any þing or to touchen.
 xxii At þese þingis his wif wroȝt answarde, Openli vein is maad þin hope, and þine almesse deedis now han aperid.
 xxiii And in þese and in oþere suche maner woordis s/he putte reprof to hym.

Capitulum III.

i Thanne Tobie inwardli weiled, and began to preȝe wiþ teres, ii seyende, Riȝtwis þou art, Lord, and alle þi domes ben riȝtwise, and alle þi weies merci, and treuþe, and dom.
 iii And now, Lord, haue mynde of me, ne take þou veniaunce of my synnes, ne remembre þou my giltis, or of my fader and moder.
 iv For wee han not obefhid to þin heftis, and wee ben taken in to waſting, and caitifte, and dep, and in to fable, and in to reprof to alle naciouns, in þe whiche þou haſt ſcatered vs.
 v And now, Lord, grete ben þi domys; for wee han not don aftir þin heftis, and wee han not go cleerli befor þee.

vi And now, Lord, after þi wille do wiþ me merci, and comaunde in pes my spirit to be reſceiued; it is spedful forſoþe to me more to dien þan to liuen.
 vii And so þe fame dai fel, þat Sara, þe doȝter of Raguel, in Ragis, cite of Medis, and s/he herde þe repref of oon of þe handwymmen of hir fadir; viii for s/he was take to feuene men, and a deuel, Asmodius bi name, floȝ hem, anoon as þei weren gon in to hir.
 ix Panne whan s/he blamede þe child womman for hir gilte, s/he anſwerde to hir, feiende, See wee no more of þee ſone or doȝter vp on erþe, þou fleeresſe of þi men;
 x wheþer and ſlen þou wilt me, as and þou flowe feuene men? At þis vois s/he wente in to þe ouere bed place of hir hous, and þre daȝis and þre nyȝt s/he eet not, ne dranc; xi but in orisoun abidende stille, wiþ teres s/he preȝede God, þat fro þis reprof he shulde deliueren hir.
 xii It is do forſoþe þe þridde dai, whil s/he fulſilde þe orisoun, bleffende þe Lord, xiii s/he feide, Bleſſid is þi name, God of oure fadris, þat whan þou were wraþid, þou ſhalt do merci, and in time of tribulacioun synnes þou forȝiuest to hem, þat inwardli clepen þee.
 xiv To þee, Lord, I turne my face, and to þee myn eȝen I rere.
 xv I afke, Lord, þat fro þe bond of þis repref þou aſoile me, or certis fro aboue þe erþe þou delyuere me.
 xvi Pou wost, Lord, for neuere I coueitide man, and clene I haue kept my foule fro alle luſt.
 xvii Neuere wiþ pleieres I mengde me, ne wiþ hem þat in liȝtneſſe gon parcener I ȝaf me.
 xviii An hufbonde forſoþe wiþ þi drede, not wiþ my luſt, I consentide to taken.
 xix And or I was vnrþi to hem, or þei parauenture to me weren not wrþi; for parauenture to an oþer man þou haſt kept me.
 xx Forſoþe in mannyſ power is not þi counſeil.
 xxi þat forſoþe for certein haþ ecche man þat herieþ þee, for his lif, if in prouyng it were, ſhal ben crouned; if forſoþe in tribulacioun it were, it ſhal be deliuered; and if in chaſtiling it were, it ſhal ben leful to come to þi merci.
 xxii Forſoþe þou haſt not delit in oure leſſingus; for after tempeſt þou makist refte, and after teres ſhedding and weiling, ful out ioȝing þou heeldest in.
 xxiii Be þi name, God of Israel, bleſſid in to worldus.
 xxiv In þat time ben herd ful þe preȝeeris of boþe in þe ſiȝte of þe glorie of þe moſt good God;
 xxv and þer is ſent an aungil of þe Lord, þe holi Rafael, þat he shulde curen hem boþe, whos orisouns o time in þe ſiȝte of þe Lord ben reherſid.

Capitulum IIII.

i Thanne whan Tobie wende his preȝeere to ben herd, þat he myȝte dien, he clepide to hym Tobie, his sone, ii and seide to hym, Here, my sone, þe woordis of my mouȝt, and hem in þi herte as foundemens mak togidere.
 iii Whan God shal take my soule, my bodi birie; and wrshipe þou shalt han to þi moder alle þe dȝes of þi lif;
 iv forsoþe myndful þou owist to be, what and hou grete she suffride perilis for þee in hir wombe.
 v Whan forsoþe and she haue fulfild þe time of hir lif, þou shalt birien hir aboute me.
 vi Alle forsoþe þe dȝes of þi lif in mynde haue þou God, and bewar, leſt any time to synne þou consente, and leie aside þe heftis of oure God.
 vii Of þi substauice do almesse deede, and wile þou not turne awei þi face fro any pore man; so forsoþe it shal be do, þat neijer fro þee be turned awei þe face of þe Lord.
 viii What maner wife þou shalt moun, so be þou merciful.
 ix If myche were to þee, abundauntli ȝif; if litil þer were, also litil gladli studie to parten.
 x Forsoþe a good meede to þee þou tresorist in þe dai of nede;
 xi for almesse deede fro alle synne and fro deþ delyuereþ, and shal not suffre þe soule to gon in to dercenesse.
 xii Gret troſt shal ben almesse deede befor þe most goode God to alle men doende it.
 xiii Tac heede to þee, sone, fro alle fornicacioun, and, beside þi wif, neuer suffre þou synne of euel los to knownen.
 xiv Pride neuer in þi wit or in þi woord suffre þou to han lordshipe; in it forsoþe al perdiccioun toc begynnyng.
 xv Who so euere any þing to þee wercheþ, anoon ȝeeld his meede, and þe meed of þin hiryd man algate anent þee abijde not.
 xvi þat of an oþer þou hatist to be do to þee, looke þou, þat any time þou do not to an oþer.
 xvii þi bred wiþ þe hungrи and wiþ þe nediett, and of þi cloþis nakide men couere.
 xviii þi bred and þi win vp on þe sepulture of þe riȝtwise ordeyne, and wile þou not of it eten and drinke wiþ þe sinful.
 xix Counseil euermor of þe wife man feek.
 xx Alle time blesse God, and aske of hym, þat þi weies he make redi, and alle þi counseilis in hym abijde stille.
 xxi I shewe also to þee, my sone, me to han ȝiue ten talentus of seluer, whil ȝit þou were a litil faunt, to Gabel, in Ragis, cite of Medis; and þe writ of it anent me I haue;

xxii and þerfore enſerche, what maner to hym þou come, and resceyue of hym þe aboue membrid weiȝte of filuer, and restore to hym his writ.

xxiii Wile þou not dreden, sone myn; a pore liȝt forsoþe wee bern, but manye goodis wee shul han, if wee drede God, and gon awei fro alle synne, and do wel.

Capitulum V.

i Thanne anſwerde Tobie to his fader, and seide, Alle þingus, what euere þou haſt comaundid to me, fader, I shal do;

ii hou forsoþe þis monei I shal enſerche, I knowe not;
 he me knowiþ not, and I hym vnknowe; what tocne shal I ȝiue to hym? but neijer þe weie, bi þe whiche me goþ þider, any time I knew.

iii Panne his fader anſwerde to hym, and seide, Forsoþe his writ anent me I haue, þe whiche whanne þou to hym shewist, anoon he shal ȝelde þe monee.

iv But go now, and enſerche to þee sum feiȝful man, þat go wiþ þee, sauð his meede, whil ȝit I liue, þat þou resceyue it.

v Panne Tobie gon out, fond a ȝung man stondende, ful fair, gird, and as redi to gon;

vi and vnknowende þat an aungil of God he was, grette hym, and seide, Whennus han wee þee, goode ȝunge man?

vii And he anſwerde, Of þe fonus of Israel. And Tobie seide to hym, Haſt þou knownen þe weie, þat ledeþ in to þe regioun of Medis?

viii To whom he anſwerde, I haue knownen, and alle þe weies of it ofteslipes I haue go, and haue dwellid anent Gabel, ȝoure broþer, þat dwelleþ in Ragis, cite of Medis, þat is sett in þe hil of Exbatenys.

ix To whom Tobie seip, Suffre me, I beseeche, to þe time þese þingus I telle to my fader.

x Panne Tobie, gon in, shewide alle þese þingus to his fader; vpe þe whiche þe fader, wundrid, prezede, þat he shulde comen in to hym; xi and so gon in, salutide hym, and seide, Ioȝe to þee euermor be!

xii And Tobie seip, What ioȝe to me shal be, þat in dercenesse fitte, and þe liȝt of heuene see not?

xiii To whom seip þe ȝunge man, In strong inwit be þou; ful neeȝ it is þat of God þou be curid.

xiv And so seide Tobie to hym, Wheþer shalt þou mown ful lede my sone to Gabel in to Ragis, cite of Medis, and whan þou comest aȝeen, I shal ȝelde þee þi meede?

xv And þe aungil seide to hym, I shal ledien, and aȝeen lede hym to þee hol.

xvi To whom anſwerde Tobie, I preȝe þee, shew to me,
 of what hous, and of what linage þou art?

xvii To whom Rafael, þe aungil, seide, þe kinrede þou askift of þe hirid man, or þat hirid man, þat wiþ þi sone go?

xviii But left parauenture I make þee stirid, I am Azarie, þe sone of grete Ananye.
xix And Tobie answerde, Of gret kinrede þou art; but I afke, be þou not wroþ, for I wolde knowe þi kinrede.
xx Forsoþe þe aungil seide to hym, I found shal lede, and found shal aȝeen bringe to þee þi sone.
xxi Forsoþe Tobie answerende seide, Wel go ȝee, and þe Lord be in ȝoure weie, and his aungil folewe wiþ ȝou.
xxii Panne alle þingus maad redi, þat weren to be born in þe weie, Tobie dide farewell to his fader and to his moder; and þei wente boþe togidere.
xxiii And whan þei weren go forþ, his moder began to wepen, and sein, Þe staf of oure elde þou haſt taken awei, and haſt ſent ouer fro vs; xxiv neuere hadde be þat monee, for þe whiche þou fentist hym;
xxv forsoþe oure poreneſſe ſuffiſide to vs, þat richessſis wee shulden counte þat, þat oure ſone wee ſeȝen.
xxvi And Tobie ſeide to hir, Wile þou not wepen; ſaf ſhal comen oure ſone, and ſaf ſhal aȝeen turne to vs, and þin eȝen ſhul ſeen hym.
xxvii I leeue forſoþe, þat be goode aungil of God folewe hym, and wel ſhal diſpoſen alle þingus, þat ben don aboute hym, ſo þat wiþ ioȝe he be turned aȝeen to vs.
xxviii At þis vois cefide his modir to wepen, and was ſtille.

Capitulum VI.

i Tobie forſoþe wente forþ, and an hound foleweide hym, and he abod þe firſte abiding biſide þe flod of Tigris.
ii And he wente out for to waſſhen his feet; and lo! a gret fish wente out for to deouoren hym.
iii Whom dredende Tobie criede out wiþ a gret vois, ſeiente, Lord, he aſaileþ me.
iv And þe aungil ſeide to hym, Cach his fin, and draȝ it to þee. Þe whiche þing whan he hadde do, he droȝ it in to þe drie, and it began to quappe befor his feet.
v Panne þe aungil ſeide to hym, Opene þis fish, and his herte and galle and mawe lei vp to þee; þese þingus forſoþe ben profitabli neceſſarie to medicynes.
vi Þe whiche þingus whan he hadde do, he roſtide his fleſh, and beren wiþ hem in þe weie; þe toþer þei ſaltiden, þat ſhulden ſuffiſe to þem in þe weie, to þe time þat þei ſhulden ful come in to Ragis, cite of Medis.
vii Panne Tobie aſkide þe aungil, and ſeide to hym, I befeche, Afarie, broþer, þat þou ſei to me, what remedie ſhuln han þese þingus, þat of þe fish þou haſt comaundid to be kept.
viii And þe aungil answerende ſeide to hym, A parcel of his herte if þou putte vp on þe colis, his ſmoke putteþ out al þe kinde of deuelis, ouþer fro man or fro womman, ſo þat he come no more neeȝ to hem.

ix And þe galle is worþ to eȝen to ben enointid, in þe whiche were rime, and þei ſhul ben hol.
x And Tobie ſeide to hym, Where wilt þou, þat wee dwelle?
xi And þe aungil answerende ſeip, Heer is a man, Raguel bi name, neeȝ of þi linage, and þis haþ a doȝter, Sara bi name; but any oþer he haþ faue hir, neiþer male ne femele.
xii To þee is due al his ſubtaunce; and þee behoueþ to han hir wif.
xiii Afke þanne hir of hir fader; and he ſhal ȝiue to þee hir wif.
xiv Panne answerde Tobie, and ſeide, I haue herd, for þhe haþ ben take to ſeuene men, and þei ben deade; but and þese þingus I haue herd, for a deuel floȝ hem.
xv I drede þanne, leſt parauenture and þese þingus fallen to me; and ſiþen I am alone to my fader and moder, I putte doun þe eelde of hem wiþ forewe to helle.
xvi Panne aungil Rafael ſeide to hym, Here me, and I ſhal ſhewe to þee, who ben, to whom mai þe deuel han maifrie;
xvii in hem, þat wedloc ſo taken, þat God fro þem and fro þer mynde þei cloſen out, and to þer luſtis ſo þei taken heede, as an hors and a mule, in þe whiche is not vnderſtonding, haþ vpon hem þe deuel power.
xviii þou forſoþe, whan þou ſhalt taken hir, gon in to þe bed place, bi þre daȝes be þou continent fro hir, and no þing oþer but to preieeris þou ſhalt ſtonde in wiþ hir.
xix þat nyȝt forſoþe þe mawe of þe fish brent, þe deuel ſhal be dryuen awei.
xx þe ſecunde forſoþe nyȝt in þe coupling of holi patriarkis þou ſhalt ben admittid.
xxi þe ȝridde forſoþe nyȝt bleſſing þou ſhalt gete, þat fonus be gotten of ȝou ſounde.
xxii þe ȝridde forſoþe nyȝt ouerpaffid, þou ſhalt take þe maiden wiþ þe drede of þe Lord, and for louue of fonus more þan of luſt lad, þat in þe fed of Abraham þou gete bleſſing in fonus.

Capitulum VII.

i Forſoþe þei wenten in to Raguel; and Raguel reſcveyede hem wiþ ioȝe.
ii And Raguel, beholdende Tobie, ſeide to Anne, his wif, Hou lic is þis ȝunge man to oure auntis ſone.
iii And whan þese þingus he hadde ſeid, he ſeip, Whennus be ȝee, ȝunge men, my breþern? And þei feiden, Of þe linage of Neptalim wee ben, of þe caitife of Nynyue.
iv Raguel ſeide to þem, Knowe ȝee Tobie, my broþer?
Þe whiche anſwerden, Wee han knownen.
v And whan he ſpac of hym manye goode þingus, þe aungil ſeide to Raguel, Tobie, of þe whiche þou aſkeſt, is þis fader.

vi And Raguel putte hym self, and wiþ teres kiste hym, and wepende vp on his necke, vii seide, Bleſſing be to þee, sone myn; for of good and of þe beste man þou art sone.
 viii And Anne, his wif, and Sara, þe doȝter of hem, wepten.
 ix After forſoþe þat þei hadden spoken, Raguel comaundede a weþer to be slain, and to be maad redi a feſte. And whan he beſoȝte þem to ſitte doun to þe mete,
 x Tobie ſeip, Heer I to dai ſhal not ete, ne drinke, but if firſt myn aſking þou confeſme, and þou behote to ȝiue to me Sara, þi doȝter.
 xi ƿe whiche woord herd, Raguel dradde, witende what fel to þoo ſeuene men; and he began to dreden, leſt parauenture lic maner to þis ſhulde fallen, and he die.
 And whan he doutede, and ȝaf not any anſwere to þe aſkere, xii ƿe aungil feide to hym, Wile þou not dreden to ȝiuen hir to þis; for to þis dredende God wif þi doȝtir is due; þerfore an oþer myȝte not han hir.
 xiii Panne feide Raguel, I doute not, þat God preieeris and my teres in his ſiȝte haþ taken.
 xiv And I trowe, for þe Lord þerfore made ȝou to come to me, þat and þis ſhulde be ioyned to hir kin after þe lawe of Moifes; and now wile þou not bern doute, for to þee hir I ſhal take.
 xv And takende þe riȝt hond of his doȝter toc to þe riȝt hond of Tobie, ſeide, God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, be wiþ ȝou, and he ioine ȝou, and fulfille his bliſſing in ȝou.
 xvi And þe chartre taken, þei maden þe conſcripciouṁ of þe wedloc.
 xvii And after þeſe þingus þei plenteuousli eeten, bleſſende God.
 xviii And Raguel clepede to hym Anna, his wif, and comaundede to hir, þat ſhe ſhulde make redi an oþer bed place.
 xix And he broȝte in to it Sara, his doȝter, and ſhe
 wepte;
 xx and he ſeip to hir, In ſtrong inwit be þou, doȝter myn; þe Lord of heuene ȝiue to þee ioȝe, for þe noȝe þat þou haſt ſuffrid.

Capitulum VIII.

i Aftir forſoþe þat þei ſuppeden, þei broȝten þe ȝunge man in to hir.
 ii And fo Tobie recordid of þe woordis of þe aungil, broȝte forþ of his bagge a part of þe mawe, and putte it vp on þe quike colis.
 iii Panne aungil Rafael caȝte þe deuel, and bond hym in þe deſert of þe ouere Egyp.
 iv Panne Tobie beſoȝte þe maiden, and ſeide to hir, Sara, rijs, and preȝee wee to dai to God, and to moru, and þe ſecunde moru; for þeſe þre nyȝtis wee ſhul be ioined to God; þe þridde forſoþe nyȝt paſſid ouer, wee ſhul ben in oure wedloc;

 v ſonus forſoþe of halewiſ wee ben, and wee moun not ſo be ioyned as and Jentilis, þat vnknownen God.
 vi Rifende forſoþe togidere, biſili þei preȝeden boþe togidere, þat helpe ſhulde be ȝiue to hem.
 vii And Tobie feide, Lord God of oure fadriſ, bleſſe þee heuenus, and erbiſ, and ſe, and welliſ, and flodiſ, and eche þi creature, þat is in hem; viii þou madiſt Adam of þe ſlim of erþe, and þou ȝeue to hym helpe, Eue.
 ix And now, Lord, þou woſt, for not bicaufe of leccherie I take my ſiſter, but for onli loue of bringing forþ of childre, in þe whiche be bleſſid þi name in to worldiſ 'of worldiſ.
 x Alſo feide Sara, Hauē merci to vs, Lord, hauē merci to vs, and eelde wee boþe togidere hole. xi And it is do aboute chykenys crowing, Raguel comaundede his feruauns to be clepid, and þei wenten wiþ hym þat þei delue a biriel.
 xii Forſoþe he dradde, leſt lic maner ſhulde falle to hym, þat and to þe toþere ſeuene, þat wenten in to hir.
 xiii And whan þei hadden maad redi þe pit, Raguel gon aȝeen to his wif, ſeide to hir, xiv Send oon of þin hand wimmen, and ſee ſhe, if he is dead, þat I birie hym, befor it waxe liȝt.
 xv And ſhe ſente oon of hir hand wimmen, þe whiche gon in to þe bed place, fond hem faue and founde, ſlepende togidere wiþ hem ſelf.
 xvi And ſhe, turned aȝeen, told good meſſage. And þei bleſſeden þe Lord, Raguel, þat is, and Anna, his wif, xvii and ſeiden, Wee bleſſen þee, Lord God of Israel, for it falleg not to vs, as we wenden; xviii forſoþe þou haſt do wiþ vs þi mercy, and haſt cloſid out fro vs þe enemy purſuende vs. xix Don þou haſt mercy to þi two alone. Mac hem, my Lord, to bleſ þee more fulli, and to offre to þee ſacrifice of þi preiſing, and of þer helpe, þat þe vnyuersite of Jentilis knowe, for þou art God alone in al erþe.
 xx And anoon Raguel comaundede to his feruauntis, þat þei ſhulden fille þe pit, þat þei hadden maad, befor þat it waxe liȝt.
 xxi To his wif forſoþe he ſeide, þat ſhe ſhulde ordeyne a feſte, and make redi alle þingus, þat in to metis weren neceſſarie to weie goeris.
 xxii Alſo two fatte kijn, and foure weberes he made to be slain, and plenteuous metus to ben maad redi to alle his neȝhebores, and to alle his frendis.
 xxiii And Raguel adiurede Tobie, þat two wikis he ſhulde dwelle aent hym.
 xxiv Of alle þingus forſoþe þat Raguel weldeſe, þe half part he ȝaf to Tobie; and he made þis ſcripture, þat þe half part þat laſte ouer, after þer deþ ſhulde come to þe hous of Tobie.

Capitulum IX.

- i Thanne Tobie clepide to hym þe aungil, whom forsoþe he wende a man; and feide to hym, Azarie, broþer, I aske, þat þou herkne my woordis.
- ii If myself I take to þee a seruaunt, I shal not ben euene worþi to þi prouidence.
- iii Ner þe latere I beseche þee, þat þou take to þee bestis, or seruyfes, and go to Gabel in to Ragis, cite of Medis, and ȝeld to hym his writ; and þou shalt resceyuen of hym mone, and preþe hym to comen to my bridalis.
- iv Forsoþe þiself wost, þat my fadir noumbref þe daȝis, and if I shul tarien o dai more, his liȝt shal be maad fori.
- v And certis þou seeſt, hou Raguel haþ coniurid me, whos adiurement I mai not dispisen.
- vi Panne Rafael, takende foure of þe seruauns of Raguel, and two camailis, wente in to Ragis, cite of Medis, and findende Gabel ȝaf to hym his writ, and resceyuede of hym al þe monee;
- vii and shewede to hym of Tobie, þe sone of Tobie, alle þingus þat ben don. And he made hym to come wiþ hym to þe bridalis.
- viii And whan he was come in to þe hous of Raguel, he fonde Tobie fittende; and stirtende þei kisten hem togidere. And Gabel wepte, and bleffide God,
- ix and feide, Bleffe þee þe Lord God of Israel, for þe sone þou art of þe belte man, and riȝtwis, and dredende God, and doende almesse deedis;
- x and be þer feid bleffing vp on þi wif, and vp on ȝoure fadrис and modris,
- xi and see ȝee ȝoure sonus, and sonus of ȝoure sonus, vn to þe þridde and ferþe ieneracioun; and be ȝour feed bleffid of God of Israel, þat regneþ in to worldys of worldis.
- xii And whan alle hadden feid Amen, þei wenten to þe feste; but and wiþ drede of þe Lord þei enhaunteden þe feste of bridalis.

Capitulum X.

- i Whan forsoþe Tobie made abidingus bi enchesoun of þe bridalis, his fadir Tobie was stirid, seiende, Weneſt þou, whi my sone abit, and whi he is wiþholden þere?
- ii Weneſt þou, leſt Gabel be dead, and no man ȝelde to hym þe monei?
- iii Forsoþe he began to be fori, and Anna, his wif, wiþ hym; and þei begunne boþe togidyr to wepe, for þi þat þe sett dai þer sone was not turned aȝeen to hem.
- iv Panne wepte his modir wiþ vnremediable teris, and feide, Allas me! my sone, wherto sente wee þee to pilgrimage, þe liȝt of oure eȝen, þe staf of oure eelde, solace of oure lif, hope of oure after bringing forþ of childer?
- v Alle þingis togidere in þee oon hauende, wee shulden not lete þee gon fro vs.

vi To whom feide Tobie, Be ſtille, and wile þou not be diſturbid; hol is oure ſone; feiþful inow is þat man, wiþ þe whiche wee ſenten hym.

vii She forſoþe no wife myȝte take coumfort, but eche dai ſtertende out, beheeld aboute, and wente aboute alle þe weies, bi þe whiche ſemedē hope of turnyng aȝeen, þat afer the myȝte ſeen hym comende, if it myȝte be do.

viii But forſoþe Raguel feide to his ſone in lawe, Dwel heer, and I shal ſenden a messenger of helþe fro þee to Tobie, þi fader.

ix To whom Tobie feide, I knew, þat my fader and my moder now counten þe daȝes, and þer ſpirit is tormentid in hem.

x And whan wiþ manye woordis Raguel prezede Tobie, and he hym bi no refoun wolde heren, he toc to hym Sara, and þe half part of al his ſubstaunce, in childer, in hand wymmen, in bestis, in camailis, and in kijn, and myche monee; and ſaad and ioȝende he laſte hym fro hym, xi ſeiende, Þe holi aungil of þe Lord be in ȝoure weie, and ful bringe ȝou found, and finde ȝee alle þingus riȝte aboute ȝoure fadrис and modris, and ſee myn eȝen ȝoure ſonus, raþere þan I die.

xii And þe fader and moder, takende þer doȝter, kisten hyr, and laſten hir to gon, xiii monestende hir to wrſhipen hir fader and moder in lawe, to looue þe husbonde, to reule þe meyne, to gouerne þe hous, to ȝiue hirſelf vnreprefable.

Capitulum XI.

i And whan þei were turned aȝeen, þei camen to Carre, þat is in myddel wei aȝen Nynyuen, þe elleuenþe dai.

ii And þe aungil feide, Tobie broþer, þou wost, what maner þou laſtift þi fader.

iii And ſo if it pleſe to þee, go wee beforne; and wiþ ſofte pas þe meyne, togidere wiþ þi wif and wiþ þe bestys, folewe þei oure wei.

iv And whan þat hadde plesid, þat þei ſhulden go, Rafael feide to Tobie, Tac wiþ þee of þe galle of þe fish, forſoþe it ſhal be neceſſarie. And ſo Tobie toc of þat galle, and þei wenten.

v Anne forſoþe ſat beſide þe weie eche dai in þe eueſe of þe hil, fro whennus ſhe myȝte beholden fro aferr.

vi And whil fro þe fame place ſhe beheeld his comyng, ſhe faȝ aferr, and anoon ſhe knewȝ hir ſone comende; and rennende ſhe tolde to hir husbonde, ſeiende, Lo! þi ſone comeþ.

vii And Rafael feide to Tobie, But wher þou ſhault gon in to þin hous, anoon honoure þe Lord þi God, and gracis doende to hym, neȝhe to þi fader, and kis hym.

viii And anoon anointe vp on hys eȝen of þat galle of þe fish, þat þou bereſt wiþ þee; wite þou forſoþe, for anoon his eȝen shul ben opened, and þi fader shal seen þe liȝt of heuene, and in þi siȝte he shal ioȝen.

 ix Panne þe hound ran befor, þat togidere was in þe weie, and, as a messager comende neiȝ, wiþ þe faunyng of his tail he ioȝede.
 x And risende vp þe blinde fader, stumblende wiþ þe feet, began to rennen, and, þe hond ȝiuen to þe child, he cam aȝen to meete wiþ his sone.
 xi And takende he kiste hym, wiþ his wif, and þei begunnen boþe to wepe wiþ ioȝe.
 xii And whan þei hadden honourid God, and do gracyſ, þei seten togidere.
 xiii Panne Tobie, takende of þe galle of þe fish, enointede þe eȝen of his fadir.
 xiv And he suffrede as almost half an hour, and þe ryme of his eȝen began, as þe fellis of an ey, to gon out.
 xv Pe whiche Tobie takende, droȝ fro his eȝen, and anoon he rescyeuede siȝt. xvi And þei glorifieden God, he, þat is, and his wif, and alle þat knewen hym.
 xvii And Tobie seide, I bleſſe þee, Lord God of Israel, for þou haſt chaſtisid me, and þou haſt fauyd me; and lo! I ſee Tobie, my sone.
 xviii Also after ſeuен daȝes Sara, þe wif of his sone, cam in, and al þe meyne, and þe beſtis hole, and þe camailis, and myche monee of þe wif, but and þe monee þat he hadde taken of Gabel.
 xix And he tolde to his fader and moder alle þe benefetus of God, þat he hadde don abouten hym bi þe man, þat hym hadde lad.
 xx And þer camen Achior and Nabath, ‘coſynes to Tobie, ioȝende to Tobie, togidere þankende to hym of alle goodis, þat God hadde ſhewid abouten hym.
 xxi And bi ſeuene daȝes etende, wiþ gret ioȝe þei gladeden.

Capitulum XII.

i Thanne Tobie clepide to hym his sone, and feide to hym, What moun wee ȝiue to þis holi man, þat wiþ þee cam?
 ii Tobie anſwerende feide to his fadir, Fader, what meede shul wee ȝiue to hym, or what þing wrþi mai ben to þe benefetis of hym?
 iii Me he haþ led, and aȝeen broȝt hol; þe monee fro Gabel he toc; a wif he me made to han, and þe deuel fro hir he refreynde; ioȝe he dide to hir fader and to hir moder; me myself fro þe deuouring of þe fish he delyuerede; þee also to ſeen þe liȝt of heuene he made; and wiþ alle goodis bi hym wee ben fulſild; what to hym to þeſe þingus wrþi wee shuln moun ȝiue?
 iv But I aſke þee, fader, þat þou preȝe hym, if parauenture he shal vouche saf þe half of alle þingus, what euere ben broȝt, to take to hym.

v And clepende hym his fader and þe sone, token hym apart, and þei begunne to preȝen, þat he vouche ſaad þe half part of alle þingus, þat þei broȝten, acceptid to han.
 vi Panne he ſeide to hem priueli, Bleſſeþ God of heuene, and beforne alle þingus liuende knoulecheþ to hym, for he haþ don his merci wiþ ȝou.
 vii Forſoþe þe sacrament of þe king to hiden is good; þe werkis forſoþe of God to ſhewen and to knowlechen is wrſhipful.
 viii Good is orisoun wiþ fasting, and almesſe deede more þan trefores of gold to hiden; ix for almes deede fro deþ deliuereþ, and it is þat purgeþ synnes, and shal make to finde euere laſtende lif.
 x þei forſoþe þat don synne and wickenesse, ben enimys of þer soule.
 xi Panne I opene to ȝou þe treuþe, and shal not hide fro ȝou þe priue woord.
 xii Whan þou preȝedest wiþ teris, and þou biriedest þe deade, and laſtilt þe mete, and þe deade bi dai þou hiddest in þin hous, and þe nyȝt þou biriedest, I offride þin orisoun to þe Lord.
 xiii And for þou were acceptid to God, it was nedful þat temptacioun ſhulde preue þee.
 xiv And now þe Lord ſente me, þat I ſhulde hele þee, and Sara, þe wif of þi sone, fro þe deuel deliueren.
 xv I forſoþe am Rafael, aungil, oon of þe ſeuene þat ſtonden befor þe Lord.
 xvi And whan þeſe þingus þei hadden herd, þei ben diſturbid, and fallen doun tremblende vp on þer face.
 xvii And þe aungil feide to hem, Pes to ȝou, wileþ not dreden;
 xviii forſoþe whan I was wiþ ȝou, I was bi þe wil of God.
 xix Forſoþe I was ſeen wiþ ȝou to eten and to drinken;
 but I inuyſible mete, and drink þat of men mai not ben ſeen, vſe.
 xx Time is þanne, þat I turne aȝeen to hym, þat me ſente; ȝee forſoþe bleſſeþ God, and telleþ out alle his merueilis; hym bliſſeþ, and fyngereþ to hym.
 xxi And whan þeſe þingus he hadde ſeid, he is born awei fro þe ſiȝte of hem; and þei myȝten ſeen hym no mor.
 xxii Panne þei, þrowen doun bi þre houris in to þe face, bleſſiden God. And riſende þei tolden alle his merueilis.

Capitulum XIII.

i Forſoþe þe eldere Tobie, openende his mouþ, bleſſide God, and ſeide, Lord, þou art gret in to wiþ oute ende, and in to alle worldis þi reume;
 ii for þou ſcourgift, and faueſt; ledeſt to hellis, and aȝeen bringift; and þer is not þat aſcape þin hond.

iii Knoulechēp to þe Lord, ȝee sonus of Israel, and in þe fiȝte of Jentilis preiseþ hym;
 iv for þerfore he scaterede ȝou among Jentilis, þat vnknownen God, þat ȝee tellen out his meruelis, and maken hem to knownen, for þere is noon oþer God almyȝti bïfide hym.
 v He chastiseþ vs for oure wickednesse; and he shal fauen vs for his mercy.
 vi Beholdeþ þanne, what þingis he haþ do wiþ vs, and wiþ drede and trembling knoulechēp to hym; and þe king of worldis enhaunseþ in ȝoure werkus.
 vii I forsoþe in þe lond of my caitifte shal knouleche to hym; for he haþ shewid his mageste in to a synful folc.
 viii Beþ conuertid also, ȝee synful men, and doþ riȝtwisnæsse befor God, leeuende þat he doþ mercy wiþ vs.
 ix I forsoþe and my soule in hym shuln gladen.
 x Bleſſeþ þe Lord, ȝee alle chosen of hym; doþ daȝes of gladnesse, and knoulechēp to hym. xi Jerufalem, cite of God, þe Lord haþ chaitifid þee in þe werkis of þin hondis.
 xii Knouleche pou to God in þi goodis, and bleſſe God of worldys, þat he bilde aȝeen in þee his tabernacle, and clepe aȝeen to þee alle þi caitiues; and þou ioȝe into alle worldis of worldis.
 xiii Wiþ shynende liȝt þou shalt shyne, and alle þe costus of erþe shuln honoure þee. xiv Naciouns fro aferr shuln come to þee, and bringende ȝiftus shuln honouren in þee þe Lord, and þi lond in to halewing þei shuln han; xv forsoþe a gret name þei shul inwardli clepen in þee.
 xvi And cursid shuln ben, þat despise þee, and dampned shul be, þat blasfemen þee; and bleſſid shul be þat bilden vp þee.
 xvii þou forsoþe shalt gladen in þi sonus, for alle shul be bleſſyd, and be gedered togidere to þe Lord.
 xviii Bleſſid alle þat loouen þee, and þat ioȝen vp on þi pes.
 xix My soule, bleſſe þe Lord, for he haþ delyuered Jerufalem, his cite, fro alle his tribulaciouns, þe Lord oure God.
 xx Bleſſid I shal be, if þer weren relikis of my sed to be feen þe clerte of Jerufalem.
 xxi þe ȝatus of Jerufalem of safiȝr and of smaragd shul be bild, and of precious ston al þe cumpas of his wallis.
 xxii And of whyit ston and clene gold alle his streetis shul ben pauyd; bi his tounus alleluia shal be fungen.
 xxiii Bleſſid þe Lord þat enhauncide it, þat his reume be in to worldys vp on it. Amen.

Capitulum XIII.

i And þe woordis of Tobie ben ful endid; and after þat he is liȝtid to feen, he liuede two and fourti ȝer, and he faȝ þe sonus of his sonus sonus.

ii And so fulfilld an hundred ȝer and twelue, he is biryed wrshipefulli in Nynyue.
 iii Of sixe and fifti ȝer forsoþe he lafte þe liȝt of eȝen;
 forsoþe in þe sixtiȝe ȝeer of age he rescyeuede.
 iv Þe remnaunt forsoþe of his lif was in ioȝe, and wiþ good profit of þe drede of God he passide in pes.
 v In þe hour forsoþe of his deþ he clepide to hym Tobie, his sone, and seuene ȝunge sonus of hym, his sonus sonus, and seide to hem, vi Neeȝ shal be þe destruccioun of Nynyue, forsoþe þe woord of God falleþ not of; and oure breþern, þat ben scaterid fro þe lond of Israel, shul be turned aȝeen to it.
 vii Al forsoþe þe desert lond of it shal be fulfilld, and þe hous of God, þat in it was brent, shal be bild aȝeen, and þider shul turne aȝeen alle men dredende God.
 viii And Jentilis shuln leue þere maumetus, and þei shul come to Jerufalem, and dwellen in it.
 ix And þer shul ioȝen in it alle kingus of erþe, honourende þe king of Israel.
 x Hereþ þanne, my sonus, ȝoure fader; ferueþ to þe Lord in drede and in treuþe; and inwardli secheþ, þat ȝee do þat ben plefaunt to hym.
 xi And to ȝoure sonus comaundeaþ, þat þei do riȝtwisnessis and almesse deedis; þat þei be myndeful of God, and bleſſe God in alle time, in treuþe and in al his vertue.
 xii Now þanne, my sonus, hereþ me, and wileþ not dwellen heer, but what euere dai ȝee birie ȝoure moder aboute me in o biriele, fro þat tyme dresseaþ ȝoure goingus, þat ȝee go hennus; xiii forsoþe I see þat his wickednesse ende shal ȝiue to it.
 xiv It is do forsoþe after þe deþ of his moder, Tobie wente awei fro Nynyue, wiþ his wif, and sonus, and sonus of sonus, and is turned aȝeen to his fader and moder in lawe.
 xv And he fond hem found in good eelde. And þe cure of hem he bar, and he closide þe eȝen of hem; and al þe eritage of þe hous of Raguel he perceyuede, and he faȝ þe fifte ieneracioun, þe sonus of his sonus.
 xvi And fulfilld nynti and nyne ȝer in þe drede of þe Lord, wiþ ioȝe þei birieden hym.
 xvii Al forsoþe his kinrede, and al his ieneracioun, in good lif, and in holy conuersacioun, abod stille, so þat þei weren acceptid boþe to God and to men, and to alle dwellende in þe lond.

JUDITH.

Prologus.

Anentus þe Ebrues þe boc of Judith is rad among þoo scriptures, whos autour is vñknownen, whos autorite to be strengbid þoo þingus þat in to strij comen lasse couenable is demed; ner þe latere in Caldeis sermoun wrten among þe stories it is countid. But for þis boc Nycene synod in þe noumbre of holi scripturis is rad to han countid, I affentide to ȝoure asking, ȝhe, to ȝoure ftedefast asking; and þe occupaciouns leid aside, wiþ whiche hugeli I was artid, to þys þing o litil waking while I ȝaf, more fence of fence þan woord of woord translatende. Of manye bokis þe most vicious diuersete I kutte awei, onli þoo þingus þat wiþ parfit vnderstandinge I myȝte finde in Caldeis woordis, in Latin I exprefse. Takeþ Judith, widewe, saumple of chaftyte, and declareþ in perpetewel wrshipeful tellingus wiþ þe preifing of victorie. Þis forsoþe not oneli to wymmen, but also to men, wrþi to ben folewid he ȝaf, þat, ȝeldere of hir chastite, such a vertue ȝaf to hir, þat þe vnouercomen of alle men she ouercam, and þe vnouerpassable she ouerpassede.

An noþer prolog of Judith.

Judith, widewe, þe doȝter of Merari, of þe linage of Symeon, ful miche gret in glorie, and of men þe parfitere; þe whiche in figure of þe churche girde of þe deuel in þe hed, ne she dradde deþ for þe helþe of þe puple, ne þe kingus wodnesse quakide; for whi þe slepende prince she floȝ, and, sauð þe chastite, to hir citemeynus she broȝte aȝeen þe principal victorie; forsoþe she liuede an hundrid ȝer and fwe, and is biried in þe spelunke of hir husbonde Manasse, in Betulia.

Here endiþ þe prolog of Judith, and now begynneþ þe book.

Here beginneþ þe bok of Judith.

Capitulum I.

i Arfaxath forsoþe, king of Meidis, hadde put vnder ȝoc manie Jentilis to his empire; and he bilde vp a cite most myȝti, þat he clepede Egbatenys.
ii Of square stones and hewen he made his wallis, in heiȝte of feuenti cubitus, and in breede of þretti cubitus. His tourys forsoþe he sette in heiȝte of an hundrid cubitis.
iii Bi square forsoþe of hem eiþer side was strecchid, in space of twenti feet; and he putte his ȝatis in þe heiȝte of þe touris.
iv And he gloriode, as myȝti in myȝt of his ost, and in glorie of his fourre horsid carris.
v Þe twelfþe ȝer þerfore of his regne, Nabugodonosor, king of Affiries, þat regnede in þe grete cite of Nynyue, faȝt aȝen Arfaxath, and waan hym vi in þe grete feld, þat is clepid Ragau, aboute Eufraten, and Tigre, and Jodasan, in þe feld of Erioth, king of Elikis.
vii Panne is enhauncid vp þe reume of Nabugodonosor, and his herte is rerid; and he sente to alle, þat dwelten in Cicilie, and Damasch, and Lyban, viii and to þe Jentilis, þat ben in Carmel and Cedar, and to þe dwelleris in Galilee, and in þe grete feld of Esdrelon, ix and to alle, þat weren in Samarie, and beȝonde Jordan flod, vnto Jerusalem; and to al þe lond of Jesse, to þat me comeþ to þe hillis of Ethiope.

x To alle þese Nabugodonosor, king of Affiries, sente messageres; xi þe whiche alle wiþ o wil wiþfeiden, and þei senten hem aȝeen voide, and wiþ outhate wrshipe casten awei.

xii Panne endeyned king Nabugodonosor to al þat lond, swor bi þe rewme and his trone, þat he shulde defenden hym fro alle þoo regiouonus.

Capitulum II.

i The þrettenþe ȝer of Nabugodonosor king, þe two and twentypre dai of þe firste moneþ, þer is don a woord in þe hous off Nabugodonosor, king of Affiries, þat he shulde defenden hym.

ii And he clepede to hym alle þe more þurȝ birþe, and alle þe dukis, his fiȝteres; and he hadde wiþ hem þe priuyte of his counsel.

iii And he seide his þenking in hym to ben, þat al þe erþe he shulde vnderȝoke to his empire.

iv Þe whiche sawe whan it pleside to alle men, king Nabugodonosor clepede Oloernes, prince of his chualrie, v and seide to hym, Go out aȝen eche reume of þe west, and aȝen hem nameli, þat despiseden myn empire.

vi And bi eȝe spare not to any reume, and alle strengþid cite þou shalt vnderȝoke to me.

vii Panne Oloernes clepyde dukis and þe maister domys men of þe vertue of Affiries, and noumbredre men in to þe spedding, as þe king comaundede to hym, an hundrid and twenti þousend of fiȝtende foot men, and horse men and archeris twelf þousend.

viii And al his ost redi he made to go before in multitude of vnnouembrable camailis, wiþ þoo þat shulden suffisen plenteououli to þe ostis, of oxen also droues, and flockis of sheep, of þe whiche was no noumbr.

ix Whete of al Cirie in his going he ordeynede to be maad redi.

x Myche forsoþe gold and siluer of þe hous of þe king he toc ful myche.

xi And he wente forþ, he, and al þe ost, wiþ fourre horsid cartis, and horse men, and archeris, þat couereden þe face of þe erþe, as locustus.

xii And whan he hadde ouerpassid þe coostus of Affiries, he cam to þe grete hillis of Auge, þat ben fro þe lift side of Cicilie; and he stegede vp alle þe castelis of hem, and weldede eche hold strengþid.

xiii Forsoþe he brac out þe most riche cite Melothi, and spoilde alle þe sonus of Tarfis, and þe sonus of Ismael, þat weren aȝen þe face of desert, and at þe souþ of þe lond of Celeon.

xiv And he passide ouer Eufraten, and cam in to Mesopotanee, and brac alle þe heȝe cites þat weren þere, fro þe strem of Mambre vn to it be ful come to þe fe.

xv And he ocupiede þe termes of it fro Cicilie vn to þe coofstus of Jafeth, þat ben to þe souþ.

xvi And he broȝte alle þe sonus of Madian, and spoilide alle þe richeslis of hem; and alle wiþ stondende to hym he floȝ in þe mouȝ of þe fwerd.

xvii And after þese þingus he cam doun in to þe feldis of Damasch, in þe dæs of rep, and he brende vp alle þe sownen þingus, and alle trees and vynes he made to ben hewen doun;

xviii and þe drede of hym fel vp alle þe dwelleris in þe lond.

Capitulum III.

i Thanne þei senten þer legatus of alle cites and prouyncis, þe kingus and þe princis of Cirie, þat is, of Mesopotanie, and of Cirie Sobal, and of Libie, and of Cicilie. Þe whiche comende to Olofernene, seiden, ii Cese þin indignacioun aboue vs; betere forsoþe it is þat liuende wee serue to Nabugodonosor, þe grete king, and soget wee be to þee, þan diende wiþ oure deþ wee vſelf suffre þe harmys of oure seruyse.

iii Al oure cite, al oure posseſſioun, alle hillis, and litle hillis, and feldis, and droues of oxen, and flockis of sheep, and of the get, and of hors, and of camailis, and alle oure facultees and meynes in þi ſiȝte ben;

iv alle þingus ben vndir þi lawe.

v Wee also and oure sonus ben by seruauns.

vi Cum to vs a pefible lord, and vſe oure seruyse, as it pleſeb to þee.

vii Panne he cam doun fro þe hillis, wiþ horfmen in gret vertue, and weldede eche cite, and alle men dwellende in þe lond.

viii Of alle forsoþe cites he toc to hym helperis, stronge men and chofen to bataile.

ix And so myche drede to þat prouunce fel in, þat of alle cites þe dwelleris, princys and wrſhipful men, togidre wiþ þe puple wenten out in to meeting to hym comende, x Rescyeuende hym wiþ crounus and laumpis, ledende dauncis in trumbris and timbris.

xi And ȝit ner þe latere þese þingus doende þei myȝten not swagen þe feerste of his breſt;

xii for and þer cites he destroȝede, and þer maumet wodus he heew doun.

xiii Forsoþe king Nabugodonosor hadde comaundid to hym, þat alle þe goddis of þe lond he shulde outlawen, þat is, þat he god alone were leid of þese naciouns, þat myȝten ben vnderȝokid bi þe myȝt of Olofernes.

xiv Paffende forsoþe Cirie Sobal, and al Appanyam, and al Mesopotanye, cam to Idumes in þe lond of Gabaa;

xv and he toc þe cites of hem, and sat þere bi þretti dæs, in whiche dæs he comaundede to be gedered togidre al þe oſt of his vertue.

Capitulum III.

i Thanne herende þe sonus of Israel þese þingus, þat dwelten in þe lond of Juda, dredden gretli fro þe face of hym.

ii Drede also and orrour affailede þe wittus of hem, left þat he shulde do to Jerufalem and to þe temple of þe Lord, þat he hadde do to opere cites and to þer templis.

iii And þei senten in to al Samarie, bi enuyroun vnto Jericho, and þei ocupieden beforne alle þe coppis of hillis;

iv and wiþ wallis þei enuyrouneden þer tounus, and gedereden whetis in to þe befor greipung of fiȝt.

v Þe prest also Eliachym wrot to alle, þat weren aboute Eſdrelon, þat is aȝen þe face of þe grete feld biside Dotaym, and to alle bi whom paffing myȝte be, vi þat þei welde þe ſteȝingus vp of hillis, bi whiche weie myȝte be to Jerufalem, and þere þei shulden kepe, where myȝte be ſtreit weie between hillis.

vii And þe sonus of Israel diden after þat Eleachym, þe prest of þe Lord, hadde ordeined to hem.

viii And al þe purple crieðe to þe Lord wiþ gret instance, and mekeden þer foulis in faſtingus, þei and þer wymmen.

ix And þe prestus cloþiden hemſelue wiþ heiris, and þe ȝunge childer þrewen hemſelf doun befor þe face of þe temple of þe Lord, and þe auter of þe Lord þei couereden wiþ an heire.

x And þei crieden to þe Lord God of Israel alle togidre, left weren ȝyuen þer childer in to prei, and þer wyues in to deuyfeoun, and þer cites in to deſtruċcioun, and þe holi þingus of hem in to pollucioun.

xi Panne Eleachym, þe grete prest of þe Lord, enuyrounede al Israel, and ſpac to hem, xii ſeide, Witeþ, for þe Lord haþ herd oure preȝeeris, if dwellende ȝee abijde ſtille in faſtingus and in preȝeeris in þe ſiȝte of þe Lord.

xiii Beþ myndeful of Moifes, þe seruaunt of þe Lord, þat caſt doun Amalech troſtende in his vertue, and in his myȝt, and in his oſt, and in his targetis, and in his charis, and in his horfmen, not wiþ iryn fiȝtende, but wiþ holi preȝeeris preȝende;

xiv fo þul ben born doun alle þe enimys of Israel, if ȝee ſtedefastli abijden in þis werk, þat ȝee han begunne.

xv Perfore at þis exhortacioun of hym þei, preȝende þe Lord, abiden ſtille in þe ſiȝte of þe Lord, xvi fo þat also þese, þat brent ſacrifises offriden to þe Lord, gird wiþ heiris offriden ſacrifice to þe Lord, and þer was aſkis vpon þe hed of hem.

xvii And of al þer herte alle prezeden God, þat he shulde visiten his puple Israel.

Capitulum V.

i And it is told to Olofernes, prince of þe chualrie of Assiries, þat þe sonus of Israel maden hem redi to wiþstonden, and þat þei hadden closid þe weies of hillis.

ii And wiþ ful myche wodness he brende out in to gret wræpe; and he clepide alle þe princis of Moab, and dukis of Amon, iii and feide to hem, Seiþ to me, who ben þise puple, þat þe hillis segen; and what maner, and hou fele ben þe cites of hem; what also be þe vertue of hem, or what be þe multitude of hem, or who be þe king of þe chualrie of hem;

iv whi beforne alle, þat dwellen in þe est, þese dispisiden me, and wenten not oute to meeten wiþ vs, þat þei shulden taken vs wiþ pes?

v Panne Achior, duke of alle þe sonus of Amon, answserende, seiþ, If þou vouche faaf to here, my lord, I shal sei þe treuþe in þi siȝt of þis puple þat in þe mountaynes dwelliþ, and þer shal not go out a fals woord of my mouþ.

vi Þis puple is of þe progenye of Caldeis;

vii þis first in Mesopotanye dwelte; for þei wolde not folewe þe godis of þer fadris, þat weren in þe lond of Caldeis.

viii And so forsakende þe cerimoynes of þer fadris, þat wiþ þe multitude of godis weren, o God of heuene þei herieden, ix þe whiche and comaundede to hem, þat þei shulden gon out þennus, and dwelle in Carram. And whan hungir hadde ouercouered al þe lond, þei wenten doun into Egipt, and þere bi foure hundrid ȝer so ben multiplied, þat þe oft of hem myȝte not ben noumbrid.

x And whan þe king of Egipt hadde greued hem, and in bieldingus of his cites in clei and tijl hadde vnderȝokid hem, þei crierden to þer God, and he smot al þe lond of Egipt wiþ diuerse veniauncis.

xi And whan Egipcyenus hadden cast hem out fro hem, and veniaunce hadde cesid fro hem, and eft þei wolden hem taken, and to þeir feruise aȝeen clepen, xii hem fleende, God of heuene openede þe se, so þat on eijer side þe watrias as wallis weren maad sad, and þei drie foot þe ground of þe se goende passeden ouer.

xiii In þe whiche place whil þe vnnoumbrable oft of Egipciens hem shulde purfuen, so wiþ watrias it is couered, þat þer lafte not ne oon, þat þe deede to after comeres shulde telle.

xiv Also, gon out þe Rede Se, þei wenten aȝen þe desertus of þe mountus of Sina, in þe whiche neuere man myȝte dwellen, or sone of man restide.

xv Pere bitter wellis ben maad swete to þem to drinke; and bi fourti ȝer ȝeris frute fro heuene þei geeten.

xvi Wher euere þei wenten in, wiþ oute bowe and arwe, and wiþ oute sheld and swerd þer God faȝt for hem, and ouercam.

xvii And þer was not þat shulde asailen to þat puple, but whan it wente awei fro þe heriying of þe Lord his God.

xviii As ofte siȝes forsoþe biside hym þer God an oþer þei herieden, þei ben ȝiuen in to prei, and in to swerd, and in to repref.

xix As ofte siȝes forsoþe þei oþoȝten þemself to han gon awey fro þe heriying of þer God, God of heuene ȝaf to hem vertue of wiþstonding.

xx Ferþermore king Cananee, and Jebusee, and Fereſee, and Ethee, and Euee, and Amorree, and alle þe myȝti men in Eſebon þei prewe doun, and þe londis of hem, and þe citees of hem þei weldeden;

xxi and vnto þe time þat þei hadden synned in þe siȝte of þer God, goodis weren wiþ hem, þe God forsoþe of hem hateþ wickenesse.

xxii For and befor þese ȝerys, whan þei hadden gon awei fro þe weie þat God hadde ȝiue to þem, þat þei shulden gon in it, þei ben destroȝid wiþ manye batalis of naciouns, and manye of hem ben lad caitif in to a lond not þeris.

xxiii Forsoþe not ȝore ago, turned aȝeen to þe Lord þer God, fro þe scatering þat þei weren scaterid, þei ben gedered in to oon; and þei stedeȝen vp alle þese mounteynes, and eft welden Jerufalem, wher ben þe holi þingus of halewis.

xxiv Now þanne, my lord, enserche, if þer is any wickednesse of hem in þe siȝte of þer God, and stedeȝee wee vp to hem; for takende he shal taken hem þer God to þee, and vnderȝokid shul ben vnder þe ȝoc of þi myȝt.

xxv If forsoþe þer is noon offendicion of þis puple befor þer God, wee shul not moun wiþstonde to þem; for þer God shal defende þem, and wee shul ben in to repref of al erþe.

xxvi And it is do, whan Achior hadde cesid to speken þese woordis, alle þe grete men of Olofernes ben wroþe, and þoȝten toflen hym, sciende, eijer to oþer, xxvii Who is he þis þat seiþ, þe sonus of Israel to moun wiþstonde to king Nabugodonosor and to his oſtuſ, men wiþ oute armys, and wiþ oute vertue, and wiþ oute wiðdam of þe craft of fiȝting?

xxviii þat þanne Achior knowe, for he bigileþ vs, stedeȝee wee vp in to þe mountaines; and whan þe myȝti men of hem weren taken, þanne wiþ þe same he shal ben smyte þurȝ wiþ swerd;

xxix þat alle folc knownen, for Nabugodonosor is god upon erþe, and bisides hym ys not an oþir.

Capitulum VI.

i It is do forsoþe, whan þei hadden cesid to speken, Olofernes, endeyned hugeli, feide to Achior, ii For þou hast profecied to vs, sciende, þat þe folc of Israel was defendid of þer God, þat I shewe to þee, þat þer is no god but Nabugodonosor;

 iii whan wee han smyte þem alle as o man, þanne and þiself wiþ hem wiþ þe fwerd of Assiries shalt dien, and al Israel wiþ þee shal dispershen in perdicoun;
 ivi and þou shalt preue, for Nabugodonosor be lord of al erþe; and þanne þe fwerd of my knyȝthod shal passē þurȝ þi fidis, and stikid þou shalt fallen among þe woundid men of Israel, and þou shalt no mor take brepþ, to be time þat þou be put out of þe lond wiþ hem.
 v But forsoþe if þi profecie soþ þou weene, falle not doun þi chere; and þe palenesse þat wiþholdeþ þi face, go awei fro þee, if þese my woordis þou weeneſt not to moun be fulſild.
 vi Forsoþe þat þou knowe, for togidere wiþ þem þat þou shalt knowe bi experienſe, lo! fro þis hour þou shalt be felashipid to þe puple of hem, and whan wrþi peynes of my fwerd þei han taken, þiself shalt vnderlin to lic veniaunce.
 vii Panne Oloernes comaundide to his seruauns, þat þei shulden taken Achior, and ledn hym in to Betulie, and taken hym in þe hond of þe sonus of Israel.
 viii And þe seruauns of Oloernes, takende hym, wenten bi þe wilde feldis, but whan þei hadden neȝhed to þe mounteynes, wenten out aȝen hem flingeres.
 ix þei forsoþe, turnende aside fro þe ſide of þe hil, bounden Achior to a tree hondus and feet, and so bounden of cordis þei laften hym, and ben turned aȝeen to þer lord.
 x But þe sonus of Israel, comende doun fro Betulie, camen to hym, whom loosende þei ladden to Betulie, and in to þe myddel of þe puple hym fettende askeden hym, what of þingus it were, þat hym bounde þe Assiries hadden laſt.
 xi In þoo daȝes weren þere princis, Ofias, þe sone of Myca, of þe linage of Symeon, and Carmy, þe whiche and Gothonyel.
 xii And so in þe myddel of þe elders, and in þe ſiȝte of alle men, Achior ſeide alle þingus, þat he askid of Oloernes hadde spoken, and what maner þe puple of Oloernes wolde for þis woordflen hym, xiii and what maner he Oloernes wroþ comaundede hym to be take to þe men of Israel for þis cauſe, þat whil he ſhulde ouercome þe sonus of Israel, þanne and þat Achior he comaunde wiþ dyuers tormentus to dien, for þat þat he hadde ſeid, God of heuene is þe defendere of hem.
 xivii And whan alle þingus Achior hadde expouned, al þe puple fel in to þe face, honourende þe Lord; and wiþ comun lamenting and weping alle of o wil þer prezeeris to þe Lord helden out, xv ſeide, Lord God of heuene and of erþe, ſee þe pride of hem, and beholde to oure mekneſſe, and to þe face of þi halewſ tac heede, and ſhewȝ for þou forsakist not þat befor alle þingus taken troft of þee, and principally takende troft of hemſelf, and of þer vertue gloriende þou meekift.

 xvi And so þe weping endid, and bi al þe dai þe orisoun of þe puple fulſild, þei coumforteden Achior, xvii ſciende, God of oure fadris, whos vertue þou haſt prechid, he ȝeldere to þee þis recompensioun shal ȝiue, þat þou raþere ſee þe deþ of hem.
 xviii Whan forſoþe þe Lord oure God shal ȝiue þis fredam to his feruauns, be and þe Lord wiþ þee in þe myddel of vs, þat as it shal pleſe to þee, ſo wiþ alle þine þou dwelle.
 xix Panne Ofias, þe counſeil endid, toc hym in to his hous, and made a gret ſoper.
 xx And, alle þe prestus clepid togidere, þe fasting fulſild, þei eeten.
